To Require Beginners In First Grade Here To Register, May 11

First-grade children who will be enrolled for the first time in the Prestonsburg grade school next fall will be required to appear with their father or mother for preliminary enrollment at the grade school building here May 11. It was announced following a meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association's executive committee Monday evening. This pre-school enrollment is necessary, it was explained, in order for school authorities to determine in advance what the first-grade situation will be at the beginning of school. To neglect to do this it was said, may not only hamper the school work but also handicap the child in his first days of school. The age limitation for first-graders out the enrollment for the current school year from an anticipated 90 to approximately 60, but the same school law is expected to bring in a larger number of pupils for the next school term. To enroll in the first grade, a child must attain the age of six not later than October 4.

Glenn Anderson was elected president of the P.T.A. at the annual election of officers last Thursday evening. He will succeed Max O. Burns. Other officers elected: Mrs. R. V. May, vice-president; Mrs. M. Robert Regan, treasurer; Bill Curry, treasurer.

The executive committee voted to sponsor the Snookie Cross School of Dance in a revue, May 21, and to send two delegates, one of whom will be P.T.A. President Anderson, to the Parent-Teacher state convention.

ORGANIZE SPEAKERS' BUREAU AS PUBLIC SERVICE

MRS. JAMES

MR. HOWARD

MR. BURKE

MRS. COLLINS

Presented here is the Floyd County Artists-Speakers Bureau, which hopes to work in conjunction with the Committee for Kentucky. The organization is now at the service of this and surrounding counties. Members expect to receive more good themselves than they can give to others. They were chosen from among many who might serve equally well. The group had to be limited, but every attempt was made to offer a variety, and to have as many communities as possible represented. Numbers asked to serve declined. Several offered to substitute.

Any organization, community or group, anywhere, even the smallest or remotest, desiring a speaker or entertainer, any month of the year, may contact some member and arrange a date, specify the subject or program wanted. If you run out of program ideas fill this sheet for reference. It should prove helpful to those who compile year books. No appearances on Sundays or on Wednesday evenings.

Each member is serving gratis, but it is hoped sponsors who can will pay their share, though all will come at their own expense, and regardless of the size of the crowd. SERVICE is the keynote of the organization. These persons are busy individuals. Some may find it impossible to come in emergencies. In that case each will notify you and offer to send a substitute if desired. Several have husbands or wives who can replace them. Many not included in FACSAB have volunteered to assist.

Organizations may sponsor lectures or programs open to the public. This plan promotes progress, which is a major objective of the Committee for Kentucky. Its success depends upon expert advertising. The Times, posters, public announcements, year books, mimeographed invitations sent by scouts or pupils, phone committees, personal invitations—all these, and other methods pay dividends in return. Do not neglect to advertise adequately. Groups may sponsor panels, forums, no-decision debates, using both FACSAB and local talent. Book your speakers ahead. Give them ample time. Then remind each again a week beforehand. Note that two are not now available.

FACSAB wants a sponsor from each town. The list will appear in The Times later. Floyd has everything necessary to become a model county. The point is, how soon will we do so? FACSAB expresses thanks to The Times for donating space, and to all who helped get the organization started, especially to those offering to be alternates. FACSAB will be on the air shortly. Watch The Times for announcements.

These Deserve Attention

THE TIMES hopes some-thing comes of this move initiated by the Paintsville chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, to restore the old fort at Block House Bottom, near East Point.

This, probably the scene of the most historic spot, belongs to Johnson county but once was part and parcel of historic Floyd. The old blackhouse there was a refuge from every gathering storm for those hardy pioneers who came to the Big Sandy wilderness as John Smith's first of civilization. The city settlement built around this rude fortress was known as Hamman's Station, and it was here that James Wiley in her flight from her Indian captors found sanctuary.

The restoration of such historic shrines and their preservation were among D.A.R. projects, and Daniel Boone's Floyd county campsite at David, on Middle Creek, deserve the attention of the organization.

Well Done!

NOBODY who knows Bert N. Combs well will find fault with his appointment by Governor Wetherby to the Appellate Court bench. Mr. Combs' ability, leadership apparent during his school days when he depended, as he has in his legal practice, on performance rather than ostentation to prove his worth. His is the temperament and talent which should combine to serve Kentucky well as a judge of the state's highest court.

Congratulations are in order all around to Mr. Combs, and the Governor and the people of Kentucky.

AW, ME!

SAW the other day, where a preacher, having attained the rather ripe, old age of 102, prescribed for himself a diet of "eat and not too much hard work. When I saw that one I had an idea of taking it to my favorite apothecary to see if he could explain it. To me, that sounds a lot like saying, "you'll have a lot of eggs if you have a lot of chickens if you'll set a lot of hens to hatch the eggs to get the chickens."

I'm just plain enough to have to work to get something to eat, and I have to work so hard to get out of work that I'm dog-tired, all the time.

