This Town... That World

This Profumo case does, smell, doesn't it?

This edition is dated July 4. The day to make the Eagle scream. If I miss not in my calculations, we of this particular office will be working most of the day, trying to keep the subscribers from screaming.

WHO YELLS FOR WHAT?

Not long ago I sat with possibly two hundred others in the Centre College football stadium. I was back for the first time since 1925 (I believe it was). I'm not certain it's the same football field, but I believe it's the same, where the Praying Colonels held forth in those days. Red Roberts, Bo McMillen and that noble crew had just cleared college, and old Centre's gridiron star was on the wane. Yet the team had had enough to beat the pants off dear, old U. K. for too many years in a row.

On this distant afternoon to which I refer we went to Danville from Lexington by train. And there was rejoicing in Lexington and on that train, going back, late that afternoon. U. K. had won its first football game over Centre in I forget how many years.

As I sat in the stands again I thought of Mohney and Tracey and Kirwan and Cammack, Covington and others who played 36 years ago. Heroes all, way back then. We yelled our fool heads off—and some not in our camp shed a few tears.

On this last visit I saw another type of hero. I watched as young women and young men received their diplomas, some of them after winning honors of another sort; scholastic honors, won the hard way. One young man was graduated magna.

HOUSING JOB END IS SEEN

Ready for Occupancy By Sept. 1, Thought; Applications Are Taken

Prestonsburg's 40 low-rent public housing units will be ready for occupancy September 1, if unforeseen developments do not delay the schedule on which the work is now moving.

Applications are now being taken from would-be occupants by the Prestonsburg Municipal Housing Commission. Fifty-one applicants have filed for consideration, to date. Others are invited to apply.

Interior finishing work, installation of some of the bathrooms, placing of stoves and refrigerators, plus landscaping and sidewalk construction comprise the work yet to be done. Some sidewalks already have been laid.

The units are modern in appearance and appointments and will be offered at low rental cost.

Housing officials are confident the units will be ready for occupancy by September 1 if sewage can be handled on a temporary basis until the new sewer system now under construction can be connected with the project.

URBAN RENEWAL PLANS CLEAR INITIAL HURDLE

GRANTS SEEN FOR TWO NEW URBAN JOBS

Areas To Be Converted Into City Parking Lots; Beautification Planned

Last of the two urban renewal projects sought for Prestonsburg has won final approval and eligibility for a capital grant from the Urban Renewal Administration. It was announced this week by Clifford B. Latta, executive of the Prestonsburg Municipal Housing Commission.

First of the two projects, approved earlier, is known as the Courthouse Area. The last approved is the Central Business Area, a strip of land lying between First and Second avenues at the rear of lots on which business buildings fronting on Court street are located.

The two areas, if local financing requirements are fully met, will be converted into municipal parking lots and also serve in urban beautification.

Involved in the Courthouse Area is the purchase from the county of the lot on which the courthouse and jail are now located. For this property the county will receive an estimated $100,000 to go toward construction of the new courthouse, across Third street from the present property.

"With some old buildings torn away, these attractive, new parking areas created, plus sidewalks, curbing and landscape beautification, that and the overall change now being made in Prestonsburg through a new four-lane bridge, path to school and college construction—you won't know the difference."

FOOD COUPON TOTAL NOTED

7,227 Recipients Share $77,778 In Assistance In Floyd County In May

Carl R. Horn, representative of U. S. Department of Agriculture, said this week that for the month of May $202,250.00 worth of food coupons were issued to needy people of Floyd, Knott and Perry counties, and that this amount went to 18,517 persons.

Of this total, Perry county received $65,810.00 worth of food coupons, with 6,168 persons participating; Knott county received $58,682.00 worth of food coupons, 5,122 persons participating, and Floyd county received $77,778.00 worth of food coupons, with 7,227 recipients.

Horn said that in the three counties participating in the Food Stamp Program 46 wholesalers and 586 retail grocers are authorized to participate in the program.

Food coupons issued to eligible low-income families can be used to purchase U. S. produced foods for human consumption at authorized retail stores. These coupons are then redeemed at local banks which in turn pass through the Federal Reserve System for payment at face value by USDA.

Child Health Clinic In New Location

In the past a well-child health clinic serving the residents of Wayland and Lackey has been held at the late Dr. M. V. Wickler's office. This clinic is now held at the Wayland Woman's Club house (next door to the Methodist Church) at Wayland. The clinic is held, the second Monday of each month. The next clinic date is July 8.

LIGON MAN FATALLY SHOT

James Arnold Clay Dies Of Chest Bullet Wound; Clifford Jones Jailed

James Arnold Clay, 23, was shot and fatally wounded at Ligon, early last Friday evening, and Clifford Jones, 23, was booked at the county jail here that night by Sheriff Henry C. Hale on a charge of murder.

It was the first slaying in the county since last August 25.

Clay died within a few minutes of a revolver bullet wound which entered his right chest and emerged from his back.

The shooting took place at a place of business variously described by witnesses as Will Stone's Store and Reynolds' Grocery. The two men, both residents of Ligon, met at the store, around 6:30 p.m., and witnesses agreed that an argument involving Clay's arrest at Wheelwright on a traffic charge and Clay's claim that Jones lied about the case followed.

Statements of five witnesses were taken. When examining trial was waived Tuesday morning, Jones was admitted to $10,000 bond on the basis of these statements. The witnesses were Dexter Hamilton, Luther Page, 15, James Arthur Tackett, Samuel Gordon Meade and James Reynolds.

Burden of this testimony was that Clay was drinking a can of beer inside the store when Jones entered, and that the argument then developed.

Luther Page said Clay ran after Jones when the latter left the building, the chase continuing to a cornfield where Clay jumped onto Jones, then made him return to the store and told him to drink his beer. Jones drank the beer, the youth testified, and then said, "I'll be seeing you, boys." He added that he heard Jones later returned, a shot was fired, but Page said he did not see the shooting of Clay. He said that he thought the weapon was pointed at Clay when he saw it, moments after the shot was fired.

Dexter Hamilton said the two men left the building after the original argument, then came back and Clay refused a drink of Jones' beer. Jones left, saying, "I'll see you," was gone about 10 minutes. He said he saw a gun in Jones' pocket when he returned and that Jones asked Clay to come out. "Won't you fight with your fists?" he quoted Clay as asking the other. Hamilton added that he jumped off the counter and walked to the corner of the store, then heard the shot and saw Clay bend over. He said he heard no threat from Clay and saw no bruise on Jones.

"Oh!" was the only word reported as spoken by Jones after he was shot. (See Story No. 3, Page 6)

FIRST CAMP WEEK ENDS

For Scouts At Shawnee; Ninety-Six Boys Attend Annual Outdoor Event

Boy Scout Camp Shawnee completed its first week of camp on Saturday, June 29.

Ninety-six boys and leaders attended the Lonsome Pine Council Scout Camp located on Dewey Lake, near Prestonsburg. Scouts did everything from building a monkey bridge to earning their Scout Lifeguard. One 11-year-old Scout said, when asked about the camp, "I like it because you do a lot of stuff."

Down in the Scoutcraft activities area, Scouts learned to tie knots, lashings, read a compass, draw maps, sharpen an axe and to pitch a tent. There they earned the Pioneering, Camping, Nature, Soil and Water Conservation, and Forestry merit badges.

On the archery and rifle range, Scouts were taught how to shoot with bow and gun. After improving their form and score, they earned an archery or rifle badge. Older Scouts who shot a good score on the archery range were permitted to go on the field course, shooting at more difficult animal targets.

On the water front, Scouts went swimming, rowing, canoeing and motorboating. Non-swimmers and beginners were instructed in swimming while swimmers were taught merit badges such as Canoeing, Lifesaving and Rowing.

At night Scouts enjoyed singing, telling stories and doing stunts around the campfire. Two nights of the week, they went on a star hike and identified the North Star and several constellations. On Thursday night they enjoyed colorful Indian dances and the calling-out ceremony of the Order of the Arrow.

Religious devotions were held daily under the direction of Rev. William Moore, pastor of the First Christian Church, Salyersville.

RESCUE GROUP HEARS COMBS

Regional Rescue Squads Hold Meeting At Corbin; Homer Neeley, Speaker

Groups comprising the Southeastern Kentucky Association of Emergency & Rescue Squads were assured by Governor Bert T. Combs last Sunday afternoon in the Association's second meeting at Corbin that the organization will have the assistance and cooperation of the state of Kentucky.

Approximately 200 persons, including members of seven emergency and rescue squads, attended the meeting which was held at the Wilbur hotel.

Other speakers were Homer D. Neeley, of the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad, Association president, and Mayor Ed Peace, of Corbin.

At the business session the Association voted to hold its next quarterly meeting, September 30, at Middlesboro.

Member-squads represented at the meeting were those of Floyd and Pike counties, Cumberland, Harlan, Middlesboro and Corbin. Jellico, Tennessee squad members were guests.

While the Association meeting was in progress an accident was reported from nearby Lake Cumberland. Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad members met a boat bearing a passenger whose leg had been broken in a water-skiing mishap. Squad members set the leg and sent him on to a hospital.

