KLOBBER and KLONK TO THE RESCUE

For a long while, and for five obvious reasons, we have been interested in the varied views expressed on child-rearing. During more recent years the childless experts have been insisting on this modern business of giving the child a reason for everything you do, of having an eye out for traumas, of the dangers of warping the childish id, never a sharp word, and all that.

Then last week in the erudite Saturday Review we ran across a letter from Moss Hart to Bennett Cerf in which a method so old that it's new was highly recommended. This is what Hart terms the Klobber Method. It seems that the system was invented by Dr. Ernest J. Klobber, a Viennese physician who had worked himself into a state of nervous collapse while his youngsters ran riot, banging the plumbing, giving the hotfoot to Uncle Gustavus, yammering and hammering. This Dr. Klobber was all loaded onto stretchers, and hammering. This Dr. Klobber was all loaded onto stretchers, and hammering.

The good doctor at the moment was under the influence of a mild sedative, and so he reacted to this kick in unwonted manner. Instead of taking it lying down, as they say, he upped it first and whacked the kicker on the noggin a healthy wallop. Then he rose and proceeded to whack each of the other chillun likewise.

The results were astounding. The family quieted down. The doctor didn't have to go to the sun, after all, and he and the missus settled down to peaceful, happy living for the first time since the Children's Hour began to run into twenty-four at their house.

And so was born the Klobber Method.

It worked miracles with all who tried it, but by and by there were

PICK GRAUMAN FOR 4 CASES

Louisville Judge To Preside; Two Appeals Are Filed

Judge Lawrence Grauman, of Louisville, has been designated by the Court of Appeals to preside as special judge in the hearing of these cases:

Floyd county vs. Burnis Martin, Burnis Martin vs. the Floyd Fiscal Court, the appeal of Burnis Martin from action of the Floyd fiscal court and the appeal of Alex L. Davidson from the fiscal court's action.

Judge Grauman a few days ago dismissed three suits filed by the Floyd County Good Government Taxpayers League which had been filed here. This week he was presiding as special judge in the Hopkinsville vice hearings.

Two other appeals were filed Saturday from orders of the fiscal court. These were filed by County Attorney W. W. Burchett on behalf of Floyd county. One contests the fiscal court orders of April 3, 7 and 13, entered in settlement of the county's account with Former County Judge Alex L. Davidson; the other appeals from the court's settlement of April 15 with Former County Clerk Jarvis Allen.

FISCAL COURT SETS OFFICER PAY FOR 1954

Pays Louisville Firm $6,250 for Audit; Net Salaries Set at $7,200

The Floyd fiscal court last Thursday paid the William Cotton Company, Louisville accountants, $6,250 for the audit of county officials' records which was recently completed, and also set salary limitations for officials, effective Jan. 1, 1954.

The auditors' pay was voted after the budget commission designated a fund for that purpose.

Net salaries of all officials were set at the constitutional $7,200-a-year limit. The number of deputies or assistants each office may have and the pay of such help was set, as follows:

The Jailer to have not more than three deputies, one at a monthly salary of $200, one at $150 and the third at $100. The Jailer's janitor fee was set at $1,800 a year.

A maximum of eight regular deputies for the Sheriff; pay of the chief deputy not to exceed $350 a month, office deputy $300, the six others not to exceed $200. The court added that the Sheriff may have such additional deputies as he may deem necessary, these to be paid not more than $325 a month each from fees and commissions.

The County Court Clerk to have one deputy at $350 a month, one at $300, one at $200 and two at $175 each, also such part-time office help as may be required, the pay of each such employe not to exceed $200 a month. The Clerk also was authorized to employ additional help on contract work and to pay for this help a reasonable amount not to exceed the maximum fee of the Clerk for rendering the service. The official's right to name deputy clerks in various parts of the county was upheld, the court directing that these be paid only the statutory fees allowed for the services they perform.

Three deputies for the Circuit Court Clerk; $300 a month salary for the chief office deputy, $200 for each of the others. Such part-time help as the Clerk may deem necessary was authorized, the pay of each not to exceed $200 a month. Salary of County Judge, $5,400, with fees and commissions not to exceed constitutional $7,200 a year. Stenographer for County Judge at a salary of $250 a month.

County Attorney's salary, $3,000 a year, with fees and commissions to bring the total not to exceed $7,200 a year.

The court at the same meeting granted the Roberts-Olga Telephone Company a franchise to build and maintain lines along, under and across Floyd highways. The order noted that the company has been in operation since 1901.

GIRL SHOTS MAN AT DAVID

Says Wounded Man Attempted To Rape 11-Year-Old Sister

Brought here Wednesday afternoon by Sheriff A. B. Meade and Special Officer M. T. Stumbo after she had fired a bullet from a .45-caliber revolver into the face of Bob Slone at David, 17-year-old Ruth Shepherd told authorities she did so after Slone had attempted to rape her 11-year-old sister Bernice, and after she herself had been beaten by Slone.

The bullet entered Slone's face, below the ear, and emerged from his upper lip. His condition is not considered serious, it was said at the Prestonsburg General Hospital. The girl's bond was set at $2,000 for her appearance before County Judge Henry Stumbo for examining trial Saturday.

At the County Judge's office the girl exhibited bruises she said she received at the hands of Slone. She said the man came to her home while her father, Frank Shepherd, was working in the mines. Her mother is dead. An altercation followed what she described as Slone's attempt to rape her younger sister, and her eight-year-old brother's arm was twisted in the fight. She said her clothing was almost torn off and that she ran into the house and got a pistol. Slone followed her, this statement continued, and beat her on her head and arm with his revolver. The shooting followed.

Mobile X-Ray Unit Tests 3,707 Persons During County Stay

Final figures on the total number of chest pictures made by the mobile X-ray unit that visited this county recently were released Tuesday by Dr. Marvin Ransdel, county health officer. When the Harold figures were added after the visit of the mobile unit there May 1 the total was 3707 X-ray pictures taken for the detection of tuberculosis.

The number of persons X-rayed at Harold was 528. Wayland had 614 pictures. The figures for the other Floyd county towns visited by the unit stand as released last week. Persons having X-ray examinations were receiving reports on the results of the reading by health authorities this week. No report was available on whether any new cases of tuberculosis were found in the county.

GROUP PLEADS NEED OF ROAD

Carlin Says Project To Receive Attention 'As Soon As Possible'

Commissioner Carlin gave no assurance of immediate work on the road, promising only to let a contract "as soon as possible." Funds must be budgeted for additional work, and this was construed by members of the delegation to mean that construction cannot be expected before next year.

Those who spoke for the project included Ex-Congressman A. J. May, County Attorney W. W. Burchett, County Judge Henry Stumbo, State Senator Doug Hays and the Rev. Henry Mullins, of Garrett, who works at the Evanston mine. The speakers were introduced by Justice Bert T. Combs, of the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

A delegation of 43, including county officials and civic and business leaders of this section, left Wednesday morning to lay before State Highway Commissioner W. P. Carlin an urgent request for action on the Howard Branch road which would link Middle Creek and the lower section of this county with Magoffin county and the route to the coal mining operations at Evanston, Breathitt county.

The move on Frankfort was sponsored by the Kiwanis Club here. Deeds to rights-of-way on Howard Branch were procured more than a year ago, became missing but were later found. Some opposition to the road has risen in Salyersville among private interests, but the Kiwanis Club was told last Thursday that Magoffin county officials are not fighting the road.

277 To Be Graduated From Floyd Hi Schools, 83 from Prestonsburg

Two hundred seventy-seven seniors of the eight county high schools will be graduated in mass Commencement exercises at Wheelwright, the evening of May 15, but classwork at the ninth school in the county, Prestonsburg's, will not be ended by Commencement till 10 days later. Prestonsburg's senior class this year consists of 83 students.

Dr. Francis S. Hutchins, president of Berea College, will be the Commencement speaker for the county graduation exercises.

Prior to the mass gathering at Wheelwright, each of the eight schools of the county system will conduct individual Class Night, baccalaureate and other functions.

Dr. Adron Doran, director of the division of teacher education and certification, State Department of Education, will be the speaker at the Prestonsburg graduation exercises which will be held May 25. Pre-commencement functions of the school were announced this week by Chalmers H. Frazier, superintendent of city schools, as follows:

Senior play, 8 p.m., May 14, grade school auditorium; junior-senior banquet at 6:30 p.m., May 15, at grade school cafeteria, followed by the Big Sandy valley to see conditions and the terrain for themselves. Johnson, First County To Support Bookmobile

Johnson is the first county in the Commonwealth to pledge community support of a bookmobile. V. P. Horne, Johnson county school superintendent, assured Mrs. Mary Bingham, Louisville, state chairman of the Kentucky Bookmobile Project, that "actual fund guarantees of $2,700 per year" have been secured. This figure is close to the estimated $3,000 needed annually to operate the library on wheels.

The Kentucky Bookmobile Project hopes to secure 100 bookmobiles for the people of Kentucky in one year and raise the State from 47th to 1st place in the nation in the provision of library facilities.

J. B. Wells, Jr., Paintsville mayor, was instrumental in launching countywide interest in the project. He presided at a meeting of interested citizens March 4 in Paintsville, at which Mrs. Bingham and Harry W. Schacter, state finance chairman, outlined plans for securing the 100 mobile free public libraries. Schacter was formerly head of the Committee for Kentucky. He is a Louisville department store executive.

The estimated $300,000 needed to purchase 100 bookmobiles and equip them with one complement of 600 books, is to be raised by private citizens and corporations. The $290,000 needed for additional books and supervision of the project is to be requested from the General Assembly in January, 1954, at its next meeting.

Horne was joined in the Johnson county pledge of support of the bookmobile by C. R. Cooper, water and gas system superintendent, and Dr. Paul B. Hall, Paintsville physician and president of the Paintsville hospital.

Present also at the March 4 Paintsville meeting were representatives of Inez, county seat of neighboring Martin county. Original plans called for one bookmobile to serve both counties, but Martin counties indicated at the meeting they would acquire sufficient fund guarantees to operate a bookmobile of their own.

Mayor Wells, in addition to sparking community-wide interest in the project, is also a member of the project's statewide speakers' bureau. At present there are six bookmobiles serving the rural areas. These were financed by the Friends of Kentucky Libraries, co-sponsor of the Kentucky Library Association, of the Kentucky Bookmobile Project. Since the KBP was launched in January, an additional four bookmobiles have been purchased or pledged by interested citizens.

MUSIC, CLARK TELL KIWANIAN'S WHAT HAPPENED IN WASHINGTON

Both predict river will be canalized; point to teamwork. Canalization proponents, the full support of both Senators Earle C. Clements and John Sherman Cooper, Congressman Carl D. Perkins and other members of the Kentucky delegation, and the admission by the U. S. Corps of Engineers that the cost-income ratio arrived at in their unfavorable report could have been favorable, had they used the method of calculation employed and explained at the hearing by C. J. Neekamp, rate specialist for the Big Sandy Valley Association, Neekamp showed that wider barges could be used with the type locks proposed, thus increasing the trip load and cutting into transportation costs.