NO GARDEN OF ROSES

I have always thought of a rock garden as an ordered plot of disorder, with flowers appearing where weeds should be and are and rugged surroundings. But now I know what a rock garden is. It grows rocks.

And I have one. After pitching into and piling up a ton of rock, the other afternoon when I should have been fishing, I thought things were pretty well ship-shape. But, when I looked once, the next morning, more rocks had appeared overnight.

Now, if this keeps up that lawn-mowing project which looms ahead may, if such a mower is available, go down in the record as Operation Goat.

THE PREACHER GOT AN EARFUL

I climbed at the point of climbing on a dock and yelling bloody murder while writing this. For it has to do with a—light—rat.

Big Boy Parsons, from Betty Layne, has been boarding with a preacher while working over in Logan county, West Virginia, and his general deportment, language et al. have been above criticism. Big Boy has been running the preacher a dead heat in all departments.

But, last week-end, his host made the mistake of leaving his automobile in the barn of the old home—stead, and a Big, old rat took it into his head that it would be a good idea to move therein. So it was that when the preacher drove away to work, Monday morning, with the 200-c.c. and Big Boy sitting next to him and an unnamed gentleman of slight build on the same seat, next to the door, B'er Rat went along for the ride.

Suddenly, an opossum leaped ahead, and neither the "possum nor the preacher moved quickly enough. Just as the rat hit the "possum, the rat began his ascent up Big Boy's leg.

"Guess I lost my head," Parsons told acquaintances later. "Somehow, I got the idea that 'possum was crawling up my leg, and I threw a fit."

Well, there they were—Big Boy trying to go through the roof of the car, one foot on the steering wheel, the preacher holding grimly onto the wheel trying to keep the car in the road and at the same time seeking to shove his huge passenger away and succeeding only in mashing the diminutive third occupant of the car into something resembling a pulp.

Parsons at last reached terra firma. He hit the highway, bouncing like he was or a popo stick, and finally the rat came from inside his trouser leg and scurried to cover. This may not have been so bad, but we understand the "possum was using language all the while such as to cause the preacher to revise his opinion of him.

By HAROLD B. RICE, Floyd County Agent

The soil has dried up quite a bit, and if you haven't planted your sweet corn, now is a good time to do it. This year you should try to have fresh roasting ears throughout the growing season, so plan your garden to have space for a planting of sweet corn every two weeks.

Soil fertility for corn should be "high in the middle," with plenty of phosphorus, the plant food that directly affects seed crops. The general fertilizing scheme outlined here several weeks ago is suitable.

Planting may be in hills, 30 inches by 30 inches, three seeds per hill, or in drills 30 inches apart, the seed, 12 inches apart. Sweet corn "rowing" somewhat, and one and one-fourth ears may be expected from each stalk. This can serve as a gauge for making two-weeks' plantings fit two-weeks' consumption. Also, on the average, 12 ears will can or freeze a pint, a guide for making the canning supply fit the budget.

The general main crop varieties, holdover Grand Rapids, Bantam, and Flagship. The last is especially suited for a home garden, as it holds its sugar longer than the other two. All of these take about 80 days to mature. A good plan is to make a two-weeks' planting of Early Adams on the day the first planting is made of the "main crop" sort. (Two-weeks' supply.) This difference in maturing will produce a month's unbroken harvest.

"1,000,000 Persons Can't Be Wrong"

More than 1,000,000 persons are enrolled in the great White Cross Plan. They have collected millions of dollars to pay bills that poured in from hospitals, and doctors. Remember that 6,445 persons in Floyd county will go to the hospital this year; that 4,214 will be seriously disabled by accident; that 20,000 will be sick. If you want White Cross to pay your bills and send you money, don't delay.

Workshop Held at David For Girl Scout Leaders

The first outdoor workshop training course of the season for adult leaders in Sandy Valley Girl Scout Council was held at David, from April 12 to 29.

Mrs. Barbara Goddard, executive secretary from the Pikeville office, was in charge.

The Prestonsburg district was represented by Mrs. Ray Howard, Mrs. Curtis Clark, Mrs. New May, and Mrs. John Stratton. David district was represented by Mrs. Ora Howard, Mrs. W. H. McKinney, Mrs. Edna Stenhouse, Mrs. Euno Van Gevel, and Mrs. Wm. Crawford.

Workshop demonstrations covered setting up camp, cooking, and various recipes, the most practical types of cooking equipment and first aid, and safety measures for camp camping and cooking.

Nomination of officers may be made from the floor, it was explained, though these already have been submitted at an earlier meeting. B. Alvin Reed, Drift, president; Bert T. Denver Was Pioneer
Denver — The practice of "water spreading" got its start in the United States in 1880 when Denver pioneered in an effort to maintain its municipal water supply by using run-off flow to replenish underground water supplies that were being exhausted by pumping.

HARTFORD — The Senate passed that a windshield wiper could have a windshield to wipe. A car law now requires motor vehicles to have wipers. But there's nothing on the book which says you've got to have a windshield. The Senate approved a bill requiring windshields.

