Six Jailed For Fines Are Freed $2-a-Day Jail Stay Voided for Persons Who Can't Pay Fines The long-accepted court procedure of committing to jail a prisoner who cannot pay his fine was overturned here in separate actions last Friday and again Monday with the release of habeas corpus of six such prisoners from the Floyd county jail. A seventh was also held free but remained in jail because of other charges pending against him.

The seven men had been convicted and fined and when they could not pay their fines were committed to jail, their stay in jail to be credited against their fines at the rate of $2 a day.

The first habeas corpus action, heard by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley last Friday, released Paul Minix and Mike Miller, each of whom had been fined $250 by Police Judge Tom Laferty of Prestonsburg, for possession of marijuana. Charles Dahlenburg, of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund legal staff, filed the habeas corpus petition in their behalf, alleging that imprisonment of a defendant who is unable to pay his fine is unconstitutional in that it violates the Equal Protection clause of the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Dahlenburg pointed out that the Supreme Court in the case of Tate vs. Short had held that everybody is entitled to an opportunity to pay their fines and that jailing of a defendant who is unable to pay while another defendant who can pay is freed upon payment of his fine, is in violation of the 14th Amendment.

The defendants testified they were unable to pay but that they have an opportunity to be employed in this area. The cases of five others heard by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley Monday

Lease Revives Threat Against Knott Co. Land

Just two months after a Virginia land and coal agent apparently gave up plans to strip mine some 24,780 acres of coalrich land in Knott and two adjoining counties, property owners of the disputed land are again being faced with similar threat from another out-of-state concern.

According to a lease filed August 30 in the Knott county clerk's office, Hugh N. Rakes, of Salem, Va., and J. E. Berry, of Staunton, Va., leased the coal rights of the involved coal acreage to the Clinton Coal Corporation, Clinton, Tennessee. It is not clear why Mr. Rakes, president of Clinton Coal, leased the land to himself.

Rakes also runs the company that assigned deeds to Bob Bales, a Glade Spring, Va. land agent. It was Bales who, last June and July, attempted to initiate stripping operations in the area, reportedly telling local residents that the deeds and patents he had received from Rakes dated back to an English royal charter issued in 1710. Bales gave up his mining plans after widespread local opposition developed from families, primarily in Knott county where all but 1.000 acres of the land is located, who hold deeds to the same land claimed by Bales.

"Weed" Patch Discovered

Officials got into the marijuana patch recently on Coldwater, near Betsy Layne, and destroyed 75 hefty plants found in a carefully cultivated bed. Shown at the scene are, from left, County Judge Henry Stumbo, County Detective Sam Hale and County Attorney James R. Allen. The patch was discovered by State Detective Danny Stumbo.

Filing Deadline Settles Lineup Of Candidates

The lineup of candidates for places on the Floyd County Board of Education from Educational Division 1 and 2 became complete with last Wednesday's deadline for candidates to file.

Four of the candidates-Dr. James D. Adams, incumbent in Division 1, and three in Division 2, the incumbent, Ray Campbell, of Banner, Donald L. "Donnie" Lafferty, of Martin, and Gene D. Davis, of Banner-had already advertised their candidacies. The filing of Hershel Joseph, of Prestonsburg, to oppose Dr. Adams had not been preceded by advertising.

Donald Clark Nunnery, who filed for re-election to the Prestonsburg City Council, a post to which he was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the death last March of his father, Byron Nunnery, is unopposed. The Council vacancy following the resignation of Dr. N. Roger Jurich will be filled by appointment because Dr. Jurich resigned less than 90 days prior to the election.

Shooting of Woman Reported Accidental

Mrs. Bebe Hayes Conn was shot in both legs, early last Friday morning at her Harold home, and is in Central Baptist Hospital Lexington where she underwent surgery.

A relative of the wounded woman said the shooting of Mrs. Conn was accidental. This source said her husband, Emmett Conn, had made a search of the residence and surrounding grounds after they had been awakened by what they thought was a prowler. Finding no intruder, Conn kept a brief watch from a snack bar before returning to bed. Meanwhile, Mrs. Conn had without his knowledge left the bedroom and gone outside the house. As she re-entered in the semi-darkness her husband mistook her for the prowler and fired, this report says.

Her condition was described as quite

Red, White, Blue Day Set Oct. 26

In response to numerous inquiries about plans for this year's Red, White and Blue Day and if there will be one, Mrs. Marcella Bailey, Langley housewife who founded the patriotic observance, said this week Red, White and Blue Day will not only be held but that she hopes that this year's, the fifth, "will be a show to surpass all others we have had."

The celebration, which will involve Floyd and surrounding counties, will be held Saturday, Oct. 26, with the morning program at 10 o'clock in the municipal parking lot, near the courthouse. The parade of floats, military units, bands, school children and adults depicting old ways and days in costumes and vocations, will be at 2 p.m.

The day has been listed in Kentucky's Bicentennial Calendar of Events. Said Mrs. Bailey:

"We hope to include 10 counties in our celebration this year, and all others are welcome to help and take part."

The Floyd County Fair as an institution be entered between 9 a.m. and 12 noon Friday, and livestock and poultry must be on the fairgrounds and properly entered by 11 a.m. Saturday.

Exhibits must remain at the The fair, as in the past, will feature fairgrounds till 2 p.m. Saturday. All exhibits, except flowers, poultry and livestock, will be judged after 5 p.m. Wednesday. Judging of flowers will be at noon Friday, and livestock judging will be after 11 a.m. Saturday.

Friday will be Kids' Day. High school bands will be featured Saturday, and two bicycles will be given to as many lucky Industrial exhibits, displays by special groups and clubs, school exhibits and displays of antiques, hobbies, fine arts, handicrafts, textiles, and the work of FHA, FFA and 4-H groups will have a prominent place in the fair.

W. R. Callihan, chairman, and other members of the Fair Board welcome all residents of this and nearby counties to the fair. They expressed the hope that "you will make the most of this opportunity to enjoy the fellowship of friends and neighbors . . ."

Action by Jury Climaxes Probe; One Bill Voided

A five-year murder-mystery investigation culminated last week in the indictment by the grand jury here of two men in the shooting death of James M. Chaffins on Arkansas Creek.

Bobby Workman and Gory Porter, Jr. were named in the murder indictment, but the charge against Porter was later dismissed at the request of Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo. The prosecutor explained that a review of the evidence shows it is not sufficient to sustain a conviction at this time.

The body of Chaffins was found at the roadside on Arkansas, May 4, 1969. He had been shot four times. Fifteen witnesses, six of whom are officers, were listed in the indictment.

Eighteen liquor indictments were reported by the grand jury at its adjournment last Friday, and 10 of these named defendants on second and third offenses. Conviction on a third-offense indictment carries a two-year pen term.

Clarence Martin, of Drift was named in three third-offense true bills alleging possession of alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale, and Cora Slone, of the Sugar Loaf vicinity, and Milton Johnson were named in two such indictments.

Wreck-Injured Ask $7,375,000 In Two Actions

A total of $7,375,000 in damages were asked in separate suits filed in circuit court here Saturday by a mother and son who were injured in an auto-truck collision near here, early this year.

Mrs. Glenna Music, of West Van Lear, sued for $5,127,000. Her son, Earl Michael Music, asks $2,248,000. Both suits name as defendants R. C. Durr, individually, and the R. C. Durr Co. or R. C. Durr Co., Inc., also Durr's driver, Charles Floyd Kinman. Mrs. Music's suit also lists her son as a defendant.

Both claim carelessness and negligence of Durr's driver caused the collision last Feb. 20 of his tractor-trailer with Mrs. Music's auto, which was driven by Earl Michael Music, at the intersection of US 23 and KY 114, near here.

The claims are believed to be the heaviest made following a traffic accident in this county which did not result

Mrs. Music's complaint claims she has incurred hospital and medical expenses of at least $65,000 and that these expenses in the future will be another $100,000, with additional special expenses of $200,000. She claims $10,000 earnings already lost and loss of future earnings amounting to $500,000.

Earl Michael Music listed hospital and medical expenses to date at $8,000, with $30,000 in the same expenses anticipated in the future, plus special expenses of $100,000. His claim of wages already lost is for $10,000, with an expected further loss of $1 million. He asks $100,000 for permanent disability and damages of $500,000 for pain and suffering.

A jury trial is asked in both cases.

Dewey Visitors Increase in '74

The number of visitors to Dewey Lake is on the way up, it was indicated this week by figures released by Dean Murray, Dewey Reservoir manager.

At the end of July the visitors to the lake this year totalled 694,377-180,602 more than for the same period a year ago, Mr. Murray said.

The highest visitation recorded there was in 1970 when 2,186,900 persons were at the lake. Since that time, the figures have sharply declined.

The drawdown of Dewey Lake to five feet below its summer pool will begin Nov. 11 and under normal weather conditions will be completed by Dec. 1, Murray said.

The drawdown at Dewey Lake is the least to be made among area impoundments. The Grayson Reservoir drawdown which will begin Oct. 28 will be 37 feet; John Flanagan, Oct. 14, 16 feet, and Fishtrap, also on Oct. 14, 32 feet.

David Water System Damage Is Claimed

The man for whom the town of David was named and two coal companies were sued last Saturday in circuit court here for a total of $3 million by David Properties, Inc., owner of the town itself.

The suit lists as defendants David L. Francis, Huntington, W. Va., head of the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company at the time David was built and in its heyday as a coal producing center; the Mari Fuel Processing Co., Prestonsburg, and the Royal Coal Corp., Pikeville.

