A successful attempt to burn the home at Harrods of Deputy Sheriff Harold Combs.

A perjury indictment growing out of testimony in the slaying of Arthur Hall by Deputy Sheriff Combs was returned against Rubin Layne last week. The indictment noted that Layne told the grand jury investigating the slaying that he was in the kitchen of B. H. Toler when the shooting took place in the front portion of the building. In Combs' trial, it also noted, Layne testified he was standing by the pin ball machine when the shots were fired.

Also indicted for perjury was Mrs. May Hale after the grand jury had held erroneous her statement that her son, Richard Hale, did not work because he was shellshocked while in army service. The statement was made in the trial of her son, it was said.

Romer Parsons, for the slaying, near Betty Layne, of whose wife Charles and Basil Compton, brothers, have been given pen terms, was indicted of shooting into a motor vehicle at the time of his wife's death. Charles Compton told the grand jury that Parsons fired a shotgun and bullets of two revolvers at the car he occupied.

Del Joseph was charged with unlawful conversion of property after former Circuit Judge Henry Stephens had stated he invested with Joseph a total of $1,185 upon representation by Joseph that the two would form a partnership and buy pin-ball machines. He added that the investment was without profit.

Other major indictments returned last week:

Malcolm Adams, damaging and destroying property; Leo Kelly, child desertion; Adrian Akers, unlawfully and feloniously converting property (accused by Owyne Ford, Prestonsburg drycleaning plant owner, of taking $488 worth of clothing, of which $200 worth had not been recovered at the time of the indictment); Stewart Sherman, grand larceny; Anna Louise Stratton, child desertion; McKinley Turner and Billy Hinton, striking and wounding with intent to kill; Howard Castle, child desertion; Roger Morrison, seduction under promise of marriage; Ernest Isaac, selling liquor.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ASSAULTS SCHOOL CONTRACT

Editor, The Times:

Approximately two years ago I appeared before the Floyd county superintendent and Board of Education in an attempt to have a four-room school building built in the community of David which would accommodate the one hundred fifty odd students enrolled in this district. When I told the Board of Education of our needs, which was already known by all concerned, I was told that $20,000 was all the money they could spend for a school building of this size. Bids were asked for and a contract was awarded B. B. Shepherd for the construction of this building which was to include four classrooms, principal's office, modern indoor toilets to accommodate all the students, and furnace heat. The cost of the building was $25,000. I knew that we have one of the best conducted schools in the county and I believe one of the best buildings.

An article in last week's Floyd County Times states that a contract for construction of a school building for Lackey to contain six classrooms and a principal's office was awarded Town Hall and Mitchell Preston for the appalling sum of $97,796.65. It is my understanding this is the same Town Hall who was County Superintendent approximately two years ago and told me $20,000 was tops for the building here at David. I accepted this at face value and recommended to Princess Elkhorn Coal Company that they pay the excess of $8,000, which they did. I cannot understand how our representatives to the school system can justify such an expenditure on a building of this size when the needs throughout the rural sections of Floyd county are so great.

For the people of Lackey I have nothing but the greatest of admiration for their ability in influencing the County Board to award a contract of this proportion. The successful bidders are to be commended as good business men in securing the contract. For the County Superintendent and Board of Education I have neither admiration nor commendation. They are our representatives whose duty it is to provide the best school system for all our children that can be had from the funds derived from our taxes. They are the people we must hold accountable for their spending of our money, who it seems from the amount of this contract merely closed their eyes and uttered, "Me too!"

Yours very truly,
RUSSELL HARMAN

Safety Additions Approved, Others Are Recommended

Numerous safety improvements are recommended in a reinspection report on the No. 1 mine of the Cooley Elkhorn Coal Company at Garrett, released by the Bureau of Mines. The report also cites a number of recently-adopted safeguards. The mine employed 48 men and produced 300 tons of coal a day when Leslie Johnson and John E. Jones examined it in March.

Timbering had been improved between inspections, the inspectors said, but they also cited a number of deficiencies in one room, frequent roof-testing by face workers, and removal or adequate support of some loose and doubtful roadway roof.

To increase safety in the storage and use of permissible explosives, the inspectors proposed improvements in the surface magazines, firing all on-shaft blasting shots or series immediately after charging, testing the roof and faces immediately before and after blasting, and other precautions.

