Thieves knock out cable during March Madness

Times Staff Report

GALVESTON — Coalfields Telephone & Broadband services were disrupted March 16, by the theft of cable and telephone lines on Route 3379 at Branham's Creek at Galveston.

"Over 200 of our Coalfields subscribers experienced a service outage that lasted the entire weekend," the company said in a statement. "The service outage included telephone and high-speed broadband."

There was another attempted cable theft in that same area of Branham's Creek on Wednesday, at approximately 5 p.m., that also resulted in a service outage.

Coalfields Telephone & Broadband cable technicians worked around the clock over the weekend to get subscribers back up and running. Approximately 500 feet of cable had been cut down, resulting in the outage.

"Cable theft is an ongoing issue and we battle it every day. Cable theft is the number-one reason why our subscribers may experience a service outage of this magnitude" said R. Heath Wiley, director of marketing. Coalfields Telephone & Broadband is offering a $2,500 reward for the arrest and conviction of person or persons responsible for the rash of cable theft. The company is asking residents to be vigilant, and if they notice an unmarked vehicle near a telephone pole, to call and report it to local authorities. Reports can also be phoned in to the Coalfields Telephone & Broadband office at (800) 478-9401.

As one low-income phone program ends, officials point to another

Changes being made by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) mean an end to a program that subsidizes the cost of telephone service for low-income consumers.

"Although the Link-Up program will end April 2, 2012, the Lifeline program, which helps pay the cost of monthly phone bills for eligible consumers, will continue," Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) Chairman David Armstrong said. "We encourage eligible Kentuckians to continue to avail themselves of that program."

The end of the Link-Up program, which has provided subsidies of as much as $30 for the initial cost of telephone service, is part of an FCC effort to overhaul low-income assistance programs. The FCC is shifting the focus away from voice telephone service and toward broadband (high-speed) internet service.

In order to help qualifying Kentuckians obtain assistance, the PSC has updated its brochure, A Guide to Telephone Service Programs for Low-Income Consumers. The Lifeline program contributes up to $12.75 per month for eligible Kentucky households to maintain a single telephone line, which may be either landline or wireless. Eligibility is determined by participation in one of several other assistance programs such as Medicaid or the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP), or (as of June 1) by having a household income at or below 135 percent of the federal poverty level.

More than 250,000 Kentucky households participate in the Lifeline program, a lower proportion of households than in many neighboring states, Armstrong said. That indicates that there are many eligible Kentuckians who do not participate in the program, he said.

Projects

Councilman Freddie Goble agreed, saying it was embarrassing for council members to be questioned about projects going on in the city, when they don't have adequate information to address residents' concerns.

Fannin said his office would begin supplying council members with a list of the projects the city would be working on in the future. Nunnery added it would be a good idea if the mayor could also provide the council with an overview of grants the city is seeking, as well.

City seeking millions for sidewalk, transportation improvements

PRESTONSBURG — The city of Prestonsburg is looking to improve its livability by seeking federal funds from the U.S. Department of Transportation.

According to the grant proposal, "The City of Prestonsburg's LIVABILITY Revitalization is a sweeping initiative that will help to restore the viability and economics of this small, economically distressed Eastern Kentucky Community."

"We're looking at the safety of our children and our seniors," said Mayor Jerry Fannin. "We're trying to improve a lot of things to make them more accessible to everyone."

The six principles of livability as defined by the Department of Transportation include:

- Providing additional transportation choices in order to decrease household transportation costs, reduce dependence on oil while improve air quality and promoting public health.

- Expand location and energy-efficient housing choices for people of all ages, incomes, races and ethnicities to increase mobility and lower the combined cost of housing and transportation.

- Improve economic competitiveness of neighborhoods by giving people reliable access to employment centers, educational opportunities, services and other basic needs.

- Target federal funding toward existing communities that are already transit-oriented and land recycling - to revitalize communities, reduce public works costs, and safeguard rural landscape.

- Align federal policies and funding to remove barriers to collaboration, leverage funding and increase the effectiveness of programs to plan for future growth.

- Enhance the unique characteristics of all communities by investing in healthy, safe and walkable neighborhoods, whether rural, urban or suburban.

The project proposed aspires to bring Prestonsburg together by linking long isolated segments of the city, and improving walkways and light signals throughout the city.

Specifically the project calls for the construction of an 8-foot-wide pedestrian/bikeway across the existing bridge leading to Cliffside, as well as sidewalks stretching to Cliffside Apartments. Also the grant would fund the reconstruction of the old West Prestonsburg Bridge as a walking bridge at a cost of $2.5 million.

