

Brothers Bring Life to Area Abandoned by Large Companies

View of Bailey Mining Company's coal preparation plant from area of twin 500-ton capacity loading bins.

"Now if you're going to do a story, don't talk so much about what Vernon and Paul Bailey have done, but stress what the operation here will mean to the community and this whole section."

Paul Bailey's request to The Times last week underlined a basic philosophy shared by the coal-mining brothers who in the past year and a half have built a $3½ million coal preparation plant on Skull Fork at Weeksbury—that what benefits their business will benefit the community, and what helps the community will ultimately be of benefit to their operation.

Currently employing 79 and with a payroll at more than $1 million a year, Paul and Vernon Bailey's huge preparation plant and adjoining mines represent one of the largest local growth situations to come along in this county in some time, and in the case of the Weeksbury-Wheelwright section, which was abandoned by the Inland Steel Corporation in 1962, and earlier by the Koppers Coal Company, the impact of the Baileys' endeavor on the local economy should prove especially welcome.

Unlike the vast majority of major coal operations, the plant at Weeksbury is not a subsidiary of any giant out-of-state corporation, but is the product of the work and investment of the Baileys, natives of Wheelwright.

As Paul pointed out, "We're local—the money stays local."

The brothers share a background of many years in the mining business which was interrupted only by the pullout in '62 from the Wheelwright section of Inland Steel, the company from whom they received their first experience in coal. In 1969 they began once again to use their mining knowledge by contract mining in various locations and in 1974, the year of the now legendary coal boom, they started their own independent mine on Arkansas Creek.

Park Completion Target for '79

With the possible exception of its golf course, construction at the Floyd County Park at Allen is expected to be completed this year.

Work already done at the park has taken three of the nine golf greens, and these will be replaced with greens along the hillside overlooking the railway tracks. It has not been decided if the course will have grass greens or if sand will continue to be used for the putting surface.

County Judge-Executive Yvonne S. Stumbo said this week the fiscal court hopes to negotiate contracts with local contractors on work involving less than $5,000. Such projects do not require advertising, and it is hoped that their completion can be rushed.

Among such projects are the road improvement from the end of the new bridge at the park to the parking area, completion of the two baseball fields and sealer surface on tennis courts. Judge Stumbo said that the baseball fields will, hopefully, be ready for use in five weeks. Bleachers and dugout benches were ordered Monday.

Landscaping is scheduled to begin within the next three weeks, and a cost estimate on this phase will be sought by Howard K. Bell, Engineers.

The landscaping, ball fields and tennis court work were items in the contract awarded to Big Wheel, but that firm's contract was terminated last September after a series of work delays.

When it is finally completed a total of $835,000 will have been spent on the park which was planned by the late Judge Henry Stumbo to serve all sections of the county.

The Park Commission will hold its first meeting April 19. Judge Stumbo spoke of the commission in every way possible as planning of a comprehensive park program is undertaken. The commission is composed of five members representing every section of the county:

Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen, James Cecil, Lee Frasure, Johnny Caudill and Hubert Halbert.

The court will accept bids May 8 on construction of the gatehouse security complex, which includes living quarters for a caretaker and a golf pro shop. These will be constructed with EDA funds.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins announced this week that the county will receive $42,434.47 from the U.S. Department of Interior's Heritage, Conservation and Recreation Service for improvements at the Allen park. These include a waste water treatment plant and landscaping.

The next "big" project at the park, Judge Stumbo said, will be the construction of a mini-convention center seating up to 400, an administration building, a junior Olympic swimming pool, bathhouse and sewage treatment plant.

"Bids will be received around June 1 on this work, and we expect it to be completed within 90 days, she said.

She said the mini-park at Drift is approximately 50 per cent complete. Fencing and additional blacktop surfacing of tennis and basketball courts remain to be done. The contract for lighting of the park has been awarded.

Judge Stumbo said the court will negotiate with the Floyd County Board of Education for land near the John M. Stumbo school at Grethel for another mini-park site. The court has $35,000 in Area Development Funds for the work there.

Candidate Withdraws In Representative Race

Elmer W. Rice, of Banner, announced Tuesday that he has withdrawn as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Representative from the 95th district.

Mr. Rice said he is withdrawing from the race because of ill health and on the advice of his doctor.

This Town...That World

If the showers of April mean what they're supposed to, the prospects for a good crop of May flowers are very bright indeed.

But, according to a Courier-Journal writer, sulfur pollution caused mainly by the burning of coal has made rainwater so acid that it approaches the acidity of tomato juice, lemon juice, or even vinegar, and is harmful to plant life. If that is true, the old couplet to the effect that it's not raining rain, it's raining daffodils may be polluted to read, "it's raining tomato juice."

This, however, is no matter for levity. We're waiting for somebody to reassure us. Or to come up with a solution to the problem.

GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

For all that, the leaves turn green, the grass grows, flowers bravely bloom and shiver in the wind. And the dandelions at our place were never more plentiful or yellower.

Speaking of dandelions, which I have viewed with scorn and a certain degree of alarm for years, I now learn that I have had a "money crop" springing up all around me, year after year, and that, as usual, I've been letting golden-colored opportunity slip past.

In Vineland, N. J., say the public prints, springtime is harvest time. Dandelions there are a $70,000-a-year crop. They eat dandelion salad, dandelion soup, chicken dandelion cacciatore (whatever that is), dandelion ravioli in red sauce yet, drink dandelion wine and wind up by crowning Miss Dandelion.

And they ship dandelions to restaurants as far away as St. Louis.

You pick the leaves while they are green and tender, before the confounded things dot your lawn with yellow. If the price of lettuce jumps again, dandelion may lose some of its unpopularity in these parts.

Like a taste of the "good, old days"? I have just been informed that it is a historical fact that in the year 1808 the ground froze and it snowed every month of the year, and in this country, too.

Jury Suggests Action by Court As Problem Cure

The April court term grand jury adjourned last Wednesday after a session in which only nine indictments involving a dozen persons voted.

In its final report to Circuit Judge Hollie Conley the jury called for action by the fiscal court and other county officials toward remedying three situations—the obstruction of highways by abandoned junk vehicles, the large number of stray dogs running at large and the continuing garbage situation.

"The garbage situation," the report, signed by James C. Bailey, foreman, said, "remains deplorable." The jury suggested:

"One possible solution would be for the fiscal court to employ one person to be responsible to see that violators of the litter laws be prosecuted, and to investigate all incidents in the county where dumping is taking place and commence criminal action against violators."

The grand jury suggested tough measures to control stray dogs. It cited Kentucky Revised Statute 258.215, which provides that any dog found running at large and without a license tag may be captured by any peace officer, and that if the dog cannot be captured with reasonable effort it may be killed. "It is our belief that all police officers should see that this law is enforced," the report added.

School Board Moves To Cut Budget Deficit

"We are notifying all non-tenure teachers that they probably will not be rehired next year," Supt. of Schools E.P. Grigsby, Jr. said this week.

The statement was made following last Wednesday night's monthly meeting of the Board of Education at which the existing budget deficit and means of correcting the situation were discussed.

Grigsby said it will be necessary to cut from the payroll 18 to 20 teachers and administrators. "We may have to eliminate a few programs, and if that is done even tenure teachers connected with them may be dropped" the superintendent said.

Under the Minimum Foundation Program, for every eight classroom teachers an ASIS unit is permitted. Such a unit includes principal, counselor, physical education and art instructors, etc. Some of these may get the axe.

Grigsby added that a general staff cut is anticipated. "We will know more about all this after we have looked at the situation with financial people," he said.

The board meeting was attended by members of PBS, the group which pushed for removal of asbestos from Prestonsburg High School, and the final inspection of the school and cost of asbestos removal were talked.

A change order made by EPA, requiring the purchase and use of 500 barrels instead of plastic bags and containers which could be reused, has cost an additional $6,000, he said. This amount and architect's fees of $7,000 added to the total $87,164 contract figure bring the cost to slightly above $100,000, he said.

All the changes that were ordered and costs that could not be anticipated, Grigsby said, have been reported to the Governor's Task Force, with a detailed explanation.

The only actual money yet received toward helping with the asbestos project is the $30,000 from the Floyd fiscal court. Governor Carroll committed $30,000 from his emergency fund, and Grigsby said Moody, state EPA head and chairman of the task force, has promised funds to meet the additional cost.

The board directed the sale of now-unused buildings and grounds of the Lancer, Bosco, Weeksbury, West Prestonsburg, Tram and Wheelwright schools.

Building Loans May Be at 8.8% Interest

Floyd county last Thursday became the second county in Kentucky to sell a multi-million-dollar bond issue to provide loans for housing construction at a reduced interest rate.

The fiscal court accepted the bid of Seasongood & Mayer, of Cincinnati, on the $18.57 million bond issue.

As a result, $15 million will be available at three Prestonsburg banking institutions for loan at 8.8 per cent interest—possibly as low as 8.75 per cent—over a 20-year period for middle-income home construction.

As a consequence of the court action, County Judge-Executive Yvonne S. Jones and County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson are in Cincinnati today (Wednesday) for the writer's-cram-producing chore of signing the large number of bonds. Assistant County At-

'Mother Was a Wise, Old Sister'

By RON MARSTIN

Annie Mae Branham clearly loves to tell the story about the boy who one day mocked her with cries of "nigger." She was working in a local social service agency at the time, and was not one to be easily flustered by a child's ignorance. Prejudice, after all, is not something children choose; they just inherit it.

"So I pretend I don't hear the taunt," she explains, "and just go on talking pleasant to the child. I knew he had no meanness in his heart. And pretty soon something starts to happen in that child's mind. I hear him saying to himself, 'Now, this gotta be a different kind of nigger!'"

She is laughing heartily, and you know she has told this story before, because it illustrates a lesson she likes to teach. The lesson is that nothing breaks through racist stereotypes like the willingness of one individual to reach out in understanding to another. And another lesson that goes along with that, according to Mrs. Branham, is that what we are is not a matter of color but what we make of ourselves. To those who argue that lessons like these are too soft-headed to prepare people for the unyielding barriers of racial prejudice, Mrs. Branham responds simply with answers from her own experience.

Fifty-six years ago, in Birmingham, Alabama, someone made her daddy an offer he was in no position to refuse—a free train ticket to Kentucky and a job digging coal at the end of the line. Their family became a part of the great wave of migrants to the north. They came to Wayland, and the miner dreamed of taking his young family on to Gary, Indiana. It was not to be. Near the end of his second year in the Wayland mine, a roof caved in and he died. Annie Mae was nine.

She went back to grade school in Birmingham, and then on to high school in Canton, Ohio. The cloying doggerel of the McKinley High School yearbook of 1934 pays conventional tribute to her "pleasant personality and cheery soul." It knows nothing of the courage of a widowed mother back in Wayland these past eight years, determined that her youngest daughter would get the best education she could provide.

In 1935 Annie Mae Branham married a Wayland man whose mother's family had been farming there since the days of slavery, though he was mining now. When the mining moved to Wheelwright, so did they—it was 1940—and there they raised their three children. They were not strangers to racial discrimination, but it was not like it was in the cities, Mrs. Branham insists, and not as bad as it has become in the past 20 years.

She talks about a visit to Baltimore in 1956 that taught her a lesson she has not forgotten. "I couldn't believe the conditions of the blacks in the ghetto. Not like here at all. Here people knew one

Miss Reed-Mr. Dudley Wed

The marriage of Miss Joan Elizabeth Reed to Mr. Bruce Kitredge Dudley was solemnized at 3:30 Saturday afternoon, March 17, at the First Presbyterian Church in Ashland. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. James Rucker before an altar adorned with arrangements of white snapdragons, snowdrift chrysanthemums and daisies, magnolia foliage and branched candelabra holding lighted tapers.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Arthur Stokes presented selections at the organ. Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. James L. Reed, of Drift, the bride wore an empire silhouette gown of ivory crepe satin fashioned with a high scalloped neckline and long tapered sleeves. The bodice was of imported French chantilly lace on English net, and the A-line skirt which featured appliques of re-embroidered lace, extended into a train with a hemline border of chantilly lace. A Juliet cap secured her mantilla of illusion edged with matching lace. Her bouquet was of silk roses and baby's breath.

The maid of honor, Miss Janet McGregor, of Alexandria, Va., wore a gown of chalk blue and carried a bouquet of mixed blue silk flowers. The bridesmaids, Miss Janet Reed, cousin of the bride, of Lexington, Mrs. Barry Dickens, of Frankfort, and Mrs. Robert Colburn, of Ashland, wore gowns similar to that of the maid of honor.

Best man was Mr. George E. Dudley, father of the groom, of Louisville. Groomsman were Mr. Cheney Everett, Mr. Steve Hensley, and Mr. Stanley Tarnofsky, all of Louisville.

Ushers were Mr. Gary Shelby, of Louisville, and Mr. Rodman Meacham, of Hopkinsville.

Registering guests was Kimberly Ann Hall, of McDowell, cousin of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Bellefonte Country Club.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Alan Reed, of Ashland, formerly of Prestonsburg, and the late Mr. Reed, is a staff auditor with Heublein, Incorporated. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. Willie Hall, of McDowell, and of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Reed, of Drift.

The groom is attending the University of Louisville School of Law, and Mr. and Mrs. Dudley will reside in Louisville.

16 Win All Ky. City Awards

The Kentucky Chamber of Commerce has announced the winners of the 1978 "All Kentucky City" awards. The announcements were made at the Annual Awards Luncheon held in Louisville last Thursday and attended by more than 800 hopeful community representatives.

The 14 year-old Community Development Program is considered by many to be one of the best in the country. This year 43 communities advanced to the state finals held in Lexington.

Dave Burch, of South Central Bell in Owensboro and state chairman of the All Kentucky City Program, presented "All Kentucky City" plaques to the cities of Radcliff, Somerset, Paris, Elizabethtown, Greenville, Campbellsville, Shelbyville, Cumberland, Columbia, Wilmore, Mt. Vernon, Flemingsburg, Bloomfield, Beattyville, Clinton, and Morehead.

A city which has won the All Kentucky City award three times in a five-year period is inducted into the Community Development Hall of Fame. Five communities were selected "Hall of Fame" honors. They are Monticello, Fulton, Hartford, Georgetown and Covington.

The communities of Campbellsville, Paris, Somerset and Elizabethtown are past "Hall of Fame" recipients.

Cities receiving "honorable mention" were Carlisle, Eminence, Glasgow, Harrodsburg, Horse Cave, Liberty, Livermore, Maysville, Middlesboro, Morganfield, Pipeville, Richmond and Russell Springs.

SO WELL-REMEMBERED

Another blessing youngsters of today are missing is a visit to an oldtime country store. There was an aroma about these old stores that was delightful, although it was compounded of ingredients that you might think would create a smell rather than an aroma. But you take bolts of yard goods, an open sugar barrel, another of salt, one of vinegar, cheese which was sliced off with a knife before they came up with those new-fangled slicers, Brown's Mule chewing tobacco in the plug to go under the cutter, leather harness, a slab of salt bacon, occasionally apples—put all that together and you've got via the olfactory nerves something to remember.

SICK CALL

It was something of a coincidence that while I was having a bit of trouble of my own that two of my contemporaries were not exactly up to par.

First of all, there was Tim Bostic, of The Salyersville Independent, who, admittedly losing the Battle of the Bulge, may have had a bit of blood pressure trouble after his doctor eschewed the euphemistic, declined to tell him that he had a tendency to obesity and hauled off and flatly informed him that he was getting fat.

Then there was "Bud" Perry, of The Paintsville Herald, whose persistent cold had as of April 3 drawn 13 home remedy prescriptions and suggestions, not counting one from a sympathetic soul who opined that if he would stop breathing it would cure his cough.

And now for the case which would have made Florence Nightingale throw her lamp away and join the WACs—a skinned shin which sent yours truly to the doctor. Can you imagine a country boy who would let a mere scratch keep him from going fishing but send him, instead, to a doctor? I may be able to live this down, but I yet am troubled about one matter, and it is this:

How can you fall, measure your length, on a level concrete slab and skin your shin and put not a scratch on the knee?

Only one individual has attempted an explanation, and I wouldn't say he's being either scientific or sympathetic about it. He coldly remarks: "You probably skinned it sticking your foot in your mouth."

