All Floyd County fifth graders gathered at the Dewey Dam spillway at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park Wednesday to celebrate the completion of another successful year of the DARE (Drug Awareness Resistance Education) program. The event was sponsored by the Floyd County Sheriff's Department. Boyd gets five years probation

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

Judge John David Caudill imposed sentence on former County Court Clerk Carla Robinson Boyd yesterday in Circuit Court. Boyd was sentenced to a three-year prison term, which was replaced with a five-year probation.

She was also required to make full restitution of $26,821.85. Judge Caudill told Boyd she had one year to pay the money back.

"If you have to sell your house or other property, it's your own fault," he said.

As part of the five-year probation, Boyd is required to do five hours of public service per week and that public work must be meaningful, according to Caudill.

"Just walking around the courthouse won't be acceptable," Caudill told Boyd.

Caudill, saying he was not spiteful, said he felt rehabilitation, rather than a prison term, was the better route to go.

Caudill added: "You are a thief. You have violated the public trust. You should be ashamed."

Caudill went on to tell Boyd that she violated the trust of every person who voted for her in past

Remembering...

Memorial Day is Monday — in case anyone's forgotten. Since it is a national holiday, most public offices are closed, including local, county, state and federal. Banking will be limited to ATM transactions, and even the folks at the Floyd County Times will take the day off. Those who have school-age children, however, might have to scale back outing plans; Floyd County schools will be in session on Memorial Day.

Concertizing

Pop recording artist Taylor Dayne performs tonight at the Mountain Arts Center at 7:30 p.m. Among her hits have been "Tell it to my heart" and "Can't get enough of your love." In a recent interview, the Long Island singer said her throaty sound has been heavily influenced by rhythm and blues music. Call the MAC at 886-2623 for ticket information.

I-66 plans movin' along

Gov. Paul Patton was at Kimper in Pike County Wednesday to announce that $4.5 million in federal funds will go toward preliminary planning on a stretch of the proposed Interstate 66, projected to go through southern Kentucky. The highway would run from Front Royal, Virginia, to San Luis Obispo, California. In Kentucky, it would follow a route just south of Pikeville, Hindman and Hazard, on to Somerset and Bowling Green. US Congressman Hal Rogers, who joined Patton in making the announcement, said the road would be "vital to the area's economic development and future vitality."

Spicer bids adieu

Patricia Spicer, agricultural agent for the Floyd County Extension Office, will be honored June 1, with a reception from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the local extension office. Spicer will leave the Floyd County office after June 1 to become the agricultural agent for Pike County.

The reception is open to the public.

Mismanagement, misappropriation alleged

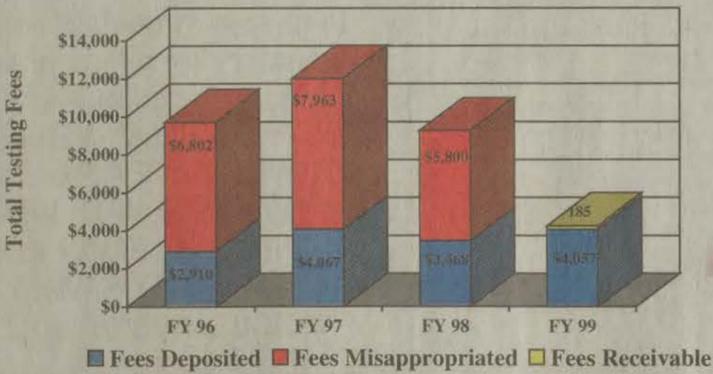

Audit says 'ineffective controls'

by Pam Shingler
Editor

Very few come out unscathed in an administrative audit of Prestonsburg Community College, released yesterday by the state auditor.

Misappropriation of testing fees, inadequate accounting practices, use of employees to do private work, and inconsistencies in paying for employee overtime are among problems cited in the report by Edward Hatchett, Kentucky's Auditor of Public Accounts.

Comparison of Testing Fees Deposited to Testing Fees Misappropriated

■ Fees Deposited ■ Fees Misappropriated ■ Fees Receivable

In fact, Hatchett said in an interview yesterday afternoon that he has furnished a copy of the report to the state's Attorney General in case that office wants to investigate further to seek criminal prosecution.

"The findings are a tangible result of ineffective controls," Hatchett said in the interview, after the report had been put out over the Internet.

Thousands 'collected but not deposited'

A total of $20,565 in testing fees was collected but not deposited from July 1995 through January 1999 at Prestonsburg

Community College, according to an audit report released yesterday.

During the time period of the audit, examiners compared records of persons taking ACT, CPP and GED tests with the amount of money turned in to the college's business office. Based on the comparisons, testing fees should have amounted to $35,252, but only $14,502 was actually turned in.

The difference is considered by the auditors to have been "misappropriated."

The audit report states that Brenda Music, who was the college's acting dean of students during much of that time and the testing administrator, said she was told by PCC president — the late Dr. Henry Campbell — in 1989 that she could keep the cash collected from testing to compensate her for the extra time and work involved.

She also said, according to the report, that she sometimes used the cash to pay persons who helped with the testing and to buy lunch for the testing staff.

Music, who was placed on administrative leave earlier this year, also reportedly told the audiitors that she collected from testing to compensate her for the extra time and work involved.

Prestonsburg policeman gave false information, woman says

by Pam Shingler
Editor

A local woman is accusing a member of the Prestonsburg Police Department of falsely saying that her daughter had been murdered so that he could get information from the mother about the girl's husband, a suspected drug dealer.

Kathy Spradlin of Harold has filed a complaint in Floyd Circuit Court against Officer Anthony

"Harpo" Castle and the City of Prestonsburg, his employer.

Spradlin claims that Castle told her last summer that her daughter, Erica Roberts Murray, was dead and that her son-in-law, Heath Murray, was implicated in the death. Spradlin said Castle talked with her about the daughter's death during conversations in July and August of 1998 and in January of this year.

Spradlin had reported her daughter missing in April of last year and apparently believed Castle when he allegedly told her the daughter was dead.

The complaint alleges that Castle was trying to get information from Spradlin about suspected drug activity by Heath Murray. Spradlin said, in the suit, that Castle told her that her daughter's body "was dumped in an abandoned mine in Martin County."

6-year-old left on bus; mother goes to court

by Pam Shingler
Editor

Last year, six-year-old Jamison Chaffins stretched out on a school bus seat and fell asleep, missing the stop where he was supposed to get off and continuing to sleep during the ride back to the bus garage.

When his parents found out the child had not gotten off the bus at his grandmother's house, they panicked, according to Rhonda Chaffins, the boy's mother. She said she called the sheriff's department and the school, and, as a last resort, her husband called the bus garage where the boy was found on the bus.

A year later, Rhonda Chaffins has filed a complaint against the Floyd County Board of Education, which also cites bus driver Jeff Campbell, former transportation director David Layne and former superintendent Michael King.

Chaffins claims the boy, who is still a student at Clark, is now afraid of riding the bus to and from school. The incident occurred around April 27, 1998, more than a year ago.

