President Signs Bill Boosting Reserve Pay For Pre-Draft Youths

President Eisenhower has signed a bill to increase the pay of pre-draft college students who sign up for the new six months active duty Army Reserve training program. The pay rate, now retroactive to the date of signing, is $50 a month to $75 a month. This bill and the National Guard "Federal Status" bill of January, 1956 now ends a double standard that was disrupting discipline and damaging troop morale in the R. P. A. training program.

National Guardsmen have always received $75 monthly pay but in January have taken Federal Reserve training on a "militia" status, making them, except from disciplinary action under the Uniform Code of Military Justice which governs the Army Reserve trainees.

Both Army Reserve and National Guardsmen are now subject to full Army discipline under the code and both now receive the same pay.

The Justice Advocate General has also ruled that RPA trainees are now entitled to the same leave time as other military personnel. This means that the trainees will get 15 days leave during their six months of active duty.

The leave time will be arranged to cause the least interference with training and will take advantage of holidays.

The Army announcement pointed out that while reduction of training time is a disadvantage, the cost of cash payments for leave time is regarded as prohibitive.

Little League Baseball Deterrent To Crime, Russ Hodges Says

Little League baseball, wrote Russ Hodges of the Sporting News, has been a powerful deterrent to crime in providing the people with the recreation for youngsters.

As its name implies, Little League Baseball is an organized program of baseball for boys designed to fit the physical and mental capacities of boys under 12 years of age. This will be the sixteenth year of organized Little League activity.

It started in 1939 at Williamsport, Pa., where Carl E. Stutz formed a three-team league made up of boys from 8 to 12 and designed a playing field "about the size of a regulation diamond. The success of the league was immediate.

The Board of Directors of Little League Baseball, the devoted continual study to the rules and their possible refinements. Rule changes are made as a result of this study and are geared to the demands of a still-growing program.

Only through the hard efforts and support of parents who have participated youngsters in the program can the league bear the rich of rewards.

Commissioner Mark Harmon, head of the local league, has hit at the Prestonsburg parents who have taken little interest in the welfare of the Little League. He has pointed out that they have not been asked to contribute money but some of their time to keep the field in proper condition, filling umpiring shoes, and helping the managers in their tasks.

Expansion of the program was slowed by the war which delayed the league's success until 1947 when 60 teams participated. In the following year there was a spectacular increase with 867 teams in 22 states. Since then the movement has continued to spread until only communities that do not have Little League Baseball should feel ashamed.

Hodges pointed out: The ideals of Little League Baseball are the same as they were back in 1939 at Williamsport. It is strictly a local community project designed to keep youngsters active in sports instead of idly congregating on street corners.

Among the "technical" regulations of Little League baseball is the size of the Little League baseball field. The bases are 60 feet apart with the distance from the pitcher to the catcher set at 40 feet. Each league's outfield fence is placed at a radius of 100 feet from home plate and limited to four feet in height, providing a good chance for homers.

The boys used regulation baseballs but special Little League bats are made for them. Steel-cleated shoes are barred and the players wear safe snapper-type masks made especially for them. Uniforms are provided to team managers or community clubs and cost surprisingly little.

Military Reserve Week April 22-29 In State

Frankfort April 23 (Sp.) — Governor Chandler urged every young man of military age to consider the opportunity for service in the National Guard and the Reserve and to "weigh the importance of the Reserve Forces to our Nation's strength and security in proclaiming the week of April 22-29 as "Military Reserve Week" in the State.

"I particularly urge every member of the Kentucky National Guard between the ages of 17 and 18 years to give careful and thoughtful consideration to the manifest advantages which will accrue to himself and to our country, should he, upon the counsel and consent of his mother and father, decide to volunteer for six months' training with the United States Army," said the Governor.

He added that a "strong, well-trained Ready Reserve is vital to the security of the United States... and the six months' training program an opportunity to members of the National Guard and the Army Reserve between the ages of 17 and 18 years to receive training with the Active Army, and privilege of returning to their homes where they may fulfill their additional required military obligation, while engaged in civilian pursuits."

