A bloodhound brought to the scene from Johnson county followed a trail from where the shotgun shells were found to the home of George and Henry Johnson. Several empty shotgun shells were found in the home of Frank Johnson, father of Bill, but both the father and son denied knowledge of how they came to be there. Both readily agreed they would submit to prairie tests to determine if they had fired a gun within the last 24 hours. The elder Johnson was not a suspect, but the elder of the two had fired his shotgun at a hawk threatening his chickens.

Bill Johnson, though claiming he had not fired a gun in two years, admitted taking a workman at the mine "the hood" later watch out Monday night, there'd be some shooting," but added that this was spoken only in jest.

Authorities were unable to establish a definite motive for the shooting, although previous trouble on Middle Creek reportedly arose from employment problems.

Attendance Figures Cited As Suit Filed On Fund Distribution

Figures released in connection with the suit filed at the behest of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce to force the state to distribute the common school fund on the basis of attendance rather than on the school census disclosed that school attendance in Floyd county is above the state average of 70 per cent of those listed in the census and, too, that this county is high among seven Eastern Kentucky counties listed as examples of nonattendance.

The state average of attendance is 70 per cent of the school census—i.e., all the children between the ages of 6 and 18. Floyd county's attendance average for last year was 72.5 per cent, with a census total of 15,088 and 10,942 of these in school.

Floyd, Bell, Breathitt, Harlan, Letcher and Wayne and Pike were listed as examples in a Courier-Journal story of the court action, because few of these counties have had attendance figures for last year and few children attend parochial schools here.

With 23,654 children in the school census and 17,017 of these attending school last year, Pike had the lowest attendance percentage stood as 71.5 per cent.

In counties such as Campbell, Kinton, Jefferson and Nelson where a large part of the school population attends parochial schools, the percentage of public school attendance in relation to those in the census was lower even than in Eastern Kentucky counties. These counties, however, are paid on the basis of the census, as are all others.

The lawsuit, filed by J. J. Leary, Frankfort, and S. S. Willis, Ashland, asks the court to do two things:

1. To enjoin the Superintendent of Public Instruction from making payments on a census basis.

2. To direct him to make them on an attendance basis at the start of the next term, July 1, 1952.

"This suit," Leary said, has been pending only after long and mature study and we have timed it for a decision by the Court of Appeals in January, while the 1952 Legislature is in session.

"We wanted a final answer early in the session for two reasons. First, if we win the suit, the Legislature will have plenty of time to make all the old sections of law conform to the ruling of the court. Second, the Legislature will have time to give relief to districts adversely affected if it deems that course necessary."

Distribution of state money on the basis of the census, instead of attendance in public school, has had this principal effect:

"It has enabled low-attendance districts to divert state funds to children not in school. This profit has been at the expense of districts where attendance at public schools routinely corresponds to the number of children in the census."

This term, the state is sending to 21 school districts $844.00 for each child between 6 and 18 living in the district. These payments amount to $26,212.00.

The districts get this money whether the children are in school or not. The fewer pupils in attendance, the fewer teachers to be employed, the less cost to buy, and so on.

If Leary and Willis win their suit, hereafter the more pupils there are in public school the more money a district will collect from the state.

Backers of the suit believe this stimulus to the purse will make local sentiment hostile to wholesale nonattendance.

Master Bill Bailey To Serve as House Page

Master Bill Bailey, grandson of Mrs. Fanny Jarrell, returned to Frankfort Monday to resume his duties as page in the House of Representatives. Bill was chosen special page to the Speaker of the House.

This is the second year Bill has had the honor of being the Speaker's special page. He says it will be more difficult this year, however, since he had to leave with a load of seventh grade books under his arm, so he could study when not on duty.

His teacher, Miss Pauline Hereford, made his assignments with the addition, "No work, no passing." He will be the guest of his aunt, Mrs. George Glenn Hatcher, while in Frankfort.

FLOYD MEETS US STANDARD

Sanitation Regulations In Force Here Followed In Only 346 U.S. Counties

(Special to The Times)
NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Floyd county is one of a limited number of communities in the United States which have sanitation regulations for public eating and drinking establishments that meet official Government standards.

This was revealed by the U. S. Public Health Service in a study of the progress made in restaurant sanitation in recent years.