Mrs. Elizabeth, retiring Maytown school librarian, with portrait presented her recently in recognition of her long service.

An oil portrait of Mrs. Elizabeth May Baker was placed in the Maytown school library by the school faculty and the student body at a reception held in Mrs. Baker's honor in the school library, June 8.

Mrs. Baker taught her first school, a "subscription school," in 1911. A total of 40 years in the teaching profession followed. Her career as a teacher was interrupted by marriage to Ben W. Baker, now deceased, and the rearing of a son, Ben W. Baker, Jr., who now lives in Hawaii with his wife, son and daughter.

Following a number of years teaching in the elementary schools of this county, Mrs. Baker returned to the classroom and finished her college work at Western State College, Bowling Green, and qualified as a school librarian. She was one of the first certified librarians in the county.

Mrs. Baker's devotion to her work and her high standards of librarianship have made the Maytown school library one of the best small school libraries in the state. She began work as a librarian at Maytown in 1943, and retired with the recent close of the 1962-63 school term.

HALE FINES EVANGELIST

Stapp Pleads Guilty To Drunkenness Here; Is Martin-Co. Native

Evangelist Albert Stepp, who recently completed a two-week revival at the Church of the Nazarene here, pleaded guilty Wednesday morning to a charge of drunkenness Tuesday at his apartment on Riverside Drive. Police Judge Watt Hale suspended a fine of $22.50. The evangelist agreed to leave Prestonsburg.

Stepp came here several weeks ago, supposedly from Bellefontaine, Ohio. He said that he was a retired miner and a native of Martin county.

It is said that Stepp threatened George Nelson on the street and Mrs. Molly Johnson, his landlady, called the police. When Police Chief Bill Potter and Ray Click approached the scene Stepp went into the house and took a partially consumed half-pint bottle of whiskey from his pocket and placed it on the floor. Potter confiscated it and later submitted it in evidence.

Stepp, who said he was an epileptic suffering from silicosis, admitted to using barbiturates but said he did so upon the advice of a physician.

BONDS SELL AT LOW RATE

Courthouse Issue Sale Indicative of Credit Rating of Floyd, Said

Although courthouse revenue bonds are particularly difficult to sell and normally carry a higher rate of interest than other bonds, the Floyd county courthouse bond issue sold for an average rate of 3.73% interest, it was pointed out recently by Charles A. Hirsch & Co., Cincinnati, fiscal agents for the county.

"You should be especially pleased with the results, as it reflects the thinking of bond buyers concerning the credit of your county," Robert R. Meyer, of Hirsch & Co., wrote county officials and members of the Floyd County Courthouse Corporation.

"We want to congratulate the County Judge, the members of the Fiscal Court and your County Attorney on the operation and administration of your county, as the results of this sale indicate that Floyd county is being operated in a very fine and efficient manner by the fiscal court with the result that the credit of your county is well regarded," he added. "Bond buyers are extremely sensitive to figures concerning management of a county, and if your county was not being operated on a good, sound basis they would not have been interested in your bonds."

The same bond firm, acting as fiscal agent in the sale of bonds for construction of the Middle Creek school, effected the sale at interest of less than 4%. Another firm handled the Mud Creek school bonds, and they sold at a higher rate of interest.

As a result, the Middle Creek school bonds will cost between $40,000 and $50,000 less to amortize than the Mud Creek bonds, Burl Spurlock, treasurer for the board, said.

LOWER ALLEN RATES GIVEN

Insurance Premiums Now In Ninth Class In Protected Area

Insurance company agents have been notified by John L. Thompson, manager of the Kentucky Inspection Bureau, that all dwellings within the Allen Community Fire Protection Area are to be rated in the ninth class for insurance purposes.

The fire protection area includes the city of Allen, the unincorporated towns of New Allen and Dwale and rural territory to a point north of Cow Creek on U. S. 23 and for a distance up Cow Creek; upriver, along U. S. 23, to the Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel; to the top of the mountain at Dwale, and up Beaver Creek to a point approximately 400 feet from the Branham's Hollow road.

Thompson pointed out that there are no fire hydrants in the area except for a few small, non-standard hydrants in Allen and that these are served by a weak water system which does not meet minimum requirements for rate recognition.

He pointed out that when credit is allowed for protection within the area, a fire protection clause must be attached to the policy showing that a condition of the policy is that the property is located in the Allen Community Fire Protection Area and is not more than three miles by accessible roads from the Allen community fire department.

HISTORY GROUP TO MEET

The Eastern Kentucky Historical Society will hold a special meeting Friday evening at 7:30 at the Eastern Kentucky Library reading room. It is announced. Officers and members are urged to attend. This meeting is the most important one of the year for the group as decisions must be made on the planned programs, it was said.

FUNDS NEED CLOSES DOORS OF RED CROSS

Floyd Chapter, American Red Cross, closed its office doors this week, and they will remain closed, Miss Ella Noel White, executive secretary, said, unless the people of the county show by their support that they want Red Cross services continued.

"It's now up to the people," Miss White said. "If they want the Red Cross and want it enough to subscribe the quota of $7,000 which has been set for 1963, the office will reopen. Otherwise, we're out."

The decision to close was not based entirely on the failure of the county to support the Red Cross this year. The county has failed over the last several years to meet its quota, and only $3,100

TEN RAIDS WEDNESDAY NET NINE PRISONERS

Concrete Surfacing Bids Asked On Whitaker Road By Highway Department

Bids for two bituminous concrete surfacing projects on the Whitaker road (Little Paint Creek) will be received by the Kentucky Highway Department on July 19, Commissioner of Highways Henry Ward announced this week.

One project on the route at U. S. 23 and extending west a distance of .405 mile; the other will begin .405 mile west of U. S. 23 and extend west 1.1 mile.

This highway improvement is being financed through the state's rural secondary program, which is being operated with two cents of the gasoline tax.

MED GROUP ORGANIZED

New Hospital Authority To Operate Institutions; Headquarters In Harlan

Appalachian Regional Hospitals, Inc., came into being Saturday as the body that will begin to run five Miners Memorial hospitals in Eastern Kentucky on October 1.

Four of the five hospitals had been slated for closing July 1 by the Miners Memorial Hospital Association unless a responsible non-profit body could be formed to operate them as community hospitals.

Articles of incorporation were filed Saturday morning with the Kentucky Secretary of State in Frankfort by Squire R. Ogden, Louisville attorney.

Headquarters of Appalachian Regional Hospitals will be in Harlan, where the administrator of the Harlan Memorial Hospital, Robert Selwyn, will act as resident agent for the new body.

The new corporation was set up in time to receive a $3.9 million grant from the Area Redevelopment Administration before the federal budget year closed June 30.

The grant covers the purchase price of hospitals at McDowell, Hazard, Harlan, Whitesburg and Middlesboro.

Application will be made later for a second ARA grant to purchase five remaining Miners Memorial hospitals. These are in Pikeville and Williamson, West Virginia, Wise, Virginia, and Man and Beckley, West Virginia.

Under terms of an agreement reached two months ago by the United Presbyterian Board of National Missions and the Miners Memorial Hospital Association, the MMA will operate the five last named hospitals until July 1, 1964.

The Board of National Missions decided in late April to offer its services as negotiating and "enabling" agent by which the continued operation of the hospitals might be assured under responsible auspices.

According to its articles of incorporation, Appalachian Regional Hospitals has been founded to do six things:

1. "To establish, maintain and operate a regional system of general hospitals and diagnostic treatment and consultation centers, and related services and facilities including but not limited to nursing homes, convalescent homes and chronic disease hospitals.

2. "To carry on any educational activities related to rendering care of the sick and injured or the programs, it was said.

INTOXICANTS CONFISCATED BY OFFICERS

State Police, ABC Men Strike Simultaneously With Ten Squad Cars

A task force of 20 state troopers and three ABC agents, scattered in 10 squad cars from Stanville to Prestonsburg, struck 10 places almost simultaneously Wednesday morning in one of the biggest liquor raids to be staged in this county.

The raids netted nine prisoners, 2,538 cans of beer and 348 half-pints of whiskey, vodka and gin.

All search warrants had been procured at the office of County Judge Henry Stumbo after quiet undercover work had been done by plainclothesmen. Rapidity of the officers' strikes at various points prevented those already raided from warning others for whom search warrants had been procured.

Places raided, those arrested and the haul taken at each place, as reported by State Police, follow:

Park Drive-In on U. S. 23, near Stanville, Paul Tackett, 170 cans of beer, 22 half-pints of whiskey, 20 pints of gin and a half-pint of vodka.

Texaco Service Station at Banner, Ronald Jones, 21 cans of beer, 15 half-pints of whiskey, four half-pints of vodka and four of gin.

Melvin Click, on U. S. 23, opposite Dwale, 361 cans of beer, eight half-pints of vodka and 95 of whiskey.

William Riley Wells, Jr., Auxier road, 789 cans of beer, approximately 110 half-pints of whiskey, vodka and gin.

