Lazar now facing felony forgery charge

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A former Auxier PTA president, charged last week with having sex with two grade school students, had a felony forgery charge lodged against her involving Auxier Community Development funds.

Yavonda Lazar, 28, whose address is listed as Thelma, is charged with forging the name of Community Development president Leesa Powers on a $36.74 check.

Powers filed the criminal complaint against Lazar Monday in Floyd District Court. The complaint says that Lazar forged Powers' name on the check on April 28. The charge is a class D felony which carries a 1-5 year prison sentence if a conviction is obtained. Lazar is to be arraigned July 22 in district court.

The Auxier Community Development group raises funds to keep the park area near the school clean and in good repair.

Lazar was arrested July 1 on charges of having sex with a 14-year-old and a 15-year-old at a grade school graduation party at a cabin at Jenny Wiley State Park. Court records also accuse Lazar of giving the teens alcoholic beverages at that party, held the night of June 8.

Lazar was honored for her work at the school during Auxier's last eighth-grade graduation. The Floyd Board of Education voted last month to close the school in an effort to ease the district's financial problems.

Lazar's mother, Janie Castle, reportedly said her daughter "had too much to drink and . . . passed out, and that's all she remembers about the whole thing."

A preliminary hearing is set for Lazar at 2:30 p.m. today (Wednesday) in Floyd District Court on two counts of third degree rape, third degree sodomy, two counts of third degree sexual abuse and three counts of unlawful transaction with a minor. She is being held in the Floyd County Jail on a $15,000 cash bond.

Lazar was ousted as Auxier PTA president at a special PTA meeting called within days after the allegations surfaced.

Reportedly there were seven adults and nine children at the graduation party. The case is expected to be presented to a Floyd County Grand Jury.

Yavonda Lazar, at right, is charged with forgery for allegedly signing a $36.74 Auxier Community Development check. Lazar is also charged with having sex with two Auxier grade school students.

Dispute leads to shooting

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

The shooting of a Floyd County man Monday was apparently the result of a year-old argument between two neighbors.

Preston Collins, 83, was arrested by KSP detective David Maynard for allegedly shooting his neighbor, Tommy Compton, a state police media release says.

Collins was lodged in the Floyd County Adult Detention Center about 5:30 p.m. Monday and charged with first degree assault.

Compton, 38, was transported to Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin, where he was treated for two gunshot wounds and released.

Both men reside in the Printer area of Martin.

Detective Maynard, who is investigating the incident, said Tuesday that "both sides" have indicated there was a dispute between the two men about a year ago, but "they haven't had an argument since."

The detective did not elaborate about the nature of that dispute.

Compton "was working in his yard at Martin when his neighbor, (Collins), shot him," the release says, noting that Compton sustained wounds to his left arm and chest.

During arraignments Tuesday morning in Floyd District Court, Judge James R. Allen entered a not-guilty plea to Collins' felony charge.

Judge Allen ordered that the defendant be held at the jail in lieu of a $25,000 partially-secured bond and that he have no contact with the alleged victim and stay 1,000 feet from him at all times.

Collins was released from custody after the bond was posted shortly after the arraignment.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 22.

Detective Maynard was assisted at the scene by trooper Ronald D. Peppi II. The investigation is continuing.

Miners asked to offer input

A public hearing by members of the state Labor and Industry Committee will hear testimony in Pikeville next week about how coal dust tests were taken.

The hearing is one of four conducted across the state after a series of articles earlier this year in the Louisville Courier-Journal, which reported allegations of widespread in the way coal dust samples were collected in underground mines. The alleged fraud included reports that tests were falsified and that many coal miners were exposed to unhealthy working conditions.

Mission observes 30 years of charity

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Thirty years ago when the Brothers of Charity in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, heard about Lyndon B. Johnson's War on Poverty in Appalachia, they visited Eastern Kentucky to lend a helping hand. The charitable work they began continues today at the St. Vincent Mission in David.

The mission, founded by the Brothers in 1968, will celebrate its 30th anniversary beginning Friday, July 24. The celebration includes folk stories, songs, and dances.

Friday's anniversary celebration includes registration and a social for out-of-town guests of the mission. Both events will be held at the St. Martha's Church on Water Gap Road.

On Saturday, July 25, the mission will host craft demonstrations, live music, storytelling under two tents at its site on Route 404 at David. Kate Long, of West Virginia, will provide storytelling and Greg Hamilton's troupe will perform dance demonstrations. Craft displays include chair making, bowl turner, painting and quilting.

The exhibitions and entertainment will be held from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., and are open to the public. Sister Ida Marie Deville, director of St. Vincent Mission, encourages local folks to drop by and find out what the mission is all about.

It began as an outreach program of the Catholic Church and offered services to the elderly and social work at Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin. The Brothers of Charity and their volunteers conducted Bible schools, held programs at nursing homes, and did some home repair. De-

Progress continues with Ligon/Clear Creek project

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

Floyd Fiscal Court members met in special session Tuesday to ensure construction continues on the Ligon/Clear Creek water project which will provide water to more than 200 residents.

The court issued H.P. Contracting Inc. a $107,614.32 check of Abandoned Mine Land funds for design and construction of the project.

That check was the first draw down request made by the contractors for work on the project.

Floyd County was awarded $935,000 in AML funds from the Kentucky Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet for the project.

Floyd Judge-Executive Ben Hale said Tuesday that the court's action was a formality which had to be done before H.P. Contracting Inc. could be paid.

He explained that engineers on the site approves the draw down amounts and provides the county with a statement of the work completed.

After the judge-executive signs the request, it is sent to the Abandoned Mine Lands (AML) for final approval.

Even with AML's approval, payment cannot be made until the money is "passed through" the fiscal court, Hale said, noting that the contract for the project requires the contracting company receive its payment within three days of AML's approval.

The judge-executive asked Floyd County Attorney Keith Bartley if the court could prepare a resolution to authorize future payments, which have been approved by the AML, in order to eliminate additional special meetings.

"My gut impression is that we probably can't do that," Bartley said

Tuesday. "We can't approve something for work that's not been performed."

Bartley added that he would check into the matter.

In March, the project was put into motion during a groundbreaking ceremony attended by county and AMI officials.

The Ligon/Clear Creek project was previously declared non-eligible for AML funding but, at Hale's request, the site was revisited and later determined that the site's water supply had been affected by pre-1977 mining.

Sites are not eligible for AML funds unless the water contamination is due to mining activity before 1977.

After Tuesday's meeting, Hale said Reynolds Branch residents would also benefit from the water project.

He said that project was not approved for AML funding, "but we already have our pipe up there and they will be served."

Bill McDonald, with Howard K. Bell Consulting Engineers Inc., said in March that construction of the water project should be complete by late summer or early fall.

McDonald could not be contacted Tuesday to determine if the project is still expected to be complete within that timeframe.

In other action Tuesday, the court approved the hirings of Jackie Edford Owens II and Matthew Mayo as park workers.

Magistrates Elmer Ray Johnson and Gerald DeRossett were not present at the meeting.

S lone charged with sex abuse of child

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

A Floyd County man accused of sexually abusing a three-year-old child was taken into custody Monday, nearly six months after the alleged incident occurred.

Don Avery Sloane, 25, of McDowell, was lodged in the Floyd County Adult Detention Center and charged with first degree sexual abuse.

An arrest warrant, filed by Kentucky State Police detective David Maynard, says that Sloane "subjected a minor three-and-a-half years old to sexual contact" on January 16.

The detective obtained the warrant on January 28 in Floyd District Court, however, authorities had not been able to locate the suspect to serve the court document.

Detective Maynard said Tuesday that local authorities were also aware of the outstanding warrant for Sloane's arrest and Floyd deputy Johnny Layne found the suspect Monday in the McDowell area.

"Deputy Layne picked him up and brought him to jail," Detective Maynard said.

Judge James R. Allen entered a not-guilty plea to Sloane's felony charge during arraignments Tuesday in district court. The defendant is being held at the jail in lieu of a $10,000 partially-secured bond.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. July 22 to determine if there is probable cause to refer the matter to the grand jury.

spite their good deeds, though, they were greeted with suspicion.

"The Brothers were not at first accepted by the people," Sr. Deville said. "(They found) it very difficult to get established."

Father Bill Poole, a priest with the Catholic churches in Martin and Prestonsburg, gave the Brothers housing in Martin. As they became accepted in the community, their outreach work expanded and volunteers—priests, nuns and church members—came to the area to assist the Brothers.

When Princess Elkhorn Mining Company closed its operation at David, some of the company's property was purchased by the Brothers of Charity. The mining office became a home for the volunteers. A nearby swimming pool was filled in to construct a parking lot. The pool's bath house became a day school and office.

The volunteers made do with the basic necessities at their home and in their workplaces and, instead, focused their energies on helping the residents. The time finally came, though, when they had to help themselves.

"(My table was) two boards sitting on concrete blocks. One of the volunteers said it was like Grand Central Station (through the office). He went home and got funds to have an office area built. The two boards were serviceable. They did the job, but there was no privacy," Deville said.

"A lot of the things done here have been through people's donations and their interest in making the place grow," she added.

Deville, a former teacher at a prestigious high school, said she has been inspired by the people she has helped over the years. When she first came to Floyd County, she met a woman who had few possessions or basic necessities.

One room in the woman's home was filled with brown paper bags containing rags, Deville said. In the winter, the woman wrapped up in the rags to stay warm.

"She was the happiest woman...and she was well read," Deville recalled. "I said if that woman could live on so little and be so happy, then I can too."

Under Deville's guidance, the mission has enlarged its scope of operation, although some of its programs were discontinued. The mission helped Our Lady of the Way Hospital establish its own social service program and is no longer connected to the hospital. It also no longer conducts Bible schools and has stopped its nursing home program.

The mission now concentrates its attention on meeting some basic needs—such as food and shelter—for its clients.

These programs include home repairs, food pantries, medical needs, scholarship program, second-hand clothing store, Christmas store, and utility assistance.

Craft Business

The craft business began when Mary Pineau, a Sister of Mercy and a home economics teacher, put her skills to use teaching sewing to women in the area.

"She put her (sewing) machine in the car and traveled to give the women sewing lessons in their homes," Sr. Deville said.

The Brothers wanted to bring the women to the center to get them out the summer months.

Deville said that one of their scholarship recipients has a Ph.D. and is working with Alzheimer's patients at the Cleveland Clinic. Another recipient has a master's degree in biology and is doing research in Louisville.

One scholarship award winner is in law school; another is in medical school; and three others are in college working toward various degrees, according to Deville.

Second-hand Clothing Store

The mission operates a clothing store, which residents often call the "David Boutique." Clothes are shipped to the mission from charitable organizations and individuals. The clothes are sold for "just a small charge" at the store, Deville said.

"The money from that gives local people a job (at the store)," she added.

The store is open Tuesdays and Fridays, from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and is open to the public.

Christmas Store

Each Christmas, the mission operates a Christmas Store for families who would otherwise have no Christmas. Volunteers give away new clothes, toys and $20-$30 grocery store gift certificates to needy families who have been invited to participate. The items are all donated. Families who participate are asked to donate one dollar to the mission.

"This exchange of giving and receiving is part of the meaning of Christmas," according to a brochure describing the store.

To contribute to the Christmas Store or one of the many programs at St. Vincent's Mission, contact Deville at 886-2513.

"The money from that gives local people a job (at the store)," she added.

The store is open Tuesdays and Fridays, from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and is open to the public.

Duff Elementary girl scouts make quilt blocks of life in the 21st century

by Rita Brock
Contributing Writer

Several Duff Elementary Girl Scouts have been chosen to create a narrative quilt block portraying their vision of American life in the 21st Century.

"It is with great pleasure that my girls are to be included in this nationwide quilt project," Sandra Stapleton, Girl Scout leader, said about the project.

"We are proud to say that our block will represent the state of Kentucky with pride. Troop 557 girls are ages ten and eleven. These girls are among over 250 schools representing all 50 states. Duff Elementary is the only school in Kentucky in this project that will portray their vision of life in America," Stapleton added.

Barbara Tober, chairman of the board of governors of American Craft Museum, said once the quilt is assembled, it will be displayed in the American Craft Museum. It will then be taken on a national tour.

"Children like to make things, take pride in what they have done, enjoy being appreciated for creativity at any age," Tober said.

Duff elementary student Samantha Bailey said she worked on a design of Saturn, "because in the future someone can go to the planet and put flag on it."

Another student, Stacey Howard, said she learned "to share and work together and learned about the future to sew," Stacey said.

"Quilts can become family heirlooms, and I am glad that these girls will know how to carry on the tradition of quilting," said Sandra Stapleton, Girl Scout leader of Troop 557.

Over its 40-year history, the museum has played a leadership role enhancing the stature of craft in the art world and expanding its audiences both nationally and internationally."

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people to peaceably assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

—First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution

Editorial

Unintelligible

If Vice President Al Gore is serious about replacing the bureaucratic jargon in federal documents with everyday English, he should demand the government's new Medicare guide be rewritten. The average American would need a team of translators to understand the unintelligible gibberish found in the so-called guide book.