ADDENDUM

And now this footnote to the section we published recently from Murphy's law:

"An architect is a man who knows a great deal about very little and who goes along knowing more and more about less and less until he knows practically everything about nothing.

"An engineer on the other hand is a man who knows very little about a great deal. He keeps knowing less and less about more and more until he knows practically nothing about everything.

"A contractor starts out knowing practically everything about everything but ends up knowing nothing about anything due to associating with architects and engineers."

Teenager Pageant Slated in Louisville

Young Women of this area are invited to enter the Kentucky United Teenager Pageant to be held at the Executive West, July 20, 21 and 22, in Louisville. The Kentucky Pageant is the official state preliminary to the Miss United Teenager Pageant, a national pageant that includes all 50 states.

Contestants will be judged on scholastic and civic achievements, beauty, poise and personality. No swimsuit competition or talent is involved. Contestants must be between 14 and 18 years of age as of December 31, 1979 and must have at least a "B" average in school.

Each contestant accepted will be requested to participate in the volunteer community service program of their choice, a program designed to teach teenagers to share and participate in school and civic affairs by contributing a minimum of eight hours time to some worthwhile civic or volunteer work to benefit the community before Pageant time. Each contestant is required to write and present on stage an essay entitled, "My Country".

The winner of the Kentucky Pageant will receive an all-expense-paid trip to compete in the Miss United Teenager National Pageant, to be held in Washington, D.C., Hollywood, California and Honolulu, Hawaii. Among the prizes that will be awarded at the National Pageant in 1979: $15,000 in scholarships and awards, a 1980 Thunderbird for the reigning year, $5,000 personal appearance contract, $2,000 wardrobe and a trip to Europe.

Those interested in entering the Kentucky United Teenager Pageant may write for information to Susan Smith, P.O. Box 1821, Fayetteville, North Carolina 28302 or call 919-822-1453.

torney Eric Hall was there as legal representative, and local bank representatives were briefed at the same time on the handling of loans.

Associated with Seasgood & Mayer in handling the bond issue are three other bond firms—John Nuveco & Co., Johnson, Brown, Burchett & Knight, and Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis and Associates.

The bond issue was for a time threatened by an attorney general's opinion holding that it was unconstitutional, but this opinion was completely reversed in time for the receiving of bids.

"Thank goodness, we were able to go ahead," Judge Jones commented. "This is a real boost for Floyd county because our housing shortage is so severe...Down the road I can see this really helping solve some of our problems."

County officials were also pleased with the AA-minus rating given the county by Standard and Poor's and Monday's, New York credit rating houses.

The $15 million being placed with the three Prestonsburg institutions—the Bank Josephine, the First National Bank and Floyd Federal Savings & Loan—will be loaned for construction of new homes by families whose incomes may not total more than $40,000 a year, plus $1000 for each dependent. No loan of more than $80,000 will be made.

The borrower will be required to make a cash payment of 20 per cent of the cost of the new home, but banks will be permitted to accept property as collateral toward meeting this requirement. The borrower's indebtedness or other obligations may not exceed 25 per cent of his or her gross income, and certain eligibility standards must be met.

Joe Heis, of Seasgood & Mayer, said the bond issues voted and sold by Floyd and Johnson counties represent "the first program that provides housing for middle income families in Eastern Kentucky."

The Kentucky Housing Authority has a financing program for low-income families which is still in the development stage, but this program offers no help to middle-income residents.

"No other program developed by the government has put $10 to $19 million for housing immediately into the counties for new homes," Heis said.

House Bill 68, enacted at the special legislative session, will outlaw the issuance of such bonds by the counties.

The Kentucky Housing Authority has held that such a bill was needed to prevent a flood of county bond issues and a consequent "diluting" of the bond market. This situation, it was held, would impair the Housing Authority's own AA rating.

The bill will become effective May 12, but its constitutionality may be challenged, since it was not included in the call listing issues to consider at the special legislative session.

Wheelwright Arts, Crafts Exhibit Held

Nearly 400 people gathered on the Wheelwright Community Center porch, last Sunday, April 8, to view the arts and crafts exhibitions held there by the community residents. Approximately 25 exhibitors took part in the showing, with various displays of their own handicrafts.

Among the attending exhibitors was Sam Crawford, of Hi Hat, whose hand-carved wooden miniature furniture caught the crowd's attention. There on the scene, Mr. Crawford was said to have masterfully carved a chair out of a plain slender wood block.

Others attending with their displays were Billy Jo Stegall, Darthula Childers, Buddy Jamerson, Shirley Hall, Mary Belle Little, and the M. J. Vanhorn Citizens Center.

The Wheelwright band parents were also on hand providing refreshments at their bake sale, which just as the exhibit, was said to have turned out very successfully.

Kentland-Elkhorn Coal Company this week paid its $15,000 fine—the largest ever imposed through a Kentucky Pollution Control Commission action—for pollution of a tributary of the Big Sandy River in Pike county, and the success there led Floyd county conservationists to consider all over again the situation on the head of John's Creek...When the Floyd circuit court convened Monday morning Circuit Judge Hollie Conley told a small gathering that the criminal docket is so slim that some civil cases will be booked for trial in order to fill out the work schedule of the term. He pointed out that law violations in the county are at an all-time low, with not a murder case docketed and only one homicide for the grand jury to investigate...The Martin Municipal Housing Commission expects to ask contractors' bids within the next 10 days on construction of a five-story structure which will house 32 low-rent housing units. Estimated cost of the project, including the site, is $600,000...Congressional staff members and representatives of the U.S. Bureau of the Budget and Office of Education, with Health and Welfare specialists, conducted a pilot "traveling seminar" in Floyd and other Eastern Kentucky counties this week to get an on-the-spot look at the programs financed mainly by federal funds...Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Larry Monday, of Findlay, Ohio, a son, Chad Christopher. Legal action will be taken, if necessary, to stop Big Sandy river pollution by coal and coal washings. One of the factors complicating enforcement on the Big Sandy is that mines in Virginia have been, perhaps still are polluting the stream. This poses an inter-state problem...Tightening lines of the struggle between the United Mine Workers and the coal and ramp operators of Eastern Kentucky were drawn toward a showdown fight Wednesday when a third party, the L & N Railway, sought a federal court order against the miners to prevent interference with the shipment of coal...Kentuckians will ask Congress, next week, to add an additional $294,000 to the federal budget to complete survey and planning for Fishtrap Reservoir on the Big Sandy. As coal wage contract negotiators remained dead-locked in New York and approximately 6,000 miners were idle in this county for the second week growing uneasiness prevails over the situation which finds workers with only the possibility of store credit and unemployment compensation affording them the bare necessities. another, blacks and whites. But, crowded in the cities like that, people don't know one another. They get isolated and lose their dignity."

Had it really become worse in the past 20 years? Again, an answer from her own experience: "When my children were growing up, they all played together. The Girl Scouts, the Little League, it was blacks and whites together. In the mines, it didn't matter if the motorman was white, the brakeman black; they depended on one another. Nowadays, people don't think of one another as individuals; they think as groups." She speaks of a grandson, a tenth-grader in suburban Detroit, caught up in the busing conflict, challenged by his peers to take sides, with the whites or with the blacks. She shakes her head sadly. "It isn't right," she says.

Don't all groups—blacks, miners, farm laborers—have to stick together to fight effectively for their rights? Not like this, Annie Mae Branham argues. "Help one another, yes. We always helped one another. The older ones helped the younger ones. But we helped ourselves. We sent our children to school. Sarah McQueen—she was a very influential teacher in these parts—encouraged them to stay in school. There's not a black family in Wheelwright that hasn't struggled to see their children finish high school, take up a trade, or go to college." She displays the pictures of her children—a teacher, a physical therapy assistant, a counselor to juvenile offenders.

"When I hear one of these young ones coming out with too much of this 'black and beautiful' thing," she says, "I tell them, 'You're black, yes, but ugly—until you make something of yourself.' I tell them if blacks have to be a little better than whites to get ahead, then they'll just have to be a little better. There's nothing wrong with starting at the bottom, I say. When you're at the bottom, every step is progress."

Annie Mae Branham knows her argument does not convince everyone in the black community. "Some of the old ones remember the hurts too bad," she explains. And, to many of the young ones, the Horatio Alger story of success through individual striving is an empty promise as far as blacks are concerned. Mrs. Branham knows only that it has worked for her.

"We are nothing," she says, drawing on her sturdy pentecostal faith, "but we can do all things in Jesus Christ who strengthens us. We're only beaten when we give up, when we accept that we're inferior."

"My mother taught me that," she recalls, "and she was a wise, old sister."

One of the items discussed with PBS members was the chemistry department laboratory at Prestonsburg High School. The board of education will ask bids in a program to upgrade the lab. Janitorial services at the high school were let to contract after receiving bids. Piemer's Cleaning Service was awarded the contract on its bid of $350 per week. One janitor employed by the board is retained. Heretofore, four janitors were employed there, and the cost of the new janitorial service will be about the same as before.

The five "calamity days" granted by the State Department of Education were accepted, and these will make it possible for the last days of classwork for the current school term if no more days are lost, to fall on June 4, 5 and 6 (the different closing dates result from the difference in time lost by individual schools). No extended days or Saturday classes will be necessary, it was said.

Bids accepted on renovation of the Head Start classroom at Garrett were: Renovation, Kentucky Carpet Co., $537.30; materials, Allen Lumber Co., $694.18; heating and air-conditioning, Allen Lumber Co., $1100.95. The $6,647.80 bid of Music-Carter-Hughes was lowest submitted on a station wagon for Head Start use.

A new high school for Betsy Layne, to be located in a flood-free location in the Stanville vicinity, moved a step nearer with the board's directive that the architect prepare preliminary plans.

The Group V Reading series and textbooks for vocational education were adopted.

The board granted Donna Hackworth use of the Garrett gym at a rental of $5 per hour.

The following year, the brothers began negotiations with Kentucky Elkhorn Coal Co. for half of the 5,000-acre Collins and Mayo tract at Weeksbury which is the present site of the Baileys' coal mining operations and preparation plant. Even before the land was leased, the brothers had already decided to build the processing facility.

"I think one of the reasons we were able to lease the tract is because the owners knew we intended to build a washer," commented Vernon Bailey.

With prospecting and engineering of the tract under way by December, 1976, the new owners enlisted Charles Reed, present preparation plant superintendent, to conduct extensive washability studies on the five seams which are included in the property, and a year later preliminary work on the facility was begun.

The plant, which began processing coal March 3, is designed specifically for the type of coal which will be mined from the adjoining tract and was described as "primarily a coarse coal washer." Although the plant may process coal mined by other companies in the future, the estimated 15 million tons contained in the Baileys' tract will keep the plant operation busy for some time. Presently, three mines are operating on the property in the Elkhorn 2 and Fireclay seams.

The Bailey plant is an impressive structure incorporating a maze of bellines, walkways, and numerous whirring motors which transport the coal, crush and separate it, propel and shake it through graded screens and finally wash it to remove rock and other impurities, thereby reducing the ash content to salable levels. The entire complex operation is automatic, controlled from a central, electronic control booth. With a 50-car rail capacity on the site, the plant can process up to 500 tons of coal per hour.

The brothers feel that the high quality of their fellow-workers has meant as much as any one factor to the success of their operation. Citing men like Reed, engineer Marion Compton, mine superintendent Bill Burga, chief electrician and repairman Ronald Gullett and main plant operator Ellis Curry, Vernon Bailey pointed out, "We feel that as far as the efficiency of the operation and the men, we have the best." The brothers were also quick to point out that their mining operations, which are U.M.W.A., are never plagued with the labor troubles and wildcat strikes which have become so frequent in many union operations throughout the country. "Our relationship with employees is the best—we have a lot of communication," Paul Bailey commented.

In coming months, employment is expected to rise at the plant to around 100 and an estimated additional 100 will work through contract miners which will mine for the Baileys. And, although some residents may object to the dust or truck-caused pot-holes, which are an inevitable by-product of any large coal mining-processing operation, most citizens in the head of Left Beaver Creek are pleased.

"I think it's going to make the future much more secure for young people in this area who might otherwise have to leave to find work," said Peggy Bradford, teacher at Melvin Elementary and president of the Weeksbury Development Club, referring to the new enterprise. "It's particularly nice because the Baileys are from this section, they know our problems, and since they live here it only figures that they will work for what's best for the community," she added. Miss Bradford said the company had already helped the community with financing a new fire truck and she described the Bailey brothers as "very cooperative with the community."

Admitting that a certain amount of inconvenience to some residents was all but unavoidable, Paul Bailey stressed, "The man whose house I'm running my truck in front of is the one I'd like to help."

"We'll be totally dedicated to community development as we develop," he pointed out.

Is Easter Seal Telethon Guest

Charlotte Carr, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Carr, of Ypsilanti, Michigan, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Goble, of Prestonsburg, appeared on television last weekend in the Easter Seal Telethon in Detroit.

Although Charlotte was collecting money for the Easter Seal Junior Princess title herself, she decided instead to give all the money she had collected to a little girl friend so that she could win the title. This so impressed the Easter Seal Telethon executives that they also put Charlotte on the show for an interview and a performance of her favorite song, "Hey, Good Looking". She was interviewed by radio personality, Mark Avery, and appeared in song with one of the linebacks from the Detroit Lions Football Team.

Miss Carr was recently crowned Tiny Miss St. Patrick's Day Princess 1979 and also won the Miniature Great Lakes Majorette Princess, a regional title. She is now qualified to compete for the Miniature Majorette Princess of America this coming August.

She will be coming home to visit this month and will be hosting the Kentucky State Finals for the North American Pageant Systems, April 27-28. At that time she will be presented with a "Youth Merit Award" from Governor Carroll.

Epilepsy is a neurological disorder usually characterized by some type of seizure. The word is applied to a number of disorders of the nervous system, centered in the brain. Epilepsy affects more people than cancer, tuberculosis, cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy and multiple sclerosis combined. It is estimated that at least two percent of the population (about four million people) in the United States have some form of epilepsy. There are over 72,000 people in Kentucky alone who suffer from epilepsy.

The purpose of federal child labor laws is to protect educational opportunities for minors and prohibit their employment in jobs and under conditions that may be detrimental to their health and welfare.

Under the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended, minors younger than 18 may not work in nonfarm jobs declared hazardous by the Secretary of Labor.

Red Cross Aids Tornado Victims

Red Cross disaster specialists have arrived in Glasgow to assist local volunteers in providing assistance to the victims of the March 31 tornado that hit Barren county.

Heading the group and acting as director of the Red Cross disaster operations in Barren county is David Vargo, director of Disaster Services for the Kentucky Division American Red Cross.

Mr. Vargo stated that Red Cross will provide families with immediate assistance in the form of funds for food, clothing, rent, and supplemental medical and health needs. Red Cross assistance will be administered from an office at the Chamber of Commerce Building, 301 W. Main Street in Glasgow.

Survey information of the destruction indicates:

One person was killed, fourteen injured and four are still hospitalized. One home was destroyed, four sustained major damage and fourteen received minor damage. Two mobile homes were destroyed and five suffered major damage. Two small businesses were also destroyed.

The Red Cross is also assisting approximately 30 families whose homes were affected by flooding in Christian county.

All Red Cross assistance is an outright gift made possible by contributions from the American public. The Red Cross does not make disaster loans Mr. Vargo said.

I'm proud to say that I know what the inside of a coal mine is like. I am proud to say that my face has been covered with coal dust after a shift under the hill. I can humbly say that I have a "gut" feeling for the miner. In my heart I am still one of you and will always be.

STATE SENATOR

29TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT

FLOYD, KNOTT, MARTIN AND PERRY COUNTIES.

As your State Senator, I will encourage action that will make Kentucky Universities and colleges more aware of the needs of our young people who wish to pursue a professional career such as medicine, pharmacy, dentistry, law, etc.

* I will encourage an accelerated program of coal development as an energy source makes more sense now than ever before, in light of the recent increase in foreign oil prices and the inherent dangers of nuclear energy.

* I remain firm in my previously stated belief that a larger share of our coal severance tax money should be returned for local use and administration.

* Drugs have become an appalling problem in our schools, and it is time something is done about it. I believe the best way to deal with this problem is to educate our young people to the dangers of drug abuse and to give our teachers and educators authority to deal with individual problems as they arise.

As your State Senator, I will do everything in my power to find and implement solutions to these and other problems that face all Eastern Kentuckians.

