

Spurlock's Idle Mines To Re-Open

New Operators See
Work in 2 Weeks;
Fifty To Be Hired

Reopening of mining operations on Spurlock Creek at Printer is scheduled within the next two weeks, it was announced Tuesday.

The mines, hitherto operated there by the Island Creek, with the exception of the tippie, have been leased to Clarence Mollette, formerly of Drift, now of Cincinnati, and Gary E. Cartt, of Pike county, who will operate the mines under the firm name of Trico Mining Corporation.

Mollette and Cartt have been operating one small portion of the Spurlock property, Mine No. 13, for the last three weeks. They expect to begin calling men back to work this week and to resume full-scale mining within two weeks. The operation will employ around 50 men at first.

Mollette and Cartt are owners of the Velocity Coal Corp. which has mines on Arnold Fork, Knott county, and at Orkney in this county.

Same Premises Raided 2 Days; Arrests Listed

The premises of Gardner McClanahan on Corn Fork, near Lancer, were raided on two consecutive days last week and for the third time in two weeks.

Sheriff Frank Leslie, ABC Agent Arvel Nelson and Deputy Sheriff Claude Planey staged the first of last week's raids there last Friday, confiscating eight cases of beer and 10 half-pints of whiskey. They arrested Anthony McClanahan.

When Anthony McClanahan failed to appear here the next morning as he had promised, Sheriff Leslie said he and the other officers returned to the place and found Herman Roberts on the premises, drinking a can of beer as they arrived. Another search uncovered six cases of beer and six half-pints of whiskey. The officers arrested Roberts, confiscated the intoxicants and a refrigerator-freezer.

A raid May 9 on Buck's Branch by Nelson and State Trooper Cantrell resulted in the arrest of Raleigh Barnett, Jr., and the confiscation of 48 cans of beer and seven half-pints of whiskey. The same officers, the same day, confiscated 48 cans of beer on the premises of Randall Stone, of Garth Hollow. He also was booked for possession of alcoholic beverages.

Johnnie Thacker was arrested on Toler Creek Friday by State Troopers Bevins and Cantrell and County Detective Sam Hale after their search uncovered 48 cans of beer.

EDA Issues Check for $559,662, Completes Water Dist. Financing

Bond financing for the 82-mile-long Beaver Elkhorn Water District project, biggest of its kind undertaken in Kentucky, was closed recently at Atlanta, Ga., when Pat Choate (left), Economic Development Administration director for the southern region, presented J. C. Wells, of Wayland (center), chairman of the water district, EDA's check in the amount of $559,662.37. Jerry C. Foster, EDA attorney, is at right.

A bond issue of $185,000 was sold. This amount, the EDA check and a federal grant of $2,232,000 cover the total cost of the undertaking which approximates $3 million.

Beginning at Allen, where the water plant and administration building are located, the water system extends up both Right and Left Beaver Creeks. Mr. Wells said Monday that the work is more than two-thirds complete and that water service to con-

Board Approves Report on Facilities

The Floyd County Board of Education at its special meeting last Saturday voted unanimously to approve the facility report submitted earlier by the State Department of Education.

Supt. Charles Clark said the board's approval was made with the realization that no one can accurately foretell future population changes and transportation needs in the county.

The approval was voted with the provision that the board could request amendment of the report in the event of future changes.

Floyd Countian Wins Agreement In Class Action

An agreed order has been signed by Judge Henry Meigs, of the Franklin circuit court, which will increase the eligibility for medical assistance of a large number of persons principally in the class of the "working poor."

A class action suit, filed by attorneys of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund on behalf of a Floyd county resident, Ralph Searl, and other persons similarly situated, attacked the requirement of the Kentucky Department of Economic Security which prohibited medical assistance to persons who worked less than 30 hours per week or "three-fourths the (See Story 5, Back Page, Sec. 1)

This Town . . . That World

OUR NATIONAL DISGRACE

There was a time when the people of the United States got a laugh out of the fact that most elections in countries south of the border were regularly accompanied by revolution. We laugh no more. Now, our national elections are accompanied by outright murder or attempted murder, not to mention wild demonstrations and threats.

The list grows longer, and our shame the deeper. President Kennedy, Robert Kennedy, Martin Luther King, victims of assassins' bullets; Presidents Roosevelt and Truman, targets of would-be assassins — and now Governor Wallace.

Unless the mad spirit of violence subsides and leaders can seek office without the danger of death at the hands of somebody who disagrees with them, the day will come when there will be no election. A dictator will take charge, and you and I will have nothing to say about who he is.

IT DIDN'T HAPPEN HERE

They say that we of Eastern Kentucky should be accustomed to violence, that we live in a violent land. I have spent almost all my several years in Eastern Kentucky and have been on the perimeter of violence, you might say, all these years while in the newspaper business. But until television came along I had never witnessed a slaying, and not till Monday did I watch a slow-motion "replay" of a killer pumping bullets into a human body at point-blank range. And that, my friends, happened in Maryland — not in Eastern Kentucky.

CLAIMED THE RIGHT TO CHOOSE

We speak of human dignity. There is a terrible loss of dignity in the spectacle of a body flinching from the impact of bullets and toppling, sprawling, to the ground.

I am reminded that once I heard a man whose reputation for sobriety and peace was not of the best protest a chicken fight. Asked what he saw so wrong about two roosters battling it out (his questioner did not mention the numerous frays in which the man himself had engaged), the old battler said, "I believe every chicken or any man oughta be given the right to pick his enemy. Nobody has a right to toss me out there into a ring and tell me to fight a stranger, just to entertain somebody else." Maybe that was his way of claiming the right of dignity for the individual.

Hall Succumbs To Shot Wound

Joe Hall, 34-year-old Floyd county native who was wounded last March 17 on London Road, Delaware, O., died last Wednesday at a Columbus, O. hospital, and his brother-in-law, Amos Johnson, faces a first degree manslaughter charge. Johnson was in Delaware county jail last week.

The Delaware chief of police said the shooting took place at the Johnson home where the Johnson and Hall families had gathered. A 410-gauge shotgun blast struck Hall in his abdomen and hip.

A native of the Jacks Creek section of this county, Hall was a son of the late Doc and Carol Mullins Hall. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Louisa Johnson Hall, and two children, Larry Joe and Mary Ann Hall, both of Delaware.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Saturday from the home of Sam Hall at Jacks Creek by ministers of the Regular Baptist Church, and burial was made in the family cemetery there, the Merion Funeral Chapel directing.

Population Down For All Species During Year 1971

Almost everything dropped at Dewey Lake last year. Fish population, number of fishermen, number of hours spent fishing, fish caught — everything but the water, and it had its fluctuations, but they were planned.

This, in brief, is the story recorded by the Population Study and Creel Survey conducted at the impoundment by the Kentucky Division of Game & Fish.

The peak population of 1970 dropped from 26,638 fish per acre to only 5,102 last year. The weight per fish, however, increased from .044 pound to .068 pound. This included fish of all kinds.

The game fish population peaked at Dewey in 1970 with 820 fish per acre, but last year the gamesters were down to 178 an acre. Panfish shared in the slump (down from 5,926 an acre in 1970 to 1,087 per acre in 1971) and even the forage fish, which includes the ubiquitous shad, dropped from 19,020 an acre in 1970 to 3,000 per acre last year.

And the total catch of fish at Dewey was the lowest last year since 1966, the season before fertilization was begun. Last year, 88,735 fish of all kinds were harvested. They weighed 9,868 pounds. In 1970 137,930 fish were harvested.

Bass fishing was 'way off last year when only 872 of the species were caught. The peak year for bass at Dewey was 1969, the second year of fertilization, when 4,310 bass were reported caught. In 1970 the number dropped to 2,083.

Furniture Firm Fire Loss Here Set at $200,000

Destruction by fire of undetermined origin of the two-story West Prestonsburg building which served the Ray Howard Furniture Company as a warehouse resulted Friday night in an overall loss ranging between $190,000 and $200,000, it was estimated.

The brick structure was considered a complete loss, and only a small portion of the new furniture stored there was saved. O. R. (Pete) Howard, head of the furniture firm, said. He added that insurance fell short of covering the damage by $50-$55,000.

The blaze was discovered around 11 p.m. Mr. Howard scouted the theory that defective wiring could have caused the fire, explaining that the entire electrical system was almost new.

The building originally was the residence of the late T. M. Hereford and family. It was converted into a hospital by the late Dr. D. H. Daniel. He and its subsequent owners, Dr. George P. Archer and the late Dr. John F. Archer, enlarged the structure for hospital purposes.

The structure was acquired by the furniture company in 1957 after the Prestonsburg General Hospital had moved to its present First Avenue location. For a time it served as the Colonial House, a primary furniture outlet for Howard's, but with the construction of a new store on Third street it was converted to a warehouse.

Holdover Commissioners Name Precinct Election Officials

A change in the Floyd County Election Commission was planned before it got down to the work last week of naming precinct officers for next Tuesday's primary, but those appointed declined to serve, and so the commissioners in office will continue to serve until successors are named.

Charles Newman, Democrat, and Lloyd Meade, Republican, both of Left Beaver Creek, were named by the State Election Commission to succeed Tom G. Dingus, Democrat, and L. B. Moore, Republican, both of Prestonsburg, but the new appointees refused to serve. Dingus, Moore and Sheriff Frank Leslie, ex-officio member, then named the precinct officers after having been advised by the attorney general's office that they are to serve until successors are named.

The primary is not expected to draw a heavy vote in this county, since the campaigns for U. S. Senator, House of Representatives and judge of the Court of Appeals have failed to create any real interest.

Walter "Dee" Huddleston and Carl D. Perkins, Democratic candidates for U. S. Senator and Congressman from the Seventh district, are regarded as winners. On the Republican side of the house, Ex-Governor Louie B. Nunn is given the nod over Robert E. Gable for the Senate nomination.