Here is a two-sentence sample from the book that is supposed to explain new health insurance options to the nation's elderly Medicare recipients:

"If you had a supplemental policy and dropped it to enroll in a Medicare managed care plan, or Medicare Select policy for the first time, and you choose to dis-enroll from the Medicare health plan or Medicare Select policy within 12 months of enrolling, then you can go back to the Medi-gap policy you have before joining the Medicare health plan, if it is still offered, or purchase Medi-gap policies A, B, C or F. This protection is only available during the 63 days after leaving the health plan."

Don't feel dumb if you are scratching your head. The $40 million publication is such a mess even the masters of government-speak in the Clinton administration and Congress are calling it a disaster. As California Rep. Pete

Stark has correctly noted, the handbook is bound to confuse and bewilder the 38 million Americans who will soon receive it, and cause chaos at Medicare offices when people start calling with questions.

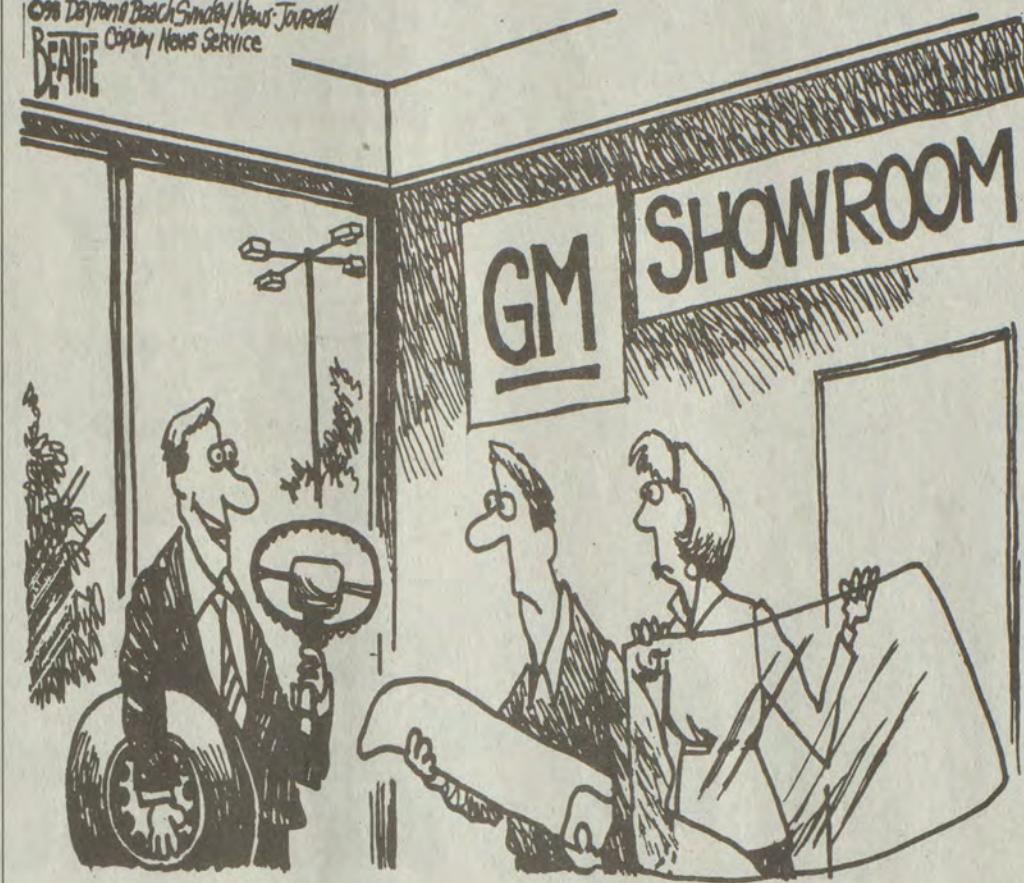

The problem is bigger than just bad writing. The Medicare changes set to take effect later this year will be the most dramatic in decades, inevitably affecting the quality of health care senior citizens receive. The government is giving subscribers, many of whom barely understand the basics of the current system, the choice of changing over to managed care, opening medical savings accounts, entering private fee-for-service plans and signing up for an array of new services. Without adequate education, some may make choices they could later regret.

Surveys by the U.S. Department of Education estimate that 40 percent of the nation's senior citizens have a limited ability to read or understand written materials.

The statistics underscore the urgent need to explain the new Medicare policies as clearly as possible, and simplifying the guide book should be the first step.

PREVENTING CHILD ABUSE WOULD GO LONG WAY IN REDUCING JUVENILE VIOLENCE

by Charles L. Baker

There is a frightening new reason to support programs for the prevention of child abuse and neglect. The behavior of some of the most violent juvenile offenders is a result of their abuse and neglect as infants.

The latest "Kids Count" study, just released by the Annie E. Casey Foundation of Baltimore, shows that the number of juveniles arrested for violent crime rose at a faster rate in Kentucky than in any other state. One question is inevitable in discussions about child abuse and neglect: Is there more abuse and neglect today than in earlier times, or is there just more efficient reporting?

This same question is being asked about juvenile crime. There is increased reporting and media attention, but those of us who work in this field are also convinced that there is more juvenile crime and more child abuse and neglect today than ever before.

Anthropologist Philip Walker, in studying the bones of young children from 4000 BC, found no evidence of "battered child syndrome." However, in our modern, civilized society, this evidence can be found in approximately 5 percent of our children.

What can we do?

The traditional point of view is to place greater emphasis on identifying abusive parents. This means that we encourage concerned neighbors and teachers to report suspected child abuse to the Child Protective Service (CPS) workers at Kentucky's Department of Social Services. After the phone rings, the CPS worker can investigate the home of the alleged abuser.

What does this mean for the children who are the victims? It means they must wait for their parent or parents to be "caught" in an abusive act before any help is available to them. Because of restrictions in federal funds and limited state funds, children who are only identified as at risk are often not eligible for services until their parents commit the crime of child abuse.

Waiting for that phone to ring is costly. Even when services work well, waiting until the damage is done makes the cost much higher. Children who suffer neglect and abuse also suffer developmental delays that lead to difficulty in their relationships, and in their progress in school. If the child must be removed from the home, there is added cost of foster care, residential treatment, or psychiatric hospitalization. If the abuse is physical, there may be emergency-room costs and follow-up care for broken bones or burns.

Of course, not all damage caused by abuse and neglect is repairable—sometimes it is fatal and the loss of a child is the greatest cost of all.

Studies at the Baylor College of Medicine and elsewhere show concrete evidence that the most rapid development of the brain occurs from conception to age 3. However, in 1997 special report in "Time" magazine, only 18 states had specialized early intervention programs for infants and toddlers and their parents. Kentucky was not one of them.

Why don't we commit ourselves to an initial screening of mothers and babies before they leave the hospital, to identify where the new family will live, with whom, on what income, with what support?

In Vermont, someone from that state's "Success by Six" program first visits a home within two weeks of a baby's birth to assess what the family needs. Visits may continue for up to three years. In Oregon and Florida, such visits occur under a program called "Healthy Start."

In North Carolina, a program called "Smart Start" forms partnerships of parents, teachers, doctors, child care providers, ministers and business people at the county level, to set goals for the education and health care of children under six years of age. More than half of North Carolina's 100 counties were participating in 1997.

These programs cost about $4,000 per year for each family. Currently, in Kentucky, juvenile incarceration costs are $50,000 per year, per individual; and intensive residential treatment costs run $80,000 per person.

Certain combinations of early abuse and negative environmental conditions in infancy now appear linked to the extremely violent behavior we see in some of our juvenile offenders, as well as to their inability to feel remorse. We read in the paper that one of the boys in

CHANGE AND PREVENT CHILDREN'S EXTREME ACTING-OUT BEHAVIORS

Young adolescents still murder at school; a place where the basis of life's knowledge is obtained and pleasant memories made. While Kentucky had a first of such violence, Floyd County has had episodes of destruction, thoughtfulness, and poor judgment by its youth. Possible contributing factors for these acting-out behaviors could be inherited tendencies, learned by observing others, parents' lack of consistent rules, and/or significant emotional problems. Some "red flags" of a troubled child are obvious changes in their mood, behavior, attitude, and/or habits, crying for "no reason," problems sleeping and having nightmares, and being fractious with everyone. Ugly verbal, physical, and destructive behaviors are displayed if the youngster can no longer cope, control himself, and his anger turns to rage. He may hurt himself and others.

Last week another TV "expert" pointed out that many citizens, who had known the violent child, could look back "after the fact" and usually recognize that the adolescent showed signs of impending "stormy" behaviors for at least six months prior to the horrible event. It would have been so helpful if someone aware of the child's situation had spoken up. A child's behaviors can be changed and problems prevented, based on the commitment of his parents and significant adults involved in the child's life. Janet Reno, Attorney General and a great child advocate, has the opinion that parents have the primary responsibility for their children's on-going behaviors.

A cousin once said, "I know my problem, it's the answer that's hard." Changing habits and behaviors can be uncomfortable, hard, and painful. Basically, the main person(s) responsible for the child must decide that the new behavior is—needed and more desirable—than the present one that is not working. Many parents of adolescents involved with the legal system, the Department of Social Services, and/or the school system extensively regret they had been hesitant to accept "the merry-go-round" of their child's inappropriate behaviors that had to be stopped. Don't forget, one person within a dysfunctional family circle can begin change that may produce a crisis at first, but work toward positive outcomes. We all have heard that the best is worth working and waiting for.

Whenever parents even suspect or do realize that "something" is not working for their son John, they need to gather information from several sources; i.e., what does John do at school, but not at home. Then parents need to work as a team using clear communications with specific rules, after discussing privately their expectations of John and the positive consequences for following their guidelines. Next, John needs to be supervised adequately so consistent limits are maintained. Be firm but be flexible. You don't need a rigid, "controlling" attitude. Reasonable parenting can be viewed as being a "loving drill-sergeant". Positive feedback and reinforcement help to increase John's self-perceptions, "You did a great job!" "You are special!". Research has repeatedly shown for many decades the effectiveness of this approach. Monitoring children adequately is often the most difficult part for dysfunctional parents if they have problems controlling themselves, much less several children, a household, a job, and etc. If "home" approaches do not decrease for John's extreme behaviors, then family counseling needs to be considered. Frequently the child's behaviors "mirror" the family. Mental health services are a must if the child threatens harm to himself or others, plus shows other signs of possible suicide.

Many of the techniques used to change behaviors can also be used to prevent unwanted behaviors before they appear. Besides maintaining consistent rules, parents need to be actively involved with their child. Avoid criticizing John unnecessarily or giving the impression he has to be perfect. Listen to your tone of voice. The way to John's heart is not by way of his stomach or an adult's wallet. Put down the TV's remote control, get up, and join the children. Be creative together. Children benefit greatly from gradually learning age-appropriate activities at a pace so not to increase their anxiety; their self-confidence, self-concept, and pride are increased. Life's important lessons can be taught while everyone is enjoying.

Locals attend commission meeting

Mary Robertson of Lewisport, and Abby Marlatt of Lexington, have been elected chair and vice-chair, respectively, of the Kentucky Legislative Research Commission's Advisory Commission of Senior Citizens. Officers are elected for a two-year period.

Robertson, a community volunteer, represents the Green River Area Development District, and Marlatt, a retired University of Kentucky professor, represents the Bluegrass Area Development District.

Those attending the meeting from the Big Sandy Area Development District were Frank Carlton of Pikeville; Mary Anne Hall of Prestonsburg; Mary Trimble of Salyersville; and Lillian Wheeler of Paintsville.

The 100-member commission held its spring meeting May 21-22, at the Holiday Inn Hotel in Frankfort. The commission is comprised of representatives from all 15 Area Development Districts (ADDs), and four statewide senior citizens organizations. Kentucky Retired Teachers Association, Kentucky Association of Older Persons, American Association of Retired Persons, the National Association of Retired Federal Employees and legislative leaders appoint five members.

The General Assembly established the commission in 1977, to utilize older Kentuckians' expertise in dealing with problems facing the state. At the conclusion of the two-year interim, the commission will make specific recommendations to the 2000 General Assembly in areas relating to health and human services, taxation, consumer affairs, transportation and insurance.

In addition to the election, Jody Richards, Speaker of the House of Representatives, offered a legislative update of some of the major bill affecting Kentuckians that passed during the 1998 General Assembly. Richards said, "the 1998 General Assembly session was one of the most progressive in recent memory." As examples, he cited that various taxes were decreased by over $350 million; the Omnibus Crime Bill requires that offenders do 85 percent of their sentence; additional funds were invested in higher education; school construction, tourism development and industrial sites; and environmental, education and consumer protection laws were strengthened.

Richards said that in November, Kentucky voters would have the opportunity to vote on a constitutional amendment that would allow the Legislature to meet for 25 days on odd numbered years. Currently, the Kentucky Constitution allows it to convene only on even numbered years. Richards said that this would bring more order to the process and probably save taxpayers money. According to the Kentucky Constitution, only the governor calls the General Assembly into an extraordinary or special session, and identified the issues that will be discussed and voted upon. There have been 17 special sessions in the last 12 years.