Ordinances and other regulations meeting federal standards are now in effect in but 675 municipalities and 346 counties across the country. This, however, represents a considerable advance since 1946 when the tabulation was made. The number of people under protection then was only half what it is now.

The government's model ordinance was developed as an aid in protecting citizens from food-borne diseases emanating from public dining places. It provides for the purity of edibles and beverages sold, their proper storage and handling and for the cleanliness of utensils and equipment.

In addition to Floyd county there are only 25 municipalities and 31 counties in the State of Kentucky that have adopted these federal sanitary standards, the survey shows.

"We know a good deal about food-borne diseases and how to prevent them, but this knowledge has to be translated into simple programs," stated a spokesman for the government bureau. "The actual regulation of eating and drinking establishments is, of course, a complex task, involving health departments, municipalities, and they, in turn, need the whole-hearted cooperation of the restaurant operators and others concerned."

The sanitation ordinance has been in effect in Floyd county since 1946, when the county adopted it.

He was a son of the late Judge James Goble and of Mrs. Elizabeth Goble, of Prestonsburg. He was married to Miss Sadie Smith, and to this union were born two sons and one daughter.

Besides his mother and his widow, he leaves his children, Keith Goble, Pikeville, James Goble of the navy, Norfolk, Va., and Mrs. Gwendolyn Vaughan, Majestic, Ky., one brother, George Goble, Dayton, O., and three sisters, Mrs. W. H. Jones, Sr., Mrs. Belva Quisenberry and Mrs. L. S. Moles, all of Prestonsburg. He also is survived by three grandchildren.

BUDGET PLANS EDUCATION AID

Gov. Wetherby Proposes Increase of $7,900,000; Asks New Purgation Act

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 15.—State education services will receive an increase of $7,900,000 during the next two years under a budget plan proposed by Governor Lawrence W. Wetherby to the General Assembly today.

Health and welfare services will receive a $2,000,000 more, and the government's aid to the state will be increased by $1,500,000. The budget calls for expenditures totaling approximately $129,000,000 during the 1952-53 and 1953-54 fiscal years.

The figure is an increase of $14,000,000 over the current rate of spending for the new money and is based on anticipated income for that period. The rate of spending at present is $72,500,000 a year. The new budget calls for expenditures of $78,000,000 the first year of the biennium and $81,000,000 the second year.

Governor Wetherby delivered his budget recommendations to a joint session of the House and Senate in a speech today.

The major proportion of the proposed increases for education will go to the common school fund. The recommended appropriation for the biennium is $64,600,000—an increase of $15,588,500 over the appropriation made by the 1950 General Assembly. The new money is based on the $15,588,500 in new money and the increase made by the 1951 special session of the Legislature and adds to it $3,868,500 in new money.

The building of a series of locks and dams on the Big Sandy would provide a new means of transportation of coal from the Big Sandy area, "thereby putting the valley in an equal competitive situation with that of other areas."

The coal industry in the Sandy valley, according to the resolution, is at a distinct disadvantage in competing with coal-producing regions of some other states.

This is due to the fact that other regions are able to ship their coal to market by river as well as other means of transportation.

The resolution calls upon Congress to appropriate funds for the project so as to provide a stage of water making possible year-round transportation on the Big Sandy.

It further requests that funds be made available immediately so that construction of the locks and dams can begin during the year 1953.

Hamilton Was One Of 16 Who Came Back

Entering the army at Ft. Knox, Jan. 3, last year, Cpl. Newberry Hamilton, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Hamilton, of Harold, was in action in Korea, late in September, and his experiences since that time have been a steady round of deadly action against the enemy.

Recounting his activities in diary form in a letter to his parents, Cpl. Hamilton wrote of his service in Korea:

"Sept. 18. Got another platoon out of a trap.

"Oct. 23. The Chinese opened up on us with their heavy artillery. We had to pull off the hill and another company took it back. There wasn't enough left for us for us to take it back. I was just lucky.

"Oct. 12. I have had about all I can stand, and too much on Hill 419. I sure wouldn't want to go through that again. I sure was a lucky.

"Oct. 30. I am in my foxhole watching the air force bomb and strafe the earth in front of us.

"Nov. 5. My hands are so cold I can hardly write. They have put me in as squad leader. I have 3 machine guns and a bazooka in my platoon.