Monaco: Gem of the Mediterranean

Monaco, the tiny principality on the Mediterranean coast, is now a gambling, its beauty, its Prince and now its Princess, but mostly for its size-of-lake of size, its 368 acres, bounded on the north, east and west by France, would fit neatly into New York City Central Park.

Writings of this diminutive country in the May Reader's Digest, George Kent says it boasts many of the trappings of big nations. It has a flag—red and white; a language, an army 600 strong; a parliament, museums, a railroad and a bus line. It has, also, some things larger nations would like to have: a balanced budget, an absence of taxes, and now Grace Kelly.

Monaco's ruler, Prince Rainier III, can trace his lineage back to a staunch line to the earliest days of monarchy in Europe. Among today's monarchs, he is the only one who still retains absolute power.

While Monaco's history goes back more than 3000 years, the present ruling family stems from a Genoese named Francesco Grimaldi, who took over the country in the 13th century. The Grimaldi family has been in charge, with few interruptions, ever since.

Monaco has 20,000 residents, representing 50 nationalities. Most are French and Italian. Britishers number 400, Americans 60. Only 3000 are true Monegasques—citizens with the right to vote.

A shrewd French businessman named Francois Blanc brought Monaco gambling and unenvied prosperity. In 1863 Prince Charles III permitted Blanc to operate a gambling casino. It was called Monte Carlo.

Charles, for the prince, later changed the name to Monte Carlo. M. Blanc's gambling, its beauty, its Prince and now its Princess, but mostly for its size-of-lake of size, its 368 acres, bounded on the north, east and west by France, would fit neatly into New York City Central Park.

The hero of the song, "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo," was an Englishman, Charles Wells, who won $200,000 in three days. Actually, he didn't break the bank. As the Casino keeps on hand a million dollars in cash and can get more at short notice, "breaking the bank" is impossible.

That this capital of the gambling world has almost no serious crime is a tribute to the excellence of the 160-man police force—the largest in the world for the size of the country.

The real power behind Monaco is France. French money circulates; French officers collect customs; and Monaco would revert to France as a protectorate should Rainier III or any other ruler fail to produce an heir.

George Glenn HATCHER

Of Prestonsburg and Ashland

For U. S. Representative In CONGRESS

7th Kentucky District

Democratic Primary, Tuesday, May 29

Eastern Kentucky today finds itself in one of the strangest economic situations in the nation. Blessed with the finest and best people on earth, known to be the most sincere and energetic, with ample resources of coal and other natural resources, adequate facilities and a surplus of labor that should bring industry and well-being to its people, yet it is depressed and plagued with economic distress. It is distress of no recent vintage. It began to appear right after the end of World War II, crept upon the section slowly and insidiously, ignored and denied by many leaders whose sacred obligation was to foresee and take measures to hold back the flood waters of misery.

Today the headlines of our newspaper are black with stories of falling economy, of mass emigration of our young people to northern cities, and of declining coal production, and skimpage of allied businesses. According to a report by the Agricultural and Development Board of this State, released to newspapers over the past week-end, nine counties alone of Eastern Kentucky lost 141,000 people in out-migration since 1950. These people left to find jobs somewhere else for there were few jobs to be found here. These and other facts are being revealed at last in an honest current survey, backed and promoted by many of our unselfish leaders and interests in sympathy with our plight.

There is no excuse for our economic distress except the inaction and futility of so called political leaders and selfish manipulators who have concerned themselves with double-talk and the glad hand. Our people asked for assistance and nothing resulted but a conference or two and a few belated hearings. In the meantime the misery expanded, more people left bound for Detroit, Columbus and Cleveland. Jobs in mining fell from 47,108 in 1950 to 25,132 last year. Mine payrolls declined eight million dollars.