EXCLAMATION POINT

(From "The Lighter Side of Reader's Digest")

An ancient Princeton was defending his alma mater against the critical banterings of a group of friends. Challenged to cite examples of Princeton superiority, he exclaimed: "Why, you can take any subject, anything at all, and prove my point. For instance," turning to his chief heckler, "you state this sentence: 'The voluptuous blonde clad only in a negligee strolled slowly past my door.' 'That's terrible!' you scoffed the rival witness. 'Comma after 'blonde' comma after 'negligee' 'There you are' was the triumphant rejoinder. 'That's what I mean. At Princeton, we make a dash after the voluptuous blonde!'"

Wine's Age No Criterion

FAMILY OF MRS. BETSY HOLBROOK HALL

KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH

By EWING GALLOWAY

If you carry more than fifty dollars on your person and lose it, or get robbed, here is one guy who won't sympathize with you. Recently a business man in Evansville, just over the river from us, told the police he had been held up late at night at his home garage and robbed of $16,000. My first reaction was, "Why, that's terrible!" anybody carry a large sum of money in his pocket when banks are open from 9 till 5?

And every now and then somebody learns that stuffing currency in mattresses or cold air pipes is bad business. Houses burn or burglars come.

I once knew a man who worked in a bank but used his salary as a dropseed. He would take thousands of dollars in his pocket rather than risk the bank vault and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

I learned a good lesson about forty years ago when I was a student at Columbia College in New York. It was election night, which is the biggest carnival night of all in metropolitan New York. I was in Times Square, and when I got home my wallet and $35 were missing. Ever since that sad incident I have been carrying my money in the little watch-pocket at the belt of my trousers.

Banks are the cheapest and best public utilities that serve the people. They serve most of their customers free. Of course they lend the money you leave on deposit and make their dividends that way, but you ask them.

My first experience with a bank was at the time the Teddy Roosevelt money panic threw a whole armful of monkey wrenches into the nation's business. The Henderson banks had to limit withdrawals to $5 per person daily. The bank clearing house issued scrip instead of currency. I was getting weekly salary checks from the Henderson Cleaner and money checks from the city, which I was serving as city prosecuting attorney. I had about $2,000 in the Henderson County Savings Bank already, and every time I got a check I would take it to the late G. W. Crutcher, the bank manager, and deposit it. He never mentioned the panic incident but for ten years he acted as my business agent and never charged me a cent for the service. I was a piker money lender in those years, and Crutcher executed loans for me and released mortgages.

Don't take your bank for granted. It is a convenience you couldn't do without.

And free for nothing!

Floyd County Historical Notes

By HENRY P. SCALF

EDWARD DORTON (1751-1850) (Concluded from Last Week)

Edward Dorton's career as a soldier ended with the Battle of Guilford Courthouse, for the "Duplicious Dorton" he conceived "a few days after" rendered him unfit for further military service. For approximately three years he had served his country and it is very doubtful that he had received any pecuniary compensation for it. It had been a service riddled with high adventure—of Indian wars, arduous touring and spying over the western hills, and long, exhaustive marches along the fringe of the thickly settled border. He had fought under Campbell at Kings Mountain, under Morgan at Cowpens, and with Greene at Guilford.

While soldiering, he had become acquainted with a galaxy of famous Americans—Col. Gen. Huger, John Sevier, Isaac Shelby, and Col. Williams. The war for Edward Dorton being over, he returned to Floyd County, Virginia, nursing his wounds and seeking to restore his health. He married soon thereafter but to whom we do not know. He established a home in Powell's Valley, but since so many of his neighbors were moving to Kentucky, he began seriously to contemplate the move himself. During his service as a spy he had traveled far down the Kentucky and Big Sandy rivers. His journey down the Big Sandy may have been as far down as the present Jennie's Creek, for the record proves that the spies employed by Virginia did penetrate the Sandy woods that far. This Sandy country was an alluring valley and as the constant stream of western immigrants passed his door, he finally joined them.

What year he came is uncertain, but in 1817 he acquired 50 acres of land on Tom's Creek in the present Johnson county. There is a record where he entered 100 acres on the same creek as late as 1835. When he was eighty-five years of age, he never acquired an extensive estate of real property. The last record as to his children is rather confused. He had one son, William. There was a daughter Sarah (Sally) who married a Daniel William. It seems, did not live to be very old. There was a Joel H. Dorton, pre-grandson of Edward, and Joel had a sister, Elizabeth, who married Joshua P. Dean. Sarah Dorton, after the death of her husband, remarried to William Penick.

These descendants of Edward Dorton, like their ancestor, took little interest in acquiring real property as did the other neighbors on Tom's Creek. In some, there does not exist the passion to own a great quantity of terra firma. However, Elizabeth and Joel jointly patented a tract, in 1846, on Tom's Creek, while Joel, for himself, took title to another tract, in 1849, on Pigeon Roost Branch.

