TRIAL OF SLAYER OF HUSBAND NEAR CLOSE THURSDAY

Mrs. Alice Frasure Claims She Fired Shot Killing Spouse
in Self-Defense

DEFENSE ATTACKED

Mrs. Alice Frasure went on trial in the Floyd circuit court this week for the murder of her husband, George Frasure, at Laynesville, this county, last September, and as The Times went to press final arguments in the case were being heard.

Testifying in her own behalf Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Frasure testified that she shot her husband only after he had struck her and threatened to kill her. She testified that while he was on the porch of her sister's home, trying to force the mechanism of his revolver on her, she procured another pistol and shot him.

Other witnesses are said to have substantiated Mrs. Frasure's claim that he beat her, though a complete and accurate review of the testimony was not available to The Times this week. Edna and Corbett Joseph testified that the woman told her husband she would go home with him if he would give her his pistol, and that when he did so the shot which resulted in his death 13 days later was fired. Two revolvers, one purporting to be the one with which Frasure snatched at his wife and with which he prodded her until she was severely bruised, and the other, the one which the defendant claims she used in shooting Frasure, were made exhibits in the evidence before the jury.

The commonwealth sought to break down the woman's defense with an attack upon her character and introduced witnesses who alleged her inability to her husband.

WILL OBSERVE THRIFT WEEK

Business Women Plan Interesting Program; To Cheer the Unfortunate

The week of January 17-23 is national thrift week and this week will be observed by the Business & Professional Women's club here. It is announced.

Sunday, January 17 is "Share with Others Day." The club has planned for a union service on that evening. This service is in charge of the ministers of the town. The sermon will be preached at the Methodist church, South, by Rev. J. M. Helm, pastor of the church. Each minister will have some part on the program and the club is urging every citizen to be there.

The club plans to visit shut-ins, invalids and elderly people with cheer in some form during the week.

The club will hold a dinner-meeting at the Hotel Elizabeth on Saturday, January 23, at which time the following subjects will be discussed:

"Safe Investments"—H. C. Stephens; "Budgeting"—Rev. Arnold T. Hensley; "Why Should a Woman have a Will?"—Miss Mae Keener; "Insurance as an Investment"—C. H. Nicholas; "Why Own Your Home?"—J. M. Davidson; "Are American Standards of Living Too High?"—Rev. J. M. Helm.

ARTIST'S CONFERENCE CONTINUE TWO DAYS

Artists of the county are invited to the annual conference of the church, which is to be held at the church, South, here this week. It will be a most interesting and instructive affair, and will continue over two days, Saturday and Sunday. The artists will be given a chance to show their work and to receive criticism from the other artists.

Rescues Former Loyal Man; Is Awarded Medal

For saving the life of H. M. Eagle, a former resident of Prestonsburg, William H. Stratton, of Pikeville, was awarded the Insull medal on Tuesday night of last week at Pikeville, following an investigation of the rescue by the National Electric Light Association. The medal was presented by R. E. Hughes, district manager of the Kentucky & West Virginia Power Company.

Stratton saved Eagle's life on June 13, 1901, when Eagle, starting to climb a pole in Paintsville, took hold of a "hot" switch which carried 6,000 volts. Prompt action on the part of Stratton in applying the pressure method of resuscitation for the next 15 minutes saved Eagle's life.

TOT MAKES UNUSUAL RECORD IN SCHOOL

John Stephens, superintendent of Floyd county schools, is in receipt of an interesting letter from a little girl whose record in school is no less interesting than her letter.

The little girl, seven-year-old Marie Hall of Galveston, this county, had gone to school only one day previous to her return on December 28, 1920, to Kentucky from Indiana where her father, Lee Hall, was killed. Taken into the home of her uncle, J. E. Hall, Galveston, and started to school, the tot finished the primer in two months, then plunged into the first reader which she mastered in another two months. Her second reader came easier, and she finished with it in 30 days, with the result that she is now studying the third reader, eagerly anticipating an early introduction to the delights of the fourth.

DANA WOMAN DIES AFTER ILLNESS OF 7-YEAR DURATION

Mrs. Joe Hall died at her home near Dunn, this county, Monday, after an illness of about seven years. She was about 30 years old. Cause of death was not given in the report received by The Times.

Mrs. Hall was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Akers, of Dana, and was a woman of fine character, respected by all who knew her. She had been a devout member of the Baptist church for several years. Surviving her are her husband, several children, and her parents. One sister and seven brothers also survive: Mrs. W. B. Boyd, of Prestonsburg; Marion, Med. Allen, William and Fred Akers, of Dana; Fouts and Walter Akers, of Ohio.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon by the Rev. I. A. Sully, of this place, and burial was made in the family cemetery.

BEREA COLLEGE BUILDS BIG DAM

Berea, Ky., Jan. 11 (R.P.).—Unless the gods of fate decree a greater drought than the one that is now history, Berea College need not fear a future water famine, an astonishing dam, impounding five million gallons of water, has just been completed and dedicated.

The new dam is 100 feet long and 14 feet high and has been constructed in the style of crib and butt dam, which resembles the old dam at Berea, which was built in 1880 and is now found in New England and Pennsylvania. Berea has been the scene of a plank and a log dam, which is now found in New England and Pennsylvania. The dam is built of concrete and is 14 feet high and 100 feet long. It is built in the style of crib and butt dam, which resembles the old dam at Berea, which was built in 1880 and is now found in New England and Pennsylvania.