Our remedy is leadership, not new leadership for we haven't had any, but leaders to spark our recovery with dynamic initiative and intelligent planning. Leadership in other sections have prevented in their own localities what has happened to us here—in other areas they have actually built plants and made progress. WE WERE OFFERED ONLY POLITICAL HEARINGS AND SURVEYS, AND MORE STUDIES. These studies and surveys were made or conducted in far-flung places, and in most cases by outsiders unfamiliar with actual needs or conditions. In reality the findings should be based on the knowledge and the sober judgment of our own people, because we are the ones who know the facts. Why waste time, effort and money to conduct them for merely political reasons just before every election when our own people under proper constructive leadership would and could solve our own problems?

GEORGE GLENN HATCHER offers us hope. Too often we have had to support candidates for public office when we knew they could not win but whom we had to aid because there was no other choice. Hatcher offers hope because he can give Eastern Kentucky the leadership it has so often demanded but never got.

We have hope and we believe in George Glenn Hatcher for these reasons:

1. He is Kentucky's most consistent vote-getter; has always carried the counties comprising the present Seventh Congressional District by large majorities. Thus we are assured of victory.
2. He has taught school, worked on the farm, at sawmills, in the mines and at the steel mills at Ashland. We know he will never forget his early struggle and will always have the interest of labor at heart.
3. He has held several public offices, with distinction. His eight years' experience as Kentucky's Secretary of State, several years in office at Ashland and his other experiences in public and business affairs are adequate experience. We are assured then of a man familiar with public affairs sufficient to accomplish much for his constituents.
4. He is one of the few men in public life today who realize the strategic importance of Eastern Kentucky in the make-up of our economic and defense structure. Leadership from here in Congress would unlock for us and the nation a vital storehouse of indicated industry that would do much to defend America.
5. (a) He favors a revision of the Social Security laws to include more liberal disability benefits and the lowering of the qualifying age to 55 years, thereby giving more jobs to 18-year-olds and the lower age groups.
- (b) Lowering of the age limits under the Railroad Retirement Act to age 55.
- (c) Federal aid to education and increased veteran benefits.
- (d) Lowering of individual Federal income taxes or grant refund back to local, county and state governments to reduce the tax burden.
6. Last, but certainly not least, George Glenn Hatcher is not owned by any man or group of men. He will represent the Seventh Congressional District as a whole—its farmers and miners, the teachers, businessmen and all who toil.

For these reasons we believe George Glenn Hatcher will best represent the Seventh Congressional District and that his election will provide the leadership that will enable our section to begin the long haul back to complete recovery.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

THE CROSS-CUT SAW

Though I could consent to some of the little brother I claim immunity to testify in this case, for I might incriminate myself. If accused Cross-cut sawmen could dodge behind the Fifth Amendment, why not a much-troubled little brother, who wanted to be a big boy but had a hard time qualifying?

At fidelity there was an unwritten law that no respectable man would allow his wife to chop wood. That was supposed to be menial and even disgraceful. But Friend Wife could pull her half of the cross-cut without losing caste, especially if there was a severe need for wood or staveage. Even then no woman bragged about her ability to pull her half of the saw. Only a few young wives, whose children were not yet big enough to help in the sawing seemed to feel no shame in having done such crude man's work as this.

Long before a little fellow could take the saw handle in hand and thus proclaim himself a big boy, he had a task that would allow him to be outside with the men folk and seem to have a part in what was going on. He could sit on the log to be saved, especially if it were so small that some extra weight was needed to keep it from moving each time the saw ripped through the wood. Many a time I did this very necessary labor and feel each time that I was growing up. However, I did not realize how easy a task it was until I graduated to the saw handle and was expected to pull my share. Long ago I suggested a monument to the water boy of all time. Today I would like to suggest a marker of some sort to commemorate the little fellow who sat on the log and held it still while Poppy and Big Brother reduced the log to staveage or wood for the fireplace. There are many monuments much more foolish than that and with far less emotion and memory behind them.

