on the finance committee. They expressed their appreciation of the tremendous need for the Bookmobile Project, he added.

Pledges for a total of 22 Bookmobiles have been received so far from various business and fraternal organizations, labor unions, and churches as well as individuals and business associates.

The Governor added:

"We must make available to our children and to the adults in the rural and mountain areas of our state the treasure house of literature which the Bookmobiles can bring to them."

"In no other way can we raise the level of education and knowledge as rapidly and effectively as we can by making available good books and plenty of them, through the medium of these traveling libraries."

"In the areas of Kentucky where a small number of Bookmobiles is now operating, the reading ability of our children has improved as much as 48 per cent."

At present, 40 per cent of our citizens, most of them in the rural areas, do not get to see a library book from one year to another.

"Thirty-three per cent of Kentucky's young men called to service last year had to be rejected as functionally illiterate. We can end much of this illiteracy by supporting this project to such a large percentage of our people."

The Kentucky Bookmobile Project, this week, received Magoffin county's community pledge to support a bookmobile in that county.

Roy Marshall, superintendent of schools, announced that the county Board of Education had already added one man to the school system's staff for the express purpose of bringing school and community library service to the 1,500 Magoffin county families who do not have access to any library.

In consequence, Magoffin pledged, Dr. Donald P. Brown, executive director of the Kentucky Bookmobile Project, said that Magoffin county's action was the response to the bookmobile project in almost all of eastern Kentucky's counties. Johnson county, adjoining Magoffin on the east, was the first county to request a bookmobile under the new project.

Beatty county, which adjoins Magoffin on the west, has had one bookmobile in operation for some time and is making that project provide a second bookmobile to serve that large area.

Among other counties throughout the state which have asked that their names be listed for bookmobiles are Graves, Johnson, Calloway, Nelson, Spencer, Letcher, Whitley and Jackson. It is expected that applications for all the 100 bookmobiles to be placed in operation by the Project will be received within a few weeks.

In view of the importance of knowing the need for bookmobile service in Kentucky communities, Dr. Brown urged that all counties list their need for a bookmobile with the Kentucky Bookmobile Project headquarters in Louisville.

Clinic Held on Tuesday For Crippled Children; 8 Are New Registrants

The Crippled Children Commission's clinic that was held here Tuesday found several in need of hospitalization, it was said by M. V. Clark, health administrator. They were sent to the commission's hospital at either Ashland or Louisville.

The clinic was under the direction of Dr. M. D. Garrod and Dr. Richard Ogilvie, Ashland. Dr. Joseph Little of Louisville was on the clinic staff. The clinic was arranged by Miss Vera Potts, a state worker for the commission, and was under the auspices of the Presbyterian Women's Auxiliary. The auxiliary set up the necessary clerical work and served lunch.

Fifty-three crippled children were registered, eight of them being new and registering for the first time. The clinic was held at the high school building. Mr. Clark explained for public information that these children do not require hospitalization but that Miss Potts will follow cases up and give the necessary assistance offered by the Crippled Children Commission.

Both the Floyd and Johnson county health departments cooperated in the clinic's work. Most of the registrants were from these counties, Clark said.

meetings held in the Picketon (Pikeville) and Prestonsburg (Prestonsburg) circuits.

The first of the record, slightly torn, is of the third quarterly meeting held at Picketon, June 4, 1900. There was no Snively Chapel then. There may have been an aid log structure used for worship and church, for tradition in the church speaks of such. This first record, the only known one of the year 1820 for the Pikeville circuit, is short and is devoted to a formal asking and answering of questions. It is dim and faded with the years.

"Question 3. What and where shall the next quarterly meeting be held?" Answer: "At Picketon, June 17 and 18 of August 1820." The minutes were signed by A. W. Bayley, presiding elder.

The next record extant in the Bevins archives is that of a conference held in the Pikeville circuit at the home of Samuel Marks, Feb. 1821. Present were J. J. Hill, P. E., W. J. Snively, Jesse Ball, Zachariah Ball, H. H. Hume, John Patton, Robert Hurt and M. T. Davis.

"After divine services the quarterly conference proceeded to business, J. J. Hill in the chair. On motion of W. J. Snively, J. H. Hill appointed secretary.

"Question 1st. Are there any complaints? Ans. None. Question 2nd. Are there any appeals? Ans. None. 3rd. Are there any Sabbath School reports? Ans. None. 4th. Have the rules in regard to the instruction of children in religion been observed? Ans. They have. 5th. Are there any money raised for missionary lectures? Ans. $6.00. 6th. Are there any other business before the conference? Ans. Yes. Brother Jesse Ball has been recommended by the Society at Lesley's to have license to act as a Local Preacher.

"On motion of Brother Hurt, Brother Ball have license to act as a local preacher provided however that Brother Ball assiduously apply himself to study such. Book as would enable him to set in this matter more effectively. Quest. 7th. When and where shall the next quarterly meeting be held? Ans. At Picketon commencing on the 31st of May 1821."

the Picketon circuit was ordered held at "the 'Widder-Hunters' and for the Prestonsburg circuit the next quarterly meeting was to be held at the mouth of Daniel's Creek. This was the first listing from the record that the two circuits which had been joined, sometime back, were now separate again.

The second quarterly meeting for the Picketon circuit met at Snively Chapel on the 9th and 10th of April, 1823. The land on which the church stood was owned by Martin Lesley and his wife, Sarah B. Lesley. Present were L. L. Robertson, Joseph F. Radford, Jesse Ball, Tams Burris, W. D. Adams, James Maynard, Harvey W. Stratton, Thomas P. May and John Patton (Patton). It was decided to hold the next quarterly meeting at "Picketon, June 18 and 19th."