The grant also proposes to improve sight lines, as well as construct a signalization at the Mays Branch-Route 321 connection. As written in the grant, "This phase of the city's proposal requests funds to completely rebuild this intersection to recognized standards, while providing a signalized crossing for pedestrians."

- Finally the grant funds would provide a complete revitalization of downtown Prestonsburg's central business district including:

- Reconstruct the entire central business district to bring it into compliance with current ADA standards.
- Provide a signalized pedestrian crossing with enhanced markings at the Adams Middle School, as well as construct the school to the Lancer residential area. Provide school zone signing and signalization to aid in the control of traffic.

- There is no signage or signalization at this time and kids must travel along the shoulder of Route 1428 to access school.
- Provide school zone signing and signalization for Prestonsburg High School (none existing) to aid in control of traffic.
- Install a signalized pedestrian crossing with enhanced markings at the intersection of Route 1428 and Porter Street. This would allow safe crossing to the Big Sandy Technical College.

The grant is offered through the 2012 Appropriation Act, which appropriated $500 million to DOT for National Infrastructure Investments. The grant proposal was written for the city of Prestonsburg in partnership with Summit Engineering.

The city is also working a feasibility study for a new health and wellness center. That project would include a walking track, basketball, tennis and soccer courts, two pools and a fitness area.

The city is currently looking at three possible sites for the project, including the old Prestonsburg Elementary site, a location at the main campus of Big Sandy Community and Technical college, or a location in Cliffside.

The city hopes to begin inviting the public to meetings about the project as early as May.

Insurance

"bridge" policy with Colonial Life, which assists employees with meeting their deductibles.

Last year, as the city wrestled with bringing health care costs in line, the council agreed to a high deductible with Anthem — $3,000 — in order to bring the cost of the plan down. At the same time, the city also agreed to the Colonial Life policy, which repays employees $1,500 of that deductible. The cost of the two plans ended up being far lower than a single plan with a $1,500 deductible.

This year, at Patton's recommendation, the city voted to up its coverage with Colonial Life to $2,500, essentially leaving employees with a $500 deductible.

The insurance renewal passed unanimously.

Patton also noted that, compared to other employers, the city's workers have a low rate of hospitalizations. On the other hand, he noted that outpatient services were much higher than normal — 63 percent over benchmark. However, he said that is not necessarily bothersome for the city, because outpatient services are far cheaper than inpatient services.

"If you have to have one of those figures be higher than normal, you want it to be the outpatient services," Patton said.

The council voted to accept Patton's recommendation to renew with Anthem and also voted to renew a

IN LOVING MEMORY OF
ADAM WRIGHT
September 12, 1977 - March 26, 2003

You never said I'm leaving, you never said goodbye.
You were gone before I knew it, and only God knew why.
A million times I needed you, a million times I cried.
If love could have saved you, you never would have died.
In life I loved you dearly, in death I love you still.
In my heart you hold a place, that no one could ever fill.
It broke my heart to lose you, but you didn't go alone.
For part of me went with you the day God took you home.

Adam is now the Angel of my dreams! Justin misses you, but knows you are an angel watching over him.
We love and miss you very much.

Worth Repeating...

A liberal is a man who is right most of the time, but he's right too soon.

—Gregory Nunn

Amendment I

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people to peaceably assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

Guest View

A legislative perspective

Rep. Greg Stumbo
Speaker of the House

In one key way, legislative sessions are a lot like March Madness: The intensity picks up as the number of days winds down. That makes this week, then, the General Assembly's version of the Final Four.

By Friday, the House and Senate will wrap up 59 of the 60 days set aside for considering bills. If all goes as scheduled in the next few days, we will finalize a budget to run state government for the next two years; approve landmark legislation to tackle the twin epidemic of dangerous synthetic drugs and prescription drug abuse; and finalize numerous other initiatives designed to move Kentucky forward. After that, only one day — April 12th — will remain, which will be used to consider any vetoes Gov. Beshear might issue.

Already, several noteworthy bills have already been sent to him this month. If signed into law as expected, they will do such things as create an adoption assistance program for those in the Kentucky National Guard; let counties operate just one polling place in special elections for an open General Assembly seat if only one candidate is on the ballot; and include bigger vans among those vehicles in which seatbelt laws apply. The law will now cover those having up to 15 seats rather than the current 10, a move made in light of a 2010 tragic accident on I-65 in which 10 Mennonites in a van were killed.

Although it is not law yet, there is broad agreement in the House and Senate for a proposal to give some much-needed relief to victims of the deadly storms that plagued Kentucky on March 2nd. This legislation, which unanimously passed the House on Thursday, would give a sales tax exemption on building materials that affected communities need to rebuild. It also would ensure that schools in these areas do not lose any state funding for missing days due to storm damage.

While these bills are all but guaranteed to become law in the days ahead, the House passed several others this past week that we hope will join them.

