This Town--
That World

Ed Arnold had no blood relatives in Floyd County. But his was a spirit that made him kin to all the world. His favorite poem, incidentally, was "Let Me Live in a House by the Side of the Road."

GIVE THESE CREDIT
We stop right here to make amends to a small group of Floyd county citizens, most of them women, who are playing important roles in the life of their county. These are the unsung folks who each week write the news of their communities for this newspaper. Without them, their communities, their churches and schools and clubs would have no public notice. We thank them for their service. We wish there were more like them.

IT HAPPENED IN '51

It's been a wacky year, good for 1951 has.
Washington has its deep-freezers and mink coats to keep you warm if you fall inside. And the usual number of cows climbed down into wells, and so on. Then there were some of the other oddities such as: In Cincinnati two trains collided in opposite directions struck Mr. Clayton Buehler's car. He was hit standing on the tracks, steering wheel in hand, sent dazed into another hubbub.

And two Republicans had it out for town clerk in a New York town. A guy named Tail licked one named Murphy. Then after this little ruckus was over, Tail's car hit Murphy's dog. Tail stopped to investigate and the dog growled and bit him. Tail then threatened Murphy took Tail to the hospital. But on the way he had to jam on his brakes and Tail's head broke out his windshield, doing Tail's head no good, either. An hour later, Murphy's dog died.

Oh, well—just wait till 1952 writes its screwball history.

ALL THE SAME PEOPLE

Not long after Christmas, one of my friends spent some time here in the office, discussing this and that, and in the course of our conversation he told of meeting Jim Wright in Prestonsburg to transact his business in a town of another county as a matter of regular practice. I thought of asking him why he was Christmas-time and I didn't feel like a discussion of a matter on which he and I were in disagreement. So the matter passed.

Since then, I've been thinking about this statement and I've been wondering.

OPENS FRIDAY

New W'right Building
To Be Used First Time
In Basketball Contest

Wheelwright's new gymnasium will accommodate a basketball crowd for the first time Friday night when Coach Adrian Hall's Maroons meet the Pikeville high school Panthers. The gym will seat approximately 1,000 fans. It supplies a building which was described as a "bandbox gym" and which placed Wheelwright in a position to serve handicapped when playing away from home on regulation floors. The team this week was busy trying to get acquainted with the larger space. The entire building has been used for the first time. The first floor which will house the school cafeteria, its industrial arts department, band room and storage quarters.

AKERS BEGINS
TAX LISTING

Property Owners Must
List before March 1st
Under New State Law

Clive Akers, Floyd County Tax Commissioner, announced this week that his office has been taking information for the 1952 assessment. The official period for taking the taxpayer's list is from Jan. 1 to Sept. 1. Mr. Akers has requested that these dates be closely observed since the period for preparing the tax rolls for approval by the Department of Revenues is very short. For this reason there can be no late additions to the regular roll he said.

All property is assessable as of January 1, except cash in hand and tobacco in storage, which is assessable as of September 1. A property owner who fails to assess his property is subject to a 10 per cent penalty for omission.

Property owners are urged to avoid an undue rush by calling at the Tax Commissioner's office at their earliest convenience and listing their property.

7 FROM FLOYD
HELD BY REDS

Prisoner List Not
Yet Cleared; Radio
Says Hayes Prisoner

The prisoner-of-war list released by Communist forces shortly before Christmas brought to seven the number of Floyd countians admitted to be Red prisoners. The list, however, remains to be done to clear the entire list of Americans known to be missing, many presumed to have been captured. This fact makes the hope of relatives of men reported missing in action that their loved ones will later turn up as prisoners.

Prisoners reported: S. C. Forrest B. Montgomery, Jr., 1537871, Second division, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darius Montgomery, West Prestonsburg; Capt. Raymond C. P. Taggart, Allen, 1542174, 24th division, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin I. Allen, West Prestonsburg; Sgt. Raymond Cook, RA1578330, Second division, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Cook, Buckingham, at York-Dow.

Sp. Mickey A. Whitaker, RA1578334, 24th division, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Whitaker, Cliff, at York-Dow.