Joint Venture Plan Announced On Area Housing

Development Secretary William Short announced Monday that a new program will be utilized to promote the construction of low- and moderate-income single-family housing in Eastern Kentucky.

Under the new concept, Short said, non-profit housing sponsors will work with private developers in joint ventures.

"Non-profit housing sponsors participating in the new program will receive assistance from the Kentucky Appalachian Housing Fund," Short said. The KAHF is administered through the Development Cabinet.

The non-profit sponsors will supply private developers with KAHF site development funds amounting to up to 10 percent of project costs.

Participating private developers will dedicate all or a portion of their development efforts to low- and moderate-income single-family housing, Short added.

The housing developer will then give the non-profit sponsor a lien on the dedicated property.

"After the land is developed, it will be sold only to qualified low- and moderate-income buyers and only with the sponsor's approval," Short said.

As the property is sold, the lien will be released on a lot-by-lot basis.

"Qualifying buyers will benefit by receiving lots or lots and houses at reduced prices," Short said.

Short said the Development Cabinet's office of community and regional development, which includes the Kentucky staff of the Appalachian Regional Commission, has been working on the concept for four months. The process was developed jointly with the ARC Washington staff and the Kentucky Housing Corporation.

Little Mud Road To Be Improved

Commissioner of Rural Highways Otto Ingram told The Times last Thursday after he had inspected KY 2030 (the Little Mud to Printer road) that he found the route in poor condition and that the state will improve it.

"I was sent here by Governor Carroll to inspect this road," he said.

Judge Ingram said the surface of the road and its drainage are in poor condition, and he pointed to three places where curves need to be eliminated and one where the road bed should be elevated above the flood plain.

"We're hoping to make the improvements this year, but the bottom line is money," he said.

Ingram was accompanied on the inspection tour by State Senator Jim Hammond and four residents of the Little Mud Creek section, Lem Meade, Emmett Lawson, Caner Hunter and Eula Mae Hall.

Speed Cases Most Frequent Recently In District Court

Speeding is the No. 1 violation encountered in district court, these spring days, officials said this week.

As many as 15 arrests or citations a day are reported, Asst. County Attorney Eric Hall said. That's perhaps five times the normal violation rate.

The reason? Hall said one cause of the increased number of speeding violations may simply be the tendency of drivers to step on the gas in better weather and on clear roads. Another is the equipping of every state trooper with a radar gun.

It is not known if there is a systematic move under way to enforce the 55-mile speed limit.

District Judge Harold Stumbo said he finds it difficult to fine drivers who are not exceeding 70 miles an hour on four-lane highways.

The county attorney's office has contacted the Department of Transportation, seeking a driver's school here for speeders, and DOT has promised to send a representative here. The school would be similar to the school already being operated for drunk drivers.

Dedicates Chapel

George Otis, author of "High Adventure" and other best-selling Christian books, dedicated the chapel of Riverview Manor Nursing Home, Sunday, March 25. He is shown above with Mrs. Mayme Patrick, seated, and her daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Robinson, administrator of the nursing home. Mr. Otis, who resides in Van Nuys, Calif., hosts a television show on the West Coast, and also conducts tours to the Holy Land.

HUD Announces Cliff Site Wins Conditional OK

The Prestonsburg Housing Authority received this week from the Housing and Urban Development Administration (HUD) conditional approval of the proposed 95 units of multi-family housing at Cliff.

Conditional approval is the second of three stages for HUD-financed projects, Julia M. May, executive director of the Housing Authority, said.

The next and final stage, she said, poses one big problem—enough money to do the construction. HUD has appropriated $2.5 million on the basis of construction cost of $24 per square foot.

But inflation, Miss May said, has run construction costs well past that figure.

The Cliff project passed the first stage with preliminary acceptance last summer. To win that, access to the Cliff site was required. That problem was solved by official commitment to build a $1 million road off US 23 to the site, the Big Sandy Area Development District (Big Sandy ADD) contributing $100,000 of the cost, the Appalachian Regional Commission and the state Department of Transportation to bear 70 and 30 per cent, respectively, of the remainder.

The housing planned would be open not only to low-income persons but also to those of moderate or high incomes.

ADVICE ON WATER HEATERS

WASHINGTON—The federal Office of Consumer Affairs has this advice about water heaters:

"Buy a water heater with thick insulation on the shell. Add insulation around the water heater you now have if it is inadequately insulated, but be sure not to block off needed air vents. When in doubt, get professional help.

"A setting of 120 degrees can provide adequate hot water for most families."

Church Honors Mrs. Ransdell

Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, which she has served for 52 of her 79 years, last Sunday evening paid a special tribute to Prestonsburg's Mrs. Lucy Ransdell.

The program was "This Is Your Life, Mommy Ransdell," and to her surprise was added the unsuspected presence of three of the four surviving former pastors of her church.

Dr. George W. Redding and Mrs. Redding flew here from Akron, Ohio. The Rev. and Mrs. Ira McMillen, Jr. were here from Mason, O., and the Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Jaggars and their children were here from Cynthiana, Ky. Her daughters, Mrs. Helen Schroeder, of Bethesda, Md., and Mrs. Sue Martha Shields, Abilene, Texas, and her sister, Mrs. A. W. Smither, and Mr. Smither, of Owenton, Ky., added to the evening of surprises.

Besides these, the church was filled to near-capacity by members of the congregation and friends of Mrs. Ransdell.

Her former pastors and the present pastor, the Rev. Dean L. Pack, spoke of her contributions in devotion and service to the church and of what she had meant to them, personally. Mrs. Regina B. Mayo, one of the county's two original health nurses, recalled her associations with the Ransdells.

Favorite hymns of Mrs. Ransdell were a part of the program. Estill Lee Carter served as master of ceremonies.

Following the service, a reception was held in the Educational building. A volume containing a history of the church and the "This Is Your Life" program was presented each person attending.

Mrs. Ransdell came here in 1927 when her husband, the late Dr. Marvin Ransdell, became county health doctor. She herself worked with the Floyd County Health Department 28 years.

HERE FOR VISIT

McMillens To Return for Revival

While serving the church as pastor, the Rev. McMillen saw the congregation of Irene Cole Memorial purchase the Pelphey property on which the new sanctuary and educational building now stands, the present parsonage at the corner of First and Ford Streets and the Richmond property on First Street. At that time the church sponsored 12 mission Sunday Schools and preaching points in the county. Today three of those—Lancer Baptist Church, Benedict Chapel Baptist Church and the Fitzpatrick Baptist Church—are organized Southern Baptist congregations.

The McMillens moved in April, 1962, to Ashland, where he served Unity Baptist Church as pastor for nearly 13 years. On January 1, 1975 he assumed the pastorate of Northside Baptist Church, Lebanon, Ohio, becoming the second pastor of the young congregation. In two years it was listed by the Home Mission Board in the top 100 fastest growing Southern Baptist churches in the nation during that period. After serving this congregation nearly four years, Rev. McMillen last October assumed the position of associate pastor of ministries with the First Baptist Church, Mason, Ohio, where he is responsible for ministry to senior adults, including services in five area nursing homes, visitation-evangelism and other forms of outreach. Mrs. McMillen is homemaker, teacher of an adult Sunday School class, leader of Asteens and member of the choir. Rev. McMillen is a member of the executive board of the State Convention of Baptists in Ohio, chairman of the convention Finance committee, trustee of Ohio Baptist Benevolences and a member of the Search Committee, seeking a successor to Dr. Ray E. Roberts, executive secretary-treasurer of the State Convention of Baptists in Ohio, who retires next June. "Brother Mac and Jeanette," as they were affectionately known here, look forward to seeing many of their friends and acquaintances of other days in these special services. Pastor Woods extends a warm welcome to everyone to attend. Services will be conducted nightly, April 15-22, at 7 o'clock.

APRIL BIRTHDAYS IN DAVID COMMUNITY

Among those observing birthdays this month who live at David are Rod Bussey, Cordell Griffith, Barbara Robinson, John Bussey, Eddie Clark, Linda Music, Sarah Pitts, Peggy Nelson, Jewel Tussey, Judith Thomas, Penny Bentley, William Thomas, Tim Bentley, Lisa Shepherd, Mae Price, and Alvin Mollett.

Two faces and voices familiar to this area will be seen and heard once again when revival services begin at the Fitzpatrick First Baptist Church, Middle Creek, the night of April 15 and continue through the night of Sunday, April 22.

The evangelist will be the Rev. Ira McMillen, Jr., and the guest soloist will be his wife, Jeanette. They lived in Prestonsburg from the fall of 1953 to the spring of 1962 during which time he served as pastor of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church. The McMillens were heard three times weekly on a 15-minute broadcast over radio station WPRT known as "Sunshine Corner." Arrangements are being made with the station for them to present this program once again while they are here.

Pastor John Henry Woods has announced that in addition to the preaching by Rev. McMillen and the special singing each night by Mrs. McMillen, the choir and congregational singing will be led by Dave Woofler. Mrs. Frankie Best, local art teacher and longtime friend of the McMillens, will draw a chalk picture each night which will be awarded to the person bringing the most new guests to the revival service that night. He also said that Friday night of the meeting will be called "Old Fashioned Night" and "Old Friends Night," at which time friends of the McMillens will be invited as special guests.

NOT SEASHELLS on a sandy beach, but freshwater mussel shells left high and dry as result of lowered water levels at Dewey Lake. Although the mollusks do not grow large at Dewey, their mere presence is dependent on a certain level of water quality, an indication that there may yet be hope for the problem-plagued reservoir.

IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Mrs. Osie Shepherd, of West Prestonsburg, is seriously ill at the Highlands Regional Medical Center. Her children and grandchildren who reside in Michigan, have been called here due to her illness.

Young Workers Conducting Cleanup of Park Area

Members of the Young Adult Conservation Corps are pictured at work collecting litter from a roadside at Dewey Lake. A crew of 18 is currently conducting a cleanup of the park area of trash along the roadways as well as on the lake shore where high water has deposited garbage from upstream. The organization, funded by the state, offers jobs to young men and women between the age of 18-22 and is supervised in this area by Bob Fraley.

JENNY WILEY TRAIL WORK CONTINUES...Rerouting and upgrading of the Jenny Wiley Trail's 23-mile southern section, which follows ridgelines from the Jenny Wiley State Park campground at Goble Branch to a point near Ivyton in Magoffin county, continued this week in an effort to ready the trail for summer hikers. Purpose of the interviews was to enable the architectural planners to better assess the existing problems and find workable solutions to them.

Among those interviewed were members of local financial institutions, professional and business persons as well as property owners and shoppers.

The second phase of the renovation to be done will begin with a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 8, at the library here. At that time, concrete proposals and projections as to cost and time factors will be made.

All who are interested in this work are urged to attend.

Sturgill Ends PSC Service

Sturgill, a former county attorney of Floyd and former PSC chairman, indicated he did not apply for appointment. He was quoted as saying, "I needed to get back to my law practice here in Prestonsburg. I hadn't asked to be let go, I just let nature take its course."

The other PSC member who was not appointed to the new commission is Bill Gentry, of Bardtown. Sturgill had been a member of the Public Service Commission since January, 1972, and also served as chairman of the commission.

Three other PSC members were appointed to the part-time Utility Regulatory Commission to handle matters involving telephone, water and sewer services. They are Richard "Smitty" Taylor, of Owensboro, who was named chairman; John Stanley Hoffman, of Henderson, and Mary Ray Oakén, of Cadiz.

Named to the fulltime Energy Regulatory Commission, which will deal with gas and electric utilities, were Perry White, chairman, who formerly was executive director of PSC; Charles "Chuck" Lambert, deputy commissioner of the state Finance Department, and Dr. Claude Vaughan, University of Kentucky economist.

Marcella R. Bailey

Democratic Candidate for County Judge-Executive
May, 1979 primary election

On Friday, April 6th I entered the County Court Clerk's office in Prestonsburg, Ky.—a very happy woman, it being the time to draw for Marcella R. Bailey's—along with all the other candidate's positions on the Ballot. As I drew my No. 3 spot on the Ballot, this was a big thrill for me and my family—I felt like I drew a winner—a winner who will not forget the least to the biggest. A winner who strongly believes in "Better Roads" for all the taxpayers of Floyd County. Just give Marcella R. Bailey a chance—that's all I ask is an "Honest Chance." The tax dollars will be spent fairly and you as citizens will receive the benefits—You good people who are supporting me and it sounds real great. Talk for me to your friends, neighbors and everyone—help me out—you women get busy and encourage everyone—help Marcella out. This is the only way I'll get it. Look down at your little ones—before you go to vote and you will cast your vote for Marcella R. Bailey, County Judge-Executive. If God "be willing," Marcella R. Bailey will be your next Democratic Nominee for County Judge Executive of Floyd County come May 29. Let's have a talking contest, but, "Let Marcella be the Winner."

A Vote for Marcella is a Vote for a Better Floyd County and all its people.

Spring Not Best Time To Fertilize Lawns

By JOHN E. SPARKS
County Extension Agent
for Agriculture

Spring is not the best time to provide your lawn with its annual feeding, despite popular belief and expensive advertising campaigns. Spring fertilization stimulates excessive growth at the expense of the grass root system. Besides requiring frequent susceptible to disease, summer brown-out and a number of other maladies.

The best time to make your annual fertilization in the Kentucky area, is in the fall. Grass makes most of its roots growth and tillers, which thicken the lawn in the fall. Fertilizer at this time promotes a deep rooted, thick and healthy turf which can make better to through the summer with a minimum of browning.

A one-shot application of fertilizer will do the most good if applied in October. If you're ambitious and fertilize twice, plan to do it in September and November. If you are really ambitious, a third application can be made in October, December or even January, even though the ground may be frozen.

What if you didn't fertilize last fall? Don't worry—a light application of lawn food will cause few problems. Even if you applied your fertilizer last fall, this light application (½ to 1 pound of nitrogen per 1,000 square foot of lawn) will hasten spring green up and is a good cure for "spring gardening fever". Next fall, however, why not plan to do your grass a favor and feed it then.

For further information on lawn care, contact John Sparks, Agricultural Extension Agent for Floyd county.

Parents, Teachers At Martin School Confer on Issues

"Parent Involvement" was the pivotal issue in both conversation and activities last week at the Martin Elementary School as parents met on two different occasions to discuss the school's Title I program, students' academic status and purposes of the Educational Improvement Act.

Monday afternoon, the Martin Parents' Advisory Council met to evaluate the school's Title I activities and set next year's priorities. Parents and teachers decided to request an increase in the allotment of money for materials because of prevalent inflation. The group agreed to request the purchase of dry copy machines and (or) laminating machines. Another priority set by parents expressed the wish to leave unchanged the present number of Title I reading students. Mrs. Anna Lee Rice, reading consultant, explained to the group the role of each school's input into the program: Each school sets its own priorities and these are combined at the county level to determine similar county-wide priorities.

Attending the Martin PAC afternoon session were Mrs. Ilene Thompson, chairman; Mrs. Anna Lee Rice, consultant, Elaine Halbert, Wanda Johnson, Julia Conn, Edgar Kidd, Eulene Ratliff, Thelma Hale, Principal Bobby Jones, and reading teacher Pam Wohlford.

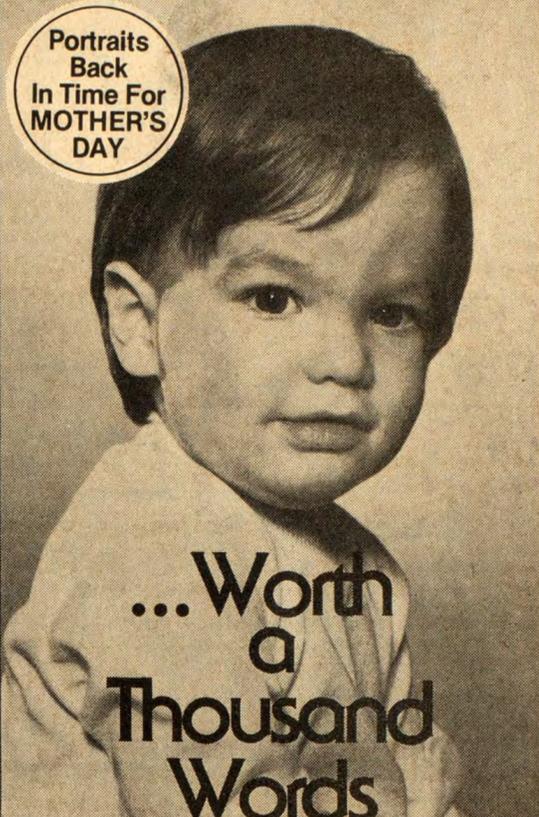

The following evening, proceedings were begun to initiate the Educational Improvement Plan of 1978, a legislative mandated program designed to upgrade education in all Kentucky schools. Approximately 50 persons attended the school's public hearing conducted by Principal Jones. The purpose of the hearing was to inform parents as to the intent and purposes of the EIP and tentative plans for official initiation of the program during the next school year.