That includes my plan to add Kentucky to the list of states having a false claims act. This would give private citizens financial incentive to come forward if they know of fraud involving state tax dollars.

Those found guilty of this type of fraud would be liable for up to three times the amount they had taken from the state, and the whistleblowers could receive between 15 to 30 percent of this total.

This is not small change, either. Since 1986, the beginning of the modern era of this bill — the concept dates back to the Civil War — more than $25 billion has been recovered by the federal government and the states that have this legislation.

In other action last week, the House passed a bill to include dating couples among those groups eligible for domestic violence orders. Kentucky is one of just four states that does not allow victims in these situations to obtain a DVO.

In a related item, the House also approved a bill that would let a court direct the care and custody of pets in domestic violence cases. This would hopefully ease the mind of those who might otherwise be hesitant to leave their abuser because of fears about the safety of their animal companions.

Although the end of the legislative session is in sight, there is still a brief time to let me know your views on the issues before us. You can leave a message for me or for any legislator at 800-372-7181. For those with a hearing impairment, the number is 800-896-0305.

Citizens deserve truth about county finances

After the fiscal court meeting on March 16, I felt the need to speak out about the county's financial situation. Some of my statements were printed in the March 21 issue of The Floyd County Times. Many of my comments did not make the article.

After the Times' article, people misinterpreted or misconstrued my comments. Some of those individuals with obvious political motives (either to save their own political careers or in an attempt to tear down mine) have attempted to spin my comments into something bad. As a result, I felt the need to clarify my statements.

First, at that fiscal court meeting, the court was presented with two requests for funding. One was from the senior citizens centers; the other was from a group of citizens seeking funding for a basketball floor at the Martin Community Center. A representative of the senior citizens centers informed the court that, due to financial reasons, they (the senior citizens centers) had stopped delivering meals to senior citizens on Mondays. As a result, approximately 6,000 senior citizens would either go hungry or be forced to make other arrangements for those days. The court was also told of the importance for many of those 6,000 seniors to have the human contact that comes with those meal deliveries. Something many of us take for granted — simple, basic human contact — is of much greater significance to those who cannot physically leave their homes or those who have no family contact.

Now, I agree that the floor at the Martin Community Center is in need of replacement, but I also know that the county's financial situation is such that the fiscal court cannot fund every project. The floor replacement cost had previously been estimated at $100,000. A week earlier, the county treasurer had informed the court that he anticipated the fiscal court would be unable to meet payroll by the end of June. Coal severance monies are available, but in limited amounts. Knowing this, I made it clear to The Times' reporter, Jack Latta, that the fiscal court must make some tough decisions and that if I had a vote, which I don't, I would choose to feed 6,000 senior citizens over a basketball floor every time.

If there were enough monies available to fund every project, and deliver on every request, it would be wonderful. Elected officials owe their constituents the truth — even when the truth hurts. In this instance, the truth is that the fiscal court has serious financial problems and as a result it cannot fund every project, and therefore its members must vote to fund those projects they deem most important, within the bounds of the available money.

My own opinion is that the court should choose to feed those 6,000 senior citizens. I am of the further opinion that the city of Martin should be responsible for the basketball floor, since it charges citizens a fee for the use of the community center, that the city in turn leases from the county for the grand sum of $1 a year. It appears to me to be unfair to expect the county to spend $100,000 on a building that generates $1 per year in rental income, especially if it means that 6,000 senior citizens go hungry.

Story was disrespectful to seniors

The featured articles on the front page of the Wednesday, March 21, publication are not at all respectful to the senior population of Floyd County.

Who are the "some officials" that think the seniors put on a political show?

Believe me, the seniors did not put on a show. They were and are serious.

A list of services to the seniors was read to all in the courtroom. Meals and services have been provided since the 1980s.

The $200,000 per year has been a line-item in the county budget since 2009. Records show that in 2003, $115,000 was in the budget for senior citizens. Then, through 2009, the money dropped down to $56,000. Only recently has it been necessary to be used for its intended purpose.

In years past, the senior centers received funds from the state. Money was set up in the state budget, attached as a line-item for this specific purpose. As government changed, the funded money somehow got lost in the shuffle.

Kentucky legislators are beginning to realize that seniors all across the state need help. Our state government officials, Rep. Greg Stumbo and Sen. Johnny R. Turner, are doing their best to make that happen, as coal severance money in the amount of $200,000 per year in 2013 and 2014 has been earmarked for Floyd County Senior Citizens Inc.

Help ensure money for seniors stays

Kentucky's General Assembly has taken an extraordinary step to help 19,000 Kentucky seniors on the Department for Aging and Independent Living's (DAIL) waiting lists. Despite the difficult funding picture, the House and Senate agreed to increase funding to DAIL by $5 million for each of the next two years to reduce the waiting list numbers, especially those waiting for meals on wheels.