Plantiff claims the defendants, jointly or severally, or in a joint venture, have by their mining operations caused pollutants, refuse and siltation to contaminate the David water system. It is claimed that the contamination has increased the cost of processing and purifying the water by $150,000 and that, despite notice served on them by certified mail, defendants have continued such contamination.

For damages to the reservoir and water supply David Properties ask $1,500,000 damages, plus $1,000,000 punitive damages.

Plaintiff also alleges that defendants have, without legal right or the consent of David Properties, done surface damage there in transporting coal across its property. An injunction against further transportation of coal was asked, and the plaintiff seeks approval of a charge of 50 cents a ton for coal hauled across plaintiff's property and $500,000 punitive damages for past coal haulage.

David Properties is headquartered at Branham Village, near here. It includes holdings acquired by Woodrow Branham.

Mother of 13, Sculptor-Artist, To Exhibit Works at Library

Ida Pritchard, of Dwale, is having an exhibit of her art in the Floyd County Library from September 16 to October 15. She will show 12 pieces of sculpture and nine paintings.

Mrs. Pritchard uses a combination of direct modelling and carving to achieve her result. Celluclay, sculptamold and sculpta mike are modelled directly over an iron and wire mesh armature, making molds and casting unnecessary. Her paintings, for the most part, are in acrylics, though she sometimes uses transparent water-colors.

Mrs. Pritchard has raised a family of 13 children. Her first husband died in a mine accident when their youngest child was two months old. Since that time she has resided at Dwale. In 1967 she married Walt Pritchard, art professor at Alice Lloyd College, and enrolled in his art classes. Later, she was his unofficial studio assistant.

Mr. Pritchard says of her, "All I did was put the tools in her hand; she did the

Of her work Mrs. Pritchard says, "My ideas come from things I see and experience; I think art has made me more sensitive and perceptive to life around me. For instance, I now see bare trees as beautiful; whereas, before they seemed grim. I'm interested in all mediums but lean toward sculpture, more and more. # Law Enforcement Training Receives More Funds

In a recent address to the Kentucky Law Enforcement Council, State Justice Secretary Henri Mangeot stated that Kentucky is spending more on lawenforcement training programs since the state government reorganization. Figures show that last year the state spent about $558,000 on law-enforcement training programs as compared to approximately $785,000 which will be spent this year. The Kentucky Law Enforcement Council certifies police instruction programs, sets standards of law enforcement in the state and also serves as a sounding board and guidance service for law-enforcement officials.

afternoon were identical to the first two. After this hearing Ellis Joe Campbell, Robert Damron and Del Thompson won their release on the claim that their constitutional rights had been violated. John Horn was released from jail on his $250 fine levied by County Judge Henry Stumbo for marijuana possession, but he was held in jail because a traffic offense against him is pending.

The fifth man involved in the Monday hearing, John Leroy Porter, who had been fined $23 for public drunkenness by Trial Commission Yvonne Stumbo, at first was denied his release because he has Black Lung compensation income. But when it was shown that funds from this source are not at hand and that he needs treatment at University Medical Center, Lexington, for a broken hip, he was released and was given till Oct. 5 to pay the $17 remainder due on his $29 fine after he had been in jail six days.

Damron and Thompson had been fined $84 and $51, respectively, by Magistrate Dewey Roberts on traffic violation charges.

Circuit Judge Conley ordered that each of the defendants pay his fine at varying monthly rates, depending upon the number of his dependents or other financial circumstances. These payments range from $25 to $75 a month

Although Rakes' lawyers contend that he still holds mineral rights to the land under the deeds, Clinton Coal Corporation has neither applied for nor received a state mining permit, according to spokesmen for the state Division of Reclamation, and most lawyers who have dealt with the deeds doubt that Rakes' claim to the 119 tracts involved would be upheld in court.

The land Bales claimed under Rakes' patents included the homes of at least 79 families and property that has belonged to some of the families for more than 150 years. The land contains coal claimed by several other coal companies, and includes two Knott county public schools, several churches and cemeteries, and two sections of the University of Kentucky's Robinson Forest.

Once There Was a Coal Boom And a Place Called Himlerville

(From the Martin County Mercury) Most persons driving through the village of Beauty, on Route 40 between Inez and Warfield never stop to think that this place wasn't always called Beauty. Some do wonder how it got its name, other small communities in the 1920's

Around 1932, a coal company was formed there and they called the company, The Kentucky Beauty Coal Company-a throwback on the high grade coal and the beautiful town.

Prior to 1932, the town had been called Himlerville-for the Himler Coal Company and Martin Himler, the man who headed the operation.

Mr. Himler, who was a very distinguished and intelligent man was also a dreamer. He had been the leader in establishing the company to mine the coal there, but he had also envisioned a utopia-a town of Hungarians who had been uprooted from their homeland during World War I in Europe.

LOSING HAIR?

Himler, along with other Hungarian 'county would have had their present coal investors developed the company and the community. They took the best of their homeland and re-built it in Himlerville.

Himlerville was also different from because it was a boom town and a very progressive town.

There were two large houses on the hill overlooking Himlerville, one belonged to Mr. Himler and the other belonged to his associate, Eugene Lang, but they weren't the only buildings there because a short distance away stood a third building, a huge structure, that served as the community center for the town.

And it was a community center. Everything happened there from church services to fall festivals. Frequently, there were performances by big name entertainers from as far away as Hollywood and New York. It also served as the local movie house.

The community had everything that a progressive community should. There was a grade school with teachers who earned more than the county teachers because the community supplemented their salaries.

They also had their own bank. The Himler State Bank which was formed in 1919 with Martin Himler as its president. Other share holders and directors of the bank were: Dr. H. Haws, W. R. McCoy, L. Booth, Floyd Brewer, Eugene Lang, and Fitz Roka. The bank did business county wide and was a growing institution.

But more important than the fine buildings and big companies and big payrolls, were the people of Himlerville. Displaced by President Wilson's "War

To End Wars" these people had come to America-the land of opportunity-and were building a new and better life than they had before.

They were a proud people; an energetic people that took pride in heir work and their homes.

The landscape around Himlerville was dotted with new homes, many of them built with loans from the Himler Bank. There were small gardens and numerous flower gardens. And long before Garden Clubs became popular, the community gave an award to the house with the prettiest lawn each month.

In the center of Himlerville was a company store that housed the offices of the Himler Coal Company upstairs. This big building is still standing today. For years, it was the Pauley store and is now used by an auto parts firm.

The school house and bank buildings are still there, along with the Himler home on the hill.

A cemetery was left there too. It sits on the hill behind Tommy and Alice Kirk's home. But there isn't any road and it has long been forgotten by most people, except those that have relatives there.

As our nation nears its 200th birthday it would seem appropriate that at Beauty we have some type of historical marker to commemorate Himlerville as the only all Hungarian community formed in this country after World War I.

It's possible that if the depression hadn't come in the late 1920's, Himlerville would still be thriving-that the

Uhl To Address SPE

A. E. Uhl, principal engineer of Liquified Natural Gas Systems with Bechtel Inc. in San Francisco and a 1974-75 Distinguished Lecturer of the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME, will be the guest speaker at the September meeting of the East Kentucky Section, Society of Petroleum Engineers, Wednesday, September 18, at 6:30 p.m. at the Paintsville Country Club. This is the first in a series of three lectures scheduled by the SPE.

Mr. Uhl will discuss the emergence of LNG as a viable alternate source of energy and will exame the position that LNG currently holds in the global energy picture as well as the LNG export-import systems currently in operation. He will also forecast future imports of LNG and the various geographical areas where LNG depots are likely to be built.

CADILLAC MOTOR CAR DIVISION

CADILLAC 1975

Then and Now...an American Standard for the World.

And what a standard it sets for 1975! There's the brilliant new six-window Sedan deVille, on the right. The bold new Eldorado Convertible, left, with that great profile. And seven other new models in the tradition of our 1931 Phaeton and other great Cadillacs of the past. Including a sleek new Coupe deVille. A magnificent new Fleetwood Brougham. Exciting new Calais with youthful plaid interiors. And new special edition cars for that special touch of elegance.

Efficient as it is elegant. The best overall operating economy in years is one of the benefits of a series of advancements we call The System. Included is the Catalytic Converter, a new device that does its job of emissions control outside the engine-rather than inside-making it possible to recalibrate the engine for smoother overall performance. Another vital link is our High Energy Ignition that delivers higher voltage to fire marginal fuel mixtures under adverse conditions.

Additional benefits. All this, combined with the use of unleaded gas, a "tighter" torque converter, steel-belted radial tires and other advancements adds up to the best Cadillac performance in years. As well as reduced maintenance and lower overall operating costs. Longer intervals between service. And cleaner air for everyone.

Our feature attraction. Consider that Cadillac 1975 has an array of standard features unsurpassed in Cadillac history. Including Automatic Climate Control, a six-way power seat, AM/FM radio with automatic power antenna (signal-seeking stereo on Brougham and Eldorado), lamp monitors, steel-belted radial tires, power door locks and tinted glass.

For your added pleasure . . . there is an inviting selection of other new features available. A glass dome Astroroof. An illuminated entry system for nighttime convenience and security. An air cushion restraint system. A reclining front passenger seat in Eldorado. And shortly after introduction, Electronic Fuel Injection will be available on all models.

This year, slip into something really comfortable...any 1975 Cadillac. The ride is smooth and quiet. Interiors comfortable and sumptuous.