Edward Dorton never recovered his health to the point where he could feel a freedom from his imprisonment suffered in the Revolutionary service. He lived a long time, yet, but to some, while the gods give longevity, they also allow to suffer a long semi-invalidism. He asked his government for a pension when he was eighty. Perhaps the application was not wholly his own for it says, giving as it does evidence of outside prompting: "that said infirm, both in body and in mind, my acquaintances tell me that my mind is failing and is so deaf that I can hardly understand, and so helpless that I can do no any labor." He said his wife was blind, and that the person who "aid me and my blind old companion in the evening of our days."

This appeal, now but a musty record on cracking paper of a century and a quarter ago, seems to us today a note of despair.

He was placed on the invalid pension roll of Kentucky in 1831 but a certificate of pension was issued until 1834. It seems he drew a pension for his Revolutionary services for the years 1814 and 1835. In this latter year the act of his government, for some mysterious reason, was withdrawn. We can assume with certainty that Edward Dorton never learned why his government dropped that assistance but the records of the Pension Bureau contain the story for us.

There had entered upon the scene a man who was certainly not a villain, for he was impelled by the highest motives. He was just one of the great number of people who seek to do right but attempt it without a thorough knowledge of the facts, and often wreck an irreparable damage to others. The man was David K. Harris, Sr. All around him he saw suspicious pension cases. Two of these cases were obvious frauds and three others were, to David K. Harris, suspected frauds. In this last category he placed the claim of Edward Dorton, and wrote a letter to the Commissioner, explaining his suspicions.

J. L. Edwards, Commissioner of Pensions at Washington, was already receiving letters, some anonymous, in regard to fraudulent claims and the whole of Floyd and Johnson counties was under suspicion. One letter of June 26, 1849, signed "Commonwealth of Kentucky" to Edwards was to warn him of these frauds. He said that in one district ten miles square there were several fraudulent pensioners and claimants and several were named. They had come forward at the solicitation of others. The writer referred to another letter addressed to Henry

Burgess, Esq. James Shannon, William Davis, Rufus M. Stafford, and

E. J. Love, assistant postmaster, and George's Creek, Kentucky. Who had written this letter is unknown for the record is incomplete, but the writer depends upon this letter to "satisfy you that fraud is afoot."

"We depend upon you to correct the error at such time our pen shall lie idle."

This letter, evidently did not induce Burgess, et al, to respond as requested for there is of August 16, 1849, from Burgess, Harney himself a pensioner), Lane and Shannon: "Sir, as to our parts, we know nothing about them, as to that part. These pensioners were all new before we knew them. As to that part, we think the letter originated from spite and malice." While some letters may have been anonymous and written in spite, others were neither. The letter of David K. Harris was a signed letter and the motive was excellent but for no reason. The first misimpression of the Harris letter is from a letter of Isaac H. Trahne, Esq., to the Commissioner. He calls Harris a "Vile Scoundrel."

Now, while David K. Harris was seeking to keep certain men from fraudulently drawing pensions and yet doing irreparable harm to his lastly deceased old soldier like Edward Dorton, another Harris—Kelsey N. Harris, 1809-1884, a prominent attorney of Prestonsburg and Martinsburg, and who was a nephew of David K. Harris, was attempting to aid the old soldier.

Kelsey N. Harris was a son of James P. Harris and Nancy Young Harris. David K. Sr. was a brother of James P. Harris, the founder of one branch of the Harris family in Floyd county. Kelsey N. married, Eliza Perry, daughter of David and Eliza Harmon Harris. We find her name on several legal papers as a witness for her husband. She survived her husband many years, dying in Salt Lake City, Utah, in 1902.

Kelsey N. Harris prosecuted the claim of Dorton for restoration of his pension with vigor, and even after the death of Edward Dorton continued to prosecute for the heirs but to no avail. The damage had been done and the assistance of the government had been dropped upon flimsy and unsupported suspicion. Edward Dorton and his blind old companion came down the long road of senility unaided by a government that owed him, and thousands of others like him, its very existence. He approached the century mark in years and died about 1850. We know he was living in 1848 for he was a taxpayer then.

We infer from documentary evidence that he was living in 1848 but there is evidence in 1851, that he had died sometime before.

Kelsey N. Harris did not succeed in procuring the pension for his immediate heir. His heritage, however, knew that his uncle, David K. had, by an ill-advised letter, done the harm, now so earnestly sought to be righted.

What of David K. Harris' probable knowledge of the truth about Edward Dorton's Revolutionary service? Let a letter of February 11, 1842 speak for itself: "Dear Sir, Six or eight years ago I wrote to the head of the Department on the subject of fraudulent pensions; in this section there were two cases which were certainly fraudulent. These were the cases of . . . and . . . These two cases led to the suspicion of others. Among them was Edward Dorton, Bazile Castle and Joseph Davis, which were all stopped on August 6, 1835. I suppose because of the information the government received from me about the three latter cases. The men live about 25 miles from where I do and about the last of November last I was in the neighborhood on the hunt of some work cattle. I stopped at the house of Dorton and found him sitting in his chair, a cripple, not able to get about without the help of some one, and his wife is stone blind. I thought of the subject and raised a conversation with the old lady upon the subject of the Revolutionary War. She spoke sensibly about the service of her husband and also of the cases of Castle and Davis. This thoroughly convinced me that I had suspected them wrongly, and Sir, I do much regret that they were out of their rights, but Sir, I was guided by no improper, notion."