Now we have to hope that these increases will be left alone during the conference committee process. Please contact our legislative leaders toll-free, (800) 372-7181, and ask them to continue to protect these increases.

We also urge Gov. Beshear to sign a budget that includes these long overdue dollars.

Romney a selfless leader

Anybody but Romney? Are you sure?

At age 19, Mitt Romney delayed education to voluntarily serve a two-year mission in a foreign land. While there, he had a near-fatal accident. You and I might have returned home, but not Romney; he persevered to completion.

While earning a bachelor's, an MBA and a law degree, Mitt spent nine years as an unpaid intern for his father's gubernatorial campaigns. You and I might have used a successful father's career to launch our own, but not Romney. Instead, he founded Bain Capital.

You and I might have been less willing to take such risks, but not Romney. He leveraged his education and capital and it paid off. Concurrently, he led his local church congregation on an unpaid basis — counseling the membership in matters such as marriage, loss of loved ones, and loss of employment. You and I might have grumbled at an additional 25 to 30 hours per week of work, but not Romney. He willingly served.

While Mitt was CEO of Bain Capital, the daughter of an employee went missing in NYC. Anybody but Romney might have simply called contacts in New York and wished the father luck. Instead, he closed Bain and took all employees to New York to assist in a successful search. You and I might have sought praise for this act, but not Romney.

You and I might have gladly accepted a family inheritance for personal gain, but not Romney. He gave his entire inheritance to his alma mater. Leave it to his tax returns to prove his generosity, because you won't hear it from him. When the failing 2002 U.S. Olympic Committee needed help, they turned to the man who had spent his life helping individuals and companies elevate themselves. He served three years without pay. He would later serve four years as governor of Massachusetts, never taking a salary. You and I might have used these positions for personal gain, but not Romney. With 28 years of unpaid service to his state, country and God, Romney is a proven "public servant."

Given the opportunity, you and I might run for president for ego or prestige, but not Romney. His motive is to lead our nation back to greatness, restore pride in the American heart, and reinvigorate the American dream. Believe that Romney can indeed do what anybody but Romney cannot.

MSHA inspect 6 Ky. mines due to frequent hazard complaints

ARLINGTON, Va. — The U.S. Department of Labor's Mine Safety and Health Administration today announced that federal inspectors issued 253 citations and orders during special impact inspections conducted at 15 coal mines, six of which were located in Kentucky and two metal/non-metal mines last month. The coal mines were issued 235 citations and eight orders, while the metal/nonmetal operations were issued 23 citations and six orders.

Five of the coal mines were selected in part because of frequent hazard complaints. Investigations of 20 anonymous complaints between March 1, 2011, and March 1, 2012, at these five mines resulted in citations being issued when allegations in 12 of the complaints proved true.

These inspections, which began in force in April 2010 following the explosion at the Upper Big Branch Mine, involve mines that merit increased agency attention and enforcement due to their poor compliance history or particular compliance concerns, including high numbers of violations or closure orders; frequent hazard complaints or hotline calls; plan compliance issues; inadequate workplace examinations; a high number of accidents, injuries or illnesses; fatalities; and adverse conditions such as increased methane liberation, faulty roof conditions and inadequate ventilation.

As an example from last month, MSHA conducted an impact inspection on Feb. 28 at Glen Alum Operations LLC's Upper Cedar Grove No. 4 Mine near Wharncliffe, W.Va., in response to an anonymous complaint submitted the previous day. The complaint alleged that 11 unsafe conditions relating to electrical, roof control and combustible material hazards existed underground. Inspectors issued 23 citations and three orders, 14 of which were designated significant and substantial.

The first violation cited by inspectors occurred when an employee called underground to provide advance notification of the inspectors' presence. The gravity of this violation was magnified by the number of violations and hazardous conditions encountered in the mine, so the initial citation was subsequently modified.

One closure order was issued for inadequate permissibility examinations on electrical equipment, and two unwarrantable failure orders were issued for inadequate preshift inspections of the section and belt conveyor entries. MSHA also found and cited conditions such as inadequate or missing firefighting equipment, improper maintenance of dust suppression sprays on the continuous mining machine, accumulations of combustible material, electrical violations, equipment that was in an unsafe operating condition and missing lifeline reflectors.

"Due to the recent rash of fatalities at coal surface facilities, the majority of last month's impact inspections focused on surface operations," said Joseph A. Main, assistant secretary of labor for mine safety and health.

"I am disturbed about the continuation of advance notice of mine inspections," he added. "It appears that current penalties are not sufficient to deter this type of conduct."