Kentucky Catches Much Attention

Frankfort, Ky., April 16.—That show made a believer out of me. These are the words of Carl H. Thomas, assistant director of law enforcement, who visited the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. He was speaking of the Northwest Sport and Travel Show held recently in Minneapolis, Minn.

"Before I went to Minneapolis, I thought Kentucky was going too far from home in its bid for tourist," Thomas said. "I was there less than one day when I changed my mind," he said.

Thomas told how the people crowded around the Kentucky display, read the brochures, looked at the pictures, asked questions about fishing and vacation accommodations in Kentucky and then showed complete surprise that Kentucky really had so many attractions.

Kentucky was the only State South of the Ohio river to have a display booth in the Minneapolis show. Thomas said it was an outstanding show and the people were satisfied with what Kentucky has to offer.

"I'm confident that some of those people will visit Kentucky on the strength of what they saw about our State in the Northwest Sport and Travel Show," Thomas said. "People are looking for new vacation lands. They want to see new sights and fish in new areas... no place is too far away if it offers modern accommodations and good fishing. Kentucky has both. Our problem is letting people know about what we have," he said.

61 STUDENTS EARN HONORS

McDowell High School Honors Superior Pupils; Wayne Ratliff, Speaker

McDowell, Ky., April 23 (AP) — An honor banquet was given Friday at McDowell high school for 61 students who have a standing of B or above on semester basis. Wayne Ratliff, supervisor of Floyd county schools, presided over the talk to the students and their parents.

Mr. Ratliff told his audience that the success of a school depends on the quality of the students. The school and the pupil, if one failed, then the result would not be the same as it would have been had all three been working together.

Eighty-five per cent of the moral training of a child comes from the home, while only 15 per cent comes from the school, he added.

The students were told that conduct is the mark of a small man. The speaker explained that while conduct is present at the banquet, it is not a mark of good breeding to allow their conduct to portray this superiority to other students.

Mr. Ratliff said that all differences between teachers and parents should be ironed out over the table, and not discussed back and forth in the community until there is a resemblance between the starting and ending differences.

A music program was presented by the music department.

The enrollment of McDowell high school is 265. Out of this number, 61 students were honored Friday night, along with their parents. For the district, an average of 120 parents were present, but there were only 50 parents to show.

Sensor Asks Legislation To Provide Federal Help For Labor Surplus Areas

Washington, D. C., April 26 (AP) — Passage of legislation to provide federal aid to economically distressed areas of Kentucky and the West was urged by Senator Earle C. Clements at a hearing today before the Senate Labor and Welfare Committee.

Citing the fact that there are 11 areas in Kentucky classified as having a "substantial labor surplus," Senator Clements said he feels the situation is so critical that early action by Congress is required.

He suggested that hearings by the committee in Kentucky which he has requested be dispensed with, and that the committee proceed with bringing the bill to the Senate for action.

Pointing out that there are numerous legislative proposals before Congress which would aid the economy of the distressed areas, such as the highway and school construction bills, Senator Clements declared that more specific steps are needed.

All of these measures will, of course, offer a stimulus to the economy in these areas, he said.

However, what is specifically needed is a program nearness between teachers and parents should be ironed out over the table, and not discussed back and forth in the community until there is a resemblance between the starting and ending differences.

Senator Clements said that he feels that the bill proposed by Senator Douglas (D-Ill.) which is now under consideration by the Committee would accomplish the objectives of his proposals, and that he supports its early consideration by the Senate.

Spray Is Developed By Professor At UK

Several years of research on various types of tomato sprays at the University of Kentucky has resulted in the development of a hormone "sunburn" spray, which horticulturists believe will produce heavier and mottled tomatoes at an early date.

The story of the experiments with hormones has been released jointly by Dr. E. M. Emmert, professor of horticulture at UK, and Dr. Merl Baker, director of the Kentucky Research Foundation.