Shamrock Inn on Dewey Lake, 369 cans of beer, 12 half-pints of whiskey and two fifths of whiskey.

Banner Burchett at Knottley Hollow, 41 cans of beer, five half-pints of gin.

Cora Stone, at Winchester, near Sugar Loaf, 572 cans of beer.

James Stone, at Winchester, 131 cans of beer, 24 half-pints of whiskey, six half-pints of gin and six of vodka.

The Sea Cafe at Martin, Annie Dingus, 34 cans of beer, 26 half-pints of whiskey, 14 half-pints of gin and 18 vodka.

The Shamrock Inn raid failed to result in an arrest because nobody was home when State Police arrived. The doors were open, and the troopers walked in. The Shamrock, it was said, is now operated by the AMVETS.

All those arrested were brought here before Trial Commissioner Glenn Burchett, and each executed $500 appearance bond for trial, July 22.

The 11th search warrant issued was expected to be executed in Prestonsburg, later Wednesday.

All intoxicants confiscated were (See Story No. 4, Page 6)

FLOYD SHARES IN SAVINGS

Money Is Distributed To 120 Counties, Said; Joint Work Is Success

Kentucky's 120 counties are sharing savings made by the Department of Highways in the administration of the state's Rural Secondary program.

Henry Ward, Commissioner of Highways, announced today that an additional $799,999.74 was being distributed among the counties according to the formula established by the 1962 legislature. "Our objective," Ward said, "has been to put more dollars on the road rather than on the books."

"This amount," the Commissioner said, "represents savings in administration costs of this important program during the current year. It will allow the individual county Rural Secondary programs to be expanded to meet more of the needs on these smaller roads."

Earlier, a similar distribution was made among the counties from the Rural Highway program. For the past three years, both Rural Highways and Rural Secondary programs have been administered jointly, thus reducing the administrative costs of both programs. T. R. Marcum, Deputy Commissioner for Rural Highways, attributes a substantial portion of the savings being distributed to the success of this joint administration.

The Rural Secondary account of Floyd county is being increased by $9,891.35, the amount apportioned to it by formula as a result of savings in the administration of the program.

Who Fails More Than the People?

Two editorials in as many weeks in this newspaper on the bootlegging situation in Floyd county have, insofar as can be detected, created not even a ripple of public interest.

They have succeeded in ruffling the feelings of a few enforcement officers and have evoked from perhaps half a dozen citizens expressions of mild appreciation. Neither reaction was sought by us. We are not interested in incurring enmity, neither are we "bucking" for compliments. Nor are we interested in assuming—in fact, we shun—the role of reformer or crusader.

As we consider the vast apathy which exists in this county as pertaining to the illegal liquor traffic, we wonder if, perhaps, we didn't start with the wrong people—if the people themselves, the church-people, the people who have children, those who profess greater interest in clean communities than in cleaned communities, should not have been our No. 1 target.

We wonder again. We wonder how great would have been the reaction on the part of a great number of people, had these comments on bootlegging been published during the weeks immediately prior to the May Primary election or if we had waited till, say, next October, shortly before the November polling. Oh, the anguish of those who weep for poor Floyd county at such times! Where do they put away their sackcloth and ashes so soon?

If we, the people—remember us? "the great, common people"—aren't interested, sincerely interested, without political considerations cluttering up our motives and our thinking, we should not expect officials who depend upon the votes of the people to put them in office to stick their necks out, physically as well as politically, to do a job for us in which we aren't greatly interested in the first place.

But you say, "That's what they are paid to do." And we say to you and to ourselves, "But the paymaster has some responsibilities, too."

These responsibilities include:

1. A fair, impartial view and assessment of the situation.

2. A willingness to have a part in meeting the situation: To give officers and courts open support; to help in those cases where help is possible; to put an end to our generations-long failure as citizens, most of all as jurors sitting in trial of those arrested and brought into court; to shake free of our peasant-serf subservience to influence and position and insist on striking at the "Top Cat" rather than the underdog in this whole messy business.

This failing, we will be ready to compromise and advocate the state liquor store idea which has so long been repugnant to us.

LOCAL HISTORY AND TOURISM

(An editorial in The Licking Valley Courier, West Liberty, Ky.)

The history of this county and nearby counties is a heritage that should be cherished and preserved. Here in our area significant episodes took place, stout-hearted pioneers settled, carved estates out of the wilderness, formed county governments, built churches, established schools, and molded a social order that was the genesis of the society we enjoy today here in the foothills of a beautiful upland countryside.

These pioneers were stout-hearted people of good blood, mostly English, Scotch, Irish and French Huguenots, who braved the dangers of a wilderness to obtain land and be independent.

More than 95 per cent of the citizens in our area today are descendants of these stouthearted Anglo-Saxon pioneers, a hardy stock, freedom-loving, and with democratic ideals.

A prolific stock, the people of these foothill counties have sent sons and daughters into many fields. And the lure of the hills draws them ever back, even if only to visit the place of their origin. But many want to learn more of their forebears, to know their family history.

And, too, this hill country is a fabled land in the minds of many who have heard native sons describe it, or have read the folk tales so often written of a landlocked mountain people, who only recently commenced abandoning their Elizabethan customs, their clannish ways.

And now, with modern highways penetrating the hills, state parks offering accommodations along with sylvan beauty, tourists have commenced a golden stream into our mountains, a stream that will grow ever larger and larger.

A city visitor—a tourist—is worth $7 to $11 a day in the area he visits. But will we keep him a day in our "fabled land," or will he pass on to more inviting places?

A lot depends on ourselves; the way we treat him; and whether our area offers the things he wants to see.

Of one thing we can be certain. A city person will not drive hundreds of miles to see city things. He comes as a tourist either to see and enjoy our countryside, or for recreation, like fishing, hunting, swimming, etc. And, if we are to keep him among us another day for that extra $7 to $11 we must have available proper accommodations, good restaurants, motels, hotels and camping sites—and above all, places of interest.

If he comes to our hills, he will want to see hill things, not city things. Thus, we must preserve our landmarks of the pioneers—maybe even establish museums of mountain life, mountain craft, mountain make-do items of pioneer days. Our log houses, our early churches, our pioneer school buildings—these must be preserved. Copper moonshine stills must be set up again—set up, that is, in public places to satisfy the longing of the tourists to view one.

And, too, many will come to search family lineage. Records of these need to be preserved; courthouse records of marriages, deeds, land patents and the like need be preserved—not only preserved but microfilmed and placed in a central place easy of access and comprehensive enough to keep the visitor an extra day.

And now that we plan community libraries, why not set aside a "Mountain Room" filled with mountain records, books, microfilmed records, and the like? Even a small museum of mountain items?

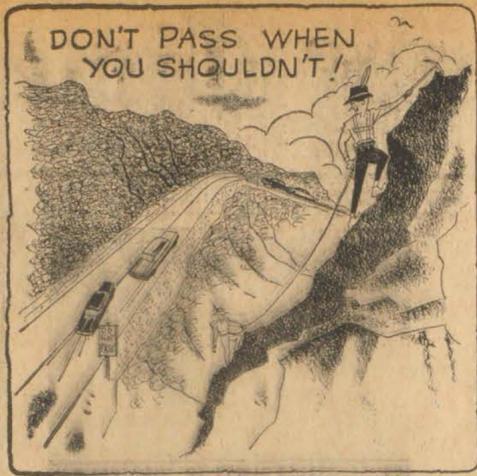

And the episodes of our foothills, from the time our pioneer forefathers came in from Virginia and the Carolinas, through the hard years of carving a society out of the wilderness, through the Civil War and the part our Anglo-Saxon forebears played in the fratricidal strife—all this is history, rare and valuable history, the history that is the heritage of our generation in the foothills today. And it must be preserved. It will be of ever-increasing value to each new generation.

And it will be of prime interest also to our cousins from other states, the sons and daughters of those who out-migrated in years past, for they will be returning in ever larger numbers and with growing curiosity for family histories.

A bit of proper planning now in building libraries, museums, and in collecting items of historical value and preserving what is yet available, but fast being lost—such planning will keep alive as history the rich heritage that is ours and each succeeding generation's in the foothills. And at the same time it will develop the rich business of tourism.

A social security beneficiary must report promptly any event which would affect his right to benefits.

A disabled person receiving disability benefits under the social security law must report to the Social Security Administration if his condition improves or he returns to work.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

MAN AND HIS INVENTIONS

Just after noon, on a hot day in May, 1963, without any warning, all the electricity in my town failed. For some minutes nobody knew what had happened, but it became apparent at once that dark nooks and crannies needed a flashlight or even a match for business to be carried on as usual. I was just entering the bank I patronize as the lights went out and needed to put some papers into my lock box. The woman in charge of the vault had to borrow a flashlight from another member of the bank force; when it failed, she actually had to strike a match to see the number of my box. The street lights, with their stop and go signs, threatened to make trouble for drivers, unconscious of the light failure, kept on going at normal speed. Those of us who had to cross streets suddenly found ourselves fearful of leaving the curbs. Doors of houses air-conditioned were thrown open in an effort to get some fresh air. The failure of the electricity created a topic of conversation equal to a big snow or sub-zero temperatures. One old fellow on the street remarked to me: "I'm shore glad we've still got the sun for light." When the trouble was located in a transformer on the main TVA line feeding the city, the current was soon restored. And it seemed that the forty-minutes must have been hours and hours.