ELLIOTT WOUNDED, STEPHENSON AND HALBERT IS JAILED HILL ARE NAMED

Sunday on Frazier's Creek

Bill Halbert, 21 years old, of Frazier's Creek, left Beaver, is in the county jail here facing charges of shooting with intent to kill, and the victim John Elliott, 22, is in the Beaver Valley hospital. Martin reported to be recovering from a dangerous gunshot wound in the back of the neck and shoulder.

From a distance of little more than 20 feet, Halbert fired a shotgun twice at Elliott. The shooting took place Sunday at Halbert's home. According to Halbert, Elliott followed him home when he had started to call a doctor for his sick brother. After Elliott had threatened him, Halbert said, he told the other to go away, but Elliott refused, walking back and forth in front of the Halbert yard gate and declaring that Halbert couldn't make him leave. As Elliott turned back toward the gate, Halbert, claiming that he feared that his unprovoked visitor was coming inside to kill him, seized his shotgun and fired from the doorway into his home. Halbert claims that Elliott had been threatening him and that he had begged Elliott in order to avoid trouble.

A statement from the wounded youth's relatives was unavailable, though it is said that the claim is made that Halbert shot him without cause.

The wounded man is the son of "Doc" Elliott, while Halbert is the son of the late Tom Halbert. Both are married. Halbert was brought to jail here Monday morning by his cousin, F. H. Halbert. No formal charge has been made against him.

MISS PRESTON, MR. TAYLOR WED HERE

The marriage of Miss Opal Preston, of Martin, and Mr. Guy Taylor, of Pikeville, was solemnized on Friday, January 6, at the home here of the officiating minister, the Rev. I. A. Sully.

Marriage of this popular couple is much interest in this section, where both are well and favorably known. The bride is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mann Preston, of Martin, and is a sophomore at Pikeville College. Mr. Taylor holds a responsible position with the Columbia Gas & Electric Company at its home plant. He is a member of a prominent athletic circle of this section, being a member of the Pikeville basketball team.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will reside in Pikeville. It is announced.

J. W. Huff, Green Turner and John Collins, all of Huesville, were Prestonsburg visitors this week.

Benjamin Franklin, One of America's Most Noted Sons

On January 17 occurs the 226th anniversary of a great American who would not be forgotten and the nation's tribute to George Washington. For this noted American was a great glory to our history, but we must not forget that he was a man of many talents and a great leader.

Benjamin Franklin was born on January 17, 1706, in Boston, Massachusetts. He was a statesman, writer, inventor, and philosopher. He is best known for his work in the American Revolution and for his contributions to the founding of the United States.

To Committees, But Tenth District Not Represented in Re-Districting

Here's the standing of your State Senator and Representative at the General Assembly, as fixed in the appointments to the various committees: Senator E. D. Stephenson to the important rules committee, appropriations, compensation for industrial injuries, courts and legal procedure, geologic survey, Kentucky statutes. No. 1 committee, mines and mining, road and highway committee, and chairman of the judiciary committee. Dr. Alex L. Hill, Representative from this district, was named chairman of the committee on oils and minerals and member of the committees on immigration, labor and state properties, education and federal relations. Of the Congressional districts seeking membership on the re-districting committee in the Senate, only the Tenth was left outside the fold. The First, which is overwhelmingly Democratic and at one end of the state, with nothing to fear from re-districting, and the Sixth, which is composed of the overwhelmingly Republican county of Jefferson, likewise were not given committee appointments, but are not concerned in the matter as is this district.

HARLOWE, NEW COACH AT MAYTOWN SCHOOL

Bob Harlowe, who for the past several weeks has been a member of the Prestonsburg high school faculty, was transferred by order of the Floyd county board of education at its meeting here Friday to Maytown, where he will be a teacher in the high school and also coach the basketball team. Mr. Harlowe's son, a student here, was made upon the solicitation of school officials there, Prof. C. W. Watson, principal of the school, leading coaching along with his other duties as an educator.

Mr. Harlowe's knowledge of the game and his ability as a player make him an ideal man for the position. In his senior year at Berea he was unanimously voted all-state guard.

BAND HERE TO RESUME PRACTISE NEXT WEEK

The Prestonsburg municipal band will resume practice next week after a few months of inactivity. J. W. Hensley, director of the band, said Thursday.

The band will give a concert each Friday night on Court square during the summer, starting about May 1. If good weather prevails at that time, a drive will be started soon in an effort to raise funds for maintenance of the band and for the director's salary.

'LEGGERS STILL FIND FLY IN THE OINTMENT

False hopes of immunity from prosecution are being entertained by bootleggers who are making it a policy not to carry at any one time more than a gallon of whisky so as to keep under the limit set by Federal Judge A. M. J. Cochran in a recent ruling defining cases which should come under the jurisdiction of his court.

For Judge Cochran this week at Lexington made it plain that there was a way of dealing with the habitual bootlegger, and these vendors of intoxicants may be prosecuted in federal court, even if they do not have in their possession at the time of arrest as much as a gallon of liquor, provided that permission is obtained of the United States district attorney for federal action against them. In cases where federal prosecution is not held warranted, whisky dealers are to be dealt with by local courts.

WEDDING OF MISS GIBSON, MR. TAYLOR

A recent marriage of much local interest was that of Miss Verna Gibson and Mr. Alvin Taylor, which was solemnized at the office here of County Clerk A. B. Meade December 21 by the Rev. J. M. Helm, pastor of the M. E. Church, South.