Only the race for judge of the Court of Appeals is unsettled enough to cause observers to back away from making a prediction. The candidates — James B. Stephenson, William P. Bach, Edward G. Hill and Don A. Ward — are on both the Democratic and Republican ballots.

In the race for the Democratic nomination for Senator Huddleston, who has the backing of the state administration, is opposed by Sandy Hockensmith, Willis V. "Tobacco Bill" Johnson, Charles Van Winkle and James E. Wallace. Republican candidates for Senator, in addition to the leaders, Nunn and Gable, are Thurman Jerome Hamlin, George Wooton and W. Howard Clay.

Congressman Perkins is opposed for the House post nomination by Bessie Smith. Robert Holcomb and Granville Thomas are candidates for the Republican nomination.

Names of precinct officers follow, the two judges, clerk and sheriff appearing in order in each instance:

Prestonsburg No. 1 — W. R. Callihan, Ben Ferguson, Richard Spurlock, Lucian Lafferty.

Prestonsburg No. 2 — John Dale, Jr., Charles McCoy, Paul Carter Tackett, Clyde George.

Depot — Garnet Mayo, Jean Gable, Janet Whitten, Henry Harris, Jr.

Richmond — Henry Stumbo, Earl Blackburn, Tom Lafferty, Ted Miller.

Cliff — Stephen Best, Douglas Brown, Ira S. Cliff, Alex Howard.

Fugitive Slayer From Morgan Co. Taken Near Here

A fugitive from LaGrange reformatory from which he escaped while serving a 21-year term for the rape-slaying of an 80-year-old Morgan county woman was captured Tuesday morning on Sowders Creek, an arm of Dewey Lake.

The wanted man, 21-year-old Wesley Hibbens, was arrested at the home of Phil Thompson by two FBI agents, County Detective Sam Hale and State Trooper Cantrell. Yet in bed when the officers arrived, at 6 a.m., Hibbens was taken without incident.

Hibbens was convicted of the slaying of Mrs. Rissie Steele Day, who lived alone in a farmhouse one mile east of West Liberty. He escaped last December 23 with two other LaGrange inmates.

Earl Ray Perkins was sentenced to life imprisonment in the slaying of Mrs. Day.

You Can't Blame This on the Shad

If the report on the population studies made last year at Dewey Lake by the Division of Game and Fish is to be believed, and we think it is, the lake is deeper in trouble than it is in mud.

The report says the fish population plummeted sharply in the period of only one year, and that the population loss was not peculiar to only one or two species. All — bass, sunfish, crappie, catfish, even shad — disappeared in great numbers from the lake.

Now, since whatever is happening at Dewey seems to be affecting all kinds of fish, it follows that we can't fall back on a favorite "whipping-boy," and blame the situation on an over-supply of shad. Obviously, an enemy common to all fish that swim in Dewey is at work.

An enemy such as pollution. Or plain acid water. Or plain mud. It occurs to us, once again, that this lake which means so much to Jenny Wiley State Park and to the public in general, is in sad straits, even though the U. S. Corps of Engineers and water pollution officials and others at Frankfort say they have found nothing there to cause concern.

Would it be too much at this time to expect a state or federal agency, or both, to check the acid content of the water, sedimentation and such other factors as may enter into the loss of fish and the possible death of the lake?

Virginian To Judge Eighth Horse Show At City Park Here

The Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club announced Monday that it has enlisted the services of J. C. Jesse, of Lebanon, Va., as judge, and John G. Wheatley, of Paintsville, as organist at its eighth annual horse show to be held May 19 and 20 at Archer Park here.

Mr. Jesse has judged numerous shows in Tennessee, North Carolina, Kentucky and Virginia. He is presently affiliated with the American Horse Shows Association, National Tennessee Walking Horse Commission, American Quarter Horse Association, Virginia Horse Show Assn., the Tri-State Horse Show Association, and is currently a director, chairman of the Rules committee, and past president of the Appalachian Horse Shows Association. He has been affiliated with horse shows for about 15 years, either as an exhibitor or official.

Mr. Wheatley is well-known to residents of Prestonsburg and Paintsville, having been a music instructor for a number of years. He is skilled in piano, organ and guitar and has played professionally.

Placques Presented At Awards Banquet

One hundred seventy persons attended the recent Awards Banquet of the Floyd County Conservation District, and among these were teachers, school officials, students, farmers and business leaders.

Placques were presented Miss Anna Lou Auxier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Auxier, of Emma, and a student at Betsy Layne high school who was third-place winner in the state conservation essay contest, and Miss Janie Beverly, daughter of Mrs. Monnie M. Beverly, of Cow Creek, and student at Prestonsburg high school, who was second-place winner in the county essay contest. Lloyd Wells, supervisor, made the presentations.

Students from Floyd county schools have written more essays than any other county in the state for the past three years, and H. D. Fitzpatrick, master of ceremonies for the banquet and chairman of the Floyd County Soil Conservation District, expressed the organization's pleasure in having a state winner from this district.

Placques were also presented to Charles Clark, superintendent of Floyd schools, and Mrs. Anna Sue Stumbo for their promotion of the soil conservation essay contest. Trophies were given to the following schools for having the highest percentage of students participating: Clark Elementary, Weeksbury, John M. Stumbo school, and Allen Elementary.

Billy Merritt, supervisor, presented Honor Certificates to Phyllis Craft, Clara Friar, Norman Neeley and Mildred Whitaker, and prizes and ribbons to county grade winners.

Funds for the dinner were provided by The Bank Josephine and the Floyd County Farm Bureau.

Area Districts Add Up To Federal Funds for Local Projects

BY FRANK COOTS
State News Bureau

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Although it may not be common knowledge, every Kentuckian now lives in one of 15 Area Development Districts (ADDs).

So what?

Well, your community's new park or a nearby town's healthy facility or water and waste disposal system may have been partially financed through federal funds — funds made available because there was a need for the project, because your community was part of a multi-county planning district (your ADD), and because the professional planning staff of the ADD aided local officials in obtaining approval for the project.

That is a simplification, of course, but it does cover the primary functions of an ADD, coordinating development and planning in such areas as health, education, transportation, housing and recreation.

The ADDs are relatively new, having been established by executive order in 1965 and 1968, but all 15 districts were staffed only recently and the boundaries were not laid out in statute until the 1972 General Assembly passed House Bill 423.

In a recent interview, Howard C. Lawson, director of the Kentucky Program Development Office's Division of Planning and Programming, discussed the legislation and the concept of the ADDs.

Multi-county districts were given serious consideration in the 60's, he said, when "we finally realized streams don't stop at county lines, air pollution doesn't stop at county lines."

The federal government provided impetus to the movement in the mid-60's when most of the over 1000 domestic aid programs began demanding multi-county planning districts as a prerequisite for federal funding.

This created an unwieldy situation in Kentucky, Lawson said, because a county would be in one district for one program, another district for a different program.

It was at this point that Gov. Bert Combs and then Gov. Edward Breathitt took steps to establish the ADDs as all-purpose regions with fixed boundaries, designed to handle the required planning for most federal programs. The first districts were staffed in 1968 under the administration of Gov. Louie B. Nunn.

Although Lawson claims the ADDs are "really coming of age now," he admits the districts are not uniform. "Some are in great shape," he said, but "others have a credibility gap."

He said this credibility gap has been in part responsible for recent charges by some groups of lack of representation on the boards of directors of some of the ADDs.

Each ADD has a board of directors consisting of at least 51 per cent elected officials — one county judge and one mayor from each county — with lay members filling out the membership, whose total number is determined by how many counties are in the ADD. A professional staff carries out the board's programs.

Attorneys Draft Loan-Law Proposal

A proposed law allowing the state to regulate savings and loan associations has been drafted by attorneys representing the Kentucky Savings and Loan League, the state Department of Banking and Securities and the Legislative Research Commission.

A special legislative subcommittee investigating the need for reforms in state-chartered savings and loan associations asked the attorneys to draw up the proposal.

The proposal would authorize the state banking commissioner to issue rules and regulations for such firms, and provides for public hearings before they are put into effect.

Present statutes do not specifically define the banking commissioner's power to make regulations.

Thomas Ainley, LRC staff aide to the subcommittee, said the group hopes to have some "stop-gap" legislation ready in time for the special session of the General Assembly which Governor Ford is expected to call in June.

The subcommittee, part of the Interim Committee on Banking and Insurance, was formed recently after state Banking Commissioner Lenville R. Hall placed two Louisville building and loan associations in receivership.

number of hours considered to be full time for the particular job."

Ralph Searl, of Garrett, plaintiff in the lawsuit, has been, since April, 1969, a beneficiary of the Kentucky Medical Assistance Program. Mr. Searl, along with his wife and 11-year-old son, have been living off the $84 in food stamps which they receive each month in return for the nominal sum of $1.50.

On June 1 of last year Mr. Searl was offered a job as a sanitary worker which required him to work three days per week at base pay of $15.00 per work week. Mr. Searl refused the job, however, when he was informed by the Prestonsburg Public Assistance Office that if he took any job which required working three days per week, his medical card would be revoked as he would no longer be considered unemployed within the meaning of the Kentucky Public Assistance Manual of Operation.

Under the agreed order, the "three-fourths" requirement was eliminated so that recipients of medical cards may now work up to 30 hours per week, or 120 hours a month. This is 20 hours more than the requirements of the federal regulations.

Workers for the Kentucky "Nelson Mainstream Program" lost a similar case last year which was heard before a three-judge federal court and affirmed by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Monday without bond on an assault and battery charge, pending outcome of the condition of his wife, Effie, whom he is accused of beating. Mrs. Hall is in the McDowell Hospital, and officers said she may lose her right eye.

Paul Castellona, of Mud Creek, posted $500 cash bond after his arrest on a charge of cutting off the tire of a car owned by Delbert Hall. Paul Layne Owney was jailed on the same charge. Meanwhile, Hall was being sought on a warrant charging him with reckless use of a deadly weapon. Another warrant charged John Henry Salisbury with shooting into a dwelling.