"You don't know what it's like to think you've lost your child and not have a clue to where he is,"

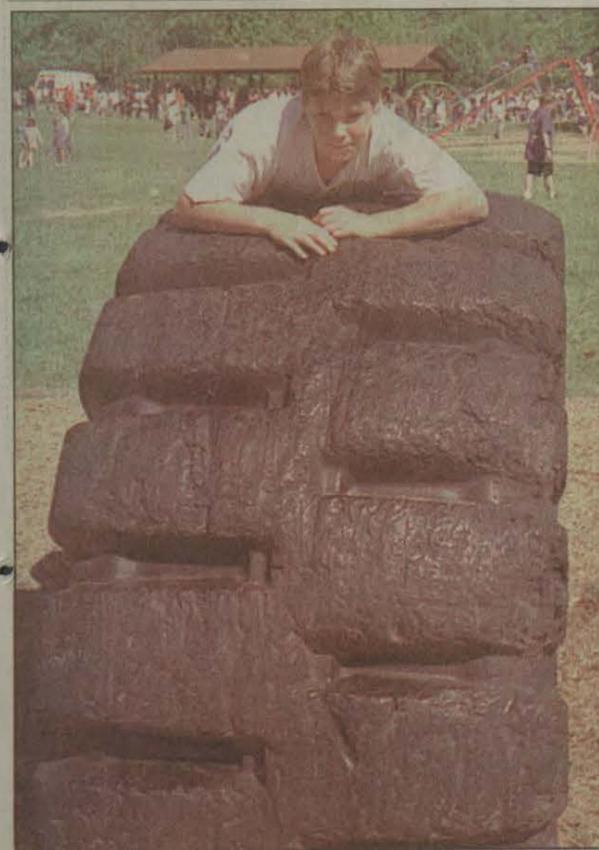

Chaffins, who lives on Caney Fork Road, said yesterday.

The mother said her son still has trouble talking about the incident. "He's shy and not real outgoing," she said, adding that he had been seriously ill before it happened and continued to be weak, which contributed to his falling asleep on the bus.

She said his regular bus driver was aware that the boy tended to sleep on the bus, but on this particular day a different person was driving the vehicle.

Chaffins said that she wanted elections. Boyd told the judge, "I'm so sorry that this happened." Hydee Hawkins, special prosecutor from the Attorney General's office, told Caudill that Boyd took money earmarked for the fiscal court, schools, library, health, soil conservation and fire departments and used it for her own personal use. At her pretrial hearing, Boyd said she used the money for personal things and mentioned tuition for one of her children. Hawkins contends that Boyd used the money for such items as a diamond ring, car payments, gas, and water bills. Hawkins said she even used the money to finance her re-election campaign. Hawkins said Boyd made "a conscious choice to defraud the people." Hawkins said this is not a case of a minor lapse of judgment but rather a sophisticated, well-thought out plan. Hawkins said if Caudill only gave Boyd a probated sentence and ordered her to make restitution, it would be sending the wrong message to the citizens of Floyd County. Boyd's attorney Phil Damron said that Boyd had used some of the money from the nearly $27,000 she had taken to pay back the clerk's office. Caudill told Damron and Boyd it didn't matter that she was paying it back. "When you took the money, you took more than $26,000 and that is what you are to pay back," the judge said. At one point Caudill and Hawkins discussed the wording of the law that applied to Boyd's situation. Caudill said he felt the law clearly called for rehabilitation rather than incarceration. The judge said that by going with the probated sentence, he will have a "toe hold" on Boyd to see that she complies with all the terms of the sentence. "Maybe in five years you can earn back the trust of the people," Caudill told Boyd. Caudill also told Boyd that she should have some indication of what will happen to her if she breaks any terms of the probation agreement and that probation will restrict her travel and even call for a curfew if necessary. Although Hawkins argued for jail time, she said the commonwealth was satisfied that Boyd was out of office and added, "Maybe Floyd County can move on now."

She also alleges that Castle said he had a capital murder arrest warrant for the son-in-law. However, earlier this month, the daughter contacted the mother and assured her that she is alive, according to Spradlin's attorney Ned Pillersdorf. He said the contact was by telephone, but he would not say where the daughter is. He termed the reason the daughter had not been in contact with her mother "a personal matter" between the two. The complaint calls Castle's alleged action "A manipulative, deceptive and outrageous tactic designed to cause (Spradlin) to provide information about ... Murray's alleged activities." The sequence of events caused Spradlin "severe emotional harm and suffering," the complaint contends. Spradlin is seeking judgment against Castle and the city "for their outrageous conduct, including compensatory and punitive damages." The complaint accuses Castle of purposely lying to the mother, including saying he was working with the Federal Bureau of Investigation on the girl's disappearance. The complaint also says that Kentucky State Police Trooper Mickey Watson subsequently filed an administrative complaint with his superiors "concerning Castle's inappropriate interference" with Watson's investigation of the missing person filing by Spradlin. Pillersdorf said yesterday that he is "confident that the state police will corroborate everything in my client's complaint." A call to the state police post at Pikeville was referred to KSP headquarters in Frankfort, where a public affairs officer said he would try to find out about Watson's alleged complaint, but at presstime, he had not reported back. Castle could not be reached for comment yesterday, and Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin and City Attorney Paul Burchett both said they could not respond at this time to the allegations. A suit presents accusations on one side of a dispute.

her son to get back on the bus the next day. "I didn't want him to have a fear (of buses)," she said. But, the boy's sister told the mother that other kids teased him. She said that now she drives the children to school most days. "If I could trust the bus system, I would send them on the bus every day," she said. Chaffins said when she thinks about the incident, "I still get chill bumps and I cry. I don't ever want to go through that again."

The mother is accusing the school board and the employees involved of negligence. Floyd County Interim Superintendent Woodrow Carter said yesterday he was not very familiar with the suit. He added that bus drivers are required to go through safety training and that they are supposed to check the bus after each run. A suit is an accusation and represents only one side of a dispute. It does not indicate guilt or innocence.

Editorial

Regular readers of our editorial column know we occasionally have some philosophical differences with Mitch McConnell, the senior U.S. senator from Kentucky. Sometimes, though, his thinking and ours find a harmonic convergence. It's happened twice in recent days.

First, the Republican senator was a leader in stopping the Senate's rush to judgment on an ill-conceived "flag amendment" that would have allowed laws banning the desecration of Old Glory.

This perennial proposal is backed by Americans who confuse our flag with the freedoms it stands for — one of which is the freedom to express our political views, even if that expression takes the form of burning the flag in protest of government policy.

McConnell helped slow the momentum for passage of the amendment by offering a compromise statutory measure that outlaws desecration of a stolen flag or flag desecration that's intended to incite a riot.

It's arguable whether McConnell's proposal will stand up to the constitutional scrutiny it is certain to receive if approved. For the moment, though, it is preferable in our eyes to the much greater loss of liberty that would come from rewriting the Bill of Rights.

