This Town-- That World

The Reader's Digest reports that the credit manager of a Seattle firm was having difficulty in making a collection from an account in the town of Washington. He daily wrote: "Dear Mr. Jones: What would your neighbors think if I came to your town and repossessed your car?"

A week later he received his letter back, and under his signature was scrawled: "See, I told the story earlier with my neighbors and they think it would be a lousy trick."

DELIVER IT OR NOT!

Does your dog bark when barkin' is not in order? Does he refuse to fetch the cows or bite your neighbor when you want such vital things delivered?

Send him in the eve. The left eye, preferably. He will be a thoroughly respectable, peaceful, industrious and obedient ever after.

That's the lesson we gather from the story from Middle Creek, W. Va.

Thurman Shepherd, who works at David but who lives on Rough and Trough, a few miles away from the town, generally appeared, were to come and seldom up to any good. Matters were, again, between the dog and their owners till a day when a wife and her child were in the house and the dog was barking. The dog barked so the exercise, chased a dog and killed it. The dog was so badly injured that it was forced to the family table and cut down on the table.

When Mr. Shepherd arrived home from the dog he found his dog in the back had part of the story and he was killed. The dog was so badly injured that it was forced to the family table and cut down on the table.

TRIAL'S END NEXT WEEK

Is Judge's Prediction; Absence of Witnesses Slows Down Hearing

End of the McCarson trial in Washington definitely will end next week, the judge of the hearing, Federal Judge Henry A. Scheinwald, predicted.

Three more witnesses for the government and one for the defense remain to be heard. After that, a day will be devoted to legal arguments on the court's instructions to the jury, and then the defense and prosecution attorneys will be allowed a maximum of 10 hours for arguments.

One government witness, Congressman Charles A. Buckley, New York Democrat, however, was not in Washington at the time of the trial. He was not at home or at his office. Tuesday, and it was undecided Monday if a defense witness, Joseph Freeman, would be able to testify in court. If Freeman, who was stricken by a heart attack while testifying, is unable to appear in court, his testimony will be taken at his bedside, it was said.

Buckley's name figured in the trial testimony in connection with $50,000 in loans that were made to him by the House Military Committee, said he negotiated with Buckley to provide munitions maker Henry Garson with "accommodation" money.

May has testified that $50,000 he borrowed from Mr. Buckley was used to pay for the purchase of a car. He said the purchase of the car was for the purpose of the military committee. He said the purchase of the car was for the purpose of the military committee.

Strike Follows Bill Passage

The New Labor Law in Brief

Here are the major provisions of the Taft-Hartley bill which the Senate passed over the President's veto:

1. It would permit the government to obtain an 80-day injunction against any strike threatening a national emergency, such as a coal strike, while arbitrators attempted to settle the dispute. If all settlement efforts failed, the President would refer the dispute to Congress.
2. It would outlaw future closed shop contracts, under which employers may hire only union members. It would prevent the more common union shop only when a majority of workers vote for it. Under a union shop agreement, the employer may hire anyone, but workers must join the union within a fixed time.
3. It would prohibit jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts, and would empower the National Labor Relations Board to obtain injunctions against them. Jurisdictional strikes are those called to force an employer to help one union against another in a dispute over which union should do certain work; secondary boycotts seek to force one company not to deal with another concern.
4. It would outlaw union-controlled health and welfare funds which have been established since Jan. 1, 1916.
5. It would make unions liable for unfair labor practices, as employers already are. Unions would be subject to suit for breach of contract and damages resulting from jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts.
6. It would release employers from any obligation to bargain collectively with foremen who have the authority to hire and fire workers.
7. It would ban unions from charging "excessive or discriminatory" dues or initiation fees, making the NLRB the judge as to what fees are excessive or discriminatory.
8. It would guarantee to employers freedom of speech in their dealings with workers, provided their statements about unions are not coercive nor threatening.

Thomas is attending an international trade conference in Switzerland.
On 20 Senators who voted for the labor bill when it passed officially on May 13 by a vote of 80 to 24, changed their position on the vote—Democrats, Scott W. Lucas, of Illinois, and John Sparkman, of Alabama. Two Republicans when the administration counted on to override stayed regular. They are George D. Aiken, Vermont, and Charles W. Tobey, New Hampshire.
Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, who as chairman of the Labor Committee, steered the bill through the chamber, lost only three members of his party. They were Wayne Morris, Oreagon, William Langer, North Dakota, and George W. Malone, Nevada. He picked up 20 Democrats to offset the three. Of the 58 for striking the veto from the bill, 30 Democrats. For sustaining the veto were 22 Democrats and three Republicans.