For most of my contemporaries, since probably five-sixths of them are younger than I, this light failure could bring only memories of other light failures and not of older times, when not so much depended on a few wires. Suppose the coal oil lamp in our house had suddenly blown out; there was the fireplace, with some coals covered up, on almost any day except in the very hottest summer, even after matches were at hand. Old-fashioned folks kept their fire almost as if it were something sacred. My father used to amuse us by telling how he was sent occasionally to a neighbor's to "borrow some fire," when he was a small boy down in Middle Tennessee. We winked at each other, but said nothing, for we almost knew that our father, like Mark Twain, remembered best the things that never happened. Why, we had matches, lots of them, all the time; and, up on the mantel, in a vase, were lots of candle-lighters ready to be used when needed! It was necessary only to strike a match or to hold a candle-lighter to the coals in the fireplace to have light again. We had been told about getting fire started from sparks struck from flints, and flints were all around us; but that seemed silly when you could draw a match across the seat of your pants and have a fire in a second. Why labor to get a spark from a hard rock with a pocket knife? Add as it may seem to the younger generation, I never saw a fire started with a flint and, as a child, almost believed that flints lost this power long before my time, when good old matches were so plentiful.

A sense of history is one of the hardest things to develop and to be respected. Things as they exist at any certain time seem so natural and so eternal that it is hard to convince most people, really, that there have been endless changes, often within the lifetime of an older person. I have got some of the most unreal laughs in my classes when I mentioned that Bowling Green had a total of three cars of all kinds when I arrived in the town in January, 1908. It was some two or three years later that the first truck arrived. That truck was almost as much in demand to haul students on picnics as it was to transport heavy farm crops or building materials. And I knew when I mentioned having put up or helped to put up the first telephone line in our neighborhood, the youngsters would think that Alexander Graham Bell and I had grown up as boys together. If any of you who read this essay doubt the reactions to my perfectly truthful memories, just remember that the parents of my most recent students were born after or during World War I, which to my generation, seems not too far away in time. But the world has mechanized tremendously since the first car chug-chugged down what then passed for paved streets.

"LET ME TELL ONE"

The longer this column goes on, the harder it is for me to be believed by the younger generation. When it began, away back in 1955, I had already become somewhat of a doubtful handler of truth; my two children were then seventeen and ten years old, respectively. Many of the things I talked about at the dinner table seemed even more ancient than the things they had heard about in their school activities. It seems now only a very few years until our first grandchild arrived, and she, too, could hardly believe that things were so strange in Granddaddy's time. What I told her about my childhood activities made me appear to a contemporary of George Washington, at least. Now that granddaughter is a sophomore in college, and the younger grandchildren, down to a bare three years old, get more and more puzzled at how far back Granddaddy can remember.

But this is to be expected. A father belongs to an older generation, no matter how young he may actually be. And a grandfather is ancient, I tell you. So the young people of all sorts who cross my path have about placed me among the elder prophets or any other old fellows that they have heard or read about. If I were not dedicated to telling only the truth about folk things of other times, I could cash in on the credulity of the younger generations. Since I am regarded as a cheerful and harmless liar, I could mix in folklore from other times and places and hardly be any less believed. But I refuse to lower the standard of my memories, merely to get more applause or eagerness to hear the old, old man wonder off into strange, unreal worlds.

And yet, maybe I am wrong in not doing this very thing and thus being a living representative of folk characters. Around every folk character accumulate not only real stories of his times but typical ones from other folk times. Thus David Crockett, as he is now known, is probably nine-tenths folk hero and one-tenth actual American pioneer. A very large percentage of the David Crockett lore arose after the tragedy of the Alamo. Of course, there had already arisen a large folk reservoir while Davy was still around. But the wideyed exaggeration of genuine folk yarns got more and more folkish as the years passed and the real Davy had long been dead. In the same way, it is now almost impossible to pick out the genuine Abraham Lincoln stories from others that have become attached to his name.

Since few of the younger generation can realize, without a good deal of help, the significance of a hundred years, I could cash in on having a few men who knew well-known Revolutionary War soldiers. It would be easy to skip a few years and say that I, too, knew fellows who wintered at Valley Forge or witnessed the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown. Frankly, to many people now middle-aged that might not sound very far wrong. In our Fidelity neighborhood lived an aged ex-slave woman who, when her mind got wobbly in her old age, spoke of having belonged to Marse George Washington and of having "nursed" Marse Jeffe Davis. We younger children were inclined to believe her and were positively hurt when some of the older people laughed at Aunt Nicely's tangled memories.

Uncle Clark Bailey, of Fidelity, was not such an ancient one, for he was merely one of the numerous Confederate soldiers who survived the war. But his stories, largely concerned with his own achievements, seemed to span the centuries. Mother, somewhat wickedly, would encourage the old cheerful liar to tell us more and more of his adventures. Father, probably knowing too well Uncle Clark's tangled facts, would quit the conversation and let the frail little man tell of feats that only a Hercules could have done. Mild-mannered, low-voiced, never loud in his endless yarns of miraculous escapes from danger, Uncle Clark seemed to us children too serious, too honest to twist any truth out of its orbit. If I were just a little more wobbly in my memories, I could make Uncle Clark turn over in his grave in sheer envy.

Our Yesterdays

(Items taken from files of The Floyd County Times of 30, 20 and 10 years ago.)

Thirty Years Ago

(June 30, 1933)

The North-East and South-East Coal Companies will sever their long affiliation tomorrow, it was announced this week. Last of the coal operations to be unionized in the county, with unionization almost 100% complete, was the Prestonsburg Coal Co. at Water Gap. It was alleged this week that 55 farmers who had never before worked in mines there, were sworn in as union members. The Court of Appeals last Friday affirmed the death sentence given Ishmael Scott, of this county. The home of Bill Fitzpatrick on Middle Creek, three miles from here, was destroyed Monday by fire. Darb Shepherd was seriously stabbed here last Tuesday. Married, on October 22, last, Miss Pauline Archer and Mr. Joe Wheeler Burchett, both of Prestonsburg, at Wayne, West Virginia. There died: Maxine Keaton, 5, of Auxier, Tuesday of hemophilia; Mrs. Dolf Watson, 22, of Auxier, Saturday at a Paintsville hospital.

Twenty Years Ago

(July 1, 1943)

The gasoline plant constructed as an adjunct to the Dwale compressor station of the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company has begun production, it was announced this week by Peter C. Van Gilt, the company's vice-president in charge of operations. Woodrow W. Smith, 25, seaman on a Liberty Ship, was home last week wearing his "torpedo pin," a gift received from the seaman's union after his ship had been torpedoed off the coast of Africa last March 10. With the exception of the Wayland, Hemphill and Fleming operations of the Elk Horn Coal Corporation, coal mines of the area were back at work under government direction. Commissioner of Agriculture William H. May, formerly of Prestonsburg, formally filed this week for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant-governor. Two Floyd soldiers—Pfc. Mitchell D. Burke, of Weeksbury, and Pvt. Ralph Deboard, of Betsy Layne—are Axis prisoners, relatives have been notified. Six slot machines were confiscated on Left Beaver Creek Tuesday by Deputy Sheriffs T. S. Salisbury and Scott Compton. Angus Sexton, about 24 years old, native of Hueysville, was drowned last Thursday in a Michigan lake. The home of Atty. H. R. Burke suffered $500 fire damage last Thursday when a can of kerosene exploded. Married: Miss Ernestine Wallen, of Morehead, formerly of Garrett, and Seaman Edward S. Jolly, of Meridian, Mississippi, at Lexington, June 22; Miss Mildred Alice Gortney, of Harrodsburg, to Lt. Z. S. Dickerson, Jr., of Prestonsburg, today at Harrodsburg. There died: Mrs. Maude Castle, 54, Tuesday at Estill; Mrs. John Hyden, 41, Sunday at West Prestonsburg; Mrs. Madison Collins, 29, of Minnie, Tuesday at a Martin hospital; Joseph C. Chick, 56, Sunday at his home near Emma.