Then, on Tuesday (May 18), McConnell wisely cast his vote with the Senate majority to require child safety devices on handguns. (Too bad Kentucky's other GOP senator, Jim Bunning, didn't demonstrate equal wisdom.)

Some gun lovers and National Rifle Association types may object to the bill that passed the Senate. But we can't see how these safety devices — which are designed to reduce the likelihood of kids accidentally killing themselves or others — infringe on anyone's right to keep and bear arms.

Way to go, Senator McConnell. — The Lexington Herald-Leader

Letters to the Editor

REMEMBER DISABLED VETERANS

Editor: Tiny flags on millions of American graves will stir gently in the breeze this Memorial Day as our nation gives thanks to the ultimate sacrifices of its citizen soldiers. They fought and died to keep our nation free. Millions of disabled American veterans, who also greatly sacrificed, will be at cemeteries across America to ensure their fallen brothers and sisters are remembered with honor.

But it is deeply saddening and disturbing that these men and women, disabled by war, are not remembered. They are part of lost generations who fought in wars, were severely wounded, but go largely unnoticed except when they turn out to salute their fallen comrades on Memorial Day.

To correct that oversight, legislation is pending in the U.S. Congress to create a national memorial in Washington, D.C., to honor disabled veterans who served and sacrificed for their country.

I am very proud to be a part of the effort to create a special memorial to honor the nearly 2.3 million disabled veterans living today. This memorial, to be funded by private contributions, will be the first national monument dedicated to disabled veterans who are still living.

To accomplish this goal, the Disabled Veterans' LIFE Memorial Foundation was created as a non-profit corporation. It is led by Chairman Lois B. Pope, a philanthropist, and President Arthur H. Wilson, chief executive officer of the million member organization, the Disabled American Veterans. Jesse Brown, former Secretary of the Department of Veterans Affairs, serves as executive director.

The foundation looks with great anticipation to cooperation from the Parks Service and Congressional approval of legislation to achieve our goal to honor America's disabled veterans.

This memorial will be symbolic of the soul and spirit of America, and it will proudly recognize the hardships and sacrifices demanded from, and faithfully accepted by, the millions of men and women who bear the scars of war. It will inspire future generations of Americans to recognize the power and virtue of sacrifice, and to remember those who have defended our land in war and peace.

Above all, the memorial will stand as an important symbol of the cost of freedom, a timeless reminder that the sacrifices of disabled veterans are appreciated, and that America salutes its defenders.

Throughout our history, disabled veterans have paid the price for American freedom and have borne the deepest wounds and scars of war. They are truly our unsung heroes. Therefore, America has a solemn obligation to assure that these men and women who have served and sacrificed for this country and the cause of freedom will never be forgotten.

The price of freedom continues to be paid long after the guns fall silent—lost limbs, disability, blindness, paralysis, and other unique, extensive, and debilitating injuries. There are also the costs of lives lost and lives shortened, and lives that are forever changed.

Disabled veterans' lives were traumatized by their military experiences. Many will never know the wonder of a morning run because they have no legs or legs that are paralyzed and useless. Others can never hold their children or grandchildren in their arms because they have no arms. Many will never enjoy the beauty of a sunset or a spring day, because they live in eternal darkness. Burned deep within their memories are the horrors and brutality of war. They pay the price of freedom for a lifetime.

The price of freedom has a long history. Today, there are two widows and 15 children of Civil War veterans who receive compensation for the veterans' service-connected deaths. There are 13 American veterans still living today who were disabled in the Mexican Border War against Pancho Villa. There are 779 disabled veterans who suffered from the gas attacks and barrages of World War I.

Nearly 798,000 veterans who were disabled during World War II continue their service to America today as part of what Tom Brokaw has called "America's greatest generation." Nearly 273,000 Americans disabled during the Korean War are preparing to memorialize the 50th anniversary of that conflict.

Contributing to making our nation great are 815,000 disabled veterans who served during the Vietnam Era. And 231,000 veterans disabled during the Persian Gulf War will be part of the American landscape far into the 21st century.

The nearly 2.3 million disabled veterans in America today continue to make significant contributions to our nation's spirit and vitality. And sadly, that number will continue to grow, because the world is still a dangerous place.

On this Memorial Day, we will give thanks to about 1,000 veterans who die each day. Most of them are World War II veterans, and many of them have died or will die from the complications of wounds suffered during combat. They go with the thanks of a grateful nation.

Let us as a people also give thanks to disabled veterans who continue to serve, to contribute, and to do all they can to make this nation secure and prosperous. They, too, should be honored by the nation they served so faithfully.

Arthur H. Wilson, President Disabled Veterans LIFE Memorial Fdn.

The author is a disabled veteran of the Vietnam war, Chief Executive Officer, and National Adjutant of the Disabled American Veterans.

Decorating graves

I have to admit that I'm so old I remember when they called it Decoration Day more often than Memorial Day.

Way back then, we remembered, but we also "decorated" the graves of our loved ones, even those who had passed on long before we had the opportunity actually to love them.

Throughout my childhood, well into my teens, when it became hard to make me do anything I didn't want to, the extended family made an annual pilgrimage to my grandfather's grave.

It was not in a perpetual care "garden" where we tuck away our losses now. Nor was it in a family plot at an old homeplace. Poppy, as we always heard him called, had apparently requested to be buried in this particular spot, high on a hill facing, according to tradition, east.

The earth has changed considerably since the 1930s when he began his rest here, and also considerably since my memories from the 1950s and '60s. Today, what remains of Poppy's mortal body lies overlooking the new KY 3 at John's Creek, just below Dewey Dam.

I can't even remember what was there before the new four-lane road. I do remember that only the old farmhouse stood on the knoll near the foot of the hill then. Today, several other residences have grown up around it.

There was no bridge across John's Creek at that point then. If the weather had been particularly dry, we could walk across, hopping from rock to rock or getting our feet a little bit wet. If the water was higher, we used a row boat that stayed there in the creek, tied to a tree.

My uncles would row the family members across in shifts, four or so at a time. Also to be carried across were baskets of picnic foods — fried chicken, potato salad, green beans with the grease floating on top, light bread, cakes, pop, more than enough to feed everybody twice.

Pulled out of the trunks of the cars that brought us were flower stands and large wreaths, handmade with waxed, crepe paper lilies and tissue paper roses. Mamma would usually bring a small rose bush or geranium or some other live flower, started from her own vast stock.

At least one of the uncles would have brought a rake and something to cut trees and twigs and briars.

We had to walk up the hill then, something that was much harder for the grownups than for us children, something we understand all too well now. Someone with a bulldozer has carved a road all the way to the top now to a house site.

We stopped briefly back then at a flattened, fenced-in spot about a quarter of the way up the hill. The paternal grandfather of one set of my cousins was buried there with a few other family members. A few of the flower arrangements were left for him.

When we got to Poppy's grave, it was time to rest and to look around at what nature had wrought in the year of our absence. Grass and weeds were not very thick because of the tree cover that limited the sun's administrative leave earlier this year, also reportedly told the auditors that she did not give receipts to persons who paid cash to take the test until a policy change in 1998.