The bride is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gibson, of Wayland, where she is widely related and quite popular. She has been the guest here during recent months of her sister, Mrs. Russell Hagwood, and has many friends in Prestonsburg. Before her marriage she was a student in the Wayland high school. Mr. Taylor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Taylor, of Woods, this county. Residing here with Mr. and Mrs. B. Taylor for several years, he is well known in Prestonsburg, where he has a wide circle of friends. At present he is employed by the Shelby Service Station. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor have taken residence here.

ZACK BALDRIDGE DIES ON LITTLE PAINT CREEK AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Zack Baldridge, 73 years old, well-known resident of the Little Paint section of this county, died at his home on Little Paint Saturday, January 1, a victim of dropsy from which he had suffered for the past five years.

A devout member of the Church of God since 1920, Mr. Baldridge was one of this county's best citizens. He was united in marriage November 3, 1880, to Miss Mary Z. Speers, and spent his life as a farmer. To this union 12 children were born, of whom four are now living. Mr. Baldridge was married to Miss Line Music November 4, 1905, and to this union four sons and two daughters were born, one son of this union predeceasing him in death.

Surviving him are his widow and 11 children: W. H. Baldridge, of Anderson, Pa.; John Baldridge, of Anderson, Pa.; W. H. Baldridge, of Anderson, Pa.; W. H. Baldridge, of Anderson, Pa.; W. H. Baldridge, of Anderson, Pa.; W. H. Baldridge, of Anderson, Pa.; W. H. Baldridge, of Anderson, Pa.; W. H. Baldridge, of Anderson, Pa.; W. H. Baldridge, of Anderson, Pa.; W. H. GOVERNOR LAFFOON ASKS ASSEMBLY TO LOWER TAX BURDEN

Recommends Authorization of Complete Audit of State's Financial Administration

SHORT SESSION SEEN

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 12.—Governor Laffoon called upon members of the Kentucky General Assembly today to put their "wits to work" and do their "level best" to lighten the taxpayer's load "in this time of dire distress."

Addressing a joint session of senators and representatives in the House chamber, the chief executive made the following recommendations:

1. Enforcement of a law providing a "complete and comprehensive audit" of each department for the purpose of ascertaining the state's "true financial status."
2. Amendment of the law creating the board of charities and correction so as to have a selected board of five members with a chairman and director.
3. Enactment of laws "more adequately" regulating buses and trucks using public roads for hire.
4. Restoration to the governor of the authority to name all boards and commissions that perform governmental duties.
5. Relief for 1921 delinquent taxpayers by extending the time for advertising delinquent property to March 1, and extending time of sheriff's settlements.

Banking Laws
6. Enactment of a law to keep state banks in Kentucky banks by permitting the banks to offer state warrants or government bonds ten per cent in excess of the deposit as collateral security.

7. Enactment of a congressional districting measure toward the end of the session after administrative and economic measures have been enacted, or at a special session at the close of the regular session, but in no event to increase the length of both the regular and special sessions beyond the time allowed for the regular session.

8. Repeat of all special appropriations heretofore made, all now in force.

Governor Laffoon told the legislators he would attempt to bring them "from time to time" and recommend other laws he considered "expedient and of vital importance to the people of Kentucky."

ALLEGED HORSE THIEF PENNED

Four Draw Pen Terms in Court
Here for Store Robberies

Short shrift was made in the Floyd circuit court this week of an alleged horse thief. Ernie Stisher was returned to this county Saturday by Pike county officers who had arrested him on a charge of having stolen a horse belonging to George B. Salisbury, of this county. Only one day was Stisher left in lock up, his fate and that of his horse, Monday, when he was released by the grand jury, and on the same day he was given bail and returned to his penitentiary.

Arrested Stisher, about 18 years old, who is charged with horse-stealing after having been captured on a horse named Johnson owned by Stisher, was taken to the county jail here on Monday night. He was charged with stealing a horse belonging to Stisher.

This Is One of the Jobs That Bing Sings

NOW wouldn't you like to be Bing Crosby or at least be in his shoes? He has just been selected to judge a beauty contest at Oglethorpe University in Georgia, so to be qualified for the job—and he admits it's going to be quite a job—he has been practicing up on some of Broadway and Fifth Avenue's most famous models. Perhaps you recognize some of them from advertisements you have seen in the newspapers and magazines. Bing, who sings on the Cremo program every week right over the Columbia Broadcasting System, was comparatively unknown a few months ago. Now, because of his original type of singing he is one of Broadway's reigning theatrical and radio stars. He is, as the New York Telegraph says, "the boy who went over with a bang with his peculiar style of singing songs by twinning from bar to bar in a pleasing exhibition of vocal musical gymnastics." If such musical success is apt to give one as pleasant a job as judging beauty contests, we predict an unusual increase in the ranks of the musical gymnasts. Perhaps you might listen to Bing to find out how it's done.

MAY IN ADDRESS AT WILLIAMSPORT, PENNA.

(Advance excerpt from address of the Honorable Andrew Jackson May, Congressman of the Tenth District of Kentucky, at the Jackson Day Banquet of the Young Men's Democratic Club of Williamsport, Pennsylvania, January 9, 1935.)

"Andrew Jackson, one of the greatest Democrats of all time, was a student of Jefferson, who was the apostle of freedom; and Jackson carried into execution the fundamentals of government as promulgated by Jefferson, the founder of our party. He believed, as did Jefferson, that the business of the government under the Constitution was the protection and guarantee of life, liberty and prosperity.

"Jackson believed as do all real Democrats of modern time that any monopoly in business that stifled the spirit of legitimate competition was a dangerous and deadly influence, and were he in the White House today, the Sherman Anti-Trust Law would not be nullified nor would the bureaucratic system now in vogue be tolerated for a day; but, on the contrary, there would be some recommendations to the legislative branch of the government, that legitimate business be liberated from the dominating and destructive influences of modern plutocrats who now have such welcome access to the White House.

