GIVE SCHOOLS OFFSHORE OIL

To Plan of Perkins
Before House Body;
Cities Court Rule

WASHINGTON — Representative Perkins today told a House judiciary subcommittee that offshore oil is "a valuable property belonging to all the people and not just a few favored states."
"Let's not give it away—let's give it to the schools," the Hindman Republican declared.

He warned that "perhaps this view of the increased tax load will be our only opportunity, in the present, to do something for our schools without any raising of taxes," he said. "It is a valuable property belonging to all the people and not just a few favored states." Perkins said that the subcommittee to approve bills that would give offshore oil to schools. Representative Willis (D., La.) Walter (D., Pa.) and Ull (R., Cal.)
attacked the statements by Attorney General Brownell. That states should not be given oversight, but only the authority to lease the submerged lands.

"We want full title," Ull declared. "We won't settle for a lease." Perkins testified in favor of the bill introduced January 13 to give royalties from the so-called tidal lands to educational grants.
He said there has been much confusion about offshore oil and offshore oil and mineral rights.
The Federal Government makes no claim to the submerged lands. Ull declared that the bill would be a "setback" to the states.

But he added, the Supreme Court
"has decided that the submerged lands of the continental shelf
adjacent to the shores of California, Louisiana, and Texas, and extending many miles seaward, belong to the United States."

"Instead of trying to decide what kind of a title should be given to the states, this subcommittee should consider first what the Federal Government can keep and what it can give to the states in interest," Perkins said.

"Any legislation vesting ownership in the states would constitute a gift of property owned by the 48 states to a chosen few,
an act of discrimination contrary to national interest," the Kentucky Republican said.

Perkins noted that since he introduced his bill, Harry Truman while President, issued an executive order transferring the off-shore
oil deposits from the Interior Department to the Navy.

"Off, as all know, is the life
blood of the Navy," Perkins said.
"Today we are importing oil by the millions of barrels monthly. We are no longer an exporting nation, but an importing nation, insofar as oil is concerned."

If a national emergency develops, "it might be the looking back over the folly of a misapplied policy," Perkins said. "The United States, required to turn right around and fight, would be in a bad position if it had no oil reserves. Of these 17,000 failed the mental examination, or 94.9 per cent."

When conditions like these exist, Perkins asserted Congress should take some action.

"Another alarming fact is that
from July, 1940, to last January 1,
there have been estimated for military service in the United States
2,588,456 young men. Of this number, 422,450 failed the mental examination. In other words, 14.8 per cent failed," he declared.

"In Kentucky, from the beginning of Korea to last January 1, some 72,685 young men have been examined for military service. Of these,
17,000 failed the mental examination, or 94.9 per cent."

Reading one follows the missionary first to McVeigh, place county during the past year, exceeding the "most" ever gained in most other parts of the county.

"The findings, a barometer of good times, are based on a report
just released by the Federal Reserve system, showing bank deposits in every county in the United States as of the end of the last fiscal year.

"Deposits in Floyd county savings and commercial banks reached the high figure of $10,000,000, gain of $44 percent over the $6,347,000
reported by the Federal Reserve
before a previous survey, conducted in 1944.

This rise compares favorably with that shown by the national banks generally in the period, 44 percent. It is also better than the composite advance made by banks in the South—Central States, 44 percent, and in the state of Kentucky, 41 percent.

"The figures include time deposits (savings accounts) and demand deposits (checking accounts) of individuals, partnerships and corporations, but exclude interbank and Governmental deposits."

The local bank holdings represent $182 on deposit for every man, woman and child in the county.

Commenting on the situation, the Federal Reserve people said: "The expansion in deposits of business and individuals which accompanied the growth in bank credit in 1952
has been largely in the form of time deposits and only to a moderate extent in demand deposits—development which contributed to assured high level activity without further inflation."

The Institute of Life Insurance discussing the trend, states: "For the individual and the society as a whole, savings of the present are wide distribution of both protection and potential purchasing power."

The Owensboro Rotary Club will grow three acres of tobacco for the benefit of the crippled children's fund.

There were other towns to which the missionary went to remain until the work he had set out to do had produced until the work he could take over. There was Beauty and Tomahawk.