Others booked at the county jail, offenses with which they were charged and names of arresting officers follow:

Thomas Hall, drunk driving and no operator's license, by State Trooper Cantrell; Percy Dean Johnson, transporting intoxicating beverages in dry territory, by Deputy Sheriff Claude Flanery; Charles Patton, contributing to juvenile delinquency, by County Detective Hale; Danny L. Goble, illegally dipping fish at Dewey Dam, and no fishing license, by Conservation Officer Don Mead; Kenith S. Hall, drunk driving, assaulting a peace officer and public indecency, by Deputy Sheriff Ramey; Donald Ray Bentley, drunk driving, by State Trooper Bevins; Van E. Shepherd, drunk driving, by Policeman Lawson, of Prestonsburg.

The only encouraging part of the bass picture comes from figures which show the increased poundage of those that were caught. Although bass were less than 1 per cent of the total 1971 catch, they represented 10 per cent of the total 1971 catch, they represented 10 per cent of the weight of the total catch. The average weight per bass landed was 1.18 pounds, or approximately 13 inches in length.

Even the channel catfish, which experienced a population explosion and a heavy harvest in 1970, were apparently on their way out by last year. In 1970, 6,048 channel catfish were estimated per acre at Dewey, but last year that figure was down to 1,254. Bullheads dropped from 1681 to 544 per acre over the two years.

The fish population figures are based on studies made in three coves, all of which total 6.2 acres. These are Clark Branch, McGuire Branch and Cove 36.

The slimmer creel count made last year may not have been because the fish weren't there to be caught — fishermen fished only 90,670 man-hours in 1971, as compared with the 110,362 hours during the preceding year.

And, the Division of Fish & Game, adds: "The decrease in fishing in 1971 may have been a result of weather conditions at the time of survey periods. A total of five days were surveyed during rainstorms. High water levels in May limited fishing during two of the surveys. All of the surveys conducted during September were during rainstorms. The creel survey was not completed one week in May, one week in July and one week in September."

Questions which the report leave unanswered are these:

If all species of fish are fewer, could the population loss be from a common cause such as pollution, acid water, muddy water interfering with spawn, and so on?

Could the population studies have been made in these shallow coves during bad weather, at a time when fish had gone into deeper water?

Of 729 anglers interviewed, 12 per cent were fishing for crappie, 10 per cent for black bass, 9 per cent for sunfish, 2 per cent for catfish — and 67 per cent for anything catchable. The most successful anglers were those after sunfish (61 per cent successful) and crappie (58 per cent). Those fishing for bass were 14 per cent successful. Methods used included: stillfishing (83 per cent), casting (13 per cent), flycasting (3 per cent), trolling (1 per cent), jigging (less than 1 per cent). Sixty-five per cent of those fishing operated from the bank.

Neither population study nor creel census mentioned white bass, once a fish that showed promise for the lake.

What did those responsible for the detailed report recommend for Dewey Lake?

Nothing.

An old friend, John King, was in from Harold this morning, and he described his subscription renewal as an effort to help me finance another fishing trip. Now, I'm waiting on help about the weather.

Lenna Moore was in the hospital last week, and I was temporarily confined to quarters. When we got to comparing notes Monday, we both worked ourselves up into something of a lather and may be in line for a relapse.

I quote Joe Burke:

Show me a man with both feet firmly planted on the ground, and I'll show you a man who can't get his pants on.

I am not being sorry for myself, but this season is dragging somewhat. Almost any other year, and by this time I would have fallen at least one time in a lake or stream, and simply by my presence, brought down upon the innocent inhabitants of some distant place where I was fishing either a hailstorm, tornado or waterspout.

Their guest were Mr. and Mrs. Weddington, Dr. and Mrs. Charlie Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Akers, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Castle, Mr. and Mrs. Don Chaffins, Mrs. Charles Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Flynn, of Paris, Jim Freeman, of Lexington, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hollan, of Lexington, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Hollan, Dr. and Mrs. Everly Hammack, Dr. Sidney Bremer, of Lexington, Dr. Joe Carter, of Louisa, Edward Kramer, St. Louis, Mo., Dan Sloan, Fred Arrington of Louisa, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Baynton, Palm Beach, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Council Hears Civil Defense Shelter Plan

The Prestonsburg City Council in special meeting last Friday considered a Civil Defense proposal to help with financing construction of the first floor of the proposed city building here if construction plans can be changed to make the first-floor space conform with bomb shelter specifications.

No definite action was taken, but consideration of the proposal continues.

If Civil Defense funds are made available, a change of plans, which already are 92 per cent complete, would be required. Walls of the first floor would be changed to a thickness of 18 inches solid concrete, without windows, and the roof of the two-story structure would be of heavy construction to meet bomb shelter specifications.

Some communications facilities also would be added, but half of this cost would be borne by the city.

The city building, as designed, would house under one roof all departments of city government, with second-floor offices available to private firms or individuals. A ceiling of $400,000 has been placed on the cost of the project. If the CD plan is adopted, the cost would approximate $450,000, it was said, and the federal agency would presumably bear the added expense.

HEIDELBERG, Germany — At least five persons were killed and 15 injured in a chain reaction collision on the fog-shrouded autobahn near here, police reported.

Beach Predicts 1974 Ban On East Kentucky Stripping

BY JIM WARREN
State News Bureau

FRANKFORT, Ky. — According to one knowledgeable forecast, the 1974 General Assembly will prohibit strip mining in Eastern Kentucky unless major improvements are made in pollution control and reclamation during the next two years.

That prediction was made by acting state Reclamation Director Buddy A. Beach, who recently warned coal industry leaders that strip mining is on a two-year probation in Kentucky.

"I don't know just what course the legislature might take, whether it would drastically reduce slope limits or simply ban the industry outright," Beach said. "However, I can't imagine any justification for a ban in Western Kentucky because mining produces little environmental damage there and reclamation is progressing."

Several anti-strip-mining bills, which in effect would have abolished the industry in Kentucky, were introduced during the 1972 legislative session, but none reached the floor of either house.

However, Beach feels pressure against strip mining is at an all-time high and action may be taken in 1974 unless ways are found to protect the mountains and streams.

He called for better enforcement of regulations and improved industry cooperation in controlling mine drainage, slides and revegetation.

"We need stricter enforcement of regulations and improved industry cooperation in controlling mine drainage, slides and revegetation."

"We need stricter enforcement of our current drainage regulations, which would effectively close some areas by making it economically unfeasible to mine there," Beach said. "And we must have better treatment to bring drainage up to acceptable levels before it leaves the mine site."

Beach said he feels important progress already is being made in controlling siltation.

New regulations now require certification of all siltation control structures by the state Division of Water to ensure keeping silt within limits acceptable to aquatic life and water supply requirements. Although state regulations on slope and bench width limits have reduced strip mine slides in recent years, Beach said more effort is still needed.

He said stricter enforcement is required to prevent poor bench drainage and its resulting impounded water and loosened spoil material. Such action greatly increases the possibility of slides.

"Much of this problem also could be eliminated right at the beginning, when the mine application is filed," Beach said. "Better examination of proposed mine sites would delete those areas where slides might be probable or where they might threaten homes or streams."

Reclamation of strip mine sites has long been a bone of contention between miners and environmentalists and Beach said changes are needed in that area.

"We have fallen down by allowing areas to go and go from one growing season to another, waiting to see if vegetation will come up, instead of seeing that the job is done right the first time. It was originally thought that if you left these areas as they are, things eventually would begin to grow. This has not proven to be the case," he said.

If other approaches fail, he said areas which produce acid spoil where vegetation will not grow, should be closed to mining.

Beach stressed that these improvements will require increased efforts by both the industry and the Division of Reclamation, some of which already are underway.

The division now is taking greater care in inspecting proposed mine sites before applications are approved, and Gov. Wendell Ford has authorized the hiring of extra inspectors by the agency.

"We are not trying to be overly restrictive on the strip mine industry, we simply are trying to bring pollution control and reclamation up to a level acceptable to the people and to the environment," Beach said. "I think the people of Kentucky want to see the coal industry grow and prosper, but not if it means losing our mountains and streams."

James Allen Heads Campaign in Floyd

James Allen, Prestonsburg attorney, last week was named Floyd county campaign chairman for Walter Dee Huddleston, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

The announcement was made by Judge A. J. Jolly, state campaign chairman for Huddleston. Judge Jolly said that the naming of the chairman would be the first of several appointments to be made in the county for the Huddleston campaign.

Allen, who has served as president of the Floyd County Young Democrats, cited the outstanding qualification of Huddleston as one of the primary reasons for supporting him in the U. S. Senate campaign. "Dee Huddleston has the background we need in a United States Senator," he said.

Allen, now serving as Floyd county attorney, is a graduate of the University of Kentucky and the UK School of Law. He is a member of Delta Theta Phi Law fraternity and Sigma Chi Social fraternity. He is married and the father of an eighteen-month-old daughter.

Miss Cahill Elected

Miss Mary Clare Cahill was recently elected corresponding secretary of the Washington, D. C. Chapter of the Special Libraries Association for 1972-1973. Miss Cahill is a recent recipient of the M.S. in library science from the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., and upon graduation was elected to membership of Beta Phi Mu, international library science honor society.

Miss Cahill is presently gift and exchange librarian, Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D. C. She is the daughter of Mrs. Clarence J. Cahill, of Drift.

Come see a car with an engine in the front, the back, and the middle.

The Audi 100LS

The Porsche 911

The Porsche 914

The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi. It stops differently, turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty-one years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)

The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911. A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty-one years Porsches have proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.

And the car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.

We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.

We'll be glad to show what our cars look like in real life. We're very proud of them.

