Prestonsburg Man Faces Murder Charge In Death of Louisa Chief of Police

RUSSELL HORN IS RELEASED UNDER BOND OF $10,000

Russell Horn, of this place, faces a charge of killing a man in the Lawrence county court as the result of the death in Louisville Monday afternoon of Chief of Police I. A. Vison, 24 years old, of Louisville, the official was attempting to plan his own escape.

The charge is that Horn, after a fight, or having been killed, was in the running board of Vison's car, was crushed to death as the wheels of the heavy car passed over his body.

Indictment of Horn on the charge of killing Vison was returned by the grand jury on Wednesday. Horn is a white, 28 years old, living at a hotel in the city of Louisville.

LOUISA DEFEATS P'BURG, 33 TO 6

Blackcats Play Jenkins Here Saturday Afternoon; Five Home Games Ahead

Playing a game, but being badly in the face of heavy odds, the Prestonsburg Blackcats, football representatives of Prestonsburg high school, lost to Louisa Saturday afternoon on the Louisa field, 33 to 6.

The first half was all Louisa. Four touchdowns in this period and two extra points made the score 24-0. Louisa's forward was rolling the Prestonsburg back, and the Louisa back were penetrating far into P'sburg territory before the first half could close down the game.

The first touchdown came within five minutes after the game started. Louie's, and runs and passes took the ball over for the first touchdown. Louie's forward was rolling the Prestonsburg back, and the Louisa back were penetrating far into P'sburg territory before the first half could close down the game.

Goldie scored the third touchdown for Louisa after a long drive. Louie's forward was rolling the Prestonsburg back, and the Louisa back were penetrating far into P'sburg territory before the first half could close down the game.

After York had scored the fourth Louisa lead, "Red" Bramham took Louie's kicking and answered 45 yards down the sidelines before being downed. For a moment it appeared that he might shake off the pack and score, but with which he missed the goal.

The red is twice halves worked wonders with the Blackcats. They came back and fought the fight of their lives. Louie, leading by a comfortable margin, began passing recklessly, and Jones, intercepting one of these in Louie territory, ran unimpeded for a touchdown.

The line was fighting grimly and holding off in the face of the Louisa onslaught. The backfield was tackling with more success than effect, with one exception. Louie's own Louie scored in this half.

Another time drive, this half Prestonsburg threatened to score, but was held and forced to kick. The Bramham brothers in the back field and Walker and Hale in the line did fine work for Prestonsburg. "Red" Bramham's kicking was exceptionally good.

Saturday, the Blackcats play Belfry here in what is to be the first of five home games. Coach Harlow has done great work with the Blackcats and they'll give a good account of themselves this season.

Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick left Thursday morning for St. Sterling, Ky., where she is to stay on Friday of this week at a meeting of the St. Sterling Woman's Club. At Louisa a friend from Prestonsburg saw him standing about the side of the car, and the players, and holding his arm. Asked what was wrong, he replied that his arm was broken. At the suggestion of the other he went to a Louisa physician who rendered first aid. His arm was broken in the elbow.

Warfield Drills Big Gassers; Sinking Tests to Corniferous

Within the past two weeks the Warfield Natural Gas Company has drilled three gas wells which are to be a daily output of approximately 2,500,000 cubic feet of gas. It was reported this week.

One of the crew of big producers was drilled in Floyd county on the W. J. Turner lease near McDowell. Gas came in in the top of the volume of 1,500,000 cubic feet natural gas in this hole.

Largest of the three gassers is that drilled about two weeks ago on the Estabach Cassidy lease, Martin county, with a volume of 2,000,000 cubic feet from the shale. The third, a shale well of 1,500,000 cubic feet capacity, was drilled on the Ennis Cassidy farm in Martin county.

At this time the Warfield Natural Gas Company is drilling three wells in this county into the corniferous formation as they are. Another hole is being sunk to the corniferous in Martin county. Few wells have been drilled in this county through the corniferous.

The Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company has two wells from this formation. Holes now being sunk to the corniferous by the Warfield Natural Gas Company are on the Elk Horn Coal Corporation lease, Spawing Camp; the James Morris lease, Duff, 600 feet in the corniferous; and the Anna Layne tract, Dierwood, with drilling having reached on Wednesday of this week to 200 feet in the corniferous. ## Why They Don't Go to Church

Some stay at home because it's cold.
And some because it's hot.
And some because they're getting old.
And some because they're not.
Some stay at home to entertain.
And some to eat the dinner.
And some because they're good enough.
And some because they're sinners.
Some stay away because their hat
The outfit's not finished.
And some because their liking
For the minister has diminished.

Some stay at home because their clothes
Are looking old and shabby.
And some because their special type
Of piety is "faddy."

Some stay at home because they have
A farm and lots of stock.
And they have found spare the time
To gather with God's flock.

Some stay away because their beaux
Care nothing for the church;
And some because a "special friend"
Has left them in a "trench."

And some declare they don't enjoy
The singing of the choir;
And others, 'cause their fellow saint
Arouses their wrathful ire.

Some stay at home, because they say
The weather's cold or rough;
And some to vent a little spleen,
Because they're not a "thuff."

Some stay away because they're long
In single business married;
And some because as they protest,
They've settled down and married.

Some keep from church because they find
The members "cold and funny."
"Who never clasp them by the hand
Unless they're after money."

And some bewail with pious face,
"The worldliness of sin
That finds a lodgment in the church."
So never enter in.

Alas! Alas! excuses grow
To drive one (nought) from God.
And turn us from the house of prayer,
The place our Saviour trod.

SAYS FLOYD COUNTY
SCARE NOTHING NEW

A remote locality in Floyd county has been terrorized by the reported appearance of a strange creature that preys upon and devours dogs. The "dog-eater" is nothing new, for it has been "seen" periodically in various sections of Kentucky from time when the memory of man runseth not to the contrary.

The Floyd county dog-eater has been described by reputed eyewitnesses as resembling animals all the way from a gorilla to a bear. Its weakness for dogs has been established by the number of partly devoured canines found in the region where the strange beast is reputed to have its haunts. While the more incredulous scout the idea of a monster being at large in the locality, the neighborhood has been thrown into a state of excitement and refuses to be allayed by the suggestions that the so-called dog-eater more than likely is a figment of the imagination.

The dog-eater scare is a periodic manifestation that at various times has kept widely separated Kentucky communities in the throes of terror. Some years ago a roundup, in one locality so terrorized, resulted in trailing a pack of wild dogs to its haunts in a cave. The discovery explained many dog predations on sheep, and with the pack dispatched there were no recurrences of raids on sheep folds.

One thing that always tends to discredit the reports of a strange beast being at large is that the descriptions of the marauder given by no two eyewitnesses appear to tally. Running true to form the Floyd county dog-eater has looked to some like a great ape and to others like a big bear or other beast not indigenous to Kentucky. Whether the latest reported dog-eater is captured or destroyed or not, the chances are that, as in the past experiences, the scare will in time subside and be forgotten, until another monster makes its appearance somewhere in Kentucky.

More Effective Than the Law

The long drought in Kentucky not only has affected most legitimate enterprises, but it is said to have had a most depressing effect upon an out-of-door mountain industry. It is reported that the scarcity of water in the highland country has materially diminished the supply of moonshine whiskey in a section where it has been clandestinely produced for many generations.

The mountain moonshiner who prizes himself upon the quality of his "white dog" depends upon a water supply from springs or the smaller mountain streams. Most of the springs and branches have been dry for many months, and without the necessary water the illicit operations have been largely curtailed. Unless sufficient rains come to start the mountain watercourses soon the time-honored "Christmas run" of mountain dew may be reduced to the vanishing point. That the scarcity of water compelled the moonshiner to go a long way for a supply was disclosed during a recent raid by "revenuers" who found that water had been conveyed through crude wooden troughs for more than a mile to the illicit still. In many ways the mountain still operator is most resourceful in overcoming handicaps, but a lack of water appears to be one contingency that he has not been able to meet successfully.

Moonshining began in the Kentucky mountains soon after the Federal government first levied a tax on the manufacture of distilled spirits. Having made his own whiskey for generations without interference, the moonshiner resented the impost and clandestinely produced corn distillate, which, however, rarely found its way outside the highland country. Making whiskey is generally regarded by the mountain producer as an inalienable right.