She went to Tomahawk in March, 1952, as quickly as she could after hearing the news of the cult slaying there of an aged woman
by her two sons. These slayings had been preached that "without the shedding of blood there is no redemption," and their old mother had offered herself up as a "willing sacrifice" and had died at her sons' hands.

The grandson and granddaughter of the victim were among the first converts after Annie Allen began working in the community.
Her work with youth has been particularly successful, and she introduced for her church the first Daily Vacation Bible School held in this section. She continues as leader of youth work for Enterprise church.

In the beginning of her missionary service to the people of this section and the present
there were months of hospitalization from tuberculosis. Otherwise, her work has been almost unbroken.

Her voice now is weaker, but she is a little harder to take, but she walks the same path she has followed almost all her years.

When friends remonstrate that she should rest more, she replies
in a voice of fervor: "I am not tired. I am just a little weary. It is time for me to stop."

The title of the book very appropriately is taken from this verse
found in Isaiah:
"How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings."

Resources That Belong To The Nation
CONGRESSMAN Carl D. Perkins' plan for use of off-shore oil deposits would serve a two-fold purpose for the national benefit and would prevent the transfer of this resource to the benefit of only a few coastal states.

It would make this oil the property of the United States and at the same time turn to the benefit of all the schools in all the states the funds accruing from royalties on that oil.

Off-shore oil, it should be emphasized, is not tidesands oil. The oil which may be developed from tidesands—that is to say, the territory covered by the ebb and flow of the tides—has already been declared by the Supreme Court the property of the states. The same court, on the other hand, has held that the oil in the continental shelf beyond the range of the tides belongs to the nation.

Attorney General Brownell himself urged that ownership of this off-shore wealth should not be vested in the states. He has asked that the states be given authority to develop it but not to own it outright.

The Congressman argues quite effectively that perhaps "this will be our only opportunity, in view of the increased tax load the people are carrying, to do something for our schools without raising the taxpayers' tax bills one penny."

This is a matter which has to do with a great natural resource, oil, and our greatest national resource, the country's youth, and the Congress should give first consideration to the latter, not to the desires of only a few states.

In Appreciation

THE Times and its readers would be unfeeling if they did not appreciate the friendly and helpful attitude shown by Conservation Commissioner Henry Ward and, of course, Governor Wetherby in the matter of a state park at Dewey Lake.

Time was when not all state officials were willing to go out of their way to consider the pleas of this section of the state. And memory of such times make all the more memorable the stand the Governor and Mr. Ward have taken, admitting the needs of this section, expressing a desire to help and actually promising help when and if funds are available.

There are metropolitan centers such as the Covington-Newport area which will resent attention of this sort to our needs, but their arguments are fallacious. Conservation Commissioner Henry Ward and, of course, Governor Wetherby know the disadvantages under which we of this section have lived and worked for generations—handicaps which would have long ago discouraged others of more fortunate sections—and The Times has an idea the protests of the envious will not deter them from doing the right and proper thing.

ALLEN ANNOUNCES FOR COUNTY JUDGE

Since I graduated from law school and received my license to practice law, citizens and voters from every section of Floyd County have urged me to become a candidate for public office. I fully realize the task of making a campaign for public office is no easy one and but for the confidence and respect the good people of this county have shown me I would not have the courage to try.

There has been considerable pressure exerted on me and my friends and relatives during the past few weeks by my announced opposition, trying to dissuade me from becoming a candidate.

Being of the opinion that Floyd County needs a lawyer in the office of County Judge, and being further of the opinion that the citizens of this county need a county judge who would act and decide with the County Attorney, I hereby submit my candidacy for County Judge, earnestly soliciting the vote, support and influence of every one.

Respectively,
JARVIS ALLEN

ONE-TIME OFFENDER
Bill Goebel, co-owner of the Ben Franklin Store here, recently ran across proof that somebody had turned over a new leaf. Under a counter he found an envelope containing 60 cents and this note:

"Here is pay for the only thing ever stole—a 50-cent pen and pencil set, years ago. Purgie me and God bless you. One who wants to do right."

Bill is as ready to forgive and forget as the judge in the news-story printed the other day about the man in his nineties who was haled into court for disorderly conduct. "Were you ever in court before?" the judge asked. "Once," was the reply. "When?" "In 1897," was the answer. "Case dismissed," the judge said.