"In 1928, Mr. Hoover, in a speech at Palo Alto, California, accepting the Republican nomination for the presidency, promised a continuation of the policies of the preceding eight years which included the Harding and Coolidge regimes and prophesied the 'banishment of the poorhouse forever and a job for every man.' The result of this prophecy is known to all and the little least that a Republican administration is the forerunner of prosperity has proven to be a myth.

"Our forefathers following the Democratic principles of equal rights to all and exclusive privileges to none, threw off the yoke of taxation without representation and broke the shackles from the limbs of the colonists. They paid in blood and treasure for the freedom of the small business man, from the clutches of organized greed, but a gang of flatter day sinners in charge of the federal government have, under the guise of a protective tariff, imposed upon the burdened backs of the American farmer, laborer and business man, an even more iniquitous system of taxation without representation than that of King George, the Third. I refer to the Hoover-Grundy tariff inquiry. By its beneficial effect the American farmer and laborer have been brought to the doorstep of the Hoover banished poor house. The truth is the poor house has been crisscrossed and enlarged to hold the more than six million idle men that walk the streets and highways of the nation in vain search of employment. There can be no relief until the righteous wrath of the American people is manifested at the ballot box next November in the election of some great Jacksonian Democrat to the presidency of the United States, with a Democratic Congress to carry out his policies. This business will really be an upward grade."

M. E. and E. R. Martin, of Wayland, were business visitors here this week.

to the rapid transition. What a start! But he was an expert. Assuming that this life had been completely overlooked by his fellow because of his absorbing and well-developed sense of story telling.

He was surrounded by a group of fellow-workers as he spun one of his inimitable yarns of his experiences during the war.

"Alone I was down in that rat-infested dugout," he was explaining to his eager audience, "and I had just one single match left. I finally found a stub of candle which was caught in the hand of a dead man in a corner of the place, but this hand held the candle so tightly that I merely lifted his arm, propped it up on a box, and let him act as a candlestick. I lighted the candle and started up to the trench when a shell landed squarely before the mouth of the dugout. I found myself half buried in a heap of debris and was terrified to find that I had been entombed. I didn't know which way to turn to dig my way out, for the flying debris had extinguished the candle completely. Making the best of it, I wriggled to the top of the wreckage in the dugout, managed to grope for a cigarette and then sat there in the dark, calmly inhaling."

"Was the cigarette lighted?" asked one of the sleepers.

"Certainly," replied the liar. "How else could I have enjoyed it?"

"How'd you light it?" he was asked.

"Right," he countered, "and then with some quick thinking I answered: 'With my pocket lighter, of course.'"—New York Sun.

"Placer" Mining Traced to Gold Rush of '49

A placer mine is an alluvial deposit of sand, gravel or earth which is waiting to contain particles of gold or other valuable minerals. In the mining laws of the United States "placer" embraces all forms of mineral deposits except veins in place. The term is derived from Spanish "plaza," meaning place, and came into general use about the time of the gold rush of 1849, when it was applied specifically to surface deposits in the beds of streams where nuggets and particles of gold were found. A writer who toured New Mexico in 1866 wrote: "The old and the new Placer, near Santa Fe, have attracted most attention, and not only washes, but some gold mines, are worked. These alluvial washes with mining terms and the traditions of the West generally mispronounce 'placer' in this sense. The 'a' is about like 'a' in 'war' and not long as in 'play.'"—Pathfinder Magazine.

Catchers Are Fighting
Coming well within the category of sea-farers' war, the capture of a sperm whale, which was the subject of scientific study of the prince of Monaco in 1880, signaling a whaler off the coast of the Azores, the prince's yacht sailed by during the capture of a 45-foot cetacean, which was later studied by his scientific staff. The scientists also obtained facts about the sperm whale's favorite food, the cuttlefish. Although the scientific reputation of the cuttlefish today rests largely upon the fact that it serves as the main source of food for the cetacean, the fish possesses significant traits in its own right. For one thing, the cuttlefish is characteristically a swimmer and it is armed with tentacles which fishermen have learned not to despise.

Among the Aleutians
Although the Aleutians are located in the Far North their climate is not so severe as the latter they may be said to be always "chilly," damp and foggy. Dutch harbor, Unalaska, is the first harbor of importance in the islands. This deep, landlocked harbor is one of the finest in the North and has played an important part as a way station for ships during the gold rushes to the Yukon and to Nome. It is connected with the rest of the world by a radio station. Dutch harbor is on the shortest route from Seattle to Tokyo, and with the establishment of coaling stations may conceivably become such a Pacific way station for the northern route as Honolulu is for the southern.

$30,000,000 in Special Taxes Unfair to You

EQUALITY of taxation was one of the fundamental principles of the American government. The levying of special taxes is a serious departure from that principle.

Special taxes paid by fire insurance companies amount to more than 5 per cent of the premiums paid by policyholders.

Less than a million dollars of the 30 million dollars in special taxes is used by the states for the supervision of fire insurance.

CASE OF FRANK
We wish to take this method of expressing our thanks to you, many friends and family who have so wonderfully assisted us in our recovery. We thank you for the beautiful gift of the Aspirin. It was a most timely and most effective remedy. We are now feeling much better and are able to go about our usual work. We are most grateful to you for your kind and thoughtful gift. We are most grateful to you for your kind and thoughtful gift. We are most grateful to you for your kind and thoughtful gift.

interested in agriculture, County Agent S. L. Isbell and two or three farmers from this county will attend.