"On Hill 419 there were 40 of us. The fog was so thick we could not see but a short distance in front of us. We were in 50 feet of the Chinese before we saw them. My machine gun jammed. We had to retreat back down the hill. I fixed my gun and shot 10 boxes of ammunition. When we went back on top there were 200 dead Chinese. There were only 16 of us left. I sure prayed and did a little of everything... I guess I was just lucky."

Those attending voted to ask the young people of the various churches to take a religious census as soon as possible. Cards for this will be on hand at the January meeting, which will be held in the Christian Church, on January 20 at 2 p.m. Dr. Mahood presiding. The meeting was closed with prayer by Rev. KY. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CITES LOWER DOLLAR POWER

VFW AUXILIARY MEETS

V.F.W. Auxiliary Post No. 589 held its regular meeting, Friday night, at the home of Mrs. W. V. Bunting. Those present were Messdames C. R. Hutton, Kate Ward, Lucy M. Gray, Florence Lemaire, Fannie Runkle, and Miss Geraldine Burchett. After the meeting closed, refreshments were served.

Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Tom James, Feb. 1.

A married man with two children must have an annual income of $10,542 to have the same buying power he had in 1940 on a $8,000 income, according to statistics released by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

In 1940 a married man with three dependents and a $5,000 income paid only $75 Federal income tax, netting him $4,925. In order that he might have the same purchasing power today, he must make $10,542 and pay $1,213 in income tax. But the tax is not the only cut. According to the State Chamber study, of that $10,542, he loses $3,704 in purchasing power as a result of inflation.

A man receiving an income of $6,072 today no more than equals the buying power of a man making $2,000 in 1940, for in that year a person in the $2,000 income bracket paid no Federal taxes. In 1951 the man with a $6,072 income and three dependents must cough up $810 to the Government, and he loses an extra $2,256 to inflation.

These figures are based on tax rates which became effective on November 1.

The higher the income, the more a person loses in purchasing power. In 1940, a three-dependent man commanding a $25,000 income netted $21,429 after taxes. To equal that dollar value today, he would have to make $70,222—more than three times as much. His tax would figure at $38,778, and devaluation of the dollar would slash off another $15,115, the Chamber study points out.

OBITUARY

Regardless of how deeply rooted in the earth, the strongest tree as well as the smallest must some time yield to the fierceness of the wind, the lightning's blast or the power of disease. So, likewise, must the best and greatest of men, though deeply set in the educational, agricultural, social, economic, scientific and religious life of our world, inevitably yield to the cycle of death.

We are vividly reminded of these facts in the passing of our fellow citizen, our neighbor and our friend, Beverly Lewis Clark May, son of the late John May and Darcas Conley May, who was born November 14, 1889 on Beaver Creek, Floyd county, Kentucky. About the year 1882 he was married to Amanda J. Allen. This marriage were born two sons John May, who now resides at Laurel, Mississippi, and Felix May who passed away in infancy. Soon after this his wife, Amanda, died.

During the year 1890 he was united in marriage to Arilla Pratt, this union were born eleven children. Those who survive him are Mrs. G. C. Patton, Alphoretta, W. H. May, Langley, A. J. May, Jr., Miami, Florida, M. M. May, Alphoretta, O. P. May, Alphoretta, Mrs. Ray Flannery, Langley, Henry B. May, Alphoretta and Mrs. E. E. May. He was a member of the M. M. May, Alphoretta, O. P. May, Alphoretta, Mrs. Ray Flannery, Langley, Henry B. May, Alphoretta and Mrs. E. E. May. He was a member of the M. M. May, Alphoretta, O. P. May, Alphoretta, Mrs. Ray Flannery, Langley, Henry B. May, Alphoretta and Mrs. E. E. May.

Beverly Lewis Clark May was in his life an example of energy, of strength and industry. By hard work and good management he accumulated about 900 acres of Beaver Creek's finest land, most of which he divided among his children.

His second wife, Arilla Pratt, passed from this life during the year 1921. For 20 years he remained a widower.

While a young man in 1889 he was received into the fellowship of the Methodist Church at Maytown by the late Rev. James Lafayette. Some years ago he requested Rev. Isaac Stratton to inform that he told Rev. Stratton during his late illness that he was ready to prepare to go. Being of early, honorable, pioneer, Colonial Virginia ancestry, Clark manifested the finest traits of rugged honesty and energy. He not only leaves his surviving children, neighbors and friends but an only brother, the Hon. A. J. May, able ex-Congressman of Prestonsburg, Ky.