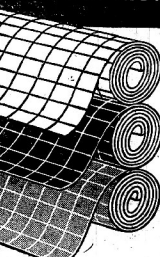

Ventilation had been improved since the last inspection, but the inspectors suggested offsetting the main ventilating fan from the drift opening, installing it in a fireproof housing and equipping it with a freestanding air lock and other safety devices, making pre-shift examinations, and providing air locks or attending single doors.

Observing that most of the mine had been rock-dusted, the inspectors advised rock-dusting all of it, using more in some areas, and allaying dust raised during cutting.

To help reinforce the safety measures established recently at the Pike Elkhorn Coal Company's 40-ton-a-day Town Hall, a reinspection report by the Bureau of Mines recommends more effective rock-

Don't Forget Left Beaver

THE State Highway Department's decision to reroute on Right Beaver Creek in this county is heartening, but THE TIMES hastens to remind the Department that it failed to schedule an improvement of the Left Beaver Creek route, one of the most traveled in this section and one of the section's worst after last winter's ravages.

Surely, this road will not be neglected many weeks longer. Right Beaver Creek highways, and many more elsewhere, need repairs but none worse than that which serves the Left Beaver section.

The Kettle and the Pot

OHIO has long expressed concern over the gambling situation in Newport, across the river from Cincinnati.

Many Ohioans profess to eye Kentuckians with dread as "wild hillbillies" with an appetite for blood and a yen for gunsmoke.

This newspaper has never sought to defend Newport or any other city or town in Kentucky in their open disregard of the law. Nor has it condoned the acts of violence which Kentuckians, as well as residents of other states, have committed.

But it does wonder why Ohio does not become concerned about Ohio. There's something rotten in that Buckeye. Take Lawrence county, Ohio, as a shining example of glossed-over crime, activities outside the law which must, surely, have been given some protection from forces within the law to survive so long and so prosperously.

There was the White Slave ring, which flourished in Ironton until federal forces moved into the picture. Those panders, procurers, madams, etcetera, occupied no insignificant part in that Buckeye. Take Lawrence county, Ohio, as a shining example of glossed-over crime, activities outside the law which must, surely, have been given some protection from forces within the law to survive so long and so prosperously.

Then there was the recent eye-opening incident in which patrons of the Club Continental in Chesapeake, still in Lawrence county, O., were robbed of around $10,000. After that happened, officials became suddenly aware that somebody had been doing some big-time gambling thereabouts. Over a vast area of hundreds of square miles common folk, even those who do not patronize such places, knew you could change a quick dollar at the Continental. But the good state of Ohio had been concerned not at all with such matters until it was "unofficially" reported somebody had robbed the joint.

All of which, however, does not wipe out our own guilt. This is merely to point to the fact that both Kentucky and Ohio have problems of their own and that attending to their own business will keep both busy.

KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH

By EWING GALLOWAY

If the columns of newspaper on teen-age delinquency in the last five years were piled together and end, they would reach 400 miles from Ashland to the mouth of the Ohio river at Cairo, Illinois, and public speeches on the subject in that period probably exceeded 100,000. Yet I don't recall hearing the main cause of delinquency emphasized half a dozen times.

Poverty and idleness were muffled by reformers and would-be reformers searching for the main cause of crime among children.

Many small boys have turned thieves, housebreakers, burglars, because they didn't have 50 cents a week to spend for movies and soft drinks. In some cases parents were too ignorant to realize that in these lawless times it is deeply humiliating for a child never to have spending money.

Do you, dear reader, remember wanting a quarter so badly it hurt? If you do, maybe you can imagine what goes on in the minds of thousands of Kentucky children whose parents give them no money and who up to now have not had a chance to earn money. And you can understand why some youngsters broke the law to get things unavailable to them from honest sources.

Apparently the framers of the new Kentucky child labor law understood a good deal more about the causes of delinquency than most writers and public speakers the public has been listening to these past several years.

The new law, enacted by the recent Assembly and signed by Governor

Lewis Asks Court To Throw Out Suit To Block Pension

By Ewing Galloway

John L. Lewis asked the Federal District Court Wednesday to throw out a coal-operator's suit for an injunction to block payment of $100-a-month pensions to retired coal miners.