Mr. Music reviewed briefly the testimony given before the sub-committee by Senator Cooper, Senator Clements, Congressman Perkins, Dr. O. W. Thompson, Mr. Neekamp, Henry Spalding, the engineer employed by the Association, Harry LaViers, John Woods, Ashland banker, the Rev. Stump and Mayor J. B. Wells of Paintsville.

He added that more than 200 telegrams and 25 letters left Prestonsburg, the Friday night preceding the hearing, urging the Kentucky Senators and Congressman Perkins to lend every support to the canalization movement.

And this the legislators did, both speakers emphasized. Senator Cooper was effective in coaxing timid

NEGRO JAILED IN SEX CASE

Step-Daughter Says He Made Advances; 2 Held in Knifing

A 14-year-old Wheelwright negro girl Tuesday cleared her father, Tom Slaughter, 48, of being the father of the child she expects next month, but County Judge Henry Stumbo ordered that Slaughter be held under a new warrant charging him with the attempted rape of his 16-year-old step-daughter.

Slaughter was jailed here Saturday by Deputy Sheriff Willie Johnson after his neighbors had insisted Wheelwright police take action. The accused man denied guilt and, appearing in county court for examining trial without the services of an attorney, himself questioned witnesses.

Yvonne Grimes, his step-daughter, testified he made improper advances every time he got drunk, which was about every two weeks, and quoted her half-sister, Anna Marie, as saying he had made advances to her. Other witnesses told of neighborhood occurrences involving the family, but none could supply definite proof of the man's guilt.

"Some one here is tellin' a story," commented Slaughter when his turn to testify came. Asked if he ever heard his wife speak of his alleged relations with the girl, he replied, "When my wife drunk she say anything in the world."

Also jailed here Saturday were Lester Shepherd, 16, and his brother-in-law, Alex Stone, charged with cutting and wounding Donald Stone, 19, on Stephens Branch. Stone was reported recovering at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin, from two knife wounds in the back. Authorities were told Stone was the aggressor after becoming angered at the Shepherd boy over Shepherd's sister and had struck Shepherd twice before the cutting. Shepherd and

MINERS, FIRMS VOTED HONORS

For Unusual Records In Field of Safety; Certificates Given

Five Kentucky coal miners, two of whom are Floyd countians, and nine Kentucky mines—among them, three Floyd operations—have been cited for Certificates of Honor in recognition of their outstanding safety records.

The Honor Certificates were voted by the Holmes Safety Association at its recent annual meeting in Washington, D. C.

Individual Kentuckians so honored are:

William A. Pack, foreman, Inland Steel Co., Wheelwright, for supervising an underground crew of 17 men over a period of eight years (1944-1953), a total of 227,160 man-hours, without a lost-time accident.

Robert Finley, of the same Wheelwright operation, for working in and around coal mines in Alabama, West Virginia and Kentucky 45 years without a lost-time accident. The record of the hearing, he admitted, under questioning by Senator Clements, he had never favored any water program. When Clements asked him if he knew of any water program adversely affecting railroads, he became confused.

For all the expert testimony and adept interrogating of witnesses, the most effective talk made for canalization was that of the Rev. Stump, both Kiwanis speakers said. A man of little education, his hands cal-

MISS WEBB IS NAMED MUSIC FESTIVAL QUEEN

Miss Fatsy Webb, a member of the junior class of Auxier high school, was crowned queen of the Floyd County Music Festival held here Saturday. Members of her court were the seven other beauty queens named by as many Floyd schools to compete for the title of festival queen.

The festival was held in perfect weather and brought together all Floyd county high school bands in a full day's program which culminated in the all-festival band concert Saturday evening.

BOARD WORKS ON BOND SALE

Firms Show Interest In School Financing, Superintendent Says

Tuesday's meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education was devoted largely to work on the legal detail connected with the issuance and sale of the $445,000 bond issue necessary for the construction of the county high school building here which was let to contract last week.

Several bond firms had indicated an interest in the bond issue, which is being made by the Floyd fiscal court acting as financial agent for the board of education, Superintendent V. O. Turner said.

The board of education again voted its annual $2,400 appropriation to the Floyd County Health Department for the fiscal year beginning July 1, but it learned at the meeting Tuesday that the $900 it had previously voted to help finance the work of Mrs. Regina B. Mayo as county TB nurse will not be needed.

Mrs. Mayo is now on the staff of the health department as a public health nurse and will be paid out of the department's funds.

She advised Superintendent Turner and the board of education that she will continue her tuberculosis work under the new arrangement.

PARTY OF 62 TO TOUR LAKE ON MAY 15TH

Governor and Party To Be Picnic Guests Of Civic Clubs Here. Thirty-two businessmen and a like number of Western Kentucky newspaper and radio men are scheduled to inspect tourist facility development at Dewey Lake and the Breaks of the Sandy next week as members of the eleventh Governor's Tour.

Headed by Governor Lawrence Wetherby and Dewey Daniel, Hazard, president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, the four-day tour is sponsored by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

At Dewey Lake the Governor and his party will be guests of Prestonsburg Kiwanians and Kiwanianettes at a picnic lunch. The group will leave Lexington on the afternoon of Wednesday, May 13, for 16 scheduled stops in Eastern Kentucky, according to Robert W. Stokes, Louisville, chairman of the tourist development council of the Kentucky Chamber.

Labeling the tour as another in a series of programs designed for KCC to aid in economic development in Eastern Kentucky, Stokes said, most of the tour members will see this area for the first time. The trip will offer tour members an opportunity to observe at first-hand the tourist potential of this area and to see the great strides in self-development that communities in Eastern Kentucky are making, he said.

TOWN ADOPTS GARBAGE PLAN

Town Meeting Becomes A Permanent Program In Drift Community

The town of Drift has the Town Meeting as a permanent part of community life, and already, as a result of its early sessions, the town has a working garbage disposal system.

After Monday's Town Meeting, the second to be held, it was announced that Drift will have its first community-wide Clean-Up Day, May 9.

Effecting a permanent organization Monday, the group elected Bernard Hall chairman, Rex Ankrom vice-chairman and Mrs. J. C. Moore secretary-treasurer.

A fee of $1 a month, payable quarterly, is charged for garbage collection, which will be made three days a week. Arrangements have been made to dump garbage at an isolated spot and periodically to cover it with a bulldozer. Garbage pails are being sold to home-owners at cost by Wm. Arrowood, a merchant in the community.

Already a truck is ready to begin operation on the garbage-collection job, and if it is unsatisfactory there is a committee composed of Ollie Sammons, Frank Simpson, George Parsons and Alvin Reed to whom housewives may complain.

The Town Meeting, first held under sponsorship of the Drift Woman's Club, will meet the last Tuesday of each month.

BLADES OF BLUEGRASS

By ORINNE JOHNSON

Lexington, Ky.—Another week has been set aside for recognition. But unlike many others, its purpose is not for the collection of money, worthy as many such purposes are.

Instead, National Home Demonstration Week, May 2 to 9, will direct attention to the development and achievements of more than 3 1/2 million men and women in the United States and its possessions. In Kentucky, about 32,350 rural women in 1,621 homemakers clubs are a part of the home demonstration program. Of that number, 21,000 are volunteer local leaders, trained in the various phases of homemaking by University of Kentucky home economics specialists or home demonstration agents.

In each county, the program is planned by homemakers to meet their needs and interests. Through neighbor to neighbor influence and meetings, more than 92,000 changes in homemaking practices took place in the state last year.

"The development of leadership among rural women is one of the outstanding accomplishments of home demonstration work," said Miss Myrtle Weldon, state leader. "It carries over into all walks of life, making the rural homemaker a person with greater poise, self confidence, and ability to participate in all community affairs. At the same time, it gives her a feeling of the joy of service, and the satisfaction of taking part in a worthwhile program."

The first home demonstration in the United States was appointed in 1908 in Texas. By 1914, Kentucky had 12 HDA's, in Christian, Daviess, Harlan, Henderson, Laurel, Logan, Madison, Mercer, Muhlenberg, Rockcastle and Whitley counties. Five negro agents worked during the summer of 1914. Now there are 114 home agents and assistants in 98 counties of the state.

Last year, 1,672 homemakers club members served as leaders of 4-H clubs and otherwise helped rural young people in different phases of their program.

The home demonstration program is another service made available to the people of Kentucky through the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics, in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Former Floyd Republican Seeks Witnesses to Show He Was Never a Democrat

Gline Burchett, formerly of this county, but now in Pike, and who has engaged in an intra-party struggle with factions in the Republican party in that county, is the subject of controversy again among his fellow Republicans. Burchett is a candidate for magistrate from District Number 5, which covers upper Johns Creek. The district is heavily Republican. What more serious charge to launch against a man in such a district than that he is a Democrat? His opponents did just that.

Burchett, in order to defend himself came to Floyd county this week seeking character witnesses as to his party regularity. The statements of Floyd Republicans were gathered and printed as a handbill in an effort to disprove the charge.

Health Is Necessary to the Pursuit of Learning

FLOYD county should know and let sink deep into the public consciousness these facts which were published in a news-story in The Times last week:

Less than one-fourth of the schools in this county have a safe water supply.

Sewage and waste disposal systems in more than half the schools are unsafe.

Even toilet facilities are unsatisfactory in almost half the schools, and only 11% of them have adequate hand-washing facilities.

That is a part of the picture drawn from a study of all the consolidated schools and only 23 of the approximately 100 rural schools. What then must the overall picture be when it is this dark with the better schools included in the study and the more isolated schools yet to be inspected!

The Times hails the refreshing candor with which the Superintendent of Schools and the County Board of Education have met the situation, volunteering this information for the benefit of Floyd county parents and their children. They could have ignored the facts or played the cards close, concealing the facts from those most vitally affected, but they chose to let the truth be known.

And the truth, as is often the case, is unpleasant. Now we know that Floyd county children are forced by law to attend schools where drinking water is unsafe, where conditions are unsanitary, where even facilities for keeping the hands clean are lacking, where disease may breed, unsuspected, and spread unhindered.

It should be emphasized here that these conditions are not new and that they are no worse than they have been over many years. But the fact remains unchanged: such conditions should not be permitted to exist. But for the efficient work of the Floyd County Health Department in its immunization program, what epidemics of typhoid might not rise from these school sources of water supply.

"We drill wells," one school leader said, explaining the difficulties under which authorities work, "and, isolated and unwatched as they are, they're soon contaminated — sticks and refuse thrown into them."

What is the remedy? There is no pat answer, but consolidation of schools is one solution. Larger schools, more qualified teachers, trained caretakers of school properties, schools located where they can and will be protected, with the bigger school plant justifying modern facilities—these will help greatly.

This matter of consolidation, we realize, has its political implications, since each community is sensitive about its own school. There are those who will insist the small school should remain as a unit in the democratic scheme, but theory must be replaced by a look squarely into the face of the realities.

It must be remembered that 38 of the rural schools cannot be visited at all seasons. Only 42 of them are on all-weather roads. Then it is small wonder that a large percentage of these isolated schools do not attract qualified teachers. The more highly trained woman or man naturally seeks and finds work in larger or more favorably located schools.

This is not to say there are not good teachers in many rural schools. There are men and women who have enough of the missionary spirit left to send them to the isolated spots to bear the lamp of knowledge where it is most needed, but there are not enough of them.