Dogs Want Milk, Cow
Objects, Dogs Bite Cow

Lynn, Mass.—Mrs. Lena Shapiro, owner of a milk farm in Sagus, today complained to Patrolman James P. Sullivan that one of her cows had been assaulted by two dogs. Investigation by the patrolman revealed that the dogs were attempting to steal milk from the cow, that the cow objected by kicking the dogs and that the dogs retaliated by biting the cow. The dogs were ordered by the Board of Health to be kept in leash for two weeks, the cow to be examined for traces of rabies.

Words Can't Describe
Good Karnak Did Me

"I just know there is nobody in all the world happier than I about this wonderful medicine, Karnak. I have taken all kinds of medicines and treatments in the past ten years trying to get some relief from my suffering, but nothing helped me until I began Karnak."

"Oh, how I suffered with stomach trouble. Why, I was almost a nervous wreck from it. I had no appetite to speak of, food just didn't have any taste to me. But even though I would only eat the lightest kind of things, I would suffer just the same."

"I had just lost all my strength and at times I would feel so weak I could hardly walk across the room. I was so nervous and restless I couldn't get any sleep to amount to anything, and in the morning I could hardly drag myself out of bed. It began to look mighty blue for me, but Karnak has changed everything. It is too good for words."

LIGHTS BY WALTER
OF NEW YORK

It was a jolly party of three: a man and his wife and a mutual friend. They indulged in refreshments and, late in the evening, one of these little arguments arose which might be called a friendly dispute. It culminated by the man hailing a brass paper-weight, with good speed but no control. The flying missile struck the innocent bystander on the knee and knocked him for a loop. Instantly, the husband was all contrition and contrition.

"Oh, my dear friend," he said in anguished tones, "I have hurt you; and I only meant to kill my wife."

A man, whose first name for purposes of this story was Dick, telephoned a girl that he was with some friends at a hotel, asked her to come to dinner, and gave her the number of the room. The girl arrived, went to the room named and found a party. She sat on the bed, looking for him, she was told that he undoubtedly would be along in a moment. The party went down to dinner, and still no Dick. Finally the girl secured that something was strange and insisted upon going home. There she found that Dick had telephoned several times, but she could not reach him by telephone. The next day he called up and the two of them indulged in mutual reproaches. It finally developed that the girl had gone to the right room, but the wrong hotel. The long arm of coincidence had swung her to a room of the same number, where there also was a party. She doesn't know yet whether there was another Dick and the persons she should see really belonged to their crowd.

A man entered a small barber shop the other day and asked the attendant barber if he might wash his hands. The barber did not reply, but the man went ahead, using water, soap and towel. As he started for the door, the barber spoke.

"Ten cents," he said, "for washing your hands."

The man waxed indignant and demanded to know whether the barber also wanted a tip. He said he did not, but he did want the ten cents.

Supposing that the man had been one of the patrons of the shop, a customer in the chair asked the barber if he didn't think this was pretty much freemasonry. Then the barber explained. He said that the man had never been a patron of the shop, but that this was the third time he had been in to see soap and towels. He waited until the chairs were occupied, then came in and cleaned up, usually as a favor.

"I have to go up to my office, but I'll be back in a few moments to be shaved." But he never came back. According to the barber, five or six persons a week pull this trick. He lets them get away with it once, and sometimes twice; but the third time he catches them. Then the barber explained. He said that the man had never been a patron of the shop, but that this was the third time he had been in to see soap and towels. He waited until the chairs were occupied, then came in and cleaned up, usually as a favor.

In the West Sixties in New York is a dog hotel. It is run by a former English boxer and he does a fine business. When people go to Europe or travel to Canada or the Yellowstone in the summer, they close their apartments and have to have some place to board their dogs. The dog place of which I speak is really run like a hotel. When a dog arrives, it is registered and the dog is put in a room of various prices, depending on the size. It is possible to engage a regular suite, with all sorts of luxuries. Other dogs have what corresponds to hall bedrooms.

There is a lot of talk of "Sunday drivers," but statistics show that there are more automobile accidents on Saturday afternoon than on Sunday. It looks as if persons were more anxious to hurry away for the week-end than to hurry back.