Another Floyd county soldier, Randolph Hayes, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hayes, Haysville, was mentioned in a radio broadcast as a prisoner. He has not, however, been officially reported missing by the Department as such, pending further investigation.

The first three reported from this county as prisoners were Pfc. James C. Bales, son of Mrs. Zephia Parker, Prestonsburg; Pfc. Charles R. Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Worley Boyd, Prestonsburg; and Cpl. Raymond Shepherd, son of Mrs. Annie C. Howard, Pyramid.

TWO KILLED
IN CRASHES

Ratliff, Donathan Die
In Car Wrecks; Porter
Is Accused in Wreck

Two automobile tragedies in this county on the same day, three days before Christmas, brought to eight the total of those killed in this county during 1951 by motor vehicles.

The first of these claimed the life of Jimmy Ratliff, 42, employee of the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company at its Dwaile compressor station, as an auto driven by the Porter, of Dwaile, left the highway, a short distance from the home of Alex Spencer, between Bush Creek and Eastern, on the morning of Dec. 22.

The second wreck occurred around 8 o'clock that night on Abbott mountain, near here, with Curtis Donathan, 22, of Grethel, the victim.

The wreck in which Donathan died was not discovered until 12 hours later, and through the night his companion, John Knight, of Francis, attys., Delmar Layne, and Elsie Layne vs. Elmo Gray, Jr., and W. B. Burchett, attys., Ky. W. Va. Gas Co. vs. Delmar Layne, et al., Combs & Combs, attys.

Knight said he called for help as autos passed by, but he could not make himself heard. He told those who discovered the wreck, the following morning, that he talked to Donathan some time after the car left the highway and rammed into a tree about 20 feet below the road, and that the dying man replied only in delirium.

Knight said he had done off and on the car left the road. He could not explain the wreck. Donathan was so firmly pinned in the smashed car that a wreck was required to pull

THURSDAY

BOARD CUTS
COLLECTION
COMMISSION

Holds Sheriff May
Be Paid 1 Per Cent;
Votes Architect Pay

The Floyd County Board of Education voted unanimously Tuesday to allow Sheriff H. A. Made 1 per cent of the total of school taxes collected for 1950 and requested that he remit the difference between that commission and the 2 1/2 per cent he had withheld pending a settlement of the question.

County Superintendent Palmer L. Hall said school tax collections for the year totalled approximately $450,000 and that the 1 1/2 collection fee will result in a saving to the school system of around $6,700.

Kentucky law allows Sheriffs a maximum of 4 1/2 per cent on school tax collection work, but the Court of Appeals has ruled that they may not collect more than the actual expenses they incur in the collection of taxes.

The Board also voted to pay the firm of Hayes & Lusk, Ashland architects, the $9,000 tendered due on plans for the proposed high school building here, but based this on the approval by the State Department of Education of an application for permission to exceed the Board's budget. The Board had previously paid the architects $2,400 on the plan which was for a building costing $336,100 without a gymnasium.

With plans and a six-acre tract of land which to build, construction will be completed soon. Year of Impoundment,
Manager Announces

Dewey Lake in its first full year of impoundment attracted a total of 506,102 persons. Roy Moore, reservoir manager, reported Wednesday after adding the figures obtained on the last visitations of the year.

Last Sunday was the lake's biggest single day during December. The warm weather sent 376 persons that day out to take a look at the water where many of them had enjoyed outings or fishing during the warm months. Last week, a total of 781 visited the lake.

The week ending Dec. 16 was the lowest in the matter of visitations with 305. The first week of the month saw the most visitors there—814—and 561 were counted during the week ending Dec. 23.

The call referred, according to Profitt, to the campaign being conducted by the Student Action Society against business places which pay off to winners of the game of pinball machines. Before Thanksgiving, Profitt and Ted Darlington, another member of the Society, swore out warrants against Robinson's, Jerry's, and Crane's Restaurants for paying off.

Three machines were turned up by police, and each restaurant was fined $100.

"Police are happy about the whole thing," Profitt said. "Several of us have promised cooperation."

The Student Action Society was formed after the recent complaints about student gambling. Prof. J. E. Reeves of the Political Science Department is advisor of the group, whose purpose is "to discover and to discourage illegal practices adjacent to or near where students frequent, that affect the moral welfare of the students of the University."