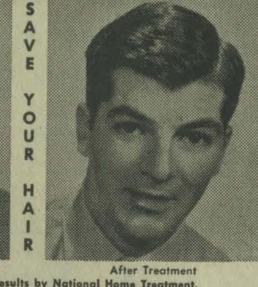

When second best isn't good enough.

A Day To Remember

Most Americans are sated, if not disgusted, with so many designated "days" and "weeks" which range from the ridiculosity of National Biscuit Week to the honored Thanksgiving, Christmas and Fourth of July.

Constitution Day, Sept. 17, has never claimed the attention that is each year given national holidays, but the country, with tragic, soul-trying experiences barely behind or still with it, might well take time this year to give special recognition to Constitution Day.

For this supreme law of the land is the tangible power and the intangible spirit that holds us together. This is the document which emerged from the minds and souls of men whose education and training in government and law were, presumably, inferior to that of England or Continental Europe. Perhaps they wrought more than they dreamed. At any rate, they benefitted from five hundred years of trial and error beginning with the Magna Carta and extending through English history to their own weak efforts at government as scattered colonies.

Without the Constitution, the nation could not have existed. Instead, the states would have continued as they were before its signing and ratification: each state acting like an independent country; the affairs of each state conducted without respect to other states or to the country as a whole; a dozen different currencies in circulation; one state raising tariff barriers against another, and so on.

But in those critical days Americans ground out for Americans the basic law that holds the whole fabric of government together. Not all was harmony in those days. There was debate, argument, dissension, even bitterness. Of the 55 delegates to the Constitutional Convention, 16 went home. Patrick Henry, whose oratory had given America a battle cry, refused to serve because he opposed the granting of more power to the national government. On one occasion all seemed lost till the delegates were called to prayer.

But the framers of this law continued to work, and what they produced works as has no other government in the history of mankind. This Constitution is a living, growing creation, subject to change by amendment to meet human needs but remaining true to the needs of the nation. The wisdom of its authors is reflected in this statement made by James Madison during the convention:

"In framing a system which we wish to last for ages, we should not lose sight of the changes which ages will produce."

Gladstone described this Constitution of ours as "the most wonderful work ever struck off at a given time by the brain and

And now, in these troubled days, the Constitution still lives and serves. We can blame the President, the Congress, the courts we can blame even our precious selves-for our national woes, but few there are, if any, who have ever condemned this masterpiece to the point of calling for another constitutional purpose of man."

After reading in the Times of the steamboat found in the bed of the Big Sandy River at Prestonsburg, I waited hoping that some one would report other than me, and who would have more knowledge of this boat than I have, but after reading of this again in the September 11th issue, I feel that it would be interesting for me to relate what was told to me by my parents when I was about ten years old.

My father, L. D. Layne, took a few rides on this boat when it was making trips on the Big Sandy river, and it is likely that others are living who could verify my statements. The sound of the whistle on this boat was extremely lovely. I think that I was living at the time and can remember it myself and watched it pass our home at Tram.

It was owned and operated by some Laynes who lived at Laynesville (now Harold), and I think they would be Dr. P. C. (Cam) Layne, Frank M. Layne and Lemuel Layne. It is most likely that Dr. P. C. Layne did most of the financing. The life of this boat was short, and on an excursion trip it encountered a rock or a snag in the river at Prestonsburg which resulted in its sinking. The pilot blew a number of long blasts, hopeful of getting some help, but no assistance came, and the whistle cord was tied down and the SOS continued till all the steam was exhausted, then the Laynesville, as it was named, sank. The owners and the operators lived at Laynesville, a village of many Layne settlers at that time. Some years later a Mr. Henry Hatcher and his son, Harold Hatcher, came to Laynesville and operated a general store there for many years, and the Hatcher folks had enough influence to have the name of the post office changed from Laynesville to Harold in honor of Harold Hatcher.

And now, in my judgment, for the sake of preserving the history, and in honor and memory of the early Layne settlers of this village, the name should again be changed to the original name of Laynesville. And I feel that there would be no opposition from the Hatchers by reason of the marriage relations of the Hatchers and Laynes. CLYDE LAYNE

Notes Constitution Week Editor, The Times:

The National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, reminds you that the week of September 17-23 is Constitution Week. It is an appropriate time for all Americans to rededicate themselves to protect and defend the Constitution of the United States. In this critical period of our nation's history, there are those who would weaken it and risk losing the sovereignty of our country. We as loyal citizens must pledge ourselves to defend the Constitution against all its enemies.

nurses will be offering free screening for welcome to attend.

Hypertension (high blood pressure) is a major factor in heart disease. Blood pressure is the amount of force blood exerts on artery walls as the heart beats. The narrowing of small arteries usually is the cause of hypertension, for it requires the heart to exert more force to push blood through the arteries. It may lead to congestive heart failure, hemorrhaging and hardened and thickened arteries. Hypertension can usually be controlled by modern medical techniques if it is detected early enough.

The health booth will also be supplied with free literature on various aspects of health.

Teacher Responsibility Stressed At Meeting

By PAULINE HICKS Reading is right in the hands of you, the teacher, members of the Jenny Wiley Council were told Tuesday night, September 10, at Porter Elementary School,

Johnson county Mr. Joseph Clark, language arts and Right To Read consultant for the state of Kentucky, told council members and guests that everything that happens in reading is the responsibility of the teacher with the help of the administration.

He cited studies which point out the fact that reading is a problem all over the state but, he said, it's much better than it was some years ago.

Variety, said Mr. Clark, could be one answer to reading problems. Reading programs can be "spiced up."

He challenged teachers to look at their reading programs for evidence of variety in techniques and methods, to see if provisions are being made for individual differences and to see if the self-concept of the students is being enhanced. Also, he asked them if parents, administrators and the community services were being involved in their programs.

While it will take the combined efforts of everyone to eliminate the reading problems, it seems to be up to the teachers to see that the program is meeting the needs of the students.

Several new projects for the year were proposed in the business section of the meeting. The first one in operation will be a booth at the Floyd County Fair beginning Wednesday, September 18, at Archer Park. The public is invited to come by and visit with members of the council who will be working at the booth.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the Porter Elementary School Faculty and the group was given a guided tour of the school.

Welfare Caseload in State

Frankfort, Ky.—The number of persons receiving welfare in Kentucky under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program decreased this year for the first time in 10 years, according to a report soon to be released by the state Department for Human Resources.

Gail S. Huecker, commissioner of the department's Bureau for Social Insurance, said in an interview yesterday the decrease was because of a "corrective action" program started by the bureau last October.

"We revalidated the entire caseload." Mrs. Huecker said.

She said an average of about 680 new cases have been added monthly, but that has been offset by an average of about 1,000 cases a month that have been

"Prior to this, we had continued growth," Mrs. Huecker said. "This is the first time in a decade that the decrease outweighs the increase."

She said many recipients dropped out of the program as the bureau told them of the system's requirements.

Mrs. Huecker said that errors in payments generally result as much from mistakes on the part of the agency handling the case as from mistakes or misrepresentation by the client.

Statistics from the report, which has been examined by federal auditors, indicate that the revalidation has been successful.

During the six-month period before the "corrective action," 29.4 per cent of those enrolled in the AFDC program were overpaid.

As of last June, those overpaid dropped to 21.7 per cent. Before revalidation, 10.1 per cent were ineligible for the payments they were receiving. In the first six months of this year that percentage dropped to 9.1 per cent, Mrs. Huecker

Mrs. Huecker said this is a significant reduction in errors.

Revalidation has saved a projected $2.2 million for the year-$614,000 of it in state funds, she said.

Mrs. Huecker acknowledged that people are concerned about the cost of welfare, particularly in a time of inflation and rising costs. They generally are pleased to see the state is saving money, but she said she regrets that welfare has such a bad image.

She noted that in 57 per cent of AFDC cases, the family consists of about one adult with one or two children.

"It's just not true that welfare families are big families," she said. "Less than 12 per cent of our families consist of more than five individuals."

Next month AFDC clients will receive an increase in payments approved by the 1974 General Assembly. The Bureau for Social Insurance also will institute a new 'consolidated standard' system to determine the amount each client

Under the old system, families were required to report any changes in their situation to a caseworker. Often the allotments would change each month, creating additional work for staff members, Mrs. Huecker said.

Clients will receive a block sum under the new system, and Mrs. Huecker hopes the reduced paperwork will allow the staff to review cases every six months, or more often, if advisable.

STAGE WATERMELON WALKOUT The entire staff of the Floyd County Times staged a brief walkout Tuesday night in response to an invitation by Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, who live next door to The Times' offices, to help them consume an 86-pound, Alabama-grown watermelon. Everyone went back to work stuffed with the tasty melon and several were seen wrapping seeds in wet tissue paper in hopes of propogating the handsome species. The watermelon walkout is not expected to affect the publication time of this week's issue.

More than $9,000 Taken in Robbery

Salt Lick, Ky.-Two armed men entered the Salt Lick Deposit Bank shortly after it opened yesterday, forced employes and customers behind a counter and fled with $9,059.

State police set up area road blocks for several hours, but Lt. James Dougherty said his troopers were hampered "because we don't know the make of the car or the direction in which the bandits drove away."

He said one man carried a .38-caliber pistol and the other a .22-caliber pistol when they confronted four customers and four employes.

"This is a holdup. Everyone behind the counter," the bandits ordered, then began scooping up cash.