Ten Years Ago

(July 2, 1953)

Despite an effort by the Floyd County Good Government Taxpayers League to have him removed from the bench, Special Judge Lawrence S. Grauman, Louisville, remained here this week for the trial of Tax League cases against Floyd county officials and appeals filed in such cases. Congressman Carl D. Perkins' plea for action to relieve the unemployment situation in the Prestonsburg-Pikeville areas was answered last week by Secretary of Labor Durkin with a promise to see what he could do about the Congressman's proposals. Betty Collins, 18 years old, of the Mud Creek section, died Friday afternoon an hour after being struck by a car on the highway at Teaberry, the tragedy occurring when the car swerved to miss a mule-drawn sled. For this school year, the per capita support of education by the state will be $438.10 per child, 30 cents less than last year's rate, it was announced in Frankfort. Lightning was blamed for the fire during last Saturday's storm which destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hamilton, of Banner. A French farm youth, Gene Lambert, will spend July 7-29 in the home and on the farm of Arnold Lowe, of Maytown. Married: Miss Elsie Frances Thompson, of Byer, Ohio, formerly of Prestonsburg, to Mr. James Donald Kincheloe, of Louisville, May 22, at Louisville; Miss Bernice Hall, of Printer, and Thomas L. Westfall, of Allen, June 26, at the First Baptist Church of Allen. There died: Mrs. Thelma Mosley Dye, 29, Orkney, Tuesday at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin; Jonathan Fitzpatrick, 69, at his home in Prestonsburg, Monday; Florence Weddington, 65, of Amba, Monday, at the home of a daughter at Galveston; Viola Adkins, 16, Galveston, July 2, at home; Anita Spears, eight months old, of Banner, at the Beaver Valley hospital, June 30; Yvonne Martin, one day old, of Mousie, at the Stumbo Memorial hospital.

One hundred years ago this week, Federal authorities arrested "a number of females" at De Moss-ville, in Pendleton county, "and some at other points," to be sent south and passed through Union Army lines into Confederate territory. It was said that they were "regarded as dangerous to the U. S. Government."

That citizens could be taken into custody and exiled, and the public told so little about it, was due to a general proclamation by President Lincoln, which provided that during "insurrection" persons accused of disloyal practices could be tried by courts-martial or military commissions and denied the habeas-corpus privilege which in normal times would have enabled them to get their cases into civilian courts. In Kentucky, most of those so arrested were taken up under Major Gen. Ambrose E. Burnside's "General Order No. 38." It stated that one thing which would no longer be tolerated was "the habit of declaring sympathizers for the enemy."

On June 3, General Burnside left his Cincinnati headquarters to take charge of a long-planned movement of his Union Army of the Ohio from Kentucky into East Tennessee. For some time Federal troops had been collecting in Kentucky for that purpose. Confederate intelligence had learned of the projected invasion and for that reason, as related in an earlier installment of this series, Brig. Gen. John Hunt Morgan's Third Confederate Cavalry Division early in May had been ordered to keep watch on the Cumberland River in the three Kentucky counties of Wayne, Clinton and Cumberland, to keep Union Army troops out of the region south of the river if possible, and if Burnside came in such strength that Morgan's lone division could not repulse him, at least to delay the advance until General Braxton Bragg could make troop movements designed to halt the Federal advance somewhere south of the Kentucky-Tennessee state line. Burnside had waiting for him in Kentucky two divisions of the Ninth Army Corps and part of the Twenty-third Army Corps. However, when he arrived at Lexington, he received orders to send the Ninth Army Corps to Mississippi to reinforce Major General U. S. Grant, who was besieging Vicksburg. That so sharply reduced Burnside's force that the plan to invade East Tennessee from Kentucky was suspended indefinitely. In the Cumberland River valley, Union and Confederate cavalry and mounted infantry kept on sparring and jabbing lightly. Colonel August V. Kautz of the Second Ohio Cavalry with about 450 men crossed to the south side of the river at Waitsborough and marched downstream to rendezvous with Lt. Col. Silas Adams of the First Kentucky (Union) Cavalry, who had crossed at Mill Springs with 300 men. They joined forces at the intersection of the Somerset and Mill Springs roads and drove off a Confederate unit which left two men dead and one officer wounded on the field. The Federals then took Monticello and held it briefly before returning to the north side.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

WE'RE 'GROWING UP'

EDITOR, The Times:

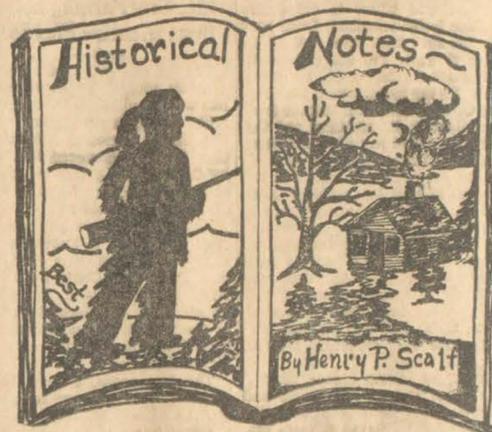

Today I picked up the Herald-Dispatch, and as all transplanted Floyd countians are wont to do, my eyes were drawn to a small column about Prestonsburg. I read with delight and a sense of pride that the low bid had been received for construction of the community college, thus making this project a reality and no longer a dream. The article stated that this twelve-classroom U. K. branch school envisioned an enrollment of around three hundred full-time students and two hundred part-time or adult students. Hardly able to believe this great stride had been taken in the area's progress, I began recounting various accomplishments of the past few years in the Prestonsburg and surrounding vicinity—the new and better highways; new stores and banks; more modern schools; Urban Renewal projects; an effective flood control system; the Floyd County Regional Library and Bookmobile; and the expanded facilities of Jenny Wiley State Park, with the concomitant expanded tourism and the influx of new money into the local economy.

I have a deep pride in my old hometown and its progress, and an even greater faith that its citizens will continue to work diligently and harmoniously together for the common good, and for increased opportunities for young and old alike. You of Prestonsburg can be proud of your accomplishments, but people must remember that progress is a continuous process that will require every citizen's participation and dedication to function fully and effectively.

Just wanted to say, "Congratulations, Prestonsburg, you're growing up!" Let's see more progress.

McGUIRE AND COMPTON

A letter from Hubert C. Lowman, 3332 North Corrida Drive, Covina, California, offers information on the McGuire and Compton families and poses a few questions.

Mr. Lowman writes:

"Family information in my possession says John Compton, Jr., married Eleanor McGuire in Tazewell county, Virginia, COMPTONOLGY, a Compton family genealogical paper published from 1939 through 1952 by C. V. Compton of San Antonio, Texas, said—unfortunately without stating any authority—that Eleanor McGuire Compton was a daughter of Cornelius McGuire.

Cornelius McGuire was the first lay minister of the Methodist Church in the Big Sandy valley and organized the first Methodist class here in 1796. He was one of the first Justices of the Peace in Floyd county. He married Esther Stratton, daughter of Solomon Stratton, H.P.S.)

"Annals of Southwest Virginia, listed early land entries including 100 acres at the fork of the New and Greenbrier rivers by James McGuire, 310 acres on Indian Creek by Cornelius McGuire and 53 acres on Indian Creek by William McGuire—all March 24, 1774, in Botetown Indian Creek by William McGuire entered 129 acres and John McGuire 108 acres, both on Blue-stone River, dated February 10, 1763, in Montgomery county.

"In 1779 James McGuire proved service in the French and Indian War in the Botetourt county court, the service in 1769. Thus James was probably born no later than 1742.

"William McGuire was a Revolutionary War pensioner. His papers say he served a year on the Ohio in a Greenbrier company, was discharged and later drafted for the frontier army of Col. Preston and appointed Second Lieutenant in Capt. James Moore's Montgomery county militia company, an all Tazewell area company. When he applied for a pension in 1832 William said he was about 75 years old or a little more, that he didn't know his exact age and had no written records. If of legal age when he filed on the Greenbrier land in 1774 he would have been between 75 and 80 in 1832. Both the pension papers and the Tazewell records indicate William lived in Floyd county, Kentucky, for a time. He died in Tazewell county March 5, 1837, leaving a will there.

"The heirs named in the will and the pension papers indicate it was the same William McGuire, Sons, John, Joshua, William, possibly Squire; daughters Nancy, Priscilla Chrum (sic), Hannah Johnson, Polly Wingo, Ellen Huchibby, possibly Rachel Lewis—10 names, but nine surviving children mentioned. The record specifically says he left no widow. Born in 1750's.

"John McGuire and John Compton, Jr., both were in Capt. Moore's militia company, the original muster roll of which may be seen at the Montgomery county, Virginia, courthouse. I know nothing else about John McGuire, although it would seem safe to guess he was younger than the other boys inasmuch as he did not file on any land until after the Revolution.

"Bickley's history of Tazewell county, appended to the Summers work mentioned above, stated Neeley McGuire was engaged in frontier war service in the Tazewell area and was on the Illinois Expedition with George Rogers Clark. The marriage of Neeley McGuire and Esther Stratton is a matter of record in Montgomery county, Virginia, December 29, 1787, which proved the Neeley was a nickname for Cornelius, in light of knowledge concerning Cornelius McGuire. If, as COMPTONOLGY declared, Cornelius was the father of Eleanor Compton, he had to have been born by about 1740. The reasoning is that Nancy Compton, the eldest child of John, Jr., and wife Eleanor was married in 1802. Thus Eleanor could scarcely have been born later than 1765, probably between 1760 and 1765.