That these early elders of the church were attended by the record as put down by J. F. Radford, secretary. In listing the various sums contributed for support of the preachers, Snively Chapel and Powell's land the list will be no different. James S. Layne lived near the present residence of James M. Loui at the present home of Layne.

It was at this meeting that the matter of the deed to the church trustees of the land off which Snively Chapel stood was discussed and the day after the gathering adjourned Martin Lesley and his wife executed a deed to the church.

In the year 1908 Monteville Bevins, a member of the church with Charles Hurt, grandson of Robert Hurt, one of the church founders, raised the north end of the building and put a metal container in the corner. The container held a brief history of the church as written by the old scholar Bevins. Unless the erosion of time has destroyed it, the manuscript is still there. Some day, perhaps in the year 2000, members of the congregation of Snively Chapel will take out the Bevins history and read it.

When they do it will be with the same reverence for the church's history that we are possessed with today when we read the ancient script of the founding fathers that have been treasured for a hundred years by the Bevins family.

A showing of the Southern States 25th anniversary technical movie, "We," a "basketball" game, and elections of local board and Farm Home Advisory Committee members will be the feature of the annual Southern States membership meeting for the Prestonsburg area next Monday night at Prestonsburg high school. The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Cooperating in holding the session are Southern States and the Prestonsburg Farm and Home Store in Prestonsburg. Its local cooperative service agency. Chairman of the meeting will be Homer Neely, of Prestonsburg.

The movie to be shown tells the story of the cooperative's first 25 years through the memory of a typical patron-member who should be done to help the Big South. We came up, naturally, with the talk of high freight rates and the need for all-farm cast. The "end" is played by Roscoe Primm, of West Friendship, Maryland, a dairy farmer, who also plays the role of a dairy farmer.

The "basketball" game will be played between a men's team coached by G. G. Leslie, of Prestonsburg, and a women's team, coached by Mrs. Grace Conley, of Bonanza. Each team will include five players and three substitutes. A team will "score" by answering correctly questions about the cooperative's operations, history, and personnel. The game will last 15 minutes. The audience will serve as cheering sections. The Southern States district manager, Tommy Combs, of Morehead, will be the referee.

Already volunteering for the men's team have been: Homer Neely, Billie Merritt, Robert Dean O'Connell, James Ray Chaffin. For the women's team the volunteers have been Mrs. Homer Neely and Mrs. G. G. Leslie.

The scorekeeper for the game will be Mrs. Woodrow Adams, the time-keeper, Joe Hunter. Members of the highest scoring team in this state will win all-expense paid trips to the Southern States annual stockholders' meeting in Richmond, November 17 and 18. There they will compete with the top teams of other states in Southern States territory for a championship trophy.

Rev. Alex Stephens of Prestonsburg, Ky., will give the invocation. Group singing will be led by Mrs. Grace Conley. A birthday cake commemorating Southern States' 25th anniversary this year will be on display at the meeting.

Shoppers—going on constantly in size—the big tires under the hood of every car today are grinds off rubber on the road and eventually wear the tire.

Gates engineers conducted intensive research into the effects of slippage and its relationship to tread design.

In the specially-engineered tread of the Gates Tire, there has been minimum—reducing slip, and effectively adding EXTRA MILES to the life of the tire.

Look what your FORD dollar buys!

Check the features below against any car in the low-price field and you'll see why Ford's worth more when you buy it...worth more when you sell it.

V-8 POWER is yours in Ford—but not in other low-priced cars. It's the product of Ford's experience in building over 13,000,000 V-8's. Ford's high-compression, low-friction Mileage Maker Six with Overdrive, is the Economy Sweepstakes winner.

ROAD-LEVELING RIDE reduces front end road shock alone up to 50%. Wide front tread, diagonal-mounted shock absorbers take tilt out of turns. You'll discover in the '53 Ford that a car need not be excessively heavy to ride smooth as silk.

FULL-CIRCLE VISIBILITY is yours in Ford. With huge, curved, one-piece windshield, car-wide rear window and "picture windows" all-around, Ford has more "look out" area than any car in the low-price field. L-REX tinted glass also available.

ROOMY TRUNK is one outspace bigger... bigger than any other luggage compartment in Ford's field... bigger than you'll find in many of the expensive cars. With Ford's Center-Fill Fueling, there's no long gas-fill pipe to eat up your trunk space.

SUSPENDED PEDALS make braking and clutching easier... allow more clear floor space... eliminate dusty, drafty floor holes. This feature, exclusive to Ford in its field, permits dismounting of brake master cylinders for easy accessibility.

FOAM-RUBBER CUSHIONS over non-sag springs in Ford's sofa-wide seats make even long trips a treat. And you'll find that only Ford in the low-price field offers this fine-car feature as standard equipment on both front and rear seats in all models.

FORDOMATIC DRIVE—an optional extra—is really two automatic drives in one. It has a fluid torque converter for smooth, steady power flow. It has automatic gears for greater "get-up-and-go." Ford also offers you Overdrive and Conventional Drive.

MASTER-GUIDE POWER STEERING—an optional extra on V-8 models—gives you the natural "feel" of steering on the straight-away yet takes the work out of turning. Always road ahead before they reach the steering wheel—so to safety.

If you're interested in used cars, be sure to see our selections.

VET TRAINING DEADLINE SET

Korean Vets May Enroll For GI Training in Year May Suspend for 1 year

The deadline for starting training under the Korean GI Bill is exactly one year away for nearly 1,000,000 Korean Veterans, the Veterans Administration announced this week.