Dr. Emmert, who also holds the rank of associate horticulturist, has directed all the research procedures leading to the development of the spray. Although activated hormone sprays are not yet being marketed commercially, by the University, a patent has been applied for by the Kentucky Research Foundation.

The spray was originally processed for tomatoes alone, but Dr. Emmert believes it has application for all fruiting crops. Early research already has shown that lima beans respond to the activated spray. Flans also are being made to test the effectiveness of the mixture on strawberries, peaches, and apples.

Spraying of early tomato plants with hormone mixture is not a new procedure, but the UK professor pointed out. However, four years ago, Dr. Emmert and his assistants began to develop a new variation of the process.

"After many different approaches to the problem of tomato spraying, we decided to borrow the sugar and hormone used in the spray," he reported. "When boron, sugar, and hormone were applied, the greatest responses of all were obtained."

IT'S TORQUE THAT MAKES THE WHEELS GO 'ROUND!

... And the High-Torque Output of Oldsmobile's Famous Rocket Engine Is Instantly Translated into Outstanding Performance at the Rear Wheels!

LET'S TALK TORQUE! In plain language, torque is "twist." It's the force that makes the wheels go round. So it follows... the more torque your engine has, the more power you can have... the more "grit" at the light... the more action on the open road!

That's why, when it comes to power, there's nothing like Oldsmobile's Rocket V-8 Engine — because the Rocket's torque figures prove it: 136 pound-feet at 2000 rpm (134 pound-feet at 2400 rpm in "mild" mode).

OLDS CHASSIS IS ENGINEERED TO HANDLE HIGHER TORQUE!

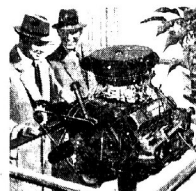

Oldsmobile has the chassis to take Rocket torque — a skillfully engineered Oldsmobile chassis with an extra-sturdy, dynamically balanced drive shaft, and an extra-rigid frame that resists twisting and weaving.

What's more, the Rocket's got horsepower — to spare! And with Oldsmobile's high torque horsepower... a by-product of engine design aimed straight at the wheels — design that translates horsepower into terrific torque at normal engine rpm's.

TOP TORQUE MEANS TOP-TORQUE PERFORMANCE!

The result is higher torque — often, responsive Rocket action. Touch the accelerator — ever so gently — you "go" — and we do mean "GO!" You thrill to smoother, swifter bursts of power for everyday use — spectacular performance, when you need it — when you want it.

Any way you look at it, you can't top the Rocket for thrills for the money — or for top return when it's time to trade. Stop in, now. Rocket's the black... on around the town if you like!

OLDSMOBILE'S ROCKET — a double winner in 1955 Mobilgas Economy Run. Get the feel of top horsepower, top torque in the engine that's an economy champion, too!

FARM NOTES

By Donald W. Claypool
Assistant County Agent

Many lush and green patches of balboe or wheat, or a combination of each of these with hairy vetch or some other winter leucane can be seen throughout Floyd county, as one drives over the country at this time of the year. It is a good sight. It is a sign of progress. It shows that farmers of this county are aware of the importance of conserving soil and moisture and that they are doing something about it. This is the primary purpose of cover crops to cover the soil and protect it from beating rains that would if it were left bare, carve gullies and rob it of the fertile topsoil which holds the humus and major portion of the nutrients necessary for plant growth. But cover crops have two other uses. They provide an excellent pasture during the early spring months before pastures become green enough to graze and when turned under add manure to the soil to be digested by the soil organisms and turned into humus and plant food.

A good thing can be made bad by misuse and cover crops are no exception to the rule. Most of the cover crops have considerable growth and some farmers are shaking their heads wondering what they had better do with all the rank and dense growth. As one farmer said, "I want to plow it off, but the ground is too hard to plow."

This is a real problem, but one which can be easily solved in one of two ways. You can either chop the crop up with a disc harrow or graze it down with livestock.