"My father was a member of the Revolutionary War and his blood mingled amongst the mortals of that same war and I do feel it a duty that I owe to my government to detect frauds against it and likewise I feel it a debt to my fellow man. If I have by mistaken notion or otherwise done them wrong, I beg to rectify it. Sir, they do not know to this day that I am the cause of their pensions being stopped and it would greatly my feelings very much for them to be returned again. (I mean the latter three cases) because I do assure you that I would be the last to do injury to a war-worn patriot in his last day. Please let me hear from you."

Respectfully yours,
DAVID K. HARRIS.

The conscience of an honorable man aches indeed when he learns of a wrong he has done. In a few years after the pension, unavailing letter of David K. Harris, Edward Dorton had passed on. His life had been one of devotion to his country and while that country may have inadvertently wronged him when he was old and in need, yet that country is today a monument to him and the thousands of other unseemly, and obscure, patriots who fought for it.

Children and Marital Security

Today perhaps more than at any time in history, thoughtful people are debating the wisdom of bringing their children into the world. The future, dark with many uncertainties, can only be guessed, and many of the guesses are distinctly gloomy. As for the present, the cost of having a child and caring for it seems as a barrier for many young couples.

There are doubters everywhere, young people who, deny their natural desire for children and rationalize their denial by telling each other, "We can live without the risk of children until we have children without risk."

Against this background, it is heartening to hear a strong voice urging that the fundamental business of perpetuating the race must go on, despite the future with its prospect of war and the present with its certainty of high living costs. Such a voice is Henry C. Link, and it is raised in the May issue of The Reader's Digest. To all doubters, Link says in effect, "Have children."

Link should know. He has studied many marriages, happy and unhappy, and from his studies drawn the conclusion that the greatest cause of marital misery is the prolonged postponement of parenthood. People who, for reasons of "security," put off having children may realize too late that they've lost the very security they're seeking.

Link sees children as the chief purpose of sex and marriage. "Why the experience of sex is subordinated to the birth and care of children it takes on a new spiritual significance that is the basis for lasting love."

The old-fashioned idea that a childless family is the best security for adults and children alike finds, as Link thinks, timely and sound expression in Link's up-to-the-minute essay.

Budget — The Hungarian Government reports that 22.9 per cent more freight was carried by the country's railways in 1950 than in 1949.

IT'S A GOOD WORLD

BY WILMA

The new school lunchroom nearing completion in Maytown looks grand. No one knows it is the fulfillment of a new dream. Soon after moving to Maytown several years ago, the man insisted the school needed a P.T.A., an organization that had been discontinued sometime. He did not stop till he got one and made known its major objective: a lunchroom. He stayed behind the thing till it became a reality, and still heads the group working to furnish the building by fall. Every town needs more places like Arnold Maggard, people who refuse to be deterred by obstacles, people who can translate words into action.

Hats off to Hi Hat and McDowell women who raised the five hundred dollars in the cancer drive. Some say Mrs. C. J. Aders is behind the move. She also promotes the 800 clubs in Floyd, an organization that is going places. It takes an active interest in the sick, the shut-ins, the aged, the needy and other groups we all need to remember.

Friends throughout the county hope for a speedy recovery of Rev. Bob Anderson, of Betsy Layne, who is ill in the Methodist hospital, Pikeville. He and his good wife are live wires in many fields.

Good reports continue about the work of Miss Dorothy Norton, county social worker in a new field. She is available to explain the varied program of her department. Better understanding and closer cooperation with our social agencies and representatives will result in mutual benefit.

One also hears much about the tubercular work now under way, since Floyd became the first county in the state ever to employ a full-time nurse for this work. The continued demand for Mrs. Mayo as a speaker shows the wide interest in this disease, which can only be controlled and eradicated by the combined efforts of all.

For months papers have carried articles, "Kentucky on the March," which, according to report, was the brainchild of Miss Chiff O'Leary, Lexington, former president of KPWOC. The series was designed to help the Committee for Kentucky, whose work now rests with the people and each separate county. Some responded early. Others have yet to begin. Many are still working with the desire to make the Forward March continuous and indefinite, as it should be, since much will always remain to be done everywhere.

Last week The Times convinced readers Floyd, too, is on the move. Green pastures, a new town movement, a date set to organize a Chamber of Commerce in the county seat, and other features indicate when Devery Lake becomes the mecca it is expected to, the population will not be found sleeping. As one of the newest counties in the state, Floyd should readily achieve success in any undertaking.

Senator Vandenberg will be missed in national and world affairs. He was that rare public figure who placed his country and the common good above party interests, with which he often took issue.