The commission members also heard from Tom Bennett, Commissioner of the Fish and Wildlife Department, who explained that after March 1, 1999, seniors could purchase a $5 special combination wildlife license, which allows hunting and fishing. Each license sold will produce $10 in federal government matching funds that will underwrite boat ramps, handicapped accessible fishing piers, conservation programs and camps for young people. Bennett said that the 1998 General Assembly passed legislation to make Kentucky's waterways safer by tightening the requirements on children from 12-17, who operate a boat or jet skis. Also, boaters who drive under the influence of alcohol or drugs will be subjected to the same laws as automobile drivers.

ing himself. (Play therapy is the major tool used by child psychologists.) Fun-laughing and playing—can be a great way of releasing stress and frustrations, plus teaching at the same time.

Do whatever you can for all kids. Assist parents unaware of what to do or situations needing support, i.e., volunteer to ride and supervise a school bus, which has been shown to help in other states, join a committee to increase school attendance, and help identify children with emotional problems and ways to obtain appropriate services for them. Most likely everyone has a pleasant, fond memory from childhood of that special adult who seemed to know just what to do at those stressful moments. Make a difference for children.

Mable Rowe Lineberger, Ph.D., licensed psychologist, is in private practice in Prestonsburg. Dr. Lineberger is especially interested in issues pertaining to children, adolescents, family, and marriage/relationships. She is willing to write topics of interest to and suggested by Floyd County Times readers.

volved in the Jonesboro shootings was a victim of abuse. As a nation, and as a state, it is time we begin to invest in our youngest children.

When we review the cases of our most troubled teen-agers, we find that they were victims during the earliest years of their lives. KERA, offering the best-equipped classrooms and the finest teachers, cannot make up for losses during those earlier years. Buckhorn, offering the highest quality treatment for adolescents, cannot undo the damage done by a lack of being played with or touched or talked to in early childhood.

Social science is an imperfect discipline. There are many examples of small programs with good results, but they are often discounted, because they are small and the children receive special attention and care. One of the few programs expanded to the national level, "Head Start," although never fully funded, consistently shows improvement in the school performances of its students.

Don't we have an obligation to use new scientific evidence to develop a model early intervention program, rather than missing an opportunity to improve or even save the lives of our children?

The Rand Corp. just released a study that shows for every dollar spent on early childhood programs, society can expect to save on welfare, special education, and criminal justice. Early childhood intervention that leads to school success also increases the child's earning potential as an adult, and, therefore, his or her potential to contribute as a taxpayer.

Certainly, this discussion can't be driven only by concerns for cost. It's primarily about Kentucky's future. No matter how well we care for our own children or grandchildren, they will grow up to inhabit a world filled with adults who were other people's children.

Their futures are interdependent—locked together. Tomorrow's criminals are today's neglected children. We protect our children's future by caring for all Kentucky's children today.

The next few years are critical. The solution is not either/or, it must be both/and. We must find a way to heal those who are already broken, and we must prevent today's infants from being subjected to abuse and neglect.

Charles Baker is the president and Chief Executive Officer of the Buckhorn Children's Foundation, based in Buckhorn, Kentucky. The agency, which cares for over 250 children each day, operates three intensive residential treatment programs—Buckhorn Children's Center, the Dessie Scott Children's Home, and Buckhorn Children's Center of Ohio.

Teacher's job fair to be held in Louisville

Attention: any area residents looking for a teaching position in Kentucky and school systems needing to fill vacancies.

You're urged to attend the annual Kentucky Teacher Connection, which will be conducted by Eastern Kentucky University's Division of Career Services and hosted by the Kentucky Association of School Administrator (KASA) Sunday, July 12.

The teacher job fair, to be held 1-5 p.m., at the Executive West Hotel, Louisville, will bring together school system recruiters and teacher candidates from over 30 colleges and universities in Kentucky and surrounding states.

"This is an opportunity for the school systems to conduct, and candidates to have, interviews in a cost-effective manner," said Art Harvey, director of EKU's Division of Career Services.

Job candidates from all schools are welcome. A list of participating school systems and their vacancies, along with a map and program information, will be posted on-line at www.career.eku.edu, July 9-12.

Eastern's Division of Career Services and College of Education, along with KASA, provide the free event as a service to the Commonwealth. For more information, interested candidates and recruiters may call Art Harvey or Angie Floyd at 606-622-1567. Any school systems not yet registered to participate may still do so. Pre-registration is not required for candidates.

Autumn bike tour to Shakertown

On the last weekend of September, bicycle riders from near and far can cap off the summer and usher in the beautiful autumn season on the American Lung Association of Kentucky's spectacular bicycle tour, the Bike Trek to Shakertown.

The annual bike trek, which attracts riders from all across Kentucky and surrounding states, is slated for September 26-28. Last year's event drew participants from seven states and Canada, and raised over $75,000 for the fight against lung disease. Registration is currently being accepted for the trek, and since space is limited, cyclists are encouraged to sign up now.

The Bike Trek to Shakertown has it all! It's a 3-day mini-vacation on wheels through gorgeous Kentucky countryside—climaxing by an overnight stay on Sunday at historic Shakertown. There the riders will be treated to a tour of the restored 19th Century Shaker dwellings, a riverboat cruise, and fabulous dinner and breakfast. The popular bluegrass band, Brushfire, will perform for the group on Sunday night.

The round-trip route along central Kentucky's scenic backroads begins and ends in Harrodsburg, with lodging at Danville's Pioneer Playhouse on Saturday. For riders who cannot participate all three days, a 2-day option (Saturday and Sunday only) is available, which includes a visit to Shakertown, but no overnight stay.

According to Trek Director, Carolyn Embry, the American Lung Association pulls out all the stops to ensure that the bicycle tour is first class all the way. Some of the services available to participants include gear trucks for luggage, free on-the-road bicycle repair service, rest stops with high energy snacks, roving hospitality vans and free massages by professional message therapists. "September's gentle beauty, coupled with Shakertown's tranquil elegance and a host of amenities, make the Bike Trek to Shakertown simply too special to miss," Embry said.

Since the trek offers routes of different length and degree of difficulty, most anyone who rides a bicycle can take part. Novice riders can opt for the trek's basic at-your-own-pace route of 30-35 miles a day. For cyclists seeking more of a challenge, there's a metric century on Saturday of the event and two longer routes to choose from on Sunday, including the Shaker Century, 100 miles of Kentucky's gently rolling hills. "It's a great event, and it all benefits the fight against lung disease," said Embry.

To register for the trek, each rider pays a $40 registration fee and agrees to raise pledges to fight lung disease. Participants can qualify for a wide array of prizes as they reach various pledge levels. The grand prize for the event's top fund raiser is a pair of airline tickets to any destination in the continental U.S., courtesy of Carlson Wagonlit Travel and Continental Airlines.

Co-sponsors of the event are 84WHAS and Bicycle Sport Inc., in Louisville and WVLK, K-93, WLEX-TV, Arrow 101.5 and Oldies 102.5, in Lexington. For more information about the Bike Trek to Shakertown, including pre-trek information programs and corporate teams, call the American Lung Association at 1-800-586-4872.

David Crafts take their wares to Berea Craft Festival

Seventeen years ago, the Berea Craft Festival opened to rave reviews and has continued to build on that success ever since. David Crafts has been part of that success. At this year's festival, more than 120 craftspeople, including representatives of David Crafts, will be exhibiting and selling their work. These juried craftspeople, who come from across the United States, will gather at the historic Indian Fort Outdoor Theater near Berea on July 10, 11 and 12.

Highlighting this year's festival will be the record number of demonstrators. Ann Brown, new to the festival, will bring her sheep and demonstrate the traditional art of spinning and rug making. Another first-time exhibitor, Larry Herbst, of Berea, will show the intricate hand skills needed to create a hand-carved rocking horse. The Sheltowee Artisans, from Somerset, will showcase watercolor, silk painting and stained glass. Papermaking by Katy Dement of Georgia and wooden stamping by Pawly Prints of Indiana will give the children and the young at heart ideas for their own new projects. Basketmaking, blacksmithing, dollmaking, silversmithing, pottery piercing, puzzle making, glass blowing and dried floral demonstrations will give visitors an appreciation of the artist's commitment to handwork and the intricacies of each craft.

Giving an international flavor to the Festival, Lidia Amanda de Lopaz, a Guatemalan native, will be weaving some of the extraordianarily patterned fabrics that are indigenous to her village. Also, Jamie Rodriguez of Peruvian descent, will demonstrate and sell his hand-carved Native American flutes.

Nearly 30 new exhibitors will be showing at this year's festival. Among the newcomers will be Dinosaur Dirt Farm from Gossburg, Tennessee who will bring ceramic dinosaur sculptures; basketmaker Peggy Henderson from Columbus, Indiana; wooden puzzle makers Hal and Brenda Jones of Canton, GA; Lisa Purchase from Vero Beach, FL will feature wearable art; P. T. Isabel, Bethel, OH will display a wide array of garden art; Kathy Wernick of Berea, KY makes herbal soaps; Creighton Cutts, Athens, Georgia combines dried herbs and flowers with beeswax to make candle globes; Joe Certo, Antioch, Tennessee will bring metal sculptures; glass blower, Sam Davison, from Sedalia, Montana, specializes in paperweights and ornaments; Greg Hunt hand carves bamboo flutes and will play at his booth; and functional potter Larry Watson of Alexandra.

There will be strolling musicians all three days of the festival. Banjos, guitars, flutes, violins and hammered dulcimers will play their joyful tunes, as individual musicians play singly and then team up for impromptu jamming.

The Berea craft festival will be held July 10, 11 and 12. Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. Admission is $4 for adults; children 11 and under are free. Senior citizens are discounted to $3.50, and groups of 20 or more are $3 each.

Berea is located 40 miles south of Lexington off I-75 at exit 76 or 77. Just follow road signs to Indian Fort Theater, three miles east of Berea on Hwy. 21. Plenty of free parking. For further visitor information, call the Berea Visitor Center at 1-800-598-5263.

Trade openings available at Kentucky Job Corps Center

Job Corps centers in Kentucky have immediate openings available for training in cement masonry, culinary arts, business/clerical, carpentry and health occupations trades, it was announced recently.

Job Corps, a U.S. Department of Labor program, provides economically disadvantaged youth, ages 16 through 24, with the opportunity to receive basic education through GED classes, as well as training in construction trades, clerical skills, landscaping, technology, forestry, retail, culinary arts, automotive body repair, health occupations and other fields.

Kentucky has six Job Corps centers—Earle C. Clements in Morganfield, Whitney M. Young in Simpsonville; Frenchburg near Maribra; Carl D. Perkins in Prestonsburg; Great Onyx in Mammoth Cave; and Pine Knott located in the Daniel Boone National Forest.

"Job Corps offers a wide variety of training opportunities," said Melvin R. Collins, Job Corps' Southeastern regional director. "Our students have proved that hard work and commitment will not only increase their skills, but bring success for lifetime career advancement."

Job Corps has a toll-free telephone number, 1 (800) 733-JOBS, for men and women who want to learn more about the program.

Job Corps is a residential program, providing students with room, board and some spending money while they learn. Some centers offer non-residential programs and provide day care.

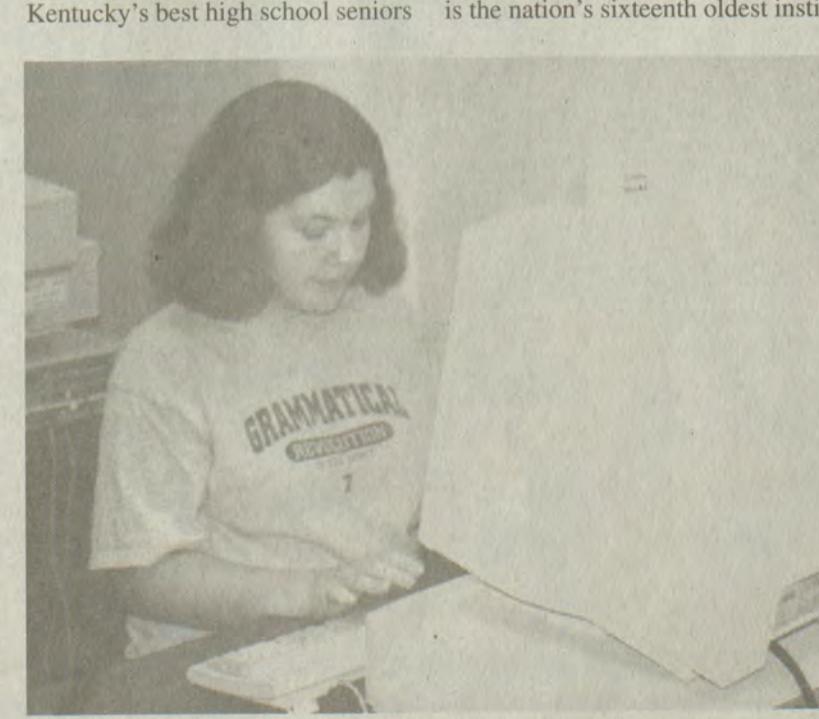

In addition to the six centers in Kentucky, there are 17 Job Corps centers in operation in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

MAYO MOMENTS

by Linda Lyon
Marketing Director
Mayo Vocational School

"Welcome to the Mayo Technical College." These are words we are not accustomed to saying and as I utter them I look around to see the difference they make. Surprise! There is very little. In fact, things are humming right along with preparation being made for the coming school term, just like last year. Mayo is open for business and business is educating students. Life goes on.