Flu Vaccine Supply For Health Depts. Is Made Available

For the first time, the Department for Human Resources (DHR) will be able to supply Kentucky's district and county health departments with influenza vaccine, at no cost to the health depart-

"We have a limited amount of a new vaccine which is more potent than the older vaccines, yet at the same time produces very few side effects," Dr. C. Hernandez, director of the Division for Preventive Services in DHR's Bureau for Health Services, said. "Because this improved vaccine has been developed, it seems practical for us to offer it to local . State Police Detectives under the health departments."

Dr. Hernandez points out that since the supply is limited, priorities for the vaccine's use be given to "high risk" individuals-those over 65 years old, or anyone, regardless of age, who has a chronic condition such as heart disease, chronic respiratory diseases, kidney disease, diabetes or other metabolic disorders. "These are the people who are likely to be seriously ill if they contract influenza," he explains.

The newer, more powerful flu vaccine provides protection with just one shot, rather than the two injections previously recommended. Individuals who fall within the high-risk group should receive their immunizations before Nov. 15, in advance of the "flu season."

Dynamite Caps Left In Bank Burglary Try

Paris, Ky.—Twelve dynamite caps, apparently left behind by burglars, were removed yesterday from the floor above the vault at the People's Deposit Bank.

Police Chief John Mynear said the intruders entered the bank through a window during the week-end and drilled two holes in the concrete floor. The dynamite caps were then dropped into the hole, he said.

The caps were removed by a demolition team in Ft. Knox.

Pike Coal Operator Opposes Weight Suit

Frankfort, Ky.-A spokesman for independent coal operators in Pike county says the state's latest action to halt overweight trucks "would have the effect of stopping all coal from being transported to market."

Robert Holcomb, of Pikeville, president of Coal Operators & Associates, was referring to an injunction sought by the State Transportation Department in Pike circuit court against 500 operators and haulers. The suit filed last month also seeks $3,059,000 in damages to state roads. "A tragic and misguided attempt to kill the eastern Kentucky coal industry and cripple the nation's energy supply," Holcomb commented.

He reasoned this way:

"Under present weight limits a 30,000pound load would be the maximum that could be hauled, since all coal transported usually starts on a 30,000 road, goes to 62,000 or 73,000 highway and back to a 30,000 road to be dumped.

"A medium sized tandem truck weighs from 26,000 to 32,000 pounds empty. A single axle truck weighs from 14,000 to 18,000 pounds empty, but is restricted to a 20,000 gross load.

"So the suit would have the effect of stopping all hauling since a two to fiveton load would be economically prohibitive."

Transportation Secretary Billy Paxton has said his agency merely is asking the court to make the coal industry abide by the law.

A 1974 statute is designed to phase out overweight hauls by 1978 and control routes for overweight trucks during the Summonses currently are being served on the 500 defendants and each has 20 days to file an answer.

Holcomb said some live in Virginia and West Virginia and others are out of business or have moved their operations.

He said the state's action is a contradiction of tacit policy for years.

He contended the state and various county clerks have quietly approved overweight loads in coal-producing counties by requiring licenses for the maximum 73,280-pound limit "regardless of the limit of the road to be hauled Holcomb said police even have stopped trucks and ordered the drivers to buy licenses for the higher weights.

Pike county mines will produce an estimated 23 million tons of coal this year, about 5 per cent of the national output.

"Approximately 75 per cent of the coal must be hauled in trucks over state roads," Holcomb said.

Acknowledging the practice of overweight loads is widespread, he insisted the industry has been taking "responsible action to make ourselves legal."

Arrangements with the current and past state administration for a bonding setup under which truckers would pay for road damages did not stand the test of legality and the last legislature passed another truck bill, leading to the latest

"The reasonable solution is to upgrade the highways to the point where maximum loads can be hauled," Holcomb said.

He said the coal industry is willing to foot the cost, but its plan apparently has not satisfied the administration or legislature.

Holcomb wants part of the proceeds from the 4 per cent severance tax to be used for improving coal-related roads.

The state now uses that sharplyincreasing source of revenue for general fund expenditures, except for a certain portion distributed to coal counties if a surplus accumulates. However, the counties cannot spend the money on highway repairs.

6 Charged with Manufacturing Illegal Explosives in Carter

Grayson, Ky.-Five men and a juvenile were bound over to action of a federal grand jury after posting $5,000 property bonds each in connection with charges of federal explosive law

The six were arrested recently in a raid on a tobacco barn near Grayson. Federal agents and Kentucky state policemen seized 29 tons of "anfo," a high explosive,

The explosives were disposed of by federal agents. On orders of the U.S. district attorney, the agents sold the explosives to the highest bidding mining Later, U.S. Magistrate George Stavros instructed the six persons to appear in Catlettsburg before U. S. District Court Judge H. David Hermansdorfer on Oct.

Federal agents charged three brothers, Glen Edward Savage, 25, Ronny Savage, 21, and Donny Ray Savage, 19, and a juvenile, all of Webbville, with manufacturing an explosive without a license.

Miss Stewart Trains In Sen. Cook's Office

A Langley resident was among 21 college students completing Congressional internships this summer in Senator Marlow W. Cook's office in Washington, D. C.

Rebecca Lin Stewart, daughter of Edwin V. and Shirley Stewart, worked for Cook during the second phase of the program from July 15 to Aug. 9.

As an intern Miss Stewart performed tasks designed to acquaint her with the job of a Senator, from legislative research to casework to greeting constituents at the Washington office.

Specific duties included helping fulltime staff members in liaison work with federal and Congressional service agencies, research from both office and Library of Congress sources, clerical and public relations work, and records keeping. In addition, Cook arranged for the interns to observe full sessions of the Senate and House of Representatives, as well as committee meetings and special programs for interns.

Miss Stewart will be a sophomore at the University of Kentucky this fall.

Charged with illegal storage of explosives were Jack Glass Jr. and Jimmy Diamond, both of Grayson.

James Brown, an agent with the U.S. Treasury Department's Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms division, said the explosive was sold to an Eastern Kentucky mining firm for $4,000.

A police source identified the firm as the Addington Brothers Mining Co. of Brown said under normal circumstances, the explosives would have been sold at auction at a later date.

"Because of the amount and the nature of the substance, the U.S. attorney thought it best we dispose of it as quickly as possible," he said.

The mining company later removed the explosives.

The revenue derived from the sale will be turned over to the U.S. Courts office,

"Anfo" is made by mixing ammonium nitrate and fuel oil. It is used by surface mining operations and road construction companies, Brown said.

Brown said he does not anticipate any more arrests to be made in the case, though he added agents will continue to investigate. The raid was the first of its kind in the Eastern Kentucky area, Brown said.

Lawrence Co. Orders Coal Truck Covers

LOUISA, Sept. 4 — Reacting to an appeal from a Louisa attorney, Lawrence Fiscal Court Tuesday passed a resolution directing that coal trucks be covered to prevent spillage.

Dan Bartley had asked at a previous court meeting for closer supervision of weights and an end to spillage of coal. The resolution, which he drew, was brought before the court Tuesday and passed after motion by Mart Moore and second from Fred Bailey.

The resolution pertains not only to coal trucks, but covers "all motor vehicles, trailers, and semi-trailers . . . carrying goods or material which may reasonable be expected to become dislodged and fall.

It sets up a $50-$100 fine for first offenses and $100-$300 for subsequent violations, with any after the second calling for up to four days in the county

'Please Touch' Art On Display at PCC

Please Touch, a traveling exhibition about texture, sponsored by the Kentucky Arts Commission will be on display at the Prestonsburg Community College library until September 30. The library is open from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Fridays.

The goal of the Please Touch exhibition is to help people gain a better understanding of the world of art and artists by exploring a much neglected aspect of the art work-its texture. As an artist creates an object, he spends a long time thinking about it, looking at it, and touching it. One of the qualities of a material that influences the artist to choose that material is the way it feels-its hardness, roughness, softness, squachiness, etc.

When you visit an art gallery where the finished work is on display, you are invited to think about it and to look at itbut ordered not to touch it.

The works for Please Touch were selected because they are somewhat durable as well as visually exciting and interesting to touch. The exhibition includes works of clay, fiber, and wood. In addition to the actual art objects, there are photographs, an explanatory text, and small wooden boxes, filled with interesting textures. People are requested to identify the contents without looking. There is also one large, crawl-in box.

During this exhibition, we hope people can enjoy a little of what the artist experiences as he works-the way the

So, just for this special exhibition, we are going to suspend the do not touch rule and say "please touch-but gently."

Blood Center Gets $5,789 in Donations

Donations totalling $5,789.27 have poured into the Lexington-based Central Kentucky Blood Center during the past five weeks. The donations are in support of CKBC's proposed acquisition of a totally self-contained mobile blooddrawing station.

CKBC announced plans to purchase the vehicle at a press conference, July 31. At that time Dr. Irene Roeckel, medical director at CKBC, told the press,

"In order to maintain a safe and adequate blood supply in central and eastern Kentucky, we, at the Central Kentucky Blood Center, have found it necessary to develop a program of 'going to the people'."

"Obtaining a totally self-contained mobile blood drawing station will enable us to efficiently collect blood from volunteer and replacement donors, even in remote areas," Roeckel continued. "This will be the first and only vehicle of its type in the Commonwealth. In addition to making the donation convenient for the donor, it will help us to curtail the skyrocketing cost of blood."