The veterans are those who served since Korea, who were discharged or separated before August 30, 1953, and who have not yet taken advantage of the GI training benefit.

Under the law, they actually must enroll in and begin GI training by August 30, 1954, in order to continue afterwards. The mere thing of an application beforehand, with an intention of starting some time after that date is not enough, VA said.

VA emphasized that the 1954 cut-off date applies only to post-Korean veterans who left service before August 30, 1953. Those separated after that date need not concern themselves with the 1954 deadline. Instead, they have two years from the time they left the armed forces in which to get started.

Generally, a veteran is expected to be in the classroom or at the training bench when his GI Bill cut-off date comes around, if he wants to continue beyond that time.

So long as he started before the deadline, there will be no objection if he not actually in training on the cut-off date because of the normal summer vacation, or for other reasons beyond his control.

But if he does not start before the deadline, he will be considered to have failed to get started, and he will be required to account to VA for his absence.

But if the suspension lasts for more than a year, the veterans will have to show VA that this absence in excess of 12 months was caused by conditions beyond his control.

In such case, he must have VA approval before he may go on with his Korean GI Bill studies.

VA said that these cut-off date rules and regulations apply only to veterans training under the Korean GI Bill. They have nothing at all to do with those training under the World War II GI Bill.

To be eligible for Korean GI training, a veteran must meet all three of these requirements:

He must have a separation granted under conditions other than dishonorable.

He must have been on active duty any place in the world—not necessarily in Korea—after June 27, 1950, the date of the outbreak of Korean hostilities.

And he must have had at least 90 days of active service, unless he was discharged sooner because of a service-connected disability.

The Korean GI Bill operates as a one-payment program. For each month of training the veteran receives a single GI allowance check from VA. With the help of this check, he is expected to meet all his own expenses of training—tuition, text books, supplies and the like.

QUESTIONS MOTIVES OF COUNCIL

The city council of Prestonsburg was supposed to meet last night Monday, Aug. 26, to settle the issue regarding the election of the Chief of Police of Prestonsburg. However, this meeting was postponed thereby making it impossible for a chief of police to be elected since Monday was the last day under the law for the council to make this decision.

Many people will ask why the City Council refused to vote on this proposition. Do they think that the people of Prestonsburg are too ignorant to vote for a Chief of Police? This and many other questions will be asked. Let the members of the City Council answer them.

In a democracy a majority vote on any issue, regardless of what it is, is never wrong. Explanations will be made, however, it is my opinion that none will be satisfactory. It boils down to one fact and that is—should the people be allowed to vote and decide this issue? Apparently the City Council thought not.

"Gather ye rosebuds while ye may"

Most everybody has a tendency to "put off until tomorrow" what can be done today and before we know it the tomorrow slip by and one day we reach the autumn of life and suddenly realize we haven't yet begun to live.

NOW is the time to get the wheels rolling; NOW is the time to put your ideas and dreams into motion. True, you may not realize them today, but at least you will have started them growing and the tomorrow when they come true won't be so far off. Oftentimes we make the mistake of waiting until later... only to find the blossoms are no longer there for picking.

"Fraternization is the thief of time" is a very old proverb from which we could all learn a lesson. So let us try to gather our rosebuds while we may for the future is well-nigh slipping and this same flower that smiles today tomorrow may be withering.

You can tell in an instant it's a Very great 8

A building speed, the engine of this 1953 Buick is deceptively docile. All you hear is a sullen whisper, a kitten purr, a smooth flow of air channelling quietly through metal passageways.

Then—you want to go. You nudge the pedal. You go.

That's when you discover that you're riding behind an engine of electrifying response.

That's when you begin to know, both the power of the first Fireball V8 can handle getaway, cruising, hill-climbing.

That's when you learn what Buick's highest-compression engine in fifty great years can mean in spirited and soul-satisfying road command.

It's an experience too wonderful to miss—the blossing of this brilliant new V8.

Engine that powers every 1953 Buick Super and Roadmaster.

So we cordially invite you to come in and try it.

We cordially invite you to hold rein on this truly advanced V8—the world's first V8 with vertical valves, with "T" type intake manifold, with zero-power-loss muffler—and the first standard-production American passenger-car engine to reach 8.5 to 1 compression ratio.

Why not come in for a sampling?

That way you can also try the other Buick gems—like Twin-Turbine Dynaflow™—and the Million Dollar Ride—and the room and visibility and handling ease of the greatest Buicks yet. Can you make it this week?

FIREWORKS RULING GIVEN

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 24 — Whether sales of fireworks are at wholesale or retail, depends on the particular fact of each transaction and not upon a dealer's sign—"wholesale"—the Attorney General's office advised the State Fire Marshal.

Kentucky law forbids the sale of fireworks at retail, but does not prohibit transactions at wholesale.

"It is of no consequence that roadside dealers display signs stating fireworks are being sold at wholesale only," said the ruling. "It would be sufficient evidence to support conviction to show that a number of sales to comparatively small quantities were made to several customers and that the purchasers were the ultimate consumers rather than the merchants themselves."

Far more miles per gallon on the trips YOU take!

On long trips, short trips, all trips, you get far greater gas mileage out of a '53 Chevrolet. It offers important savings in everyday driving over everyday roads!

Out to the golf course. Off for a week-end of fishing. Half across the country on a full-scale vacation. Wherever you go—however you drive—you're going to get there on a lot less gasoline in a fine new Chevrolet.

The truth is, this year's Chevrolet owners are enjoying the most important gain in economy in Chevrolet history. Plus more power. Faster acceleration. More "steer" for the steep hills.