As a second example from last month, an impact inspection was conducted during the day shift on Feb. 9 at Clintwood Elkhorn Mining Inc.'s Laurel Branch Surface Mine in Hurley, Va. The inspection team issued 32 citations, 22 of which were designated as significant and substantial. Upon arriving at the mine, MSHA inspectors reviewed its examination records and inspected highwalls, explosive magazines and 33 pieces of equipment. They issued 11 citations for accumulations of combustible materials — including oil, hydraulic fluids and/or coal dust — on the engine compartments of front end loaders, excavators, dozers and trucks.

Laurel Branch also failed to maintain effective drill dust control on three drills used in the coal seam pit. The inspector observed large plumes of dust emitting from the doors on the dust box, between the drill steel and chip deflector, and from the flap of the broken drill skirt. These conditions exposed the powder crew, located 40 feet away, to high silica rock dust as well as the risk of developing silicosis and other respiratory impairments.

The operator was cited four times for not properly maintaining dry chemical fire suppression systems and fire extinguishers in a usable and operative condition on dozers. Laurel Branch relied upon its contractor, Logan Corp., to properly check these fire suppression systems. As a result, MSHA cited the contractor twice for failure to examine and maintain firefighting equipment. These conditions, in combination with heat generated by engine, transmission, battery and fuel pump components, exposed mobile equipment operators to fire and smoke inhalation hazards.

Since April 2010, MSHA has conducted 420 impact inspections, which have resulted in a total of 7,420 citations, 732 orders and 26 safeguards.

FEMA aid to Kentucky tornado recovery exceeds $7 million FRANKFORT — The Federal Emergency Management Agency has approved more than $7 million for survivors of the recent severe storms, tornadoes, straight-line winds and flooding occurring Feb. 29-March 3, 2012.

"Funds are being quickly provided to survivors in the Commonwealth so they can begin their recovery as soon as possible," said Libby Turner, federal officer in charge of the Kentucky recovery. Outreach teams are also on the ground in home improvement stores in impacted areas advising residents in the best ways to rebuild safer, stronger and smarter to minimize damages in future severe weather events."

To date:

- Approximately 4,400 survivors in 21 designated counties have contacted FEMA for help or information regarding disaster assistance. Many people have sought housing assistance from FEMA because their temporary residence has been damaged or destroyed.

- More than $5.2 million has been approved for housing assistance, including short-term rental assistance and home repair costs.

- More than 2,200 homes sustained damages. Of those, more than 650 were destroyed.

- Approximately 1,200 households have received FEMA grants to help pay for temporary housing.

- Approximately 2,400 inspections of damaged properties have been conducted.

- More than $900,000 in low-interest disaster loans has been approved by the Small Business Administration.

- Approximately $12 million has been approved to cover other essential disaster-related needs, such as medical and dental expenses and lost personal possessions.

- Nine disaster recovery centers are open for survivors to get information on disaster assistance programs and help them apply for aid.

- More than 1,900 visits have been made to disaster recovery centers.

The 14 counties in Kentucky currently eligible for Public Assistance are Ballard, Grant, Johnson, Kenton, Letcher, Laurel, Lawrence, Magoffin, Martin, Menifee, Morgan, Pendleton, Trimble and Wolfe. Public Assistance is available to local governments on a cost-sharing basis for emergency work and the repair or replacement of damaged infrastructure, such as roads, bridges, utilities, schools and similar facilities.

The 21 counties in Kentucky are currently eligible for Individual Assistance are Bath, Campbell, Carroll, Grant, Grayson, Johnson, Kenton, Letcher, Laurel, Lawrence, Magoffin, Martin, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan, Ohio, Pendleton, Rowan, Russell, Trimble and Wolfe. Individuals who are homeowners and renters can include grants to help pay for temporary housing, home repairs and other serious disaster-related expenses not met by insurance or other assistance programs.

More than 250 volunteer agencies rushed to aid Kentucky following the storms that tore across the Commonwealth. FEMA helps match volunteers with storm-damaged areas where help is needed.

Disaster specialists are offering free information and answering questions about rebuilding at home improvement stores in five Commonwealth counties.

Survivors who receive a letter from FEMA that says more information is needed to determine their eligibility for federal disaster assistance should read it carefully. If a survivor gets a letter requesting more information or informing them of a decision they disagree with, FEMA urges them to call the FEMA helpline at 800-621-FEMA (3362) and to file an appeal.

Survivors who received an application from the U.S. Small Business Administration for a low-interest disaster loan must complete and return it as soon as possible. No survivor is required to accept a loan, but they must return a completed application to be considered for additional FEMA assistance.