When asked how CKBC would fund such a vehicle, which will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000.00 Dr. Roeckel said, "Careful study suggests that financial contributions from interested groups and individuals are the best way to fund such a vehicle. Some may feel that the cost of the vehicle should be added to the cost of blood. However, present day health care costs fall too heavily upon the sick, who can ill afford to pay more."

Army Corps Files Reply To Dam Suit

The Army Corps of Engineers on Monday filed its answer to a federal suit seeking to enjoin the proposed Paints-

The suit against the Corps, filed July 10 by the Committee of Paint Creek, charges the Engineers with eight violations of federal law and lists 26 environmental issues it charges were ignored by the Corps in its 1971 environmental impact statement.

The Corps' answer, filed in U. S. District Court at Catlettsburg by United States Attorney Eugene Siler, denies the allegations and asks that the suit be dismissed.

A spokesman for the Paint Creek Committee said a preliminary hearing has yet to be scheduled.

Plans for a statewide program of environmental education in the public schools were discussed when the Kentucky Department of Education's Environmental Education Council recently met for the second time this year. The 29member council prepares recommendations for the Department of Education on ways to bring environmental education to all Kentucky schools.

Poisonous Plants of the Tri-State Region

It is said that some 12,000 children are out process removes much of the poison; poisoned each year, some fatally, by chewing the leaves of poisonous plants, or sucking out the nectar of trumpetshaped blossoms.

It is considered a supreme delight by the children to pluck trumpet-shaped blossoms rich in nectar and suck it out. These kind of blossoms, being tubular in form, are highly tempting to youngsters. But what if a child should pluck a poisonous blossom to suck out the nectar. Many do! These often meet a violent death, often with convulsions. Among the most tempting blossoms are those with large corollas and deep pits to hold the nectar. At the bottom of these blossoms there is often as much as a drop of sweet nectar, designed to attract bees and hummingbirds.

often seen growing in barnlots or hoglots, or along streams in rich ground. This one is a dangerously poisonous plant. Its habitat often near the premises make it easily accessible to children. Some have been poisoned by eating the black seeds, which drop easily out of the prickly burr when ripe in late autumn. This large, sprawling plant was found by the early colonists of Jamestown, so it is also known as Jamestown weed. The large, showy flowers are pale lilac blue and trumpet-shaped, flaring at the end. These are tempting to the kids for their nectar. The plant has a strong, offensive odor to warn cows not to eat it. Jimson weed is highly useful in materia medica, being the source of narcotics and useful drugs. It is said the colonists experimented much with jimson weed, in an effort to discover its medicinal properties. Eating the seeds or sucking out the nectar causes hallucinations, convulsions and coma. Children should be taught how to identify jimson weed and strictly avoid it. It is a member of the notorious Nightshade Family, but not all the members of this family, such as the tomato, are

Autumn Blue Weather Announces It's Apple Fest Time in Johnson

By HELEN PRICE STACY

When blue-jeaned youngsters run to the meadow after school in search of Jonathons and Winesaps, you know it's Apple Festival time in Johnson County. This year's event is scheduled Oct. 3-5.

The friendliness of Johnson Countians can make a stranger feel at home in Paintsville, site of the festival, where the apple not only is king, but queen, prince and princess.

promenaded along Paintsville streets at past festivals, and according to Festival Secretary Jann Garland, "It appears from the response thus far that we will have another outstanding festival. It wouldn't surprise me to see the largest crowd ever at this year's celebration."

During the festival, downtown streets will be closed to traffic and lined with booths selling caramel apples, old-time Anyone who would help in these stack cake, fried apple pie, apple cookies, apple milkshakes and mugs of sweet, sweet Johnson County homemade

On Thursday evening (Oct. 3), events include the Little Kettle Bowl with teams of junior high footballers, the Battle of the Bands, and a dance for teenagers.

On Friday all county schoolchildren will have an opportunity to participate in adding matches and spelling bees in front of the county courthouse. Also included in Friday's activities are the annual selection of an Apple Prince and Princess and presentations of awards to writers of the best letters about the festival.

Garland adds that "Two other popular events, the Apple Ball and the dog show, are set for Friday evening. Also on the schedule is one of the festival's outstanding attractions, Johnson County's own Loretta Lynn, who will present two stage performances during the evening." Loretta Lynn, queen of country music, was born in the county and returns each year to take part in the festival.

Entrants now are being sought for another of the festival highlights, the Apple Baby contest, which will be judged on Friday. Parents of children from 12 More than 50,000 people have months to 23 months are asked to register them soon. Baby girls should be registered at Wells Insurance and baby boys at Rice Insurance, both of Main Street, Paintsville.

On Saturday thousands of people will fill downtown streets to enjoy not only the apple foods but also the giant kettles of soup beans-complete with chunks of side meat, onions and cornbreadbarbecued chicken and all that goes with

All festival activities—including street music, a giant flea market and arts and crafts exhibits-will continue throughout

It's a festival you don't want to miss. If you want to see apple butter being made the old-fashioned way in an iron kettle or if you already can taste the tartness of an apple fresh from the orchard, then mark Oct. 3-5 as the date of the Johnson County Apple Festival.

KEA's Whaley Claims Kentucky 49th in Spending Per Pupil

Louisville, Ky.—Americans in all the states are putting an average 5.2 percent of their personal income into public

Kentuckians, however, allot only 4.1 percent of their personal income for elementary and secondary schools.

A small difference? Hardly. Just closing that gap, notes Kentucky Education Association (KEA) public relations and research director Charles Whaley, would produce $130,955,000 to help lift Kentucky out of its cellar rankings in education. Citing data just published in the KEA Research Unit's new annual edition of "How Kentucky Ranks," Whaley said per capita income of Kentuckians as a percent of the national average continues to rise. It's now 80.3 percent, which puts the state in 43rd place.

But Kentucky's per-pupil spending from all fund sources as a percent of the national average continues to decline. It's now 64.9 percent, which puts the state in 49th place.

All in all, the tables in the statistical bulletin show Kentuckians aren't putting forth the effort for public schools that is being put forth in some states with lower per capita incomes.

Slaying Suspect To Be Returned

Ashland, Ky.-A former Ashland man was arrested Wednesday in Seattle, Wash., and will be returned here for questioning in the knife slaying of Mrs. Jan Niesel last month.

Davies, who was picked up during the week-end on a fugitive from justice warrant.

Information on Davies' whereabouts was suplied by Bonnie Lake, Wash., police. They became suspicious after a man walked in and wanted to know "if a homicide warrant had been issued in Boyd county, Ky., for Davies." He identified himself as a friend of Davies.

Washington police reported the incident to Boyd County Sheriff Roy Rice. who began investigating.

living in Catlettsburg with her parents until the day after the Aug. 12 slaying. That day, the sheriff said, Davies' fatherin-law drove him to Portsmouth, Ohio, gave him $20 and told him to stay away from the house.

Mrs. Niesel and her 12-year-old son were abducted in a parking lot here by a man brandishing a boning knife. She was forced to drive to a remote area and then killed. Her son managed to escape unharmed.

For example, Whaley said, Kentuckians have a higher per capita income than people in West Virginia, New Mexico, Louisiana, and South Carolina. But people in those states put a greater percent of their personal income into funds for public schools.

Kentucky ranks 25th in the nation in total personal income ($11,905,000,000) and 43rd in per capita personal income ($3609 compared with the national average of $4492).

How do Kentucky's spending priorities stack up against those of other states? Per capita state and local spending puts Kentucky in 11th place for highways, 29th for public welfare, 32nd for higher education, and 46th for local

On a per capita basis Kentuckians are spending $128.62 for highways (above the national average of $91.29), $152.52 for local schools (below the national average of $219.27), $73.52 for higher education (slightly below the national average of $76.57), and $69.04 for public welfare (below the national average of $101.19).

Of money coming to Kentucky public schools, 31 percent is from the local level, 55.2 percent is from the state level, and 7.5 percent is from the federal level.

Kentucky thus ranks 40th for local percent, 14th for state percent, and 9th for federal percent in a three-way breakdown for source of funds. Whaley emphasized that percents only, not dollar amounts, are involved in the three

"How Kentucky Ranks," prepared by KEA public relations and research division assistant director Floye Perkins, draws on data from the National Education Association (NEA) research Police identified him as Victor Lee report entitled "rankings of the States, 1974." It shows Kentucky's relative standing in 129 categories.

Kentucky ranks number one in only one category: percent of population age 25 and older with less than one year of high school. Only 28.3 percent of all Americans are in this category, but the Kentucky figure is 44.8 percent.

Kentucky ranks number 50 in only one category: median years of schooling completed by the population 25 years and older. The median schooling for Kentuckians is only 9.9 years compared with a national average of 12.1 years. (Median He said Davies and his wife had been means that half are above the line and half are below.)

In six categories Kentucky ranks in 49th place-just one step up from the bottom:

1. Per pupil spending for children in average daily attendance. Kentucky spends $727; the nation spends $1121.

2. Per pupil spending as percent of national average (64.9 percent for Kentucky).

3. Total current expenditures for public schools as percent of personal income (3.9 percent, Kentucky; 4.7 percent, U.

5. Per capita property tax revenue of local governments ($65, Kentucky; $196,

6. Number of government employees per 1000 population (53, Kentucky; 65, U.

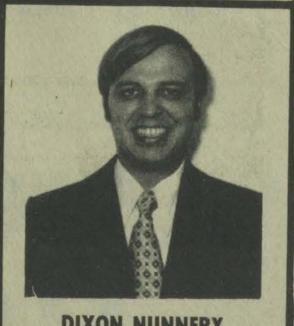

Low financial priorities for public schools, Whaley suggested, may be contributing to Kentucky's poor rank in educational attainment.