That's the beauty of Chevrolet's two great high-compression engines—the new 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine in Powerglide models, and the advanced 108-h.p. "Turbo" engine in gearshift models. They squeeze much more out of regular gasoline—more miles, more pleasure.

Along with this greater gas mileage, you get lower over-all upkeep costs. And Chevrolet is the lowest-priced line in its field. Drop in and let us show you how you'll be better off in every way with a 1953 Chevrolet!

*Combination of Powerglide automatic transmission and 115-h.p. "Blue-Flame" engine optional on "Two-Ten" and Bel Air models at extra cost.

IT'S A GOOD WORLD

And it is good to note that the Maytown Women's Club will again sponsor a Fall Flower Show in the local gymnasium on Saturday, Sept. 19, all day, with luncheon in the lunch room at noon, by the P.T.A. Mrs. Ed Stewart, former club president, and her fine corps of helpers, have made the show memorable in its two past years. This year, Mrs. James Allen, the enthusiastic new president, is in charge. Come, bring your flowers and friends. Help promote this cultural event.

Eleven children dead this past week in three states from discarded refrigerators. Cincinnati passed a law requiring owners to remove doors before junking one. Perhaps manufacturers can conceive means whereby they can be opened from the inside, too, though small children might not succeed even then. Such deaths are doubly tragic. Parents and teachers can educate youngsters about the dangers of such.

It was a joy to have known Mrs. A. B. Ooms. She had a wonderful personality, a deep spirituality which one felt on first acquaintance with her. Her passing leaves a void for all who knew her.

Kentucky Bookmobile project made Time Magazine last week. It is believed "Floyd county will join the ranks soon. No county could have better business people than ours. They are wonderful to respond to any worthy cause, and always most generous. We found this true in the Passion Pageant. Another more recent example was radio time donated by firms for election reports in the primary.

The Bookmobile Project is not only an ideal means of helping our state, particularly in reaching those who most need help, but it also is a perfect illustration of HOW the state needs help, namely, those who lack reading materials—and surprisingly enough thousands do—and will receive it from the ones who have it and will gladly share. This brings up the point that it is becoming a theme song for many in regards to Kentucky, namely, if more progressive citizens will unite to aid the less fortunate ones in every way this will help solve some present problems, since our best people achieve outstanding recognition in every field anywhere. Another point some overlook is that the present crisis, due to a lack of industry in many parts of the state, is partially due to low education of the masses. When considering territory for plant location, some industrial moguls ask to know the average education of unskilled labor. If it is very low they insist they can train persons with a higher grade level much easier and cheaper. The connection is obvious to thousands who do not belong to this category. But how many realize what the better class can do to assist the underprivileged to meet the requirements of industry? The Bookmobile project is one method. Adult education for persons who failed to complete grade school is the best solution. Teachers would gladly donate time by rotating for night classes if this program is ever launched. The Louisville method employed in foreign countries should be used here. Millions are quickly taught to read. "Hope somebody offers personal letters along with it, for us no-count scribbles who have to rely on typewriters." The more that outcasts families recognize and discharge their obligation to others, the sooner industries will locate anywhere, as a rule, for any employee, poor, intelligent, educated employee to the opposite. The state literacy rate shows how far we fall short of the national average.

It was good to see so many relatives at Uncle John's funeral. Reuben Allen, of Milton, W. Va., a favorite cousin with all of us, Joe Taylor Hyden from Louisville, another good guy, Joe has one more year in dentistry. Ha enter, Lucille Davis, of Prestonsburg, gets more beautiful with the years. Jim and Joanne Preston from Park City, Uncle John was so devoted to Janice. We all live at such a pace these days it takes time to bring us together.

It takes time to carry on an argument, and it either is smart, he will vacate before getting involved.

VOTE FOR LACKEY SALISBURY

For COUNTY JUDGE

Member Local Union 6691 UMW of A.
Veteran, World War I.

At the beginning of my campaign, I will introduce myself to the voters of Floyd county. I was born and raised in Floyd county, and am related by blood and marriage to a great number of our people. I am the son of Joe Salisbury and Rebecca Osborne Salisbury, both deceased. In order that my in-folks will readily recognize their relationship to me, I will give the names of my grandparents. On my father's side my grandparents are Lackey Salisbury and Peggy Justice, on my mother's side, Dave Osborne and Mary Stephens. I married Lula Allen, daughter of C. S. Allen, and we have 9 children—two boys and 7 girls. One of my boys went 4 years to college and he was called to the army before he graduated. My other boy went one year and the army got him. Two of my daughters are college graduates. My two boys are now in the army—one in California and one in Korea.

My wife's grandparents are George Allen and Rhoda Halbert, Dave Allen and Ella Preston.

If elected, I will do my best to make this county a better place for all of us to live.

The county finances will be honestly administered.

It will not take law suits to make me do the right thing.

Rich and poor alike will be given the benefit of law. As my opponent will be running on his record, I will from time to time during the campaign discuss this record at length, so that the voters may judge which is the most worthy of their support.

I stand for HONEST, CLEAN Government.

Your vote and support will be appreciated.

HOSPITAL RETURNED

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 24 — The state returned Oneda Maternity hospital in Clay county to Genial Mountain Hospital, Inc. The hospital had been operated by the Department of Health since 1941 with the use of federal funds.

A cutback in funds forced the state withdrawal, and the corporation will have to operate on its own after Sept. 1.