About 15 students now belong to the Society.

"We formed after the recent anti-gambling resolution was passed about the campus," Profitt said. "We thought the resolution would not have much effect on gambling, and decided to take a definite, positive step toward ridding the campus of gambling."

Several students commended the action by the group. He said, but others thought the Student Action Society was just prying into the affairs of others."

the dashboard of the auto from his body before rescuers could remove him.

The two men were driving from Detroit, where they were employed, to spend the holidays at Donath's home at Grethel.

An involuntary manslaughter warrant for Leo Porter, driver of the car in which Ratliff was killed, was sworn out by State Patrolman Chester D. Potter. Porter later was released on bond. Patrolman Potter said that investigation did not uncover evidence that the auto was speeding but that it was being driven dangerously. He said Porter, at first claimed he was forced off the highway by another vehicle but that he later said he did not know what caused the wreck.

The auto dropped over an embankment, nosed over and turned turtle. Ratliff's skull was fractured and he died at the Stunio Memorial hospital, Luckey, soon after his arrival there. Porter was slightly hurt.

Ratliff was a son of W. R. and Mrs. Lacey Lincoln Ratliff and was a native of the Langley vicinity. He was widely respected in the community. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ada May Crisp Ratliff, five children, Chester, Donnie, Lottie Ellen, Janice and Opal; three brothers, John, Wilf, Pt. Benning, Ga., Newt Ratliff, Martin, and Henry Ratliff, Langley; and three sisters, Bess Ratliff, of Langley, Mrs. Loretta Potter, of Mantion, and Lizzie Ratliff, of Ohio.

His funeral was conducted, Christmas Day, from the Baptist church at Drake, the Rev. Willard W. Wayne Blanton and Ira Fields officiating.

Donath is survived by his parents, Bert and Bettie Tackett Donath, of Grethel, four brothers, Ernest, Detroit, Kermit, with wife, and two sons, Bert, Jr. and Edwin Donath, both of Grethel, and two sisters, Mrs. Bortha Hall, McClure, W. Va., and Mrs. Martha Houser, Rasmussen, Michigan.

His body was taken to the home at Grethel of his parents, and from there to the residence of Rufus Tackett, on Canal Fork Creek, Pike county, where burial was held, Dec. 25. Burial was made there.

Funerals and burials of both victims were directed by the Carter & Callahan Funeral Home.

The Board by a new order Tuesday repeated its action of a few months ago of employing V. O. Turner, principal of the Maytown consolidated school, as Superintendent of Floyd schools, effective Jan. 1, 1952. At the same time it increased the salary of Joe Holsen, Prestonsburg, as attorney for the Board from $75 to $100 a month.

John Hall, principal of the school at B. Hall, of Allen, for employment as clerk in the Superintendent's office was approved by the Board. Mrs. Hall, herself a former county Superintendent of Schools, succeeds Mrs. Hazel Campbell, who resigned to accept employment with the Kentucky Welfare Department.

Payment of $2,180 to John Parsons for moving the old three-room Melvin school building to McDowell and re-erecting it marked the establishment of the 14th school luncheon in this county. The building has been repaired and enlarged, and will accommodate approximately 300 pupils daily, it is estimated. Only two high schools in the county, Betsy Layne and Axtell, remain without lunch service for pupils.

Another item of business was the granting to the state and county high-school boys' road over the Lower Prater school property.

I've been wondering why Floyd county folks prefer to go outside their county to trade, to have their money forever outside the county, with no acquaintance, relative or even of trading over having more of an outside chance of profiting from it or even of touching it again, where that money never help but to keep it out of the county, any other cause worth supporting.

We talk about goodwill and peace among nations and men—and at the same time refuse fellowship among our own.

Prestonsburg is a county-seat town, just as Pikeville is, and Paintsville and Seberville and 110 other Kentucky towns. It is a Place—not a thing. Certainly not a thing to be hated because it is the center of county government and because that is unpleasant about government—taxes, lawsuits, court attendance, imprisonment, etcetera—can't get here.