There will be separate sessions for women throughout the week, while breeders' associations, beekeepers, seed growers, veterinarians, the farm bureau and other organizations will meet. The sessions to both men and women will be held in the livestock section on the Experiment Station farm.

A feature of the first day, Tuesday, January 26, will be a discussion of the agricultural situation by Dr. H. B. Price, head of the department of markets and rural finance at the University of Kentucky. Dr. O. E. Reed, of the United States Department of Agriculture will deliver two addresses on the opening day. The subject of both will be, "Will We Need More Farm Land?"

The land question will be discussed further on the second day by Dean Thomas P. Cooper, of the College of Agriculture. A. F. Lever, of South Carolina, will represent the Federal Farm Board in an address, as Wednesday, his subject being, "The Relationships Between Government and Business." Other prominent speakers the second day will be Dr. O. E. Reed, chief of the bureau of dairy industry in the United States Department of Agriculture, and Prof. George Roberts, of the College of Agriculture. Prof. Roberts will discuss soil fertility and economic production.

A. W. Dunlap, assistant secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture; Mrs. Clara Ingram Judson, of Illinois; and Prof. C. C. Taylor, of North Carolina, will be the principal speakers on Thursday, January 28. Mr. Dunlap will discuss the future of the livestock industry.

Marketing will be featured the closing day, when E. L. German, president of the Bourbon Street Yard Company, Louisville, and E. O. Wilson, manager of the National Live Stock Marketing Association, Chicago, will speak. President Frank L. McVey, of the University of Kentucky, will make an address that day, his subject being, "The Educated Man."

Prominent among the speakers at the sessions for housewives will be Mrs. J. H. Sullivan, of Burlington, Ky., widely known speaker; Mrs. Clara Ingram Judson, noted lecturer at Evansville, Ill.; Miss Grace E. Frydinger, of the United States Department of Agriculture; Prof. C. C. Taylor, of North Carolina, and Dr. Frank L. McVey, of the University of Kentucky.

A. D. Zaring, of the National Recreational Association, of New York, will direct the singing and other music and recreational periods in the programs for housewives. The recognition of five master housewives will be a feature of the sessions for women. Friday afternoon will be devoted to a special program and luncheon, when five Kentucky farm women, selected for their devotion to their homes and interest in the welfare of their communities and the state, will be awarded master housemaker medals. This feature will be sponsored by The Farmer's Wife, national farm woman's magazine, of St. Paul, Minn.

When Table Fork Was

Regarded as Curiosity

The advent of the table fork for table use is dated far later than that of the spoon. In fact only 300 years ago knives and forks were curiosities. At the courts of Francis I. and Henri II. and even at the magnificent court of Louis XIV forks for eating purposes were unknown. Yet primitive implements that are frequently classed as knives and forks have been in use since an early day.

Most authorities are of the opinion that the primitive savage used a natural fork in the shape of a small pronged twig, while others believe that the fork originated with the arrow as a sort of toothpick. The first forks appear to have long, two-pronged at the end, and were used especially for holding the joint of meat while it was being carved.

The first hint of the fork being used for table service was in the Eleventh century when the wife of the duke, the menico Silvio, was referred to as too dainty to touch her food with her fingers. Therefore she used a small golden fork and was described as being "luxurious beyond belief."

Animals Recorded in National Park "Census"

Unlike the animals Noah collected for his ark, those of the American national parks do not go two by two. The game animal census reports 2,000,000 bats and only 25 rattlesnakes. There are 34,344 deer and 29 wolves. There are 15,530 elk, but only 20 wild cats. Mountain sheep number 12,470, while muskrats number 60. The bear population is splendid: 1,500, including 47 at Grand Lake, 440 at Glacier, 20 at Grand Teton, 18 at Lassen Volcanic National park, 6 at Mesa Verde, 43 at Mount McKinley, 172 at Sequoia, 677 at Yellowstone and 520 at Yosemite. Thirty-seven species of horses are enumerated in the census, including 35 skunks, 140 cottontails, 433 mink, 353 muskrats, 600 chipmunks and 438 mountain lions. The latest count of the buffalo herds is 1,335. Antelopes are counted at 604.

Pillars of Porphyry

Cordoba, in Spain, is one of the most interesting walled cities of Europe. It stands on the banks of the Guadalquivir, where the Andalusian plain glows with the gold of orange trees and with silver olives, morning into the intense blue of the Sierra Morena and the Sierra de Cordoba, whence a purple canopy spreads over the city at sunset. The chief glory of Cordoba is its cathedral, which floor row called "perhaps the most extraordinary place of worship in the world." Once a Moorish mosque and now a Christian cathedral, the tower will spend many an hour in winter at its labyrinth of six pillars of porphyry, granite, serpentine and jasper, which form a forest of beauty. The great Roman bridge which spans the river was first built by the Emperor Augustus.

Powerful Searchlight

The United States has the largest search light. It is the Lindbergh beam, which rises 62 feet above the penthouse of the Palmetto building in Chicago. The beam consists of two lights, one mounted above the other. The upper one is the search light, and has an output of 2,000,000,000 foot candles brought into a beam five feet in diameter and revolving at the rate of two revolutions per minute. The lower light has an output of 1,500,000,000 foot candles brought in a parallel beam to reflect into a beam five inches in diameter fixed to direct at the airport. It is computed that at a distance of 52 1/2 miles the Lindbergh beam becomes equivalent in brightness to the full moon.