Chase of Wounded Bear Led to Mammoth Cave; Wonders are Explained

A Kentucky hunter named Houchins is said to have chased a wounded bear into a previously unknown cave in the late 1700s, thus discovering one of the great natural wonders of the world—Mammoth Cave.

The Mammoth Cave Area is described by Miss Ann Livesey, University of Kentucky geology instructor, in a booklet just issued by the Kentucky Geological Survey.

The purpose of the booklet is to provide answers to questions which might arise in the visitor's mind concerning the location and formation of Mammoth Cave and other caves of the region.

Rocks of the Mammoth Cave area date back about 250 million years according to the booklet. Vast regions of Kentucky were then covered by shallow seas in which layers upon layers of clay, silt, sand and limestone were forming.

The limestone was formed from mineral matter in the sea water and from the shells and other parts of animals and plants that lived there. Fossil remains can be seen in these rocks in many places today.

Miss Livesey explains that sediments from nearby land sources were carried by rivers and deposited there. These Mississippians seas and were deposited there as mud, later hardening into stone, sand, gravel and siltstone. The caves were formed much later, and the cave-forming processes are described in semi-technical fashion by the author.

Features of the several cave types are mentioned in the report, which concludes with this statement: Emerging from the cave into the outer air and light, the visitor may be startled by the sudden change in landscape and scenery, but he will never forget entirely the impressions of the cave trips he may have chosen through these "caverns measureless to man."

The new booklet is the first in a series on Kentucky's scenic wonders, according to Dr. Arthur C. Mearns, head of the U. S. Geological Department and director of the Kentucky Geological Survey. Similar reports will follow on the Natural Bridge and Cumberland Falls State Parks areas.

Farm and home safety were discussed in a series of home economics club meetings in July in Eadsburg county.

Love on mother, Isaiah 40:15. Can a woman forget her sucking child, that she should not have compassion on the son of her womb? Yes, they may forget, yet will I not forget thee. Examples: Gen. 21:10. Wherefore she said unto Abraham, Cast out this bond woman and her son, for the son of this bond woman shall not be heir with my son even with Isaac. God commanded Abraham to beget Isaac out of Sarah. 12th verse. Some man can travel no farther than where the bond woman's belly will work dry. Open your eyes and read on. Mother of Israel, Judges 3:7. Who is my mother? Language of Christ, Matt. 12:48-50. First miracle of Jesus at request of his mother. John 2:1-11. I wish to plead to Foster Meade and Henry C. Hale to both live and respect me as mother and to love each other as brothers. I want Foster Meade never to re-register as some others did and lose both titles. I want Henry C. Hale to know he is on the Reserve List to try to keep the Democratic ticket alive, and to look up and smile and shake of Christ and his natural mother and never forget his spiritual mother that will never take away or add to the word of God.

Sincerely and Respectfully,

EVA MEADE HALL

MASTER, MAGISTRATE and MOTHER

After reading and meditating on the Aug. 6 issue of The Times and praying and meditating on God's Holy Word and my writing, I wish to still hold up the Bible and picture of Henry C. Hale until the end of 1953, as you all know he is still our State Representative, and I wish to represent God and country, church and state, mother and sons.

On the front page of that issue an item told of my first-born, Foster Meade, receiving a degree from Morehead College—a Master's degree. On Page 3, Republicans nominated him as first choice in District 3 for Magistrate. I am giving you some Bible references about Magistrates, so you will all know I am strong enough to hold Foster Meade in one hand and Henry C. Hale in the other.

This is aside from chicken range, which is supposed to save one fifth of the feed bill. If that is so, I can mark up another hundred to my pasture. We have been ranging about five hundred pullets and hens for the last two years. We have to refuse folks, right now, who are looking for pasture. In fact my pasture would bring me a fair price if I had it cared for properly. I find pasture is just everything else, if you have the best around, everyone wants it. I know folks who wanted to pasture this said: "Looks like you have pretty good pasture." I told him it is like my credit, if it were good was because it hadn't been used so much.

HOW TO TAKE SOIL SAMPLES

by GEORGE B. CONNOR

If Kentucky farmers are to get the best results from the soil-testing program and from fertilizing according to the recommendations made, soil samples must be taken properly and delivered to the soil-testing laboratory in good condition. They must be representative of the area if the results are to represent the level of fertility to the area. The technician who makes the tests and the county agent who is responsible for the program and makes the fertilizer recommendations, exercise a great deal of care in processing the soil sample. The farmer or other person who takes the sample from the field or area, should use equal precautions if maximum reliability in the results are to be obtained. It is to be remembered that test results and fertilizer recommendations are no better than the sample taken and delivered to the laboratory.

The three tools most commonly recommended for taking soil samples are soil-sampling tubes, augers, and spades. A clean bucket should be at hand for mixing the samples, and clean, heavy paper bags should be used to deliver the samples to the laboratory.

A wood auger, spruce and bit and a spade can be found on nearly every farm in Kentucky and these are good tools for sampling soils if used properly. Soil-sampling tubes and soil augers are available to farmers in a few counties in the state. Some farmers find it convenient to use an iron pipe. This can be made more useful by cutting out one side with an emery wheel, making it similar to a sampling tube.

The sample is best taken from the field when the soil is dry enough to pile. While it can be done when the ground is wet, it is then much more difficult to mix the soil so the portion sent to the laboratory is representative. It is also more difficult to prepare for analysis.

If the soil is not dry when it is taken from the field, it should be air-dried and all lumps crushed before the sample is delivered to the soil-testing laboratory. Do not dry the soil over a stove or radiator.

A sample can be taken more quickly and easily when a soil-sampling tube or auger is used rather than a spade, and usually it will be more likely to represent the area.