Clark will be greatly missed by his many friends, but his contribution to the citizenry of our country through his sons and daughters and grandchildren will be long remembered.

A friend,
W. S. AKERS

IT'S A GOOD WORLD

BY WILMA

(Opinions expressed herein do not necessarily reflect those of The Times.)

And the First Baptist Church of Martin proves this. It is one of the fastest growing churches in the South—thanks to the Rev. and Mrs. Merle Wadley, of Oklahoma, who came on the job last June as the first fulltime pastor and wife since the church was organized. Everyone rightly gives the credit to the Lord. The Wadleys praise the members, while the members praise their work, since this growth took place after their arrival.

Attendance has increased so that the partition must be removed. The auditorium, together with an elevated choir under consideration, will seat approximately 200 persons. One of the foremost charter members, Clarence King, has suggested that a baptistry be installed, and since he is the sort who gets what he goes after, no doubt one will be forthcoming.

The church has 46 members, including nine men. Offerings surpass $100 weekly quite frequently, and gifts come unsolicited. Surplus donations appear in other forms, a communion service and offering plates recently.

The church owns a bus, which covers Right Beaver to Maytown, and operates a station wagon on Left Beaver as needed. For months Mason Moore has furnished car and driver to bring many children. He is a strong new Christian who believes in witnessing. He declined reimbursement for repairs to the bus and many months of gas bills. Those gifts are above the Moore tithe.

Brother Moore and other good men of the church ready for a word of prayer together, any time or place. The men have organized the Baptist Brotherhood. They meet for programs and dinners, with guest speakers. Rev. Smith and his musical group are needed. For months the Paintsville Baptist Church furnished the guest-speaker and singers for the January meeting, when the WMS served dinner as usual.

Mrs. E. R. Coleman is the live-wire president of the WMS, which meets every Tuesday at 7 p.m. to study and to carry on a program of community missions. The WMS sponsors the Sunbeam Band, for its folks nine and under, meeting first and third Saturdays at 1:30 p.m. Miss Georgianne Roark in charge, with Mrs. Henry Adams as assistant. Mothers may leave their little ones with them while shopping on Saturday afternoons. Miss Roark is also church pianist, while Mrs.

Adams is superintendent of the nursery, which is fully equipped and open to little folks during all services, night and day. Junior choir meets every Friday at 4 p.m., pastor and pianist directing.

Georgianne and Geraldine Allen, of Maytown, have both volunteered for fulltime work. Gerry wants to become a missionary, and she is one member who has not missed a service. It is reported. She teaches one class of the younger children in Sunday School. As superintendent, Bro. G. C. Sargent, keeps the Sunday School humming. Bible, offering and attendance banners stimulate interest.

The Baptist Training Union, for all ages, will be organized in January and meet at 8:30 p.m. The pastor starts teaching a B.T.U. study course on Sunday evenings, Jan. 13. Everyone is invited to attend. Sunday night Rev. Smith, of Hindman, Knott county, showed a marvelous film on alcohol and youth.

A church library was started recently, with Mrs. Don Frier, of Hindman, as librarian. She and her fine young husband are recent converts. The week following the arrival of the first books found Bro. Charles Rickman, our other good deacon, at the church making a bookcase. He made pockets for mission tracts not long ago. Wayne Hanes, church clerk, made a fine bulletin board.

Many others serve in various ways, but lack of space prevents mention of more this time. Like several other good churches in Martin, this one is going places! The committee sponsoring the city-wide Sunday School campaign invites everyone to attend the church of his or her choice any time. Many church leaders throughout the community attend services in various churches, enjoying the fellowship with the others.

The Holland Homemakers Club in Allen county set shrubs on the school grounds, then had a box supper to raise money for installing a water system in the school.

Four brother houses, 30 by 50 feet, have been built in Elliott county, production in 1952 being estimated at 38,000 chicks.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Collins at Salisbury was the scene of a family reunion on Christmas Day. Eight of their 10 living children and their in-laws and grandchildren were present, also two grandchildren they reared, Pauline Hall, of McDowell, and Paul Collins, with the navy stationed at Charleston, S. C., and three other grandchildren, Joe Edward, Myrtle and Richard Lee Collins, of South Webster, O. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Collins and Tilden Collins motored to South Webster, O., recently, to visit relatives. Freda Collins, of Salisbury, visited her grandmother, Mrs. Jess Pack Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Collins visited from Turner at Wayland Sunday. His condition seems unchanged.