Still, for all the need, consolidation, under existing conditions, cannot be effected soon. Before schools can be eliminated and their pupils transported to larger centers there must be roads. Thirty-eight of the rural schools of this county, a recent report says, cannot be visited in all weathers. About 60 rural schools are not located on all-weather roads.

So there is Project No. 1—the job of getting all-weather roads into all parts of the county. Good roads are necessary before consolidation can be undertaken, and after such roads open up all these communities the need for consolidation might decrease. So roads into such communities should have top priority.

Whatever the work to be done, whatever bold steps are necessary, nothing of great effect will be done until the people themselves get in the frame of mind that demands this: that every child have an opportunity to work and learn under the best possible conditions and to do so in surroundings which offer no threat to the health or the life of the child.

They Gain—We Lose

BETWEEN April, 1950 and September of last year, 54,000 new jobs were distributed in Kentucky.

Note that we say "in", not "over," Kentucky. For none of these new jobs went to any southeastern Kentucky county, and so the distribution was in the northern and western parts of the Commonwealth.

The cruel fact is, while more fortunate sections of Kentucky were adding heavily to their employment rolls, Floyd and the other counties of this part of the state were losing ground. Plenty of ground.

Paducah and Louisville, Elizabethtown, Glasgow, Hopkinsville and Owensboro were centers of big employment gains over this 18-month period. Meanwhile the Prestonsburg area composed of Floyd, Magoffin and Martin counties had an employment drop of 11.1 per cent, or 1,030 wage-earners. Pike county had a loss of 14.4 per cent.

And still the C. & O. railroad, pointing with pride to the millions it has spent in what it calls the development of this section, opposes the people in their efforts to revitalize the Big Sandy valley through canalization of its waterway, the Big Sandy river!

If the railroad is truly interested in development of the section, why does it fight development so bitterly?

'Bear' Facts—

By PAUL BRYANT UK Football Coach

Lexington, Ky.—Athletics, like so many phases of our everyday lives, has its slang and saying to convey meanings. One such saying, not necessarily exclusive to sports, came to mind as we opened spring football practice at the University of Kentucky.

Looking over the candidates and operations under the new limited substitution rule for the first time, I hesitatingly recalled a saying to the effect that "First impressions are lasting ones."

I got the impression that our players are going to have to improve tremendously to do an adequate job of winning football games this fall. Needless to say, we hope that the saying does not hold true. We hope that the impression was given only because of the boys' lack of familiarity of either the offensive or defensive phase of their position.

At any rate, our first impression was that Kentucky's success in 1953 depends to a large extent on a preferable solution to a number of big "It's" currently plaguing the club.

If senior linebacker Tommy Adkins, Corbin, can operate effectively at offensive center... If Bill Simpkins, our regular offensive center last year, will be able to go on defense... If Ray Correll, a real standout guard from Somerset, will be equally efficient when playing offensive guard... If sophomore Jerry Mingis will succeed as an offensive tackle.

If any one of these prospects—Dick Shatto, Paducah's Big Hardy, or Dick Rushing—will come through to give us adequate quarterbacking... If Tom Fillion, Owensboro senior halfback, can play up to his full capabilities... If soph halfback Max Mason proves himself... If Don Bowman, sophomore fullback from Louisville, can play defensive any place.

Finally, the big "It" concerning whether the team will get some help from the freshman squad as it did last year.

Brief stops are set for each town along the route to afford tour members and local citizens an opportunity to get acquainted. KCC President Daniel, Governor Wetherby, and other tour members will acknowledge welcoming talks in each community.

First stop on the tour, which will travel in two chartered air-conditioned buses, will be Winchester. From there the buses will go to Natural Bridge state park for a tour of park facilities, dinner, and an over-night stay.

On the morning of May 14, the tour makes its first stop at West Liberty, then on to Salyersville and Elkhorn City. The group will continue to the Breaks of the Sandy where, according to Stokes, 500 Virginians and Pike countians are expected to greet the tour. A two-hour inspection of scenic overlooks at "Grand Canyon of the South" will be conducted by officers and directors of the Breaks Association. Governor John S. Battle, of Virginia, has been invited to join the tour at the Kentucky-Virginia state line and to participate in a short speaking program with Kentucky and KCC officials. Schools in nearby Elkhorn City will be dismissed during the event. The Breaks Association is promoting this rugged mountain attraction for a prospective state park to be jointly built and operated by the two states in which the proposed site is situated. A banquet at Pikeville will close the day's activities.

On the morning of Friday, May 15, the tour will leave Pikeville for Brandy Keg Dock on Dewey Lake, near here. The newly-organized Dewey Lake Park Association, headed by John Gaaney Newman, Paintsville, will take tour members on a boat cruise of the lake. A site at the lake is being considered for development as a Kentucky State Park. After a picnic luncheon at lakeside, the tour will proceed to Prestonsburg, Paintsville, Louisa, and Ashland. A banquet is scheduled for tour members and local citizens in Ashland.

After the banquet the tour will divide—newspaper and radio men going to nearby Carter Caves State Park for lodging, and businessmen remaining in Ashland for the night. The Ashland unit will rejoin the other tour members Saturday morning, May 16, for an inspection of Carter Caves and park facilities. Citizens of Carter county will meet the tour group at the park.

Stops at Morehead, Owingsville, and Mount Sterling will end the tour, which will disband at Lexington that afternoon.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING

For those of you planning summer camping trips, here are a few suggestions on food by Colonel Townsend Whelen, noted camping authority.

Meats—Fresh meats will keep several days without refrigeration if hung out at night where the cool air will chill it. Bacon, ham, dried beef will keep indefinitely without ice if you keep them wrapped in wax paper away from flies and bugs. There are several selections of canned meat and fish on all grocery shelves nowadays. Fresh eggs will keep for weeks if each egg is dipped quickly in melted paraffin, or even wiped with a little lard and then wrapped in newspaper to keep them from breaking. Egg powder used alone is no substitute for the fresh article, but is fine when used in breads, puddings, or scrambled with creamed dried beef.

Vegetables—By all means take all the fresh potatoes and onions you wish in an old gunny sack. Lettuce, cabbage, celery, radishes, etc., will keep fresh for weeks wrapped in wax paper or aluminum foil and then in brown paper. Canned corn and tomatoes go fine in camp. A can of cold tomatoes make a fine drink in hot weather. Personally, I draw the line at dehydrated vegetables, which cannot compare with the fresh article it is so easy to take.

Fruits—Fresh oranges, bananas, lemons and apples are always desirable. The first two will keep well without ice for a couple of weeks and the last two almost indefinitely. Then there are all the dried fruits—apples, prunes, apricots and berries which need only to be stewed and sweetened with sugar.

Breads and Cereals—With a bag of flour and a can of baking powder you can always have fresh bread and biscuits. Self-rising pancake flours are convenient. Many bread and biscuit mixes will be improved with the addition of powdered milk, lard or butter for shortening, and corn meal. Don't hesitate to take along baker's bread which will keep perfectly the first week. Cereals are quicker and easier to prepare than bread and very nutritious substitutes for it—rolled oats, corn meal, hominy grits, etc.

Condiments and Seasonings—Butter keeps all right for weeks if kept reasonably cool, or canned butter is just as good and keeps indefinitely. Salt and pepper, of course, and an extra amount if you are going to use salt to preserve skins or the pepper to keep flies from meats. Most campers use the frypan so much that a large can of lard or vegetable shortening is needed. Curry powder is fine for seasoning meat and rice, if used sparingly. Add a jar of mayonnaise dressing so you can have salads. Sweet chocolate comes in fine for lunches.

HEALTH NOTES

by DR. MARVIN RANDELL

SCHOOL IS OUT

Children all over the country have put away their school books, or are preparing to do so, to enjoy the summer vacation.

We adults see school days as necessary to the mental and educational growth of the child. Similarly, we can look on his vacation days as essential to his healthy physical growth. Immediate benefits can be seen the first few days a child is home from school. In some cases, lagging appetites perk up and some children begin to sleep better because increased fresh air and exercise bring on a healthy fatigue at the end of the day.

Although school days mean a certain amount of confinement and deprivation of outdoor exercise, they do tend to foster regular habits of eating, sleeping, and cleanliness among children. For example, most parents get their children to bed on time because they have to get up early or school. Children generally eat a better breakfast during the school year and many schools provide pupils with a nourishing, well-balanced lunch. There is less opportunity, too, during school days or children to nibble at snacks and spoil their appetites for good food at the main meals.

Just enough of the attention given to the child's health during school weeks should carry over into the summer vacation to assure that he returns to school happy and healthy in August or September. This certainly does not mean that a child should be nagged about health rules after an "earned" vacation following nine months of study and school routine. Nor does it mean that a few "late nights" or extra snacks during the day will do harm.

But it does mean that parents should realize the understandable tendency to allow things to "slide" during the summer months and help make the child's summer vacation the relaxing, refreshing and healthful experience it is meant to be.

EDISON FORESAW ATOM POWER

In 1925, according to Henry J. Taylor in the May Reader's Digest, Thomas A. Edison wrote in his notebook:

"I am much interested in atomic energy. The force residing in such power is gigantic and limitless. It may come some day. As a matter of fact I am already experimenting along the lines of gathering atomic information in my laboratory here. "The energy could be turned into electricity," continued Edison, "and projected not only across the Atlantic, but flung from any part of the world to any other part. Neither the Atlantic nor anything could interpose an obstacle."

LEGION PLANS 1953 BOYS STATE SESSION

By W. O. CARVER, JR. (Editor, Kentucky Legionnaire)

Millersburg, Ky., May 4 — The 1953 session of Bluegrass Boys State, sponsored by the Kentucky Department of The American Legion, will be conducted here at the Millersburg Military Institute, June 18 through 24.

An Americanism project of the Legion, the program will bring together high school boys from throughout Kentucky to study the "duties, privileges, rights and responsibilities of American citizenship." An enrollment of more than 250 is expected.

President Paul L. Garrett, of Western State College, Bowling Green, again will direct the program. It is a position he has held continuously since the first Kentucky session of the youth assembly was held on Western College campus in 1940.

Other officers of the corporation include Harry H. Hansbrough, Jr., of Louisville, Kentucky, Commander of the Legion, president; Thomas H. Hayden, department adjutant of the Legion, secretary-treasurer; superintendent O. A. Adams, of Leitchfield, city schools, dean of counselors, and James H. Warren, Fulton; Homer Wright, Jr., Prestonsburg and Louisa; Jacob H. Swope, Newport; William M. Duffy, Louisville, and Thomas K. Shuff, Georgetown, directors.

At the state level, qualified junior high school pupils learn the responsibilities and duties of local, county and state officials. They are organized into two "political" parties. They nominate, elect officers, organize their government and perform its functions. Thus the Legion seeks to develop more intelligent, more responsible and more capable leaders to assure the future of the American government way of life.

The individual boys are sponsored by Legion posts and other local groups and organizations, among them churches. The cost to the sponsor is $25 plus traveling expenses to and from the assembly place. Detailed information can be obtained from any Legion post officer or by writing Forrest T. Newcomb, executive officer of Bluegrass Boys State War Memorial Auditorium, Louisville.