Several faculty members participated in the hearing: William Patton, testing information; Pam Wohlford, test results showing comparisons to county, state and nation; Shirline Patton, curriculum changes to strengthen the reading program; Ora Mae Allen, ways to help children at home; Vivian Barnette and Debbie Wallen, role of special education; Virginia Skeans, Supplementary Title I program information; Yvonne Mosley, mandated additions to the curriculum; Vivian Tackett, math textbooks and the math continuum. Mr. Jones explained the school's general educational plans and at the meeting's conclusion conducted a question-and-answer session.

Under the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended, the minimum wage for employment is 16 for any job except those declared hazardous by the Secretary of Labor; however 14 and 15-year olds may work in some jobs during certain hours and for a limited number of hours per week, and at any age youths may deliver newspapers, work for their parents in certain jobs and do specified other tasks.

Remember to have decorative outdoor gas lamps turned off unless they are essential for safety. Or, convert such lamps to electricity. Keeping eight gas lamps burning uses as much natural gas as it takes to heat an average-size home for a winter heating season.

Keep in mind that more than 7.5 percent of the electricity we use in our homes goes into lighting. Concentrate lighting in your home in reading and working areas. Remember also to light certain areas, such as stair wells, for safety's sake. Reduce lighting elsewhere.

Peach Crop Prospect Best in Several Years

Kentucky's peach crop promises to be the best in several years, according to an Extension horticulturist at the University of Kentucky agriculture substation near Princeton.

Jerry Brown says all bud counts indicate that healthy orchards will produce good crops.

And he says the late March cold snap apparently has done little damage to this year's peach crop.

The specialist advises growers to thin blooms in order to produce large fruit. One peach every four to six inches of limb is ideal, according to Brown. Growers who do not thin properly can expect small fruits, he adds.

For peaches—or any other fruits—now is the time to take insect and disease control measures. "You will see the results of neglect at the end of summer," warns Brown.

Commercial and homeowners spray schedules are now available at county Extension offices.

Brown reports that the 1978-'79 season is expected to be a banner year for producers of all fruits and tree nuts. "This season's fruit and tree nut prices are expected to be moderately to substantially above last year's levels," according to Brown.

He says prices received so far this year by growers for fresh and processed fruits have averaged sharply above a year earlier.

The striped bass may be on its way to extinction, the April Reader's Digest reports. The young striper population has declined drastically since 1970, and its main spawning grounds—the Hudson River and Chesapeake Bay—have failed to support enough young ones to ensure the fish's survival.

REWARD

We, the Administrative Board of the First United Methodist Church, speaking for the membership, are appalled by the dynamite bombing of the Parsonage on Friday morning, March 23, 1979, and deplore this abominable act of aggression and vandalism against God's House and propose to offer the following reward:

A REWARD OF TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS ($2,000.00)

is offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons involved in placing and igniting explosive materials on the premises of the Methodist Parsonage at 54 South Arnold Avenue, on Friday Morning, March 23, 1979.

This reward will be paid by the church.

KEA Opposes State Board Move To Require Civics

Kentucky Education Association President Doris Morton has announced the strong opposition of the organization's board of directors to a State Board of Education proposal that civics be a required social studies subject at either the 9th or 10th grade level.

Mrs. Morton said KEA wants civics to continue to be a "recommended" rather than "required" subject because a civics mandate in addition to the American history course already required "would severely limit social studies opportunities for students."

"The damage would be done to other important social studies, such as government, geography, economics, sociology and psychology," she said at a hearing in Frankfort on the proposed administrative regulation.

"Two mandated courses in social studies would drain off students from those other courses and cause them to become so small that they could not be economically justified. Thus, we would be encouraging a narrow curriculum in social studies," she argued.

"We note that for the two required math courses and the two required science courses the students may select from offerings according to their interest or ability level," Mrs. Morton said. "Why shouldn't the same apply to at least one social studies course?"

Imposing the civics requirement could cause numerous scheduling and teacher assignment problems because a geography teacher, for example, could not teach civics or American History.

Although adding a civics requirement would be ill-advised, she said, to add the requirement this year would force the state into spending money in what most people would view as a wasteful manner. The state schedule calls for social studies textbooks to be adopted next year. To require civics this year would mean that local school districts would have to order extra texts for just one year and then change them all next year.

"It is difficult to understand why the State Board of Education, in the face of all the compelling arguments against such a move, insists on making civics a required subject," the KEA president said.

"In doing so, the State Board is rejecting a recommendation of the State Department of Education's program studies committee, which was made up of teachers, principals, counselors, supervisors, superintendents, and Department members who studied the question for a year and half," she added.

A Dream Season for Allen Sports

By KENNY RICE

Almost everyone likes a dream-come-true type of story. Americans just seem to root for the underdog. Witness the success of the movie, "Rocky," and, more recently, the attention given to Indiana State's basketball team.

At Allen Elementary this season, their sports program enjoyed a dream-come-true season. First the football team won the "Class B" championship of Floyd County. They were expected to have a pretty good season, and while they were not a strong favorite to win the title, it was not a huge shock to grade school sports circles.

The shock came when the Allen boys' basketball team won their sectional and advanced to the final game of the Floyd county championship. This team had a 2-7 record a month into the season. Then some changes started taking place.

"We won five in a row to even our record at seven and seven," said David Mosley, the fine coach of the Eagles who guided football and boys' basketball teams this season. "That win streak gave us a spark and got us back in a winning frame of mind."

In keeping with the dreamy success of the basketball team, the "big boy" that Mosley said was lacking from making this a very good team, arrived at the start of the second semester. John Gilliam, a rugged 5-10 eighth grader, transferred from Prestonsburg to bolster the inside game of the quick Eagles. The story was right out of one of those Claire Bee books on "Chip Hilton—All American."

Allen beat Prater in the first game Gilliam wore the green and white. Prater had beaten Allen 30 points at the start of the season.

The win over Prater was an important victory but the key to turning around the Allen season was a come from behind win against Prestonsburg. "John was a big help to our team, but we were winning before he came and we were not a one man team. I think our team realized this after John fouled out with around two and half minutes left and Allen down by five. Our press and quickness pulled us through and we beat Prestonsburg."

Winning against Prestonsburg had a springboard effect on the Eagles and launched them on a nine game winning streak before Sutmbro ended it in the county finals.

"I've never seen a team improve so much in a season," Mosley said. "Seven boys did an exceptional job for us. Craig Davis, who had a great game against Stumbo, at one forward and Greg Allen and Kenny Allen, who alternated starting after Gilliam came, at the other forward gave us a solid front line. Todd Gray and Randy Watts did fine jobs at guards and seventh grader Jeffrey Campbell came in at guard, got the ball down the floor for us and saved the game for us against Garrett. After the win over Osborne the boys realized they were a good team and they played with confidence against Garrett and Stumbo. Stumbo just had too much. Dwight Newsome burned us. When I started substituting with a minute left in the game, we were down 51-41 and he had scored all but about ten of their points. I'm proud of the season."

For icing on the athletic cake at Allen, coach Jimmy Gray's girls' team, last year's county runners-up, reached the county semi-finals, after winning their second consecutive sectional. The Gray-coached Lady Eagles were the county's surprise team last year when they reached the Finals.

Allen is not resting on this season's accomplishments either. "We have a little league basketball program for boys and girls in grades two through seven. There are 64 boys and 31 girls participating. Stella Spurlock, Cindy Parsons, Katie Hall, Kathy Campbell, Nancy Crisp, and Laura Garrett are coaching the girls. Jimmy Keye, Jimmy Wright, Lanny Hall, Jack Castle, Elmer Parsons, Ellis Spurlock and Charlie Marshall are coaching the boys. There's a lot of interest in athletics here. We're really looking forward to the athletic banquet."

With that kind of interest, Allen could have some more dream seasons in the not-too-distant future.

FLOYD COUNTY BABE RUTH

The county Babe Ruth League begins its season within the week. Last year, Floyd county had a resurgence in participation and interest in Babe Ruth baseball. This year there is more growth expected.

"We have solid teams at Prestonsburg, Betsy Layne, Martin, Garrett, Wayland, McDowell and Drift. So far Wheelwright and Maytown haven't contacted me about playing in the league, but we may have a team from the Prestonsburg area and Wheelwright area in the league this season," said league president Lee Frazier.

The schedule for each team has been increased to forty games and, under the direction of the hard working Frazier, a senior Babe Ruth league for boys 16-18 years of age is being set up. "We have teams at Wayland, Wheelwright, and Prestonsburg with senior teams and we need one more for a league, but I think we'll have one. Pikeville said they'd be glad to start a team if we can't get one in this county."

Floyd county high school teams are reaping the rewards of having boys who played Babe Ruth through last summer. A strong Babe Ruth program would enable the county's high school teams to grow stronger. Johnson County's Babe Ruth and Little League programs have made Paintsville and Johnson Central high schools respected throughout the state. Frazier is hoping high school coaches will encourage their players to participate in Babe Ruth this year.

A lack of facilities has been the major drawback to the Babe Ruth program in this county. Frazier had hopes of playing many games on the baseball field at Allen's new park, but he noted, "Yvonne (Jones) said the park won't be ready until the first part of August and she doesn't want games played on the field until all the construction equipment is removed from the park area."

A successful exhibition season and a good overall turnout to play on the various county teams gives an indication this could be the best Babe Ruth season in a long time in Floyd County.

SOFTBALL TEAM NEEDED

A record 23 men softball teams have signed up to play in the Archer Park Softball League. Commissioner Billy Ray Collins is looking for one more team to round out the league this season.

"We have room for one more team," Collins said. "Because of increasing interest we decided to add four more teams from last year's twenty clubs." Anyone interested in having a men's team in the league should contact Collins at 886-6377 soon because, "the season is being planned to start on May 7th barring twenty feet of backwater," the colorful Collins noted.

Men's action will be seven days a week this season to accommodate the additional teams. The men will play Monday through Saturday evenings with three games set for each evening beginning at 6 o'clock. On Sunday there will be six men's games starting at 1 p.m. "after church." The Archer Park League (American Softball Association District 40) is comprised of teams from Floyd, Martin and Magoffin Counties.

Women's teams have also increased from "a previous high of eight or nine to twelve solid teams this season," Collins said. The ladies will play on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings with games each evening beginning at 6 o'clock.

Collins also needs two men umpires "desperately." Those interested should contact Billy Ray very soon.

This year is expected to be one of the best in the highly respected softball league. "Softball is still the greatest form of exercise for all ages. You can play it in your 40's, 30's, 20's, or teens," Collins added.

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. JERRY HOWELL
Director of Environmental Studies
Morehead State University

Abandoned waste disposal sites have a way of returning to haunt us. Several recent cases have created nightmares for many citizens. Two prime examples are the Love Canal near Niagara Falls, where 200 families had to be evacuated because old organic chemicals, stored underground some 30 years ago, began seeping to the surface and causing human health problems, and an Alabama case in which DDT, stored years ago, emerged and hospitalized several people who ate fish from the contaminated water. There are many other well-publicized cases, including the "valley of the drums" in Bullitt County, Kentucky.

Along with three other nearby sites, the "valley of the drums" is an illegal dumping ground for hazardous wastes (there are no certified sites in Kentucky). It was first reported to Kentucky's Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection (DNREP) in 1975. Now about 30,000 drums, some full of chemical wastes, are stored at the site, while the other three sites harbor about 5,000 barrels. Federal officials have called the site one of the largest and worst dumps in the U.S., although they have issued no evacuation orders.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) brought a team of hazardous waste experts to the Bullitt county site in March, 1979 to plan further strategy for keeping the chemicals and oil from further leaching into nearby Wilson Creek. About 20 people, including eight from a private firm specializing in handling hazardous wastes, are working daily at the site and are being paid from a special, nearly-exhausted reserve fund EPA has for such emergencies. The costs are expected to exceed $200,000. By mid-March, an emergency filtration system had been installed and seepage was halted. Trenches, a pond, hundreds of feet of piping, and two large purifying tanks have also been installed.

Previous seepage had allowed polychlorinated biphenyls (PCB's), chemicals used to manufacture a number of products and known to induce cancer when found in high concentrations, to become incorporated into nearby stream ecosystems. The dump site itself had a PCB concentration of up to 14 parts per million (ppm), while samples from Wilson Creek showed concentrations of up to three ppm, the maximum safe level according to EPA. Two other creeks showed trace amounts of the chemicals. There has been no detected drinking water contamination, but people have been advised against eating fish from the streams. Other chemicals found in Wilson Creek include benzene, solvents, heavy metals, and oil.

Because the Bullitt county site is already a chemical dump and because the state is presently without a legal dump or recycling center (which may be a reason why Kentucky has so many illegal dumps), the possibility exists that the dump will be turned into a permanent recycling center, perhaps operated by the Commonwealth. According to Eugene Mooney, Secretary of DNREP, such a site would have an incinerator, a barrel cleaning service and facilities for recycling the wastes.

Information about federal child labor laws may be obtained from any office of the Wage and Hour Division, listed in most telephone directories under U.S. Department of Labor, Employment Standards Administration.

The jury in the trial of Elder Lee Hamilton, charged with the slaying on Mud Creek of the Rev. Charlie (Hatler) Hamilton last May 18, deliberated about seven hours last Tuesday before reporting to Circuit Judge Hollie Conley that it was hopelessly disagreed. The jury was dismissed around midnight.

Second trial of the case has been docketed for July 26, Asst. Commonwealth's Attorney Donald R. Goble said.

No other cases have been heard since the Hamilton trial. The trial of John Melvin Kidd on a first degree robbery count was scheduled for today (Wednesday).

Two trials are docketed for next Monday—Frank and Johnny Lee Newsome, on a first degree assault charge; and Johnny and Donald Newsome, who are charged with wanton endangerment.

WHILE A YOUNG MAN'S FANCY may turn to romance in the spring, it's a good bet that some of the older folks may be thinking of a spring tonic. Two such "miracle elixirs" from yesteryear are pictured above including the well-known Hadacol (Hafficall), which is reputed to be capable of growing sprouts off a wooden leg, and Fritola, a lesser-known but no doubt equally potent compound which is designed to be taken with a rather complicated course of effervescents.

Mrs. Price Named Outstanding Teens Who Care Adviser for '79

Mrs. Rose Price, of the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center here, was named the Outstanding Adviser of the Teens Who Care Association for 1979 at the 12th annual meeting of the Teens Who Care Association held April 6-7 at the Executive Inn, Louisville.

Mrs. Price has worked with Prestonsburg High School's TWC club for seven years.

Bridget Salyers, president of the Teens Who Care Club at the high school here, was the recipient of a $250 scholarship awarded by Kentucky Manpower Development, Inc., state sponsor of the Teens Who Care Association.

She plans to attend Transylvania University where she will major in premedicine.

University where she will major in premedicine.

This year's two-day convention was the largest in the history of the organization, with approximately 400 members and advisers attending. Purposes of Teens Who Care are to do educational and promotional activities related to mental health and mental retardation, to volunteer their time and efforts in these areas, and to explore career opportunities related to mental health and mental retardation.

Search for Asbestos In Schools Ordered

The inspection and possible sampling of all of Kentucky's public schools for sprayed on asbestos could begin within two weeks.

That assessment was given by a staff member of the state's Task Force on Asbestos in the Public Schools following the task force's decision to initiate the program.

The staff coordinator for the task force, Ken Hines, of the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, said that meetings will have to be held with public health officials and personnel of the Department for Human Resources before the actual program can begin. DHR's Bureau of Health Services and local health departments will carry out the actual duties of inspection and sampling.

Under a plan agreed to last week by the task force members, the health officials will inspect all of the state's public schools to see if they contain materials that might be sprayed on asbestos. Where suspect materials are found, samples will be taken and forwarded to DHR's lab for coding. The samples will then be forwarded to a private lab where they will be analyzed.