Kentucky ranks eighth in the percent of draftees failing mental requirements for military service (18.5 percent compared with the nation's 11.2 percent).

As for dropouts, Kentucky has the ninth highest rate in the nation. Only 69.1 percent of the fall 1969 ninth-graders were graduated from Kentucky high schools in 1971-72. The national average was 76.8 percent.

And how does Kentucky pay its teachers? A little better, on the average, than only three states-South Dakota, Arkansas, and Mississippi. So Kentucky ranks 47th.

For the 1973-74 school year the estimated salary average for Kentucky classroom teachers was $8244 (the actual figure, which has since been computed, turns out to be $8295).

below the $9884 average for the seven

While in the nation the percent of public-school teachers paid $10,500 or more is 45.9 percent, he said, only 8.7 percent of Kentucky's teachers fall into that salary category.

ALLEN NEWS

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Allen Woman's Club held its September meeting at the home of Delores Smith. Mrs. Jackie Ward, of Ward's Theatre of Dance, was guestspeaker. Mrs. Ward gave an interesting talk on dancing.

The president, presiding over the business session, began with reports of committees. Several interesting things were learned that could be worked on by the club to help the community. The dump on the hill overlooking Allen, was again discussed and a city improvement chairman was chosen to work on getting something done about the pollution the dump is causing.

Members discussed the plans for the Little Miss Red, White and Blue Day. Vice-president Lois Marshall was chosen as chairman. Schools will be receiving letters asking them to hold their pageants. Mrs. Marcella Bailey, founder of the parade, met with Sue Frost and Lois Marshall to discuss details.

Club members will be out, the week of September 9, collecting for the Arthritis Foundation. Areas have been assigned and will be worked on different days this week.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to Mary Hinchman, Janet Lester, Bonita Porter, Belle Conn, Ruth Karen Marcum, Bonnie Spencer, Hollie Blanton, Jo Ann Adams, Sue Reynolds, Margaret Tackett, Nancy Marcum, Sue Frost, and guest Jackie Ward and Pat

Hope Industries Has Crews Reforesting in Five Counties

Dave Wallen, Hope Industries reforestation supervisor, announced this week that reforestation contracts are now being accepted.

"We've six-man crews working in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin, and Pike counties, and each crew is capable of planting 35-40 acres of high quality seedlings per week."

The crews are composed of mentally, emotionally, and physically handicapped men who have received special training in reforestation. "The men," Mr. Wallen indicated, "are under very close supervision by professiofuls from Hope Industries and the quality of their work has been outstanding."

In fact, Mr. Wallen received a letter from Carl Perkins praising the work of Hope Industries and expressing his concern that similar reforestation projects "be implemented not only in other parts of Kentucky but in many parts of the nation." In addition, various crew members have received special awards and letters of commendation from local and state officials.

Opinions from Office Of Attorney General

Among opinions released last week from the office of Atty. Gen. Ed W. Hancock were the following:

Charles E. Waller, of Louisville, was told by the Attorney General's office that a person who is classified as an employee of the Commonwealth of Kentucky (protected under the Merit System law) may not be a candidate for any paid public office, but may be a candidate for and occupy a town or district office if the office is one for which no compensation is provided and the election is on a nonpartisan basis.

John W. Kirk, of Inez, has asked whether or not the Martin county fiscal court has the authority to tax coal companies according to the amount of coal they mine in Martin county. The Attorney General's office says that, since the state already has enacted a general severance tax on coal, the county would be prohibited from passing any ordinance which would provide for a tax based on the amount of coal mined.

In response to James Branham, of Pikeville, the Attorney General's office states that a teacher in a school district may not serve as a board member in the same district because there might be a conflict of interest, which would be a violation of Kentucky law. A school teacher may be a candidate for a public office in his district other than that of school board member. However, the school board may require the teacher to take a leave of absence during the campaign.

Replying to Happy Osborne, of Lynch, the Attorney General's office states that it is legally permissible for students attending parochial schools to participate on the athletic teams of public schools if they are elementary schools or schools which are not members of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association (KHSAA). Under the constitution, bylaws and rules of KHSAA, no member school can take part in competition against a non-member school or have players on its team who are not eligible according to the requirement of the bylaws.

Contracts will be accepted on any area in need of reforestation including bonded, "orphaned," or abandoned land. The seedlings used are primarily white pine and black locust, with some walnuts.

"The choice of seedlings is determined by the conditions of the planting site," Mr. Wallen commented. "We have been particularly pleased with our success with strip benches. We feel we've provided a genuine service to Eastern Kentucky as well as to the mining industry."

Individuals or firms interested in more information on reforestation should contact Dave Wallen by calling 886-8572, or by writing him at Hope Industries, First Avenue, Prestonsburg.

LAMBERT BAPTISTS TO HOST COUNTY BTU

The Lambert Baptist Church will host the monthly meeting of the county-wide Baptist Training Union, Friday evening, September 27 at 7 p.m. Young people from over the county are cordially invited to attend, to hear a good program, and enjoy refreshments. Since some have never been to Lambert please note that you leave Route 122 (Left Beaver Road) at Hi Hat or Clear Creek, turn left on 979, go about 2 miles to the church, which is on the left side of the road. The youth group will be one year old in October. A number of churches is represented in it. Young folks are reminded to announce it in their respective meetings. Doug Lawson of Lambert Church has charge of arrangements.

Shady Grove: A Rural School

By GEORGE L. MOORE One institution that is rapidly disappearing throughout the Mountains is the rural school. There has not been a school of this type in our county for more than five years. In other counties the number has been drastically reduced. The most prominent one-room school in this section of the country at the turn of the century was Shady Grove. There is still a building there, located on the old wagon road about a mile from the Carter county line. It was here that "Uncle" Lewis Gayheart, who migrated from the Rock Fork section of Floyd county before the turn of the century, held sway as headmaster for some 30-odd years. Uncle Lewis, as he was called by both young and old, may have been a bit oldfashioned but his students loved him dearly. During his reign the county superintendent was elected by popular vote, as were the other county officials. Despite the fact that the office of county superintendent changed hands several times during the period, Uncle Lewis never backed a loser. There was another hurdle, as there were three trustees, two of whom had to be on your side if your tenure as a teacher was to continue. This presented no problem as Uncle Lewis had eough kinfolks to take care of this.

There was absolutely no problem of transition from home to school at Shady Grove. Everyone before entering school had sat in the teacher's lap and had come to look upon him as a sort of second father. There was a feeling of security on the part of the beginners that no expensive federal program has yet been able to develop or duplicate.

Uncle Lewis' Head Start program consisted of a chart some three feet in length by 30 inches wide. On this chart was pictured a number of familiar animals. There was a dog, a cat, a rat, a frog, and as you advanced toward the back you encountered a boy by the name of Dan. Each page of the chart had a couple of letters of the alphabet and a number of short sentences such as, "I see a dog." Uncle Lewis would take his sycamore pointer and start with the letters before he advanced to the words. Then he would go to the short sentences with all the children reading in unison. After sometime was spent in this manner, he would begin a cross examination. He would criss-cross the chart, picking out words at random. When you completed the chart, you were ready for the primer. Then followed the first reader, the second reader, the third reader, the fourth reader, the fifth reader and finally the sixth reader. There were no grades in those days. When you completed the sixth reader, you had reached the end of

I think it should be pointed out, however, that the sixth reader of that day was more advanced and much more difficult than the eighth reader of today. It had a great number of poems, all of which had to be committed to memory. My only scholastic achievement at Shady Grove, as I recall, was to receive a prize for being the first in the class to memorize the poem, "Hiawatha." It consisted of some six or eight pages. The prize was a nickel.

ever completed the sixth reader at Shady Grove without mastering the multiplication table. After you had completed the table through the 12's Uncle Lewis would bear down on you like an aggressive lawyer cross examining a hostile witness. He would skip back and forth with the various combinations until he was sure you had mastered them completely. In later years, in dealing with high school students, I found that one of the chief complaints from math teachers was that the students had not learned the multiplication table. The method used at Shady Grove may have been a mite old-fashioned but the fact remains that it was effective and it did

When you came to history, few people knew it as well as did Uncle Lewis. This was especially true of the Civil War. His knowledge of this period was astounding. I have since studied history with Dr. Fremont P. Worth who wrote the textbook in American history called "The Development of America." It was the most widely used American history text ever published in America. The second year after it was published by the American Book Co., it was adopted in 38 states and 222 major cities of the country. With all of his profound knowledge of history, he was no better informed on the Civil War period than was Uncle Lewis. I encountered only one man whose knowledge of the period was on a par with the headmaster of Shady Grove and that was Dr. Dan Robinson, of Vanderbilt University. His specialty was the Civil War. He also published a bok called "The War of The Roses." It was a description of a race between two brothers, Bob and Alf Taylor, for the governorship of Tennessee. One was a Republican, the other a Democrat. At different periods each served as governor of that state.

It seems that a special effort was made in the early days to locate the rural school on land that could not be cultivated. When the land could not be used for anything else, it was selected as the site for the school. Shady Grove was no exception to this rule. It was located in the corner of a bottom above the creek bank, near the county road. There was not much space for recreation. We did manage to play "round town" and "straight cat." A low stump under the big chestnut tree was home plate; the big black oak on the creek bank was first; the big rock in the middle of the school ground was second, and the schoolhouse steps was third. The rules were quite simple. You had to run when you hit the ball whether it was foul or fair. In the creek was out. The reason for this was we used a twine ball and it became soggy when wet.