WANT A ONE-LEGGED FISHERMAN?
Now, we come to that certain episode this week wherein a man whose name is given as James Kelly Profile, of 2641 Holmes St., Dayton, Ohio, points out that he is much in need of a home and somebody to care for him. Object, matrimony.

"I will marry some lady who can give me a home and the necessary things of life. Am a Christian age 47, weigh 175, height 5 feet, left leg off. Love fishing."

He didn't ask for advice, but we would have warned him against making that last admission.

GAME REFUGE AREA POSTED

12,000 Acres of Land
Around Lake To Form
Sanctuary for Game

Conservation officers working under the supervision of E. R. Burke, seventh conservation district supervisor, last week completed the work of posting approximately 12,000 acres of land in the Dewey reservoir area which was converted by the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources into a game refuge.

The area posted includes all game-owned land from a point below the Dewey dam to the mouth of Brushy. The regulation sign used by the Department was posted, but signs, posted, especially for the area will replace these later.

The work effected forbids hunting of any kind except for migratory waterfowl in season. The Department also has forbidden the use of dogs in the area also is forbidden.

Already pen-reared turkeys have been released in the area, and Larry Gale, of the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources, said recently that Virginia white-tail deer will be released in the refuge this year.

Water-trapped turkeys may also be added during 1953.

No hunting will be allowed, Mr. Burke said, until such time as when there is a surplus of game in the area. By creating a surplus of game in the protected area, the Department holds, stocking of adjoining lands will result as the game spills over the boundaries of the reserve.

Burke also said the Department plans some migratory waterfowl development at the lake this year with the planting of food plots.

The permanent signs along to be erected later around the entire area will read:

"Posted Dewey Refuge Restoration Area. No Hunting Except Migratory Waterfowl. U. S. Corps of Engineers. Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources."

BUNNY WHO WENT TO SCHOOL PLAYING TRUANT THIS YEAR

It was Sparky the rabbit that went to school. A rabbit so named Sparky, who attended the school of Mrs. Frankie Sping, came. Sparky did not stay best at Cliff, last year. Like a lot of pupils in any school, he didn't study any but he did a report card. Sparky was a trouble maker or on just the same. All pupils do, you know.

Sparky entered the Cliff school when Mrs. Beat's son Stephen received him as a gift from Kete Vaughan who was going into the armed forces. Stephen took him to school. After that he no longer belonged to Stephen. He became the property of all the pupils and settled down to house in the school room.

His first month was spent in a "run" at the end of that time he was given the run of the house. Each Friday a different pupil took him home for a week-end. When the pupils studied, Sparky studied "to the hunters" and read their about the adventures of Sparky, the country boy, the rabbit was Sparky's grades were decided by the children. They never gave him an on department, for he chewed on pens and nibbled apples in the desks. Then, too, when Miss Pusey and Miss Wood, the mis-educators, came to instruct in religious matters, Sparky interrupted the devotionals by lessons. He was especially fond of both of them. He would come around after they had a lesson and prance and hop nearby until one of them would recognize his attendance. After recognition was accorded by a pat on the head, he hopped upon a desk and remained still. Sparky did not stay best at Cliff, last year. Like a lot of pupils in any school, he didn't study any but he did a report card. Sparky was a trouble maker or on just the same. All pupils do, you know.

Both Kentucky Senators And Congressman Perkins Behind Lake Deepening

Whatever the U. S. Corps of Engineers may do in response to requests of residents of this section for deepening of Devey Lake, they by this time are aware that both Kentucky Senators, the Congressman from this district, Governor Lawrence W. Wetherby, Conservation Commissioner Henry Ward and the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources are solidly behind the move for more water to the impoundment.

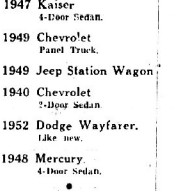

The Times has received from Senators Clements and Cooper, Congressman Perkins, Governor Wetherby and the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources copies of letters and telegrams in which they have urged the Engineers' approval of all of the more than three letters were addressed to the Huntington district office, others to Major General Samuel D. Sturgis, acting chief of the Corps of Engineers. All have asked full and immediate consideration, and Senator Clements has asked that the Corps of Engineers recommend that limits be made available at the earliest practical date in order that a study be made to determine feasibility of the change. The study was authorized on recommendation of Senator Clements by the Senate Public Works committee several months ago.