And we'll show you something we're even more proud of than the way they look:

The way they work.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D

"Women and Ladies"

In Fidelity, and elsewhere, back decades ago, the female of the species was referred to in a general way as a "woman". But, when only one was referred to, she was a "lady". In fact, it was slightly derogatory to say that Mrs. Jones was a fine "woman". Something of Shakespeare's own time had remained, for I distinctly remember that one of his rather low characters felt insulted when she was called a woman. Every once in a while I run into this old, old way of referring to women and ladies. Not too many weeks ago a small child rebuked me for saying that I liked a certain woman that both of us know. "You should call her a lady," the youngster suggested. I tried to explain, but I suspect that either home or school teaching has taken too deep a hold for my explanation to be accepted.

One of the employees of my college who gave years of devoted service to the maintenance of the buildings and grounds, always, in my presence, called a married woman "Miss", just like long ago. In a casual conversation he spoke of married women in general as "Miz" Jones or "Miz Brown." I can remember when manners books stressed the very usage he had kept, for manners used to be reduced to rather staid, easily-remembered statements. And it was easy to spot some one who had not learned his manners well.

For ages the most used dictionary refused to admit that the Southern and South Midland Mizziz even existed. At school we learned that we should say "Missiz"; but, bad little brats that we were, we didn't except in the presence of our teachers, especially when we were reading aloud. And nobody whom we knew naturally said "Missiz". Good old people, as I indicated before, said "Mistress" when they were trying to be proper or when they were referring to some strange person or one of prominence. "Miz" George Washington would have been resented; hence "Mistress" Washington, or, older still, "Lady" Washington. Even in my home my mother talked about "Lady" This or That when referring to some historical woman.

The names applied to elderly women often varied from the stiff, dignified ones. "Old Lady" Johnson might be a prominent matriarch, who, though old, still was the head of her clan and so recognized by descendants and neighbors alike. "Old Miz" Johnson occupied a far lower station and might be even the subject of charity; it was not often that there was any suggestion as to her morals. When the title was omitted entirely and "Old" Sally Brown was mentioned, you could form your own opinion as to whether she was a scold, a worthless woman, or even a bad one.

Among close friends, there and elsewhere, a married woman was often "Miss" Mary to those who had known her before her marriage and often to close friends of the younger generation. I have seen this title printed or written as "Mis", as if it were a shortened form of "Mistress." I rather doubt that, however. I think it was normally a sort of affectionate way of calling a friend's name.

It would be hard to tell how "Aunt" or "Auntie" was applied as a name for an elderly woman. Probably it was generally an affectionate way of naming her without being formal and saying "Mizziz" George Smith or, in the case of some very elderly unmarried woman, "Miss" Susan Thompson. Sometimes "Old Auntie" was a sort of apology for mentioning some woman who was elderly and maybe "Slightly teched in the haid." It would have taken a modern semanticist to separate the meaning intended and one that the neighborhood thoroughly understood. The same statement could be made about some old man who was called "Uncle," for the word varied from one of genuine affection to one of scorn. "Daddy" as the name of an elderly person, so common elsewhere, was only rarely known; I do recall that one very old man in my father's practice area was called "Daddy" Wynn. In other parts of America this term is common, I have read.

It would take a small treatise on semantics to list all the terms for women and see to it that no injustice was done to the name or to the woman.

Former Certification Key to Program Pay

Farmer certification is the essential step preceding set-aside payments to producers participating in the U. S. Department of Agriculture 1972 set-aside programs for corn, and farmers who have questions about certification are urged to call or come in to their county office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

It's important that a farmer know exactly what he is certifying before he signs his name. Final certification date this year for feed-grain is July 15. Certification may be made as soon as a farmer has his program crops planted and knows he is in compliance with the programs, said Harry Hill, Chairman Floyd County ASCS Committee.

As soon as a producer certifies, the county ASCS Office begins processing the data for payment, which will be made soon after July 1.

Once certification is made, no acreage adjustments can be made. A farmer must be in compliance with program regulations when he certifies. That's why we're urging producers to call or come in now if they're not sure about what is required for certification.

When a producer certifies, he reports exactly what acreage he has in set-aside land and what acreage he has in the program crops he signed up for. He also certifies he has complied with all program regulations and will continue to comply throughout the year.

Rev. Hitch To Lead Methodist Revival

The Rev. Harry Hitch, of Wilmore, Ky., will be the evangelist in the revival which will begin Friday evening at the Community Methodist Church here and continue through May 28.

The Rev. Hitch was a member of the faculties of Asbury College at Wilmore and Morehead State University before entering fulltime evangelism. Special numbers by the choir and individual groups will be features of the services each evening, the pastor, the Rev. Earl Pennington, said. A nursery for pre-school children will be provided in the Sunday School annex.

For God So Loved!

Was it in vain? John 3:16

How about a war memorial to Jesus Christ, God's gift of love and supreme sacrifice, who fought the greatest battle ever fought and the only one truly won?

Why not erect an old rugged cross, in memory of God's Holy Son?

I love and respect all the men, who for freedom fought and died, But I love best of all the Son of God — For me, He was crucified.

The men who fought and died in wars Was to keep our country free, But the Christ who died on Calvary Was to make a Christian of me.

If no cross had stood on Calvary, there would have been no flag to wave; It's Jesus Christ that won the victory Over death and the grave.

All the men who have fought and died could never save our soul;

All the men who have fought and died could never save our soul;

The One Man who died on Calvary died to make us whole.

When the war memorial is finished and dedicated in our town.

Why not erect the Old Rugged Cross to The man of world-wide renown?

The beginning and end, the first and last who died for all the world

Because God loved so very much, Every man, woman, boy and girl.

Black or yellow, red or white, the mighty rich or poor,

For God so loved us all the same, and turns no one from His door.

Let's love each other as He loved us (St. John 15: 12, 13, 14)

And exalt Jesus Christ first (Isaiah 25:1) And pray together as Christians should And rid our town and country of this awful curse.

Of whiskey, dope, and adultery And the little hidden sins in between, For God's kingdom will not accept Anything defiling or mean.

So please as Christian Americans, Let's practice what we preach, By living a Godly life daily,

So our young people we can teach The Way, the Truth, and the Life, Which is Jesus Christ and His Cross, the Son of God who died for us, And for a world that was lost.

St. John 14:1-6

For God so loved the world, And that includes Prestonsburg. Does Prestonsburg love God? The countless thousands of men who have fought and died, Did it because they loved our freedom The One Man, who fought and died Did it because He loved our souls. He is Commander-in-Chief of everything.

Genesis 1:1, Isaiah 66:1-2 and Psalms 24.

Isaiah 53:5, Isaiah 9:6-7 Hebrews 13:8

Mrs. Lucille Montgomery "Christian Home Evangelist" 22 E. Burchett St. Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653

Let's evangelize our homes and town for Jesus Christ. He lives and is coming back very soon for His Church.

In His priceless Name. Amen.

All voluntary gifts go to further God's work and God's message for this day and time. Don't let this message die, pass it on and sow good seed for Jesus; for, good or bad, little or much, we reap what we sow.

Harkins Action Names Gas Firm; 4 Ask Damages

A voluminous complaint filed May 10 in circuit court here by the Harkins Mineral Corp. against the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company involves more than 300 tracts of land in Floyd and Knott counties. A declaration by the court of plaintiffs' rights is asked.

Under attack are the acreage covered by the drilling of a gas well, the division of tracts by watersheds and failure to explore deeper formations.

The lands involved were leased in the 1920's by Josie D. Harkins and others to the Ivyton Oil and Gas Co. Kentucky West Virginia later acquired the leases from Ivyton Oil and Gas.

In 1960 the grantors of the leases conveyed to the Harkins Mineral Corporation their right, title and interest to the lands covered by the leases, but the conveyance was subject to existing leases and reserved to the individual grantors royalties and rentals. Individuals involved are Josephine H. Browning, Grover L. Howard, Barbara H. Wiechers, Billie H. Hobbs, Joseph D. Harkins, Joseph D. Harkins, III, William H., Victoria B., Marguerite F., Monte S., William F., George A. and Donald D. Harkins.

In a suit filed May 9 Mary Anita Hazelett seeks to recover $22,900 damages from Eastern Kentucky Mack and Roy Montgomery. Plaintiff alleged negligence of Montgomery in the operation of an auto owned by the company resulted in a collision with her car in the vicinity of Green Acres here, with the result that her earning power is permanently impaired.

A total of $8,250 was asked by William K. and Esther Mae Goodman for damages which they claimed resulted to their home and personal belongings on Buck's Branch from blasting by the Potters and Walters Coal Company.

Resurfacing Set For 2 Highways

Gov. Wendell Ford and Highway Commissioner Charles Pryor have announced that an estimated $4 million in highway resurfacing projects, covering 44 counties, will begin in mid-June.

In Floyd county, resurfacing is planned for US 23 from Ball Alley curve, Prestonsburg, to near Allen, a distance of 7.8 miles, and from the south end of the suspension bridge at Banner to Ky 979, near Harold, a distance of 7.429 miles.

Governor Ford said the bulk of the money for the projects, which will affect 90 Kentucky roadways, was provided through economy measures in the reorganization of the Department of Highways.

Commissioner Pryor said when he entered office there were 9,600 employees on the Highway payroll but the figure has been reduced to 8,200 in five months.

"The money for these projects was initially earmarked for my payroll," the commissioner said.

The Surge of Life In The Springtime

All living things thrust upward in springtime, breaking through the crusted winter earth to find fulfillment and self-expression in the sun. The primal urge of life is toward unfoldment and expression. The urge to lift up and express is so strong in many plants they break through clods and some can even burst through concrete to gain a place in the sun. Some break clods that may hold them down and when others rise up against a stone, they find some way to go around it and grow. There is a strong principle of immortality in the world of living things and their life goes on forever. Some trees have developed immortality to such a high degree, it is almost impossible for anything to destroy them. Concerning the great Sequoias of the Rockies, Julia Ellen Rodgers writes in her book: TREES WORTH KNOWING:

"Old age and disease pass the Sequoias by." These "Big Trees," as they are called, cannot be damaged by fungi or pests. John Muir, the great naturalist says, "There is no absolute limit to the existence of these trees. Accident alone, not wearing out of vital organs, may account for their death." They are not susceptible to lightning; so far only one of these Big Trees has been known to fall a victim of a stroke by lightning. When lightning does strike one of them and damages its limbs, the tree at once throws all its great energy into healing the stroke and soon develops a hardy crown with a new, symmetrical dome to replace the part struck by lightning.