IRS, with the cooperation of the Kentucky Department of Revenue, is postponing certain tax deadlines for Kentucky residents who live in, or have a business in any Commonwealth county designated for Individual Assistance. This special relief includes an extension of the April 17 deadline for filing 2011 individual income tax returns, making income tax payments and making 2011 contributions to an individual retirement account. Taxpayers requiring assistance with penalty waivers or additional tax information may contact the Department of Revenue at 502-564-4581.

Kentucky senior citizens who receive disaster assistance from FEMA as a result of the recent severe storms and tornadoes will not lose their Social Security benefits nor have their benefits cut. Disaster grants will not affect income levels, which might cause a senior citizen to become ineligible for Medicaid, welfare assistance, food stamps or Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

Free help is also available for survivors who have legal issues as a result of the severe storms. Help can include questions about lost wills, landlord-tenant relations, property ownership, home repair contracts and government benefit programs. Survivors can request free legal help by calling 877-625-9839. Information also can be found at <http://www.kybar.org/567>.

There are three ways to register with FEMA for help or information regarding disaster assistance: call 800-621-FEMA (3362), register online at www.DisasterAssistance.gov, or register using a tablet or Smartphone by visiting m.fema.gov. Help is available in many languages.

Disaster applicants who use TTY should call 800-462-7555. Those who use 711 or Video Relay Service should call 800-621-3362. Lines are open 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. local time, every day.

KYEM urges anyone who has storm damage to their residence or other property to document the damage by photographing or videoing it, if possible, and maintain a list of any repairs and keep repair receipts. Report the damage and location to your county emergency manager. Survivors must still register with FEMA to be considered for federal disaster assistance.

More disaster specific information can be found on the Kentucky Emergency Management website at www.kyem.ky.gov.

Rogers meets with local officials about next steps in tornado recovery efforts

SOMERSET — Rep. Harold "Hal" Rogers checked in on tornado recovery efforts across the 5th Congressional District, making stops Friday in West Liberty and Salsersville. After touring damaged areas, Rogers met with local officials to discuss his efforts in Washington D.C. to find additional emergency funding options for the recovery process, and his request to Federal Emergency Management Agency for a long-term commitment in the rebuilding process.

"Now that the shock of the extreme damage has passed and large portions of debris have been moved aside, we face the tough and complex work of rebuilding," said Rogers. "We're going to do everything we can to restore southern and eastern Kentucky. I believe that once the dust settles, this will be a success story for families and communities across our region."

A total of 14 Kentucky counties are now eligible for Public Assistance, including Ballard, Grant, Johnson, Kenton, Larue, Laurel, Lawrence, Magoffin, Martin, Menifee, Morgan, Pendleton, Trimble, and Wolfe. Public Assistance is available to state and local governments and certain non-profit organizations for repairs and emergency work.

A total of 21 counties in the Commonwealth are eligible for Individual Assistance, including Bath, Campbell, Carroll, Grant, Grayson, Johnson, Kenton, Larue, Laurel, Lawrence, Magoffin, Martin, Menifee, Morgan, Montgomery, Ohio, Pendleton, Rowan, Russell, Trimble and Wolfe counties. Individual Assistance is available to individuals and households for certain storm-related services/repairs.

This week the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) announced that it is postponing certain federal tax deadlines for Kentuckians who live in, or have business in: Bath, Campbell, Carroll, Grant, Grayson, Johnson, Kenton, Larue, Laurel, Lawrence, Magoffin, Martin, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan, Ohio, Pendleton, Rowan, Russell, Trimble or Wolfe counties.

This special relief includes an extension of the April 17 deadline for filing 2011 federal individual income tax returns, making income tax payments and offering 2011 contributions to an individual retirement account. The extension is until May 31st, 2012.

In addition, the IRS is waiving failure-to-deposit penalties for employment and excise tax deposits due on or after Feb. 29, and on or before March 15, as long as the deposits are made by March 15, 2012. Additional information regarding this tax relief may be found at www.irs.gov. Kentucky honors federal extensions related to disaster relief for filing of income tax returns, including payment of tax due.

All storm victims should begin the registration process whether or not their home counties have been designated for federal assistance. These individuals should contact the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) at (800) 621-3362 or TTY (800) 462-7585 for persons with speech or hearing disabilities. Additional information about this disaster and required forms to apply for assistance are available at <http://www.disasterassistance.gov/>. The disaster declaration number is FEMA-4057-DR. The deadline to apply is May 7th, 2012.

Rogers has served Kentucky's 5th Congressional District since 1981. With a focus on economic development, job creation, fighting illegal drugs and preserving Appalachia's natural treasures, he has a reputation for listening to his constituents and fighting for the region he represents. Statewide campaign takes aim at autism, related disorders

LOUISVILLE — Kentucky parents, teachers and caregivers who want to understand a child's developmental milestones and recognize the early signs of autism or related disorders, will benefit from a statewide campaign that launches April 2 as part of Autism Awareness Month.