In response to a letter from Governor Wetherby Col. J. O. Columbia, district engineer, wrote that "at such time as funds are made available, you may be assured that careful consideration will be given the desires of local interests."

Conservation Commissioner Ward expressed his interest in the lake during his visit here this week in connection with the proposed Devey Lake state park.

Anne Leslie Maynard, descendant of the pioneer founders of the church, was born in 1870. She grew to womanhood, married, and after the death of her husband continued to live in the community that held her memories so dear.

 FRANKFORT, KY.—Attorney General J. D. Buckman, Jr., has approved the form and wordage of a constitutional amendment to be submitted to the voters this year on distribution of public school funds. The present provision calls for distribution on the basis of school age on the census rolls, whether in public school attendance or not. The proposed amendment would leave the question to the General Assembly.

The amendment as it will appear on the ballot this fall reads: "All funds accruing to the school fund shall be used for the maintenance of the public schools of the Commonwealth and for no other purpose; and the General Assembly shall be general law prescribe the manner of the distribution of the public school funds." ## IT'S A GOOD WORLD

BY WILLAMET

It was a happy one for Floyd teachers in their second week of last week. In Wheelwright, the spirit was fine. Sereing old friends, Mr. Clark, who gets great pleasure in the years, Frances Turner, an excellent as ever, and Ethel Raliff, was a joy in itself. It seems just yesterday that Miss Raliff was studying Caesar in my class and as much in love then as now. It is hard to believe they have a daughter at 17. She is proud of her first baby, Kappa daddy and of her mother who has always been a perfect symbol of womanhood at its best. Most of us outsiders present the pendulum slowly swinging back to the middle-of-the-road methods in teaching. Parents have long been complaining of too much play in the school. What if the children do know more of world affairs and social life if they know less than we did of fundamental subjects needed to earn a livelihood? A visiting speaker from another county said the present-day schools are standards apparent, how poorly majority spell, write and punctuate. A Chicago U. prof recently warned that present-day schools are teaching society and not learning too much folders, etc. When national educational leaders return to normal standards it will not be the first time they have done an about-face. Too many high school teachers are worrying because vast numbers of pupils read poorly.

The kids get a laugh when double negatives appear in this column, or when a sentence ends with a preposition. We all liked what Thelma Daniels said in her conference about not being a parrot, about the usefulness of language in day-to-day life. And we are glad to note that Shakespeare dared to use three exclamation points in his day. Mississippi Congressman wants national day for Hillybilly Music set apart for selection. It is worthy commemoration.

Nothing can be sadder than seeing some of our families with ailing out of our valley now for work. How many times have outside leaders and others here begged us to attend meetings designed to make this county a "multiple-industry county, only to have a mere hand-out at best? Provoked says, a people without vision perish. Too few of us take a long-range view of things.

Everyone rejoices that Pete Griggs, Jr., can once more play the stellar role of the Christmas in the pageant, April 19th. Pete is ideal—suited to it in real life. Recently a lady who heard him testify in Lexington in his church remarked what a fine boy he is, how he impressed everyone. He has seemed not to be publicized personally, to let the pageant stand on its own, with Christ the real figure as everyone wants Him to be.

C. R. Marshall is kept busy cutting art objects for the event, in his workshop. The long list of items wanted by Mrs. Marshall, who is Art chairman, is slowly being filled. Marcella Ward, of Dinwiddie, is one pageant booster who comes regularly to ask for another job. That is what it takes. W. S. Johns, who is on the sick list, manages to collect old tires, broom sticks, etc., for the pageant, and headed the 1952 list of collecting funds. Mrs. W. T. Hatcher, of Lackey, is donating voluntary services at her home for the art department, and designed a unique type of medalion for soldiers' armor. Thomas Patrick is one member who never misses a rehearsal. Leaders are hoping that he become a board member from the county.

When asked to appear on the weekly Sunday radio series for the pageant, Mr. H. O. Wilson said, "I'll do my best." In her case that is a lot. Her knowledge of the Bible hauled her a job as one of the associate directors. Pageant leaders are sorry to lose Mrs. Bruce Kiser, for she was a grand booster last year. The Kisers are moving to Pikeville soon. Magazines with the pageant story are already on hand, others coming.