The supposition that the Truman Administration was not exerting its full strength in an effort to sustain the veto persisted among labor leaders in a letter to the President sent to Allen W. Barkley, minority leader, a letter calling for the defeat of the bill. Barkley read the letter to the chamber, whose galleries were jammed and whose floor was crowded by visiting members from the House of Representatives.

"The letter will confuse those who have said the President voted this bill for political reasons knowing that it would become law anyway," the Kentuckian declared.

"Harry S. Truman is not that kind of a President, not that kind of cheap politician."

The Truman letter said:
"I feel so strongly about the labor
bill which the Senate will vote on this afternoon that I wish to reaffirm my sincere belief that it will do serious harm to our country."

"This is a critical period in our history and any measure which will adversely affect our national unity
will result in a distinct and serious harm to the nation but to the world.
I am convinced that such would be the result if the veto of this bill
should be overridden."

"I comment you and your associates who have fought so earnestly against this dangerous legislation."

"I was sure to know you have my unqualified support and it is my fervent hope, for the good of the country, that you and your colleagues will be successful in your efforts to keep this bill from becoming law."

On the Republican side, the enactment of such a controversial bill, after six months of hearings and debate, is an achievement for Taft. A defeat on the measure would have been used against him by his rivals for the Republican presidential nomination.

The bill becomes law immediately
and some of its provisions take effect at once. One which is immediately effective is the section aimed at John L. Lewis and a prospective coal strike.

Under the new law, the Attorney General may obtain a court injunction, which would stay a coal strike for an initial 60 days. Then a second injunction could delay it again for 20 additional days, during which the miners would vote under supervision of the National Labor Relations Board whether to accept the last offer or continue the strike. If the vote is for continuing the strike,
the President is to refer the problem to Congress.

Opponents of the bill argued that those who think Lewis does not speak for his union members are mistaken and that the effect of the new law simply will be to delay the strike for 80 days, starting in October instead of July 1.

Men Are Known By The Company They Keep

There is an old saying that runs, "You are known by the company you keep." There is a lot of Gospel-truth in that saying. At any rate, few have disputed the truth of it.

Then let us apply it where it is most needed, just now, for the benefit of the voters of this county, that they may not be hoodwinked in the race for Governor this fall.

Supporters of Congressman Earl Clements, and Mr. Clements himself, declare that he is the great and good friend of the fellow up the creek and out on the farm where the services of RFA are needed—that he, indeed, is the great and good friend of RFA.

Candidate Earl Clements, wise to the ways of politics, is now avowing this friendship on the floor of Congress. But what of Earl Clements when he was State Senator, already elected and not considering a race against Harry Lee Waterfield for Governor, a man whose fearless and able leadership in behalf of RFA is known from one end of the state to the other? Go back to 1942 when the Kentucky Legislature had before it the TVA Enabling Act, without which RFA could never succeed in taking cheap power to homes which have burned that oil lamp for generations. That year, State Senator Clements did everything he could to destroy the Act. He offered an amendment that would have rendered it ineffective. He voted for another amendment that would have completely destroyed it. He voted with Republican Senator Moss, author of the Moss Bill, a piece of legislation conceived and supported by the Kentucky Utilities Company.

"Men are known by the company they keep"—not by their professions or faith on a political deathbed.

If Mr. Clements is the great and good friend of the common people on this issue, why is it that the Kentucky Utilities Company and, certainly, every other power company, are for him, working for him, and not for Harry Lee Waterfield? Let there be light on this question!

The Power Interests, the remnants of the old state machine, including "Happy" . . .

Why I Am for Earle C. Clements For Governor of Kentucky

A number of people have said to me, "If I were you I would not be for Earle C. Clements because certain other people are for him."

I am not for Clements because others are for him or because certain people may be against him. I am for Clements because I am convinced that he is the best man for Governor. I believe that he will work for the best interests of all the people. He has stated his platform which is very good, and in my estimation, the most logical of that offered by any candidate.

Clements will carry out that platform because of his past record as County Judge, State Senator and Congressman. While serving in these different positions he has left a record above reproach. He has continued to help the farmer, the miner and the RKA. I am sure his opponent will not deny these facts. He does, however, accuse Mr. Clements of being against the RKA but the record shows that he voted and debated in favor of RKA legislation in 1945, 1946 and 1947. Mr. Clements is the only member of Congress on the ticket and since the RKA is a project of the federal government he is the only person running for Governor who has ever had a chance to vote for RKA appropriations.

His voting record is enough to prove to me how he stands. He pledges his support to expansion of RKA and all farm homes have electric power.