One could hardly ask for a better feed for a flock of sheep than a healthy stand for cover crop. Let them graze it down to the ground. They will need no more feed than this, except for a mineral mixture of limestone, steambone meal and salt-free choice. They will have almost as much plant food in their droppings as would have been gotten if you had turned the crop under. How to do well on a cover crop pasture. Brood sows which have farrowed early and have had their litter weaned, utilize a cover crop as effectively as any other livestock and at the same time save you a big feed bill. After the crop has been grazed down, the soil will soon dry out.

When cover crops have grown to the height of eight to ten inches and there are no livestock to graze them, they should be gone over with a disc harrow set at a slight angle before an attempt is made to turn the crop under. Not only will this treatment cause the soil to dry out faster, but it will allow a more complete turning under of the crop. If another crop is to be planted within the next two weeks an application of 250 pounds sodium nitrate per acre will further the decay of the plant structure and thereby produce more nutrients for the following crop.

The nitrate fertilizer should be applied after the crop has been digested but before it has been plowed under.

Burnis and Clive are Doing Well but What About the Rest of Floyd County?

"Happy" has passed House Bill 75 giving Burnis Martin and other Commonwealth's Attorneys $1,500.00 per year as a tax free expense account. They were in such hurry to get the money they even put an emergency clause on the Bill.

Clive Akers has been appointed Campaign Manager for Joe Bates.

The County is paying Burnis $1,200.00 per year in addition to his State salary of $6,000. This is much more than any other Commonwealth's Attorney in Floyd county has ever made.

"Happy" has given Burnis' brother Fred a soft job at Dewey Lake.

Clive is now in position to say who shall be fired and hired. Many of his friends have already been fired.

Burnis says he is overworked and the Fiscal Court has appropriated $1,800.00 per year in addition to all the above amounts to hire more help for him.

BUT WHAT ABOUT THE REST OF FLOYD COUNTY?

If you are an average taxpayer your income taxes have been doubled.

"Happy" is sponsoring a bill to permit local districts to raise your school tax 50c on the $100.00.

Dewey Lake Park lies fallow with no development in sight for the next four years.

Johnson county has the Rural Highway Commissioner.

Knott county will have the district Highway Advisory Commissioner for this district.

The Chandler crowd want you to elect a Congressman from Pike county.

Burnis and Clive are doing well but what about the rest of Floyd County pay the price for this mess of potage.

On May 29, don't vote to promote a selected few—instead VOTE IN THE INTEREST OF ALL FLOYD COUNTIES.

Makes Friends with the Meanest Roads

(Have you tried Buick's great new ride?)

THE SWEET WAY a '56 Buick rides on all sorts of roads and certainly no other name plate promises the soaring sweep of power that wells from the big 322-cubic-inch V8 beneath every new Buick bonnet.

Nor does any other automatic drive put power to its car's rear wheels with the swift, unswerving pace of Variable Pitch Dynaflo®—and that goes double every time you "switch pitch" for whip-quick, safe passing.

But why stop to count reasons—when results are what you're after? Wouldn't you rather feel Buick's new "sense of direction" on straightaways, curves and corners?

Wouldn't you rather relax in supreme comfort while tooling this powerful performer over roads you always hated to travel?

Well, sir, we cordially invite you to drop in on us and do just that.

Make it this week, won't you? Sample the ride that has charms to win an old road—and get first-hand figures on prices that make Buick owning a more positive pleasure.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo® is the only Dynaflo® Buick built today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional on modest extra cost on the Special.

NO other car matches the firm, true tracking of Buick's own ride foundation—buttressed by heavy X-braced frame and torque-tube drive—cushioned on coil springs and deep-choil shock absorbers.

No other has such width of tread and length of wheelbase within dimensions so trim and tidy that Buicks turn, park and garage more easily than smaller cars.

No other duplicates the assurance of steering, brakes and rear axle so precisely geared and gaited for the nimble handling that's a safety "must" in modern cars.