We sleep like a baby, but since Father Gunn has been in a hospital in Mississippi three long weeks we lay awake several mornings trying to imagine a world without him. He is out of danger now. A bedside pad got some pageant notions in the dark several times. One morning it was a jumble run together. The boss, who split his side the night some of us tried to win for three zours to adjust a Roman toga, looked at the penciled notes and inquired with his mischievous grin, "Did you try to dress a Roman toga in the dark?" Everyone has decided to let Miss Brannan demonstrate how to wear all time simple-looking costumes for the cast. Ladies have sold the idea of wearing one to James Salisbury, who is in the cast, but no one has induced Mayor Griggs to don one.

To Conduct Revival

Bronze Star Medal Given Billy R. Barchett, Lancer, For Meritorious Service

With IX Corps in Korea—First Lt. Billy R. Barchett, of Lancer, Ky., was recently awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service with the 56th Field Artillery Battalion in Korea.

He was cited for his work from Feb. 13, 1952 to Jan. 15, 1953.

With patience and well directed efforts, Lieut. Barchett trained inexperienced personnel as cannonners and non-commissioned officers. He instilled confidence in his men by his calm behavior and strict manners and by demonstrating outstanding qualities of leadership while under enemy shelling, according to a citation accompanying the decorations.

WILLIAMSON — A verdict of suicide was returned in the death of Robert S. Sale, 72-year-old former general manager of the defunct Octavia Coal Co. at nearby Beltry, Ky. Coroner Taber Ball said Sale took his life with a pistol in his room at a Williamson hotel.

LETTERS

TO THE EDITOR

We are authorized to announce JOHN C. HURSTEL as a candidate for JAILER OF FLOYD COUNTY subject to the action of the Democratic party at the August, 1953 primary election.

TO THE PEOPLE

Magisterial Dist. No. 3, Floyd County:

When you elected me four years ago as your Magistrate, you put a trust in me that I would not steal, that I would not rob, and that I would try to help handle the taxpayers' money in an honest way that would be to the best interest of our county. That I have tried to do. The only one thing that I had at heart was to try my best to help those who were stranded in the hands of the law, and to see that their children would not have to live the mud and water to get to school.

I think the majority of the people of this district will agree that we have made a good start. The people of Floyd county have had an honest and faithful Magistrate for the past three years. We have worked together in harmony, trying to do for all Floyd county what we can. We have had an honest and willing chairman at the head of this County Judge. I speak for myself and I think the other three Magistrates will say the same. That there never has been a time that Judge Stumbo recommended or even suggested a single thing that we thought, or he thought, was right and for the best interests and welfare of our county. We haven't succeeded in doing all that we wanted to do for you people, we have been accused, but I think the people of Floyd county will know the merits of this team. We have made some mistakes, but we are ready to correct them.

I have promised one or two things that I haven't had time to do. We have started things that I won't have time to finish this year. I have worked hard, day and night. I haven't accumulated any money. I haven't tried to feather my nest, or get rich, at the hands of you people. I have only tried to do what I believe is right. I have been accused of being a crook, but I have been fair. I have had to hold two jobs to support my family and pay my taxes, and to make a long story short, I haven't had time to give me the time for one more thing. I am not ashamed, I'm not afraid to run on my record, but I promise that I will try to do a still better job, as I was a beginner. The experience I have had will help me do this better job.

I remain your friend, out of office or in.

Annual Spelling Event

In Floyd County Schools

Directed by Clem Martin

Dates have been announced for the county school system spelling bee finals between winners of the sectional bees. The county bee will be held at the courthouse here at 10 a.m. March 28, with both Herald-Dispatch and Courier-Journal constantly taking part.

Rural sectional contests were held the week of March 8-12. It has been announced by Clem Martin, director of the bees. The schedule for sectional bees was as follows: Antioch, March 8; Banner, Lower Powers, March 9; Buckhannon, March 11; Hunter, March 12; Mendenhall, March 13; Sellers Branch, March 14; Johnson, March 15; Bonanza, March 16; and Brady, March 17.

This year both the Courier-Journal and Herald-Dispatch are sponsoring separate bees. Each school will send a representative for each bee. Each consolidated school will choose a representative for each bee to compete for county honors. No pupil will be allowed to enter both bees.