The narrow ground was better suited for playing "straight cat." In this game there were two batters and two hind catchers on either end of the field. When the ball was hit, the batters exchanged bases. If the ball was thown in front of either runner, both were out, or "crossed out," as they called it. If one of the batters missed the ball and it was caught by the hind catcher, both batters were out and had to take their places in the field.

Marbles were played by the small fry.

Some of the larger students, who were not athletically inclined, would sneak off to a secluded spot and play King William Was King James' Son. This game involved a forfeitue of kissing and was frowned on by the teacher.

The enrollment grew in this one-room school until it reached 140. A young man by the name of Dock Gayheart was employed to help Uncle Lewis. He was an efficient, hardworking teacher who was far ahead of his time. For some reason, Uncle Lewis took a year off and taught in Carter county. Another Dock Gayheart was employed to take his place. In that day the teacher and pupil was on a firstname basis. This presented quite a problem as they were both teaching in one room and both had identical names. We solved the problem by calling the dark complected teacher "Blue Dock;" the other with light complexion, we called "White Dock."

After 1916 the population decreased and the enrollment at Shady Grove began to decline. Three years before the school closed in 1968, I stopped to leave some magazines with the teacher. The enrollment had dropped from 140 to 9.

The story of Shady Grove is the story of Appalachia. For a period of the last 40 years it has been a steady migration from the region.

Co-Op Changes Billing System

Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative has initiated a new billing system.

Members of cooperative will receive a card concerning the new billing system to go in effect at the September 20 meter reading date.

Bill Wells, manager, has asked that all members read their meters on September 20, and return the self-addressed card to Big Sandy RECC properly filled out with the September 20 meter reading. They are asked not to send any payment with this card and not to use any existing

When Big Sandy RECC receives the member's September 20 meter reading, a bill will be sent October 20 for kilowatthours used to the September 20 meter One Barber-Greene Conveyor; One reading. This bill will have a place for the member to write down his October 20 meter reading.

"When you receive your bill on October Roof Bolting Machine; one Kersey 20, you will notice a fuel adjustment charge," Mr. Wells said. "This extra cost Motor Grader; one electric 2-ton Coffin to the members is due to the fact that coal is the fuel used to generate electricity. Coal has increased so rapidly in price that it is impossible for Big Sandy RECC and other electric systems to stay in business without the fuel charge."

> "Coal has increased so much in cost that without the fuel charge, Big Sandy RECC would be selling electricity for less than the purchase price. The fuel charge is to cover the extra cost of coal that is used in the generation of electricity. The money received from the fuel charge is used to pay for the increased wholesale cost of electricity. Not one cent of the money is kept at the cooperative for operating purposes."

> The cooperative has been absorbing this added expense for the past two years on residential consumers, it was said. The August wholesale power bill had 9.152 mills added for fuel adjustment. This added $50,810.08 to Big Sandy RECC's normal wholesale power bill, which was $40,518.64, making a total August bill of $91,328.72 as compared to $47,448.17 the same month a year ago. During 1973 the cooperative paid $100,145.55 fuel adjustment. The first eight months of 1974, the fuel adjustment charge was $235,713.34.

> How much will this cost the residential member? The Public Service Commission of Kentucky has authorized Big Sandy RECC to pass on an amount equal to 1.10 times the fuel adjustment per kilowatt-hour in excess of 1.903 mills per KWH as billed by the Wholesale Power Supplier, East Kentucky Power Cooperative, in the preceding month.

If a member used 1,000 KWH, he would have normally paid $23.12, sales tax included. With the fuel adjustment charge of 9.152 listed in the August power bill, the member would pay $31.57, sales tax included, a difference of $8.45.

Together We'll Build...

and look what for less than

Here's what we'll do: We will build the basic shell home on your property. The home will be completely finished on the outside. We'll use heavy duty, long lasting roofing, deluxe hardboard siding that has long been known for its low maintenance properties, durable aluminum windows, factory produced window shutter trim, exterior doors complete with hardware and the exterior of the home completely finished with two coats of quality paint. The inside will have a single floor over which finish flooring may be applied. All partition framing will be placed ready for customer application of desired finish. The basic shelf home does not include electrical wiring, plumbing, interior doors, finished walls, interior trim or landscaping.

consuming interior work . . . the part you CAN do exactly as you want it done.

"There is nothing more definite in life than if one lives long enough he will eventually have to retire and should begin his planning many years ahead," said Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Ward of Toronto,

Mr. Ward's retirement plan included spending several months at the University of Kentucky as a Donovan Scholar. The university established the Herman L. Donovan Fellowship several years ago as a way of encouraging older citizens to attend college.

"Except for the minimum age limit of 65," commented wart, "there are no limitations nor are any fees required. Isn't that something!"

Ward's acceptance as a scholar resulted in an experience so pleasant he found he had to tell others about it.

"Our classroom discussions involve anything and everything which might affect the health and happiness of citizens now retired and even of those approaching retirement. A great deal of thought is being given in the U.S. to problems of aging.'

Ward wrote Canadian friends, "There is never a dull moment for us . . . our apartment is only 150 yards from the edge of the campus. Since I am a 'Donovan,' we are admitted as guests to all programmes of the Central Kentucky Concert and Lecture Assocation and have enjoyed concerts presented by the Pittsburgh Symphony, Marilyn Horne of the Metropolitan Opera and Siberian dancers. Being so close to the campus, it is no problem for us to attend evening concerts.

"Another delightful experience was luncheon at Spindletop, a mansion on a 2,000 acre estate now owned by the university. Lunch was followed by a 75mile tour of the area and visits to some of the most famous farms of the Bluegrass region, a seven-county area. Our guide was none other than a lady who has lived here all her life and has written a delightful book on her experiences and acquaintances here."

Captivated by southern hospitality and sight-seeing in the region, Ward described a visit to Headley Museum on old Frankfort Pike as "nothing short of fabulous."

Referring to their pleasant association with Central Kentucky and with the Donovan Fellowship program at U.K., the Wards wrote their Canadian friends, "When you're old enough, you should try

As one can see, it is not altogether what Kentuckians write about their state that ensures the future of the tourism industry but how others see and write about the Commonwealth and its people.

Consumer Comments

By Atty. Gen. Ed W. Hancock CONSUMER ARBITRATION

In recent years a number of new approaches have been developed for settling disputes between businessmen and their customers. Although some of these approaches have involved favorable changes in the procedure of litigation itself, the parties to consumer-business disputes are increasingly hesitant to resort to the court system because of expensive attorney's fees and the considerable delays which invariably attend even the simplest litigation.

Through arbitration, which does not involve formal court action, the parties to a dispute authorize a third party or panel to resolve the dispute for them. It is an alternative to court action and, in many ways, it is a superior alternative.

The Consumers' Advisory Council, which consists of 16 members appointed by the governor to act in an advisory capacity on consumer affairs, instituted a program of consumer arbitration for mutually satisfactory settlement have to be bound by the decision of an arbitration panel.

To date, the Consumers' Advisory Council has arbitrated 34 disputes between Kentucky consumers and businessmen from all parts of the State. This service is provided at no cost to either the consumer or the businessman and the arbitration hearing itself is held wherever the parties can conveniently meet. The success of the Council's program of consumer arbitration is evidenced by the fact that 95 per cent of the arbitration awards rendered thus far have been compiled with within 30 days of the arbitration hearing and without the necessity of any formal enforcement proceedings by the prevailing party.

If you are presently involved in a consumerabusiness dispute and you think that arbitration through the Consumers' Advisory Council might be an appropriate forum for the resolution of your problem, write the Office of the Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, Capitol Building, Room 34, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, or call on the toll-free hotline, 1-800-372-2960.

PRESTONSBURG KENTUCKY

Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Hicks, of Route 850, David, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary August 25 at their home with an open house and reception given in their honor by their children.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks were married September 24, 1924 by the Rev. John Reffitt. Mrs. Hicks is the former Ora Shepherd, daughter of the late John and Belle Reed Shepherd. Mr. Hicks is the son of the late Smith and Lue McGrury Hicks. He is a retired miner of Princess Elkhorn Coal Company, David.

They are the parents of five children— Donald, of West Prestonsburg, Ray, of Peebles, Ohio, Paul Lloyd and Mrs. Eva Jean Ousley, of David, and Mrs. Delois Rice, of Warren, Michigan. They also have ten grandchildren.

Assisting in the serving of refreshments were Mrs. Paul Lloyd Hicks, Mrs. Eva Jean Ousley, Mrs. Delois Hicks, Mrs. Donald Hicks and Mrs. Jean

Children and grandchildren attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hicks, Donald Derek and Dianna Lynn, Ray Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ousley, Sandra Kaye, Libby, Ricky and Teresa Gail, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lloyd Hicks, Paul David and Craig, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rice, Billy and Lisa.

Other relatives and friends attending were: Mrs. Mertise Reed, Mrs. Mae Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Miley Prater, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Prater and sons, Mrs. Cecil Hall and Jan, Mrs. Herbert Prater, Mrs. Berniece Prater, Earnest Prater, Mrs. Sallie Allen, Mrs. Eva Horn, Mrs. Trilby May, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Hale, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Davidson and Debbie, Mr. and Mrs. Elzie Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Vanderpool, Goble Reed, Roger Reed, Norman L. Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hamilton and Ricky, Mrs. John Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hackworth and Jill, Floyd D. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Vaughn, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Carter, II, Jim, III and Susan Raye, Mrs. Jean Halfhill and Mrs. Jewel Tussey.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks received many lovely gifts from both visitors and friends and relatives who were unable to attend.