The entire process should take about two months to complete, according to Hines. There are approximately 1,500 public school buildings in the state.

Eugene Mooney, secretary of the natural resources department and chairman of the task force, said that when the reports come back from the lab, the force will then be able to report to Gov. Julian Carroll on the extent of the problem.

He also said that private schools can be inspected if requested.

The local school districts will pay for the analysis and the state will pick up the tab for the inspections and sampling.

Airborne asbestos fibers, which are known to cause cancer, come from degenerating ceilings. Sprayed on asbestos was used extensively between the early 1950s and 1972, when it was banned by the Environmental Protection Agency.

VA Direct Deposit Can Be Trouble-Free

Some problems involving direct deposit of Veterans Administration compensation and pension checks can be avoided by following a few simple procedures, according to VA regional office director, Mrs. Mary G. Sindors.

The direct deposit or electronic funds transfer system allows VA beneficiaries to have compensation and pension checks entered in a checking or savings account at the financial institution of their choice.

"Following application, beneficiaries should allow approximately 90 days for direct deposit to take effect," Mrs. Sindors explained. "During this time the checks will continue to go to the current address."

If a person wishes to cancel direct deposit at any time, VA should be notified either by mail or phone. Toll-free numbers are available in all 50 states. Consult community telephone directories or local information operators.

A change of address card from the post office will not suffice to cancel direct deposit, Mrs. Sindors said.

Following the notification to cancel, VA beneficiaries should keep their bank account open until the check is received at the new address. If a person wishes to change banks, a standard form from the new bank is all that is required.

"Here again, it is important to keep the account open at the old bank until the first payment is received at the new bank," Mrs. Sindors emphasized.

The first Gideon bibles appeared in hotel rooms in November, 1908.

Claims Bill Would Cut Taxes

Passage of the Kemp-Roth bill now in Congress would stimulate productivity, employment and the gross national product by drastically cutting the rate at which individuals and corporations are taxed, a leading social scientist claims. It would also spare the government the consequences of a national version of Proposition 13.

Irving Kristol, New York University professor and contributor to the Wall Street Journal, points out that the bill—named for its sponsors, Rep. Jack Kemp (R., N.Y.) and Sen. William Roth (R., Del.)—"would reduce federal income tax rates by about 30 percent over a three-year period and 'inflation proof' the tax law by adjusting tax rates to allow for the rate of inflation."

Writing in the April issue of Reader's Digest, Kristol says current tax cuts fail to address the problem of inflation linked with a progressive income tax. "Every time a salary is raised, or a spouse goes to work to help cope with inflation, there is movement into a higher tax bracket, with higher marginal tax rates," he explains. Small wonder, then, that despite a higher income, one's standard of living remains the same or even declines.

Providing taxpayers—both corporate and individual—with more of their own income would benefit the economy and the government as well. Economist Norman Ture estimates that in the first year alone Kemp-Roth would create 2.1 million new jobs; private investment would increase by $90 billion, and the gross national product would increase $175 billion.

"As a result," Kristol points out, "federal tax receipts would fall much less than the drastic cuts in rates might suggest." Historically, in fact, tax receipts have increased within two years of a tax cut. In contrast, when the tax on capital gains was increased in 1969, government revenues from this tax declined steadily. Comments Rep. Kemp: "If you tax something you get less of it. If you subsidize something, you get more of it. In America, we tax work, growth, investment, employment, savings and productivity while subsidizing nonwork, consumption, welfare and debts."

Legislation to limit taxes and (or) spending is pending in almost every state. Taxpayers have also voiced their concern to their national legislators. Tax cuts of some description are certainly in the wind. The issue, as Kristol sees it, "is whether to cut taxes minimally and belatedly, as a reaction to popular resentment, or whether to cut tax rates massively now to stimulate the kind of growth that will curb inflation, and increase government revenues to balance government expenditures."

FOR COUNTY JUDGE-EXECUTIVE

The future development of Floyd County is, once again, in our hands this coming election. If we are to achieve our chosen objectives, we must have leadership in our county offices that exhibits qualities of DETERMINATION, MOTIVATION, and SINCERE DESIRE for PROGRESS, GROWTH, and PROSPERITY in this county.

The opportunities of achieving these chosen objectives are abundant and the only shortage of opportunity is the shortage we declare and accept. If a sincere, positively determined desire for progress exists in our county's leadership nothing can cause us to accept less than what we are striving to achieve.

The one realization we all must face is that in order to have the means of support to BUILD and MAINTAIN our county we simply cannot afford to take our tax dollars elsewhere. We must make beneficial use of them here and intelligently apply the return profit to our county's use, also.

The reason I am seeking this office is one of DEMOCRATIC DESIRE and DETERMINATION for a more POSITIVE, ECONOMICALLY-BALANCED future for ALL Floyd Countians.

TOGETHER WE CAN HAVE IT THE WAY WE WANT IT!

Hypothermia Still Threat to Boaters

Early spring boat users and fishermen in Kentucky are reminded by the American Red Cross that cold waters at this season of the year can be especially dangerous to those who fall in, even though they are expert swimmers.

"Many spring drowning deaths can be attributed to what the medical profession calls 'hypothermia'—the loss of body heat due to the effects of cold water." Mr. James Welch, Safety Programs director of the Kentucky Division Red Cross, said. "No matter how good the swimmer is, he can drown if the chilling waters immobilize his arms and legs and prevent him from swimming or otherwise getting out of the water. Loss of body heat in cold water occurs two to four times faster than in air."

"If you should suddenly find yourself in cold water from a boat's capsizing or a fall from a boat, do not remove your clothing," Mr. Welch advised. "While rapid wetting decreases the insulating properties of clothing, it will help retain some body heat by reducing the flow of water over your body. Clothing can also trap and hold air which will add to your natural buoyancy."

He recommended that boatmen and fishermen at this season wear one or two suits of thermal underwear and other suitable clothing. The type of wet suits worn by scuba divers are also protection against cold water.

"When a boatman or fisherman finds himself accidentally in cold water, he should get out of it as fast as possible, Mr. Welch said. "Normally the Red Cross advises staying with a swamped or capsized boat, but exceptions to this rule are the water being very cold or the accident occurring near hazardous water such as rapids or falls."

"Swim to the nearest point of safety—shore or another boat—with or at right angles to the current, using an armstroke with an underwater recovery."

Never go fishing or boating alone—always with a companion—and if possible, keep your boat within visual proximity of other boats so help is available in case of accident, he advised.

A victim taken from cold water should be brought into a warm room as quickly as possible, he said. Wet or frozen clothing, and anything that is constricting should be removed. The victim should be rewarmed rapidly by being wrapped in warm blankets or placed in a tub of water that is warm but not to the rescuer's hand or forearm. If the victim is conscious, he should be given hot liquids but nothing alcoholic. He should also be dried thoroughly if water is used to rewarm him.

Medical aid should be obtained as soon as possible, Mr. Welch concluded.

EARTH RECEIVER DISC at Van Lear provides hundreds of Floyd countians in the East Point and Auxier sections with satellite-transmitted television programming through the cables of Paul Butcher, who installed the equipment, and Jim Daniels. The Smith Cable System is now offering similar programming to a wide area of Left Beaver Creek with its own earth receiving station, and other cable systems serving the county are planning future use of such facilities.

Floyd Countian Offers Petition For Haysi Dam

Tom Westfall, of Ivel, has delivered to a House appropriations subcommittee a petition signed by some 1500 Floyd and Pike countians favoring construction of a new flood control dam in the headwaters of Levisa Fork.

Westfall, Tom Porter and H. Tom Black, of Allen, were part of a delegation from Floyd and Pike counties, and from Dickenson County, Va., who went to Washington last week to urge action on flood control.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins, introducing the group to the Senate and House subcommittees in separate hearings, said the presentation shows the solid support of the people of the area for the Haysi Lake project.

The proposed dam would be on the Russell Fork of the Levisa near Haysi, Va., in Dickenson county. It was authorized by Congress in 1938 as part of an overall design to reduce flood crests in the Levisa Fork valley.

Russell Fork drains the Virginia area on which up to 13 inches of rain fell in early April, 1977, triggering the disastrous flood that caused millions of dollars of property damage all down the Levisa Fork.

Perkins has asked the subcommittees to approve $350,000 to begin planning and design of the already-authorized project.

WHAT DO YOU THINK, ENERGY GROWS ON TREES?

Buck Stove Owners Know It Does.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if energy grew on trees? Every morning the sun could come up and, from sea to shining sea, America could sprout a little more energy.

Naturally, energy does grow on trees. Trees, in fact are our only expandable energy source.

The only problem with using energy from trees has been that the sun does a great job of packing energy into trees, but people do a poor job of getting it out again.

Until Buck Stove, that is. Buck Stove is almost as good at getting energy out of trees as nature is at getting it into them. Buck Stove is the wood stove for modern America.

How well do Buck Stoves work? Well, a recent owner survey uncovered the fact that 96% of the families surveyed used their Buck Stove as their primary heat source. Doesn't that tell you something?

Another interesting fact came to light during this survey. Of all the really great reasons for buying a Buck Stove (like saving 50-80% on your heating bills, as a majority of our customers do), fully 48% of the customers surveyed listed outstanding quality as their number one reason for buying a Buck Stove.

Of course, this didn't surprise us. We know all about that quality; which is why we can conditionally guarantee your Buck Stove for the lifetime of the original owner.

Buck Stoves are safe and easy to install, too. These all-steel, heavy-duty stoves meet the strict safety standards set by the National Fire Protection Association and Underwriter's Laboratories. And every Buck Stove dealer has trained, certified installers who assure you of the safest, most effective installation. Or, you can even do it yourself.

Because energy grows on trees, and money doesn't, Buck Stove is the sensible alternative for the American homeowner.

FLOYD FISCAL COURT GETS BEHIND STATE ROAD COM.

ACTION WILL BE TAKEN ON ROAD BUILDING AT ONCE.

At a meeting of the Floyd Fiscal Court last Monday, the order of recent date referring the route to popular vote was rescinded, much to the delight of those who are in favor of progress, and now Floyd will get behind the State Highway Commission, with the contractors' ended and every barrier removed. In other words, Floyd accepts Gov. Fields' challenge to make him leader and shall expect the road to be forthcoming. The action of the Fiscal Court is in keeping with public sentiment as having a vote on the route would only delay the Trail and would get us nowhere. The disposition of State and Federal aid is made on the recommendation of the Highway Commission and not by local vote, and Governor Fields had already informed us in person he would not recommend the expenditure of State and Federal funds on the dangerous and mountainous route insisted on by some.

A bridge at Cliff and the contract from there to town giving us an outlet and a bridge at Allen getting all Beaver to the Trail will very likely be some of the early steps in the letting of contracts and getting the work going. It seems fortunate indeed that this matter has been definitely settled at this time for at least two reasons: First so that no local candidate for office could make an appeal to the uninformed voters of the county on the theory that he would use his influence to carry the road the voters' way. Of course no local candidate could influence the State Highway Commission one iota and everybody ought to know that. And second: Allen City will no longer fear that the bridge will be built at Dvale and the State project up Beaver will start from Dvale leaving Allen City off the highway and her identity. The more we think of it, the more certain we feel that the plan accepted by the State Highway Commission is by far the best plan not only for the county but also for the great throng of tourists who will be going this way as soon as the Trail is opened.

The vote of the Magistrates on the following resolution and order: Last Monday, June 15, 1925, was as follows: For the order and resolution: W. J. Vaughan, John W. Harris, A. J. Hamilton, Jr., T. B. Akers, Against the order and resolution: W. J. Reynolds, Morgan Turner, James Hale

FLOYD FISCAL COURT RESOLUTION

Whereas, the Floyd Fiscal Court and State Highway Commission of Kentucky have been delayed in the construction of the Mayo Trail through Floyd County.

Now, therefore, be it resolved by this Court, that we hereby express our appreciation of the desire and effort of the Governor of Kentucky, and the State Highway Commission of Kentucky, to complete said Trail through Floyd County as soon as possible, and we hereby pledge to said Highway Commission, the hearty cooperation and assistance of this Court, and invite them to communicate with us often and start at once, the work of constructing the said Mayo Trail through the entire County of Floyd to the Pike County line.

FLOYD FISCAL COURT SPECIAL JUNE TERM JUNE 15, 1925

Whereas, this said Court did, on May 18, 1925, enter an order, as follows: FLOYD COUNTY FISCAL COURT May 18, 1925

Whereas, there is a contention among citizens and taxpayers of Floyd County, Kentucky, as to the best location of the Mayo Trail Highway, south of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to or opposite the town of Dvale, Kentucky. The Fiscal Court being in session and a quorum present and desiring that the taxpayers' money be used to benefit the greater number, it is recommended by the Court that a referendum vote be taken by the citizens of Floyd County. Said vote to be taken at the August primary, 1925, as to which route they desire their money to be spent upon, whether the short or Bull Creek route, or the long or around the river route, and ordered by the Court that no more Floyd County money be spent on either route until the result of said vote is certified to this Court.

Recommended by the Court that the State Highway Commission of Kentucky proceed at once to let a contract to grade and drain the Mayo Trail from the Pike County line to a point opposite Dvale, Kentucky; and that available Floyd County money be used for said purpose provided an equal amount of Federal aid appropriation is made available and that State aid be applied on same highway, when money is available next year.

Recommended by the Court that the State Highway Commission proceed at once to grade and drain the road from North limits of Prestonsburg, Ky., to Cliff, Ky., with money belonging to Floyd County, now in their hands remaining from the one hundred thousand dollars heretofore appropriated by this Court for Mayo Trail, and that said Commission apply for Federal aid to meet said one hundred thousand dollars, heretofore appropriated, and which aid when gotten, be at once used to construct the bridge at Abbott Creek across Big Sandy river, and that when State funds are available next year, that an equal amount be put up for which an equal amount of Federal aid be applied for and used upon said Mayo Trail in Floyd County, Ky., and that a copy of these resolutions be certified to State Highway Commission.

Their effort is to lower the death rate of infants. There are fifty-five midwives in Floyd county and they reported fifty-six births in 1924. Floyd has twenty-six doctors who reported 752 births. Mrs. Sam Spradlin entertained the Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church last Thursday. A delicious salad course was served and enjoyed by all.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

One of the most beautiful showers ever given in our little city was the one given by Mrs. Mary D. Allen and Mrs. B. F. Combs at the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Combs on Second street Wednesday afternoon from 2:30 until 4:30 p. m., honoring Mrs. Clifford B. Latta, nee Miss Olga Hager May, beautiful and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. May. In the receiving line with the bride, who was never more lovely an attractive, wearing a peach colored gown of imported georgette with fan to match, were Mrs. Combs and Mrs. Allen, the hostesses, Mrs. May, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Daniels, sister of Mrs. Combs, of St. Louis, Mo., who is guest in the home. The magnificent home was profusely decorated with cut flowers the color scheme being yellow and white, was carried out to perfection in every detail. The guests numbering about sixty were met at the door by Miss Joan Allen who looked charming in a pretty white dress, and who received the presents and deposited them in the dining room where a huge basket covered with yellow was filled to overflowing.

After the guests had all arrived they were invited to follow the bride to the dining room, which was a scene of unusual beauty and splendor. The charming bride, having been seated at the end of the table, began to open her handsome presents which consisted of silver, cut glass, china and a wonderful collection of elegant linens, each gift attesting to the popularity of the bride. After responding in her own inimitable manner as she untied and admired each gift the guests were delightfully entertained by both vocal and instrumental music by Mrs. Elizabeth Wells and others, after which quality refreshments were served consisting of brick ice cream, angel food cake and mint julep, which was followed by presenting each guest with a tiny yellow basket filled with delicious candy. The guests on departing declared this party one of the loveliest, and leaving their very best wishes to the charming bride and groom and to their hostesses, and say all good fortune attend them, may their sky ever be bright, may no clouds of sorrow or trouble shadow it, and may their path way together be long and always filled with joy.