I was born and reared in the county and am a living example of the old saw that you can take the out of the county but you can't take the country out of the boy. I know the petty grievances the folk out in the country harbored and nurse against Prestonsburg. I've heard them all. When I was a boy I did my part of the harbouring and harassing and took my share in "town," as we referred to the county-seat then, were a snooty, uppity breed, had nothing for me or mine and were bent, heart and soul, on doing us out of whatever we might possess.

But the years have given me another view of such matters. I have learned that people are just plain folks; wherever they live; that each of us has his own worries and problems, and that each of us is out in the worthy pursuit of life, liberty and happiness; and that the child in town cries, gets hungry, gets his pants soiled and looks for Santa Claus just like I did out in the country. What I am trying to say is this: We are all human, with human frailties and strengths, and none of these depend on whether I live in Prestonsburg or back up at my old home on Salt Lick.

I have found that the people in Prestonsburg or Martin or any other town of this county will help others of this county who need help. I do not mean quickly than any other people in this world of ours. I mean reading the same books, sharing the enjoyment of the same friends, worshipping the same God, and worrying about the same taxes and other expenses that good people on the farms accept as a part of their lives.

The truth of the matter is, I find that a large part of the population of Prestonsburg and Paintsville and Pikeville and these other county seat towns has its roots imbedded deep in the farm; that the earliest and fondest memories of these people belong out there where they were born and where those who have come on before them are buried. There is scarcely a creek in this county that is not represented by somebody now living in Prestonsburg.

This is not to say that Prestonsburg or any other town is perfect. It isn't even meant to claim that it is as near perfection as some other places. It is intended, however, to state our contention that, for all its failures and faults, it is a part of Floyd county, closely allied to the people of this county, and more interested—believe it or not—in the well-being and advancement of our people, the progress of education and religion in Floyd county than is any other county-seat town in Kentucky.

These are some of the reasons my friend's statement has stuck with me over the holidays. I tell it with writing this bit about it. We can all live at loggerheads with each other, but it isn't the way for human beings to live. I'd say—buy what you need in your own community, if you can. If you can't, try to find it in your own county before going elsewhere.

And if that doctrine makes me a bad Floyd citizen, you can have my ball and bat—let play elsewhere.

County Judge Stumbo at the examining trial of Hunt ordered him to jail with $10,000 bond. The circuit court was in session later granted him $15,000 bond. Hunt was returned to jail when Commonwealth's Attorney Martin questioned Judge Stumbo's jurisdiction to bind him to the examining trial. But the court, on an opinion of the attorney General, Judge Hill decided the bond accepted by Stumbo was valid, and so Hunt again was released. Then came last Saturday's hearing.

Mr. Martin and the law firm of Hockett & Tackett presented, Saturday, a Court of Appeals decision in the case of O. Holt, bondsman for a man who had committed a felony in Ballard county. In this case the examining court had fixed the defendant's bail at $500 and in default thereof the accused was remanded to jail. The evidence against Holt, rated the bond to $1,000. This latter bond was later forfeited, and so the bondsman appealed to the Appellate Court. The result was an opinion, a salient feature of which was this paragraph:

"The examining court after hearing the evidence against Holt, questioned its judgment as to the probable guilt of the prisoner, fixing the amount of his bail, and committing him to jail by reason of his failure to give the same, had discharged all the duties imposed and exercised all the powers conferred upon it by law. As a judicial tribunal, it was functus officio. Its jurisdiction had terminated by operation of law, and could not be revived at the mere will of the magistrate. Hence the mandamus, or order increasing the amount of bail was wholly unauthorized, and consequently null and void."

The same opinion, it was pointed out, stated that "said bond has been forfeited. Hence the mandamus or order increasing the amount of bail was wholly unauthorized, and consequently null and void."

This was the first time in this county a lower court's jurisdiction had been questioned in such a manner. Judge Stumbo recently said in a discussion of the case that he had followed precedent and had had no indication that he did not have jurisdiction.

Commonwealth's Attorney Martin took the position that he was not objecting to Hunt being granted bail but that he insisted that bail be legal and binding.

Kentucky Railroads Are the Backbone of Kentucky Industry

KENTUCKY's railroads are a vital necessity to Kentucky's industries. They haul the raw materials to the factories and mills and haul the finished products to markets all over the country.