When using an auger or soil-sampling tube, make a boring 6 inches deep, or 8 inches deep if the soil is usually plowed, and pull up the soil. When a spade is used, dig a V-shaped hole 6 inches deep, or deeper, and cut a thin slice from the side of the hole. The boring or slice of soil removed should consist of a sample extending from the surface to a depth of 8 inches, or plow-layer depth. All grass and trash should be removed from the surface before a boring is made, or before the slice is collected with the spade.

There should be 70 or more samplings taken within the auger, sampling tube, or spade from each field or area. All samplings should be placed in a clean bucket or box as they are taken in the field. Mix them thoroughly, then place a pint of this soil in a clean paper sack as the sample to be tested for that area. Mark the sack with the field name or field number from which it was taken, plus the farmer's name and address.

If a field is uniform in soil-type, fertility, slope, and crop growth, and if fertilizer and lime treatment have been the same over the entire field, one composite sample of 10 or more samplings is sufficient.

If the field varies in soil-type, fertility, or slope, or if crop growth varies in different parts of the field, or if fertilizer and lime treatment on various parts of the field have varied during recent years, a composite sample of 100 or more borings should be taken from each area.

Old house sites, small garden plots, and places where lime or manure have been piled in a field should be avoided. If a larger field has a fertile basin or a poor knoll that is so small that a farmer cannot afford to change his fertilizer application when he comes to that area in his operations, they should be avoided in sampling. If the basin or knoll are large enough in area that they should be fertilized separately, a composite sample should be taken from them and one from the remainder of the field.

Before limestone and fertilizer recommendations can be properly made, past cropping-history, soil treatments, and future cropping plans must be known by the county agent. This knowledge of the field is supplied when the farmer fills out the information sheet correctly.

YELLOW TREFOIL, OR BLACK MEDIC, another annual or sometimes biennial legume, is abundant on limestone soils in Kentucky. This has small, yellow blossoms which appear at the same time as those of hop clover. It does not grow so upright as the latter. The seeds are much like alfalfa seed in size and shape. Though yellow trefoil has been recognized as valuable in pastures for many years, it has proved difficult to get stands of this crop, and it has never been extensively used in pastures.

GOOD PASTURES ASSURE GOOD LIVESTOCK GROWTH

Soil fertility is one of the major factors influencing the productive capacity of soils. The yield and quality of pasture plants, like that of other crops, is in proportion to the productive capacity of the soil in which they grow. Although the supply of available plant food is not depleted as rapidly by pasture as with cultivated and harvested crops, additional fertilizers are needed to restore what is removed by the grazing animals and by unavoidable losses. While not all the pastures may need fertilizing every year, most of them respond profitably to top-dressing at certain intervals. The decision as to whether your pasture fields need fertilizing can best be based upon the pasture plants themselves. When observed closely you may notice deficiencies of plant food materials. Or what you may call hunger signs of pasture plants. An application of fertilizer on marked areas on the field, may show a great difference of growth, and reveal a serious need for fertilizers on other areas of the pasture. You may take a soil sample of the pasture, take it to the local Soil Laboratory, located in the county agent's office, and for a small fee get a report on some of the plant foods your pasture plants may need, such as lime, phosphorus and potash. On many of our soils the greatest need may be nitrogen, and in most cases can be supplied by properly inoculated legumes in our pasture mixtures. In some instances where the vegetation is mainly grass, or where grasses make up more than one half of the pasture mixture, an application of nitrogen also tends to lower the dry weight of a bushel of seed. For seed production, early spring applications of nitrogen fertilizer were found better than fall use, for orchard grass; while on fescue seeds, fall and winter applications gave about equal results. Clipping both grasses in the year preceding seed harvests tended to reduce seed yields, while burning the seed did not affect the field of seed. Seed yields were better when Ky. 31 fescue was grown in rows, and orchard grass in rows, pinched more seed two years out of three, compared to broadcast seedings.

Ball Creek Farmer Plans To Continue Improvement Work

John Wallen, a veteran farmer, who lives on a 40-acre farm on the right fork of Ball Creek, in co-operation with the Floyd County Green Pastures Program did considerable pasture improvement last year and plans to continue his pasture improvement program this year. Here is how his pasture improvement is paying off for him: From 3 1/2 acres seeded to a mixture of 10 pound Fescue, 7 pound Ladino, 3 red top and 8 pound timothy. In September of 1962, he harvested 1 crop of hay (1 1/2 tons per acre) and two weeks later started pasturing 2 units of livestock on the 3 1/2 acres. Before the improvement the same land would not have carried the 2 animal units to say nothing about the hay crop.

So far this year, John has seeded 1 1/2 acres of Kernland red clover and reports excellent results.

TIMOTHY is a good grass for short time pasture on good soil. The cost of seeding timothy is small and getting a stand is easy. Though timothy is a perennial grass, stands seldom remain good more than 3 years in Kentucky. It is valuable to furnish cover and pasture while slower growing pasture grasses are becoming established. Timothy is usually one of the least costly grasses to seed. Early varieties such as Marietta and Shelby are more productive in Kentucky than ordinary kinds.

250 ATTEND FARM EVENT

Smith Farm at Allen Scene of 3rd Field Day, One of Best in Kentucky

by O. E. BOGGS
County Agent

Floyd county's third annual Farm Family Field Day which was held Thursday, July 20, on Virgil Smith's farm at Allen, was not only attended by the largest crowd to date for any of the annual events, but also was the county's best.

Approximately 250 members of farm families attended. And among other things, they saw:

What 2-4-D, applied to poison ivy and weeds, had achieved in only a week's time.