"We Spent a Christmas in Korea"
Today is Christmas. Although we are far from home, this is the day that every soldier and person should be thankful for. One thing that made hundreds of soldiers happy was the Christmas tree and church services that took place here in Korea. Lots of GIs received many Christmas packages, and I know that was pleasing to any one here.

It makes a guy feel strange to work most of the day on Christmas eve, but it's a job that has to be done. I took time out with my buddies, Cpl. Edward Ratliff and Pfc. Dean Bence, to go to church. It was over two miles to where the chaplain held the service. It was nice. The scripture was about the day Christ was born, with the most beautiful Christmas carols that could be sung by a group of guys. On our way to service the trees were all broken down where the enemy had shelled us two nights before Christmas eve, but Christmas was still in our hearts, and the church service was on our minds.

After we had returned to our company, a nice big turkey dinner was waiting. Our mess kits were full. We all sat down on our helmets to enjoy the nice Christmas dinner that had been prepared for us. I know this Christmas wasn't like the one we could have had, if we had been home with mother and dad and our small brothers. When we were only kids, we always looked forward to receiving gifts. Well, today we pulled out our small Bibles and thanked God for taking care of us.

Some day we will be back home, and return to a normal, clean life, but until then we have a job to do, and I'm sure God will watch over us until the job is well done. I know the people back home are trying to do their best in every way to stop this war. All we can do now is thank you all from the bottom of our hearts.

You all have helped us in blood and Red Cross drives. Speaking of the Red Cross, we can thank them for the wonderful job that they have done, for their work has saved many GIs' lives here in Korea.

We will win like we have always and we will keep the peace in our country if we have to die to do that. I know there are lots of mothers worrying over their sons here in Korea. But God is with us, and that's the greatest thing you can have.

We hope that you all at home will write to us and pray for us that we may spend the next Christmas at home.

This is to wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Yes, we spent a Christmas in Korea.

A Tough Law Is Needed

THE Kentucky Legislature should, without delay, enact legislation to curb the sale and use of narcotics in all their varied forms, in the absence of a physician's prescription. Governor Wetherby has wisely requested action along these lines.

Such legislation should not be designed to cover only morphine, heroin and those other more potent drugs whose damaging influences have long been recognized. There are those less powerful sedatives which, under present law are easily procured and which, as a result, are even more alarming than those narcotics which are usually introduced hypocritically into the bloodstream.

In Prestonsburg, for example, the widespread use of "sleeping pills" and the obvious effects on their users have become alarming. The effect of these so-called sedatives has, on occasion, been more permanently damaging than has alcohol.

Some veteran drinkers who under the influence of alcohol were never considered dangerous have shown a tendency to violence, their manners manifestly deranged.

More alarming than all this, however, is the unimpaired flow of traffic in these narcotics and the ever-present possibility of youths being induced by traffickers in the drugs to become users.

These new outlets; habits seek new sources of supply.

Alcohol is an age-old problem. So is "dope." To disregard either while devoting full attention to the other is to commit more than the mere sin of omission.

Gentlemen, write this law clearly. Make it tough—and, please, make it enforceable.

MAY BEAT DEADLINE

Pikeville, Ky. (Sp.)—Students enrolling in the teachers course at Pikeville Junior College this month will be in the last class which will earn the provisional elementary certificate in two years. President A. A. Page of Pikeville said today. Registration for the spring semester in the teachers course and the college's other courses of study will begin January 29. Prospective teachers entering then and attending classes until August of next year will just beat the legal deadline, Dr. Page said. The requirements for the certificate will be raised in September, 1953, to include four years of college study.

ANTIS WEAK IN ASSEMBLY

Rep. Weintraub Loses By Big Edge in Fight For Delay in Rules

The first week of the 1952 session of the Kentucky General Assembly established that the House leadership is firmly entrenched and intends to hold its position.

The firmness of the leadership was demonstrated in a running debate between Majority Leader Harry King Lowman and Representative Morris Weintraub concerning adoption of the House rules.