"Tradition with some verification in the records says John Compton, Jr., was born about 1760. Thus Cornelius McGuire would have been in his late 30's during the Revolution, in his late 40's when he took Esther his 2nd wife and about 70 when he died about 1810. This ties in with what you have written (I have seen only what was extracted concerning Cornelius) when you referred to his 'long life' and his 'worn' condition when he asked the bishop for a successor in his field. In other words this does not suggest Cornelius McGuire was a young man when he married Esther and only about 45 when he wore out, but actually does sound like the man who could have been Eleanor McGuire's father.

"Eleanor McGuire Compton was still alive in Tazewell county, Virginia, in 1834 when she was a character witness for Col. Joseph Davidson, stating she had known the colonel for 64 years, 'since he came to the Bluestone in 1770,' so the McGuires must have been there as early. There is also indication here Eleanor wasn't born later than 1765 or she couldn't have remembered 1770. There was another Cornelius McGuire in Tazewell county who married there in 1825. Another William McGuire was a preacher who reported marriages he had performed in the 1840's in Tazewell county.

"Mrs. Mabel Rice, Paintsville, Kentucky, wrote it was your opinion Floyd county but went back to Tazewell, was the father of Cornelius. The above records show it was more likely Cornelius was the older of the two, that William probably was the younger brother of Cornelius, if not the son of Cornelius. Annals of Southwest Virginia, Harman, included an article about the McGuire family by the Rev. M. T. Burris, which practically copied the Redford history regarding the powerful conversion of Henry (Harry?) Stratton by Rev. McGuire, but added that Cornelius had a son William who married Polly Stratton, and after her death he married Amy McGuire, his second cousin of Tazewell county, Virginia. After William died the widow Amy lived with T. D. Burt, of north Arkansas, post-office Golden, Missouri. Her three children died in Kentucky. 'William McGuire raised several sons and daughters, those now alive in Kentucky, some on the old farm.'

"It also mentioned that several members of the McGuire and Stratton families moved directly from Virginia to Edgar county, Illinois, 'in an early day.' The Harman book was copyrighted in 1922. This makes it look like William, the son of Cornelius, couldn't have been the William of Tazewell. Of course the needle in the haystack. I am looking for is some real evidence that Cornelius McGuire was the father of Eleanor McGuire Compton, at least that he really was old enough to have been."

BEAR MARKET SALE

In this sale we go 'way, 'way back to Pioneer Days. And in this sale there hangs a tale—a bear's tale, if you will pardon the pun.

More than a hundred years ago, David Cooley, father-in-law of Isaac Richmond, operated a General Store in Prestonsburg.

In those early days of this, the oldest of Floyd county businesses, Mr. Cooley owned a bear which he kept chained to a tree on the property where the store was located on Front Avenue here, a few doors away from the site of the present store. It was his custom in those days to invite home with him for lunch all customers who happened to be in the store at the noon hour. The invitation was usually accepted, and store and bear were left unattended.

On one such occasion Mr. Cooley and his friends returned to the store to find the bear had broken his chain. Since he kept sugar in a barrel, the whereabouts of the bear was no mystery. They found the barrel overturned and the bear helping himself to its contents.

As a result of this incident, Mr. Cooley staged Prestonsburg's first sale—a sale of the sugar from the barrel, at bargain prices.

And now, a century later, we go 'way back to the bear and this bit of history to tilt over for our customers and friends barrels and barrels of bargains in our Semi-Annual Sale, July, 1963.

SPRING FOREST FIRES HIT STATE IN RECORD NUMBER

Frankfort, Ky., July 27 (Sp.) — Kentucky experienced its severest spring forest fire season on record this year, State Conservation Commissioner J. O. Matlick has reported.

A total of 3,351 reported fires damaged 239,850 acres of timber land during the period from March 1 to May 15, he said, topping the worst previous record set in the spring of 1959, when there were 2,675 fires and 99,829 acres were damaged.

The increased number this year was attributed primarily to high winds and below-average rainfall.

Gene L. Butcher, director of the Forestry Division, pointed out, however, that while the Conservation Department has no control over the weather conditions that spread and nurture the fires it can and will put more emphasis on enforcing the fire control laws.

"All of these fires were man-caused," Butcher said. "Some were set on purpose and some were accidentally started, but every one of them was caused by a person."

"It is our intention to step up the law-enforcement activities of the Forestry Division to cut down on the man-caused fires before the fall forest fire season begins," he said. Butcher anticipates that the fall season, which begins around October 1, will also be more severe than usual if the drought conditions which were present this spring persist through the summer and fall.

Commissioner Matlick said he has instructed Butcher to "take whatever steps are necessary to intensify the law enforcement activities of his division."

"We feel that this is one area that demands special attention in order to reduce the number of fires caused by man's negligence," Matlick said. "Our primary need at the moment is to assign the law enforcement activities to more individuals who can spend all their time on this job."

The Forestry Division has had only three men assigned full-time to enforcement of the fire-control laws since the program began in 1960. They receive assistance from the forestry field men, who help with fire-investigation along with their regular duties.

Matlick said one of the most common fire violations is the burning of debris without taking proper precautions. A Kentucky Statute prohibits any kind of brush-burning during the spring and fall fire seasons except between 4:30 p.m. and midnight, when danger of the fire spreading is not so great.

"It is my opinion," Matlick said, "that increased enforcement of Kentucky's forest fire control laws will do much to reduce the number of fires and consequently reduce the damage to Kentucky's timber lands."

Jest Among Us . . .

There is a good chance that printer's ink in the veins of an 11-year-old will inoculate him against other occupations for life.

After 47 years in the printing business, Don Grote, manager of the University of Kentucky Press printing plant, believes there may be some truth in the statement.

It has been exactly that many years since Grote's father bought a shop and weekly newspaper at Vanceburg, Kentucky, and put his offspring to work.

Since that time Grote's career in the printing business has ranged from editor and publisher of a weekly newspaper at Louisa, Kentucky, to supervising the printing of such scholarly books as "Di'bil b. 'All. The Life and Writings of an Early 'Abbasid Poet" at the University of Kentucky.

Grote's leaning toward the mechanical side of the printing business wasn't influenced by lack of scholarship. He attended Berea College and was graduated from U. K. in 1929, receiving the Sigma Delta Chi award for scholarship in journalism. His mechanical inclinations were probably cultivated, Grote reminisces, by his being called from school two or three times a week to fix the gasoline engine which powered his father's printing plant.

What is the difference between dealing with scholars who write books and the folks who subscribe to weekly newspapers? "I wouldn't want to comment on that," Grote says in his soft-spoken, barely audible drawl. "I'm the non-argumentative type and can get along with most anyone."

After most people have been in one business as long as Grote they begin to think about retiring. "Not me," says Grote. "So many new processes are being introduced in printing that after 47 years it is beginning to get interesting."

RIGHT TO REMOVE CHILDREN TO AFRICA UPHeld BY COURT IN GARRETT WOMAN'S CASE

Reka Conley Byers, formerly of Garrett, had a legal right to take her daughters to South Africa to reside and to collect from her former husband, Robert Byers, support of their two children.

So ruled the Kentucky Court of Appeals last Friday in affirming the judgment of the Fayette circuit court. The Byers couple resided in Florida at the time the litigation began. She moved to Lexington after their divorce, and he returned to seek an injunction to restrain her from taking with her the children to Africa where she was to remarry.

Byers procured a temporary injunction but failed to post bond, and Mrs. Byers made the trip with the children on the advice of her attorney, Scott C. Collins, of Prestonsburg.

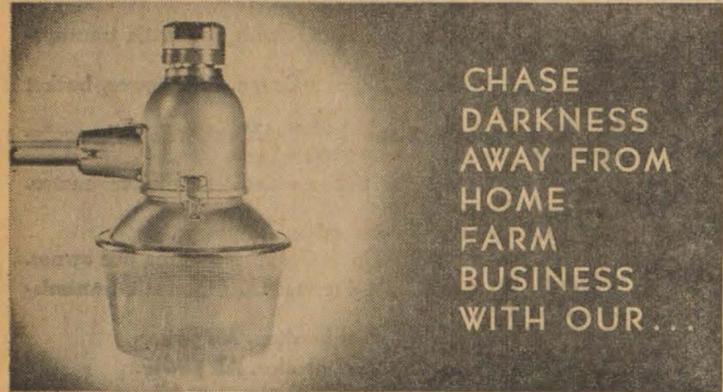

The Rev. W. H. Carl, of Middletown, Kentucky, will be the guest minister at services of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, the next two Sundays, in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. W. D. Jagers, Mr. and Mrs. Jagers and children are spending their vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Jagers, of Elizabethtown, and Judge and Mrs. W. H. Crowder, of Mayfield.

FLOYD COUNTY ROBERT M. JONES JACK FRIAR
EXTENSION STAFF FRANCES HOWLAND

After being in Michigan for nine months, it certainly is good to return to Floyd county. While it was a wonderful experience seeing new things and making new friends, it is pleasant to return home.