Mr. Clements says that unless the present Governor calls a special session of the legislature to increase teachers' pay his first request, as Governor, to the General Assembly will be for an appropriation that will raise the teachers' pay to a figure of which they will not be ashamed.

He is for bettering the farm program and is a fighter for it as Congressman and since he is a farmer he understands the problems a farmer may encounter.

He is for establishing housing facilities at our state parks in order to attract tourists to our state to view our historical sites and to create additional sources of revenue. Mr. Clements made this suggestion in a radio address last Thursday night, saying that he would advocate a bond issue or direct appropriation to provide the necessary funds. The very next day our present Governor called and cannot insist for the first time in three years to act on this proposal.

He is for industrialization of Kentucky and promises to offer inducements to factories to locate within our state so that our citizens will not have to leave home to seek employment.

Mr. Clements is for increased aid to the Welfare Department, which has been struggling along with practically nothing to operate on.

He is for improving the road system by changing the present set-up and letting the local government handle the rural road program. His experience as County Judge for two terms in his home county proves that he understands the rural problems and how to formulate a constructive road program.

Last, but by no means least, Mr. Clements served in the United States army for 28 months during World War I. Most of his service was with the 18th Division in Europe.

In a speech last week, he expressed his feeling toward the thousands of co-servicemen in Kentucky. He said that they have not been recognized by Kentucky and that they are not demanding much but do not deserve to be penalized because of having served their country.

He further stated that thousands of them are qualified and have special training which would enable them to help carry on the state government. He says that there is room for many of the different departments of state.

Harry Lee Waterfield, who was a young man when World War II started, did not go into service and I hold no grudge against him because of his not having served, but I am sure that he is less qualified to understand the problems of the veterans than is Earle C. Clements who shared the hardships on the battlefields. The thousands of Kentucky veterans who have rallied to Clements' support have signified that they, too, share this belief.

Harry Lee Waterfield presents a fair platform but he states that he will appropriate tens of millions of dollars for various improvements but he has failed to tell where he will obtain the money for these huge expenditures. Yes, he says that he will increase the appropriations for various departments while at the same time he proposes to reduce the intangible tax rate and to give greater exemptions in the inheritance tax. You will hear a great deal about his proposal to levy a tax on part-mutual racing tickets. Do you believe that a greatly increased budget can operate on the taxes from winning race track tickets? I would like for Mr. Waterfield to show how he will get all that money. All of us can spend money, which is an easy task, but it is hard to operate on a budget and keep the state out of debt without placing a greater tax burden on the people. Increased appropriations such as Mr. Waterfield proposes, mean increased taxation. I am afraid that he cannot fulfill his promises unless we, the people, pay dearly for them.

The above reasons are why I am for Earle C. Clements for Governor. I am convinced that it is my duty to do all in my power to help him become Governor of Kentucky. I am convinced that it is best for the welfare of the state, the farmers, the miners, the teachers and my fellow veterans, that I support and ask my friends to support Earle C. Clements.

Wayland Maintains Unblemished Record With Win at David

Way and maintained its mastery of the Big Sandy league Sunday with a 10-5 victory over David while Emma was defeating Harold, 6-3, and Boldman was outscoring Republic Steel, 1 to 5, in a 10-inning encounter.

In the Beaver Valley league, however, Wayland slipped from the top rung and was supplanted by neighboring Garrett as the latter won their "crucial" game Sunday, 3 to 1.

BECOMES BRIDE OF MR. WRIGHT

Miss Helen Marie Austin, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Austin, of Allen, became the bride of Mr. George Edwin Wright, son of Mr. C. E. Wright and the late Mrs. Wright, of Middletown, Virginia, in an open church ceremony at the Prestonsburg Methodist Church, Saturday afternoon, June 6, at 4:30 o'clock.

The impressive double ring ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. W. B. Garrett, before an altar banked with ferns and standards of white gladioli, and lighted by tapers in candelabra. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Chalmers Frazier, organist, played a program of nuptial music and the traditional Wedding March, and Mrs. Carlos Haywood sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore the traditional white satin wedding gown made with a sweetheart neckline, trimmed with seed pearls, and with long full sleeves ending in points over the hands. The soft folds of the full skirt ended in a court train and her fingertip illusion veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and white roses.

Mrs. Marie Mielke, of Detroit, Mich., was maid of honor, wearing a yellow marquisette gown fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and full skirt. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Genevieve Perry, of Bristol, Va., cousin of the bride; Miss Rosemary Malone, of Allen; Miss Betty Jo Layne and Mrs. Gwendolyn Trimble, of Betsy Layne.