Of these great trees, the Bristlecone Pine is the oldest living thing on this earth and was a goodly sized tree when Abraham sojourned the earth. Fire can seldom harm one of these trees, as they have bark a foot thick — too thick for the fire or the wood borers to go through. Cold cannot harm them, as they are used to ten-foot deep drifts piling up around their huge trunks.

Many other plants exhibit signs of immortality. We often look at a dormant seed, which may appear dry and dead, but when it is planted in the ground, it comes alive and thrusts up to new life. Grains of wheat were once found in the catacombs of Ancient Egypt, where they had lain dormant for 4,000 years, and when they were planted, they germinated and grew!

Sometimes the seed of a birch or some other tree will find lodging on top of a large rock, where the soil is thin and rare. The seed will sprout and grow and send out roots and these will seek out crevices in the rock, through which they will make a way to find the sustenance they need. They often burst a large cliff asunder in their surge to find lodgment in the earth. Many trees often find anchor and grow on the sheer face of a large cliff and somehow they have the power to draw to themselves the nourishment and water they need for growth. I have seen Eastern Hemlock trees three feet in diameter growing on the sheer face of a sandstone wall over 100 feet high; it was always a mystery to me how they derived food enough to grow so large. Apparently many trees have secrets of survival not fully known to us humans. Take the great oaks that grow on top of high mountains: One of these is called "The Rock Oak," or chestnut oak. These trees are large, burly and rugged, with bark six inches thick. Powerful storm-winds assail them but to no avail, because these trees in their wisdom send their roots down deep into the mountain earth, in search of the underground rocks; finding these, the roots twine about the rocks and coil around them like a snake. So it is almost impossible for a heavy windstorm to uproot one of these mighty oaks. In all my years of studying trees, I have never yet seen a live chestnut oak blown down in a wind-storm.

There is power, vitality, immortality, in plants and of these we have known little in the past. New discoveries in the world of living things are being made now and marvelous things have been brought to light.

There is a small plant of our region called EARLY SAXIFRAGE, which has small, starry white blossoms; this tiny plant wedges itself in the crevices of rock and takes root and grows on the face of cliffs. This plant has a sheer power to break the rock apart and widen its hold. Its name, "Saxifrage," comes from the Latin "saxum," a rock, and "frangere," to break. The plant is often called the "little rock-breaker."

The supreme goal of life is SELF-PRESERVATION. Often when a tree grows nearby a cliff, it will lean its trunk against the stone and soon create a caved-in place on the trunk; then it gains support against storms by literally hugging the cliff. Even inanimate objects seem to crave immortality and self-expression. The lowly clod lying naked and barren dreams of the time when it will be clothed with green grass. Given time enough, it will attract to itself the grass necessary to clothe it in fresh green beauty. One of the supreme laws of nature is: "Nature abhors a vacuum." So the spring will soon clothe the barren spots with grass and other vegetation to hide the nakedness of the winter earth.

The theme of the spring is Beauty; the motif of the spring is Love; Spring is a time of loving, mating, with new life coming forth on ever hand. Spring should never be a time for hating, for destroying life, whether it is plant or human.

Many plants and trees have the power of survival against overwhelming odds. Once I saw a shaggy, old beech tree standing on the bank of a creek, with its roots in the water. For more than one hundred years, floods had tried to destroy this stalwart, old tree. The flood waters had raged against it, had sought to undermine it and cause it to topple over into the creek. But that wise, old beech had built itself a huge bulwark out of its roots which was some five feet high and completely solid from the matted roots. No more could the flood waters tear at the vitals of the tree; it was standing there safe behind the bulwark of roots it had made for its survival.

The service system of tomorrow. Built into every new Volkswagen today.

Imagine owning a car that can tell you how it feels. When Volkswagen dealerships start to receive their computers later this year, you'll be able to drive in, have your 1972 Volkswagen plugged into the computer, and get it straight from your car what's right or wrong.

How does it work?

Every 1972 Volkswagen has a network of sensors and check points built into critical areas like the engine and electrical system. These sensors work like nerves.

When they're attached to the computer by a simple socket in the back of the car, the sensors relay the condition of vital areas.

In the time it takes a mechanic to collect his tools, the computer checks things like front wheel alignment, engine compression, and battery voltage.

And gives you the results in plain English.

The computer will be at Volkswagen dealers starting later this year, so you can come in and let our brain take the load off yours.

BEN FRANKLIN STORE

Court Street Prestonsburg

Where you shop by name... not by number

Rush, run and grab a number. Hurry up and wait. Push, shove and push. Outshout noise and grab and go. Numbers are waiting.

Clerks couldn't remember your face tomorrow. Isn't it more fun to shop where businessmen and sales people know your name? And you know theirs?

When a hometown businessman says "We missed you" don't you sometimes secretly admit "I missed you, too"?

It's much more fun to shop where your business is appreciated.

Steve Smith, 6-11 McDowell high school net star, (right) at signing of grant-in-aid to play basketball at North Carolina State University, beginning with the coming season. His father, J. L. Smith is seated, left, and McDowell Coach Pete Grigsby, Jr. is shown standing. Head Coach Norman Sloan and Assistant Coach Art Musselman, of North Carolina State, came to McDowell, May 10, when young Smith finally decided to cast his lot with the North Carolina school. Sought by more than 200 colleges, Smith had considered the University of Kentucky, next to North Carolina State.

Smith is the 22nd athlete at McDowell to receive an athletic scholarship during the 11 years Grigsby has coached the team. He made All-American, All-State, All-Conference and All-District teams this year. In his four years of play at McDowell the big youngster has set six school records — most games played (137), most field goals attempted (2408), most field goals made (1038), most rebounds (2254), best rebound average per game (16.4) and most total points (2531). Smith will be graduated from McDowell high this month.

Drowning Victim Buried in County

Funeral rites for Frank May, 38, who drowned May 7 in a pond on the farm of his brother, B. C. May, near Crestwood, Ky., were conducted at 1 p.m. Sunday from the Free Will Baptist Church at Martin.

The victim was fishing alone from the shore of the farm-pond, early on the morning of May 7, when he apparently fell into the water. The search for his body covered the entire farm, since his rod and reel were not found along the shore of the pond. The body was found May 10 when the pond was drained.

An autopsy showed no evidence of foul play. The victim's flashlight and fishing equipment are still missing.

A son of the late Myles M. and Thelma Stephens May, the victim resided with his brother at Crestwood. Survivors include five brothers, Marvin and Merle May, both of Stephens Branch, near Martin, B. C., Gardez and Joe May, all of Crestwood.

Funeral rites were conducted by the Revs. Douglas Burkett and William H. Amburgey, and burial was made in the May family cemetery on Stephens Branch under direction of the Merion Funeral Chapel.

WON'T LEASE PARK CAMPSITES TO PRIVATE OPERATORS

The state Parks Department will not lease campsites areas to private developers in the foreseeable future, Parks Commissioner Ewart Johnson says.

Although he admitted the practice has been used successfully in other states, Johnson maintained Kentucky is not ready for it.

"It's my suggestion to Governor Ford that we remain as we are," he said. "I don't think it's wise to get outside the control of the parks system. We might lease it to (someone) down the road who is not running it right ... and we get the black eye."

As to how long the present policy would continue, Johnson said a change may be possible later.

"Who knows what's going to happen two years from now? It may be a complete change of attitude."

Red River Foat Slated for Saturday

WEST LIBERTY, Ky.—If the Mountain Parkway seems to have become a causeway for boats the weekend of May 13-14 and the following Friday and Saturday, there is good reason. The annual Red River Canoe Race will be run the 14th and the annual Red River Boat Float will take place the 20th.

Spring along Red River remains an invitation to slow, relaxed days of the past when settlers walked, rode a horse or traveled in a road wagon to reach their destination. If they were rushed or if the river proved the shortest distance to where they were going, they loaded their turns of corn and bartering goods into a boat and oared or poled along the stream.

Designated in part this year as a Wild River by the General Assembly and Gov. Wendell H. Ford, the Red River that flows placidly most of the year, its deep pools reflecting the blue-green of sky and forest, can become a torrent after spring rains. The scenic stream, once considered sacred by Indians, has stretches of white water that challenge canoeists.

Those who participate in the races or later in the more relaxed boat float will pass through country that continues a life begun in ages past.

Upheavals through the eons are indicated by slanted rock strata and gigantic boulders that line the river course. Walked on by thousands of feet and traversed by countless canoes and rafts, the route down Red River is a visit with the long ago, shadowed as it is by the present and foreshadowed by a population yet to be born.

The hope is that each generation will revere the hollows, glens and glades, the sheer rock walls that make a deep canyon, the hundreds of wildflowers, some exceedingly rare, and the abundance of birds and small wildlife that call Red River home. A far-sighted people might see in the depths of Red River Gorge a place of refuge in years to come—if not from man-caused cataclysm then assuredly from man-made environment.

To one who has walked the paths before they were marked with trailposts, who skirted house-size boulders by wading, who was more startled by the intelligent eyes of a mountain bobcat than was the cat itself, who followed bear tracks to a den (but went no farther)—the gorge offers a place that separates the world of tranquility and pure escapism from that of noise, rush, run, fear and doubt.

The boat float, though not as grueling as the race, is only for experienced canoeists, according to Taylor Booth at Campton. Sponsored by the Wolfe County Kiwanis Club and the county tourism committee, the float starts at 10 a.m. May 20 at Spradling Bridge in the gorge, travels through the Roughs of Red River and over the falls, to end near Sky Bridge.