To be eligible for enrollment a boy must have completed the ninth grade but must have at least one more semester of high school study. The latter requirement safeguards benefits of the program since the boy will return to his school to pass on to others the instruction he receives. However boys not in school but who meet other requirements for enrollment will be accepted.

GARDEN NOTES
By O. E. BOGGS,
County Agent

TOMATOES

There are two main reasons why Floyd county gardeners do not produce a bumper crop of tomatoes if the growing season is favorable. The first one is a disease known as wilt. This disease is a soil borne disease and the only way to control it is by using a wilt resistant variety such as: Break O' Day, Prichard, Rutgers or Marglobes.

The second is that very destructive disease known as blight. This disease is caused by five different kinds of fungi and all tomato plants are susceptible to blight. It can be controlled only by following a strict spray schedule beginning when the plants are first set in the garden.

The materials to use are: Manzate. This material gives best control for both early and late blight. Other materials are: Copper A, C, O-C-S, Basic Copper Sulfate, and Z-78. If basic Copper Sulfate is used be sure and include a sticker material as recommended on the package.

To obtain good results ten or more applications should be applied. The first when tomatoes are set out and then one ever 7-10 days.

Wet sprays are especially recommended because by using a wet spray it is easier to cover the entire plant thus leaving no part of the plant untreated where spores might become attached. By using a wet spray less material is needed.

FORM DEWEY PARK GROUP

Newman Named Head Of Ass'n; Meeting Held Here, Apr. 30

Citizens representing Floyd Johnson, Pike and Martin counties organized the Dewey Lake Park Association at a meeting held last Thursday at the Center Grill here.

J. Galney Newman, of Paintsville, was elected president of the Association, and County Attorney W. W. Burchett, Prestonsburg, was named secretary-treasurer. Directors elected are Newman, representing Johnson county; Burchett, this county; B. P. Bogardus, Pike county; Frank Crum, Martin county; R. V. May, Prestonsburg, and Bill Johnson, Paintsville, directors-at-large.

The organization was suggested at a conference here in March between Conservation Commissioner Henry Ward, representatives of the U. S. Corps of Engineers and civic leaders. Mr. Ward suggested such a group as a step toward acquiring a state park at the lake.

A. Joe Asher, Jenkins, executive director of the Eastern Kentucky Industrial Foundation, acted as temporary chairman at last Thursday's meeting here. The organization meeting was called by the Foundation.

An unexpected visitor at the meeting was Hugh Collett, Louisville, representing the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce. He discussed with the group the coming Governor's Tour which will include a visit to Dewey Lake.

Mr. Newman was chosen president of the Association. County Attorney Burchett told the Kiwanis Club here Thursday evening, because he initiated the Dewey Lake park movement, is liked in Frankfort and because his leadership gives the organization an area rather than a one-county complexion.

Thousands of troops from all parts of the U. S. are gathered at Camp Desert Rock to receive thorough instruction in atomic warfare, its potential damage, and defenses against it.

Private First Class Ousley, a tank driver with the 131st Tank Battalion, Fort Knox, Ky., is a Korean veteran and wears the un and Korean Service Ribbons.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

"Flour by the Barrel"

In all the years that I have written this column I have often mentioned things that added distinction to the people of Fidelity, that made them appear as Somebody, spelled with a capital S. For some strange reason, however, I have failed to mention one of the best signs of being up in the world, that is, buying flour by the barrel. Maybe my saying "up in the world" is a bit too strong, for after all, buying flour by the barrel was a mark of plain decency, not necessarily of having more than the average amount of money or of being especially socially inclined. People who bought flour in smaller amounts just did not rate, except among the very poor and insignificant. One of my best friends, one that he and his family, after his father died, strained every nerve to buy a barrel of flour, to keep the neighbors from thinking that there was no money to support the family.

And, he added, there was never a time when there was not a barrel of flour in his house, hard times or not. An elderly gentleman in another state once told me that two eminent manufacturers of his home town were once so poor that they had to buy a 24-pound sack of flour between them. When I knew the men in question they practically owned the town, their sons and daughters were my college mates, and wherever people used certain kinds of manufactured goods, the name of the two brothers was known. Neither one had ever entered politics, but wouldn't have made a great appeal to the sovereign voters: "Vote for Mr. Blank, the man who sprang from the soil, the man who could not buy a barrel of flour until he was in the forties?"

Probably nothing amuses the average one of us so much as a faded laurel, a thing once expensive that now seems unnecessary. How many strange smiles I could provoke on the faces of my students if I could tell how very important a rubber-tired buggy used to be. And a matched pair of horses to pull the surrey—is there any word that could give the honor attached to these belongings? "Vanitas vanitatum," says the Preacher, "all is vanity."

A few days ago I sat down to a meal that reminded me of flour-by-the-barrel days. The number of things to eat, the insistence on eating all you could hold, the constant memories of Fidelity days almost overwhelmed me. Was I actually in 1952 or away back in 1902, when flour was plentiful and other things to match? All I lacked was for someone to say, "Just take 'out and help yourself." That would have done the trick, all the intervening years would have vanished even more rapidly than they already have. That meal reminded me of the days when calories were unknown, when vitamins were still undiscovered, when disease (especially disease caused by overeating) was a mysterious thing, not connected with stuffing and lack of exercise.

In the old days there were two barrels in just about every kitchen; one for the flour, the sign of decency; one for meal, the sign of plain necessity to relieve hunger. For dinner and supper cornbread was a standard ration, but all self-respecting people had hot biscuits for breakfast. One of my best friends says that she believes that hot biscuits for breakfast were fore-ordained and predestined, that the ancient prophets and saints ate them. Anyway, the hot biscuit became a sign of being Somebody; and biscuits require flour and lots of it, as biscuits have a way of satisfying appetites and arousing more at the same time. A few sordid souls in Fidelity would count the biscuits on you and sometimes refer to your gastronomic feats days or years later; all the best people regarded this act as downright treacherous as well as being bad-mannered. As if a fellow would count the breaths of spring air that he would breathe or the approving nods that he would give to an apt story-teller or a parson who needed approval! And now a student wants to know what a flour barrel is and has never heard of one. Before long someone may ask what flour is, for it is barely possible that only a baker would know that.

Hazard, Ky., was named by Kentuckians who had served under Oliver Hazard Perry in the Battle of Lake Erie, during the War of 1812.

housed and bearded by years of work in the mines, the minister introduced what Mayor Clark termed the human element into the hearing. His talk drew the praise of Senators, and Mr. Music said one Senator volunteered to stamp a pledge that he would do all he could for Big Sandy.

Harry LaViers, the Paintsville coal operator, had preceded Stump, and in an effective talk had admitted he formerly had opposed canalization but was now a convert to the cause. He followed up with cogent reasons for making the change.

"I thank God," said the Rev. Stump, "that Harry LaViers has been converted."

The statement made by an attorney representing rail interests claiming that water would have to be pumped from the Ohio river to Elkhorn City in the Big Sandy headwaters to maintain a proper pool stage if the river were canalized for barge traffic drew strong questioning under which the witness did not fare well, according to Mayor Clark.

The Big Sandy delegation was further heartened by the reception given them and their project at the meeting of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce which was in Washington for the U. S. Chamber convention. Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson and Senator Clements were among the speakers, and Big Sandy was the name heard most frequently during the dinner, Music and Clark said.

DON'T BE DISCOURAGED

Albert Einstein was so slow to learn to talk that his parents thought him abnormal, writes Joseph Phillips in the May Reader's Digest. He was an indifferent pupil in school and his teachers considered him a misfit. He failed the entrance examination at the polytechnic college in Zurich. At the age of 26 he evolved his "Theory of Relativity" which revolutionized man's conception of the universe and was the theoretical basis for the atomic bomb.

EX-POW SAYS HARPER HELD

Mrs. Goldie Kendrick, Glo Woman, Is Aunt Of Reds' Prisoner

News brought out of North Korea by a Virginia soldier, repatriated in the recent exchange of prisoners, last week gave Mrs. Goldie Kendrick, of Glo, this county, the first word she had had from her nephew, Fred Harper, since last July.

Harper is a prisoner and his was one of 81 names of Americans reported by the Virginian as being held by the Reds.

One report given by a repatriated prisoner was that some American soldiers believed dead are prisoners, held by the Reds and their names unreported.

"I sure am glad to hear about him," said Mrs. Kendrick.

Harper, a 27-year-old private was left an orphan at 10 and was reared by his grandmother, Mrs. Omie Harper of Henry Clay, Pike county, now dead.

He has an older brother, James Harper, said Mrs. Kendrick, "somewhere in Maryland."

Before enlisting in the army in April, 1949, Harper worked on a bakery truck route, but he was unemployed at the time he entered service.

Denver Caudill, a bakery official, described Harper as "a very likeable boy." He said: "Fred called me from Texas about three years ago to tell me he was shipping out for Korea and wouldn't be back. I told him not to talk that way."

Harper, Caudill said, was turned down for military service during World War II when he failed a physical examination.

The young soldier was captured by the Chinese Communists December 1, 1950.

HEALTH NOTES

By DR. MARVIN RANSDALL

Tetanus often crops up with spring and particularly in rural areas. It's something to think about, since the preliminary vital statistics report of the Kentucky State Department of Health for 1952 shows seven deaths from tetanus.

There is a direct relationship between tetanus and manure-infested soil. The tetanus bacilli are widely distributed in the soil and are highly resistant. They cannot, however, grow in sunlight or with oxygen. Any wound is particularly dangerous for it is an ideal spot for the bacilli to produce powerful toxin (poison). Tetanus germs are active and lively—and can be deadly to the individual. The toxin reaches the nerve cells, causing spasms and "lock-jaw."

There are three main precautions:

1. Practice safety. Watch for broken glass, beware of knives or sharp files that carelessly cause stab wounds. Take care around barns or blowed fields, and if your youngsters must go barefoot come spring, pick up those stray nails.

2. Parents should take their children for triple antigen "shots"—that is, immunization for whooping cough, diphtheria and tetanus—at three months with booster shots at one year, three years and school age. Maternal and Child Health, Kentucky State Department of Health. Adults should see their private physicians for regular tetanus toxoid and a booster shot immediately after tetanus has had a chance to strike.

3. Tetanus anti-toxin provides defenses to fight the poisons and should be given immediately after a wound. Tetanus that develops shortly after infection is more severe and the anti-toxin lengthens the time between infection and illness.

Paris, Ky., was called Hopewell when it was established in 1789. Later, in appreciation for French aid during the Revolutionary War, it was named Paris.

Eighth Grade Tests Being Held with New Exam Method Employed

Eighth grade tests in the county consolidated schools will be given under a new set-up this year, according to Clem Martin and Otis D. Spurlock, of the county superintendent's office, who are in charge of the tests. The new arrangements are designed to administer more efficiently the test work and to insure a proper evaluation of the applicant's work in the eighth grade, it was said.

Six-hundred-fifty pupils will take the tests. Each consolidated school will hold its own examination, Friday, beginning at the usual hour for opening school. Four hours' gross time will be required for the standardized test. In addition to the regular tests, additional questions on study skills will be asked. These will be on ability to use the dictionary and encyclopedia, knowledge of discritical marks and ability to read maps and charts.