Miss Olga Hager May was married to Mr. Clifford B. Latta in the city of Cincinnati on June 6, at 10:30 a. m. From there they went on their honeymoon to visit his father and mother who live at McKeesport, Penna. They also visited Mr. Latta's sister who lives at Akron, Ohio, and Mrs. Latta, nee Miss Mary Latta, of Steubenville, better known as the Bailey Coal Company, where Mr. Latta has a nice position. To the bride and groom, love and congratulations from

HOT WEATHER RULES FOR BABY

Nurse your baby. Do not wean without consulting your doctor. If bottle fed, keep food covered and on ice; Do not give ice cream, unripe or too ripe fruit to young children, and do not allow them to eat between meals. Children require only three-fourths as much food in hot weather as in cool weather. WATER. Give baby all he will take, between feedings. Do not give water for three-fourths of an hour before feeding time. Give baby cool boiled water. CLOTHING. In hot weather a diaper and thin shirt are enough. If very hot leave off the shirt. Dress the baby according to the temperature. Don't use enough clothes to make the baby perspire. Use white clothes. BATHING. Bathe the baby once a day. In hot weather give the baby a cool sponge bath two or three times a day. If he has prickly heat include baking soda and cornstarch in the bath water. Use teaspoon of baking soda and 1 dessert spoon of cornstarch to 1 quart of water. Clean hands and face help keep the food clean. SLEEPING. Have the baby sleep out of doors as much as possible, protecting him from the direct sun and extreme heat. Do not use heavy materials, as curtains, etc., to cover or shade the baby; they exclude air. Protect him from flies by covering carriage or crib with white mosquito netting. Don't pile on extra covering unless the weather turns cold—the baby's covers should be no warmer than yours.

MAN ENTERS OLD HOME; IS SHOT

Neighbor, in Excitement, Falls Off Roof On Younger Brother.

Charleston, W. Va., June 17.—Wallace Sayre, 22 years old, student, returned home early this morning from Marshall College, Huntington, and entered his home at 1219 Seventh avenue with a pass key. Meantime, Alfred Sayre, wealthy contractor, had moved from the house Monday and R. W. Harvey and family had moved in.

As young Sayre prepared to retire in one of the rooms, Harvey was awakened, and thinking Sayre was a burglar, shot him four times in the legs and hips.

Ernest Anderson, next door neighbor, hearing the commotion, climbed out on the porch roof of his home and called for the police. In the excitement he fell from the roof and landed on his young brother. The elder Anderson broke both arms, while the younger suffered a broken leg.

Young Sayre is expected to recover.

BANDIT IDENTIFIED AS MARION MAN

Puduch, Ky., June 17.—W. D. Stone, first of the rogues to be captured after robbing the Carrsville Bank, is a brother of County Attorney Edward Stone of Crittenden County and a member of one of the most prominent families in Marion. The second member of the hold-up gave his name as E. R. McGowan of St. Louis, Mo., and said he was a street car motorman. McGowan was captured today by Deputy Sheriff Glass of Livingston County in a farm house on the Illinois side of the river to which he had fled last night. McGowan was at the farmhouse of John Cumming, near Lashill.

A reward of $2,500 was offered for the capture of the robbers, consequently hundreds of farmers and citizens of both Polk and Livingston Counties were among the searching parties and passes hunting for the escaped robbers.

Last Friday, June 12, 1925, under the guidance of State Regent, Mrs. Eugene H. Ray of Louisville, the John Graham Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was organized here. Mrs. Ray was assisted by Mrs. J. G. Johns of Winchester who is well known and widely related here.

The organization took place at the home of Mrs. Jo M. Davidson on Court street where a delightful noon plate luncheon was served not only to the distinguished guests but to all the ladies interested in the organization. Fourteen members were enrolled with applications for four others whose papers were not yet complete. One of the most interesting features of the day was the display of relics consisting of diaries, pictures, silver and chinaware, old Bibles yellow with age and curios preserved by many generations in chests, alcoves and sacred places for a hundred and fifty years. The name "John Graham" was chosen in honor of one of Floyd's pioneer citizens and from whom several of the members of the chapter are descended. At the close of the organization prayer was offered and "Old Glory" saluted all taking part. A stanza of "My Old Kentucky Home" was enthusiastically sung.

PIKE WOMAN LOSES SUIT BY CREDITORS

Frankfort, Ky., June 16.—For a wife of a bankrupt husband was allowed to create debts would be manifestly unfair to creditors, the Court of Appeals ruled today in affirming a judgment of the Pike Circuit Court.

Mrs. Myrtle Phillips bought property in 1916. A remote vendor's lien was discovered, and a suit was brought to foreclose. At a Commissioner's sale, Mrs. Phillips' husband bought the land and it was put in his name.

Later Phillips became bankrupt, and Mrs. Phillips sought to have the land transferred to her, so as to be safe from creditors, since she had paid for it out of her personal funds. C. G. Bowles and other creditors successfully contested the suit.

THEODORE BURCHETT IS KILLED AT PORTSMOUTH

A SENATOR FOR THE WORKING MAN

"Your untiring efforts on behalf of your fellow Americans can never be adequately assessed"—Ray Marshall, Secretary of Labor, February 27, 1979

"This is to inform you that you have the endorsement of COMPAC as candidate for State Senator from your district."—Douglas McKenney, United Mine Workers of America, COMPAC State Chairman, March 22, 1979

Benny Ray Bailey is a Democratic candidate for the State Senate with a strong belief in the work ethic. Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall is a personal friend of Benny's, has visited with Benny here in East Kentucky and knows of Benny Ray's hard work for the working man. The United Mine Workers of America also know of Benny's strong commitment to the working man and have given Benny their endorsement and pledge of support in his race for State Senator.

Benny Ray has always been an advocate for the working man. "The single most important factor which allowed our people to build the greatest Nation on Earth from a wilderness is the hard work of the common man of America. Our people believe in the work ethic which tells us that every man deserves an honest days wages for an honest days work. The best example of what good American citizens should be is found here in East Kentucky in our hard working coal miners. The coal miner deserves our support."

Our coal miners risk their life each day to supply energy for our Nation. The coal industry pays a coal severance tax to our government, much the same way as industries in other areas pay taxes to provide vital services and public facilities for the area in which the industry is located. However, the coal severance tax, for some reason, is treated differently. The coal severance tax is paid into the General Fund of the Commonwealth of Kentucky. In the month of January, 1979, a total of $21,564,286.00 was collected in coal severance tax. This represents the largest single month collections since the severance tax was begun in 1972. It is difficult for our people to understand why we must live with inadequate rural roads, public facilities and vital services while coal severance tax is spent to build parkways in other parts of the State.

The Commonwealth of Kentucky, the largest coal producing State in the Nation must do better for its coal mining region. What is needed is leadership that has the support of the working man and understands the complex workings of State Government. Benny Ray Bailey has the support of the working man. Benny Ray has proven his ability to put together complex programs and make them work for our people. He'll make State Government work for us. Vote for Benny Ray Bailey for State Senator. It just makes sense that a person who has supported the working man all his life will continue to support them as an elected official. Benny Ray Bailey is proud of the support given to him by the United Mine Workers of America and will work with the working man of East Kentucky to make our life better here in the Mountains. Benny Ray Bailey—He makes sense for East Kentucky.

Ky. Housing Corp. Under Fire

Complaints about practices of the Kentucky Housing Corporation were aired today before the Subcommittee on Banking and Insurance.

According to Sen. Ed Ford (D-Cynthiana), the subcommittee has received several requests to study the activities of KHC, which was formed by the 1972 General Assembly to help low income Kentuckians obtain financing of homes.

A letter from J. R. Rhorer, a Frankfort banker and member of KHC's board of directors, stated that "the General Assembly's dream solution for low income home ownership (has) become a bureaucratic nightmare."

Rhorer's letter expressed concern that KHC has in recent years "cast aside" low income families to make loans to people with incomes higher than KHC criteria, "many of whom could easily qualify for conventional mortgages."

According to KHC, a person's salary must be under $16,500 in Eastern Kentucky or $15,000 throughout the rest of the state. A married couple or single person with one child must make less than $18,250 if living in Eastern Kentucky or $16,750 if they reside in the rest of the state.

Rep. Mark Fitzgerald (D-Cynthiana) said he supports an inquiry into KHC practices. In a letter to the subcommittee, Fitzgerald said "low income" is a relative term. Fitzgerald said he believes the criteria should be expanded to include middle income families. Today, a person with an income of $30,000 and four children would find it difficult to afford a down payment, said Fitzgerald. Fitzgerald also supports the inquiry because of abuses he has seen in his district in cases where "wealthy families" have received KHC loans.

The subcommittee agreed to investigate the activities of the Kentucky Housing Corporation.

BLUE RIDGE MOUNTAINS TO BE SETTING FOR WILDLIFE CAMPS

Young campers and environmentalists can gain a first-hand knowledge of the outdoors at the National Wildlife Federation's Wildlife Camps and Environmental Adventures, scheduled for June and July in the Blue Ridge Mountains of North Carolina.

Wildlife camps, designed for children ages 8 to 12 will introduce youngsters to basic camping skills, teach them to use nature's resources for protection and food, and allow them to study how plants, animals, and elements interact within an ecosystem. In addition, there will be time to pursue special hobbies such as macrame and bottle collecting, and recreational activities—from hiking and swimming to soccer and boating.

All three of NWF's Wildlife Camps will be held in the Blue Ridge Mountains, six miles southeast of Hendersonville, N.C., at the Kanuga Conference Center. The area covers 1,300 forested acres with hiking trails, small streams, and a spring-fed lake. The staff at Wildlife Camp consists of teachers and college students who have backgrounds in ecology, conservation, recreation, and a variety of the natural sciences. There will be one staff member for every six campers.

Environmental Adventures, also based at the Kanuga Conference Center, are for campers, ages 13 through 16. Guided by trained and experienced outdoor leaders, back-packers will hike through the Blue Ridge Mountains, while studying such conservation-related subjects as wildlife ecology, geology, outdoor cooking, and mountain crafts.

There will be four Environmental Adventures this summer. The back-packing trips are designed for beginners and novices and encompass trails, back roads, and cross-country travel. Ratio of backpackers to staff will be six to one. Both Wildlife Camp and Environmental Adventures are co-educational. For more information, write Wildlife Camp or Environmental Adventures, 1412 16th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

WWII Wasps Eligible Now for VA Benefits

Veterans Administration chief Max Cleland has extended a welcome to former Women Army Service Pilots, the latest group to join the ranks of the nation's veterans. Known as WASP, the group is composed of an estimated 900 women pilots who ferried military bombers, fighters and transport aircraft during World War II.

Former WASPs, who were civilian employees of the military, became potentially eligible for certain VA benefits earlier this month when the Secretary of the Air Force certified that WASP service would be considered active military service for purposes of VA benefits.

The Air Force announced also that WASPs should send applications for honorable discharges to the Air Force Military Personnel Center (HQ AFMPC-MPCDOAL), Randolph AFB, Texas 78143.

The Air Force action followed 1977 legislation which granted former WASPs eligibility for veterans benefits on the condition that Department of Defense issue them honorable military discharges for service between September 10, 1942, and December 20, 1944. Their eligibility would extend to such VA benefits as compensation and pension payments and burial allowances.

The 1977 legislation was necessary because no legal means existed during World War II to enlist or commission women as military pilots, in spite of the need to release men for combat duty. The 1,097 women who subsequently served in the WASP were employed under Civil Service regulations.

Cleland said he has been advised by the Air Force that processing of discharge applications from former WASP pilots will require about two months, following which successful applications may apply for VA benefits.

He said benefits may not be paid to former WASP members prior to November 23, 1977, the date of enactment of the legislation that paved the way for their veteran status. This would preclude payment for such WWII programs as education benefits which have expired for veterans of that period.

The VA Administrator said regulations covering application for VA benefits by former WASPs are now being drawn up and will be forwarded to VA regional offices in each state as soon as possible.

Nat'l Health Meet Views State Program

Health officials from around the nation will hear a report on Kentucky's successful hypertension program at the National Conference on High Blood Pressure Control April 4-6 in Washington, D.C.

State Human Resources Secretary Peter Conn, said the Kentucky program was selected for review because of its efforts to control blood pressure among rural Kentuckians.

The hypertension control program was established in the department's Bureau for Health Services to determine if people in the rural and often remote areas of the state were receiving adequate screening and follow-up services.

"Many people in the rural areas of our state may have high blood pressure and do not know it," Conn said. "And others who have been diagnosed as having high blood pressure and not taking the prescribed medication to control it."

The two-prolonged program emphasizes counseling for people who have high blood pressure but are not following recommended treatment, and wide-spread screening services.

More than 342,000 people have had their blood pressure checked at local shopping malls, clinics, schools, church events and county fairs. Of that number, more than 4,800 showed evidence of high blood pressure and were referred to their doctor, Conn said.

People found to have high blood pressure are offered laboratory testing and an electrocardiogram (EKG) at no charge.

The federally funded program, now in its third year, is administered through local health departments in 24 Kentucky counties.

Panel Seeks New Policies On Med School Admissions

Deans of admission for Kentucky's three law schools told Rep. Bill Weinberg (D-Hindman), chairman of the Special Subcommittee on Professional School Admissions, that they will honor the request of the subcommittee for specific criteria explaining their admissions procedures, including the provision of a point preference being given to students coming from under-represented areas or areas of critical shortage.

Weinberg said the written statements will give potential students and the general public a better idea of what factors go into the acceptance or denial of an applicant, and will assist local students in finding acceptance to Kentucky's law schools. The health professions had previously adopted such a procedure and are recommending it to the state's medical, pharmacy and other health professions schools.

The subcommittee also approved a recommendation drafted by the Council on Higher Education to provide early recruitment for medical and dental schools and an awareness program of the medical profession at an elementary level. The program, according to Harry Snyder, director of the Council on Higher Education and a member of the subcommittee, would be implemented through area universities and the seven existing Area Health Education System regions.

The program would provide improved sources of assistance to students seeking to attend a medical or dental school, such as summer work-study programs, special high school courses and counseling and regional seminars.

The proposed program would also provide funds to the medical schools at the University of Kentucky and the University of Louisville and to undergraduate schools for programs to upgrade recruitment of students from under-served areas. It would create awareness of the lack of equal distribution of the medical profession in Kentucky and encourage community improvement to attract professional people.

Representative Weinberg said the proposed program was aimed at attacking the critical shortage of doctors in rural Kentucky. The proposal will be sent to the presidents of the Universities of Kentucky and Louisville.

FEWER IDLE IN FEBRUARY

Unemployment in the Eastern Kentucky area decreased from 29,997 people in January to 28,396 in February. The rate of unemployment decreased from 10.0 to 9.6 percent in that time.

"This decrease was due primarily to fewer persons being laid off in February and to people previously laid off being called back to work. But the continued higher levels unemployment throughout this area are due mainly to layoffs within the coal industry," said Robert MacDonald, chief labor market analyst for the Department for Human Resources.

Kentucky's overall unemployment rate for February was 6.6 percent and the national rate was 6.4 percent. In Eastern Kentucky, Letcher county had the highest unemployment rate of 20 percent while Martin county had the lowest with 4.4 percent. Floyd county's was at 9.8 per cent.

Area county-by-county rates for February follow:

VA Chief Asks Aid For Vietnam Vets

Expanded Veterans Administration programs for mental health, education and job-related training opportunities for Vietnam Era veterans and a cost-of-living increase in compensation payments for disabled veterans were highlighted by VA chief Max Cleland in recent testimony on his budget request to Congress.

Cleland said VA's $20.2 billion appropriation request for fiscal year 1980 "recognizes our obligation to help control the cost of government" while enabling the agency "to continue our activities in behalf of veterans and their dependents at a high level."

Cleland, appearing before a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee, chaired by Senator William Proxmire (D-Wis.) sought authority for:

Establishment of a program of psychological counseling and readjustment services for Vietnam Era veterans; extending the period of training eligibility from 10 to 12 years for Vietnam Era veterans who have not received high school diplomas or who require on-the-job training to find employment; VA contracts with community halfway houses and other programs for a pilot drug and alcohol abuse treatment effort; a 7.8 percent cost-of-living increase in compensation payments, effective in October.

In seeking broader authority for services to Vietnam veterans, Cleland continued to express his concern over the difficulties he believes have been experienced by up to a fifth of the servicemen and women returning to civilian life from Vietnam Era military service.

His emphasis on the counseling program and on authority for VA to contract with community halfway houses, and on other programs for the treatment of drug and alcohol problems, highlights a personal commitment to deal with what he believes are major health problems being experienced by today's veterans.