Mayo will have some changes however. We will be on a regular college semester schedule. Classes will begin on August 10, 1998. Registration will be August 3-4th. In order for students to register, they must have made application for admission, taken the entrance test or provided acceptable ACT scores and paid application fees. These should be done now. If a prospective student needs financial aid they MUST come in here or another financial aid office, secure and file a FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid.). We have those applications here and our Financial Aid staff will guide you through the process. You cannot expect a grant, loan, or any other kind of financial aid if you wait until school starts to file. Many of the aid programs are on a first come, first serve basis as well as being need based. Please get your paperwork started now if you want to attend school this Fall.

The semester will last from August 10 - December 18. Second semester will begin January 4, 1999. Registration for that semester will be December 16 and 21. We will have a 2-week intersession this year in June and a 5-week Summer Session in June and July. Holidays will be much the same as last year.

Counselors are available each day and the Assessment Center is Entrance Testing each Monday and Tuesday at 8 a.m. GED testing is available, as is a wide array of other assessments and tests you may need. Call 789-5321, ext. 287 to arrange for the GED or other tests. Just walk in on Monday or Tuesday before 8 a.m. for the entrance test.

It has been 60 years since Mayo first opened its doors. Those years have been good years. We have provided a service that has not gotten stale or out of date. We have made an impact on each generation passing through our doors. We hope to continue to do so. We are still here for you and will work with you in any way possible to make this your academic home. Call us today at 789-5321. We want to be here for you.

Floyd County Resident Returns Home to Practice Medicine

Dr. James Campbell recently completed his Internal Medicine residency training at the World Renowned Cleveland Clinic. The U.S. News and World Report has ranked the Cleveland Clinic among the top 10 hospitals in the nation for eight years in a row. They have ranked the Cleveland Clinic as the best cardiology center in the nation for three consecutive years.

Dr. Campbell is an Internal Medicine physician who specializes in adult medical problems. Special interests include, but are not limited to: hypertension, diabetes, thyroid disease, obesity, gastrointestinal disease, arthritis and lung disease.

Dr. Campbell will be working with Dr. Ira Potter at the Potter Clinic and will begin seeing patients, July 20th, 1998. In addition to seeing patients in the office, he will be admitting to the hospital. To schedule an appointment, call 358-2381.

Area residents named Transy Senior Challenge Pacesetters

Two area residents and Pennsylvania students have been recognized as Senior Challenge Pacesetters.

As part of the Senior Challenge, members of the senior class raised more than $14,000 to fund a scholarship for an incoming freshman. To be recognized as a Pacesetter, students must pledge a hundred hours or more to a scholarship fund. This year, 62 percent of the Pennsylvania senior class participated in the Senior Challenge.

In Loving Memory of My Husband, Ellis (Estill) Newsome

It's been almost six months since you were called away. It's the love we shared, that has kept me going each day. I remember your smile, your loving touch. The years we spent together, oh, they meant so much.

The loving home we shared, the children God placed in our care, I never even thought there would come a day that you were not there. God took you away on a cold dark winter night. I wish it could have been me, that took that flight.

July the eighth would be your birthday, I only wish you were here, so we could celebrate.

I would tell you how much I love you, as I did so many times in the past,

But you were called away, it was not meant to last.

I'll remember you forever and a day, Not even time can take the memories away.

I would not have traded my life with you for all the silver and gold, For all the joy and happiness we shared, the world will never know. Sometimes I think I hear your footsteps, your voice calling my name, Then I remember, nothing will ever be the same. So sleep on my darling, the love of my life, Someday I pray we will be together on the other side.

Your broken-hearted Wife, Minnie (Allen) Newsome

Card of Thanks

The family of Nancy Hall Hamilton Newsom wishes to gratefully acknowledge the thoughtfulness and kindness of friends, relatives, and neighbors in the loss of our loved one. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers, or spoke comforting words. We are especially grateful to the clergyman, Tracy Patton, for his comforting words; the sheriff's department for their assistance in traffic control; and the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and professional service.

Farm Bureau awards scholarship to five Floyd County graduating seniors

The Floyd County Farm Bureau Board of Directors have awarded their annual scholarships to five outstanding graduating seniors from the Floyd County High Schools.

The board voted this year to award five $2,000 grants bringing the number of students on scholarship this school year to 14. This is the largest number of scholarships to be given in one year by this organization. The scholarships are financed by the county portion of the annual membership fee paid to the Federation.

The students are Seidina Doran Adams, Prestonsburg High School, and

Did you know?

Two million people are injured annually due to violent crimes. Weapons are used in 27.3 percent in crimes of violence. Estimated that 820,000 up to 1,860,000 elderly were abused, 1996.

1,012,000 reports of child abuse or neglect, were substantiated 2,935,470 are subject to report due to multiple children in the home. 11 percent of murder victims were below age 18, 1994. Three out of four victims of violent crimes are female.

Card of Thanks

The family of Nelle Clark Carey would like to extend their appreciation to all of those friends, neighbors and loved ones who helped comfort them during their time of sorrow. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers, or spoke comforting words. A special thanks to the clergyman, Jack Howard, for his comforting words; Marcus Gibson and the sheriff's department for their assistance in traffic control; and the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service.

Summertime water safety tips

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, in conjunction with the Paintsville Lake Water Safety Council, has provided the following water safety tips for all water sports enthusiasts visiting Paintsville Lake.

• Respect the water. Enjoy its pleasures but don't underestimate its dangers and become a drowning statistic.

• Learn to swim. If you can't swim, keep a life jacket on. Always utilize the buddy system and never swim alone.

• Watch small children. They may only be out of your sight for a moment, but could wander off and fall into the lake.

• Dangerous areas. There are no designated swimming areas at Paintsville lake. Swimmers swim at their own risk, unless the area has been designated as an unauthorized area. Swimming in off-limits and unauthorized areas leads to drowning, because of unmarked holes, currents, pollution, undertows, cold water, the illegal attachment of rope swings to trees, and the lack of lifeguards. Obey off-limits or unauthorized area signs and directives. Obey safety rules. Before wading, swimming, or diving in an unfamiliar area, find out the depth, temperature and whether there are hidden rocks, strong currents, or sudden dropoffs.

• Cold water. Any water below 70 degrees Fahrenheit hampers a swimmer's capabilities and endurance. It may even cause instant body reactions that lead to drowning. Water in lakes, gravel pits, and quarries may be below 70 degrees even during the summer. Swim where you can use the buddy system, but don't become over confident. Your buddy may be having as much fun as you are and look the other way just when you need help.

• Horseplay. Don't! It can often lead to accidents.

• Obey all park rules and regulations. The regulations are posted on outdoor bulletin boards located at the Paintsville Lake Marina, Paintsville Dam Overlook, Paintsville Lake Downstream Area, Colvin Branch, the breezeway bulletin board at the Corps of Engineers Office on top of the dam, and the Big Mine Fork and Open Fork boat launch ramps.

• Buoys. These are floating stationary regulatory water markers placed at specific points on the lake. Know what they mean before you go boating and obey them, because they are there for your personal safety.

• Alcohol and Water. Don't! Alcohol affects your judgment. It makes you think you can function better drunk than when you are sober. But, in fact, alcohol slows your reaction time considerably.

• Safe Boating. When traveling up and down the lake, always operate your boat to the right of the mid-channel and never cut corners. Be watchful of the possibility of both above and underwater obstructions and if your boat is equipped with an engine kill switch, then play it safe and use it. The kill switch automatically stops the engine, if and only if, the operator of the boat is wearing the kill switch attachment and is thrown from the boat's controls. Remember, safe boating also includes wearing your life jacket. Don't leave shore without it!

• Personal Watercraft. These are boats, not toys. A life jacket must be worn at all times when operating one of these, and the operator must use an engine kill switch when the craft is underway.

• Waterskiing. It is only allowed between sunrise and sunset. Both the operator of the boat and the skier should be aware of the locations of "No Ski" zones. Skiers who ski too close to other boats, swimmers, and obstructions are committing dangerous acts.

Remember, the life you save may be your own!

Local students among U of L grads

Four Floyd natives were among the approximate 2,000 students who participated in the University of Louisville's commencement ceremony May 9. The university is celebrating its bicentennial this year.

Joy Bush Gilliam, a Betsy Layne native, received her juris doctor degree. She is the daughter of Barbie Bow of Betsy Layne and Dr. Marvin Bush of Pikeville, and is the wife of Matt Gilliam and daughter-in-law of J.B. and Nancy Gilliam of Pikeville. She is a 1991 graduate of Pikeville High School.

Helen McAninch, a Prestonsburg native, received her juris doctor degree. She is the daughter of Roy and Betty Perry of Prestonsburg. She is a 1979 graduate of Prestonsburg High School, a 1993 graduate of Prestonsburg Community College and 1995 graduate of Morehead State University.

Kevin Adams, also a Prestonsburg native, received his juris doctor degree. He is the son of Dennis and Jo Ann Adams of Prestonsburg, and the grandson of the late Elbert and Edna Caudill of Allen. He is a 1990 graduate of Prestonsburg High School.

Vera Alice Brown, a Teaberry native, received her doctor of dental medicine degree. She is the daughter of Eva and Gary Brown of Teaberry. She is a 1988 graduate of Betsy Layne High School.

Although there was no keynote speaker, a short address was presented by actor-comedian Jerry Lewis, who received one of two honorary degrees, and graduating student Letitia Sickel, who received her doctor of education degree.

Not only has Lewis been highly lauded for his achievements as a comedian, actor, writer, director and producer, but 1998 marks the 50th year of his efforts to raise resources and hope for those suffering from neuromuscular disorders.

Recently, he has collaborated with Clifford Kuhn, clinical professor of the University of Louisville School of Medicine, in a series of seminars regarding the importance of humor as a tool of mental healing. Lewis received the doctor of public service degree.

The other honorary degree recipient was Marvin Smith, a photographer and native Kentuckian who will receive the doctor of arts degree. Smith, a World War II veteran who served in the South Pacific, was the first African-American to graduate from the Naval Air Station of Photography and Motion Pictures.

U of L is among the nation's oldest metropolitan universities. Through its 13 schools, colleges and divisions, the university offers 52 undergraduate, graduate and professional degrees in more than 170 fields of study.

McDowell quilt

Pictured above are students of Mylessia Little's and Tonda Johnson's fifth grade classes at McDowell Elementary School during the culminating activity of their United States Multidisciplinary Unit. Little and Johnson assigned each student a state to research and discuss. The unit incorporated activities in mathematics, social studies, arts and humanities, and practical arts. Each student discussed the important geographical aspects of their state in a special presentation to their parents. In addition, the class designed a state's quilt, and treated their parents to a lunch that included recipes from each state. McDowell Elementary instructors work to develop collaborative units throughout the school year.

Paintsville team wins academic competition

Eleven students from Paintsville Middle School competed against teams from 50 other U.S. states plus many other countries, including Russia and Israel. This is the first time that a team from Kentucky has won such a prestigious international competition. The team was coached by Brenda Porter and supported by several local Eastern Kentucky businesses.

The Paintsville Community Problem Solving Team won first place in Human Services at the International Future Problem Solving Competition in Ann Arbor, Michigan for their "Homework Hotline and Web site" project. The team was scheduled to arrive home from Michigan at around 11 p.m. on June 16.

The 1998 International Champions from Paintsville Middle School consists of Katie Gilkerson, Katie Brown, Elizabeth Combs, Ashley Boswell, Zac Boswell, Catlin Boswell, Hayley Castle, Mallorie Collins, Sasha Param, John Compton and John Petot.

LITTLE LEAGUE

H-A-P All-Stars defeat Wheelwright

by Jason Blanton
Sports Correspondent

The Harold-Allen-Prater Little League All-Stars stayed alive in the District 7, Area 2 Little League Tournament as they eliminated county foe Wheelwright, 8-0, Monday night. H-A-P advanced to play Prestonsburg Tuesday night. Details of the game were not available at presstime.

Steven Chafin, an 11 year-old lefthander, led H-A-P to the victory as he tossed a one-hitter against Wheelwright.

"You hate to beat another county team," H-A-P manager Randy Kidd said.

"I'm proud of the win, but I don't think we've hit like we are capable of in the tournament."

Chaffin struckout ten. Wheelwright batters and walked only one.

Harold-Allen-Prater got on the board with two runs in the second inning.

Steve Conn and Jordan Case scored. Conn reached on a fielder's choice and scored as Case reached off a Wheelwright error. Case later scored on a wild pitch to give his team a 2-0 advantage. H-A-P extended its lead to 5-0 its next time up.

Jordan Kidd and Steven Chafin started the frame with back-to-back singles. Jack Slone then reached on an error, scoring Kidd. Chafin, who moved to third on the error, crossed the plate on a sacrifice fly by Tommy Layne.

Slone eventually scored on a wild pitch to up the advantage to 5-0, and Wheelwright would get its only hit in the top of the fourth. Jordan Curry reached on an H-A-P error. Adam Tackett singled, but Curry was cut down at the plate by a throw by leftfielder, Conn.