Joe Baoul Capablanca, former chess champion of the world, attended the Cuban university, where he played a bit of baseball. Capablanca lives in the Buena Vista section of Havana. He now has a job with the Cuban government. I think his title is inspector of consulates and legations. It permits him to travel around the world on an expense account. He says that he is well paid for his position. Capablanca, a few years ago, won the main prize in the government lottery. As he had sold half of his ticket, his share of the prize was $50,000.

Zeus Brown was playing a small golf course outside of New Haven with the president of the club. Coming to a dog-leg hole, he happened to hit a tree right, so that it skinned the trees which angled out into the course, and, sliding around the base of a tall and bounced swiftly down the fairway around the corner. As Mr. Brown got up to the ball the caddy handed him a brand-new golf club. The caddy said that he had found it on this hole. Mr. Brown looked at the club and said that he would take it. The caddy said that he would take it. The caddy said that he would take it.

AN APPRECIATION

Editor, Floyd County Times

While away from home the past week, I received the sad news of the sudden death of my old friend and neighbor, S. P. Ratliff, whom we all knew as "Uncle Bogue." It was my good fortune to have known him intimately from my earliest childhood, and because of my unbreakable affection for him, I take this method of communicating to his family and friends of friends a few words of consolation in the hours of their bereavement.

I shall greatly miss the genuine fellowship in the past to come. I sorely miss the warm and friendly words of my departed friends, but as the old landmarks of integrity and good citizenship are falling all around me, I can not regret from some expression of appreciation of this last one. If goodness of heart and love of service to humanity mark a lifetime, along the difficult road to greatness, then he was truly great. He had but little education, but it is lacking learning he was immeasurably greater. In his depth of soul and love of humanity, to the poor, the sick and afflicted he was a great physician. Though unfortunate in the loss of one eye and also a cripple, he could not fail to be the eye of the sick and suffering was a great physician. Though unfortunate in the loss of one eye and also a cripple, he could not fail to be the eye of the sick and suffering was a great physician. Though unfortunate in the loss of one eye and also a cripple, he could not fail to be the eye of the sick and suffering was a great physician.

Simpler to the Cross I bring.
No price in my hand I bring.

Any attempt of mine to pay appreciation and just tribute to this humble servant of "His" who with all things well, is but a few days from entering the empyrean within me and in a measure assuage the grief that to his hundreds of friends must at this time be so overwhelming. No longer that he is a great man, but another messenger of the winter's cold and the summer's heat to his life.

Very sincerely,
A. J. MAY.

RUSSELL HORN FACES CHARGE OF MURDER

broken, his chest crushed and a leg

Speeding on, Horn drove on to a point about two miles above Louisville where the truck struck a post and was wrecked, plunging the driver beneath it. He was removed from the wreckage by Deputy Sheriff J. W. Young and A. H. Snyder and taken to jail.

One eyewitness to the tragedy, John Hall, it is said, claims that he saw Horn strike the other's moment before he was hurled from the street and was crushed to death. Others saw the tragedy but could not say, it is reported, that the officer was struck. A bloodstained hammer, it is claimed, was found near the scene of the tragedy. It is claimed by friends of the defendant on the other hand that Horn was struck by a car as he crossed the street. Cuts and bruises about Horn's face and head are believed to be in support of this contention. Other witnesses say that the other was not striking Horn, that he was holding Horn's right hand, with one hand and with the other was clutching the door of the car.

Shortly after the start of this tragedy, considerable firing arose in Louisville, and officials after a hurried consultation, removed Horn from the Lawrence county jail and spirited him away under heavy guard to the Boyd county jail at Gallatinburg.

Horn was returned to Louisville Wednesday morning and appeared in court when the indictment made against him was read. He will be given a trial next Tuesday. It was announced this week.

Which and the 13-year-old girl, companions of Horn, were fined in Louisville court on a charge of drunkenness. The father of the girl, who was arrested after the death of Chief Vinson, various Lawrence county authorities paid high tribute to his record as a fearless peace officer and a citizen of Eastern Kentucky. He was a member of a well-known family and was a cousin of former Congressman Fred M. Vinson.