The United Mine Workers president charged that Ezra Van Horn, who filed the injunction petition, was only trying to "frustrate" and "delay" operation of the pension plan.

Van Horn is one of the three trustees charged with administering the $24,000,000 Miners' Welfare Fund, which the operators have built up for the union by paying royalties of 10 cents a ton on all soft-coal production.

Up to 60 packages of frozen foods—a whole bushel basketful—fit easily into the big Frozen Food Locker of the 1948 Servel Gas Refrigerator. And that's only one of Servel's new conveniences. For fresh foods, there's moist cold and dry cold to keep vegetables crisp, fruits appetizing, meat tender. There's extra roominess, too, for clear-across shelves adjust to eleven different positions. Famous for silence, the Servel Gas Refrigerator is basically different from all others. It has no moving parts in its freezing system. Instead, a tiny gas flame does all the work. That's why, as more than 2,000,000 owners know, Servel stays silent, lasts longer. New 1948 Servels are now on display.

Bless her heart, and what a flood of memories that word brings. With love that knew no day's and labor that knew no hours, she remained the sweet rallying-point for family obedience and affection.

ducing, as well as further timbering and haulage operations. The mine employed 43 men at the time of the March safety survey made by Inspector G. L. Sawyer.

Inspector Sawyer revealed that "most places" in the mine were inadequately rock-dusted, and he recommended that all dry areas be dusted in full conformance with accepted coal-dust-control standards. Use of water to allay coal dust during cutting operations and clearing coal dust from roadways also was proposed.

To help reduce roof-fall and haulage hazards, the inspector advised prompt erection of safety posts in the face areas of the right section, setting of permanent timbers closer to some working faces, more frequent roof setting by face workers and more effective control of loose haulage roof, clearing of obstructions from one haulage way, use of enclosed trip lights, discontinuance of certain risky haulage practices, and securing blocking of standing cabs.

More than a dozen safety improvements had been completed since the preceding examination, Inspector Sawyer disclosed. These embraced construction of a suitable detonator magazine, offset installation, fireproof housing and pressure-relief doors for the main fan, pre-split mine examinations, rock-dusting of the "greater part" of the mine, several electrical safeguards, surface-underground telephone service, and adequate fire protection underground.

What will give the Custer Control fund now will save lives later.

told a group of county judges in Frankfort last week.

"Read building conditions in Kentucky now are not good," the Commissioner said. "Concerning our financial condition, a false impression has been formed that we have a large surplus. The surplus which was accumulated during the war years, was spent since 1945."

Approximately 30 judges were assembled in the Commissioner's office in response to his request for a meeting at which county and state road problems might be discussed directly with county officials.

"If we are careless about building new roads now without keeping in mind maintenance of existing roads, the state will eventually have more roads than it is possible to maintain satisfactorily," Mr. Withers said. "We must be cautious and businesslike in the building of new roads and continue the policy of first roads first."

The Commissioner pointed out that none of the revenue from the increased gasoline tax will be spent before next year and there is probability that the next federal appropriation of highway money may not be available before July 1, 1949.

"Congress now is considering a plan whereby future federal-aid grants will be withheld until next year so that the states may accumulate revenue with which they may match federal grants," he said.

The Commissioner said the revenue department's budget for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1949, placed total highway revenue at $28,308,420, of which $4,490,000 would accrue from the increased gasoline tax.

"This anticipated revenue must cover all phases of highway department expenditures including construction, maintenance and administration," he added. "The department this year budgeted $9,000,000 for regular maintenance. We anticipate that in addition it may take as much as $7,000,000 to repair damage caused by the unusually destructive freeze and thaw weather of the past winter. As yet we have not determined the total amount of that damage."

The county judges were told a workable formula must be completed, roads arched upon and necessary surveys and plans prepared before the department will attempt to spend on county roads the revenue from the increased gasoline tax. Regarding the expenditure of any county road money, the Commissioner stressed the importance of employment of a county engineer for each county. "At present at least 100 of our counties do not have county engineers. We hope to work out a plan whereby counties will have their own engineers or at least will be assured of the services of a competent engineer," he said.