"Couldn't Get Out"

Little Jimmy, who lives on the East side, asked his father for a nickel one Sunday morning. His father, not having a nickel, gave Jimmy five pennies.

But five pennies were not the same as a nickel to Jimmy, and his mouth puckered up as he whimpered: "Now I can't get out."

His father asked: "You can't get out of where, Jimmy?"

"I can't get out of Sunday school," "Why can't you?"

"Because you have to give the lady a nickel, or you can't get out."—Indianapolis News.

One's Own Burden

Every man has a burden of his own to bear, and that is the burden of over-coming his own faults and imperfections. If he does that, he will have cause for rejoicing; and, having overcome himself, he will be better able to help another to overcome. Unless we do help ourselves, no one can really help us. The help offered by others will be of no use to us unless we first help our own efforts in this struggle of life.—Uncle Henry, Farmer.

Rich Customer Awaits Invitation To Spend Millions In Old Kentucky

Indian Lake On Paducah-Louisville Highway

A very wealthy gentleman is waiting for an invitation to visit Kentucky, a wants to bring along his wife and children, get acquainted with our ravel from one end of the state to the other, look at our great rivers and parks, and he is looking to spend a large amount of money each money while he is here.

This gentleman is Mr. J. C. Harlan. He is an American, a business man and does business in all parts of the world, including England, the Netherlands, and the United States. He is a resident of New York City and has been in Kentucky for some time. He is looking for a place to spend his winter months and is looking for a place to spend his summer months. He is looking for a place to spend his life.

NIGHT COUGHING QUICKLY STOPPED

In a few minutes after taking Thosine, a doctor's famous prescription, your cough stops. It acts on a new principle—relieves throat irritation and goes direct to the internal cause, the sore throat, the inflamed membrane.

Most coughs are caused by an irritated throat. Thosine stops these at once. Safe for the whole family—guaranteed to stop. Money back if not satisfied. 35c. At your druggist.

ANNOUNCE AGENCY FOR PURE OIL CO.

The East Kentucky Gasoline Company of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, this week announces its appointment as the exclusive agency for the Pure Oil Company in Prestonsburg and surrounding territory.

In speaking of the appointment, members of the company said: "After studying the quality and service of the gasoline and motor oils of nearly all the major oil companies in this area, we have chosen to distribute and sell the products of the Pure Oil Company. After a number of tests, we are convinced that there is greater satisfaction and value in Pure Oil products.

There are more miles per gallon, less knocking and a noticeable increase in pickup and power in Pure Oil gasoline. Thosine—giving the 100 percent Super Pennsylvania motor oil, will give better engine protection for 1,000 miles or more miles per gallon than ordinary oil. For motorists who prefer Ethyl gasoline, Pure Oil Ethyl has no superior."

In referring to the company behind the products, members of the East Kentucky Gasoline Company said: "The Pure Oil Company is one of the strictly independent major companies. By controlling all operations from producing through refining to marketing, the company is able to maintain the uniform high quality of products, which it is so widely known."

The growth of the Pure Oil Company within a comparatively short time to its present seven large refineries and widespread distribution in 22 states is the best indication of the quality of the products and the success of the company's policies."

The Pure Oil Company is a company that is growing rapidly. It is a company that is growing rapidly. It is a company that is growing rapidly. It is a company that is growing rapidly.

BAD MEDICINE

With all due respect to Mr. W. R. Jilison, we cannot but brand his advice to President Hoover as the weirdest concoction ever prescribed as a cure for the economic ills of this country. Mr. Jilison says that the United States should threaten Japan with war—which is to say that the United States should jump into a fight, perhaps another world debacle, if Japan refuses to bow the knee—and thus fix this country's "economic quickstep."

We wish Mr. Jilison no bad luck, but in the event of his own plan being adopted it would be only right, in view of the fact that the ordinary, everyday citizen does not want war, to have him, the capitalists, imperialists and every other kind of militarist get a taste of hell by occupying the front-line trenches for a while, with No Man's Land, the enemy and death staring them in the face.

AN AUDIT FOR KENTUCKY

Certainly the finest step taken to date by Kentucky's new Governor is his move for a full and complete audit of the state's affairs so as to determine its true financial status.

The result in all probability will be illuminating, probably electrifying.

Kentucky as a state needs to know, in actual figures, whether the ship of state is drifting. Then we shall the better know what to expect and which way to steer the helm.

Already the laws of this state provide for each county, or incorporated town, board of education or consolidated school district not only to have a complete audit made each year but also to have that audit published, so that the people may read and know at first hand just what disposition is being made of the funds which accrue from taxes collected from the people.

No honest official objects to such procedure, in laying his records open to the scrutiny of the public. But audits and their publication cost, they say, and correctly so. But the state of Kentucky is expected to appropriate $150,000 with which to defray the expense attached to having its audit made. And it will be money well spent. The same holds true of other administrative agencies: the cost of having the audits made and published is not money wasted. The people are willing to have a small amount of their money spent in order to learn where their thousands and millions go.

RACE PREDICTED

Maytown, Betsy Layne, Paintsville, Conference Leaders; Prestonsburg, Dark Horse

One of the hottest basketball races since the organization of the Sandy Athletic Conference, in progress this year, with Maytown, Betsy Layne, Paintsville and Pikeville occupying the spotlight as leading contenders and the Prestonsburg Black cats to date remaining somewhat of an unknown quantity. Meanwhile, the Louisa Bulldogs, with an improvised gym, are making a fair showing.