Plots of hybrid and open-pollinated corn for purposes of comparison.

Pasture plots of clover and grasses.

Plots for fertilizer value demonstration.

Flocks of 250 laying hens and 200 turkeys.

Demonstrations by home economists from Kentucky and West Virginia. Power Company showed the women methods of preparing food for freezing, packing a home freezer, and preparation of broilers.

Discussions and awarding of prizes formed a heavy part of the afternoon program. Virgil Smith, host to the gathering, told of his farm organization. George D. Corder, University of Kentucky, Field Agent in Agronomy, and O. E. Boggs, Field Agent in Poultry, offered expert advice, and their talks were followed by a question-and-answer period.

Winners of prizes:
Newest married couple present, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Bell, Pikeville, Miramonte coffee-maker contributed by Keithley Jewelry, Martin; couple longest married, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dingus, Martin, cutlery set from the Jackson Furniture Company, Prestonsburg; Floyd county traveling farthest to the field day, Mollie Prater, Bonanza, oil change for sale by Malone Service Station, Allen; oldest woman present, Mrs. Florence Crisp, Martin, Dorothy Perkins cosmetic set from Martin Drug Store, Martin; largest family present, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Martin, Eastern, 20-pound bag of Mary Ann flour from Central Wholesale Co., Prestonsburg; oldest man present, A. B. Osborne, Martin, pocket knife from Arrowood Hardware, Prestonsburg.

"Door" prizes for women included a cook book from Meade Bros. Hardware, Prestonsburg, and a cooker from Jewel Hardware, Martin; for men 100 pounds of Purina cow chow from Francis Wholesale, Prestonsburg, and a quart of 2-4-D weed killer from the Farm and Home Store, Prestonsburg; The Howard Wholesale, Allen, contributed 20 five-pound bags of flour as prizes for men and women. These were given by lot, one bag at a time. A gift for the Smith family was contributed by Francis Store, Prestonsburg.

Creek bank on the Virgil Smith farm, near Allen, seeded to fescue. Although completely inundated last spring, it has yielded two cuttings of hay this season.

FERTILIZATION, LIME NEEDED

E. N. FERGUS
University of Kentucky

"What should I do to improve this pasture?" This is a question that farmers ask, their county agent almost every day. It is not always a question that is easy to answer. If the pasture is a very good one there may be no practical way to improve it. Yet there is always the possibility that it can be improved somewhat. On the other hand, if the pasture is a poor one the question can be answered easily in most instances.

Most soil in Kentucky needs two to three tons of ground limestone to produce good pasture. Some soils do not need lime, however, the amount and kind of fertilizer needed varies greatly. Most Kentucky soils need phosphorus. Poor pastures should perhaps be treated with 100 pounds or more of P 205 per acre (500 pounds or more of 20 per cent superphosphate or equivalent). Often they should also be fertilized with 30 to 70 pounds of K2O per acre (80 to 120 pounds of muriate of potash or equivalent).

Poor pastures may need nothing more than liming and fertilizing to make them into good pastures. This is the case if the soil is fairly heavy but making poor growth; it will thicken up when fertilized. Usually, however, the grass in thin and the legumes are lacking. Many weeds may be present. These pastures must be reseeded as well as fertilized. How shall this be done? Usually the pasture is so weeds that it should be rather thoroughly disked before reseeding. If the grass is fairly good it may be best to disk only enough to cover the seed lightly or the disking may be

Soil Analysis Advocated

By GEORGE CORDER and County Agent O. E. BOGGS

Farming is a business and a complicated one at that, and to be successful this year, and in the next few years, it must be operated as a business.

In 1948, the Kentucky College of Agriculture, in cooperation with county agents, started the present system of extensive soil testing which has enabled farmers to do their job in a more business-like manner. Only two laboratories were established that year, but from that time through 1952, ninety-two laboratories were established and last year farmers in 111 counties took advantage of services offered by these laboratories and had 4,000 soil samples tested in them. When the eight laboratories that are in the process of being set up are completed, there will be even 100 in Kentucky, with 115 counties using them.

Every merchant in town or country takes an inventory of what he has in stock and determines the items he can sell easiest and at the greatest profit before he buys more goods. In Kentucky's soil-testing program we are trying to help the farmer do the same thing. By having his soil tested in one of the laboratories, a farmer can pretty well measure the amounts of lime, phosphorus, and potash he has in his soil. By knowing this and by knowing something about the plant food requirements of the various crops he is trying to grow, he is able to buy the kind of fertilizer that contains missing elements in his soil. Far too long Kentucky farmers bought fertilizer materials blindly by the bag or by the ton. In too many cases the plant food that was limiting production most was not the one that was bought in the largest quantities. By having soil tests made, many farmers have found that 3-4-4, 4-4-4, or 4-12-4 fertilizer materials do not meet their needs and manufacturers who sell fertilizers in Kentucky have cooperated wonderfully in trying to make mixed goods that will meet all our needs according to our test results and they are making these in high analysis goods. There are those high in phosphorus and low in potassium for the high potash soils.

Farmers can and should buy the materials that most nearly meet their needs—the kind that contains the plant foods that they can harvest in their crops and sell at the greatest profit.

County agents all over Kentucky report this year that soil testing is increasing year by year, and the same farmers are coming back year after year for more tests. This means that farmers are satisfied with the results.

Take an inventory before you buy your fertilizers.