Alcoholism Seminars Set for Physicians

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Dr. Morris E. Chafetz, director of the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, will be the keynote speaker at the first of two alcohol training sessions for Kentucky physicians.

The first seminar will be held in Louisville, May 17, at Rodeway Inn, with the second to follow the next day in Lexington at Hospitality Inn. Two meetings were scheduled so physicians could attend the conference closest to their homes.

The sessions are sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Mental Health in cooperation with the Kentucky chapter of the American Academy of Family Physicians.

Dr. Chafetz, in announcing a recent $200,000 federal alcoholism education campaign, says the "alcohol problem dwarfs that of heroin or any other drug."

"American society and most health professions unconsciously push alcohol problems under the rug," he noted. "Alcoholism is mistakenly looked upon as a character deficiency instead of a treatable illness."

Main speaker at the Lexington meeting will be Dr. Arnold M. Ludwig, chairman of the Psychiatry Department at the University of Kentucky. Ludwig was the recipient of the Hofheimer Award in 1970 by the American Psychiatric Assn. for his research on alcoholism and LSD.

Others to speak at both meetings include David H. Knott, M.D., Ph.D., and James D. Beard, Ph.D., both of the University of Tennessee. Knott is medical director, while Beard is director of the Alcohol and Drug Dependence Clinic at U.T.'s Psychiatric Hospital and Research Institute.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to take this means of thanking everyone who helped us at the passing of our Clayton Smith. We especially wish to thank those who sent flowers, food or did anything to help. And a special thanks to the ministers of the Freewill Baptist Church and the Hall Bros. Funeral Home for its fine service.

MRS. HELEN BOYD,
MRS. ETHEL COLLINS

Governor Ford requested the federal Environmental Protection Agency to approve Kentucky's new program for assisting local governments in building sewage treatment facilities. Approval of the Kentucky Pollution Abatement Authority would increase federal grants for sewage treatment from the current 33 per cent to 55 per cent.

A get-acquainted session for participants is scheduled at Koomer Ridge the evening before the float. Speakers will explain the rules of the float and what canoeists might expect in the way of emergencies.

One or both events can offer visitors a sport and entertainment somewhat unique. But even more important, each program rewards visitors with scenic beauty unexcelled and a countryside lush and green, bright with flowers and majestic with cliff and canyon—an area still at peace with the world.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our appreciation to all neighbors, friends and relatives who expressed their sympathy in so many ways at the passing of my dear son, Danny Ray Mosley. The lovely floral offerings, visitations, words of solace and comfort will long be remembered, as will the efficient service of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home, the beautiful music and the consoling words of the ministers of the Zion Pentacostal Church.

State-Supported Colleges Show Increased Enrollment

Frankfort, Ky. — Enrollment in Kentucky's state-supported colleges and universities for the 1971 fall semester showed a sizable increase over the previous year while similar figures for independent colleges declined, a recently released report shows.

A total of 80,304 students enrolled in state-supported schools, an increase of 9.3 per cent. The 17,780 students enrolled at independent schools represent a 6.5 per cent drop.

The Council on Public Higher Education released the figures in their annual report on the origin of enrollments at Kentucky colleges.

The increase in students entering college for the first time at state-supported schools and the decrease at independent institutions is even more dramatic. First-time freshman enrollment at state colleges increased by 12.9 per cent in 1971, while similar enrollments at independent schools dropped 13 per cent.

Out-of-state students, which make up 34.4 per cent of the student body at private colleges, accounted for only 14.2 per cent of the total enrollment at state-supported schools.

This is in keeping with a 1969 policy decision of the Higher Education Council, limiting out-of-state enrollments in the state higher education system to 15 per cent.

The council report also noted that the number of Kentuckians enrolled as first-time freshmen in Kentucky colleges and universities for the 1971 fall semester was equal to 43.4 per cent of the 1971 Kentucky high school graduates. This figure, of course, does not take into account those high school graduates who enrolled in out-of-state schools.

9,347 Homes in Floyd Had TV AT '70 Census

The 1970 census of housing counted 11,412 housing units in Floyd county, and 9,347 of these households had at least one television set, the Bureau of the Census announced last week. The figures are from the first report for Kentucky which presents detailed statistics on housing for each county.

The report shows that in the county: There were 1,825 housing units with air conditioning (1,476 with room units and 349 with a central system); 8,920 units with a clothes washing machine, 3,423 with a clothes dryer, and 409 with a dishwasher.

The 1970 population was 35,889, with an average of 3.5 persons per housing unit.

A total of 7,498 housing units were built before 1949, 1,891 during the 1950's, 892 during 1960-64, and 1,101 within the five years preceding the April, 1970 census.

Utility gas was used to cook the meals in 6,860 households, electricity in another 2,011, and bottled, tank, or LP gas in yet another 819.

There were 8,304 housing units with complete kitchen facilities and 7,054 with complete bathrooms, both for the exclusive use of the households. The number of bedrooms in all housing units ranged from none in 66 units and one in 1,360 units to four or more in 1,100 units.

Owners occupied 6,912 units, tenants occupied 3,417 units, and a total of 1,053 units were vacant year-round, with 77 for sale and 527 for rent.

Ky. Personal Income Over Nat'l Average

Total personal income in Kentucky rose 9 percent last year, an advance well above the U.S. average gain of 6 1/2 percent, the U.S. Department of Commerce reports.

At $10.8 billion, total personal income in Kentucky last year accounted for 1.3 percent of the U.S. total and the state ranked 24th in total personal income size. Kentucky ranked 11th among the states in the rate of personal income gain last year.

Gains in Kentucky in manufacturing, construction, mining, and farming were all much greater than were the gains in the nation. Reflecting the strength of these basic industries, the rate of advance in Kentucky in most service-type activities also exceeded the U.S. average gain.

At $3,288, per capita income in Kentucky in 1971 was 7 percent above 1970. This advance is stronger than the U.S. average gain of 5 1/2 percent. However, per capita income in Kentucky was still 21 percent ($850) below the U.S. average of $4,138. Among the 50 states, Kentucky ranked 10th in rate of change in per capita income from 1970-71, but in the level of per capita income, it ranked 44th.

Notwithstanding a decline in mining wage and salary payments, apparently because of the coal strike, total personal income in Kentucky was up 7 1/2 percent — about equaling the national average — from the fourth quarter of 1970 through the fourth quarter of 1971. There were very large gains in the state in construction and agricultural earnings and the gains in most service-type activities were close to, or above, the U.S. average. In particular, there were large gains in Kentucky in the finance-insurance-real estate group and in the transportation-communication-public utilities group.

Floyd 4-H'ers Help Nat'l Center Fund

By JACK M. FRIAR
County Extension Agent

Floyd county's $400 helped put Kentucky in first place at the National 4-H Center in Washington, D. C. — first to present the state's share of funds needed for the Center's building program and first to dedicate a room in the newly-expanded 4-H Center.

Kentucky's 4-H members and leaders have raised more than $49,000 in a campaign to help finance new buildings and "face lifting" of existing facilities at the Center, which has been called the international classroom of 4-H. Total cost of the planned expansion program there is $8 million in a national fund-raising campaign, according to Jack Friar, county extension agent, 4-H.

This state's fund-raising campaign, under the direction of the Kentucky 4-H Leaders Council, had a goal of $50,000 — the $45,000 quota assigned to Kentucky, plus $5,000 to furnish an assembly-conference room, named for Kentucky, at the Center. Less than $1,000 is still needed to reach the goal and complete furnishing of the Kentucky Room.

Floyd county 4-H members attending activities at the Center included Reva Duff, Teresa Osborne, Janie Bailey, Jan Draughn, and Vicky Osborne.

The state Division of Water Safety will strictly enforce boating safety and anti-litter regulations on the Ohio River along Kentucky's northern border this summer. Officials said boat patrols will cover the river between Ashland and Carrollton, "checking every craft, large and small."

P'burg Seen as Model Center for Rural Area

Prestonsburg is being considered as one of two rural model centers to be established in an effort to upgrade public library and adult basic education services in the Appalachian region.

The proposed center will be a part of a 15-month demonstration project for which Morehead State University has received a $247,107 grant. The second rural center would be located at Titusville, Pennsylvania. Tentative urban sites are Birmingham, Ala. and Charleston, S. C.

Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark said Tuesday that details of the plan will not be known until Friday when MSU staff members are scheduled to come here.

The experimental effort, he said, apparently is intended to be the hub of an adult education program in which this county has already taken a leading role. Mr. Clark said the Floyd County Library, the Regional Library and the Prestonsburg elementary school library may figure in the undertaking.

Some of the Greatest Gift
Ideas are Electric!

Personal gifts seem to have more meaning when they make life easier and more enjoyable. That's why an electric gift says so much to that special someone. And electric items are accurate and reliable. All powered with clean, flameless, economical electricity.

Mother's Day? How about a hairdryer . . . an electric toothbrush . . . a decorator clock . . . or a warm electric blanket? Father's Day? Delight Dad with an electric razor, an electric charcoal starter, a handy power tool set, or a radio for his workbench. Wedding? What newlywed couple would not appreciate an electric blender, a knife sharpener, electric can opener, or a beautiful lamp.

When gift time rolls around, buy an electric gift! It's a present that will last and last. And it shows you care enough to give something practical and useful.

Electricity — the cleanest energy you can use.

To Ask U.S. Approval Of Sewage Finance Plan

Governor Ford requested the federal Environmental Protection Agency to approve Kentucky's new program for assisting local governments in building sewage treatment facilities.

Approval of the Kentucky Pollution Abatement Authority, created by the 1972 General Assembly, will increase the federal share in financing treatment facilities from 33 to 55 per cent.

The new state agency is authorized to issue Pollution Abatement Authority revenue bonds to raise funds, and will contribute 25 per cent of the cost of sewage treatment plants.