The determining factors in passing the tests will be age, physical maturity, attendance and progress made in the eighth grade. The actual score made will not be the chief determining factor, it was emphasized by Spurlock.

No pupil will be allowed to take the test who has not had a full year's work in the seventh grade. Promotion will be unqualified, or conditional with a letter signed by the principal, teacher and the county superintendent. Pupils retained during the three terms I have served this county in the State Legislature, they would find that my voting record is as independent as I could possibly make it. My voting record has been established by looking directly at each Bill and determining whether or not it would serve the best interests of the people of Floyd county.

Spurlock and Martin advise that the standardized test will have only a number to identify it. The eighth grade applicant will sign another blank, giving his name and the number on his test forms. Persons doing the grade work will not have knowledge of the pupil's name.

Martin and Spurlock will visit from school to school during the test work to see that the work is uniform and to offer any assistance that may be needed, it was said.

All Rexall products are guaranteed to give satisfaction or your money will be cheerfully refunded—Rose Drug Store, Phone 6141.

To THE VOTERS OF FLOYD COUNTY

Since announcing for the office of County Court Clerk on the Democratic ticket some few weeks ago, my wife and I have visited practically every precinct in the county. From what the voters have told me, I feel more and more confident that I can win this race.

Already my opposition has, for lack of better campaign material, attempted to smear and undermine the favor I have with the voters by telling people that I am not an independent candidate but am being run in this race by special interest groups.

At the very outset, I want to assure each and everyone of you that my candidacy is an independent one. I am thirty-three years of age, married and have two children. I believe that you can easily believe that I am capable of making up my own mind and of running my own campaign.

If any of my opponents who are circulating this rumor would take the trouble to check my record during the three terms I have served this county in the State Legislature, they would find that my voting record is as independent as I could possibly make it. My voting record has been established by looking directly at each Bill and determining whether or not it would serve the best interests of the people of Floyd county.

I have not previously indicated in print the large number of people to whom I am related in this county, and for the information of the voters I should like to state that my father was James Hale, late of this county, the son of George Hale, of Middle Creek. The Hales are closely related to the Shepherds, Howards, Wiremans, Stones, Salyers, Baileys, Pattons, Messers, Barnetts, Pattons and Allens of Floyd county. I married Winifred Osborne Hale, of Martin, Kentucky, and her father and mother were Maryland Osborne and Alla Taylor. My wife's grandparents are Julia D. Martin, Buck Osborne, Ambrose Taylor and Celia Boggs. Her great-grandparents include Add and Emeline Martin, Bill Osborne and Polly Barnett. My wife's family is closely related to the Allens, Gearhearts, Combs, Greens, Spurlocks, Bakers, Webbs, Weddings, Mays, Fairchilds, Porters, Clarks, Adams, Clays, Pratts, and Fallbergs.

However, I do not expect my relatives to vote for me for any reason other than the fact that I am capable of running the office of County Court Clerk, and will do so with efficiency.

Sincerely,
HENRY C. HALE

JURY INDICTS 36 UNION MEN

Federal Jury Names Raney in Conspiracy; $1,000 Bonds Fixed

A special federal grand jury in Lexington, last Friday indicted 35 United Mine Workers representatives—among them, Tom Raney, Pikeville, UMW international board member—for conspiracy, charging they attempted to force Clay and Leslie county miners to join the union. The indictment cited the point that the miners had a right under the Constitution to decline union membership. Raney testified before the 13-man panel for a total of 2 hours and 6 minutes on March 16—the day the special jury went into session.

District Judge H. Church Ford set bond at $1,000 each for those indicted. Besides Raney, they included C. C. Conley, Letcher county; T. N. Fleming, Letcher county; Farmer Napier, Leslie county; Edgar Reynolds, Perry county; Charles Vermillion, and Charlie Baker, each identified as special organizers in the union's District 30; Farmer Allen, Lawrence Asher, Sherman Bray, G. B. Bosler, Frank Collet, Ted Clark, Marcus Clouse, Matt Combs, Henry Couch, Merida Couch, George Dekey Davidson, Johnny Fields, Kelly Hensley, Sam Hoskins, R. L. Little, Johnnie Mitchell, Robert Newsome, William S. Perkins, Charles Rice, Tommy Sizemore, Ed Sizemore, Lonzo Smallwood, Lord Sizemore, Pearl Smallwood, Walter Smallwood, Chanley Stewart, Millard L. Wagers, and Solmie Smallwood.

The jury, which heard 157 witnesses in its four-week inquiry directed by the Department of Justice, was dismissed.

Clay and Leslie counties form the last holdout against unionization in the vast Eastern Kentucky coal field. Violence frequently has marked the two-year struggle by the U.M.W. to organize the two counties. There have been reports of shootings, dynamitings, beatings and arrests.

Several union organizers and members have been wounded in ambush shootings.

All of the persons indicted represented the union in one capacity or another. No indictments were returned against coal-mine operators or anyone connected with a mine "simply because there was not one whit of evidence to support an indictment of anyone on that side of the fence in this case." That was the statement of a person qualified to speak with authority, but who asked that his name not be used. Specifically, the jury charged those indicted with responsibility for interfering with the civil rights of seven miners in an incident that occurred February 21, 1952, on Ky. 80 near the New Hyden mine in Leslie county.

The single indictment naming the 36 defendants stated that they "assembled" on the highway on that date and attempted to force the seven miners to join the union, "all for the purpose of interfering with these citizens in the free exercise of their rights and privileges" under the Constitution.

The miners were identified as Mason Beley and Elihu Smith, employees of the New Hyden Coal Company; Ralph Lee Gregory, Eli Hicks, and Lester Gibson, employees of the Citation Coal Company; Ray Gregory and Clifford Jones, of the Thomas Coal Company, and others "unknown to the jury."

In a prepared report accompanying the indictments, the jury recommended that:

1. The General Assembly, at its next session, make available additional funds to the Kentucky State Police on a permanent annual basis to be used to increase appreciably the number of troopers that can be used to help keep the peace within the Commonwealth.

WOMAN'S CLUB IN MEETING

The Lackey-Garrett Woman's Club met in the home of Mrs. Edgar Dale, Thursday, April 23, for the program meeting. Mrs. N. D. Howard, vice-president, was in charge.

Mrs. L. B. Price, of the Youth Conservation committee, reported that the club-sponsored "Career Night" was a tremendous success. It was suggested this be made an annual affair to be held in the fall, to which all high school students of Garrett and Wayland would be invited.

Mrs. P. E. Harman will serve as a delegate to the state convention of the K.F.W.C. in Louisville, May 12-15.

Mrs. Howard announced that Dr. Gladden of the University of Kentucky, will be here May 22 to address an open meeting on the results of his recent survey of Wayland. All organizations will be invited to attend.

The Wayland Junior Woman's Club extended to the senior club an invitation to attend a lecture and film on cancer, May 4, at the Wayland Methodist Church.

Mrs. J. C. Wells reported that Miss Clara Shaw will install officers for the new club year at her home on Estill Hill, May 16, at 10:00 a.m.

It was unanimously decided to write Mrs. Jack Williams, governor of the 7th District, urging that all clubs of her district give Pikeville college their moral support in the attempt under way to establish a four-year college at Pikeville. The Lackey-Garrett Woman's Club seeks to assume the initiative in getting this movement under way.

"What we should know about cancer" was discussed at some length by Mrs. Thomas Hatcher, program leader. Numerous articles on cancer in various current magazines were cited as important reading matter for all. "Cancer Facts," contributed by Jan Fraley, an eighth grade pupil at Wayland, were read and commented upon.

"Cancer and the Sexes," an article prepared by the American Cancer Society, states that more men than women are dying of cancer. In conclusion, Mrs. Hatcher listed the "three precision weapons, potential for preventing cancer deaths, as Breast Self-Examination, Vaginal Smear Technique, and X-ray screenings for lung cancer.

A dessert course was served to twelve members, two guests, Mesdames Maynard Polly and Carlos Kincer, by Mrs. Dale and her co-hostess, Mrs. John Field.

BIBLE QUIZ

By A. F. BARKER
508 Euclid Ave.,
Bristol, Va.-Tenn.

When the early settlers of our country established schools they laid the foundations with the open Bible as the chief text book. The reason why the Bible is true is that it is a book of human experiences. The good and the bad have been recorded just like it happened. Therefore not one word can be disproved.

Unfortunate was the day and unfortunate was this generation of young people when the Bible, the greatest textbook on earth, was taken out of the public schools and relegated with the books of antiquity. It should not have been done. When Sir Walter Scott, the great poet and writer, was on his death bed, he said "Bring me the book." They said "What book?" He said "There is only one book, and that is the Bible."

Now it is greatly feared that this generation is not getting a knowledge of the Bible, as evidenced by a great many educators in our country. Therefore, to test the knowledge of students in many of the schools, especially in our Southland, many carefully selected lists of Bible questions have been placed in the hands of students. The tabulation of results points to a very great deficiency in Bible knowledge.

Therefore, some very simple questions are here given, hoping such will inspire interest. If such will be of service to our readers, I am sure many other such questions may be brought to the readers of this newspaper.

Test your knowledge of the Bible by answering without help the following questions:

1. How many books in the Bible?
2. Name the first book.
3. Name the last book.
4. Name a book of poetry.

John George Horne, Pike county 4-H club boy, sold two-pound frying chickens at the age of seven weeks. Use of the infra-red heat-bulb method of brooding helped him get rapid growth and feathering, he told UK County Agent Harold G. Dowdy. Two hundred birds brought more than $200 and returned a substantial profit, Dowdy said.

WHY I SEEK THE OFFICE OF COUNTY ATTORNEY

TO THE PEOPLE OF FLOYD COUNTY INTERESTED IN GOOD GOVERNMENT:

When I decided to run for County Attorney I did so with a determination to render all the assistance I could in bringing about clean elections and good government. I had two main reasons for making my decision, FIRST: To bring about good government by honestly and efficiently performing the duties of the County Attorney's office for the next four years, and SECONDLY: To be able to properly support my wife and two small boys, and I am frank to admit the County Attorney's salary was an inducement in making this decision, and when I refer to the salary I MEAN THE LEGITIMATE SALARY ONLY.

military service, I am not asking for your sympathy on this account since I merely did my duty along with thousands of other Floyd county boys, some of whom are in worse condition than I.

After my discharge I took advantage of the government's vocational training law for disabled veterans and finished my pre-law work at Pikeville College and then took my law training at Cumberland University Law School, Lebanon, Tennessee. Upon finishing law school I successfully passed the Kentucky State Bar examination and was sworn in before the Court of Appeals of Kentucky to practice law in March, 1950, since which time I have been actively engaged in practicing law in the office with my father, Joe P. Tackett, at Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

Since 1950 I have been a member of the Baptist Church in Prestonsburg and active in church work, civic and progressive movements for our community and county. I have also assisted our Floyd county veterans and their dependents since 1950, and my office has been, and will continue to be, at the disposal of Roy Cain, Disabled Ex-Servicemen's representative, one day out of each month, for use in working with our veterans.