Similarly, Floyd will miss Elbert Gregory, a man of firm principles and convictions.

Have to forgive the editor—or whoever—for poking in a N.S. last week when the carbon showed U.N. Too many times he has caught and corrected my own spelling. But when somebody changed principles to principals, we were ready to ask how come, till second reading showed either could apply correctly, depending on the interpretation.

A gandy article in Look, April 19, entitled, "Is School Making Your Child Neurotic?" is helpful to parents as well as teachers. Some age-old fundamental truths are emphasized in this. If more frequently applied, there would be fewer delinquents. Many of us find it difficult to grasp that we are living in a rapidly changing world. No teacher today would use the methods employed fifteen years ago. The same holds true in all dealings with youth.

When you look at the times we live in . . . and then take a look at this new Chrysler Windsor . . . you might almost think we'd had advance information and special-built this car just to fit these times!

Certainly it treats your hard-earned and tight-stretched dollars with a respect that's hard to find in a good many things you buy:

To begin with, the Windsor line is the least-priced of the three lines of cars we build at Chrysler. To buy one gets you all the basic goodness Chrysler engineering means, at the very lowest cost. That's good sense in itself.

In powerplant, your Windsor brings you Chrysler Spitfire . . . one of the truly great engines in the whole bright history of America's motor cars. Time-proved and owner-beloved, it would be hard to put your money on a sounder friend than this to live and travel with you through the months ahead!

As to comfort, Windsor brings you the amazing travel bonus all Chrysler owners get this year . . . the revolutionary new Driflow shock absorber. With more than twice the shock-absorbing power of any other in the world, this amazing new device keeps wheels steady on the road, and riders steady in their seats.

As you can see, it is no idle claim that this car makes very special sense in these unusual times. But why not get the whole good story at first hand? Why not go see your Chrysler Dealer, very soon?

Beautiful to drive!

Ratliff-Barnes Wedding Announced

Mrs. Mary L. Kline, Fresno, California, announces the wedding of her son, L.L. Claude M. Barnes, U. S. Air Force Corps of Women's Medical Specialist, to Mr. Oliver Ratliff of Lexington, Kentucky, in Tokyo, Japan, April 3. The double ring ceremony was performed in St. Luke's Chapel, Tokyo Army Hospital, by Chaplain James E. Henshaw, Major, U. S. Army, in the presence of a few close friends. Miss Virginia Lamberson, American Red Cross of British Isles, attended the bride and Mr. Myrtle Clarke, American Civil Service, Ann Arbor, Michigan, was best man. The bride wore a gold colored suit with light green accessories and white orchid corsage. Following the ceremony a reception was held in Major Henshaw's apartment.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Barnes of Harroville, Kansas. She was graduated from the School of Dietetics, University of Kansas, with an internship at St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester, Minnesota. Prior to accepting a commission in the U. S. Air Force Corps of Women's Medical Specialist, she was on the staff of clinicians for the Veterans Administration, Washington, and the University of Ohio, Athens, Ohio.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Ratliff, of Maytown, Pa. He was graduated from Maytown High School and Maytown State Teachers College, and has done graduate work at the University of Oregon. At one time he was engaged in educational work in Pleasanton, Ky.

After spending a honeymoon in Kyoto, Japan, Mr. and Mrs. Ratliff returned to Johnson Air Force Base, Tokyo, where Mr. Ratliff is employed by Civil Service as Director of Education and Mrs. Ratliff is dietitian in the Air Force Hospital. They plan to reside there until they return to the United States.

WASHER PARTS

Opposite Fountain Corner
PRESTONSBURG, KY.

THE INSIDE STORY OF T.B.

At one time it was called consumption, or the wasting disease. Those who with it lost weight, strength, color, and gradually wasted away. Today we know more about the disease and we are able to cure it long before it reaches the wasting stage. We can also prevent it. No longer do we call it consumption but by the more hopeful and scientific name, tuberculosis, or TB for short.

TB is a catching disease caused by the germ, tubercle bacillus. People who have the disease in their throats or lungs spit out these germs or cough them up. When the germs get into the mouth or nose of a healthy person, he may get the disease. TB germs are spread in several different ways. Kissing on the lips is one. Using the drinking glass or spoon of a person who has TB is another. Germs spit on the floor or the ground may mix with the dust and later be inhaled into the lungs.

When TB germs enter the body, they cause a reaction. The body fights them, just as seed which fall on the right soil may take root. The germs are alive and soon increase in number. The body fights back, not killing the germs but by growing a kind of covering around them so that the germs cannot spread to other parts of the body. At first this covering is very delicate, finer than a spider web, but gradually it gets thicker. Like the scar that forms after a cut, the germs are held in a little prison, and look like bubbles or tubercles. That is why the disease is called tuberculosis.