Local governments will be required to pay the remaining 20 per cent and to repay the state matching funds.

Governor Ford said the immediate effect of federal approval will increase grants on at least 56 projects planned for this fiscal year.

Ohio River Boaters To See Strict Law Enforcement

The newly reorganized Kentucky Division of Water Safety will strictly enforce boating safety and anti-litter regulations on the Ohio River along the state's northern border this summer.

B. N. Dossett, deputy director of the Water Safety Division, said the division's boat patrols will cover the river between Ashland and Carrollton.

"The patrols will check every craft, large and small," Dossett said. "Each operator must have his permit and certification of some kind with him at all times."

He added that a Kentucky license will be required for all boaters using the Ohio River, which is under Kentucky's jurisdiction. No Kentucky license is required for boating on tributaries of the Ohio River which are in Ohio and Indiana.

The Water Safety Division, abolished in 1968, recently was reactivated by Governor Ford.

TWO BOYS ORDERED TO REMOVE GRAFFITI

NEW YORK — Family Court Judge Shirley Kram has ordered two pre-teen-age boys to spend time removing from subway station walls graffiti they placed there with a paint-spray can.

Rather than place them in an institution for youthful offenders, Judge Kram said: "I wanted to give them the chance to adopt a responsible attitude, rather than to punish them."

Two-Year School Funding
Replace Portable Classrooms

By FRANK COOTS
State News Bureau

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Educational funding approved by the 1972 General Assembly will nearly eliminate the need for portable classroom units in Kentucky, according to Dr. Lyman V. Ginger, state superintendent of public instruction.

In a recent interview, Ginger said 3000 outside portable classrooms are presently being used in Kentucky, with some schools having more classrooms in portable units than in the building proper.

House Bill 335, the Department of Education's budget bill, provides for a $100 increase per classroom unit for capital outlay allotment during each year of the 1972-73 biennium. Ginger said this money would allow school districts which still had bonding capacity to construct new buildings, while those which can no longer issue bonds will be able to add to existing structures, and would provide funding for 2600 new classroom units, thereby eliminating the need for most portable classrooms.

Besides granting 6 per cent increases in salaries and operating expenses during each year of the biennium, HB 335 also provides 190 new classroom units for teachers of vocational education and 300 new classroom units for teachers of exceptional children.

In spite of the new vocational education units, Ginger said, there will still be a need for about 100 more units in that area. As far as the units for exceptional children are concerned, he said he is "heavily committed to special education" and "will not turn down (a qualifying application for) a single unit for special education for the next two years."

The superintendent reiterated his "philosophical" opposition to Senate Bill 36, however, which established a bureau for exceptional children within the Department of Education. He said defining the officers and responsibilities of the bureau should be left to the department and not the legislature. At any rate, he said, the bureau cannot be established, because the General Assembly did not provide funds for its creation.

Other new legislation Ginger discussed included, — SB 289 which authorizes establishment of kindergarten, or pre-school readiness, programs. Ginger said he expects every school district in Kentucky to have an operational kindergarten program within four years. — SB 18 which authorizes a referendum to amend the state constitution by providing for an elected non-partisan state Board of Education, which would appoint the superintendent of public instruction. At present, the superintendent is elected on a partisan basis and cannot hold two consecutive terms. Ginger said the amendment, if approved, would "give continuity to the office" of the superintendent because he would be able to hold his office as long as the board renewed his contract. — HB 604 which permits the operation of year-round school programs. Ginger said he supported the concept because it provides for a more effective utilization of classroom space. But he added that he expects the year-round school program to be popular only in urban areas.

Four Legislative Elections Added To May 23 Ballot

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Gov. Wendell Ford has called special elections for May 23 in the 6th Senatorial District and in the 44th, 50th and 67th Legislative districts.

The writs were issued by Ford after U.S. District Judge Mac Swinford ruled the elections must be held in districts defined by the 1971 reapportionment of the General Assembly.

William A. Logan resigned from the 6th District senatorial seat to become chairman of the state Public Service Commission.

The vacancy in the 67th Legislative District resulted from the resignation of James E. Murphy to become Newport police judge.

Bernard Keene left his 50th District post to become the new distilled spirits administrator, and James Yocum resigned as representative from the 44th District in Jefferson County to become commissioner of labor.

Actually, new district lines were drawn during the 1972 regular session of the legislature, but since the elections will select lawmakers to complete terms of persons elected in the old districts, the old boundaries will be observed.

The special elections are being held in conjunction with the May 23 primary to save taxpayers the expense of a special election later this year, Governor Ford said.

Signs of the End

By WILMAY

One of every 25 verses in the New Testament is about the Second Coming of Jesus. Mt. 24, Luke 21, Mk. 13, and many more give signs to precede the anticipated event, most of which apply primarily to the tribulation, but some passages, like Mt. 24:40-41, refer solely to the rapture that will usher in the seven years of horrors. The most important omen is that Israel become an independent nation again, and she is now.

The closing of time will resemble the days of Noah (Mt. 24:37-39) when men became so wicked God destroyed all except eight persons on earth, Genesis discloses. That age was marked by the lack of a knowledge of God, by murder. It was one of murders, business, building cities, using metals, making music — all prevalent now. Closing days will be like those of Lot, too, described in Ezek. 16. Many insist America is more wicked than Sodom was, though WE have had the gospel 2000 years. God sent fire and brimstone to destroy the unrighteous but he spared Lot and his daughters.

II Tim. 3:1-13 pictures the final days, how men shall love themselves. Compare the simple epitaph on the plain slab of Cal Coolidge's grave with the expensive memorials now planned by almost every President in his lifetime — at the taxpayers' expense — and the millions spent for annual upkeep, when something far less extravagant would suffice. Scripture says men will become heady, fierce, boasters, blasphemers, unthankful, unholy, proud, haughty, covetous, unnatural, despising those who are good. They will be lovers of pleasure. Children will disobey their parents in wholesale numbers, a situation allegedly growing worse now. Daniel discusses the end; 12:4 says that many will run to and fro. When have so many traveled as today? Knowledge will increase vastly. It already has. There will be a falling away from the church, God, and righteousness. II Thess. 2:3. Look at most churches, prayer meetings dying, seats often half empty on Sundays. Noted evangelist Dr. Oliver Greene says on Sunday nights you could shoot through the sanctuary with a machine gun and no one get a scratch. Dan. 12:8-10 claims that none of the wicked will understand the closing times.

Mt. 24 says there will be wars and rumors of wars; nation will rise against nation and kingdom against kingdom, as of today. There will be famines — already started — pestilences, earthquakes in divers places. Remember Alaska, Peru, the tidal wave in Pakistan, Hurricane Camille on the Gulf coast in 1969. Mt. 24 announces that false Christs and prophets will appear. They are everywhere now. Iniquity will abound and the love of many wax cold. Dr. Greene, the modern Wesley, declares that if the preacher kept people at church as late as they sit by the TV they would have 17 fits and two dozen spasms. (We are indebted to his booklet, SIGNS OF THE TIMES, for some of the signs from scripture. In it he states: "Today corresponds with the last church age in Rev. 3. The Laodicean Church was neither hot nor cold. Because they were lukewarm God threatened to spue them out of his mouth. Surely the Lord must be sick of the whole religious mess today . . . this crowd who are not Christians, but who can sing and pray and teach on Sunday — and the rest of the week live exactly like the devil wants them to live. ". . . They drink; they swear; they dance; they go to the places of the world. By the way they live, you would never know they belong to the church." (page 12) And, he adds, "The average church member knows no more about the Second Coming of Jesus than a pig knows about Sunday."

Mt. 24:33: When ye shall see all these things, know that it (the Second Coming) is near, even at the doors." Note the word ALL. For the first time in history all these signs and others in the Bible are present. Many believe the Day of Sorrows began with WW I in 1914. Few biblical subjects are more fascinating than that of the Second Coming, the Rapture and the Tribulation.

PANAMA (AP) — Panama has offered to serve as a center for international police operations against illegal drug production and traffic in the Western Hemisphere.

Dr. Hall, Recipient Of Service Award

University of Kentucky President Otis A. Singletary was among four recipients of the UK Alumni Association's Annual Service Award, given at the association's annual meeting and banquet tonight (May 12).

W. Russell Cox, Bethesda, Maryland, Dr. Paul B. Hall, Paintsville, and Charles O. Landrum, Covington, joined Dr. Singletary as award recipients.

Dr. Singletary was cited by the association for his "loyalty to and constant support of" the association, according to Joe C. Creason, Louisville, who served as chairman of the selection committee and presented the awards.

Dr. Hall, veteran Paintsville physician, was cited for his work as a former trustee of the University and as a former director of the Alumni Association's board. Creason reminded the gathering of nearly 350 alumni of Dr. Hall's many contributions to the University and the K-Men's Association, and organization of former lettermen. Dr. Hall was a member of the baseball team during his stay at UK.

35 Miles of Morgan Stream Believed Strip-Mine 'Victim'

Aquatic life in the 35-mile length of a Morgan county creek has been killed by what biologists believe to be run-off from a strip-mine operation.

It appears a court battle may be forming over Elk Fork Creek in the area here from the mouth of Deadning Branch Elk Fork empties into the Licking River.

"Acid spills will be washing into the creek for the next 50-100 years," according to Harold Barber, chief wildlife biologist, Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

"The stream is permanently damaged," he said.

Normally a stream of clear running water with tall trees and thick vegetation lining its banks, it has become dyed with orange deposits of rubble and vegetation, with the water covered with a layer of bluish silt.

Tripple Elkhorn Mining Co. has been working in the area of Crockett, at the mouth of Deadning Creek, but has recently moved into Johnson county.

"What Tripple was doing," Barber said, "was reclaiming the land and recontouring — pushing dirt over the edge. This will continue to crumble and silt the creek," he said.