They are especially important to the mining, lumber, tobacco, agricultural, electric power, chemical, rubber and distilling industries — which require dependable, large volume, economical transportation.

Furthermore — scouts for large industrial operations in the North and East, investigating the State's possibilities for the location of factories, depend upon Kentucky's railroads for information of all kinds essential to plant location — covering sites, raw materials, labor, transportation facilities, markets, etc.

For many years Kentucky's railroads — through their industrial development departments — have been steadily working to develop new and existing industries in Kentucky . . . thus helping to provide more jobs, greater prosperity, larger tax revenues and better living conditions all over the Commonwealth.

STATE RANKS 4TH IN COAL

Mined Since 1800; Floyd 5th in Mine Production As Hopkins County 1st

WASHINGTON — Kentucky mines have produced about 7.9 per cent of all the bituminous coal mined in the United States since the Bituminous Coal Institute of the National Coal Association reports.

Yet, despite all the coal mined in Kentucky in more than 150 years, the state still ranks sixth in recoverable reserves of the solid fuel, figures compiled by the Institute show.

The Institute's 1951 report shows: Kentucky mines have produced 1,555,454,000 tons of coal since 1800. The state ranks fourth, behind Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Illinois.

Illinois is the only heavily mined state that outranks Kentucky in the volume of bituminous coal. The others with greater coal reserves are western states where comparatively little coal has been mined.

Kentucky has an estimated recoverable coal reserve of 29,634,000,000 tons.

It ranks behind North Dakota with 299,929,000,000 tons, Colorado with 158,198,000,000 tons, Montana with 118,840,000 tons, Illinois with 82,764,400,000 tons, and Wyoming with 60,407,000,000 tons.

West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and other states high in coal production rank well below Kentucky in reserves.

Moreover, Kentucky ranked third in volume of bituminous coal produced in 1950, according to preliminary figures.

West Virginia led in bituminous production in 1950 with 145,565,000 tons. Pennsylvania was second with 102,580,000 tons, and Kentucky third with 79,900,000 tons.

Five Kentucky counties, four of them in the Eastern section of the state, produced more than 3,000,000 tons each in 1949, the latest year for which there is a county-by-county breakdown.

Hopkins, in Western Kentucky, led with 10,628,515 tons. Pike was second with 8,775,715 tons. It was third with 8,665,715 tons. Letcher fourth with 6,577,137, and Floyd fifth with 5,038,015.

Only one state, West Virginia, led Kentucky in the number and capacity of new deep mines opened or placed in development in the five years before 1951.

Perry-eight new mines with a daily capacity of 111,200 tons were opened in Kentucky during the period. While 60 mines were put in operation in West Virginia. Their estimated daily production was 163,300 tons.

There still is a big field for modernization of coal production in Kentucky. The state ranked 18th among coal-producing states in the percentage of coal mined underground by machines in 1949.

Only 77.2 per cent, or 40,299,000 tons, was cut by machines in the state. The average for the nation was 91.4 per cent.

And the state ranked 16th in the percentage of coal cleaned mechanically. Only 20.6 per cent of Kentucky coal is cleaned mechanically, compared to the national average of 35.1.

Excelsior Alaska, Kentucky ranked sixth in the average value of each ton of bituminous coal produced at the mine in 1950. The value of Kentucky coal at the mine averaged $16.4 a ton.

Arkansas coal was high with a value of $18.4 a ton. Other states with coal more valuable at the mine included Alabama, New Mexico, Tennessee, and Virginia.

Kentucky ranked third in 1949 in the number of miners employed. The Kentucky total was 69,133, compared to 124,750 for Pennsylvania.

However, Kentucky's coal miners were behind those of 22 other states in the average number of days worked in 1949. They worked only 145 days. The miners of South Dakota averaged 250 days of work.

In the House of David fray Sunday, Blackburn again paced the scoring with 17 points. He was closely followed by Prater and Carson Coleman with 16 each, and Johnny Heintz with 14.

STATE FACES 'REAL CRISIS'

Says Group Studying Mental Patient Care; Shortcomings Listed

Kentucky is facing "a real crisis" in its mental hospital program. There are deficiencies in every major area of care, and the Kentucky Training Home (for the feeble-minded at Frankfort, is falling even shorter of meeting the mounting demands.