The report provides an example for a test date in June of 1997, when 36 persons took an exam. Two persons paid by check, three with credit vouchers, and the remaining in cash. Only $40 was deposited at the business office. Auditors found no receipts to account for the balance of $620.

The report lists the following findings regarding testing fees:

- "The testing administrator lacked adequate supervision." Cited as Music's supervisors at some time during the period in question are President Dr. Deborah Floyd, former Dean of Student Affairs and former Dean of Business Affairs John Herald, and current Dean of Student Affairs Sandra Kaikumba.

- "The college had no detailed written policy for testing procedures." Management, the report says, has the responsibility to "establish sufficient internal control and to maintain compliance..."

- "Budgetary interaction was not well coordinated between financial aid, continuing education and the business office." No one area had responsibility for monitoring the testing budget, the report indicates.

- "The college promoted its acceptance of cash as the preferred mode of payment." The report contends that advertisements for testing "encouraged cash payments." It also states that PCC's fees for testing were "arbitrarily" high. Students were charged $20 at PCC for taking one exam, for instance, while other community colleges administered the test for between $12 and $15.

The report also notes an instance when money from the testing account was used to buy pool cues and table tennis paddles for the student center recreation room.

John Herald, who was reassigned to the KCTCS from his position as Dean of Business Affairs earlier this year, reportedly told auditors he was not aware that cash fees were not turned in to the business office.

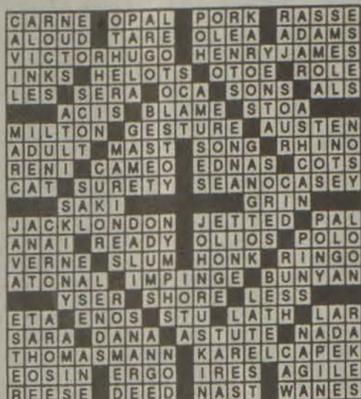

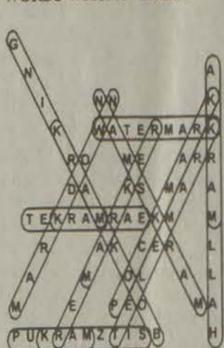

The audit report, however, says that since Herald approved daily cash transmittal sheets, he had the "opportunity to recognize that virtually no cash from testing was being deposited and that very few receipts were written and remitted to the business office."

In regard to the allegations of mismangement and misappropriation of testing fees, the audit report recommends daily reconciliation of all fees with rosters of persons taking the tests by a person independent of collecting the fees.

It also recommends a sign-off by each person who handles the money, as well as their supervisor, and adequate monitoring of anyone who collects or transmits cash, along with guidelines delineating each person's responsibilities.

Audit

"Auditors often see this because of inattention to detail that comes from discord," Hatchett said, adding that the campus was characterized by "continuing discord and contentiousness."

In the report, the auditor said his office was called in by the Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS) earlier this year to review allegations of misappropriation of funds and personnel irregularities.

"Our examination identified more than $20,000 in fees misappropriated from the college's testing program due to failure to deposit cash receipts collected from individuals," Hatchett said. "We also identified noncompliance with University of Kentucky policies concerning staff overtime and instances of inappropriate use of college personnel."

The review covered the period July 1, 1995, through March 31, 1999, and included examination of records and interviews with college staff.

In addition to questioning oversight by managers at the college, the report also gets in a dig at the University of Kentucky, which controlled the community colleges prior to the establishment last year of KCTCS. It points out that a management review of the college by the university for the years 1995-97 examined financial practices and "reported no weaknesses."

PCC President Dr. Deborah Floyd said yesterday afternoon that she had not seen a copy of the report, although Hatchett said that those people involved in the investigation had "seen substantially everything" in the report before the final document was published.

The report is divided into six segments with the following general recommendations:

- Internal controls should be implemented to safeguard testing fees from future misappropriation.

- Employees should not be used for the personal benefit of management.

- PCC facsimile equipment should be programmed to identify the origin of the transmissions as required by federal regulations.

- PCC should strengthen and adhere to existing overtime policy.

- Detailed criteria should be developed to improve the administration of emergency student loans.

- KCTCS should address conflict at PCC to restore a productive work environment.

power during the growing season, but berry bushes, vines and small seedlings somehow always managed to make inroads.

The men set about to clear the area around the grave, which was marked only by a plain stone. The women spread blankets and quilts on the ground and began to lay out the food. We children did our job, which was to run and play and explore amid cries of "Don't you get snakebit."

Sometime during our period on the hill, the flowers would be arranged and re-arranged on Poppy's grave.

Someone would mention how much they missed him, even after all these years. Mammaw would begin to cry, and so would my Mom, Aunt Erie, Aunt Ruby, Uncle Dan, and any of the others who may have made it in that year. Most of us grandchildren would cry, too, although none of us had known him, but rather because the people we loved had known and loved him.

I can still see those brilliant colors standing on easels behind the grave and draped over it, every color in the rainbow and then some. My aunts, always competitive, would fish for compliments over whose flowers were the most beautiful, and each would fiddle with the arrangements until the total effect was, to their mind, perfect.

When you think about it, this custom of "decorating" a grave has a pagan element. The ashes in that grave cannot appreciate the effort. High on a hill, cut off from the passing crowd, the effort remains largely unseen.

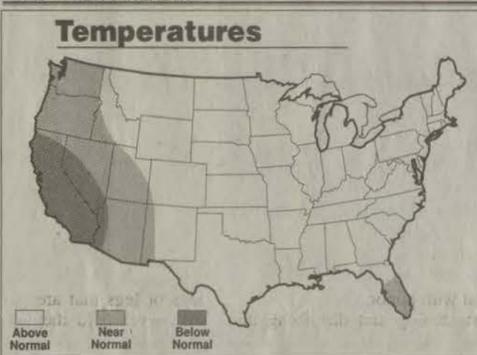

But Decoration Day did serve an important purpose. It held a family together a little longer, and it kept a memory alive for another generation.

Rehabilitation counselors offer services to the disabled

Independence and employment are two things that adults expect for themselves. But sometimes a disability throws a roadblock in their way and they need someone to help them find an alternate route to their goals. That someone is often a rehabilitation counselor.

Rehabilitation counselors are the key individuals who deliver services to people with disabilities so that they can become independent and employed. The Cabinet for Workforce Development has two agencies that employ rehabilitation counselors—the Department for the Blind and the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation.

In both departments, the rehabilitation counselor determines whether or not someone qualifies for the programs. Once that has been determined, the counselor works with the consumer to set vocational goals and determine what training or education is needed to meet the goals.

They also work with employees to place consumers in jobs. Sometimes that means helping the employer to overcome attitudinal barriers, addressing the employers' needs and if necessary, helping them to adapt the workplace for the consumer.

To be effective, rehabilitation counselors have to know the short and long-term effect of disabilities. They also need to know what technology and services are available to help a consumer. Counselors must have a bachelor's degree in rehabilitation counseling or a related field to be employed with either departments. They also must have or be working toward a master's degree in rehabilitation counseling and certification.