Driving back to Prestonsburg and through the county I was pleasantly surprised at the many activities and projects that are going on, the new road and bridge on Middle Creek, the Middle Creek school, housing project, sewage treatment plant, new courthouse construction, May Lodge and other improvements at the park, to name a few. This is not all, the many new homes and new businesses that have been added throughout the county are impressive. The people of Floyd county and all of Eastern Kentucky have something to be proud of, and should be an encouragement for everyone to support all types of community improvement efforts.

Probably the greatest improvement noticed in the county, is in the attitude of the people. There seems to be more feeling that something can be done to improve the county. This is a good sign. Before improvement can be made, people must believe it can happen.

I sincerely believe that in the next few years Floyd county can make a vast improvement, providing all its people really want it.

- 3 - (Continued from Page One) shot, and that was immediately after the shot was fired, witnesses agreed. Samuel Gordon Meade told substantially the same story, saying he did not see the actual shooting but did see Jones with a gun in his hand and saw a flash. Clay, according to James Arthur Tackett, accused Jones of lying about the traffic violation case, adding, "I told you I would whip you for that, and I will." The two later left, went down the road near the cornfield, then returned, and Jones drank his beer after asking the others to have a drink. He said Clay replied, "No," to Jones' invitation to drink. Jones then left the store, he said, saying, "I'll see you," returned in five to ten minutes. He also said Clay asked, "Why won't you fight with your fists?" Then, he said, he heard a shot and saw Jones with gun in hand. Tackett said David Jones, father of Clifford, came in, took his son by the arm and said, "Let's go—this is nothing but a beer joint, anyway." James Reynolds said Clay pushed Jones out the store door and that Jones ran down the road, Clay in pursuit and finally jumping on Jones' back. The two went into the cornfield, he said, then returned to the store where Jones drank his beer. Jones later left, was gone about 10 minutes, then returned with a gun in his hand. Reynolds also said Clay asked Jones why he would not fight with his fists. The single shot followed. Reynolds said the bullet emerged from Clay's back, struck the wall and bounced off onto the floor. Jones is widely known in the county as travelling companion of County Patrolman Willie Johnson, acting as driver of the officer's automobile. The victim was dead on arrival at the McDowell Memorial hospital. Witnesses said they believed he was dead within a few minutes after the shooting. He was a son of William and May Mullins Clay, of Ligon. Besides his parents, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Shirley Ann Hall Clay, and two children, Terry and Nancy Ann. He also leaves a brother, Ronald Clay, of Chicago, and three sisters, Mrs. Balneche Elkins, of Detroit, Mrs. Kathleen Hall and Miss Nesba Clay, both of Ligon. His funeral was conducted Monday from the residence, the Rev. Jerry Hall officiating. Burial in the family cemetery at Melvin was directed by the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

CO-OP CREDIT DISTRIBUTED Manager Hinkle Notes; Annual RECC Meeting Slated At Paintsville The Big Sandy R.E.C.C. office at Paintsville completed last week the mailing of $28,621.31 in capital credits to members of the cooperative, it was said this week by Orin Hinkle, manager. This brings the total returned to the members in four years to $115,997.54. Distributed in 1960 was a total of $16,030.43 earned in 1955; $42,762.93 was returned in 1961 as 1956 earnings; $20,597.90 was distributed to the members in 1962 as earnings for the year 1957. "Each year it is the responsibility of your board of directors to review the present and future financial condition and needs of your cooperative and it is the board's desire to make these refunds whenever the financial condition of the cooperative permits," Hinkle wrote the members. "In this way the board is carrying out the principles and objectives upon which the cooperative was organized—that is, the objective of the members supplying themselves with electric service at cost," he added. The cooperative will hold its annual meeting July 12 at Paintsville, Hinkle announces. Featuring the meeting will be a contest to select Miss Rural Electrification and beauties from the area are now being entered. A program of entertainment is being provided. Hours of the meeting are from 12 o'clock noon to 4:30 p.m.

The city's cash contribution will be $47,236 on this project, with non-cash grants and sale of property covering the remainder. Total cost of the Business Area project is estimated at $64,292, with an estimated $14,650 cost of land reducing the figure to a net $49,642. A federal capital grant of $37,232, plus a cash contribution from the city of $10,683 and $1,727 in non-cash grants will cover the net cost. An estimated $40,000, however, will be added to the local cost for surfacing, purchase and installation of meters and other improvements. The two areas will provide parking space for 169 motor vehicles and will make possible the removal of all parking from Lake Drive (U. S. 23) which is planned for major improvement in addition to the work now under way from Patton street to Friend street. The meters in these two areas, plus those in operation on streets other than Lake Drive, will comprise a total of about 300. The national average earnings per parking meter is $75 a year, and on this basis the 300 meters would yield a return of $22,500 annually. Funds which the city will be required to raise for the two urban renewal projects through the sale of parking meter bonds can be retired over a 20-year period, it is calculated, for $15,840 a year, if the interest rate is held to 5%.

(Continued from Page One) cum laude and I thought the man reading off his list of honors would have to take a second breath. Then I got the biggest thrill when a Floyd county girl was hailed, cum laude. She had managed to get through her finals, barely in time to give birth to her first baby. She was out there on the field, a week later. The big, strong guy smashes the line. And we yell. The big, strong guy takes a pass and scampers on a long run for a touchdown. And we go mildly crazy. A little girl faces what would make the strongest man run crying to mother, passes final tests, achieves in the matter of mind and spirit what few men ever achieve, and comes out on a sultry evening to take her place with the others, regardless of physical weariness or discomfort, and carries it all off with an aplomb that would make the onlooker think she's rested a week just for all this—and we barely manage to clap hands. Not a yell. Nobody falls out of his seat in the twentieth row up. And I think we all are mildly crazy.

STILL NAMED TO MSC JOB

Famous Hindman Author Instructs In Writing As Associate Professor

Morehead, Ky., June 21 (Spl.)—James Still, nationally known poet, novelist, and short story writer, has been named to the Morehead State College English faculty as a permanent writer in residence.

Still, who will teach imaginative writing, the short story, Southern literature and literature, will serve as an associate professor in the Division of Languages and Literature.

No stranger to the campus, Still spent the spring semester of 1961 as a writer in residence at Morehead. He has also served as a member of the Morehead State College Writer's Workshop staff for the past 10 summers, helping to make the annual two-week workshop one of the finest in the United States.

Still has served as librarian at the Hindman Settlement School since 1932 with a four-year absence while serving in the Air Force. He lived in a 150-year-old two-room log house near Hindman, where he did most of his writing—much of which has never been submitted for publication, even though there is always a waiting market for anything he writes.

"I have no particular urge to publish," he said. "My urge is to write. There was a time when it seemed important to me to be constantly publishing, but not any more."

Still was honored at Morehead in 1961 when the college dedicated the James Still Room in Johnson Camden Library. The author-poet turned over his manuscripts, correspondence and mementos to the college and they are now on exhibit in the library.

Dr. Adron Doran, president of Morehead State College, calls Still "one of the nation's outstanding writers." He said, "We are exceedingly pleased that a man of Jim's stature has joined our faculty. He adds great strength to the Division of Languages and Literature."

Still has written three widely-acclaimed books and numerous short stories and poems which have been published in America's leading magazines.

His novel, "River of Earth," received the Southern Author's Award as the best novel of the year in 1941 and his books, "Hound on the Mountain," a collection of poems, and "On Troublesome Creek," a collection of short stories, are regarded as modern classics.

Still has been a regular contributor to The Atlantic since 1936 and his short stories have appeared in numerous anthologies. "Mrs. Razor," a short story made into a television play, is one of three Still works to be selected to appear in Best American Short Stories.

Born in Alabama, the popular author earned the AB degree from Vanderbilt University and the BS degree in library science from the University of Illinois.

Travel Editors Affirm Kentucky Parks Finest; Tour Lasts Nine Days

Frankfort, June 24 (Spl.)— "Magnificent" . . . "Undoubtedly the best in the nation." These comments about Kentucky's state parks system were typical among editors who were guests on the recent 1963 Kentucky Travel Editors Tour. The 25 editors represent newspapers, magazines and feature syndicates with a combined total of more than 15 million circulation.

They got a close-up look at Kentucky's attractions during the nine-day tour, including results of the $10.9 million parks expansion program launched in 1961. The tour covered more than 1,100 miles—from Kentucky Lake in the west to Cumberland Gap in the east.

Editors visited 12 of Kentucky's 33 state parks and two national parks on the trip. They stayed overnight in new state park lodges at Kentucky Dam Village, Lake Cumberland and Pine Mountain.

Co-sponsored by the state departments of Public Information and Parks and other travel interests, the tour is part of an intensified program to advertise and promote Kentucky's state and national parks, as well as privately-owned tourist accommodations.

Among other state parks the group visited were Kentucky Lake, Pennyville Forest, Jefferson Davis Monument, Cumberland Falls, Levi Jackson, Constitution Square, Pioneer Memorial, Lincoln Homestead and My Old Kentucky Home.

The editors also visited Louisville, the Governor's residence in Frankfort, Lexington and the historic homes and horse farms of the Bluegrass, Wolf Creek Dam, Harrodsburg and Bardstons.