These findings are embodied in two research reports made for the Committee on Functions and Resources of State Government. The drafts are in the hands of a subcommittee which shortly will make its report to the main committee.

The crisis the state faces in its mental hospital program involves these points among others:

1. Building programs have not kept pace with increased patient loads. Slightly over 7,000 patients are crowded into four mental hospitals.
2. Professional staff members in the hospitals are too few even for a drastically reduced total patient load.
3. Facilities for research are inadequate.
4. Segregation of tubercular and epileptic patients is not always accomplished.
5. Use of modern techniques such as electric shock, insulin, electroencephalograms and hydro-therapy is limited due to lack of equipment and trained personnel.
6. Reception and treatment centers, where detailed studies of new patients could be made to insure a more accurate diagnosis, are not available.
7. A split administrative set-up as to preventive and curative care hampers the work.
8. The research report on mental hospitals says no easy solution exists for "the enormous problems involved," but the most pressing difficulties "are clearly monetary."

It points out that a "good beginning" has been made through the recent appointment of a full-time trained psychiatrist to direct the mental hospital program. Many building improvements have been made and tentative plans call for additional dormitories and facilities to reduce the present crowded conditions.

As to the Kentucky Training Home, now 22 per cent overcrowded with about 750 patients, children and adults, it performs largely "a custodial function," the other research report states. Although about 150 patients are epileptics, some are tubercular and the inmates generally are "much more susceptible to illness and disease than the average normal person," there is (as of the time of the report) no physician or graduate nurse on the staff.

The training home needs facilities for "at least 1,250 additional patients." It needs more staff and an increased pay scale to attract and hold capable workers. The building program needed would of itself represent "an enormous initial capital outlay," and a thoroughgoing program would involve between $6 and $10 million, a summary indicates.

Power Firm Warns There's Danger in T-V If Owner is Careless

"A stronger television signal is often a danger signal," that's the word of warning from F. M. Baker, manager, Kentucky and West Virginia Power Company, Inc., Pikeville.

Mr. Baker pointed out that many TV set owners have tall antennas that are over-extended and which may fall in a strong wind. The result is often death, injury, fire or a costly law suit.

He said the accident rate is actually climbing with the installation of TV antennas. After observing several cases where antennas or guy wires have hit power lines, he expressed the belief that most accidents involving antennas could have been prevented at the time of installation.

One of the basic faults with antenna installation is that they are placed too close to power lines. He explained that the height of the antenna should be measured so that if the antenna falls it will not hit power lines.

What happens when the antenna falls and shorts the main power lines in front of your home? First of all, current surges through the antenna which acts as a conductor into the base on the roof. If a person is holding the antenna or guy wire during installation, he may be electrocuted. At least, he receives a shock which may cause "him to fall and be electrocuted."

Fire may result. Many antennas are attached to old chimneys which do not offer enough support and often collect bird nests and other debris which may catch fire, setting the roof afire. This is a particularly dangerous situation in high winds, when most of the antennas fall.

A fallen antenna may bring on a costly law suit if the antenna damages a neighbor's property. A live power wire broken by the antenna may fall in a neighbor's yard where he or his children may touch it and be electrocuted.

All of these very real dangers exist in addition to the inconvenience caused many people who are without electricity until damaged wires can be repaired. Baker also pointed out that the current would burn out the expensive tubes and other parts of the owner's TV set.

"I'm not trying to scare anyone away from getting a television set," Mr. Baker said. "But more of the safety accidents involving antennas could be avoided at the time of installation with a few simple precautions."

33 Explorer Scouts From This Section To Visit Scout Ranch

Thirty-three Explorer Scouts from Lonesome Pine Council will make a trip to Philmont Scout Ranch, Cimarron, New Mexico, during the summer of 1952.

Philmont Scout Ranch, a national camp operated by the Boy Scouts of America, embraces 17,000 acres of land located in the northeast part of New Mexico, in the Rocky Mountains. Last year, more than 3,000 Scouts from every part of America visited the ranch.