Weintraub proposed delay in adopting the rules until the members had time to read them, but this was badly beaten and then followed almost staccato rejection by voice vote on four Weintraub amendments to the rules. Weintraub is a biennial "anti," and treatment of his objection to rules gives an early inkling of anti-administration weakness.

With the Assembly in session only two days its first week Representative Carl Ruh, of Kenton county, took time to urge the members to conduct themselves with dignity. "Behave sensibly," he said, "Let's act like people."

Although 10 bills were introduced in the Senate, six of them by Senator Ed P. Warriner of Albany, and three in the House, none of these aroused the corridor comment that three other expected matters did.

In the opening week, absence of the Governor's message on budget, appropriations and taxation, the reports of the Functions and Resources Commission held chief interest in the House. Two of these favor the State taking over retail liquor sales and opening up the retail sale to public scrutiny.

Local school politics may be expected to flare up on the House floor, since a number of representatives advocated popular election of county school superintendents in their campaigns last fall.

Council To Stress Cub Packs in '52, Picklesimer Says

The organization of Cub Packs for younger boys of the Lonesome Pine Council will receive major consideration during the year 1952, according to Council President Virgil Picklesimer.

The program has proved to be extremely popular throughout America after it was first introduced in 1939. In some sections there are more Cub Scouts than Boy Scouts enrolled, Picklesimer said.

Cub Packs are already organized in these towns of the Lonesome Pine Council: Prestonsburg, Pikeville, David, Wheelwright, Jackson, Hazard, Hindman, Salyersville, Elkhorn City, Paintsville, McDowell, Feds Creek, in Kentucky; and McClure and Stonega, in Virginia. Field Scout Executives will help local volunteers, leaders in organization efforts, and give training to the Cubmaster, Den Mothers and other Cub Scout leaders. Parent-Teacher Associations of many towns of Eastern Kentucky and Virginia have been asked to sponsor Cub Scouting for younger boys.

Picklesimer said that Cubbing has much to offer as a character building program and as a preventive of juvenile delinquency.

Orville Jennings of Rowan county averaged 2940 pounds of tobacco per acre on 2.1 acres.

The 1951 gridiron campaign is now just a memory, and one of the fondest memories University of Utah fans have remaining is represented by the photo reproduced here. It shows "Set" Branham, son of Mrs. Fanny Branham, Prestonsburg, dragging three Brigham Young University players across the goal line to score Utah's only touchdown of the game and give Utah a 7 to 6 victory over its traditional rival.

Beaver Valley Kiwanis Officers Are Installed; Leatherman Is President

Wilkinson, Jr.; board of directors—Cliff Akers, Rex Ankrum, Steve Clark, John Parker, Postle Spence, Robert Smith, Harry Zimmerman; Immediate Past President, Alvin Reed.

Le Gov. Moore spoke to the club briefly on "The Importance of Leadership." The ladies of Kiwanis were the special guests of the evening.

P'burg Team in Win
Over Wayland Waps
As Attack Improves

Prestonsburg high school's Black Cats moved forward in the sectional net ratings last week as they won one game and barely lost a second in encounters with two of the county's stronger basketball sides.

Coach Bill Dameron's boys, who have flourished a bit in trying to find themselves, surprised the visiting Wayland Waps last Thursday night, winning 45-38 with a strong fourth-quarter rally, and then on Friday night extended the fast Martin Purple Flash down to the wire, the Martin team winning 54 to 53.

The Cats trailed Martin through every quarter, but were never far back after the first quarter when Coach Denzil Halbert's boys held a 16-7 lead.

Against Wayland they were behind as late as the end of the third quarter. Hughes and Pike with 17 and 14 points, respectively, led the Cat offense, while Roberts and Hughes with 16 and 13 points were the Waps' big guns.

Grigsby's 24 points vanned the Martin attack, while Hughes' 15 were best for Prestonsburg. Woods, a big newcomer at center, showed promise for the Cats with 13 points.

Ramblers Lose First Of Season to Clowns; Defeat Pike Alumni

After losing their first game of the season last Wednesday to the Broadway Colored Clowns, a team which has won 91 consecutive games, 45 during a tour of South America and Africa, the Prestonsburg Semi-Pro Ramblers came back Tuesday night to defeat the Pikeville College quintet at Pikeville, 80 to 77 in an overtime contest.

The Clowns defeated the Ramblers, 53-39, holding a decided height advantage with a team average of 6 feet, 4 inches.