Many people have TB germs locked up in their bodies but are not sick. Most of them do not even know that a silent battle has been fought in their bodies and that the germs are locked up. The tubercles act as a tiny drop of fluid that has seeped into the skin, will tell whether there are TB germs in the body. To know how much damage has been done to the lungs, an x-ray picture must be made.

As long as the germs are safely locked up in the tubercle, no harm is done. In some cases, the tubercles break down even after years have passed. Then the germs spread to other parts of the lung and soon the fine air pockets of the lung are destroyed. This happens especially to one who lives in a household where there is TB and large numbers of germs are taken in, day after day. The body cannot fight them off fast enough; the germs get the upper hand. This is more likely to happen if a person's health is run down from overwork, lack of good food, exposure to cold or dampness, worry or hardship of any kind. If not caught in time, the disease is very difficult to cure, usually resulting in death.

For example, two sons and a daughter were exposed to active TB in their home where the father died of the disease. When the boys were examined for army service, both appeared well and strong but showed small spots in the lungs when x-rayed. Both got under early treatment, which included bed rest and plenty of nourishing food. After a year, both returned to their work and upon interview last month reported they were feeling well and not missing a shift.

The daughter was not x-rayed until she had a severe hemorrhage and was far advanced with TB, within nine months she died.

Mrs. J. D. Mayo, Floyd County's fulltime TB nurse, reports the following work done in the county during March: New admissions to advisory service—7 active; 4 arrested; 61 contacts and suspects; readmissions, contacts and suspects; 45 field visits—16 active cases; 5 arrested; 131 contacts and suspects; 53 x-ray pictures made.

Newfoundland Offers Salmon St. Johns, Newfoundland — Although there are dozens of excellent salmon streams in Newfoundland, there are no leased rivers or private fishing clubs.

To the People of Floyd County:

After having been urged by many people of this county, I hereby announce my candidacy for Commonwealth's Attorney of this district. The people of this county have been good to me and I have likewise been good to them. Not one penny did I ever charge anyone for an accommodation and never expect to. Your cooperation and influence in the coming Primary will be highly appreciated.

With the 17th Infantry Division in Korea—Among the Kentuckians fighting with the 17th Infantry regiment—the Buffaloes are two from Floyd County. They are:

Captain Raymond Perrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Perrell, Wheelwright, and Pfc. Robert Stansbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stansbury, of Bant.

Their unit was originally known as the 17th U. S. Infantry (Kentucky) and drew most of its personnel and officers from Kentucky.

During the Korean campaign the "Buffaloes" participated in two amphibious landings and later spearheaded the United Nations advance to the Manchurian border. More recently, the regiment took part in "Operation Killer" and was credited with inflicting a large number of enemy casualties.

Think Twice Before That Tonsil Operation

Once tonsils were yanked on the slightest pretext or non-sense. Today, medical science takes a different view. Writing of the functions of tonsils and the dangers of tonsillectomy, in the May Reader's Digest, Louis Mattox Miller says: "Tonsils are now recognized as part of the lymphatic system which has the important job of trapping, destroying and draining off infection before it can penetrate deeper. Tonsil surgery occurs most frequently in children under ten. At this age the body is waging a constant fight against a host of infections, building up immunities that will last a lifetime. Immunization will increase steadily if the tonsils are left intact, even though they occasionally become swollen and inflamed."

Definitely infected tonsils should of course be removed, says Miss Miller's article, condensed from Today's Health, but tonsils that are merely inflamed are often warning signals of other trouble, such as had teeth, sinus infection or allergy. "Tonsil surgery in such cases is like trying to put out the fire by silencing the alarm!"

In recent years many parents and doctors have considered tonsils useless, disease-breeding organs, and a surgical crusade was organized against them. School nurses and medical examiners have been responsible for many needless tonsilectomies. Any child with enlarged tonsils was likely to be sent home with a note recommending the operation. Throat specialists, however, now urge public health authorities that this practice is unwise.

Surveys during polio epidemics have indicated that polio incidence was three times greater among children whose tonsils had recently been removed. Tonsil operations should never be performed when polio is present in the vicinity, the author warns.

Health Director Leads Annual Health Program Of Betsy Layne Club

Betsy Layne, Ky., April 26 (Sp.)—The Betsy Layne Woman's Club held its annual health program open to the public, Thursday night, April 26, in the Betsy Layne grade school auditorium.

Mrs. Williams opened the meeting with a short welcoming talk and then introduced Mr. Purman, who led the devotionals. Mrs. Carlisle, Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Beecher Hardwick, vice-president were introduced. Dr. Marvin Randall, guest speaker, was introduced and he opened his part of the program by giving a very informative and helpful talk on tuberculosis, its history, prevention, symptoms and treatment. The extent of tuberculosis in Kentucky and Floyd county tuberculosis program and one of the main points brought out was the fact that a full-time tuberculosis nurse has been employed by the Floyd county branch.

Mrs. Wright, next guest speaker, gave an interesting talk concerning the health program in the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs and presented the six-point program to be carried out by clubs in the Federation.