"We are going to watch this money and you judges will be asked to help us work out a formula for spending it most profitably. We are concerned not only with getting Kentuckians out of the mud, but with keeping them out of the mud. Let our roads be investments for Kentucky rather than liabilities."

nor Clements, is by far the most important approach to the child delinquency evil in Kentucky that I know about.

This law permits employment of children in gainful occupations who have passed their 14th birthday with ample safeguards, which forbid interference with schooling, heavy work, or labor in any unwholesome environment. These latter particulars are too numerous to put into this brief article. Parents of children of any age between 14 and 16, or employers desiring the services of teen-agers, should have their County Attorney interpret the law for them. County Attorneys are paid to do such things free of charge.

The all-important fact is that the new law is liberal, a big improvement over the old one, which later was enacted under pressure of a reform wave in the old sweatshop era when industrial concerns converted the toll of children into dividends, a time when public indignation got the upper hand of common sense. The old law forbade the use of youngsters in many occupations that neither injured their health nor their morals—occupations that reality were character-building.

The old law itself was poorly drawn, but fear of it by people who didn't understand it probably did more harm than the statute itself. Hence, the suggestion that both parents and employers consult their county attorneys.

AN AMERICAN TRAGEDY

Steppping down four days after his 70th birthday from the position he has held since 1928, Harrington told a reporter the code should be replaced by "tentative standards" like those in effect before the code was formulated.

If the code is retained, Harrington said, the Mines Bureau should not have the authority to enforce it, or to make inspections under its provisions. He would have the bureau recommended and advise on safety practices.

Harrington, regarded by many industry leaders as having done more for mine safety than any other man long has been opposed to the official bureau view that the safety code is a bad thing and the bureau should be given power to enforce it.

Until his retirement, however, he felt he could not speak out without offering to resign, which—since he liked his work—he chose not to do.

In an interview that provided an opportunity for a parting broadcast of the code and its implications, Harrington also observed that:

1. As long as coal is mined in the quantity this nation demands there will be disasters such as that which killed 111 men at Centralia, Ill., over a year ago.

2. Nevertheless there has been a reduction in the rate of coal and metal-mine disasters, accidents, injuries, and deaths since 1910.

3. The Bureau of Mines has done more than any other single agency to prevent mine accidents.

4. The irreducible minimum of major accidents in coal mines has not yet been reached, but is near.

"The over-all fatality rate in coal mines declined from about six deaths per million tons of coal produced, in 1911, to 1.72 last year," said the former safety chief.

"It will continue to go down. If we didn't have a coal-mining safety code, I'm of the opinion it would go down faster."

"I want to make this plain. I think the Bureau of Mines, given enough funds to put competent men in the field, can do a better job of safety work by giving service along educational and recommendation lines than it can ever do by showing safety down people's throats."

"We should have tentative standards with the Bureau of Mines making recommendations as to practices on the basis of its 30-odd years of experience."

"The operators should take the recommendations they want and leave the ones they don't want. Ultimately most of the proposals would be adopted because of the force of public opinion—and because practices that are realistic today are practical tomorrow."

"When we have a code we have to stay in a race, because this code is a compromise and very difficult to alter."

The Bureau of Mines today recommended a number of safety improvements for several Kentucky coal mines.

They included the Luzerne-Graham Mining Corporation's Skibo mine near Luzerne, the Pike Elkhorn Coal Company's pit at Train, the Glomay No. 1 mine at Glomay, and the Black Star Coal Corporation's No. 4 mine at Alva.

The bureau said the mines have placed some safety measures into effect recently, but that further inspection showed the need for additional safety measures.

WOULD SHELVE FEDERAL CODE

Mines Safety Chief Claims Abolishment To Lower Fatalities

Washington, May 1.—Daniel Harrington, retiring safety chief of the Bureau of Mines, recommended today that the federal safety code for coal mines be abolished. You can't shove safety down people's throats, he said.

Stepping down four days after his 70th birthday from the position he has held since 1928, Harrington told a reporter the code should be replaced by "tentative standards" like those in effect before the code was formulated.