H-A-P scored its final three runs in the fourth, two runs came via errors while Lafferty drove in the other run with his single to put his team ahead 8-0. Wheelwright would only get one more base runner in the game. Burnett Little was hit-by-a-pitch in the sixth, but Chafin got out of the inning to pick up the win.

"I'm proud of the kids," Wheelwright coach Lannie Hall said. "They played hard, but we just made too many errors." For the game, Wheelwright committed eight errors and allowed H-A-P only four hits.

"I think our defense was a key," H-A-P coach Mike Jarrell said. "It's as good as it has been all year."

A LOOK AT SPORTS

Thoughts from a long ride from Pikeville

I am looking forward to the football season. I didn't think I really would, but I find the closer we get the more excited I am about the upcoming season.

I enjoy the season to a point but I can't take cold weather or blow-outs. The powers that be in football need to come up with a mercy plan in the gridiron sport, much like they have in baseball.

One form, we saw it several times last year, was to keep the clock running in the second half except for timeouts. I think they should run even during a time out. Let the two teams huddle, but let the clock mercilessly tick down.

When you are getting racked 72-0, what's the use? We had games like that last year and, no doubt it will be repeated again this season.

The Prestonsburg High School Blackcats will start football practice this coming Friday at the field at 6:30 p.m.

Jeremy Caudill, Prestonsburg, spent some time at UK in summer camp and I understand went through some very hard hitting. But he enjoyed it and pronounced himself ready for the upcoming season.

Caudill suffered an injured knee just before the season ended last year. Then he suffered a shoulder separation in spring football practice. But the linebacker/fullback is ready for the season and is at 100 percent.

B.J. Bryant will be the player to catch out of the South Floyd backfield this season. The fleet-footed Bryant has deceiving speed. Watch him run this year!

It will be interesting to see how they play it at Allen Central this year. Will they move Brandon Sizemore (a sophomore) at the quarterback slot and keep Jesse Hall in the backfield? Hall started at quarterback last year until mid-way of the season. Sizemore moved in and did a good job.

Betsy Layne coach Ted George is working hard to get the numbers up for the Bobcats. The Bobcats will have to shore up the front line (both ways) before the season begins. They play in the very tough District 2, Region IV with the likes of Breathitt County, Prestonsburg and Whitesburg.

A county gridorama is in the plans for this football season as all four teams will meet on the gridiron in preseasn play. The spectacle will be held at Prestonsburg.

Adams Middle School should be a dominating team in the middle school conference this year.

BASEBALL

We have been informed by Floyd County Babe Ruth president, Harold Case, that there was not a tie for the league championship between the Martin Rockies and Betsy Layne Indians. Seems a playoff game was held and Martin won 7-4 for the title.

GOLF

The Floyd County AAU girls' basketball team is holding a golf scramble at the Allen Park in an effort to raise money for their trip to Lafayette, Louisiana for the national tournament. Get out and take part if you are a golfer. The tournament will be held July 12.

VACATION

NOW LET'S GET OUT THERE!

MORGAN COUNTY DEFEATS WHEELWRIGHT

by Jason Blanton
Sports Correspondent

Morgan County dropped Wheelwright in the loser's bracket with a 19-2 win in a four-inning game Thursday night in District 7, Area 2 Little League Tournament held at the Paul B. Hall Little League Field in Paintsville.

Morgan County scored four runs in the first and second innings, added five more runs in the third and scored six runs in the fourth to seal the victory.

Wheelwright managed only two runs on five hits.

The Floyd County All-Stars scored their first run in the second inning. Adam Tackett singled and scored on a hit by Steven Stanley. Wheelwright got a single run in the third frame. Landon Hall walked, and scored on a Jordan Curry double.

Hall was the starter and took the loss for Wheelwright. Curry came on in relief of Hall in the third inning.

In the win, Morgan County got its 19 runs on only five hits and was helped by nine Wheelwright errors.

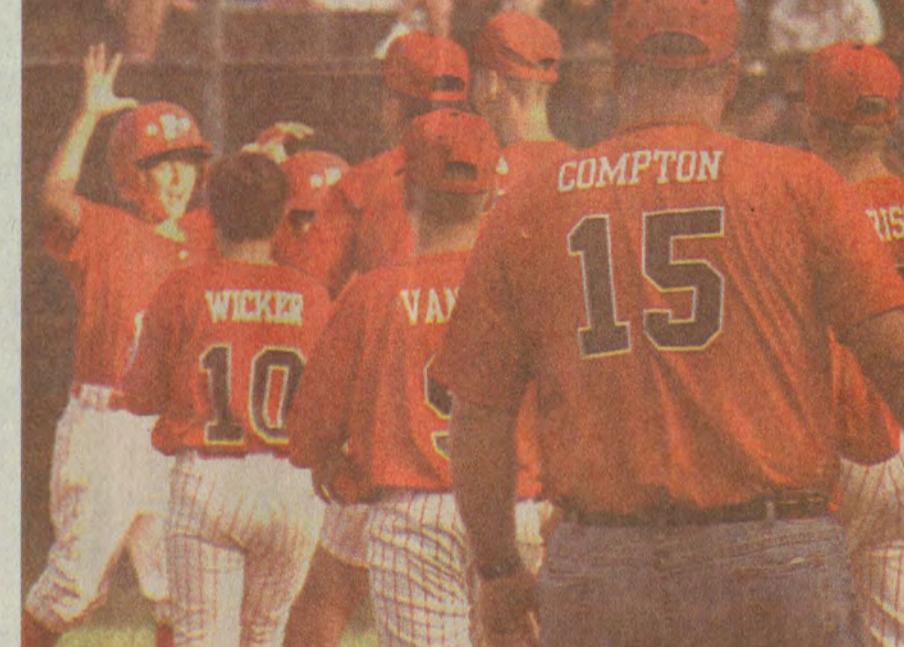

H-A-P VS. PAINTSVILLE

Paintsville lefthander Shane Simpkins tossed a one-hitter en route to a 7-0 win over Harold-Allen-Prater

Friday night in the District 7, Area 2 Little League Tournament at the Paul B. Hall Little League Field.

Simpkins allowed only three H-A-P runners to reach base while striking out 16. The loss dropped Harold-Allen-Prater into the loser's bracket of the tournament. With one-out in the first inning, Jordan Kidd moved to second and third via wild pitches, but was left stranded as Lafferty moved to second on a passed ball and to third base on a ground-out by Tommy Layne. Lafferty was left at third as Simpkins got out of the jam with

PRESTONSBURG VS. MARTIN COUNTY

The Prestonsburg Little League All-Stars have certainly made it an interesting tournament. In its first game on Friday, Prestonsburg lost in extra innings to Morgan County.

On Monday, Greg May scored on a Martin County error with one-out in the bottom of the sixth as Prestonsburg came from behind to win, 7-5. Prestonsburg faced Harold-Allen-Prater Tuesday night

Martin Pee Wee Braves take tournament title

When all was said and done, the Martin Braves finished first in the league of 12 teams that participated in the tournament, closely followed by the second-place Cubs. The Braves managed to carry off the double elimination-type tournament without a loss. The Padres finished third.

The final game was led off by Cory Webb of the Cubs, who got a base hit. Jordan Hale, who was second batter, drilled one to left field for a double-scoring long one. Josh Prater hit a triple, also scoring in the first inning.

The Braves, led by Justin Collins, hit an infield home run to begin an awesome attack on the new scoreboard.

Robert Cole, Tyler Robinson, Ethan Conley, Wesley Crager, Tanda Conn, Jacob Moak, Zak Key and Sarah Hall all batted, helping to a 5-3 lead.

At the top of the second, the Braves held the Cubs scoreless.

Taylor Moak and Robert Cole both scored in the bottom of the second inning with the help of a sacrifice fly hit by Ethan Conley as they were idling on base.

The Braves failed to score in the third inning, leaving Jacob Moak stranded on second. The Cubs scored Alyssa Howard and Cory Webb in the third inning.

The Braves put the brakes on the Cubs' offense as Ethan Conley made two eyebrow-raising defensive plays to get the first two outs. Tanda Conn finished off the inning by scooping up a grounder

Tackett selected for Kentucky/Nike All-Stars

Jordan Tackett, the 15-year-old son of Harvey and Jan Mullins Tackett of Jenkins and grandson of Julius and Juanita Mullins of Melvin and James and Jean Tackett of Jenkins, will play for the Kentucky/Nike All-Stars Team. He is the first sophomore from Letcher County to participate in this program. He was nominated by coaches based on his play during summer camps and throughout the season.

Jordan participated in the Hoop-

Stars Camp at Eastern Kentucky University June 24-28. During the week of July 9-12, he will travel with the All-Stars team to Louisville for the HoopFest Tournament, then July 14-18 he will go to Orlando for the Florida HoopFest Tournament.

The Kentucky/Nike All-Stars began in 1982, and has had such players as Rex Chapman, Feltner Spencer, John Pelephrey, Richie Farmer, Travis Ford and Anthony Epps among the ranks.

The camp's emphasis is to allow Kentucky's top players play against each other and against the best players in America. Jordan's participation will include an evaluation in all aspects of the game by Camp Director Eddie Ford. The evaluation will be available to recruiting services and college coaching staffs nationwide.

Jordan attended his first basketball camp at age five and has attended 30 camps throughout Kentucky and Ohio. He has received numerous awards and recognition for his basketball skill. In addition, Jordan is also an outstanding student. He currently holds a 3.85 GPA, and was the Male Scholar-Athlete of The Year at Jenkins High School.

Jordan will be a sophomore at Jenkins High School this fall.

at first base, completing the force out at first.

In the fourth inning Sarah Hall started another bombardment of base hits to score and load up the bases. Rooster Moak drove in the first run, followed by Austin Woods in the line-up. Wesley Crager cleared the bases with a triple to score Robert Tyler and Ethan Conley before the end of the fourth.

The Cubs were held in the fifth with the help of a double-play at second by Tyler Robinson and Ethan Conley.

two against Floyd County teams as they handed Prestonsburg a 7-6 loss in Friday night's opener of the District 7, Area 2 Little League Tournament.

Morgan County jumped out to a 4-0 advantage, scoring one run in the second and adding three runs in the third innings. Prestonsburg didn't quit and started getting back into the game with a two-run fourth inning. Greg May opened the frame up with a walk and scored on Delmer Ousley's double to left field to get Prestonsburg to within 4-1.

Ousley came across on a double-play hit into by Jarrod McGuire to cut the Morgan lead in half.

The Prestonsburg All-Stars exploded for four runs in the fifth to take a 6-4 advantage. After one-out, Michael Morrison doubled. Jason Hughes reached on a bunt base hit to put runners on first and second.

Jesse Chaffins drove in Morrison with his infield single, which was followed by a two-run triple by May. Ousley capped the scoring with his single, scoring May to give the local stars a 6-4 lead.

Morgan County tied the game with two runs in the bottom of the fifth on only one hit. Morgan County was aided in the inning by three Prestonsburg errors.

Neither team scored in the sixth and that sent the game into extra innings tied at 6-6. May opened the seventh with a walk, but Cody Gillespie came on in relief of Ryan Phipps and got out of the jam for Morgan County.

Gillespie started the bottom of the frame with a walk, then moved to third base on two wild pitches. May struck the next two hitters, but then walked Cody Phipps. That brought up Jeremy Burton, who ended the game with a single knocking in Gillespie for the game winner.

"What can I say about our kids," said Prestonsburg Manager Rick Hughes.

"We got down 4-0, but never quit. I think we were a little nervous to start the game, but our kids were ready to play."

May, who came on in relief of Ousley in the fourth, was tagged with the loss. Prestonsburg out-hit Morgan County 9-7. Morrison finished 3-for-4, while Ousley had two hits.

Gillespie was the winning pitcher for Morgan County. "We have six 11-year-olds and six 12-year-olds, I really feel like we have a very good team," Hughes said.

"Our fans were really great. We got down, but they really helped us. You have to give them credit for staying with us tonight."

in the late game. Details of the contest were not available at presstime.

Prestonsburg started its scoring with two runs in the first inning, as Jesse Chaffins and Delmer Ousley had RBI singles to give their team a 2-0 advantage. Michael Morrison tripled in Larry Vance, who opened the second when he was hit-by-a-pitch, to up the Prestonsburg advantage to 3-0.

Martin County battled back by scoring two runs in the third to get within 3-2. Prestonsburg added what it thought would be insurance runs in the fourth inning. Chaffins crushed a ball for a two-run home run and Prestonsburg went into the fifth inning with a 5-2 lead.

Martin County sent eight hitters to the plate in the top of the fifth inning. A wild pitch by Morrison allowed the go ahead run to score, as Martin County plated four runs in the inning, helped by two Prestonsburg errors, and went ahead 6-5. Martin County pitcher Robert Howell struck out the side in fifth inning as the local stars headed into the sixth trailing.

Morrison, who only allowed four hits in the contest, allowed only a two-out walk in the sixth and struck out Howell to end the frame. He then led off the bottom of the sixth with an infield hit. Jason Hughes walked, but later was forced at second on a fielder's choice by May to set up runners at first and third.