"You are a coordinator, you are a motivator, you are a friend, a listening post; and anything else they need, you try to be that," said Mike Hall, a rehabilitation counselor for the Department for the Blind in Prestonsburg.

The Department for the Blind employs 17 rehabilitation counselors in 11 field offices, who work with people who are blind or visually impaired. Each counselor works in several counties to cover the whole state so they travel extensively to serve consumers. More than 1,600 Kentuckians utilized the services in fiscal year 1998. Each counselor has an average of 70 cases at any one time.

"It's a fine profession," said Hall, who has been in the rehabilitation counseling field for 20 years. "When you've been in rehabilitation counseling for a long time, it gets in your blood."

The Department of Vocational Rehabilitation has 150 rehabilitation counselors in 60 field offices across the state who work with every disability except for visual impairment. In fiscal year 98, the department served 38,676 consumers and 4,476 reached their goals of employment. Each counselor has an average of 295 cases.

Not all of the difficulties rehabilitation counselors encounter involve a disability. Sometimes it involves people's attitudes toward disabilities and people who have them.

USDA accepting applications for $160 million in DLT funds

Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman has announced that the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is accepting applications for the 1999 Distance Learning and Telemedicine (DLT) Loan and Grant Program.

USDA will be awarding more than $160 million in DLT loans and grants this year to help rural areas acquire telecommunications technology for improving educational and medical services.

"New telecommunications technology is helping to save lives and improve life in rural America," Glickman said. "With distance learning technology, a student in a small rural school can now be an active participant in college-prep classes taught hundreds of miles away. Likewise, with telemedicine technology, a patient in a small rural health clinic can now be examined by a medical specialist at a distant hospital."

USDA has made the DLT program more flexible than ever, giving rural communities three different ways to apply for financing. First, $100 million is available for loans. Second, $50 million for loans and $5 million for grants is available for a new loan and grant combination program. Third, $7.5 million is available for a competitive grant program.

The deadline for the grant program is July 9. Applications for the loan and combination loan/grant programs must be submitted by September 30.

"The DLT Program, an Administration initiative, is helping rural Americans get on the information superhighway," said Jill Long Thompson, under secretary for USDA Rural Development. "Since the DLT program began in 1993, it has provided $68 million for 252 distance learning and telemedicine projects in 43 states and two U.S. territories. The funding has helped more than 1,000 schools and learning centers provide increased educational opportunities to rural students and residents. It has improved health care at more than 725 hospitals and rural health care clinics."

Applications for loans and loan and grant combinations may now be accepted through USDA Rural Development state offices or through the USDA Rural United Service national office in Washington, D.C., at 202/720-1255. Those seeking a 100 percent grant should call the national office. Applications, guides for applying for funds and other detailed information are available on the Rural Utilities Service website at www.usda.gov/rus/dlt/dlml.htm.

Anyone unable to obtain information through the website can call the chief of the Distance Learning and Telemedicine Branch at 202/720-0413, or write to USDA/RUS, DLT Branch, Mail Stop 1536, 1400 Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Today's column was written by Susan Chafin, instructor in Data Processing at Mayo Technical College.

Mayo Technical College had six students to participate in the Phi Beta Lambda State Leadership Conference that was held in Louisville on April 8-10 at the Executive Inn. There were 323 post-secondary students from all over Kentucky competing in 39 event categories. Mayo's student competitors were: Tommie Fox-Accounting I; Alyssia Echols-Accounting I; Lisa Salmons-Information Management; Connie Young-Business Communications; Marisa Barnes-Business Communications; and Michael Gregory-Computer Concepts. Lisa Salmons, a Medical Office student from Martin County, placed fourth in her category.

A NEW BEGINNING!

I am a full gospel minister with a desire to start a new church in the Prestonsburg area.

Our gathering, at first, would probably have to be a monthly "cottage prayer meeting" in someone's home.

This spirit-filled fellowship would be Independent, Trinitarian and mission minded. Hopefully it would eventually become a supporting church with a great outreach into the community.

If you see this ad as an answer to prayer, please call me at (423) 339-8773. My e-mail address is: ttsaf@aol.com.

I'm an evangelist with 30 years of experience. Our ministry has gone into 1,000 churches in 24 states.

The purpose is not to establish another "religion" but to preach the gospel. Romans 1:16, "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ..." I'm a graduate of Lee University and have no family ties in Floyd County.

I believe this to be a response to a prompting of the Holy Spirit. Thank you for your prayers.

May the Lord bless you,

CHAMBER NOTES

by Rebecca DeRossett
Floyd County Chamber of Commerce

The Chamber is here to serve you and your business. Let us know how we can best do this. Call the office at 606/886-0364 or click us up on the web at www.floydchamber.com.

See you, same place, same time, next week. Stay in touch!

Your Chamber of Commerce is involved in many activities right now that can have a positive impact on your business. For instance, recently the Chamber helped promote efforts to organize area human resource directors.

Originally the idea of Judy Lusk, Human Resources Director at Worldwide Equipment, this concept of a viable working network resulted in get-acquainted meeting on May 20 at the Mountain Arts Center in Prestonsburg. Those present heard Shelley Hadden, management consultant, SESCO, tell about trends in the human resources field. For those of you who missed the meeting, you can pull up SESCO's website at www.sescomgt.com.

Also, Cheryl Lewis, attorney, Stites and Harbison, Hyden, informed the group about various issues in employment law relatively unknown a few years ago, such as sexual harassment cases. She advocated that employers have a handbook clearly stating company policy on such matters, emphasizing the need for employee training as well. The Chamber may sponsor a seminar later with Lewis.

The Chamber is also participating in plans and activities of the Rural Community College Initiative, a fairly new group directed by Jean Dorton, under the auspices of Prestonsburg Community College. Focus is presently on developing a regional business resource center to provide general information on how to start a business, licenses required, tax and property regulations, etc.

Sometime in August the Chamber will present a Y2K seminar at the Mountain Arts Center. Plans are to provide information from representatives of utilities companies, banks, hospitals, Social Security, and other entities which may be affected by the Y2K problem. We will keep you informed as plans progress.

Bobcats: District Champs

Bobcats win 9th straight game

Kidd's, Swiger's 3-hits lead to 9-7 win over Blackcats

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coaches will tell you that it not as important how you start a season as it is in how you finish one. Local baseball fans gave Tim Rice and his Betsy Layne Bobcats little chance of a very successful season at the onset of the year, but the Bobcats proved those thinkers wrong by winning the boys' 58th District baseball tournament Wednesday evening at the Allen Park.

"Everyone wrote us off when we lost six or seven straight games," said Betsy Layne coach, Tim Rice, whose team went into the tournament as the number three seed. It just took us time to jell. When you lose seven starters from the year before, it takes time for everyone to get their roles down."

Freshman Dustin Elkins went four and two-thirds innings to get the win for the Bobcats. Anthony Tackett hurled the final two and third innings. Gabriel Shepherd suffered the setback for Prestonsburg in working three innings before giving way to Kalen Harris in the fourth inning.