The University of Louisville Autism Center at Kosair Charities has partnered with the University of Kentucky Human Development Institute, the Kentucky Department of Education, the Kentucky Cabinet for Health and Family Services and autism support groups to launch a program modeled after a national crusade.

The campaign, "Learn the Signs. Act Early in Kentucky," will feature public service announcements, workshops, webinars and downloadable materials, all aimed at helping caregivers understand what is "typical" when it comes to a child's physical, social and cognitive progress.

According to the center's assistant director, Rebecca Grau, the primary objective for the campaign is to help Kentuckians recognize developmental delays so they can act quickly to seek intervention.

"If children aren't passing certain milestones typical for their age, it's very important to talk with a physician," Grau said. "I just can't stress enough how important it is for parents and other caregivers to act early."

Dr. Harold Kleinert, executive director of the University of Kentucky Human Development Institute, said he expects the campaign to be effective because it takes a three-pronged approach of education, tools for families and physicians and pointing people toward available resources.

"The materials included in this campaign are great and address a critical state need," Kleinert said. "If we can get parents to put one of the campaign's childhood development charts on their refrigerator and mark off their child's milestones, then we've succeeded."

More information about the "Learn the Signs. Act Early in Kentucky" campaign is available at louisville.edu/education/kyautismtraining/factearly or by contacting Grau at (502) 852-7799.

State highway crews offer free fill material

PIKEVILLE — If you could use fill material, Highway District 12 could have a deal for you.

Darold Slone, PE, Project Delivery and Preservation Branch Manager, said that maintenance crews in the district's seven counties are clearing ditches and need places to dump the material.

Slone said that the district does not have enough sites of its own at which the material can be dumped. "We have to haul it somewhere, and we thought it might be put to use by the citizens of the district."

If you could use a truckload or two or five, contact the District 12 superintendent at the maintenance facility nearest the location where you would need the material delivered. There are 10 maintenance garages in District 12's seven counties.

Columbia Gas announces more ways to pay bill

LEXINGTON — Now there are more places to pay your Columbia Gas bill.

Columbia Gas of Kentucky announced this week that they have expanded their network of authorized payment locations to include more Wal-Marts, as well as more local grocers, pharmacies, and other retail and service stores. A current, complete list of payment locations is available on the company's website at columbiagas.com under "Manage Your Account."

In addition to several convenient ways to pay online or by phone, some customers prefer to pay in person while they're running errands or to make a last-minute payment to avoid service disconnection. And there's no charge to customers who take advantage of the payment method. Columbia Gas of Kentucky advises customers that it's important to use only payment agents that the company has authorized to accept payments on its behalf. Although many businesses accept payments as a convenience to their customers, the company cannot guarantee that payments made at an unauthorized location will be processed on time, especially if disconnection is pending.

Columbia Gas also reminds customers to take their bill with them when they make a payment, and to promptly report their payment receipt number to the company either online at columbiagas.com or by phone at (800) 432-9345.

Customers may also choose to pay their bill online by electronic check at no charge at the company's website, or to pay using their credit or debit card online or by phone. More information is available on the company's website.

Social Security News All about disability

Jennifer Hopkins Claims Representative
Social Security Administration

Disability is something most people do not like to think about. But if you're not able to work because you have a medical condition that is expected to last at least one year or result in death, you may be able to get Social Security disability benefits. Here's what you need to know.

You should apply for disability benefits as soon as you become disabled. It can take months to obtain all your medical records and process an application for disability benefits (three to five months, on average). Generally, the information we need includes:

- Your Social Security number;
- Your birth or baptismal certificate;
- Names, addresses, and phone numbers of the doctors, caseworkers, hospitals, and clinics that took care of you, and dates of your visits;

- Names and dosage of all the medicine you take;
- Medical records from your doctors, therapists, hospitals, clinics, and caseworkers that you already have in your possession;
- Laboratory and test results;

April 17 deadline to file and pay 2011 income taxes

FRANKFORT — The Kentucky Department Revenue reminds taxpayers that they will have a few additional days to file their taxes this year.

The 2012 deadline is Tuesday, April 17, due to Emancipation Day, a holiday observed in the District of Columbia, which falls on Monday, April 16. By law, District of Columbia holidays affect tax deadlines in the same way that federal holidays do; therefore, all taxpayers will have two extra days to file or pay any taxes due this year.

All valid six-month extensions filed on or before April 17 will likewise extend the due date for filing a 2011 calendar year income tax return to Oct. 15, 2012.