MAKE FLOYD COUNTY G-R-E-E-N

Kentucky's Green Pastures Program is a coordinated activity of state and federal agricultural agencies, under the leadership of the University of Kentucky's College of Agriculture and Home Economics and with the cooperation of farm people, organizations, and commercial concerns to improve the agricultural resources of Kentucky through the development of a more efficient Grassland Agriculture. Such a program is designed to strengthen the state and nation through profitable balanced farming, sustained abundance, good nutrition, and conservation of land and water resources.

Build a New County from Wasted Lands Through the Green Pastures Program

Floyd county will have a sounder economy when it turns its soil to fuller productivity through conservation measures, the growing of livestock and modern farming methods.

This GREEN PASTURES program is of great importance now, and it will be even more important in the years to come.

We congratulate those now taking part in this program.

Hill pasture on the H. B. Patrick farm, Abbott Creek. This was considered one of the best pastures of its kind found during the Green Pastures tour.

ALSIKE CLOVER is similar to red clover in growth habits. It is somewhat better adapted than red clover to wet soils. In general it produces less pasture than red clover in Kentucky.

Livingston county has prospects for a good corn crop; wheat yields were extra large.

Plenty folks have had good pasture but can't seem to keep it. That's where caring for it properly comes in. We need more fence and arrangements for rotating our stock. Of course if a fellow only has sprouts, briars and stuff like that he needs't mind about rotation, if he can get that stuff chewed off close enough the grass will probably volunteer. Of course he would have to move his animals while the grass was getting established. So you see, you just simply have to move them sometimes. But instead of hurrying a good stand of grass and clover from overgrazing or straying my stock, I'm planning for more fences and some sudan grass or other supplemental pasture.

Most farmers around me seem to care more for their corn crop than all the rest. Well, a pasture can stand more neglect than corn, I reckon, but it looks like some of us will have to get old Bossy through the summer before we can take her through the winter.

If I were allowed two crops to grow, one of them would be pasture. I don't know how else you can grow so much for so little. If a fellow has more pasture than he needs he can mow the benches for winter feed.

That's my plan, get as much of my rough land, as possible, growing clover and grass—pasture what I need and save the remainder for winter. They tell me you don't have to feed corn if you have good hay.

—Roger Reed.

BERMUDA GRASS, despite its reputation as a pest, has qualities that recommend it as a pasture grass in Kentucky under certain conditions, particularly in mixtures for land that should be seldom, if ever, plowed. It grows from early ever, plowed. It grows from early summer until fall and better adapted to hot weather than other pasture grasses adapted to Kentucky.

HECTOP is a perennial sod-forming grass but redtop pastures live usually only 8 to 10 years in Kentucky. It is especially useful on wet, bottom soil. However, it is high yielding on productive upland soils, particularly in late spring and early summer.

late summer or early fall and try to sow "bird" seed the land just before a rain. In the fall seeding, competition of wild weeds and grasses is not so hard on the young sprouts as spring seeding and if sown in the fall the young grass gets a good start and are able to withstand competition by wild weeds and grasses, and in the fall the weeds do not have a chance to mature seeds and naturally on account of absence of seeds, the weeds will not be so bad in the following spring.

Now, as to the kinds of grass. I would suggest a mixture of 31 fescue, orchard grass, some red top, and on north hillside where the ground is fairly fertile, add some Canadian or Kentucky blue grass. To this grass mixture, I would by all means, add some clover mixture, some ladino, some Kenland red clover, some southern and common white clover, all of which may be sown in the late summer or early fall with the grasses. And by all means, add a few pounds of Korean Lespedeza, but seed it in the spring by broadcasting on the pasture seeded in the fall, and it is not necessary to try to crop it the spring rains will do that.

MAYBE by this time you have heaved a sigh of relief and concluded you can't learn back, relax and take it easy, but not so. A good pasture, like our democracy, demands eternal vigilance. Stock weeds are a pest in our section, but if we go over about twice a year with a pack-back sprayer loaded with 2-4-D and 2-4-D-T amine and spot spray the few locoweed and sprouts that appear here and there we can keep our pasture clean so that it will produce at its maximum capacity. Remember, too, that the animals are taking annually part of the plant food in the soil, and when the grasses begin to show food starvation broadcast NEEDED PLANT FOOD, not just fertilizer.

Sounds like a lot of trouble and work, and it is, but it is the only way found by experience to make a pasture pay. Suppose you try it and let me know the result.

CRIMSON CLOVER is a winter annual legume used considerably for spring pasture. It is sown often with one of the winter grains and the mixture produces excellent pasture in late winter and spring. This clover is adapted to practically all soils in Kentucky. Reseeding hard-seeded varieties may be worthy of sowing in permanent pastures, as such varieties may volunteer if allowed to reseed.

ORCHARD GRASS is a bunch grass. Though a perennial, it is not long lived. Stands begin to thin after a few years and frequently become unsatisfactory after 8 to 12 years, particularly on hilly lands. It is adapted to well-drained soils of medium to high productivity but does well on soils of limestone origin that are low in organic matter. Orchard grass is most useful for pasture during spring and fall. It is semi-permanent during mid-summer. Properly managed orchard grass pastures are highly productive.

TALL FESCUE is a vigorous, long-lived bunch grass. Its root system is dense and large and grows deep into the soil. It is adapted to practically all soils of Kentucky. It is exceptionally well adapted to wet and flooded land, yet it is one of the most drought-resistant grasses suitable for use in Kentucky. Tall fescue is valuable for pasture primarily during the cool seasons of the year. In summer and early fall growth is allowed to accumulate, this grass furnishes much winter grazing in Kentucky. At other times it should be closely grazed or kept short by mowing. Ky 31 fescue is one of the most widely grown varieties of tall fescue.