The AFL-CIO's Laborers' International Union of North America, the Plasterers' and Cement Masons' Union, and the National Joint Painting, Decorating, Drywall Apprenticeship and Training Committee received 1-year renewal contracts totaling $2,601,876 from the Department of Labor to train 2,270 minority group members, veterans, women, and economically disadvantaged persons.

Under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA), after you file a claim for benefits, the plan administrator must let you know within 90 days whether your claim has been denied, or whether more time is needed to review the claim, up to an additional 90 days.

"Cookin' Cajun" Returns to KET

When Justin Wilson goes into the kitchen he's surrounded with all of the usual spices and seasonings... plus a few that are not found on the ordinary, run-of-the-mill pantry shelf.

Now, these out-of-the-ordinary ingredients will vary from time to time, depending upon what the great Cajun cook is planning to prepare. But chances are that every time, whatever the main dish of the menu, the two W's will be taken down from the shelf.

The two W's? Worcestershire and wine.

The old Cajun thinks, as any Frenchman thinks, that wine lifts the most mundane dish into the realm of sublime cuisine. And he knows as every Louisianan knows, that Worcestershire sauce is going to add a special "zing" to the native flavor of any meat, fowl or vegetable.

Do you doubt that? Then watch "Cookin' Cajun" when the series returns to KET on Sunday, April 8 at 5:30 p.m. (E.T.). In each of the programs Wilson alternates cooking with story-telling, two talents at which he is extremely skillful.

"You gonna learn how to use wine in you' cookin'," says Wilson. "And if you got the prohibits about wine, don't you worry none. The alcohol done cook itse'f right out of that pot in jus' ten or nine seconds, an' all what you got lef' if just that sondermous flavor."

Vinegar is another ingredient he uses frequently, and Wilson has a tip about its use, too. "You don' never wan' to get vinegar too hot. An how you tell what's not too hot, not hot enough, but jes' right? Why, you hol' yo' finger in the vinegar and water, and when it burn yo' finger and that finger begin to smart, you turn off thd heat, yo' hear?"

For sage advice like this, plus some down-home Cajun cookin', watch "Cookin' Cajun" on KET.

OUTDOOR LORE

by Neyle Shackelford

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Driving along a river road in Estill county back in February, we noticed red maples along the highway making their presence known by a show of swelling leaf and flower buds. The red flowers of this beautiful and widespread tree usually comes into bloom in late winter, but are often triggered into action earlier in the season by warm spells such as January and February thaws.

Since many of its parts are red, the red maple, "Acer rubrum," is well named. There are red twigs in winter, red flowers in late winter or early spring, red fruits or samaras in late spring, red leaves when they first begin to unfold, and then red leaves again in autumn.

Dendrology textbooks reveal this tree grows all the way from southeastern Canada to central Florida and westward to Minnesota and eastern Oklahoma and in Kentucky, at least, there is scarcely a natural stand of hardwoods without a few red maples. It also grows under a wide range of conditions and is one of the "pioneer" trees in the natural reclamation of old abandoned croplands or open lands.

The red maple is a highly useful tree and in time has lent itself to the manufacture of a variety of household items ranging from dye to coathangers, clothes pins and bread trays. Early settlers used red maple bark to make homemade dyes and ink, the bark boiled in water with various common chemicals to secure the color desired. For instance if a blue dye or ink was desired, the bark was boiled with copperas. Alum added to the boiling bark yielded a cinnamon color. Alum and iron sulfate made a black dye or ink.

American Indians boiled red maple sap to make sugar, but this sap yields less than half of that obtained from the sugar maple. The Indians also dried the inner bark, pounded it into flour and used it in making bread. Many years ago an old neighbor woman said during her girlhood her mother made "sweet cakes" from "maple bark meal." This same woman also knew how to make dye from maple bark and many other plants of the field and forest.

Along with the silver maple, the red maple has been classified as "soft maple" as opposed to the more desirable hard wood of the sugar maple. Red maple wood, however, makes good lumber and has been mixed with hard maple and sold simply as maple lumber.

Red maple is important to wildlife too. It is a favorite browse of deer and rabbits and its heavy crop of seed produced each spring feed mice, squirrels, finches, nut-hatches, chickadees and grouse. It makes a fine shade tree and is one of the easiest of all trees to transplant.

Tomorrow's Leaders

BY PAUL ANDERSON

"Look at that poor cow." My wife, Glenda, was calling my attention to a beautiful pasture as we drove through central Florida. In this sprawling piece of grassland were many fine beef cows that appeared to be ready for gracing the dinner table anytime the rancher decided to market them. They were fat, slick and extremely healthy looking. Now I could see what Glenda was talking about, for in the midst of the pretty herd was one poor cow that looked as though she was about to starve to death. You could count every bone in her body, and I am sure that she could be used in a veterinarian college, as a walking anatomy chart. I wondered why she looked so bad, and if it was because of some disease; surely, leaving her among the healthy cattle was a mistake. No, aided by a closer look I could see that it was not a sickness that caused her problem but the cruelty of the person in charge of this large impressive farm. He had taken a long forked stick and placed it around her neck. The forks were on each side of her neck and tied on top while the singular portion extended almost to the ground. If she could graze at all on the green grass, her access would certainly be limited to the scattered taller portions, and the lack of nourishment was to blame for her present condition. My first reaction to the cow's dilemma was to be angry, and then all of a sudden a mental flashback to my childhood caused me to become aware of why the cow was so restrained. She was a fence jumper. We had once owned a cow that required such an apparatus to keep her from going through, under, or over the fence and destroying other people's property, and living among the trash and weeds instead of in the nice green pasture we had prepared for her. She had brought her discomfort on herself.

Isn't this the way with almost all of our difficulties in life? Don't we bring them on ourselves? As we look back, we can see the punishment our parents had to dispense on many occasions was definitely brought on by our disobedience. We would not stay within bounds and enjoy the privileges and security that were provided for us by the people who cared, so we had to suffer the consequences. I am sure the youth of today may feel that some of the restrictions and punishment their parents feel compelled to issue is a little unjust, but later on they will understand that love and concern caused the action required to keep irreparable mistakes from being made. Task Force Votes To Inspect Schools for Asbestos Fibers

Every public elementary and secondary school building in the state will be examined for the presence of asbestos building material.

A special task force named by Gov. Julian Carroll voted last week to proceed with the physical surveying of more than 1,500 school buildings by local health department personnel.

Samples will be taken of material suspected of containing asbestos—which some medical experts believe is a cancer causing agent.

Eugene Mooney, secretary for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, said the sampling should be completed by the first of June.

The samples will be tested by a private commercial laboratory to be chosen by the state Department for Human Resources, which will coordinate the collection of the samples. The costs of the testing will be born by local school districts.

The task force voted to move ahead with the sampling after a survey by the Department of Education indicated most local school districts would be willing to pay for the analysis of the samples.

Fred Johnson, deputy superintendent of education for finance and administration, said he contacted 70 school superintendents and only one said he would not cooperate.

He said 11 superintendents answered no on the question of paying $25 per sample for the lab tests, but as most indicated it would have to be a decision for the local board of education.

Johnson said the 70 districts were those indicating in an earlier survey by the task force that they had sprayed on ceiling material that is considered highly susceptible to containing asbestos.

Ken Hines, a member of Mooney's staff who is working with the task force, said there is no way of estimating how many samples will be taken, although he said it is safe to assume there will be more than 200-300.

Makeup Days To Be Decision Of State Board

The use of an extended school day for make-up or "snow bank" days should be left to the determination of the state Board for Elementary and Secondary Education, a legislative subcommittee decided last Wednesday.

Legislation passed by the 1978 General Assembly allowed the state board to decide use of calamity days, "snow bank" days and extended school days to make up school calendar days missed due to inclement weather or emergencies.

This year, the state board agreed to allow school calendars to contain 170 days. The board allowed five calamity days by subtracting five days from the normally required 175 school days. Board members also allowed a maximum of five "snow bank" days—time already accumulated by extending the school day—and five extended-time school days.

Randy Kimbrough, head of the Bureau of Instruction in the state Department of Education, appeared before the subcommittee on education and the arts of the Interim Joint Committee on Education. She reported the recommendation of school superintendents who met recently to discuss school calendars. "They recommended elimination of 'snow bank' days and the option to use extended school days after an emergency," said Kimbrough.

Members of the subcommittee also discussed alternative revenue sources for funding of elementary and secondary education with Maurice Carpenter, commissioner of revenue, and Paul Tanner, director of revenue's research staff.

Carpenter said that one of the biggest problems in finding alternative funding sources is erosion of the tax base and the present sources of taxes. He said that Kentucky has a broad tax base with about 35 main sources of revenue. "The taxes are set at a relatively reasonable rate although some taxpayers may disagree," he said.

Tanner's suggestions of revenue sources that would add some money, but not a great deal, included raising Kentucky's cigarette tax and setting a soft drink tax.

Air Pollution Regulations Win Commission Approval

The state Environmental Quality Commission gave approval Monday to Kentucky's proposed air pollution control regulations.

Representatives from the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce and some small businesses throughout the state recommended that the commission take no action on the proposed regulations because they believe that the state's regulations are more stringent than the federal regulations.

However, Jackie Swigart, chairperson of the committee, said that the question of whether to adopt the regulations depends upon whether some disadvantages are placed upon existing industries or new industries are discouraged from locating in Kentucky.

Hisham Sa'aid, assistant director of the state Division of Air Pollution Control, explained that although existing industries in non-attainment and unclassified areas must accept the fact that they will be required to adopt offset policies, industry will be able to expand because they will not be required to provide monitoring data before construction can begin. He said that new industries locating in an attainment area in the state would be required to monitor existing sources of pollution, thus providing a balance of the impacts of pollution throughout the state.

The division reviewed 140 comments which were received at a public hearing last January and submitted the comments together with the proposed regulations to a special subcommittee in a statement of affirmative consideration. The subcommittee will review the proposed regulations at a formal hearing on Wednesday, April 4. If approved by the subcommittee, the regulations will then be submitted to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency as part of Kentucky's revised state implementation plan.

The division will hold a public hearing on Kentucky's revised state implementation plan for air quality standards at 9 a.m., April 16, in the State Office Building auditorium.

In addition to discussing the state's proposed air pollution control regulations, Bill Coakley of the division's noise control section gave a brief review of a noise study that was recently conducted by Watkins and Associates, Inc. of Lexington.

The survey was conducted in 20 cities throughout the state to provide background information needed to adopt regulations which would enforce the Kentucky State Noise Control Act. The survey identified the state's major sources of noise pollution and the impact noise regulations would have on the economy.

The survey concluded that:

—Motorcycles, heavy trucks, general traffic and animals are the major sources of noise pollution in Kentucky.

—Approximately one-third of Kentucky's citizens are exposed to excessive noise levels.

—Three per cent of Kentucky's population is exposed to noise levels which could cause hearing loss.

—½ of Kentucky's urban population believes that the environment is too noisy.

—78 percent of those surveyed said that Kentucky needs noise control.

—57 per cent of those surveyed said that local government should control noise rather than state or federal government.

—Approximately ½ of those surveyed said that they were willing to pay a yearly tax for noise control.

Coakley said that the survey also indicated that 31 per cent of Kentucky's industry would need to control their noise levels if the regulations were put into effect. The coal, asphalt and stone industries would be most affected by the regulations, and the cost of implementing the program would amount to approximately $645,000 a year.

The results of the survey will be submitted to the state's Noise Pollution Advisory Committee for review.

Basis Principles For Home Landscaping

By JOHNE. HICKS
County Extension Agent
for Agriculture

Those who attended the landscape school conducted by David Hensley, State Extension Specialist in Horticulture, were given some basic principles in landscaping.

1. Drives and walks should be reasonably straight. A slight, natural curve may make the walk more interesting; avoid excessive curves and twists unless there is good reason. It may be possible to situate the drive and walk together to avoid breaking up the front area.
2. Use trees to frame the house and provide background. Trees may also be used to frame or enhance vistas or views. Locate trees for maximum use of shade for the house or patio area, usually on the south, southwest or west.

3. Woody plants can be used as a background for garden features; sculpture, specimen plants or annual perennial flower beds.

4. Service and play areas should be located where they do not detract from the public view of the house. Screens may be used to aid in this.

5. Don't over plant. Know the potential size of each plant and allow for adequate space between each other and the building.

6. Accent plantings; the use of colorful or unusual specimen materials, are used to attract attention. Locate these plants near the focal point, such as doorway, a pool, garden furniture, statues, a turn in a path or a view. Remember not to obscure the focal point; accent plants should be used sparingly and with a purpose.

7. Choose plants which will provide year round interest. The fruit, bark and foliage can be as effective and important as a plant.

The following lessons will be taught on April 10 - "Using Trees and Shrubs in the Landscape"; April 17 - "Interior Landscaping with Foliage Plants and Care of House Plants"; April 24 - "Appreciation of Wildflowers and Their Use in the Home Landscape."

School will start at 7 p.m. and will be held in the Floyd County Library Conference Room. The course is free to the public.

Those who attended the first session were: Anna Hoffman, Bill Hoffman, Helen L. Wells, Mabel W. Allen, Woodrow Allen, Pat Foldernauer, Freda Carper, Gus Carper, Madonna Rodart, Ora Bussey, Sandra Shepherd, Mary Sue Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Leslie, Mr. and Mrs. Randall C. Burchett, Linda Burchett, Lynn Leslie, Garnet Fairchild, Mary Jane Brown, Christine Spradlin, Pat Phillips, Myrna Whitaker, Suzanne S. Huffman, Rose Marie Ray, Finetta Mullins, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Burchett, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Brown, Mrs. Harold W. Cooley, Judy Waddie, Joan Lafferty, John E. Sparks, and Frances Pitts.

College Schedules Cloning Workshop

A cloning workshop will be offered at Prestonsburg Community College through the Community Service Program by Bob McAninch, who is chairman of the Division of Social Sciences and who serves as a clown practitioner in the college's service area.

The participants will be introduced to the basic aspects of clowning makeup, costume design, prop and skit preparation, and performance, as well as an overview of clown history, clown ethics; and there will be some introduction to skills in balloonology and clown magic.

Beginning tennis will be taught through the Office of Community Services at the college by Ken Fuller and Ron Chaffins, of the PCC faculty. The class will be held at Archer Park from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays, beginning April 24 and continuing through May 17.

Boyle Residents Seeking To Solve Asbestos Problem

A Danville citizen's group met last week to seek a solution to the problem of asbestos in the city's drinking water.

Linda Hill, one of the organizers of the meeting, said local citizen concern on the issue was running very high following reports that Danville's tap water contains significant levels of the potentially-dangerous substance.

The meeting focused on finding a "quick solution" to the problem, which was discovered in a federal Environmental Protection Agency analysis last year.

Danville is one of five Central Kentucky cities where the EPA reported asbestos in water supplies. Asbestos levels in Danville were highest of the five cities tested—106 million fibers per liter of untreated water, and 12 million fibers per liter of water.

Asbestos has been shown to increase the risk of developing lung cancer among persons who breathe it. So far, there is no uncontroverted scientific proof it is similarly harmful when ingested, although some researchers have suggested a tentative link between swallowed asbestos and gastrointestinal cancers.

Even though there is no firm evidence ingesting asbestos is harmful, Mrs. Hill said she didn't want to take the risk.

"I don't want to end up being a case study in ten years," she said, adding that her family has been drinking distilled water for several months because of reported contamination.

COMING REVIVAL

There will be a revival meeting at the Katyfriend Free Will Baptist Church located at the intersection of U.S. 23 bypass and Mountain Parkway, beginning April 15, 7 p.m. each evening. Evangelists will be Elder Kelly Caudill and Elder Grover Castle. There will be special singing nightly, and everyone is invited to attend. Bill Campbell, pastor.

Ban on Student Fees Hits Some Activities

As a result of a ban on student fees mandated by the 1978 General Assembly, many schools have reduced activities during school hours requiring admission fees such as field trips and athletic events, according to testimony today before an Interim Joint Committee on Education subcommittee.

Senate Bill 291 prohibits any public school, kindergarten through grade 12, from charging fees, rental, or requiring students to purchase instructional material which will not become their property. Exemptions include fees for personal attire, such as gym clothes, musical instrument rental, and purchase of material which will become the student's property.