National magazines represented included National Geographic and Bride's Magazine. Newspaper Enterprise Association of Cleveland, one of the nation's largest feature syndicates, also had a representative on the tour.

Michael Frome, of Alexandria, Va., free-lance writer and a leading travel authority, was a member of the group. Latest of his four books, "Whose Woods These Are," was published in 1962. Another tour member was J. Harold Brislin, Scranton, Pa., 1962 winner of the Pulitzer Prize for reporting.

Lexington, Ky.—Numerous kinds of yard and garden insects can be controlled now, says R. L. Miller, U. K. Ag Extension Service entomologist.

Eastern Graduate Cast In Joan Crawford Film

An Eastern Kentucky State College graduate has been cast with Joan Crawford in a Hollywood movie suspense drama.

Harvey Yeary, Middlesboro, is slated to play Miss Crawford's young husband in William Castle's production of "The Strait Jacket," it was learned recently.

This will be Yeary's first role in a Hollywood production. Robert Bloch, author of "Psycho," wrote the script which portrays Yeary as the husband, seven years younger than Miss Crawford, who seduces a young farm girl and is caught by his wife. She immediately cuts off their heads with an axe.

The handsome blond-haired athlete was first introduced to Hollywood by Rock Hudson, whom he met four years ago when he was attending Indiana University. Hudson was making a publicity appearance at the University and he invited Yeary to Hollywood. However, Yeary wanted to complete college.

Last summer he studied with Eben Henson, producer of the Danville Pioneer Playhouse, and in January he moved to California to study drama with Estelle Harman, well-known teacher of such stars as Hudson, Charlton Heston, Hugh O'Brien, Tony Curtis, Anita Eckberg, and Ann-Margret.

A football star at Eastern, Yeary majored in physical education and history and was graduated last January.

Mrs. Spencer To Teach French At Berea College

Mrs. Carolyn Price Spencer, of Elyria, Ohio, has been selected as an instructor of French at Berea College for the period of ten weeks this summer. She is teaching advanced intermediate classes in the Peace Corps Project for Senegal, Africa.

A graduate of Wayland high school, Mrs. Spencer received an A.B. degree in French at Berea College. While attending the college, she maintained a regular position on the Dean's List and served frequently as a class and organization officer. During her senior year she was elected president of the Berea College Woman's Club and was awarded a scholarship as the outstanding senior woman of 1959. Upon graduation, she received the Seaburg Scholarship and did graduate work in phonetics and literature at the University of Paris. While in France, she traveled extensively throughout the country and visited with several French families.

During the past four years, Mrs. Spencer has taught French at both the elementary and secondary levels in Ohio, and has also been employed as a technical interpreter. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer and young son Andre are residing in the Kettering faculty building while in Berea. They will be visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence B. Price, Wayland, and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Spencer, Eastern, during the summer.

Eastern Head Releases Honor List of Students; Miss Hayes' Record Top

Dr. Robert R. Martin, president of Eastern Kentucky State College, has announced that 344 students have been named to the Dean's List of honor students for the spring semester at the college.

Included on the select list were 40 who compiled perfect scholastic records. One of the 40 with perfect records is Adrianna Hayes Francis, of Garrett.

According to Dr. Charles Ambrose, dean of admissions and registrar, "This is the highest number ever to be named to the Dean's List."

In order to earn recognition on the honor roll, students must earn 40 or more quality points during the semester. Eastern uses the 1-2-3 point system, an "A" giving the student three quality points for each semester hour of credit; a "B" two quality points, and a "C" one quality point. No points are awarded for a grade below "C."

Mrs. Sue Ellen Robinson Carroll, Richmond, earned the highest number of quality points by compiling a perfect 3.00 standing with 21 hours and 63 quality points.

Two students earned 60 quality points, while one earned 57½, two 57, and five 54 points each while making the elite three-point standing group. Wanda H. Brown, Cox's Creek, and Linda Lee Ward, of River, Johnson county, both earned 60 quality points for 29 hours work.

Other Floyd county students on Eastern's Dean's List are Whitt Chaffins, of Garrett; Patricia Anne McCormick, of Allen, and Beecher Scott Scutcheff, of Martin.

Neva June Montmogy, Scottsburg, Indiana, earned 57½ quality points for 19½ hours. Leslie Ann Shaw, Barbourville, formerly of Prestonsburg, and Brenda Gail Kindred, Richmond, both earned 57 quality points for 19 hours.

Lexington, Ky.—Blue mold, a fungus disease of tobacco plant beds, was reported in a number of Kentucky locations this year.

Pale-colored leaves on your pin oak is a very good indication that the roots of your tree are attempting to grow in a high lime soil. The darker green veins with the washed out color between are very characteristic of lime-induced iron chlorides.

Power Outages Slated By Utility Company, Kincaid Announces

H. H. Kincaid, Pikeville, district manager of the Kentucky Power Company, has announced that during the period, July 1-9, there will be several scheduled outages resulting in electric power being off for a period of one or two hours for the purpose of checking and testing equipment in the substations.

Most of these interruptions will be during the period of 4 a.m. through 6 a.m.; however, some will be during the day, but these will be kept at a minimum. These tests are usually conducted annually at this time of year and are to provide the necessary maintenance of equipment so that service interruptions will be at a minimum.

The weather will have a part in this scheduled work and can extend the plan period.

Daily Bible Reading To Be Continued, Said; Directive Anticipated

Frankfort, Ky., July 1 (Sp.)—Kentucky's public schools may "continue present practices" in daily Bible reading to pupils until notified otherwise, the State Board of Education has decided.

A new directive will be issued the board said, when the State Department of Education and the Attorney General's office can clarify that such practices are unconstitutional as part of mandatory classroom exercises.

Kentucky law presently requires daily Bible reading for all pupils except those whose parents object.

Wendell P. Butler, State superintendent of public instruction and chairman of the State Board, said "Continue to read and pray till somebody stops you. I don't want to make anybody stop."

The board also heard a progress report on integration in Kentucky schools. Only five school districts have no immediate plans for integration now. These are the Fulton, Graves, Muhlenberg, Hickman and Todd county districts.

RUNYON ACQUITTED AS COURT RESTRAINS PIKE GRAND JURY

An investigation of the Pike county school system and of alleged election irregularities will not be made, at least in the immediate future. The Kentucky Court of Appeals, Tuesday of last week, restrained the grand jury called by Judge F. P. Keese from holding sessions.

The writ of the high court was served on Judge Keese Wednesday of last week and in accordance with the order he dismissed the veniremen. Woodrow Runyon, former school bus director for the Pike county school system, was acquitted recently by a jury in Pike Circuit Court. Both Commonwealth's Attorney Kelsey Friend and County Attorney John Paul Runyon had refused to prosecute the defendant on the charges of embezzlement of $18,000 from the system over a period of 10 years. He was indicted in January. Friend said the indictment was defective and Runyon asserted it was not in his province to prosecute. Keese read the indictment to the jury, no evidence was introduced, and the jury returned a verdict of acquittal within five minutes.

Judge Keese had summoned the special grand jury to investigate "election irregularities, if any" in the May primary and to continue investigation of the Pike county school system as recommended by the March grand jury. The March grand jury was highly critical of the county school system.

Judge Keese, in his courtroom remarks concerning the writ, said he had been informed that the Commonwealth's Attorney (Friend), the County Attorney (J. P. Runyon), and "Mr. Burke and Mr. Venters" went to Frankfort, Monday and obtained the writ to prevent his, Judge Keese's, "holding a special grand jury at this time."

He later identified Burke and Venters as Francis Dale Burke and E. N. Venters, Pikeville attorneys. He said they were within their legal rights and that the Court of Appeals was within its legal rights to issue the writ.

He said he regretted the situation that had caused him to call a special session of the grand jury but that he had considered its calling advisable.

"They can stop me temporarily but not permanently," said Judge Keese. "I will continue with this matter. I know there were things that went on that were wrong that the public should know about."

Judge Keese, in dismissing those who had reported for grand jury duty, noted that they could not be legally paid by the state for reporting for jury duty or connected expenses.

He said that if necessary he would take up a private collection to reimburse them for their expenses.

The petition for the writ was presented to the Court of Appeals by Attorney General John Breckinridge and Commonwealth's Attorney Friend.

The petition noted that Pike county has two circuit judges, James B. Stephenson and Keese, and that the regular June grand jury, impaneled and instructed by Judge Stephenson, remained in session four days and then gave Stephenson its report.

Main arguments in the petition for the writ were:

- 1. No order discharging the reg-

Eastern Is Conducting Summer Science Classes For Junior Hi Teachers

Eastern Kentucky State College, in conjunction with the National Science Foundation is presently conducting a Summer Science Institute in biology, chemistry, geology, and physics for science teachers from junior and senior high school.

The Institute, supported by a grant of $45,800 from the N.S.F., is the first program of its type to be held at Eastern. According to Institute Director, Dr. Darnell Saylor, of the Chemistry Department, 40 science teachers are seeking to increase and broaden their subject matter proficiency.