The Maytown-Paintsville game last Saturday was one of the season's real thrills, and left neither team a decided favorite over the other, since each had won one of their two meetings. Betsy Layne had a rather easy time of it defeating Louisa, while Paintsville on the night preceding their encounter with Maytown licked Pikeville, 16 to 7.

Prestonsburg high school's boys, minus the facilities of a gym this year, got by in their game with Auxier, but they were not much to write home, playing the Pikeville College Academy five at Pikeville Friday night and the Betsy Layne Bobcats Saturday night at the Pike-Floyd border town gym. Though handicapped for practice quarters, the team is by no means short of competent coaching or material, as shown in the following: J. C. Harlowe, coach; players—Frank and Eck Bragham, Beecher Hardwick, John Miller, Darwin Wells, David May, Lee Ramey, Merrill Marshall, Leo Carter, Edgar Bingham, Palmer Crisp.

The score by quarters in the Maytown-Paintsville game tells the story of a tense struggle. At the end of the first quarter Maytown was leading 7-0; at the half, the game was tied up, 14-14; at the end of the third quarter, Maytown had jumped ahead another point, the score being 16 to 15, and then a terrific struggle through the last quarter to the final score: Maytown, 22; Paintsville, 21. Quarter, who hit the basket for 13 points, and Johnson starred for Maytown, while Jones with 12 points, and Sherman were outstanding in the War lineup.

In a preliminary to this game the Paintsville Comets defeated the Maytown girls, 21 to 12.

In the preliminary to the game between the Betsy Layne boys and Louisa, the Betsy Layne girls defeated the Auxier girls, 21 to 9. The boys played basketball in Franklin, La., and the girls played in Louisville, Ky.

Columbus Young When

He Discovered America. Documentary evidence that Christopher Columbus was only twenty-eight years of age when he first set foot on the soil of the New world comes from a Spanish historian called Ulloa. This upsets the conventional history which has it that Columbus was fifty years old when he landed in America. The Canadian National railway has published a booklet that the announcement of Ulloa's discovery of Columbus was the official date of the discovery of America. It is likely to stand on October 12, 1492, when Columbus is said to have set foot on the island of San Salvador, known also as Watling's Island, which is one of the group known as the Bahamas, with Nassau as its capital.

French and English Colonies. The theory has been advanced that the superior skill of the French and Scotch in the culinary art may have been inspired by the fact that those countries were torn by civil wars and invasions, and the inhabitants were compelled to make the best of the victuals they could secure.

One writer comments in this connection that the English, who had more peace and better food, with no such pressure to invent, did not make the best of it, as the Scotch did, and consequently the Scotch were more skillful in the kitchen. National Geographic Society Bulletin.

A DRASTIC CUT-PRICE SALE

WE HAVE NOT FAILED

We sold more fall and winter goods than ever before because we sold them cheaper than our competitors. And now we are going to sell what we have left at some price, so come and get them!

We cannot blame you for losing confidence in sales as there have been so many imitation sales in Prestonsburg for the past 12 months that you cannot believe what the merchants say in their handbills. Seeing is believing—come next Saturday, Jan. 16 and believe. Merchants should not advertise a sale when it is only to fool you. We only put on two sales a year, and when we cry "Sale" it's a real sale. You will buy goods in this sale cheaper than you have bought them in fifteen years. It takes goods to have a sale—we have them and cheaper than anyone in Sandy Valley.

English Channel Swimmers

Founded in 1891, the English Channel Swimming Club, stands as a testament to the never running and high speed of the clock which has been the beacon for travelers by sea and river. And thereby hangs a tale.
 On a winter's evening in 1919, the club's coffers came from a row at Whitland in all the history of the river, and he hailed a boat to take him to his home at Chelsea. It was cold and the heavy mist over the river was developing into one of London's foggy days.

The silence and darkness got on the coffee's nerves. His dainty boots of soft tanned leather were shaking wet, and the boat was rapidly filling with cold and very dirty water; and still they did not reach the opposite bank. Then the crazy vessel mast and left handman and passenger struggling in the stream.

Just as the boat's coffers thought all was over, the clock of Chelsea struck the half past twelve, and the direction of the sound, he followed into the thick black mud of Chelsea's forebore.

The king's coffers had a consequence also he thought something was due to the power whose clock had struck so conveniently in the nick of time. So he invested in a great belt and directed that it be hung in the church tower and rung every night from November to March, between the hours of 9 p. m. and 6 a. m. And so it was, until 1922, when the tower became unsafe, and the money provided for the bell's upkeep was used for turning the church clock into a shining beacon for travelers.

Union of Pawnbrokers

Commemorated in Flag
 Five local pawnbrokers commemorated by the flag that the duchy of Cornwall, of which the prince of Wales is duke, had made for itself. The design of the flag, which flies over the duchy offices in London, is 13 yellow balls arranged in triangular form on a black ground. This is the coat of arms of the duchy, which came into being thus:
 In the days of the early Plantagenets the pawnbrokers of Cornwall were among the most enterprising and prosperous merchants in all England. Five of these "tuncies," whose names appear on a manuscript in the British museum, formed an association to finance—the "tuncies" never pledged—a war which King John had planned against France.

For a trademark, the five pawnbrokers combined the tails of their five shops and adorned the symbol with the motto "One and All," to indicate that no business could be arranged unless one of them were present.—New York Times Magazine.