May stole second early in the count to Chaffins. Chaffins grounded to shortstop, but the player threw the ball to second base. Morrison scored on the ground ball and as the throw went wild, and May raced across the plate for the game winner.

"Our kids, played hard, had fun and played together today," Prestonsburg manager Rick Hughes said. "We stayed focused even after we got down and never quit." Prestonsburg pounded out 10 hits in the game led by Chaffins, who finished 3-for-4 with four RBIs.

"I'm very proud of this group," Prestonsburg coach Don Compton said. "We had the lead then lost it, but then in the sixth they just would not quit. The gave us a great effort today."

BASSIN' WITH THE PROS

DON'T OVERLOOK CRANKBAITS FOR WARM WATER FISHING

If you ask Charlie Reed about the significance of August 16, 1986, he'll have an immediate answer. That's the day he won the Bass Masters Classic* world bass fishing championship.

Somewhat overlooked in Reed's victory is the manner in which he fished the final hours to win. He began with a plastic worm that hot, bright day on Tennessee's Lake Chickamauga, but later changed to a crankbait that caught larger fish.

"It definitely was the crankbait that won the Classic for me," says Reed, still an active competitor and a member of the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff. "I had caught a limit of seven small bass with the plastic worm, but when I changed to the crankbait I caught larger bass and was able to cull the smaller ones."

"As it is, I won by just 13 ounces, the weight I gained by using the crankbait." Reed uses his Classic win as an example to show the effectiveness of the long-lipped diving plugs, even in hot summer weather.

"Not all summer bass are deep and lethargic," he emphasizes. "Sometimes they're less than 10 feet deep and prefer something moving a little faster. A crankbait that chugs along the bottom or bangs off rocks and stumps imitates a crawfish or an injured minnow and the bass attack immediately."

"Besides, with a crankbait you can cover the water so much faster. I think they're among the best fishing lures we have available."

The Johnson pro says the first criteria for choosing any crankbait should be water depth. The lures are designed to dive and run at certain depths, and fishermen should strive to match the lure with the proper depth.

"Most of the pros like to have their crankbaits hitting the bottom or at least touching cover on the bottom," says Reed. "This causes the lure to act slightly erratic and that frequently causes reaction strikes because the bass themselves are around that cover."

"In fact, one of the more popular crankbait techniques now being used in professional tournaments is fishing the deep diving crankbaits in shallow water. Not only do you get the same erratic action, you can also fish them slower, and it's very effective."

For the most part, the lip or bill of a crankbait determines how deep it will dive. The longer the bill, the deeper it dives.

"Achieving the proper depth is really important in the summer because that's when bass often suspend," explains Reed. "The fish won't move up to hit a lure running above them, nor will they turn and dive down to hit a lure moving below them."

"Normally, the depths a crankbait will run are printed on the package, but you can change this by using different line sizes. Lighter lines allow a lure to dive deeper while heavier lines keep it shallow. I usually use 10 or 12 pound test line for my crankbaits."

When he won the Classic, Reed was fishing a small cut in a grass bed about 10 feet deep. The worm he was using crawled along the bottom but the crankbait did not go quite as deep.

LARGEMOUTH, SMALLMOUTH, SPOTTED BASS OFTEN LIVE TOGETHER BUT ACT DIFFERENTLY

On many lakes throughout the country, anglers are catching more than largemouths. They're often finding both smallmouth and spotted bass swimming in the same water and biting the same lures.

"It surprises many fishermen that the three fish tend to act quite differently, even though they're related and utilize the same habitat," notes former fisheries biologist Ken Cook, now a full-time bass tournament competitor and a member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff. "After you've caught several of each, you can usually tell which fish you have just by the way it hits a lure and fights."

"Largemouths do not really fight very long," he adds, "while smallmouths fight very hard and usually come jumping out of the water. Spotted bass do a lot of hit-and-run strikes, and you often miss more than you catch."

Neither smallmouths nor spotted bass grow as big as the largemouth. For both species, the world record is presently less than 12 pounds and any fish weighing more than five pounds is considered a nice trophy. The world record for largemouth bass, on the other hand, is 22 pounds, four ounces.

Cook recently competed in a national bass tournament on Missouri's Table Rock Lake where he found all three species spawning, often side by side.

"I've never seen anything quite like what I experienced at Table Rock," says the Evinrude pro. "Not only could you pull into a cove or pocket and see literally hundreds of spawning beds, you could start fishing and catch a largemouth, smallmouth, and spotted bass on three consecutive casts."

"On many lakes, smallmouth bass tend to spawn deeper than largemouths, but I didn't see that at Table Rock. All the fish were using water two to about 10 feet deep."

Cook isn't certain whether the three species interbreed, or, if they do, whether the eggs ever hatch, even though he has caught fish that appeared to have both smallmouth and spotted bass characteristics.

On some lakes where protective slot limits have been imposed, spotted bass may actually be creating over-population problem. Because spotted bass do not grow as big as largemouths, they are more protected under the slot length limits, which, in turn, keeps them from ever being harvested.

"On certain lakes in Oklahoma and other states, special, shorter length limits and higher creel limits for spotted bass have been established to encourage fishermen to keep spotted bass rather than continually returning them," says Cook.

"They're actually taking up habitat space and eating food that keeps largemouths and smallmouths from growing larger."

Golf scramble to benefit AAU girls' basketball

The Floyd County Girls' AAU basketball team will sponsor a four-man golf scramble at the Beaver Valley Golf Course in Allen on Sunday, July 12.

Entry fee into the scramble is $40 per golfer. First place team receives $500. Other prizes will be given at each hole.

SPORTS IN KENTUCKY

by Bob Watkins

Will Kentucky-Kansas lead to series?; Order or chaos, it's all in the spin

Natural: UK-Kansas. What a difference a name change makes. With Rick Pitino gone, UK will renew old acquaintances, a series restart with North Carolina next year and last week the announcement UK and Kansas will play in December and hopes it too will lead to a restart.

Reaction in Lawrence, Kansas to an announcement that the nation's all-time winningest basketball programs, first and third, UK and Kansas will play in the Great Eight in December?

"Two of the great basketball programs in history should play every year. I've always said that," KU athletics director Bob Frederick told Gary Bedore of the Journal-World. "I'm glad we had this opportunity. It's great for college basketball. Any time we can play Kentucky or Indiana or UCLA ... teams of those caliber, (it's) great for the college game."

Frederick lobbied for continuation of the UK-KU series in 1990, but Rick Pitino said no.

"Rick was adamant about not playing, so we didn't talk about it," Frederick said of KU officials and UK athletics director C.M. Newton.

"Rick said, 'We don't recruit in Kansas,' or something like that. I probably should have called (Newton) after Rick left for the Celtics."

Kansas-Kentucky. "I think it's again reflective of coach (Roy) Williams is always willing to play the very best," Frederick added. "As I recall, last year nobody else wanted to play Arizona. Coach Williams said we would. My suspicion is nobody wanted to play Kentucky and we said we would."

ORDER OR CHAOS ... ALL IN THE SPIN

The Wayne Turner flap ... the Turner-Myron Anthony confession ... Jamaal Magloire caught in Louisville with drug-toting friends ... lately, a football player caught shoplifting. New fodder opportunity for national media herd-types to pontificate about lack of institutional control at the University of Kentucky.

CAMO AND COLOR

To humans, the color of camouflage clothing is a dominant characteristic. That's because we humans, like wild turkeys, have color vision. However, most mammals, including deer, have very little if any color vision. Even so, deer hunters and particularly bow hunters benefit greatly from good camouflage.

Bowhunting is a close range sport. With any wild game at close quarters, remaining unseen is a must. Camo helps the bowhunter by its muted tones, contrast and the illusion of a 3-D effect built into the pattern. All this helps break up the hunter's outline. Believe me, a hard-hunted deer knows exactly what a human profile is and what it means.

In addition to camouflage clothing, bowhunters should wear camo gloves and a face mask. The face mask should be rather close fitting to avoid its tangling or interfering with the bow string.

Camouflage doesn't make you invisible. You still must remain still, but it is a great help in concealing your presence from sharp-eyed game.

honeymooning as UK's first black men's basketball coach, extended by winning an NCAA championship.

Typical of velvet glove treatment (anyone remember the Eddie Sutton crucifixion?) — this item last week from The Sporting News' satirical voice, The Fly: "...UK wild'Cats're doin' their best UNLV/Fresno State. Slidin' scale-o-justice includes suspensions, takin' away players' wheels, curfews and makin' certain hangouts off-limits, proof that Tubby ain't Tark."

Perception is reality. It's all in how the spin is done and who's doing it.

BITS 'N PEOPLE

Vince who? University of Louisville's newest hire, Vince Taylor to its men's basketball staff, is a puzzler. Having hop-scotched from assistant jobs at Universities of Pittsburgh and Wyoming, the affable Lexington native arrives at UofL short on experience and track record, a pearly smile and optimism. Where was Denny Crum? We will see if Taylor can recruit. Meanwhile, his pleasant manner and grin is a welcome change from dour Scooter McCray who was kicked upstairs.

Date college football fans may want to pencil in is Thursday, Oct. 8. The Georgetown College Tigers host the UK jayvee team.

Tanner Turley, senior-to-be at Shelby County High, was the 3-point shooting champion at the NBA Players' Association Camp last month. The 6-0 playmaker is son of Rockets' coach Curtis Turley.

IDEAS DEPT.

Forgive me a smile today. Bill Curry, the most honest and principled human being I've encountered in 28 years in sports, is the new chief operating officer for the National Consortium for Academics and Sports in Atlanta.

A think tank? No, the NCAS's mission is to facilitate former college student-athletes who competed in revenue producing sports, the opportunity to return to school tuition free. As repayment, applicants agree to participate in community service. A first-rate idea and the right man in the driver's seat. The NCAA should embrace it with pomp and fireworks.

BEST SPORTS MOVIES

Spinning off Newsweek magazine's 100 all-time best movies cover story last month, USA Today has offered up ballots asking fans to vote for their all-time top 10 sports movies. There is a surprisingly long list.

One man's ballot:

1. The Natural (baseball). The musical score has become a classic. Robert Redford's as mythical Roy Hobbs has too.

1 (tie). Field of Dreams (baseball). Storyline tugs at the heart of every boy who ever played baseball and/or dreamed of sharing a game of catch with his dad. Kevin Costner and James Earl Jones were magnificent.

3. The Quiet Man (boxing). John Wayne at his best. An American boxer retired to Ireland marries Maureen O'Hara. My wife's favorite movie all-time.

4. Hoosiers (basketball). Starring Gene Hackman, a story that stirs the heart of rural basketball fans. Could have been filmed just as easily in Kentucky. Cuba ... Carr Creek ... Inez ... Brewers. Choose one or all.

5. Jerry Maguire (football). Produced the quintessential (and cynical) motto for sports in 1990s USA. 'Show me the money.'

6. Rocky (boxing). Extended the mythical idea that any athlete can reach the top.

7. League of Their Own (women's baseball). Really happened. Despite male-managed movie industry, a wonderful story made it to the big screen.

8. Pride of The Yankees (baseball). Hokey. But just as John Goodman portrayed a sloven Babe Ruth, Gary Cooper showed us the dignity, humility and warmth of Lou Gehrig.

9. Brian's Song (football). Bears runningback Brian Piccolo befriended a rookie named Gayle Sayers. James Caan's portrayal of Piccolo's brave fight with cancer was his best.

10. The Hustler (billiards). Paul

Newman was, well, Paul Newman.

You can find a generous listing of best sports movie nominees and ballots in an edition of USA Today.

BEST SPORTS CITIES

Detroit, followed by Boston, Dallas and Chicago. The Sporting News offered its rankings for best sports cities in America last week. Kentucky's entries? Lexington was 40th and Louisville 113th. Then came Murray (151), Bowling Green (188), Richmond (195), Georgetown (237) and Morehead (253).

Criteria? Who could tell. Successful professional franchises, sports personalities, college teams, eateries, and downtown scenery and sculpture.

Before Lexington's Chamber of Commerce begins crowing over its pedestal however, Knoxville (21), Cincinnati (22) and Nashville (39) are cities in the region ahead of Heart-o-Bluegrass.

Louisville? Among sports cities rated ahead of River City — Hattiesburg and Starkville, Miss., Muncie, Ind. and Kent, Ohio. Stop laughing.

Not to worry, a completed UofL football stadium will change all that next year. That is if Hizzoner Jerry Abramson can get a statue of Mohammed Ali put up downtown.

Fooled who? Everyone. Indiana Mr. Basketball voters, college recruiters (including Joe B. Hall at Kentucky), and Isiah Thomas. All except Thomas said Bird was not big, strong or quick enough to play Div. I college basketball.

Isiah said the lone reason Bird was a popular NBA player was because of his skin color.

THE ROBERT TRENT JONES GOLF TRAIL

ACADEMY OF GOLF

Graduate with Honors

The new Robert Trent Jones Golf Trail Academy of Golf is a CompuSport Teaching Center, offering golf instruction that is unique to Alabama and found few other places in the world.

The CompuSport teaching system is a one-of-a-kind teaching tool pioneered by Olympic Medalist and biomechanics expert Dr. Ralph Mann. CompuSport provides what every golfer wants — instant feedback and immediate improvement.