While my military service does not qualify me for the office of County Attorney, yet my educational training together with my experience goes. These, things, coupled with my SINCERE CONSCIENTIOUS DETERMINATION to do the RIGHT thing at all times and in all matters, DOES qualify me to serve you the next four years. I hope this will be one time that EVERY candidate, and his or her friends, will join all the HONEST citizens in holding a CLEAN, FAIR and HONEST Primary election. LET THE WILL OF THE PEOPLE CONTROL and we will see that Scripture fulfilled wherein GOD'S Holy Word says, "WHEN THE RIGHTEOUS ARE IN AUTHORITY, THE PEOPLE REJOICE."

I do not intend to indulge in "MUD SLINGING" in my campaign but I do intend to present to the people for their consideration, the FACTS, as borne out by the records at the courthouse.

This opening statement is my UNTAINTED determination by which, by the guiding hand of ALMIGHTY GOD, I shall HUMBLY SERVE YOU the next four years as County Attorney. Then you will know that I was worthy of YOUR TRUST and I assure you that you will have no cause to regret your support of me in this campaign.

Yours for HONEST ELECTIONS and GOOD GOVERNMENT in Floyd county, regardless of the personal ambitions of anyone.

EDMOND HERSCHELL TACKETT

Don't forget her... next Sunday!

It's Mother's Day. And what a flood of memories that word brings. No shoulder was softer, no one more understanding than Mother. And throughout the years, her love and affection have been our guiding star. Next Sunday is a day we honor Mother. Let's not forget the best girl in the world.

THE BANK JOSEPHINE
Prestonsburg, Ky.

If You Remember . . .

They were the sons and daughters of a settler who came to an isolated hill section and established a large estate of land, mineral and timber. They lived cut off from railroads, towns or modern stores. Life was full of work.

Schools were almost non-existent. Churches were the timbered slopes of the hills where the dead were buried. The events of life were birth, marriage and death. They lived to adulthood, knowing only these things. Their mentors were the parents who read the one book in the house and taught a rigid code of morals and ethics.

The parents died and the sons lived on for years, tenants by agreement of the ancestral acres. The daughters married and went away. Decades passed, isolation remained and they grew old and gray. A daughter of the mountain land died, survived by children of her own. They were grown and married.

Sam rode out of the hills on a mule to the funeral of his sister. When the last rites were over he discussed the purchase of the dead sister's land from her sons and daughters. Sam wanted the land for his son Tom. He said he was authorized to offer a certain sum. The nephews and nieces demurred and to close the trade, for he would not see them again for months, perhaps years, Sam agreed to pay much more than Tom had stipulated to be a fair price. He shook hands and rode away.

SGT. TERRY IN PHILIPPINES
CLARK AFB, Philippines—April arrivals in the Philippines included Staff Sergeant Iretes C. Terry, Korean veteran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Canada Terry, Wayland, Ky.

Sergeant Terry is now assigned to the First Administrative Services Squadron, Thirteenth Air Force at Clark Air Force Base, located 80 miles north of Manila. He performs duties at the Registrar's Office, Clark AFB hospital.

A graduate from Wayland high school, Sergeant Terry enlisted in the military service for the first time in December 1945. He was stationed in Alaska from June 1949 to June 1950 and in Korea from September 1950 through July 1951. He joined the U. S. Air Force on his most recent tour in April, 1952 at Kelly Air Force Base, Texas.

TWO TAKE TESTS

Pikeville, Ky., April 28 (Spl.)—Two Floyd county men are among the five who took Selective Service college qualification tests at Pikeville Junior College last Thursday.

Designed to find the draft-eligible college men whose further schooling will mean most to the country, the test was administered at the same time at more than 1,000 testing centers over the United States, Dr. A. A. Page, college president, said today.

Floyd countians among the examinees were Douglas Jones, Drift, and Charles E. Phillips, Allen.

TIMES WANT ADS PAY— TRY THEM TODAY!

Now there are those who hold that unless a hard bargain is legally binding commonsense dictates its abrogation. Such a man was the husband of the dead woman's daughter. He said that Sam would not be back, that Tom would not pay the price. "But you do not know my people," his wife said. "They give their word and that is good, like a deed." The husband would smile. He had pride in being a sensible businessman.

Time in the hills is unhurried, marked only by the seasons, for years. Months went by with the husband cynical as ever when his wife would speak of Tom. "You'll see," she said. "Uncle Sam gave his word and they shook hands." It was autumn when Tom came. He had ridden horseback to the highway and hired a cab to complete the journey. He was apologetic about the delay and explained that his father had offered more money for the land than he had. It was necessary to work and trade to get the price. "I did not want to pay so much. It is a great price for so little land. But dad, he bound me with his word and here I am," he said.

When the formalities were over and Tom had gone the man who had scoffed stood looking through the door at the open road. Dust drifted and settled as the noise of the car died away. He was remembering what his wife had said many months ago: "They give their word and that is good, like a deed."

Reds Lauch 'Operation Mom'

Mothers of G.I.'s missing in action in the air war over Korea have become prize targets of the Red propaganda machine.

Pleasant letters, reassuring the safety of the missing man, are being delivered to next-of-kin in smaller towns around the United States, an article in May Reader's Digest reports. Though written in precise English, the letters are authored by the Chinese Reds.

These seditious letters offer to do anything possible for the captured G.I. They also refer to the war as "senseless aggression," and offer effusive hopes for "peace."

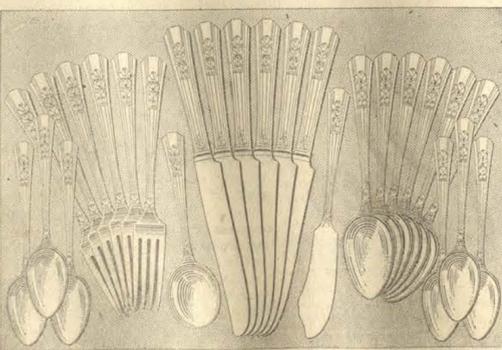

Since the Reds do not allow the Red Cross or other legitimate agencies to bear information that might exist about downed U.N. fliers, this first word is naturally received with overwhelming joy by the relative.

The parents show the letter to friends. It appears in the local paper (that's why smaller cities are selected). A letter-writing campaign may start, to induce the congressmen to "end this senseless war."

That, naturally, is exactly what the Reds want to happen. They know it is not hard to sell peace, but remember that peace on their terms is not peace at all.

If you should receive such a letter, don't let it be turned into a propaganda weapon which can undo the value of the sacrifices your man has made.

Floyd County Pupils In Festival Program At Pikeville College

Pikeville, Ky., April 28 (Spl.)—Virginia Lushbaugh, of Dwaie, took the part of "Aunt Pittypat" from "Gone With the Wind" in one scene of the 1953 May Festival at Pikeville Junior College, Friday night, May 1. Five other Floyd countians were among the dancers in two sketches presented by college students.

Tommy Hardwick, Justell, and Alice Snyder, Betsy Layne, were among the Pikeville College Academy students appearing in another act of this year's festival, Dr. A. A. Page, college president, announced.

Literary figures from Little Bo-Peep to Scarlet O'Hara entertained the school's May Queen and King, Lucille Sexton, Drift, and Williams, Inez, in the musical pageant. Parts of well-known books and stories were acted out by students from all eight grades of the college's teacher-training grade school, as well as the Academy and both college classes.

Two of the Floyd county students, Darrell Rice, Garrett, and Maudie Lou Sturgill, Harold, were dancers in the "Gone With the Wind" sketch. Eleanor Kesse and Woodrow Preston, both of Pikeville, were cast as the widowed Scarlett and Rhett Butler.

The pageant closed with the traditional winding of the Maypole by 20 college-sophomore girls, including Mae Oma Dempsey, Prestonsburg, Edna Mae Hicks, Hippo, and Mae W. W. Whitt, Prestonsburg.

Academy students portrayed an episode from Western fiction, complete with singing cowboys—the Academy Boys' Chorus was rated "superior" at the recent regional music festival—colorfully costumed cowgirls and plenty of gunfire.

Training school offerings included "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," "Hansel and Gretel," "The Sleeping Beauty," and several Mother Goose rhymes.

Other college students with named parts in the "Gone With the Wind" sketch included Joan Blackburn, Pikeville, as Maybelle Merriweather; Gladys Justice, Eto, Melanie Hamilton; Arhoid Roberts; Robinson Creek, Dr. Meade, and Dorothy May, Pikeville, Mrs. Meade.

Jerome Curry, champion 4-H tobacco grower in Madison county, sold 1,136 pounds for $710 on a little over a half-acre.

FOR COUNTY CLERK

I, Hazel Damron George, want to be your County Court Clerk. Most of you Floyd countians know me well, since I was born at Dwaile and lived there until I began my teaching career. For the past 15 years I have been a teacher at Betsy Layne.
Three years ago, I decided I would run for the office this time, but later gave up the idea, thinking I would go to my husband who was stationed in Florida with the navy.
Since then he has been sent to Hawaii and it seems impossible for the children and me to go live with him now. Therefore my thoughts again turn to the office of Clerk.

I have my A.B. college degree and sincerely believe I can take care of the office effectively. I wish to serve you parents as I have served your boys and girls.

If, for some reason, I cannot see each of you personally, your support will be greatly appreciated.

HAZEL DAMRON GEORGE
(Pol. adv.)

TO THE PEOPLE OF FLOYD COUNTY:

This is to announce my candidacy on the Democratic ticket for County Judge of Floyd county.

I have worked hard to do a good job for the people. None of us succeed in everything we attempt to do, there are none who do not make mistakes along the way. But I submit in all earnestness that I have succeeded in doing many needed things for our county, such as the improvement of roads, the paying off of much of the outstanding debt and reaching out to the ordinary citizen who needs help; and I also say that whatever mistakes I may have made, they have been errors of judgment, and not mistakes prompted by any intention at any time to do wrong.

Later, I will point out in detail the work I have done and the things achieved. My record will be open to you all.
Your support will be deeply appreciated.

Announcing Bill Hall For SHERIFF

To the People of Floyd County:

Among the five candidates for sheriff, four years ago, 2,832 of you cast your vote for me, Bill Hall.
I ran second in that race four years ago, an honor for which I am deeply grateful to the people of Floyd county. I respected and honored the right and the integrity of those who cast their vote for the other four candidates.

Since that race four years ago and especially during the last few weeks many of those who cast their vote for the other candidates have come to me, pledged their support, and urged that I announce myself as a candidate for sheriff in the coming Democratic primary.

I now earnestly solicit your vote and influence and when elected I pledge to the people of Floyd county four years of HONEST ADMINI- STRATION. I pledge to the taxpayers I will keep proper records of all my receipts and expenditures and at the end of each year as required by K.R.S. 61.290, I shall file a sworn statement of them in the local newspaper, and send a copy of the sworn publication to the state auditor as required by law. I shall list only those expenses as are authorized by law and for my services
I shall retain only the amount that I am legally entitled to.

When elected to the office of sheriff I will not be controlled by any clique or group of politicians.
All men and especially those young men of draft age will be treated as every mother wants her son to be treated, for every young man wherever he may be and whatever he has done has a mother who expects only decent treatment at the hands of the law.