The camping committee of the Council will make an effort to include Scouts from all seven districts of the Lonesome Pine Council. In order to be eligible for the trip, a Scout must be over 14 years of age, in good physical condition and have the approval of his parents and Scout leader. A 13-day expedition is planned for the Scouts from the Lonesome Pine Council while at Philmont. They will have an opportunity for horse-back riding, covering roads and trails of 50 miles within the ranch. Opportunity will be given for exploration, trout fishing, study of wild life, birds and trees, also study of rocks and minerals.

Arrangements will be made to permit the Scouts to stay in Scout camps located in Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado en route to and from Philmont. Scouts will spend five days on the road making the trip. The dates have been set for departure from Dewey Lake Scout camp, Wednesday, July 22, arriving at Philmont August 14. Scouts will have the supervision of adult leadership approved by the Executive Board of Lonesome Pine Council. The cost of the 23-day trip is estimated at $75.

John Dean, Scout executive, said that the first 30 boys to make application for the trip, who were registered with a Scout unit of the Lonesome Pine Council as an Explorer, and who fulfill other requirements for the trip, will be approved. Others will be placed on an alternate list.

Scouts over 14 years of age are being invited to participate in a Holiday Encampment, scheduled to be held near Grundy, Virginia, beginning Wednesday, December 26, and lasting through Friday, December 28.

A varied program of activity is being planned to include rifle marksmanship, ball-throwing, use of rope, knots and lashing; physical fitness and emergency service.

Adults, as well as older boys, are being invited to take advantage of the training program, which will give Scouts and leaders the "know-how" on organizing an Explorer unit in their home communities. Scouts and leaders will also receive training in planning and carrying out a program of exploring in the troop.

John Dean, Scout Executive of the Lonesome Pine Council, reported that excellent facilities are available. A building near Grundy, on US 460, has been made available for use by the Scouts. Plenty of space is available for camping and out-of-doors activities.

Saturday, December 29, a meeting and program for Order of the Arrow members of the Lonesome Pine Council will be held. The Order of the Arrow is an honorary camping society to which the outstanding campers in each Troop are elected to membership.

OPPOSE RAISE OF WT. LIMIT

County Officials Join In Protest at Meets Held in Louisville

State-wide protest against any increase in the legal weight limit of highway truck freighters in Kentucky was voiced by three county officials' organizations in their annual conventions at Louisville last week.

The Kentucky Sheriffs' Association, the Kentucky County Judges' Association and the Kentucky County Attorneys' Association each unanimously passed resolutions strongly opposing any increase in Kentucky's present law, which permits all public highways "and that in big truck trailers and semi-trailers, the resolutions stated, "greatly damage our highways and cause inconvenience to the traveling public."

The County Judges' Association resolution stated, in part, that as presiding officers of 120 Fiscal Courts, the judges know "and are greatly interested in the economical construction and maintenance of all public highways" and that "in recent years, particularly in 1950, Kentucky's highways have shown accelerated deterioration due to excessive weights transported by motor trucks and semi-trailer trucks," and urged that "if any change is made by the Legislature in the legal weight limit, it be for a decrease rather than an increase" in this.

The County Attorneys' Association in its resolution urged the Governor and the Lieutenant-Governor to use their influence to defeat any legislation seeking to increase the state truck load limit, and "that the members of the General Assembly be earnestly requested to oppose and defeat any such legislation."

The resolutions passed by the Sheriffs' Association said, in part, "A very small proportion of the roads of this state are built to stand any heavier trucks, use of which would cause great damage to our roads and would increase the cost of maintaining the roads" and "We are opposed to any legislation that would increase the weight limits of trucks on our highways."

U.S. PROBES POLITICKING

Civil Service Man Checks Road Setup At State Capital

A United States Civil Service Commission representative gave employees in the State Highway Department's Planning Division at Frankfort a quizzing recently, but whether he discovered any unlawful political activities remained undisclosed.

The visit by William B. High, of H. B. Sewell, a federal road engineer at Frankfort, said he made to Mack Galbreath, head of the U. S. Roads Administration office.

High, finally cornered by a newsman, confined his replies to not denying he is a representative of the commission.