The proportion of workers who are college graduates increased from 10 percent in 1959 to 14 percent in 1972, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Fund Drive Starter-Mrs. Dolores children. We appreciate their services Smith, of Allen, has been named Floyd County Girl Scout Fund Drive Chairman. The drive is going on now.

Our Floyd County Girl Scout Cookie Lexington, September 11 and 12. Mrs. Chairman, Mrs. Patsy Brown, has Colleen Reffett, of Garrett, and field resigned due to illness. We regret losing advisor Sandy Patton, of Langley, ather after so many years of service. Mrs. Dorothy Harris, of Allen, has been appointed to serve as the 1975 Cookie Chairman.

The two girl scouts who spent two weeks at our National Center West in Wyoming this summer are now available to talk to any troop who wishes to hear about their experiences. Anyone wishing to contact them should call Mrs. Roy May, phone 285-3362. The scouts are Miss Beverly May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy May, and Miss Angela Combs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Combs, all of Langley.

The Floyd County Service Unit met Sept. 6, in the Grand Jury room of the courthouse in Prestonsburg. The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Sandy Patton, Area 4 Field Adviser. Plans for the Girl Scout booth, sponsored by Music-Carter-Hughes in the county fair, were made. Mrs. Sue Frost, of Allen, and her senior troop volunteered to set it up and decorate it. Mrs. Beverly Allen Goble, of Auxier, was appointed director of the living arts festival which is coming here in February. The next meeting will be October 3. The leaders who attended were: Mrs. Anna Keene. # Health Student Grant Approved

Congressman Carl D. Perkins has announced that a health manpower training grant has been approved which will provide scholarships for students training in the health professions and who will work in Eastern Kentucky after

Rep. Perkins said the grant, which was set up through legislation he supported, provides scholarships for students in medicine, dentistry, nursing, pharmacy and related work.

Among the counties covered by the program are Breathitt, Knott, Letcher, Perry and Wolfe.

The total amount of the project is $230,211, with $35,000 coming from the state, and $35,000 from private sources.

Glaucoma currently threatens the eyesight of an estimated 1,773,000 people in the U.S., age 35 and older-and half of them are undiagnosed and unsuspecting victims. The only sure way to detect signs of the disease, warns the Kentucky Society for the Prevention of Blindness, is to have a glaucoma check, either by an eye doctor or through a screening program. It only takes five minutes.

Reserve Unit To Aid In Fishtrap Cleanup

Fishtrap Lake, near Pikeville, which has had its share of problems from the standpoint of sedimentation, solid waste and debris, is going to receive some voluntary cleanup help this week-end. The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers' Huntington District Engineer, Colonel Scott B. Smith, said he was "extremely pleased" to hear that a Pikeville-based Army Reserve Unit will turn out in force, with support from the Pikeville Jaycees, on Saturday and Sunday.

The Unit is the 810th Supply Company, U. S. Army Reserve, under command of Captain George Morgan. The lake cleanup is scheduled in the vicinity of the dam and marina and, if possible, one mile upstream of the dam.

The volunteer groups will be assisted by the Corps' Fishtrap Lake staff along with three boats offered by the operator of the Fishtrap marina.

Col. Smith said the plan calls for pushing or towing the floating solid waste and debris-including clorox bottles and drift-to the bank, then manually placing the debris into equipment provided by the reserve unit and the Corps and disposed of. The reserve unit equipment includes two tractor-trailers and two forklifts.

Two local soft drink firms have indicated they plan to provide soft drinks to the workers.

CONSERVATION TIP

Have your central heating system checked before the start of cold weather. Flues should be cleaned, belts checked and adjusted, motors and pumps lubricated, and combustion units adjusted. Filters in a ducted system should be cleaned and periodically replaced during the heating season.

Dennis Walker was the key for the Blackcats as he intercepted three of the passes and returned a punt 75 yards for a touchdown and received three passes from Del Jaggers for 29 yards on offense. Blake Burchett and Jerry Fannin intercepted the other two passes. The score at halftime was Prestonsburg 6 (on Danny Layne's 29-yard touchdown on first down) and Greenup Co. 0. In the second half of play the Blackcats got into high gear in a 28-point performance. Steve Campbell ran it in from the three-yard line following one of Dennis Walker's interceptions. Two Prestonsburg linemen also got into the scoring act. Leslie (Bear) May picked up a fumble on the Greenup County 15-yard line and carried the ball and three defenders into the end zone for his first touchdown, and at midfield Mike Dixon recovered a fumble and ran 50 yards for his touchdown. ARCHER CENTER ACTIVITIES

Mrs. Shirley Callihan, of the Floyd County Health Department was checking blood pressures and blood sugars of the participants last week at the George P. Archer Senior Citizens Center here.

The art of pressing flowers was demonstrated by Mrs. Eva Gollins, of Prestonsburg. Many useful tips were learned by those present. Due to the amount of interest expressed, Mrs. Collins will return in two weeks to show how to place the flowers under glass.

Mrs. Helen Boyd, of Langley, displayed several items of quilling and explained how they were made. Plaques decorated with corn husks and shucks were also shown by her.

Among those attending the center last week were: Amanda Laferty, Anna M. Spencer, Fanny Branham, Darcus Laferty, Georgia Keens, Maxine Patton, Stella Justice, Crawford Sturgill, Audilee Hall, Sadie Ratliff, Lyda Hall, all of Martin; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rowland, Trilby May, all of Langley; Vita Stewart, Grace Burke, Willie May Branham, Angeline L. Chaloupka, Grace Stanley, Mattie Wallen, Rhoda Brickley, all of Prestonsburg, and Hawley Scott, of Garrett.

Floyd County Bookmobile Librarian Betty Davis also visited the Center, bringing more books to place in the outpost there. School Board District 2

I am being ask this question several times a week.

QUESTION: If there are two of you running for School Board, District 2, who want the same things, why don't you get together, one of you come off and support the other?

The people of School District 2 have a duty to ask this question and the right to an answer. Here is my answer.

ANSWER: I do not believe there is another candidate who wants the same thing as I. My strongest supporters tell me that without my candidacy they doubt if they would bother going to the polls. We feel of the other two candidates, there is six of one and a half dozen of the other; that one is running as an insurance policy for the other.

The fact is, I am the only candidate who is addressing the issues, who is speaking of the crimes in our schools.

I believe that without my campaign there would be no exposure to the truth and no hope for a change in the policies in the Floyd County school system—that board members and the superintendents may or may not change as a result of power struggles, but that the quality of education in Floyd County would remain the same.

I am concerned with only one kind of power, people power, which would place a man on the Floyd County Board of Education who would persist in asking the other four board members many questions, including the following—

Why don't we fire the present Superintendent and hire a Superintendent who would concern himself with quality education by—

1. Hiring teachers and personnel by qualifications rather than hiring votes.

2. Making a serious effort to have physical education programs as required by Kentucky State school laws.

3. Teaching all, rather than a few, of our children, music and art.

4. Ending discriminatory housing among our children so none would need attend school in fire traps.

5. INFORMING and INVOLVING people in school matters, rather than controlling them through fear.

To those who would say my campaign is lacking in dignity, I would say, dignity is a small price to pay for integrity.

I cannot and will not support a candidate who is not willing or not free to address these issues.

My way is to allow no "BIG BROTHER" to make dicisions for the people. My way is to inform and educate the people so they will be able to make their own decisions.

Woman's Club Meets at Garrett, Sept. 5

Members of the Lackey-Garrett- the National Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Wayland Woman's Club met Thursday, September 5, at the home of Mrs. Don Hughes, of Garrett, to hold their first meeting of the new club year.

Since much business needed to be discussed, it was a business only meeting without a planned program. Following the Pledge to the Flag, led by Mrs. S. M. Martin, devotions by Mrs. J. T. Spillman, and the Club Collect by Mrs. Marie Mullins, the President, Mrs. J. C. Wells, called for a special election for the office of treasurer to replace Mrs. Glenn Pack, who had resigned because of illness. Mrs. Don Hughes, who had been acting treasurer, was unanimously elected.

Mrs. S. M. Martin gave a brief review of the club's by-laws, after which Mrs. Wells appointed committees for the K.F.W.C. 7th district meeting to be held October 26 at the May Lodge with the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Club as host. The following chairmen were appointed: hospitality, Mrs. Earl Castle; registration, Mrs. Otto Martin; reservation, Mrs. Don Hughes; decorations, Mrs. Marie Mullins.

The annual Christmas dinner honoring daughter clubs was also discussed and December 9 was set for the date on which it will be held at the May Lodge. Mrs. Marcellous Dunfee volunteered to serve as chairman for the annual arthritis drive. The club voted a contribution to Refreshments were served by the hostesses to the following: Mrs. Stanley Bamer, Mrs. Hansel Bradley, Mrs. Bobby Joe Castle, Mrs. M. M. Castle, Mrs. Birchell Duff, Mrs. James A. Duff, Mrs. Marcellous Dunfee, Mrs. Don Hughes, Mrs. Rondall Lawson, Mrs. Otto Martin, Mrs. Rex Martin, Mrs. S. M. Martin, Mrs. J. T. Spillman, and Mrs. J. C. Wells.