For an HONEST ADMINI- STRATION, for decent treatment at the hands of the law, for STRICT but FAIR enforcement, vote for, nominate and elect BILL HALL.

FOR A BETTER FLOYD COUNTY
Your Friend,
BILL HALL
4-23-tf

TIMES WANT ADS PAY—TRY THEM TODAY!

TO THE CITIZENS OF FLOYD COUNTY:

I am in the race for COUNTY JUDGE to win and I expect to cover the county before the election. I hope I can talk to every voter and explain my plans and policy, giving each of you an honest, straightforward view of my intentions. I will not be making wild promises which I do not intend to try to fulfill. I realize that my opposition has in the past, and will from now until election day, make you promises which are impossible to fulfill. I ask you to judge those promises from what has been done in the past.
The county road machinery has suddenly quickened its pace and between now and the election will be over roads that it has not touched in four years. There will be promises that certain roads will be started just any day.

I feel certain that you, the people of this county, will not be misled by such action but will view the past four years to see what has been done for the people.

Sincerely,
JARVIS ALLEN

IT'S A GOOD WORLD

BY WILMAX

Sometime ago we read a good book about our Appalachian Highlands and their people. Every word of it was true, no doubt, but it describes only the lowest class of citizens to be found in the hills. Persons unfamiliar with the mountains would think, on reading this book, that no one in the hills is civilized. It is actually that bad, and makes special reference several times to Kentucky hillpeople. It likely is a true picture of some communities and of some people, but it is anything except typical, while leaving the impression that it is.

When we read such we are amazed that anyone in the mountains finds heart to do a thing towards advancement, for scarcely a writer ever gives this section justice. This book does not contain one word about people who acquired Ph. D. degrees ages ago. (The late Dr.
Marion Mayo, an example.) It has no reference to natives with Phil Beta Kappas. Nothing is said of old families who believe in education to the extent that generations ago they sent their children down Sandy on boats to attend school elsewhere. No reference is made to prominent ones who stood for the highest in every field, worked faithfully for progress, in spite of odds against them. No word is included about men and women who have struggled to bring Eastern Kentucky standards equal to those elsewhere in the state, four-year colleges, large hospitals, orphanages, etc.

One would assume from this book that a majority here are little better than illiterate. Countless pages are devoted to the lowest class of people, with not a word for those who kept up the fight for improvement, against enormous obstacles, geographical and otherwise, and often with unsympathetic leadership in the state.

Everyone realizes that deplorable conditions now exist. All of us know numerous evils are still prevalent on every hand. No one boasts of our present status. But most of us are confident the picture has a silver lining. The other side of the ledger is not red, (and seldom read), for it never gets into print! We grow weary of reading only the dark side, which in itself is a damper to all progress. We believe in fairness and can name scores of truly eminent men and women from our section, who have made the top ranks in countless fields here and in other states. When we came nearly thirty years ago Floyd county had students in Yale and Columbia Universities, and they did not flunk! Several colleges today are supplied with teachers from Floyd, among the instructors, Dr. Jack Allen, Curtis Owens, and Monroe Wicker.

In 1926 we saw a half dozen May-town citizens, who then had only an eighth-grade education, (old-timers), spell down a graduate of Syracuse University. But what writers mention these matters when portraying life here? Such one-sidedness is largely responsible for the apathy often encountered when civic leaders seek to achieve further progress. It is tragic. Sectional problems exist glaringly, and illiteracy cannot be ignored. Prejudices and superstitions are still rampant.
Informed people are well aware of these defects. Many are gravely concerned with them and welcome constructive criticisms. If undreamed of progress occurs soon, twenty-five years from now other leaders will then be trying to achieve new goals, for that in itself IS progress!

But people who have worked for years against the tide and opposition and misunderstanding, oppressed from without and within, grow tired of being down-trodden, misinterpreted, ignored. The only solution is to do like Mr. B. F. Reed, our editor, and others did recently about the C. J. editorial that wrote the mining industry here almost off the map; namely, to make ourselves heard, loudly and long, to demand a change and get it. We might also remind those who write

Fulton county homemakers planned window displays of dresses they made in their project work.

The Carolina-Louisiana parakeet, the passenger pigeon, wild turkey, and ravens once were native to Kentucky.

DESKINS FOR JAILER

Since my announcement for the office of Jailer of Floyd county I have received from the voters an assurance of support that is warm and genuine. These offers, so early in the campaign, give me encouragement and hope.

It is with regret that I must so soon take notice of things that are being said in this campaign by some of my opponents. Some of them, a very few of the many that are running for this office, are saying that it will be impossible for me to take care of the office as I am a blind man.

As to that I would like to say I would not be a candidate for jailer if I were not blind. If I had my sight like any normal person I would attempt to make a living some other way for the office is not a lucrative one. No man has ever emerged from the office a rich man. Right now, with the low rate of crime in this county, and a few persons confined to the jail, it is an office paying little indeed.

However small the income of the office may be compared to other county offices it will support me. It will furnish me a home, it will enable me to move up from the basement where I live to the ground floor. Perhaps I can save some for the old age of blindness I know must inevitably be my lot.

I pledge again to you that if elected I will employ a competent chief deputy jailer to run the office for me. Other jailers do this. The present jailer has had the services of a deputy that relieved him when necessary of the duties.
Why not? I know plenty of competent persons that I can employ and who will render the kind of service you want.

Right now I want to say to you that have been compassionate and kind that I appreciate it from the depths of my heart. You give me hope and encouragement, something I have not had for many years in any great measure. I feel assured that I can repay you with an able administration of the office.

GROVER C. DESKINS

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ANOTHER WANDERER
Editor, The Times:

I read the letter of Mrs. Ferrell in The Floyd County Times, and I was impressed. Although I am not from Kentucky, but West Virginia, my mother is from Kentucky and her relatives are living in Kentucky. They are Mrs. Coett Handshoe and Mrs. Kermit Handshoe, of Hueysville.

So I was much interested in Mrs. Ferrell's letter, as my story is similar to hers. Only, I have three small children, 4 years, 2 years and 4 months old. I am here with my husband, but our children are back home with our parents, and we are trying to find a place to live, so we can have them with us. I am having the same trouble as others. I can't find an apartment where we can have one baby with us, let alone three.

And another problem is work. There isn't much work in West Virginia, either, so my husband came here to Ohio for work.

What are we going to do? What is going to happen to us, the people who have to leave home to find work? We have a home back in Blm, W. Va. We have to pay more for two rooms than we could get for our home back there. But can we go back? No! Why? No work or no more than two or three days a week and that is mostly mining. So we are saying, as Mrs. Ferrell, Why don't our states of West Virginia and Kentucky do something about it, so that we can stay in our homes, and keep our families with us, instead of having to leave them?

Good luck to all of you. Maybe we can be back home soon.

MRS. DOYLE ADKINS
Elyria, Ohio

SAYS FACTORIES ARE THERE—WHY NOT HERE?
Editor, The Times:

I was just reading The Floyd County Times here at my new home on the banks of the Wabash, in the city of Wabash, Indiana.

I just finished reading a letter written to the editor by Sylvia Ferrell, written about why so many people have to leave their homes in Floyd county, the homes they love best, and go away to other states to find work.

Well, I have often thought of that, too. I have traveled over the biggest part of Indiana and in almost every city that I passed through I noticed they all have a lot of factories and I've seen a few towns with only a few hundred population that had three to four big factories. Then I wonder why a city in Kentucky the size of Prestonsburg can't have a few factories, too. The city of Wabash is not so much bigger than Prestonsburg, yet it has 17 or 18 factories in and around the city. Most all of the factories are rock-wool, rubber and cabinet works. It would not cost any more to build factories like these in Prestonsburg than it does to build them here.

If all the people in Prestonsburg and Floyd county would organize a club to boost factories to be built in Prestonsburg and Floyd county, then something wonderful could be done for Prestonsburg and Floyd county. I would like for others to write the editor on this matter too. I hope to see the day when I and many other people like Sylvia Ferrell can return to Kentucky and find a business and industrial Prestonsburg, instead of just a dead town.

(Formerly of Auxier, Ky.)

Maybe I am lazy, but my idea of heaven today is Kentucky, with its redbud and dogwood in bloom; the hills all green and fresh looking; the birds singing, each one trying to out-sing the other, and me, well, I'd have on a pair of old blue jeans, a box or basket of food such as potato salad, pickles, soft drinks, a chicken or two ready to fry a golden brown. If we didn't catch any fish, which we probably wouldn't, I'd have a few real good friends with me. We would have our fishing poles, a big can of worms. Oh no! I am not afraid of those little wiggly worms. I have fished ever since I was knee high to a grasshopper and had to use a stick pin for a hook and I have caught some nice ones in my life too. Most of the time not many, but what difference would it make? None. We would be together, out enjoying good old Mother Nature. You see, I am one who believes in letting old Mother Nature have her way. But what better way to do it than to head for Dewey Lake, or to me, better still, over on Buffalo—the back-water of Dewey Lake. Fish till we are hungry and tired, then fry the fish. No. We probably wouldn't have enough fish for one of us. But we would build a fire, then fry chicken, and all chip in gathering wood and getting lunch ready. By

JOE H. COOLEY Democratic Candidate for SHERIFF of Floyd County

At the outset I shall give you a platform upon which I intend to conduct my campaign. If elected it will then serve as a bond between me and the people.

1. My administration will be orderly and realistic. Efficient and honest operation of the office will mean the difference between a crime wave and isolated incidents of law violation.

2. I will select deputies that will be a credit to a great county, who will execute their duties impartially and efficiently.

3. I will cooperate in every possible way with the school authorities so as to promote a better school system.

4. I pledge cooperation with the city police forces of the Floyd county towns, the city councils and the citizens.

5. A statement of taxes collected, of expenses and disbursements will be made, sworn to and published.

6. No charge of 7c per mile will be made for the serving of court papers. No illegal collection of fees will be exacted but only the fees set out on the statute books as being legal.

In the cause of honesty in government I make this proposal: I will, if the legal arrangements can be worked out, turn into the Fiscal Court or the County Treasurer (whichever may be designated) ALL fees, commissions or other earnings of the Sheriff's office, and let the County pay me the flat $7,200 constitutional salary allowed the Sheriff, plus deputies' salaries and legal expenses of the office.

Let's Rid Ourselves Of This Pernicious Fee System!

When I saw the experiment farm five years ago some of the buildings were in a bad state of repair. The roof of one of them was falling in. All of them were dilapidated—looked as if they hadn't been painted in 25 years. The wire fences were even worse than the buildings. If I had gone to the college with the intention of registering as a freshman and got a good look at the farm I would have cancelled my dormitory reservation and hurried to Purdue.

That is enough about the condition of the experiment farm five years ago. What concerns us most right now is what the place is in 1953, or what it is destined to look like, say, by 1954.

The farm should be a show place. Not a farm with fancy architecture but one that radiates efficiency, good husbandry, with plenty of things to make a visitor tell himself that here is a farm run by a faculty of practical farmers, not just a bunch of classroom theorists. In other words, a symbol of good farming.