He is survived by his widow and seven children, Herbert, Jake, Imogene and Little Vinson, of the home, and Mrs. William P. Rhoderick, of Indianapolis, Ind. Two Vinsons, of Louisville, the three latter children are by a former marriage. Also surviving are his aged mother, Mrs. Joseph Vinson, of Louisville; three sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Crum, of Huntington, Mrs. Ben Vinson, of Kenova, and Mrs. Lottie Graham, of Springfield, Ky., and one brother, Ed Vinson, of Louisville.

"ELECTRIC EYE" WILL GUARD PRISON WALLS

Latest Marvel of Science to Block Escapes.

San Francisco.—Science's latest marvel—known as the "electric eye"—and endowed with almost human intelligence—continues to assure an already miracle-hardened world.

Capable of performing hundreds of operations heretofore considered conceivable only by human beings, the new device accomplishes almost everything from preventing prison breaks to sorting almonds.

Briefly described, the "eye" or photo-electric cell, operates when a beam of light reflected into it from a distance is broken by a shadow or some other "unnatural" element.

Will Halt Escapes.

Perhaps the latest and most interesting application of the device is the plan to equip penitentiaries in the hope of providing an infallible preventive against prison breaks.

In this situation an "electric eye" is placed atop the prison walls, one at each of the four corners. A narrow beam of light, directed along the top of the walls, completely encircling the prison, shines into the never-tiring "eye."

Nothing then could ever pass over those walls without breaking the light that shines into the "eye." And, once that beam is broken, an alarm is sounded, guards and neighboring peace officers are warned, and pursuit has started.

Another amazing feature of the device is its uncanny ability to count and sort materials according to size, color or temperature.

Placed over a traveling belt conveyor, used to carry labeled packages or cans, the machine unerringly counts and "reads" these that are properly marked and rejects every parcel it "sees" without a label or with the label placed upside down.

Turning on into electric signs with the approach of dusk and extinguishing them at dawn is another job now given to the unflinching "mechanical eye."

On Oakland Plant.

Such an arrangement has been provided for the new 150-foot sign placed above the Oakland plant of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, sponsors of the new device.

The sign, the first of its kind in the West, was lighted for the first time as a special feature of the National Electric Light association convention here.

Countless other chores have been given to the "eye" and its inventor, J. V. Briscoe, Westinghouse research engineer, predicts even more amazing accomplishments for his brain child.

Burglars or Fire, It's

All Same to This Cop

New Orleans.—Burglars or fire, it's all the same to Corp. Raymond Credo of the New Orleans police force.

Credo won promotion when he shot it out with two hold up men, killing one and wounding another.

Shortly after, Credo was roaming around the Criminal court building when the test fire got started. Coincidentally, a judge's office burst into flames.

Credo won honors by seizing an extinguisher and battling the flames until he extinguished them.

Washington Predicted

Transatlantic Flight

Washington.—George Washington, as early as 1794, predicted that the ocean would be spanned by air. Representative Sol Bloom, associate editor of the George Washington Bicentennial commission, declared, calling attention to the fact that the Cote d'Azur flight is not the fulfillment of a modern dream.

"The dream," he said, "is almost as old as our country. George Washington himself had a distinct vision of this great achievement, although he did not, of course, envisage the character of the modern airplane. It was as early as 1794 that our first President, in a prophetic letter to Major-General Davenport, friend of Lafayette, said: 'Our friends in Paris in a little time will come flying through the air, instead of plowing the ocean to get to America.'"

Lawrence Washington

Check for $26.15 Found

Richmond, Va.—An old check bearing the signature of Lawrence Washington, who is believed to have been the last male member of the Washington family born at Mount Vernon on the Potomac, has been presented to the Virginia State library. It has been announced by Dr. Henry R. McWhorter, the librarian. The check was brought to light recently when Mack Weekley, of Richmond, purchased a collection of old papers.

The check is dated September 10, 1801, and is drawn to the order of cash on the Farmers' bank of Virginia, then at Fredericksburg, Va., for the sum of $26.15. It is signed "Law Washington." The signature is believed to be that of Lawrence Washington, who was a grand nephew of George Washington.