The Floyd County Board of Education will give to each participant in the bee at Prestonsburg a dictionary.

The winner of the Herald-Dispatch contest will go to Huntington to spell on April 23. The winner at Huntington will receive a $100.00 scholarship to Washington, with expenses paid, to participate in the national finals and a week of sight-seeing in the nation's capital. The national champion will receive a trip to New York and a grand prize of $200.

The winner of the Courier-Journal contest will receive a championship certificate and $100. A $100.00 scholarship will be given to the second place winner. The Courier-Journal contest.

Our Times editor has been valiantly fighting for this cause for years. Our Ex-Congressman Jack May also has fought for it. They know that it is just and justifiable. They love our Big Sandy valley. This is their home as well as that of Sylvia Perrell and hundreds of other people who are "rising stars" here.

We don't ask for this to be done for us just now, we want to do it ourselves. We are now working tirelessly in the cause, but we never paint the words until this has been accomplished and may be coming of our future Big Sandians never forget them.

This may be a dream, but to Sylvia Perrell and hundreds more it is a hope, a something that we can look forward to with joyful hearts.

FROM KOREA

Editor, The Times:

I read the article in the paper about deepening drought here in Floyd County. I am very much in favor of it and I am also in favor of turning wild turkeys and deer in here.

I am in the air force and will be here for a long time yet, and would like very much to have some place to fish and hunt when I am home on leave. My home is at Marmora, Ky. I see The Times every week and am over here in Korea and have quite a while to stay, so I hope to have helped some.

HOWARD D. COLLINS

THE FERRELL LETTER AGAIN

Editor, The Times:

I was reading The Times and when I finished reading your column I decided to take the opportunity to say I think Sylvia Perrell of Louisville, Ohio has the right idea about Kentucky doing something to keep the people home.

It's not the thought of the fact that the people of Kentucky, but the opportunity to earn a home. I don't think you would find a Kentuckian in Cleveland who would say they were ashamed of their home town. In fact, if you want a Kentuckian, just let someone make a remark about it and watch how glad they are to defend their state.

Northern people have the impression that Kentucky is nothing but a wilderness with hard people, ferals, etc. In fact, they think it hasn't changed since Daniel Boone came there. If we were taking people from there it would be different, but if the "hillbillies" would leave Cleveland I guess some of the people would be glad to stay down here. This is just an idea of how many live here.

Another thing is the school system here. When you enroll your children in school, the first day they take them back a grade without a chance to see if they are capable of doing the work. They don't understand what good school teachers have at home.

The largest problem is getting a place to live with children. Landlords will show you through big apartments, then when you ask if they will accept children, they almost throw you in the street. So I'd like to say to you Kentuckians, stay home if possible. You don't know how hard it is out here.

HEALTH NOTES

By DR. MARTIN RANSHELL

DRY CLEANING DANGERS
If you're doing any dry cleaning at home these days, remember the saying can be costly. Most home cleaning is done with preparations consisting of the chemical carbon tetrachloride. Although there is no danger from dry cleaning solvents, there is a danger from inhaling carbon tetrachloride vapors. A brief exposure to a high concentration is immediately dangerous, as well as daily exposure to smaller amounts according to W. W. Stalker, Director, Division of Occupational Health.

To avoid carbon tetrachloride being absorbed into the blood stream through the skin, it is wise to wash exposed skin immediately after handling the chemical.

It gives out any disturbance from the dry cleaning fluid, work outdoors or provide lots of ventilation in the room. If the fluid is spilled be sure there is plenty of fresh air in the room when removing the deadly liquid from the floor. It would be advisable to wear an air supplied type mask to protect you from the fumes. Remember to fasten the bottle in a closed container after using the solution.

The Division of Occupational Health allows 50 parts of carbon tetrachloride per million parts of air when inspecting industrial settings, according to Mr. Stalker. But if you dry clean in an average sized kitchen and use two ounces of carbon tetrachloride ten times a month, chemical will be in the room as is allowed in the same sized room of an industrial dry cleaning plant. A small quantity will cause unconsciousness if used carelessly. With any notice of weakness, dizziness, sleepiness, nausea or difficulty with vision, see your family physician at once.