"Goodby, Mr. Germ," a film showing the life history of the tuberculosis germ, was shown and Dr. Randall concluded the program by showing a spot map of Floyd county, with deaths from tuberculosis, active and arrested cases of TB being marked by pins. The club was ably assisted by D. W. Howard, James Brooks and Gene Stanley in presenting the program as a community enterprise.

The Betsy Layne Woman's Club sponsored a benefit Cancer show, Friday afternoon March 30, 1951 at the Betsy Theater. With the cooperation of D. W. Howard, principal of the Betsy Layne school, and Mack Elliott, owner of the Betsy Theater, approximately $75 was received for the Cancer Campaign. On Tuesday, April 10, members of the Betsy Layne Woman's Club visited the local Boy Scout troop meeting. At the close of the recreational period, club members, assisted by Mr. Beecher Hardwick, Scout Leader, served approximately twenty-five Scouts sandwiches, cookies and soft drinks.

THE SUGAR LOAF RESTAURANT AND 17 BEAUTIFUL BUILDING LOTS

Located at the mouth of Sugar Loaf, four miles from Prestonsburg and fronting on U.S. 23, this is, we believe, one of the most desirable sites for residence or business to be offered at auction in this county in many years.

The Sugar Loaf Restaurant building was built only two years ago, is two stories; upstairs has a five-room apartment, with complete, modern bath. The restaurant on the first floor has a Grade A rating, is fully equipped as a modern restaurant should be, and the entire building has free gas, running water and electricity. This building is 30 by 38 feet and a service station goes with it.

An established business, with a splendid future, only two miles from Dewey Lake.

The 17 lots offered at this sale are on the same beautiful, level, high and dry tract of bottom land on which the restaurant is located. These are ideal for home sites, and somebody with initiative has a chance to establish here one of the Big Sandy valley's finest motel businesses.

Mrs. Bradis Goble has authorized us to make this sale because she with her brother owns the dock concession on Dewey Lake, and this business demands her full attention.

Liberal terms will be announced on the day of sale. Don't fail to see this property, and study its possibilities for pleasant living or for profitable business.

Jest Among Us...

By Jack WIM

The small, dark-skinned men bowed, stunted very white girls, and handed me cards bearing their names. One man's name was Koshin Shikita. The only English he could speak was "No Speak English." The second man, who served as translator, was Toshio Onaga. They were, according to the cards, president and business manager respectively of the University of the Ryukyus, Shuri City, Okinawa. They had come to Kentucky to visit the State University and Berea College.

These little men have a big job to do. Okinawa, you'll recall, was a battleground in World War II, and American troops are still on the strategic island. In the Ryukyus, stretching chainlike between Formosa and Japan, a million people live, grow sugar, cane and sweet potatoes, and pray another war or typhoon will not strike again soon.

Most of the buildings on Okinawa were flattened by bombs and shells during the war. The flimsy structures that have been erected cannot withstand tropical storms but there is no money for permanent buildings. Food, except for sweet potatoes and rice, is scarce. Much must be imported from Burma and Thailand. Farmers are too poor to buy machinery—which would cause unemployment anyway—and so the farm work is done by hand. There are few natural resources.

Last May, faced with mountainous obstacles, the University of the Ryukyus was established on the site of a bombed-out castle. Today it has several temporary buildings, six departments, 33 teachers who were educated in Japan, and 540 students, including about a hundred girls. The military government must be imported from Burma and Thailand. Farmers are too poor to buy machinery—which would cause unemployment anyway—and so the farm work is done by hand. There are few natural resources.

President Shikita and Professor Onaga came to this country to study the organization of our universities and to see for themselves how the students of such schools as Berea pay their way by working. We drove around the U.K. farm at Lexington and our oriental visitors were greatly impressed by its size. Of all the things they saw, they seemed most interested in a silo we passed, and they kept saying it over and over in their soft voices—"shilo, shilo." They didn't like so many visitors, want to know why the bluegrass is green, but they did ask if it was the same color all year long.

"Smart Buy's Roadmaster"

It started the day the 1951 ROADMASTER made its first appearance—and has been building up ever since.

Folks looked at the fresh new styling—the power—the features—the fabrics—the cloud-soft cushions—and the prices—and said, "Here's the smart buy in the fine-car field."

Why don't you come and see for yourself what a sensational buy this proud beauty really is?

It's a honey to handle—a joy to ride in—and just about the handsomest thing on wheels.

It has room, and poise, and a level-going gait that comes from coil springs front and rear.

There's a triumphant thrill in the willing obedience of its Fireball power and the luxurious ease of its Dynaflow Drive, which doesn't cost you a penny extra.

There's a sweeping view fore and aft through broad and uncluttered glass areas, and the new clarity of an instrument panel with high visibility at night.

Even the brakes are new, self-cooling, with a grip that takes hold like steel fingers in a velvet glove.

Here indeed is a car that is fine in bearing, in action, and in the precision of every structural part—a ROADMASTER custom built by Buick. When will you try one as our guest?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.