"I've made up my mind that the last days of my life (if I survive the irresponsible drivers, a little while longer) shall be lived in ideal pleasure. When I retire from my business I shall take a trip to the world, mount it with four heavy guns, and go on the road with it in Eastern Kentucky. Every time I see the KANSKY coming (he's the driver that acts as if the road was made for him only) I shall take a dive for him with all four guns opened up."

the whims of organized Marryin' Sams? It is as reasonable to think of such criminal folly as it is to consider our hero—dead, or any dead, being dishonored by the alien, unfeeling hands of men whose only interest is a fee, men whose by-laws book means more to them than Holy Writ.

This, as we have said, is an isolated case. And we are thankful for that fact. But this one case is deeply disturbing.

It and the things which might come after could constitute the real American Tragedy.

Lee Countians Battle Six Hours; Only One Casualty Reported

Beattyville, Ky., May 3.—Police sought today to clarify stories about a shifting, six-hour gun fight in Beattyville that resulted in the wounding of one man and the arrest of three.

The wounded man was identified as Charles Thomas, Lee county. He was treated at a Richmond hospital for gunshot wounds in the head and shoulder.

Thomas was one of those arrested on charges of shooting with intent to kill, Sheriff Shelby Kincaid said. He identified the others as Millard and Clayton Stamper. The three posted $1000 appearance bonds, for a later hearing.

The sheriff said the men were charged with shooting into an automobile in which Claude Shanks, Martin Little, and an unidentified man were riding. No charges were filed against these three, he said.

State Patrolman Carl T. Newman, Richmond, who came here to assist in the arrests, said: "It was something that had been brewing for some time. I understand it resulted from a grudge of long standing and they had been threatening each other." He said automobiles of the participants "were shot up pretty bad."

Officers said the battle broke out about 10 a.m., yesterday, in the edge of the downtown district and shifted through the town until 4 a.m. today.

Powered by the War-Proved
Willys-Overland 'Jeep' Engine

TWO GREAT LINES—2-wheel-drive "Jeep" Trucks (4700-5300 lbs. GVW) are built for long service and low operating costs for medium-duty hauling. 4-wheel-drive "Jeep" Trucks (5300 lbs. GVW) meet a real need for a low-weight vehicle with all-wheel traction to get through mud, climb steep grades and operate off the road.
DESIGNED TO CUT COSTS—Every feature of these postwar trucks is designed to lower operating and maintenance costs. They are powered by the war-proved Willys-Overland "Jeep" Engine, world-famous for gas and oil economy, easy repair and long service. They are ruggedly built of quality materials to stand up. No body frills that add non-essential weight and "decrease payload."

FUNCTIONAL BODIES—"Jeep" Truck body designs not only cut weight but also make maintenance and servicing easier. Note the hard-to-damage fenders, which make it simpler to change tires or put on chains. Wide hood opens from fender to fender, with engine and battery easy to reach. Lights are in protected position.
Come in and see the other features of 2- and 4-wheel-drive "Jeep" Trucks, including the roomy cab, large windshield and windows, short turning radius and popular body styles—pick-up, canopy, van and platform-stake.

Looked at and looked up to

This is the one, of course, that you spot at a glance.

This is the one that sends a string of facts racing through your mind—if you know automobiles—the instant you see the name ROADMASTER spelled out on its fender.

Up to one hundred and fifty Fireball horsepower. Eighteen feet big—and spring-coil lively.

Gorgeously finished. Coil-spring cradled on all four wheels. Shod with oversize tires that take extra low pressures for added comfort.

Convenient too—with push-button controls not only for the top, but for door windows and the front-seat adjustment as well.

Time in HENRY J. TAYLOR, Mutual Network, Monday and Friday

HELP AMERICA PRODUCE FOR PEACE—TURN IN YOUR SCRAP IRON AND STEEL

This, too, is the only passenger car in this country where the power plant does what gears used to do.

Here's the one place you'll find Dynaflow Drive,* in which liquid replaces not only the clutch and manually operated low, second and high, but mechanical gear-changers as well.

In short—here's liquid ease and smoothness in delightful new degree, through a sort of "magic muscle" that lets you forget about gear-changing practically entirely.

No wonder, then, this car is looked up to.

Looked up to for impressive appearance—looked up to for superlative ability.

Looked up to for what's newest in engineering advances.

If your standards call for a real performer—and for quality a cut above the ordinarily good—specify ROADMASTER when you see your dealer (with or without a car to trade) about getting an order in.