While the bats in the top of the Bobcat batting order were silent most of the night, it was the bottom of the order that propelled the Bobcats.

Aaron Swiger collected three hits as did Josh Kidd, both in the lower part of the order. But Coach Rice said that is how it has been the last two weeks of the season.

"Being a lead-off man only matters at the start of the game," he said. "For the past few weeks we have gotten good production out of the bottom part of our batting order."

"Josh Kidd has been hitting the ball extremely well. He hustles all the time. He is an ideal player. Aaron always puts the ball in play somewhere. He will stand there and foul off two or three pitches until he gets something he can put in play."

Thornsberry leads in Late Model points

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Thunder Ridge Speedway will be the place of fast car racing this Memorial Day weekend with some of the top local talent on display as well as out-of-town drivers.

Track Promoter Brad Martin has dedicated the race date to the memory of two giants who had made a big contribution to stock car racing down through the years.

Morris Isaac and James "Killer" Meadows' memories will be honored on this special night of racing.

"Morris gave so much to stock car racing," said Martin, who drove No. 55 in the modified class, sponsored by Isaac's Reynolds Coal. "He sponsored me when I got into racing. But Morris did more than just help race car drivers, he helped anyone that needed it. That was the kind of person he was. He was a very good person."

Meadows worked as part of Martin's pit crew and worked in promoting stock car racing.

"We always called him "Killer," said Martin.

"He was always around the race track doing what he could. He was a big help to me and other drivers."

All classes will run this Saturday night at Thunder Ridge with gates opening at 4 p.m. in the pit area.

Shannon Thornsberry holds a slight lead over Paul Harris in the Late Model division with 387 points to Harris' 335. Richard Chaney is third with 259 points.

In the Modifieds, Tim Moore, driver of No. 69 leads second place driver, Gary Combs with 522 points. Combs has 417 points. Third is last year's champion, Kurt Hoffsess, with 377 points.

Jamie Slone leads the Super Bombers with 568 points. Second is Kevin Hall in car No. 43K. Hall has garnered 417 points. Michael Howard is third at 451.

Danny Lowe tops the Bombers class with 443 points followed by Tandy Spurlock and Kevin Tincher. Spurlock has 406 while Tincher has 379.

Brandon Johnson leads the road hogs with 398

Slone tosses no-hitter in 3-0 win over Central

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

She already has a signed scholarship in hand. She has proven to be one of the top pitchers in girls' softball in the 15th Region. Yet, Prestonsburg's Brandi Slone seems set on proving herself over and over when she goes to the mound for the Lady Blackcats. Slone was also named the Floyd County Conference's Most Valuable Player, based on conference play.

All she did Wednesday night in the championship game of the girls' 58th District softball tournament at Minnie Park was strike out 15 batters, toss a no-hitter and shut out the Allen Central Lady Rebels 3-0 to repeat as district champions.

Prestonsburg pounded out 12 hits against Allen Central starter Becky Bryant. While Bryant yielded a number of hits, she still kept the Lady Blackcats in check through four innings.

Angie Howell, Brooke Coleman, Kimi Nunnery, Megan Hyden and Margaret Morgan collected two hits apiece for Prestonsburg. Shelly Greathouse and Amelia Conley had one safety.

Allen Central put Terri Mullins at third base to start the

The two teams were tied after the initial inning scoring once in the frame. Betsy Layne took a 2-1 lead after the second inning on a bases-loaded walk to Jake Carroll and steadily built on the lead.

In the Betsy Layne third, the Bobcats plated three runs on RBI singles by Kidd, Bill Josh Kidd and Justin Bartley to lead 5-1.

Elkins retired Prestonsburg in order in the second and a double play ball bailed him out of the third without a run being scored.

In the Betsy Layne fourth, Bradley Brooks singled, stole second and went to third on a wild pitch before coming home on Swiger's double.

Coach Russell Shepherd went to the mound and got Shepherd bringing in Harris to face Adam Tackett. Tackett reached on an error and Josh Kidd scored Swiger with an RBI single. The hit was the result of a suicide bunt by Kidd. Tackett scored on Carroll's RBI single.

Harris was effective against the Bobcats in the fifth and sixth innings.

Prestonsburg rallied for four runs in the fifth after scoring once in the fourth. Elkins tired in the fifth and retired one batter, Carroll, on a grounder to third, before Tackett came on in relief. Adam Hall had a one-out single. Grant Castle knew the meaning of the old saying, "he was robbed" when Josh Kidd hauled in his long drive to centerfield.

Elkins walked John Ortega and Jon May singled home Hall. Seth

Crisp walked to load the bases before Kalen Harris delivered a two-run single to greet Anthony Tackett, who was in for Elkins. Crisp came on to make it an 8-6 game on Shepherd's RBI single. Betsy Layne got one run back in the seventh on a walk to Carroll, a stolen base and two wild pitches for a 9-6 game. Prestonsburg scored its final run in the seventh on a walk to Ortega and Harris' RBI single.

Coach Rice thinks his team is ready for regional tournament play. "We have been playing well the last three weeks," he said. "We've had good pitching and Justin came in and did a good job. We got us a lead and held it the whole way. I am real proud of the way the kids have played. I think we can make some noise in the region next week."

Little's big bat bats Reds past Martin Co.

Ousley collects three hits in 14-13 win

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Remember the name John Little when you think of good upcoming baseball players. Little had his bat in fine tune this past Wednesday night against the Martin County 13 year olds' team, collecting three hits and reaching a fourth time on a three-base error. The hits were not "tapper's" but solid line drives that even the Martin County coach can testify, were well hit. One of Little's scorers found the rib cage of the Martin Coach, leaving the marks of the ball.

Teammate Delmar Ousley picked up three hits for the Reds as they improved to 3-2 on the season. Kyle Wicker finished with two base hits in the game.

Ousley picked up the win in relief of Greg May, who worked the first five and third innings. Shane Dingus came on to face four batters but Ousley was the pitcher of record when the Reds scored the winning run in the bottom of the sixth inning.

The Reds sixth unfolded when Dingus and Kevin Smiley drew back-to-back walks, Chris Spears then ripped a base hit sending Dingus home with the winning run.

Martin County scored four times in the top of the sixth to tie the game at 1.

"Greg was getting tired," said Reds coach Rick Hughes. "I thought, 'I will lift him in favor of Shane.' But after that it was downhill for us." Ousley came on to get the final two outs in the top of the sixth.

Little singled home Ousley, who had a base hit in the first inning, that made it a 2-1 game. Martin County had scored twice in the top of the inning. Little scored on an error.

Martin County scored once in the top of the second for a 3-2 game and Prestonsburg went out in order in the bottom of the frame.

In the third, Prestonsburg exploded for 10 runs to assume a 12-2 lead. Ousley and Little had two hits in the inning as Prestonsburg sent 14 batters to the plate.

Martin County plated four runs in the fourth and two in the fifth before tying the game in the sixth.