The salaries of the 49-odd persons in the state division, which plans road construction and improvement—half of them in Frankfort and half in the field—are paid, 50-50 by the state and federal governments. The federal Hatch Act limits their political activities.

Highway Commissioner W. P. Curdin said that when he learned of High's activities, he went to him and told him, "If anything's wrong, we want it known—and, of all people, the commissioner wants to know."

Curdin said High replied that it was a routine inspection.

In telling of that, Curdin said, "There have been no political assessments," and added he understood some highway employees never contributed to campaign funds, "but no one has ever been fired for that."

Curdin also said he knew of no political activities that would violate the Hatch Act.

State Civil Defense Test Scheduled For Jan. 12

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 17 — The first full-scale exercise for the state's air defense filter centers at Louisville and Lexington and the air observation posts in their areas will be Jan. 12, Robert N. Hubbard, deputy Civil Defense director for Kentucky, announced today.

The exercise will be under the direction of the Eastern Air Defense Command of the Air Force and will be staged from 7 a.m. until 4 p.m. Airplanes from the Air Force, the Civil Air Patrol and the State Department of Aeronautics will cross Kentucky to test the ability of observers at the posts to trace invaders during a possible emergency.

Some 300 civilian volunteers will man each filter center to sift information telephoned from the posts and relay it to the Air Force. About 25 volunteers will work at each post.

Hubbard said about 80 per cent of the posts planned for the Louisville area will be active by the exercise date and that about half those in the Lexington area will be active. They have been in the process of organization since September.

Most of Kentucky is included in the two areas. Part of Southeastern Kentucky reports to a filter center at Knoxville and part of Southwestern Kentucky reports to Nashville. There will be about 350 observation posts in the state when the organization is completed.

Highway Deaths Total 25 In State Over Christmas

Twenty-five Kentuckians were killed by automobile accidents during a four-day period at Christmas. Latest records of the Kentucky State Police show. The figure was five more than were killed during a similar period in 1950.

Two of the fatal accidents occurred in Floyd county. Charles B. Jones, executive secretary of the Governor's Committee for Highway Safety, said the increase was possibly caused by an increase in traffic due to good weather over the state this Christmas. Bad weather over Christmas of 1950 kept traffic down, he said.

Jones said a preliminary report of accident causes shows speeding driving on the wrong side of the road and drinking while driving to have been the leading causes. The National Safety Council reported Kentucky was the fifth state in the number of fatalities over the holiday.

A SECOND "PRIME OF LIFE" AFTER 70

(From The Reader's Digest for December)

In the business and professional worlds the emphasis is increasingly upon youth. A man over 50, suddenly out of work finds virtually no job opportunities capable of utilizing the ability and experience he may well possess. Life expectancy today is the age of 65 has become for thousands of men a signpost for retirement.

Challenging this idea of life-on-the-shelf after 65, Dr. Martin Gumpert cites in the current Reader's Digest several instances of great human accomplishment at much more advanced years. On a recent trip to Europe he interviewed several lively 70-, 80-, and 90-year-old citizens, and reports their activities in an article condensed from the New York Times Magazine.

Vittorio Emanuele Orlando, former Italian Prime Minister who helped conduct the Treaty of Versailles, is now 91, an active member of the Italian Senate, head of a law firm and professor at the University of Rome. For other countries Orlando takes long walks. Dr. Raffaele Bastianelli, internationally known surgeon at 87, operates three times a week at the National Assembly, his own car, and until five years ago, flew his own plane. Philosopher Benedetto Croce, 85, lectures and writes in his 30-hour working day.

Bernhard Bernson, art historian, has just published a book at 83. Bernson writes he "could stand on a corner with his hat and let people to throw him their wasted hours." George Santayana, former Harvard professor now in Rome, still writes steadily at 87. Edmund Harriot, of France, once stripping of 79, provides at the National Assembly three days a week, drives every Saturday to Lyons, where he is mayor.

Active in British letters are Bernard Russell, 78, and Viscount Samuel, 80. Doubtless you have heard of another "old" Briton named Winston Churchill.

Old age, Dr. Gumpert insists, develops a creative urge and power of its own. Instead of a "second childhood," there is after a "second prime of life" which we should discover, explore and cherish.