Dr. Mann filmed over 100 of the world's greatest golfers and developed a model golf swing. The composite model is adjusted to your body type and then used in a variety of ways. From set-up to back-swing to impact to follow through, you'll learn where your hands, hips, head and shoulders and club need to be on every shot.

CompuSport instruction also covers pitching, chipping, sand play and putting.

The system uses two high speed video cameras (one directly behind you and one to your side) to capture every movement in your golf swing. The CompuSport Model is superimposed on top of you for an immediate comparison of your swing versus the ideal swing for your body type.

The entire lesson is recorded on a take-home video tape with live instructor comments. As each lesson progresses, you will see yourself "before" and "after" on split screens. You will see improvement right before your eyes and, most importantly, understand why the improvement is made.

The teaching system has been used to help golfers of all skill levels, from beginners to PGA Tour Players. The list of golfers who have used CompuSport includes such greats as Jack Nicklaus, Greg Norman, Tom Kite, Payne Stewart, Davis Love III and Val Skinner and many more. Let us add your name to the list.

You will improve your game at the Academy of Golf at the Robert Trent Jones Golf Trail. Call us toll-free at 888-446-5203 for more information.

NASCAR CONNECTION

It seems that at the half-way point of the Winston Cup season, we are starting to see NASCAR's own version of dominos stacked up in neat little rows and when one is knocked over, it starts a chain reaction that can go on for quite some time. The same can be true in Winston Cup, when a driver with some ability is let go from his present ride and begins searching for another ride.

Now here is where the dominos start to begin to fall. Rookie Kevin Lepage, driver of Joe Falk's L.J. Racing Chevrolet, made public last week that he had signed a 30-day contract with Roush Racing which can be taken as nothing more than a letter-of-intent to drive for Roush in 1999. Upon hearing of Lepage's signing with Roush, Falk removed Lepage from his car for the remainder of the season.

It seems that the logical move would be for Lepage to immediately take over Musgrave's ride and finish out the year. Roush Racing's president, Geoff Smith, said "that Musgrave would be given time to make the best move for himself and that he would continue to drive for Roush this year until he was ready to move on."

Roush, who fields five different teams in Winston Cup, also has another promising up-and-coming driver signed for future employment in Matt Kenseth. Kenseth is presently leading the Busch Series points battle, and looks every bit like he has the skills to be successful in Winston Cup. Could it be that Musgrave's ride has been reserved for Kenseth?

It seems that Roush is trying to get some type of monopoly within the Winston Cup ranks as it has been previously announced that an agreement between Wood Brothers and Roush Racing would result in the fielding of a second team for the Wood Brothers in 1999. When asked about who would be a possible candidate to pilot their second team, Leonard Wood replied, "anybody that Jack wants."

So, it appears that Roush does indeed have enough rides to go around for his newly-acquired talent. Other than the fact that Prime Star is more established means that you shouldn't look for anything less than a top-notch ride to develop with a Wood Brothers second car.

I don't want to leave Musgrave out there without the benefit of a ride for either the rest of this year or the 1999 season. He has to be one of the more attractive free agents on the market right now to either replace someone for the rest of the season, or with which to start the next season. Since word of his release was made public, Ted has been the center of many changes about to take place before the end of this season.

Three scenarios that have really gotten the attention of Winston Cup followers has Musgrave going to Bahari Racing to become the driver of a second team that they are in the process of trying to start up. One of the most interesting moves for Musgrave has him replacing Mike Skinner as the driver of Richard Childress' Lowes' Chevrolet. Childress has already tried to shake up his teams with the switching of his crew chiefs, so this may just become another one of those moves to try and jump start a team that is stuck in the middle of the pack. The last option that has been reported for Musgrave is him simply taking over Lepage's old ride. That move just doesn't seem like much of a career move for him.

You should be able to see by now that the "domino effect" is starting. Look for several changes among drivers during the hot summer months ahead. When you really look at the standings, there are just a handful of drivers that would have what you would call job security in this business.

DALE EARNHARDT JR DOMINATES BUSCH DIEHARD 250

Dale Earnhardt, Jr. won his third career NASCAR Busch Series race as he led 209 laps of the 250-lap Diehard 250 at Milwaukee July 5.

Earnhardt, who started the event from the number-two spot, finished by 5.483 seconds ahead of Elton Sawyer. At one point in the race, his No. 3 Goodwrench Monte Carlo was over 15 seconds ahead of the second-place car.

Finishing Order: 1. Earnhardt, 2. Sawyer, 3. Jeff Purvis, 4. David Green, 5. Matt Kenseth, 6. Mike McLaughlin, 7. Buckshot Jones, 8. Tim Fedewa, 9. Joe Bessey, 10. Randy LaJoie, 11. Phil Parsons, 12. Tony Stewart, 13. Hermie Sadler, 14. Dave Blaney, 15. Bobby Dotter, 16. Mike Dillon, 17. Lance Hooper, 18. Kevin Lapage, 19. Elliot Sadler, 20. Tracy Leslie, 21. Bobby Hillin, 22. Glenn Allen, 23. MIKE BLISS GETS TRUCK WIN

Mike Bliss, who started on the outside pole, won the DieHard 200 July 4 at Milwaukee by 2.161 seconds over Jimmy Hensley.

"I feel so good right now," Bliss said. "It's been so bad for us this season. The team has always been there. Robert Yates gave us great motors. The ASE team just needed a break and we got it today. I feel so good for my guys, my wife and me. My wife has taken a lot of bull from me. You know how wives are. They take all of the bad stuff.

"We always ran good here, but we haven't finished good in the past. We run real good on flat tracks, but for some reason we've run in to bad luck at a lot of places. You bring on your own bad luck, like running out of fuel. But, that's dumb stupidity, not luck, so you just have to learn from the past and go on from there."

Jack Sprague, the current NASCAR Craftsman Truck Series points leader was penalized a lap when he passed the pace car during lap 46.

"The Hendrick Chevrolet was pretty good today, just a little loose," he said. "But I cost us the race. It was my own stupidity, my own fault, I messed up and got slapped down. This one's going to bother me for some time because I messed up."

Finishing Order: 1. Bliss, 2. Hensley, 3. Sprague, 4. Ron Hornaday, 5. Greg Biffle, 6. Rick Carelli, 7. Joe Ruttman, 8. Mike Wallace, 9. Ron Barfield, 10. Butch Miller, 11. Kevin Harvick, 12. DAYTONA INTERNATIONAL SPEEDWAY NOW SERVES EVACUEES

Daytona International Speedway was alive with activity over the Fourth of July weekend. Unfortunately for race fans, it was not the Pepsi 400, which had been scheduled for Saturday night.

The Florida National Guard set up their command post at the speedway to serve the residents of surrounding areas that are fleeing from Florida wild fires.

In addition to over 250 National Guardsmen, fire equipment and water tankers from Talladega and Darlington raceways were brought in to help fight the blazes which have swept across East Central Florida for the past two weeks.

According to Speedway officials, the Pepsi 400 has been rescheduled for the night of October 17. All tickets will be honored on the new date.

NASCAR only had two open dates that they could reschedule the event; July 25, or October 17.

"Two weeks from now might not be any better," said DIS track spokesperson John Story. "If we don't get rain, things would be even worse. We obviously don't want to go through the same situation again."

My grandfather was cool

My grandfather, "Liss" (real name Ulysses Simpson Grant) Baldridge, who for as long as I can remember lived at the foot of Hammond Hill at White House until his death in the early 1960s, wore bibbed overalls, a long-sleeved blue, cotton shirt and long underwear...year 'round.

"This way, I stay warm in the winter and cool in the summer," he told me once.

Personally, I never understood the "cool in the summer" business, especially since he was wiping sweat with a big blue bandanna as he said it.

My grandmother would stand over a hot coal stove in hundred degree weather and can green beans, she too, dressed in enough clothing, at least by today's standards, to outfit half the female population of the county. More often than not, she also wore a colorful bibbed apron and a bonnet.

One has to wonder what they'd have thought of all the grumbling we've done over the past couple of weeks due to the hot weather. I doubt they ever saw an air-conditioner and would likely have wondered how such hardy, pioneer stock such as themselves could have produced such a generation of weaklings.

Truth be known, although neither would have ever expressed it verbally, they'd probably have thought us all a bunch of spoiled sissies. In many ways, I suppose, they would've been right.

Along those same lines, well sort of, after church the other day Marie Witten passed along a clipping which discussed many other differences between then and now.

For example, it talked about those days when kids had swimming holes instead of swimming pools. Ours, of course, was the Number One Pond, so named because it was formed by slate being dumped by workers at Northeast Coal Company's Number One Mine. Some coal camps, like Wheelwright and David, had their own swimming pools. And, in the early 1950s the city of Paintsville put in a public pool. But I knew of no one who had a private one.

Another thing discussed was the amount of walking folks did back then. We were reminded that in those days we walked, not because it was fashionable, but because that's the way people got around. We walked to church, the grocery store, to the movies, and yes, even to the swimming hole.

The article also mentioned those days when every house in the neighborhood had a clothesline in the backyard. I personally remember those very well, and one of the hardest spankings I ever got (it wasn't against the law to discipline your own children back then) resulted when little brother Joe and I got in a mud-slinging contest and ruined Mom's sheets.

And finally, something of which I was not aware (but I bet my two older sisters knew about) was the way some ladies replaced the absence of nylons during WW II.

It seems that some company sold a kit which contained paint that made the women look like they were actually wearing hose, even right down to a special pencil they used to draw the seams on the backs of their legs.

All the above, just another reminder that with every passing day, the gap between then and now widens.

DAVID SCHOOL HONORS STUDENTS AND STAFF AT GRADUATION

Spring graduation ceremonies at The David School attracted a more than capacity crowd of friends and family to Stammer Hall in the new school building on May 28.

The Rev. Tim Jessen, former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Prestonsburg, returned to challenge the graduates as the graduation speaker. Now ministering in Boyd County, he is a member of the school's board of directors. Rev. Jessen urged the students to set their goals high and to strive to reach them despite obstacles.

The annual Frank S. Clark Memorial Award was presented to Craig Bower and Deborah Schmedemann, a husband-wife team from St. Paul, who have been volunteers in Floyd County since last August.

Bower has taught social studies and coached soccer at the school and Schmedemann has worked with Appalachian Research and Defense Fund (Appalred) in Prestonsburg. They were on a one-year sabbatical from their regular jobs in Minnesota.

The award recognized service and honors the late Frank Clark, a former David volunteer and Floyd County Times reporter.

Mr. Vivian Whitehead, adult education teacher, was presented with the Sr. Anita Hayden Teaching Award. The award goes to a teacher chosen by his/her peers and is in memory of the late Sr. Anita Hayden, who taught at the high school for several years.

During the graduation program, high school student Dustin Robinson, of David, received the David Pride Award, the school's highest student honor. It rec-

Attend Christening

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brackett were in Mansfield, Ohio, June 20, to attend the christening of granddaughter, Claire Violet Brackett Thrasher, by Father Herbert Webber at St. Peter's Catholic Church. Claire, born February 6, is a daughter of John and Laura Brackett Thrasher, and has a brother, Eli. The Godparents were Brad and Ann Thrasher Boyd, Henderson, and Margaret Thrasher, Indianapolis, Indiana. Also attending, were paternal grandparents Cecil and Mary Ann Thrasher, and granddaughters, Abigail and Caroline Boyd, all of Henderson.

Visits grandparents

Michael Anthony Joseph of Bel Air, Maryland, was here recently visiting his grandparents, Burl and Ruby Joseph of Martin, his grandmother, Crecie Joseph of Prestonsburg, and other family members and friends.

KFWC Drift Woman's Club

The KFWC Drift Woman's Club met May 19, with Ruby Akers, president, welcoming Dr. Mary Pauline Fox of the Pikeville Woman's Club, and Mrs. Brenda Rohrer, the past governor of the district.

Alice Skeens, vice president, gave the devotion.

A buffet dinner was enjoyed by members and guests, Dr. Fox, Brenda Rohrer, Marie C. Mullins, Maxine Martin, Vera Allen, Marcella C. Bradley, Ruby Akers, Donna Allen, Roney Clark, Judy Hale, Celia Little, Mildred Salisbury and Alice Skeens.

Brenda Rohrer installed the KFWC Drift Woman's Club officers for the 1998-2000 term, using crowns and red roses.

President Alice Skeens received a purple crown; vice president Donna Allen, silver crown; second vice president Ruby Akers, gold crown; recording secretary Celia Little, red crown; and treasurer Roney Clark, green crown. Each one received a red rose along with her duties.

President Ruby Akers presented Dr. Fox, who said she has spent 30 years in various public health positions in Eastern Kentucky. She is a photographer and very active in her community. She is in much demand as a speaker for groups and civic organizations.

Dr. Fox spoke on, "Clubwork—Helping to Build a Strong Healthy Club with Heart and Hands." She referred to Luke 14: The Bride and Groom sent for all to come and people used excuses not to come. The heart needs exercise, as well as the mind. Hand need to be busy to help arthritis and not let hands be crippled. Many hands make clubwork easier. The club needs good leaders to involve every one in clubwork.