Little scored for Prestonsburg in the fifth inning when he reached on a three-base error.

first but she was left stranded as Slone fanned the next three batters.

Prestonsburg took a 1-0 lead on a lead-off single by Howell, who scored on Coleman's RBI single.

Again, Allen Central had a runner in scoring position in the second, but, ditto, Slone fanned the next three to end the threat.

Hyden had a two-out double for the Lady Blackcats in the bottom of the second, but could not get home.

In the Allen Central fourth, the Lady Rebels loaded the bases against Slone with one out. Shannon Sizemore walked and Shanna Howell walked with one out before Slone hit Amber Scott with a pitch to load the bags. But Slone bowed her neck and got the next two batters to escape the inning.

Terri Mullins walked to start the Allen Central fifth, stole second and third but was left stranded.

In the Prestonsburg fifth, the Lady Blackcats made it a 2-0 game when Coleman reached on an error and scored on Damron's second hit of the game.

Prestonsburg added its final run in the sixth when Greathouse reached on a fielder's choice, stole second and came home on Nunnery's RBI single.

Slone got the Lady Rebels in order in the top of the seventh to put the game in the win column.

Both teams advance to next week's regional tournament at Johnson Central. Pairings for the tournament were to be announced today.

Betsy Layne rally falls short in 11-10 loss to Allen Central

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The seventh inning for the Betsy Layne Lady Cats softball team ended in disappointment and so did their season. Allen Central's Lady Rebels held off a seventh inning Betsy Layne rally that ended in an 11-10 Lady Rebel victory.

With the win, Allen Central advanced to the championship game of the girls' 58th District softball tournament at the Minnie Park.

Terri Mullins and Jennifer Risner collected two hits apiece for the Lady Rebels. Becky Bryant picked up the win but needed relief help from Shanna Howell in the seventh inning. Howell got credit for the save.

Kim Little took the loss for Betsy Layne. Denise Jones and Sheena Akers collected two hits for Betsy Layne. Akers should have had three safeties but Allen Central centerfielder Natalie Cooley fielded a ground ball in the outfield and threw Akers out at first base in a rare play.

When the game is on the line, you always want your best hitter at the plate with runners in scoring position. Mindy Robinette was just that person and she has had some big hits in her career at Betsy Layne but this time she was denied the hits.

The Betsy Layne seventh unfolded with the Lady Cats trailing 11-5. Betsy Layne rallied for five runs to narrow the margin to a single run, 11-10 and the bases loaded with Lady Cats and Robinette strolling to the plate. Allen Central coach Anthony Moore elected to lift Bryant in favor of Howell, in pitching to Robinette. Robinette worked the count to 3-2 before Howell got her on strikes to end the game and the season for Betsy Layne.

Some sloppy defense also contributed to the loss with the Lady Cats committing six errors. A costly one came in the Allen Central fifth when they scored two unearned runs. An overthrow at third base by Jones allowed Kristy Howard and Barb Prater to score.

Betsy Layne took a 1-0 lead on a lead-off walk to Heather Hamilton, who scored on Jones' RBI single. Allen Central went in front 2-1 on a one-out single by Risner and two Betsy Layne errors.

Bryant shut out Betsy Layne over the next three innings while Allen Central built a 5-1 lead. The Lady Rebels added two runs in the third on a lead-off triple by Mullins and two Betsy Layne errors. Allen Central's first four runs were all unearned.

The Lady Rebels added a fifth run in the fourth inning. Designated hitter, Angie Green, drew a two-out walk and scored on Risner's second hit of the game.

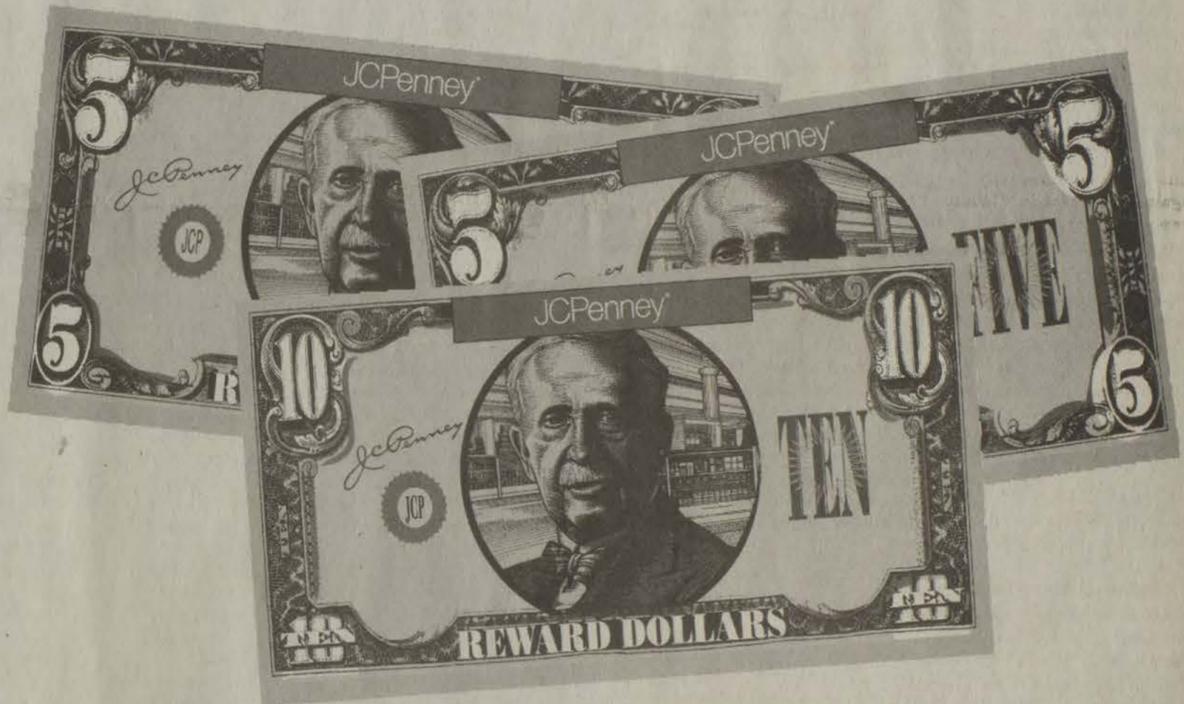

Betsy Layne pushed across four runs in their half of the fifth inning to make it a 5-5 game. Devon Reynolds tripled home three runs and scored on Robinette's RBI double.

But, in the Allen Central fifth, four runners denied home plate for a 9-5 Lady Rebel lead. Cooley started the rally with a single and Howell followed with a safety, moving Cooley to second. She then stole third and scored on a fielder's choice play. Prater singled home a run and Amber Scott had a base hit.

FROM LAST WEEK

WINSTON CUP SERIES

Terry Labonte won The Winston for a second time, 11 years after the first, which is kind of ironic, since Labonte also holds the record for years (12) between Winston Cup championships.