To replace revenue lost by school districts through this ban, the legislature appropriated $12,610,000 for 1978-79 and $12,740,000 for 1979-80, based on average daily attendance.

Ed Fossett, attorney for the Kentucky Department of Education, told the Subcommittee on Program Implementation the biggest concern expressed by school officials contacting him was that students cannot be asked to pay for activities such as a visit to a children's theater during school hours.

Fossett also said if any part of a senior trip is held during school hours, the students cannot be required to pay for transportation or admission fees. Students could, however, pay for meals and lodging during a school trip, he said.

Gayle Bowen, director of local school district finance for the department, told the subcommittee that there has been some misunderstanding concerning the appropriation to replace the lost student fees. The total funds for each school district was calculated by multiplying the average daily attendance by about $29.44 per child.

This total is given to the school district with the local board deciding how it will be spent, said Bowen. There is no restriction coming from the state level, either requiring exactly $20.44 be spent on each child or stipulating how the money will be spent, he said.

Bill Nallia, executive director of the Kentucky Association of School Administrators, also addressed the subcommittee on the student fee ban. Nallia said his association is opposed to an amendment of the bill that would take away the local board's flexibility in spending the allotment.

The subcommittee also heard a report on the statewide career education program by Dorothy Alexander, coordinator for career education, Department of Education. That program was mandated by House Bill 70 during the 1976 General Assembly.

Basically, the program is designed to make career education an integral part of a school's curriculum, said Alexander. That does not mean separate career education classes are established but that students be made aware of different occupations and job related skills during classes already in existence, she said.

There is now an emphasis on "back to basics" such as reading, writing and arithmetic, said Alexander, and this does not conflict with career education.

Local school districts have been required to submit a career education development plan to the state, she said. The main weakness in the program, Alexander said, is that a method of student assessment, showing whether the program makes a difference, has not been established.

Fall Kindergarten Registration Set

Aliens Must Report Farmland Ownership

Aliens who own or have a 5 percent interest in farmland in Floyd county must report ownership at the Agricultural and Conservation (ASCS) office at 105 Court Street in Prestonsburg, Graham Burchett, chairman of the ASC committee, said this week.

ASCS county offices across the nation have the job of keeping track of how much farmland is owned or controlled by foreign individuals or interests.

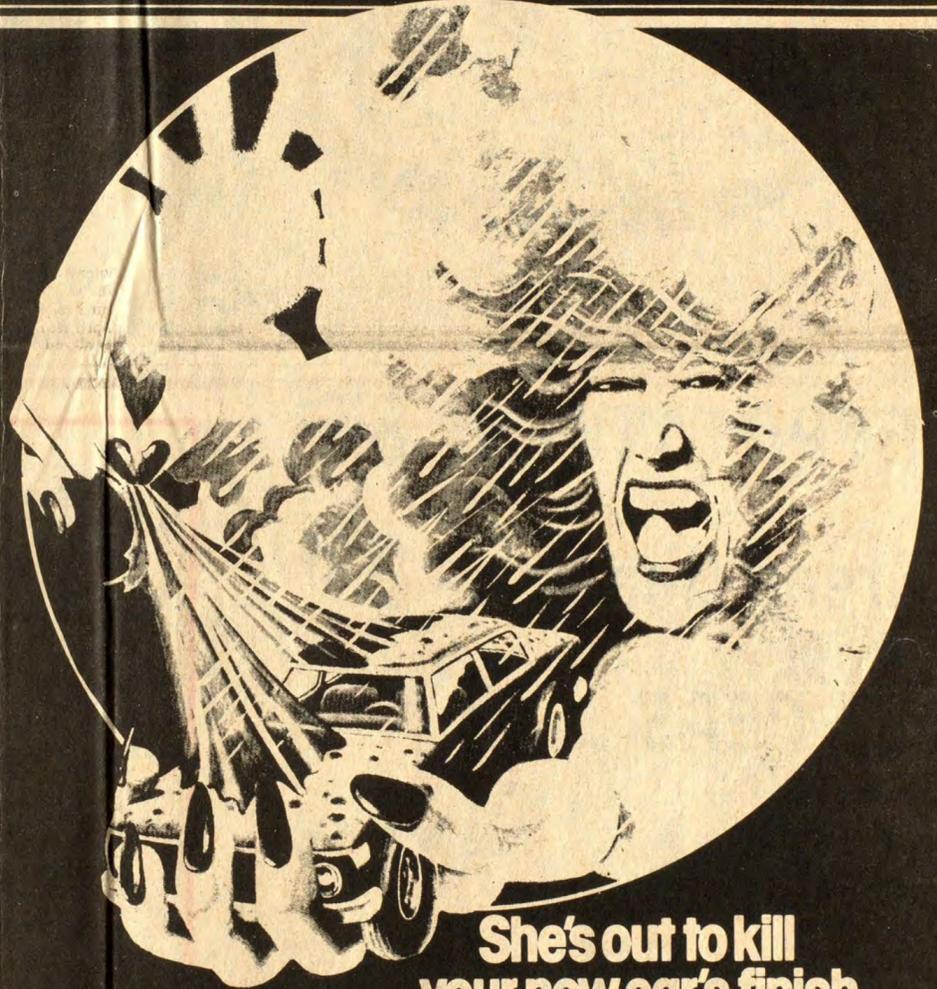

The reporting requirement stems from the Agriculture Foreign Investment Disclosure Act of 1978. Aliens, foreign governments, or foreign interests who owned land on Feb. 1, 1979 must report the transfer within 90 days. Failure to report could result in a fine of up to 25 percent of the property's fair market value.

For reporting purposes, the U.S. Department of Agriculture considers agricultural land as any tract of more than one acre now in agricultural, forestry or timber production. Idle land used for agriculture within the past five years must also be reported. The survey guidelines exclude small plots, such as household gardens, but, if an alien produces more than $1,000 in gross agricultural value from any plot of land, he must report ownership.

Interest, means any right title, or legal share of ownership in farmland, such as partnership, trusts, estates, or shares in a corporation that owns farmland.

Often, a farm operator, real estate dealer, bank, attorney, holding company, or other institution will report in behalf of foreign clients. Individuals or companies that specialize in land holding, land transfers, or management services should contact the local ASCS office for details, Mr. Burchett said.

Look to Local Government For Leadership Held Necessary

Allan Spader, Local Government Statutes Revision Commission director, recently told the Appalachian Development Council that until the people of Kentucky Appalachia begin to look to local government for leadership, "progress is always going to be stymied."

Spader's address was made during a two-day working session of the 23-member council in Morehead. Much of the council's membership is made up of local government and private enterprise leaders from throughout the Eastern Kentucky area.

Spader told the group that sensitivity to changes in local government is growing.

"By and large, local government has not been seen as the place to look for leadership in solving the region's problems," Spader said.

But, he said, "things are changing." County and city governments are becoming contributing partners with state and federal government, he said.

"We can look forward to the time when local government really does become a full partner in the process of development," he added.

Ralph Coldiron, executive director of the ADC and executive director of community and regional development in the Development Cabinet, called the council meeting "a good, hard-working session."

Council members initially split into committees on transportation, quality of life, education, enterprise development and intergovernmental relations. Committee members worked together to come up with solutions to some of Kentucky Appalachia's problems, Coldiron said.

Committee recommendations were then considered by the full council. Those adopted will be taken by Council Chairman G.B. Johnson to an April meeting of the Governor's Economic Development Commission.

ADC recommendations, along with those resulting from Urban and Rural Development Council meetings, will be voted on by the Economic Development Commission and those approved will be put into a legislative package for the 1980 General Assembly, Coldiron said.

More Food Stamps Reported in First Month of Program

Participation in Kentucky's food stamp program increased substantially in January—the first month of a major revision in the program.

Total food stamp cases rose from 99,000 in December to 112,000 at the end of January, said Gail Huecker, commissioner of the Department for Human Resources, Bureau for Social Insurance.

New applications for food stamps jumped 114 percent from December to January, final department figures indicate. About 12,000 applications were taken in December, compared to about 25,000 in January.

Results of a sample of 30 counties released by the department in February had shown a less dramatic increase in new applications during that period—71 percent.

Under the new federal food stamp law, recipients are no longer required to purchase a certain amount of coupons each month to get the additional "bonus" stamps which help boost purchasing power. Now, only the "bonus" stamps are given to recipients, at no cost. The change went into effect Jan. 1.

Huecker said, "The change was designed to make food stamps more accessible to persons most in need. National figures indicate food stamp participation is increasing throughout the country. We can assume families with the lowest incomes and on fixed incomes are responsible for the increased usage."

Legislative Panel Endorses Mining Exemptions Changes

A legislative panel last Tuesday endorsed a state policy aimed at distinguishing between legitimate construction projects and those that claim to be cover-up illegal coal mining.

The state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Department's policy allows a developer to obtain an exemption from state stripmine laws if coal removal is incidental to his project.

The exemption application requires detailed information about the location and type of project and the coal seam. A performance bond is required to cover the estimated cost of reclamation.

Anyone removing less than 250 tons of coal would not have to apply for an exemption.

Landowners wishing to develop less than two acres for personal use such as a homesite would only have to specify the location in their exemption request.

The subcommittee on surface mining of the Interim Joint Committee on Agriculture and Natural Resources began looking into the state's policy last month as a result of citizen complaints about an exemption granted last August for a Laurel County construction project.

Area residents said the developer, Peyton Smith, president of Black and White Land Development Co. of Moristown, Tenn., was fouling the Rockcastle River and harming the environment.

The state finally revoked Smith's exemption last month. Natural Resources Secretary Eugene Mooney ruled that Black and White had been entitled to the exemption because he originally intended to build an apartment complex, but now intended to mine coal.

Representatives of several environmental groups told the subcommittee last month that the Black and White case pointed up the tremendous potential for abuse in the department's policy.

However, natural resources officials said that without the policy anyone who encountered coal in a construction project would have to apply for a stripmine permit.

They told the subcommittee that a more detailed exemption policy should reduce the potential for abuse.

Two subcommittee members said the new guidelines might make it more difficult to build single-family dwellings in coal counties.

However, Alex Barber, deputy director of permits in the Bureau of Surface Mining and Reclamation, said the department needs the policy in order to pinpoint illegal mining activity. He noted that reporting requirements are minimal for landowners developing homesites.

In response to citizen complaints about illegal blasting at the Black and White construction site, the panel recommended that exemption applications include a requirement for information on whether blasting will be done at the site, and if so, the name and license number of the person doing the blasting.

NOTICE

Legal Notice to families who lived in public housing projects operated by the Prestonsburg Housing Authority or lived in public housing projects in any other city between March 16, 1971 - September 26, 1975.

If you rented a house or apartment from the Prestonsburg Housing Authority or any other Public Housing Agency (PHA) during the period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, you may be eligible to file a claim for a refund of part of your rent during that period if:

1. The wife or husband of the head of the household was present and dependent upon the head of the household for support and/or;

2. A dependent member of your family household was employed.

If you believe your family falls within one of the categories described above, you may wish to continue reading this Notice in order to determine how and under what circumstances you may file a claim.

On July 7, 1978, the District Court of the District of Columbia entered a Stipulated Order providing that the definition of family income for purposes of computing maximum rentals for public housing, as contained in a HUD Circular, which excluded spouses from the $300 deduction for each dependent and excluded dependents from the $300 deduction for each secondary wage earner, was invalid and violated the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended. The effect of this determination is that certain families who lived in public housing during the period from March 16, 1971 to September 26, 1975, may have been charged too much rent. Therefore, the District Court ordered HUD to establish a one million dollar fund for the payment of claims which current or former tenants of public housing may submit for a refund of any overpayments.

The District Court's Stipulated Order provides that, if valid claims exceed one million dollars, HUD has the option of having the Order dissolved in which case NTO and HUD may negotiate a modified settlement or proceed with further litigation. Thus, claimants should realize that the submittal of a claim determined valid by a PHA may result in full, partial, or no payment, depending on the total amount of valid claims submitted to HUD, or the final outcome of any further litigation. Any person wishing to receive a copy of the Stipulated Order or a claim form may do so by making their request known to a local PHA.

Individuals wishing to submit a claim must fill in the claim form made a part of this Notice and must submit it to the Public Housing Agency's address indicated on the claim form, or such other appropriate Public Housing Agency if different from the address indicated, within 120 days from Dec. 6, 1978. No claims will be accepted after the end of the 120 day period, April 5, 1979.

Information provided by the claimant on the claim form must be specific as to the time period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, for which the wife or husband of the head of the household was present and was a dependent and/or a dependent in the household was employed.

A Kentucky Springtime, Like No Other Anywhere

You can have your deep south sand and sunshine that stays much the same day to day; you can have your western peaks where you can throw snowballs in July; you can have midwestern prairies where constant breezes whip wheat fields into ochre seas. Give us a Kentucky spring where green is something more than a static color.

Here in the Bluegrass state, spring green is a yellow that vibrates from the beaten gold of an early crocus to the deep corn color of a lily's golden throat. It is the sunshine of forsythia blooming at house corners and the golden silence of a Kentucky sunset when the world is bathed in a liquid amber syrup, heavy with fragrance of earth and blossom, light with the grace of a violet on a slender stem.

A Kentucky spring is the reflection of halo skies in breezeswept lakes, the song of water discing around rocks and trees in a country stream and muted music of sandbars and currents in mighty rivers. Spring green is the satin sheen of red, yellow and vari-colored tulips, the velvety softness of dogwood petals, the multitude of fuchsia-tinted bloom that creates redbud, the textured rust of new-plowed ground.

It is the creeping movement of vines and moss to cover earth's scars with green softness, the grasses and plants that move steadily upward, pushing through last year's leavings and the exploding of millions of seeds still beneath the surface.

It is that time of year when the air of spring keeps homey smells in holding patterns - aroma of fresh coffee gliding in a path from kitchen to barn, Kentucky ham wafting its tantalizing goodness along a lane to the park or playground to call the children in and holding a bit higher the fragrance of plum and pear blossoms, downy as the fluff of new chicks, deep as a roll of new quilt batting.

It is the Prussian blue of storm clouds hanging low on the horizon, silvery streaks of rain that glitter tiny rivulets down windowpanes to form quicksilver pools—it is the staccato of storm, the legato of millions of drops of water on a tin roof.

A Kentucky spring is the excitement of new love, a quickening that foretells the caress of maturity and serenity of golden autumn. It is the hint of what is past, a distilling of last year's cacophony into sweet sounds from green-gold trumpets drifting upward to bisect vapor clouds that trail long and narrow from jets and high-flyers, some of them transporting transplanted Kentuckians back home to enjoy the season of rebirth.

A Kentucky spring is the sunshine of the deep south, the coolness of western peaks, the serenity of calm seas, the excitement of romance, the music of operas, the grace of ballet, the earthiness of furrowed fields and homemade bread. It is like no other anywhere and well worth the waiting.

Catholic Parish Easter Services

The passion, death, and resurrection of Christ will be observed in a series of Holy Week and Easter services in the Floyd County Catholic Parish. April 11, the Way of the Cross devotion and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will be held at 7:30 p.m. at Saint Theodore Church in Prestonsburg.

April 12, the Mass of the Lord's Supper (Maundy Thursday) will be celebrated at Saint Juliana Church in Martin at 7 p.m. There will be a washing of the feet ceremony. The Good Friday service will also be at 7 p.m. at Saint Juliana. It will consist of three parts: liturgy of the word, veneration of the cross, and distribution of Holy Communion.

The Easter Vigil begins at 11 p.m. on Saturday, April 14, evening at Saint Juliana. The Vigil consists of four parts: service of the light, liturgy of the word, liturgy of initiation, liturgy of the Eucharist. There is special music for this Night-watch of the Resurrection.

The Easter morning Mass will be an outdoor service at 10 a.m. on the patio of the Sisters of Divine Providence residence in Martin. The Easter mid-day Mass will be held at 12 noon at Saint Theodore Church in Prestonsburg followed by Easter pastries and coffee and, then, an Easter egg hunt in the backyard of Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Holbrook.

David Construction Approved by FmHA

Approval for the construction of houses on five lots in Schoolhouse Hollow subdivision at David was given recently by the Farmers Home Administration. Roger Murran, Murray Construction, Paintsville, is contractor for the construction.

It was said that there is a possibility that special footers may be required if soil compaction tests show that the soil has not settled sufficiently since these lots were filled.