Enthusiasm is needed to motivate and encourage others to help in all programs. No one is burned out if we all work together. Exercise the mind and it will delay Alzheimer's disease. This was the most informative and enlightening program, as well as entertaining.

Door prizes and gifts were presented to guests and members.

Harman Station DAR unveils plaques

by Frances Preston Brackett
A dedication program honoring

The Harman Station Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution past regents and Revolutionary soldiers was held at the Johnson County Public Library, Paintsville, June 13, 11 a.m.

Regent, Barbara Castle Pugh, presided. The invocation was given by the Reverend Bill Underwood.

Helen V. Craft, flag chairwoman, led the assembled group in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the USA, and Chapter Secretary, Bonnie F. Picklesimer, led the Daughters in the American Creed. Chaplain, Victoria J. Pack, sang "America the Beautiful."

Susan M. Johnson, American history chairperson, reported that the beautiful bronze plaque listing the 32 chapter regents and years of office served dating from the present to organizing regent; Mable Auxier Rice, October 25, 1925, would be hung in the library; that a bench had been donated to the library; and that a $500 chair engraved with Harman Station name had been placed in the Continental Hall, Washington, D.C.

Paintsville Attorney John David Preston, Big Sandy Chapter chancellor, Sons of the American Revolution, reviewed the work and history that the DARS had accomplished over the past 73 years, noting that "these women led their town and community to better itself spiritually, intellectually, and economically, leaving a legacy to future generations who must also strive for self-discipline, common sense, faith, and patriotic strength; that any American who had the priceless privilege of being reared in a small and caring town such as these past regents represented—the simple honesty, the neighborliness, and the integrity—this was the legacy of these regents."

Regent Pugh recognized each past regent living or deceased and a lineal family member of that regent. Children of the American Revolution members, Macy Mullins, Paintsville, and Angela Frances Brackett, Ulysses, placed a white carnation for deceased regents and a red carnation for living regents. Starting with 1925, regents were: Mable Auxier Rice, Stella May Atkinson, Geneva Wells Splane, Grace VanHoosier Clay, Fannie Auxier Archer, Edna May Spears B. Meade, Grace Hicks Wells, Carrie Vaughan Clay, May F. Stafford, Willa Mae Preston Wheeler, Gertrude Patrick Hoskins, Ora M. Preston, Alphareta Butcher Archer, Vance Collier Wheeler, Elizabeth Wells Wheeler, Viola Miller Williams, Ridda Stapleton Finlayson, Theo Long Wells, Martha Ann Archer Rapier, Martha Hayman Wells, Sara Wells Redd, Lenore Hall Gullett McClellan, Margaret Wells Hernandez, Edna Wells Morris, Bonnie Auxier Hager, Elizabeth Smith, Ruth Ann Dixon Blevins, Finetta Hamilton Mullins, Barbara Ann Castle Pugh, and Dora Denise Auxier Spencer. Both Lenore McClellan and Alphareta Archer had served two terms as regent.

Historian, Mable F. LeMaster, dedicated the bronze plaque as Vice-Regent, Jewel F. Sole, unveiled the plaque, assisted by the regent. Registrar, Billie Marie Preston Mason, accepted the plaque and responsibility for Harman Station.

Past KSDAR State Registrar, Frances Preston Brackett, John Graham Chapter Secretary and current Duncan Tavern Sixth District Director, dedicated a bronze tablet honoring Revolution soldiers. In a brief review, she noted that the monument located in the Paintsville Courthouse Square was dedicated Saturday, October 17, with the regent being Mrs. E. E. Archer the years of 1932-1933, and the guest speaker was attorney John H. Hager of Ashland.

The monument, made of native stone, was designed and erected by G. W. Stafford and Garland Rice. The inscription read: "This monument is dedicated to the memory of the following Revolutionary soldiers: Simon Auxier, Samuel Auxier I, Thomas C. Brown, John Beck, Henry Conley, Abiud Fairchild, John Hager, Moses Preston I, Benjamin Salyer, John VanHoose, and Richard Wells."

The second Revolutionary bronze plaque dedicated today, will be hung on the east side of the original stone monument and reads: "Basil Castle, Samuel Clark, Joseph Davis Jr., William Ferguson, John Flannery, Thomas Francis, Benjamin Hamilton, Prestley Larkin, Samuel Murray, Thomas Price, Nathan Preston, George Walker, Jesse Wheeler, and Phillip Williams. Placed 13 June 1998."

A patriotic song medley led by Mrs. Pack and benediction by Reverend Underwood ended the dedication.

Harman Station Chapter members hosted a reception in the library reception room attended by KSDAR State Organizing Secretary, Finetta H. Mullins, Paintsville; Sixth District Director, Carolyn Davis and past Sixth District Press Chairman, Nell V. Terry, both of Louisa; Eleanor S. Horn, John Graham Chapter regent, Prestonsburg; Frances P. Brackett and Angela Frances Brackett, Ulysses; Reverend Bill Underwood, the Honorable John David Preston, Regent Barbara Pugh, and past regents, Viola Williams, Martha Wells, Finetta Mullins, Deniece A. Spencer, and Helen Craft; Bonnie Picklesimer, Vicki Pack, Susan M. Johnson, Mabel F. LeMaster, Jewell Sole, Billie Marie Mason, Macy Mullins, Irene Kazee, Charles and Carlos Wells, Barbara Auxier, Edra H. Hill, Magdalene Mullins, Kitty Belle Sheets, Vivian Branham, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bailey, James Hamilton and daughter, Jessica, Shirley Rae Morrell and granddaughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Jenkins, Martha Mary Smith, Hubert Pack, Carol Thomas, A. Archer, and Tommy Jean Hazelrigg, all of Paintsville and Johnson County.

BUSINESS/REAL ESTATE

Star Banc Corporation receives regulatory approval for Trans Financial acquisition

Star Banc Corporation (NYSE: STB) has received approval from the Federal Reserve Board and the office of the Comptroller of the Currency for its $696 million acquisition of Trans Financial Inc. (NASDAQ:TRFI), including its two bank subsidiaries Trans Financial Bank, N.A., in Bowling Green and Trans Financial Bank Tennessee, N.A., in Nashville, Tennessee.

On April 10, Star Banc Corporation and Trans Financial Inc. announced the signing of a definitive merger agreement. This acquisition is expected to be completed in the third quarter of 1998 following approval by Trans Financial shareholders. Trans Financial, a Bowling Green, Kentucky-based financial services holding company, has $2.2 billion in total assets and 56 branch locations in Kentucky and Tennessee. Upon completion of this acquisition, Star Banc Corporation, based in Cincinnati, Ohio, will be a $17 billion multi-state bank holding company, operating more than 425 full-service banking locations in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and Tennessee.

Upon completion, the Trans Financial merger will give Star the second largest number of branch offices in Kentucky and make Star the third largest bank in terms of deposits in the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Just as important, Star will attain a strong presence in high growth Tennessee markets.

Star Banc, a leader in high quality customer service and relationship banking was the first bank in the U.S. to offer a fully integrated 24-hour Banking System in 1995. Star's 24-hour Banking System include branch banking, voice-activated phone banking, PC banking, super ATMs, screen-phone banking, video kiosk banking and Internet banking.

Star Bank Internet Banking is now available to customers through a state-of-the-art on-line real time system which enables customers to access their total banking relationship, at no charge, through their personal computer. In 1996, Star Bank was the first to offer its "Five Star Service Guarantee" which assures customers of certain key banking benefits or the customer will be paid for that inconvenience. Star Bank's Internet address is <http://www.starbank.com>. Star Banc was founded in 1863.

KOUNTY KETTLE

ZUCCHINI AND RICE CASSEROLE

1 c. fat-free ricotta cheese
2/3 c. grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 c. fat-free mayonnaise
1 whole egg, plus 1 egg white
1/2 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. freshly ground black pepper

3 c. cooked long-grain white rice
3 c. shredded zucchini, 2 medium squash

1/2 c. chopped scallions, about 4, green and white parts

2 Tbs. dry bread crumbs

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees F.

F. Spray a 2-quart casserole with cooking spray.

In large bowl, combine the ricotta, one-half cup of the Parmesan cheese, the mayonnaise, whole egg and egg white, salt and pepper.

Add the rice, zucchini, and scallops and stir into the cheese until evenly blended. Spread the mixture into the prepared casserole.

Sprinkle the bread crumbs over the rice mixture, followed by the remaining Parmesan.

Bake the casserole, uncovered, 30 minutes, until it is hot and lightly browned on top.

Each of the six servings contains 299 calories and 9 grams of fat.

TOMATO TABBOULEH

1/2 c. fine bulgur
1 c. boiling water
1 bunch Italian parsley, chopped, about 1-1/2 c.

1 bunch mint, chopped, about 2/3 c.

1/3 c. finely chopped red onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1 pint cherry tomatoes, quartered, or halved

Juice of 1 lemon
1 Tbs. extra virgin olive oil
1/2 tsp. salt
Freshly ground black pepper, to taste

In a large bowl, pour the boiling water over the bulgur. Let stand 30 minutes, until the bulgur has absorbed all the liquid and is softened.

Add the parsley, mint, and onion and garlic to the bulgur and mix with a fork.

Place the tomatoes in a colander and work them with your fingers for a minute to drain off some of the liquid and eliminate some of the seeds. Add the drained tomatoes to the bowl.

Pour the lemon juice, olive oil, salt and pepper over the tabbouleh and mix it well with a fork. Cover the tabbouleh and refrigerate for 2 hours, or up to 24 hours, before serving.

MUSSELS DON CAMILLO

8 slices Italian or French peasant bread

1 garlic clove, halved
2 lbs. mussels

1 c. diced Spanish onion
1 c. water
Juice of 1 lemon

1 Tbs. extra virgin olive oil
2 Tbs. chopped oregano leaves
1/4 c. chopped parsley

Toast or grill the bread. Rub each slice with garlic clove. Discard the garlic. Set the bread aside on a plate. Rinse the mussels well in cold water and drain thoroughly. Pull off any beard from the mussels.

Sprinkle the onions over the bottom of a medium-size Dutch oven. Place the mussels in the pot over the onions. Add the cup water and cover the pot tightly.

Place the pot over high heat and bring to a boil. Continue cooking, reducing the heat just enough to keep the pot from sputtering, for 2 minutes more, until the shells of the mussels have opened. Uncover, and pour the lemon juice and olive oil over the mussels in the pot.

With a slotted spoon, transfer the mussels to 4 individual shallow bowls, discarding any of the mussels which did not open. Pour the broth from the pot, with the onions, over the mussels. Sprinkle the oregano and parsley over the mussels. Serve immediately, accompanied by the garlic rubbed bread for dipping into the prepared casserole.

Sprinkle the bread crumbs over the rice mixture, followed by the remaining Parmesan.

Bake the casserole, uncovered,

30 minutes, until it is hot and lightly browned on top.

Each of the six servings contains 299 calories and 9 grams of fat.

Add the cabbage, carrots, snow peas, mushrooms, water chestnuts, garlic and ginger to the wok and stir-fry for 1-2 minutes until the vegetables are crisp-tender.

In a small bowl, combine the soy sauce, broth and cornstarch; mix well to dissolve. Add the liquid to the vegetable mixture and stir-fry for about a minute, until slightly thickened. Serve over rice.

BANANA AND HONEY SANDWICH

2 slices of whole wheat or whole grain bread

1 Tbs. honey, whipped or plain
1 ripe banana

Spread both slices of bread with honey. Top the honey on one piece of bread with banana slices or mashed banana. Top the banana with the other slice of bread. Cut in half or quarters before serving.

Each sandwich contains 342 calories and 3 grams of fat.

COLD MELON SOUP

1 ripe cantaloupe or honeydew

1/4 tsp. ground cinnamon

2-1/2 c. orange juice

2 Tbs. lime juice

1 Tbs. honey

1 tsp. chopped fresh mint

In a food processor or blender, combine the cantaloupe, cinnamon, orange juice, lime juice, and honey. Puree until smooth.

Pour the soup into a bowl. Stir in the mint, cover and refrigerate for at least 1 hour.

CHINESE VEGETABLE STIR-FRY

1 Tbs. canola oil

1-1/2 c. Chinese broccoli florets or regular broccoli florets

1 c. shredded Bok Choy or Napa cabbage

3/4 c. julienned carrots

1-1/2 c. snow peas, ends trimmed

6 fresh Shiitake mushrooms, sliced

1/2 c. drained water chestnuts

1 clove garlic, minced

1/2 tsp. minced fresh ginger

3 Tbs. reduced-sodium soy sauce

3 Tbs. defatted chicken broth

1 tsp. cornstarch

2 c. hot cooked rice

Heat a wok over medium heat and add the oil. Increase the heat to medium-high. Add the broccoli and a tablespoon of water. Stir-fry for about a minute, until the broccoli is bright green.

Add the cabbage, carrots, snow peas, mushrooms, water chestnuts, garlic and ginger to the wok and stir-fry for 1-2 minutes until the vegetables are crisp-tender.

In a small bowl, combine the soy sauce, broth and cornstarch; mix well to dissolve. Add the liquid to the vegetable mixture and stir-fry for about a minute, until slightly thickened. Serve over rice.