If I were a good public speaker I would ask Dean Welch to let me address the student body and the faculty on Johnson grass, the plague that is rapidly ruining the cream of Kentucky's land and which practically all the hired agricultural educators are ignoring while they dish out stereotyped platitudes about soil conservation. If I attempted a speech from polite notes, I probably would get mad, throw away my notes, and proceed to hurt a lot of people's feelings. My reaction to indifference of the college faculty, the experiment station's field agents, and about 90 per cent of the county agents in the state to the spread of Johnson grass is not softened by time.

I am laying my bets that Dean Welch will wake up the college and the extension service about Johnson grass. He came from Mississippi where thousands of farmers have seen their land ruined by the plague.

My intra-state travel program for this spring includes Kentucky University Agricultural College and the experiment station. A special invitation from Dean Frank J. Welch, who assures me the experiment farm will look much less like a share-cropped widow woman's place than it used to. If Dr. Welch and his faculty and student body have done half as much cleaning up the farm as it needed before Dr. Welch took over, I may ask the Kentucky Press Association to cite the dean as Kentucky's Man of the Year.

THE GREATEST BUICK IN 50 GREAT YEARS

"Father-Son Killed"—"Man Electrocuted"—"Three Suffer Burns" are common enough headlines in newspapers these days. All of these accidents had one thing in common. All involved television antennas.

Dangers of TV installation were pointed out by F. M. Baker, Pikeville District manager of Kentucky and West Virginia Power Company. Mr. Baker said that TV antenna accidents are growing and pose a serious threat to the public.

He explained that the power company is concerned because many of the accidents involve power lines. He cited a recent story about a man who was electrocuted while installing a TV antenna on his roof. He also referred to other recent stories in newspapers about people being burned or injured in television antenna mishaps.

These accidents, numerous as they are, deal only with installation of TV antennas. There are many more cases involving antennas that fall after they have been installed. The result is often the same—death, injury or property damage.

What can you do to prevent such an accident involving a TV antenna? The following is recommended: 1. Get experienced, qualified servicemen to install the antenna for your protection.

2. Have them use the best and strongest materials, capable of withstanding high winds and icing conditions.

3. Have them choose a location for the antenna a safe distance away from overhead utility lines.

We've noticed a couple of recent news releases that make rather engaging reading. One states that only one in 15 of the gentle sex has lost all her teeth while one in ten men are reduced to soaking their choppers in a glass overnight. The second item states that the average woman pushes enough words past her tonsils in a day to equal the verbiage in a best-selling novel. Personally we're fascinated with the thought that these phenomena go hand-in-hand. After all, with all the exercises a gal gives her jaw it's bound to result in teeth as sound as the dollar used to be. Enough of these dental delvings.

While on the subject of talking, however, we're reminded of a favorite statement of a maiden aunt who claimed that "it doesn't pay to put your mouth in high gear until your brain is turning over!"

CONVERSATIONAL CASH Money talks Or so I've heard But mine goes too fast To get in a word!

Oh well, money isn't everything. Take a nickel, for instance. A person can hang onto one for weeks—before he finds something it will buy. And the price of food—wow! If food prices go any higher it'll be cheaper to eat money.

This isn't a commercial column, but just a friendly get-together with friends. However, may we assure you that in time of need we are yours to command.

SOIL CONSERVATION

By L. R. JOHNSON Soil Conservation Service Kentucky 31 Fescue and Ladino Clover for pasture in Floyd county are in the lead. In checking with the seed dealers in Prestonsburg, I find approximately six times as much Ky. 31 fescue and five times as much Ladino clover sold by them as was sold last spring. Approximately 12,000 pounds of fescue and 1,000 pounds Ladino clover have been sold. That is enough seed to sow more than 1,900 acres. No check was made with seed dealers in other parts of the county, but it is believed the increase will be as great. More seed is sown on prepared seed bed with an application of fertilizer than before.

J. B. Clark, of the Brandy Keg community, treated 10 acres with 3,000 pounds of fertilizer and seeded to Ky. 31 fescue and Ladino clover on a prepared seed bed. Woodrow Burchett has seeded a few acres of fescue and Ladino clover on a prepared seed bed with fertilizer.

Floyd Harris, of Lancer, Dave Morrison, of Buffalo, and Elzie Calhoun, of Middle Creek, have each purchased enough seed to sow 10 acres or more.

The Floyd County Conservation District Supervisors advocate sowing grasses and legumes that have a long life, on a prepared seed bed, with an application of fertilizer.

18 KENTUCKY BANKS OVER 75 YEARS OLD

Frankfort, Ky. — Eighteen Kentucky banks that have passed the 75-year-old mark—five of them are over 100—have received official recognition from the State Department of Banking for having "stood the test of time for more than three quarters of a century."

Both Commissioner of Banking Henry H. Carter and Deputy Banking Commissioner R. E. Glenn joined in citing each of the 18 "who through prosperity and adversity have stood steadfast, always—extending a helping hand to the weak as well as the strong."

Oldest bank in the State is the Bank of Maysville, chartered 118 years ago; followed by the Farmers Bank and Capital Trust Company, Frankfort, which is 104 years old. Others past the century mark are: Farmers Bank and Trust Company, Georgetown, 103; Peoples Deposit Bank, Paris, 102; and Woodford Bank and Trust Company, Versailles, 101.

PUBLISHING REQUIRED Frankfort, Ky. — The law is mandatory in requiring a county to publish delinquent taxpayers' names and the amount due—even though the cost of advertising exceeds the delinquent tax collections—Assistant Attorney General M. E. Hollifield ruled. Daviess County Attorney William J. Waginton protested that the cost of advertising was more than the tax collections.

GOOD SCHOOLS and GOOD ROADS
GO HAND-IN-HAND

Floyd county has 94 schools, out of a total of 125 which have only one or two rooms.

Thirty-eight (38) schools are located on roads which are passable only during good weather.

A majority of our schools have unsafe drinking water, poor sewage disposal systems, and inadequate toilet facilities.

The children who attend these schools are handicapped before they start. Our children are as bright and intelligent as any children anywhere and they deserve, and have a right to expect, nothing less than the best in the way of educational opportunities.

Good roads and good schools go hand-in-hand. These are not merely local problems but are state-wide, and corrective action should begin in the next Legislature in Frankfort.

For HONEST and ABLE representation of ALL the people in the 96th Legislative District, vote for one who is INTERESTED in these problems.

Legionnaires Observe Back To God Movement

By W. O. CARVER, JR.
Editor, The Kentucky Legionnaire

Kentucky American Legionnaires have designated May for special observance of the Back to God movement of the veterans' organization.

In keeping with the expressed conviction of the Legion that freedom of religion and the individual exercise of Worship of God are fundamental in our system of government, Governor Lawrence Wetherby has been asked to proclaim the month a period of spiritual observance.

Inspiration for the inauguration of the nationwide observance was the sacrifice of the consecrated Four Chaplains of World War II.

It was on February 3, 1943, that the four laid down their lives to save four fellow-Americans.

The U.S.S. Dorchester had been torpedoed off Greenland. Aboard were the four chaplains of different faiths. They were First Lieutenants John F. Washington, a Catholic, of Newark, N.J.; Clark V. Poling, Baptist, of Schenectady, N.Y.; George L. Cox, Methodist, of Cambridge, Va., and Alexander D. Goode, a Jew, of York, Penna.

The four had life preservers but they also had shipmates with none. In the spirit of Him who laid down His life for others, they passed their life belts to four American soldiers. Then, with their arms about one another's shoulders and their heads bowed in prayer to a common Heavenly Father, they stood calmly on the deck of the sinking transport until the waves engulfed them in their unselfish sacrifice.

In their death, the four chaplains stood united in Prayer that symbolized for all Americans and for all time the unity of our nation, which was founded upon the Fatherhood of one God.

In fitting recognition of their sacrifices, the American Legion inaugurated its Back to God movement. President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Vice-President Richard Nixon paid tribute to that sacrifice on a nationwide television and radio broadcast from New York on Feb. 1, 1953.

In a radio broadcast, National Commander Lewis K. Gough, of the American Legion, spoke to millions of Americans:

"To some of this audience," he said, "it may seem strange that the American Legion—an organization born of armed force—should concern itself so directly with spiritual force. And yet, nothing could be more natural: for those of you who are also veterans know full well that experience with the one gives us a deeper appreciation of the other."

During World War II he served in the South Pacific with the 25th Infantry Division and was awarded the Bronze Star Medal, Good Conduct Medal and the Asiatic-Pacific Theater Ribbon with two campaign stars.

His mother, Mrs. Haywood Nesbitt (father deceased), lives in Dillon, S. C.

He entered the army in June, 1950 and received basic training at Fort Knox, Ky.

MUST HAVE ELECTION

Frankfort, Ky. — A city may not purchase a privately-owned water company with revenue bonds without approval of the people at an election called for the purpose, Assistant Attorney General M. B. Hollifield ruled. Nor may a portion of the proceeds of bonds issued against a city-owned utility be used for other purposes.

The present site of Keeneland Race Course, near Lexington, occupies approximately 150 acres of an 8,000 acre tract granted Francis Keene by Patrick Henry, then Governor of Virginia.

HOUSES TO BE LICENSED

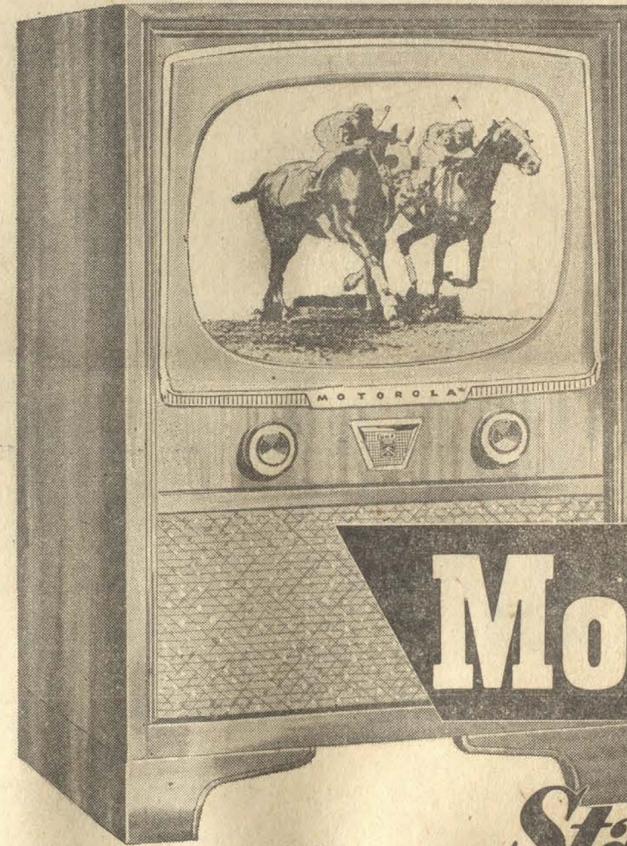

Frankfort, Ky. — Kentucky's Department of Economic Security will license the 163 nursing and convalescent homes in Kentucky July 1— or as many of them as meet required legal standards. The homes will be subject to inspection from the State Board of Health, the Fire Marshal and the Department of Economic Security.