Everything from the lowest water life — crawfish and creek chubs — to three types of bass and some pickerel used to live in the water but it is now all dead. Chemists have found a 3.7 ph level "that would kill anything," Barber commented.

"You could hold a minnow by the tail and dunk it in and it doesn't even wiggle." The biologist said he can stand in the creek at the mouth of Deadning Branch and see minnows and other aquatic life in the water upstream. But from there to the Licking River, "everything is dead."

"This is definitely going to a higher court," Barber said Saturday. Officials from his department, and from the Water Pollution Control Commission have sent their test reports to the Kentucky Attorney General's office for evaluation, he said.

The biologist said every effort to correct the condition of the creek will be made.

Cadillac'72

It's a great time to buy the great car.

If you've ever considered owning a Cadillac, or even if you haven't, there are some especially good reasons for considering it right now.

For one, consider what Cadillac can mean to your vacation plans. It affords a degree of comfort, spaciousness and elegance that can help turn long, tedious trips into truly pleasurable ones.

Consider, too, the variety of Cadillac models currently offered. From the beautiful Coupe deVille shown above to the elegant Eldorado Coupe and Convertible, there are nine great cars. And right now, your authorized Cadillac dealer can probably supply just the model you want just the way you want it.

Perhaps the most decisive reason, though, for buying a Cadillac now is the most practical one—the move to Cadillac ownership is especially easy at this time. Because of this, and because Cadillac's resale value is traditionally the highest in the land, buying a Cadillac now is an especially attractive investment.

So visit your authorized dealer soon. It's a great time for it.

Whatsoever Things

It's an old, old story. I'm sure most of you have heard it more than once. But it is a timeless story, and worth passing on again and again, even if we have heard it before.

Around the year 1490 there were two men, both struggling, young artists, who were very good friends. But both of them were also poor, and that meant that they had to support themselves while they studied art. Because the work took so much of their time and energy, their advancement in the field of art was very slow. Discussing their plight, they came upon an agreement. They would draw straws, they decided, and the one who won would study while the other would work to support both of them.

The two drew straws, and the one who lost went to work to support both of the men. The young artist who won went to the cities of Europe to study. History records that he soon became recognized as one of the outstanding artists of his time.

A part of their agreement also said that when the one who won the drawing became successful he would then support the other in his studies. So, after gaining success, the winner went back to his home to get his friend and let him come study art while the successful artist supported both men on his earnings.

When the man who had become a recognized artist saw his friend again he discovered that the hard, manual labor which his friend had to perform had caused his fingers to become stiff and twisted. He was no longer able to execute the delicate strokes with the brush which were necessary for an artist. It was apparent that the dream of becoming a successful artist could never come true for the man who had lost the drawing.

The successful artist noticed a very unusual trait in his friend whose fingers were twisted. The friend accepted his fate not bitterly, but was happy that he had played a part in the success of the other man. He actually rejoiced in his friend's success!

One day the artist came upon his friend unexpectedly. He saw him kneeling and praying. He was praying for the success of his friend, although he himself could no longer realize his dream of becoming an artist. Something about the kneeling man caught the attention of the artist, and he hurriedly sketched the hands folded in prayer. Later, the artist took that sketch and from it drew one of the most famous and copied paintings in the world.

The man who painted the hands was Albrecht Durer. The man whose hands he painted was Franz Knigstein. And the picture he painted is known today as "The Praying Hands."

The beauty and inspiration of "The Praying Hands" comes from the life that made it possible. And remember, also, that drawing a picture of beauty and inspiration isn't nearly as important as living one.

YOU AND THE DRAFT

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Since the resumption of draft calls in April, our office has received some interesting inquiries from people who could be directly or indirectly affected.

In one such inquiry, Lydia Sue, who was suing her husband, Jonathan, for divorce, wanted to know what effect the divorce action would have on his draft status.

Jonathan was born Nov. 1, 1947 and his lottery number from the first drawing was 019. He married Lydia Sue in 1968. After a daughter was born to the couple on April 15, 1970, Jonathan became eligible for a 3-A (paternal) classification. The birth came eight days before the April 23, 1970, Executive Order which phased out paternal deferments.

As Jonathan had continued to maintain a bona fide family relationship until the divorce action was instituted in February 1972, he was retained in Class 3-A.

Lydia Sue frankly admitted that she no longer had any love for Jonathan but, on the other hand, she did not want him to be drafted, especially since he would be 25 in November.

Our best advice to her was that if Jonathan was no longer maintaining a bona fide family relationship with her and the child, he was no longer eligible for the 3-A deferment. If Jonathan was reclassified 1-A by his draft board, because his lottery number was 019 he probably would be drafted, provided the token draft calls continue.

Up to this point, we have purposely omitted one fact that may have a bearing on the case. This was that Lydia Sue had told us that Jonathan was 5'11" and weighed 250 pounds.

If the weight and height given was correct, under current standards set by the Department of Defense he would be found not qualified for military service. We did not tell her this; the Armed Forces Examining and Entrance Station (AFEEES) determines a young man's acceptability for military service.

If Jonathan was processed for a physical examination and disqualified for being overweight, he would be eligible for consideration for Class 4-F.

Green Thumb Therapy

By LOIS CAMPBELL
State News Bureau

FRANKFORT, Ky. — A philosopher once said that the happiest people are those who are producing something.

Industrial therapy patients at Eastern State Hospital in Lexington prove this point with their greenhouse and grounds beautification projects.

Harold Hughes, grounds maintenance manager at the mental health facility, explains, "Digging in the soil and watching a flower grow have long been tools of the psychiatrist in helping the mentally disturbed and depressed."

Hughes, along with a couple of part-time employees, works with seven-man patient teams on grounds beautification projects and operation of a hospital greenhouse.

While ground maintenance is a necessary function in the hospital operations, the greenhouse serves more as a therapeutic tool. Using plants donated by three local garden clubs, the patients propagate greenhouse species by breaking off small sprigs and watch them grow, with proper care and attention, into leafy plants or trailing vines. Geraniums, begonias and a number of vines lend themselves to this kind of propagation.

"It's amazing the effect this green-thumb therapy has on the patients," Hughes said. "Breaking off one little twig, sticking it in the sand and nourishing its growth can bring a man back to reality."

Strolling through the steamy greenhouse, Hughes proudly points to pots of blooming plants among a medley of vining varieties grown by the patients.

A few prospective buyers browse among the plants — which are on sale for 50 cents or a dollar — though Hughes hastens to add that the hospital is really not interested in the money. In fact, most plants are sold to hospital employees or patients' relatives, he noted.

"What little money we do make from sales is reverted to an industrial therapy fund and is then distributed among the patients as an incentive," he said.

"The amount is nominal, just enough for pocket money or cigarettes."

COMPUTER USED TO FIND OVERDUE PARKING FINES
ELGIN, ILL. — The computer has caught up with persons who have overdue parking fines.

City officials, according to David Jepson, assistant finance director, said the new system includes forms that list all overdue fines owed by the car owner.

KEEPING BUSY—A program of planned activities for senior citizens is a new service offered at two Lexington personal care facilities operated by the Bluegrass Mental Health-Mental Retardation Board. Here Ted Marshall, a University of Kentucky sociology graduate student, helps Dorothy Hill, an elderly resident, piece together a puzzle.

Retarded May Be More Apt To Develop Creativity

By JIM PARMAN
Ky. Dept. of Mental Health
FRANKFORT, Ky. — Are the mentally retarded more open for development of creative ability, such as art, than are persons of average intelligence?

Jim Asher, who teaches art at Outwood State Hospital and School near Dawson Springs, believes this may be the case.

Asher believes the retarded person's innocence or frequent cushioning from social and personal expectations often leaves him more open to creative progression than others who many times have this drive snuffed out by the demands of everyday living.

As an example, Asher points to Margaret Cooper. A highly energetic girl just a few months shy of her 20th birthday, Margaret in many ways is still a child.

A resident of Outwood, she is a 19-year-old with a mental age of seven-and-one-half who radiates a love for life in her beautiful, full smile and her sensitive, highly original drawings.

A scene of an African fairy tale and a unique feet-to-head view of her art instructor, Asher, are two contrasting drawings from her collection.

The fairy tale sketch shows a tree-dotted plain surrounding a fluffy-faced lion next to an African child. The child's face is only a profile of the head and the cheeks with tiny dots for eyes. Both lion and child are peeping from a screen of reeds.

"Portrait of Teacher" presents her art teacher from a feet-first angle as he sits with feet propped up on a desk. The remarkably accurate detail of the teacher's face contrasts with the featureless face of the African child and other human figures drawn by Margaret.

"Art expression is a kind of gut reaction," Asher explains. "It has a compelling force very much akin to the development of language skills. Achievement in a creative field will hopefully lead to higher overall development and increased ability to function in the community," the art instructor continued.

"Of course every Outwood resident is not an artist. All do not excel, but many do."

Margaret's drawings are a good example of the imagination, feeling and originality often latent in the retarded. Her desire to "draw comics for the funny paper" is being explored by those responsible for educational publications of the Kentucky Department of Mental Health.

"That peculiar innocence often attributed to residents like Margaret has slowly become the innocence of a much more perceptive human being," Asher explains. "Margaret has developed a sensitive integration of her experiences and ability to express them through her art."

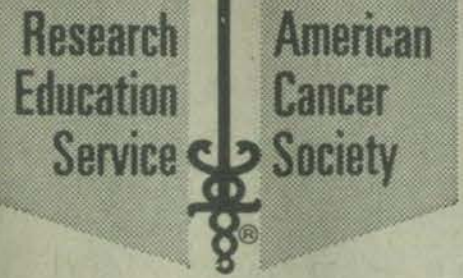

"It remains to be seen if it is possible for Margaret and others like her to gain new skills and learning," he observed. "Will she be able to understand more fully the relationship of what she draws to the real world around her? Or is Margaret's talent only a simple exercise limited in some predestined way by her mental condition?"