For one segment, the all-star race was a battle between Jeff Gordon and Dale Earnhardt at Lowe's Motor Speedway in Concord, N.C. Then Tony Stewart, who had started last and gotten in the field only by winning the Winston Open, came to the front. In the third segment, Stewart passed Gordon for the lead but could not hold off Labonte, who had changed four tires at the break.

Labonte won despite having been involved in the second multi-car crash of the first segment. Stewart, by the way, drove through that melee brilliantly.

BUSCH GRAND NATIONAL

Matt Kenseth held off Dale Earnhardt Jr., rain and darkness to capture first place at Nazareth, Pa.

The event was delayed twice for more than five hours by rain and shortened because of darkness to 168 of the 200 laps.

Kenseth's third victory ties him with Mark Martin for most in the series this year. Earnhardt, the runner-up, remains winless after winning seven times in 1998.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK SERIES

Jack Sprague ended his close-but-no-cigar streak with a victory in his Chevrolet truck at I-70 Speedway in Odessa, Mo.

Sprague, the 1997 series champion, made a big step toward another title with a come-from-behind victory over Dodge driver Dennis Setzer.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Randy LaJoie vs. Ken Schrader

Schrader, who makes occasional Busch Grand National appearances, arrived home to find a pile of sheet metal from LaJoie's Bob Evans Chevrolet in his front yard.

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his opinion:

"Apparently LaJoie's team had a big party, beverages were imbibed, one thing led to another and all of a sudden, a practical joke at Schrader's expense seemed like the thing to do. Both these guys are pretty good-natured, so I doubt the big payback will come on the track."

FROM THE ARCHIVES

■ When North Carolina Motor Speedway opened in the fall of 1965, it was the fifth NASCAR track of a mile or more. Curtis Turner earned the last of his 17 victories in the inaugural race, driving a Ford fielded by the Wood Brothers. He died in a private plane crash five years later.

Lowe's to raise wheel fences in wake of tragic crash

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

CONCORD, N.C. — Lowe's Motor Speedway announced a comprehensive safety plan it hopes will ensure fan safety in the wake of this month's Indy Racing League disaster that left three fans dead.

"We've been working on this since literally the day after the (May 1) accident," said speedway president H.A. "Humpty" Wheeler at a May 18 press conference.

"What we've come up with, I think, is fairly revolutionary."

Wheeler said the wheel fence, located atop the 4-foot-high concrete

PROFILE

Ward Burton

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

Ward Burton's climb back to the top has been frustrating.

When he joined Bill Davis Racing in 1995, success came almost immediately. He won at Rockingham late that year, but has not won since. It was two years later before his younger brother, Jeff, also won at the Winston Cup level, but Jeff has won seven times since Ward's only victory.

This year Burton has found a consistency that was lacking in his earlier Cup efforts. Another victory — and probably more than one — seems just around the corner.

HOW DO YOU HANDLE PERSONAL APPEARANCES, PARTICULARLY WITH YOUNGSTERS?

"If speaking with a group of kids at a school or a 4-H function or something like that, I wear my uniform, especially with kids about 15 or younger. Then they look at me a lot more as a role model and they will listen to me a lot more, because they are looking at me as a race car driver, not as just Ward Burton. That's when I'm at my best and most sensitive to their needs."

HOW HAS RAISING YOUR CHILDREN CHANGED YOU AS A PERSON?

"Being a dad, there is no way you explain that to somebody who isn't a parent. The love you have for those children is the most powerful love you'll have for anybody or anything. When child-rearing, you do realize how sensitive and receptive kids are to different things, good and bad, so you try to be careful. You try to keep an umbrella over them all the time so they don't have to experience things that are damaging to them. I was sensitive to children before I had any, but I sure have learned a lot about them since I've had my own."

DO YOU CONSIDER YOURSELF A ROLE MODEL?

"We're all human. Not many of us out here are saints. We've all done some things we're not proud of, me included in that. I guess the main thing is you have to be really careful of the decisions you make. None of us are perfect. I don't think you live your life looking at yourself as any more than a normal person. I don't look at myself as a role model. But when I'm in that environment, then I'm very conscious of it, particularly when I'm around kids. Then I'm definitely a role model. During my ordinary thing, I look at myself as ol' Ward ... and I'm no more than anybody else. When I'm in my uniform at the racetrack, that's when I realize I'm a role model. Or when I'm around one individual child or 100 individual children."

The wheel fence will be 2 feet higher than those at Indianapolis Motor Speedway, the world's most famous venue for open-wheel cars. Although the new fence was not in place in time for Saturday night's Winston all-star race, Wheeler said it will be in place in time for the Coca-Cola 600 this Sunday.

■ ANDREWS OUT: Michael Kranefuss has abruptly fired Paul apparently stems from Kranefuss' disappointment with early-season performance.

Jeremy Mayfield, the team's 30-year-old driver, is only 13th in the season point standings. After qualifying seventh or better for the season's first four races, Mayfield has had only one qualifying effort better than 27th since the March 21 race at Darlington.

Andrews, who won a championship in 1992 with the late Alan Kulwicki, latched on immediately with Dale Earnhardt Inc., where he will take over crew-chief duties for Steve Park. His replacement at Penske-Kranefuss is Peter Sospenzo,

"We are grateful for Paul's contributions and wish him the best in the future," noted Kranefuss in a statement.

■ SABCO CHANGE: Corrie Stott is out as crew chief for Sterling Marlin's Team Sabco Pontiac. Stott had been crew chief since April 1998. A release used the repetitive term "mutual for both parties" to describe the move.

Tony Glover, manager of Felix Sabates' two-car operation, will take over as crew chief for the time being. Glover and Marlin won a number of races while paired at Morgan-

Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week,
How are provisionals determined?

Linda Davenport
Brookland, Ark.

Provisionals are complex. Of more than 40 cars that try to qualify each week, 36 are placed in the race by their qualifying speeds. The remaining six spots in the race are called provisionals.

Provisional starting position 37-42 are awarded to qualify car owners.

Car owners are credited with four provisional starting positions. After eight qualifying attempts, one additional provisional is awarded up to a maximum of eight during a season.

Unused provisionals do not carry over from year to year. For the first four races, provisional starting positions are based upon the previous year owner points. Beginning with the fifth race, the provisionals are based upon the current year's owner points.

A past-champion provisional (position 43) is available to the most recent Winston Cup champion who was unable to make the field, provided the car owner has not exceeded the provisional maximum. A past champion must have participated as a driver during the previous year.

If more than one past champion is in need of a provisional, car-owner points are used to select the provisionals, and the past champion provisional will be used only if the most recent past champion would not qualify otherwise.

If this provisional is not required by a past champion, it will be made available to the next eligible car owner.

CREW OF THE WEEK

■ In the end, The Winston was about changing four tires, not two. Since Andy Graves made that decision for Terry Labonte, Labonte won The Winston, not Tony Stewart and not Jeff Gordon. Stewart wowed the Lowe's Motor Speedway crowd. Gordon squandered the all-star race for the second year in a row. Labonte and Graves got to come to the press box afterward.