Lord Nelson's Character
 Lady (Emma) Hamilton, contrary to the impression gathered by popular stories, was not totally repulsed by her husband, Sir William Hamilton, as account of her liaison with Lord Nelson, by whom she had a daughter in 1801. On the death of her husband, she was left with the residue of a life rent of £800 and the furniture of the home in Piccadilly, London. She then lived with Nelson openly at his home in Merton, which he left her at his death with an annuity of £500, as well as the control of the £4,000 he left to his daughter Horatia. Her gambling and extravagance, however, left her poor, and in 1815 she was put in prison for debt, remaining one year. She then went to Calais to escape creditors, where she died Jan. 10, 1815.

"Nine Points of the Law"
 The old saying that "Possession is nine points of the law" is merely a saying, and does not refer to any actual principle of law. It means simply that in a dispute over real estate, actual possession is an advantage equal to a great majority of the legal points involved; and by extension it figuratively signifies the enormous advantage those in power or possession have over those resisting them. The number nine is not particularly significant in this connection. In fact, the original phrase was "nine and eleven points of the law." Nine and eleven are favorite numbers in folklore and popular phrases and sayings.

The Real Specialist

He who wishes to become acquainted with the genuine Specialist, must seek him not in newspaper and magazine, but in line and remove him like those of the Sage. There is no one who will find all that gravity of expression and clarity of disposition. The Specialist is said to have a more serious and these he will have in conversation. These genuine Specialists are those which when met with a sense of relief and a sense of relief and a sense of relief.

JUDGE ARNOLD SPEAKS AT WOMAN'S CLUB MEET.

The Woman's Club met in regular session Thursday evening at 7 o'clock in the Anker Hotel, where the members enjoyed a special dinner.
 Those present were the president, Mrs. W. P. Mayo, the recording secretary, Mrs. Everett Sowards, Mrs. E. P. Arnold, Mrs. Jo M. Davidson, Mrs. Mary D. Allen, Mrs. F. L. Helms, and the speaker of the evening, Judge E. P. Arnold.
 Mr. Arnold, who is one of the choice speakers of the town, dwelt on the importance and benefits of the Woman's Club, and on ways and means of doing the club through the depression. He compared the language of the organized body of women of the town upon the community as a whole to the influence of the individual woman in her own home, both as to cleanliness, and as to a standard of morals and self-respect. Among other things he said that man would never put on a clean shirt, that he would become as filthy as an ape but for the influence of woman. He also mentioned that it would soon be time for the regular spring clean-up here. His suggestion for better attendance, the "buddy system," the club applied immediately.

"Sweet Little Woman" Bar to Rookie Success

One of the prize rookie yarns is told, days before Potter was located on the by Clark Griffith, of the Washington banks of a small creek and he was Senators, and was recently recruited persuaded to put his mark on a con-

News. Since it concerns a Kentucky He reported to the Knoxville club in mountains were re-printing it here: the spring of 1922, immediately took a "hero" the narrative has delirious to both hope and became miffed "Squire" Potter, a tall, broad-shouldered backwoodsman from the moun- tains of Kentucky. And that you might better appreciate the story, I'm going to take time for a short at his career prior to joining Griffith's Washington Senators.

His pitching prowess was first heard of in organized baseball by Colonel Fredrick Moffett, then manager of the Knoxville Pioneers in the old Appalachian league. Moffett, cowed that an "Ashtand, Ky., deputy sheriff had to his dislike for city life, became strike- foot it through the mountains several out king of the league and was sold to and now you're prepared to see the same old Joe Griffith in the morning of 1922. We were sitting in the lobby of the Tampa Bay hotel, where the Senators were putting up, when it occurred to me to ask the "Silver Fox" what had become of the Squire.

An amused smile stole over his countenance, and this is the answer I got:

"The Lord only knows, but some- where in the mountains.

"He spent three days in camp last spring, then disappeared, straggling suit-case and all. Potter had plenty of stuff and I felt he might some day be developed into a great hurler. So Joe (Griffith) and Squire (Potter) went into the mountains to bring him back. When Joe finally found his mountain abode Potter was married to a widow woman with four children, and it was only after much persuasion that he rejoined the club in Washington.

"Potter moped around for the next few weeks wearing a look of despair. Finally he came to me and said he'd never be able to make good separated from 'my sweet little woman.' I can't get gold' without her."

"I sent Mrs. Potter transportation to Washington for herself and the four kids. She and Squire embraced and cried on each other's shoulders at the railway station. So it seemed his heart troubles were remedied and that he'd soon be pitching good ball for me.

"It was almost game time when she arrived, so Squire took her and the kids straight to the park and seated them in the grandstand, saying he'd join the mob as soon as the game was over and he'd had time to change back in street clothes.

"That night at about half past seven the ball park night watchmen phoned me for advice. He said a woman giving the name of Mrs. Potter was still in the stands with four kids and refused to budge until her husband came for her.

"I caught a taxi and struck out for the park. When I got there she was almost in hysterics and declared that some harm surely had come by her Squire.

"And what do you think? The fellow who had been plugging away while laying awake nights craving the companionship of 'my sweet little woman' had retired for the night and was sound asleep.

"The bang of the door as Mrs. Potter and the kids passed out on the first leg of their journey back to the hills woke him up. A couple of minutes later he had donned his wardrobe and dashed through the same door, hot on their trail.

"That's the last I ever saw of him, and I'm glad of it.

"A fellow so absent-minded would never make a big league pitcher, anyway."

House of Glass

The Sandwich glass house was the first to adopt and perfect a method of manipulating glass by pressure instead of by blowing. It is customary to credit this factory with the invention of the pressing process, but pressing is almost as ancient as blowing. The specimens in which collectors are most interested are the ones turned out during the first 25 or 30 years of the company's existence. Practically every conceivable design and color was used in the manufacture of this glass.