DOR encourages taxpayers and tax professionals to take advantage of convenient, safe electronic filing.

Since the beginning of the current tax season, over one million Kentuckians have already filed individual tax returns. Approximately 89 percent of those were filed electronically. The average time for a refund to be issued on filed paper returns is four to six weeks. A refund request from an electronically filed return, however, is issued within seven to 10 days.

Additionally, taxpayers who owe with their returns and file electronically can request the additional tax due be automatically debited from their bank. Taxpayers can opt to have the tax due debited up to April 17 and avoid interest.

More than 1 million Kentucky taxpayers may be eligible to prepare and file their taxes electronically at no cost thanks to a public-private partnership called the Free File Alliance. To find out if you qualify, visit www.revenue.ky.gov.

All Kentucky income tax forms are available at www.revenue.ky.gov/forms or by calling 502-564-3658. Forms are also available at any of the 10 DOR field offices throughout the state. A list of field offices is available at www.revenue.ky.gov/aboutus/taxpayerservicecenters.htm.

DOR will honor recently announced Internal Revenue Service (IRS) special tax relief for taxpayers in the Presidential Disaster Areas who were victims of severe storms, tornadoes, straight-line winds and flooding that started on Feb. 29, 2012.

As of March 19, President Barack Obama has declared Bath, Campbell, Carroll, Grant, Grayson, Johnson, Kenton, Laclede, Laurel, Lawrence, Magoffin, Martin, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan, Ohio, Pendleton, Rowan, Russell, Trimble and Wolfe counties federal disaster areas. Individuals who reside or have a business in these counties may qualify for tax relief.

The IRS is postponing certain tax deadlines for those taxpayers who reside or have a business in the disaster area. For instance, certain deadlines falling on or after Feb. 29, and on or before May 31, have been postponed to May 31, 2012.

This includes an extension of the April 17 deadline for filing 2011 individual income tax returns, making income tax payments and making 2011 contributions to individual retirement accounts (IRA).

Mine regulatory agencies get new chiefs

Times Staff Report

FRANKFORT — Two state agencies responsible for oversight over coal mining have new heads, following appointments made Monday.

Kentucky Energy and Environment Cabinet Secretary Len Peters named Jerry E. "Freddie" Lewis Sr. as the new Executive Director of the Office of Mine Safety and Licensing and Robert F. Scott as the new director of the Division of Abandoned Mine Lands.

Lewis most recently was manager of Safety and Training for Alliance Coal Company. Prior to that position, he worked for more than nine years in the regional OMSL office in Pikeville as a mine safety analyst, mine inspector, mine safety rescue team member and classroom instructor.

"Mine safety is a top priority in this cabinet and I have every confidence that Freddie Lewis will help us focus on making sure our miners go to work each day with the knowledge that we value their health and welfare," said Peters. "His background in mine safety will, I believe, ensure we accomplish that goal."

The main responsibilities of OMSL and its 162 employees are to provide a safe working environment, effective education and training to coal miners that fosters safe working practices, and to ensure the laws and regulations governing coal mining are enforced fairly and consistently.

Lewis replaces Johnny Greene who retired at the end of 2011.

Scott, a civil engineer, most recently created mine and waterline designs for a Lexington engineering firm. Prior to that position, he worked for more than 26 years for AML as a design engineer, a design branch manager and served as the assistant director.

"The abandoned mine land program ensures that Kentucky's citizens receive protection from potentially unsafe, pre-law mine sites," said Peters. "The AML division is tasked with an important job and I believe Scott will serve the state and its citizen's well."

AML is authorized under Kentucky law (KRS.350) to abate hazards to public health, safety, and the environment caused by mining that occurred prior to 1982. The abandoned mine land program is a 100 percent federally funded, state-implemented program. In addition to expending funds to reclaim safety hazards posed by past mining, AML has expended more than $94.3 million for waterline improvements and has provided more than 13,400 households with a potable water supply in 24 coalfield counties in eastern, southern and western Kentucky. Scott replaces Steve Hohmann, commissioner of the Department for Natural Resources, who was named commissioner in February of this year. His appointment is effective March 16.

Caudill Seed Co. receives the Kentucky Proud 'Partner in Excellence Award'

LEXINGTON — The Kentucky Department of Agriculture has presented Caudill Seed Co. with the Kentucky Proud "Partner in Excellence Award."

"This award is given in recognition of your commitment to the growth and sustainability of agriculture in the Commonwealth," said Jennifer Mueller, Director of Business Development for the Kentucky Proud program. Kentucky Proud is the state's official farm marketing program, heralding the unique food products raised, grown or made by companies based in the Commonwealth.

Pat Caudill, president of Caudill Seed, accepted the award from Ms. Mueller during the Sweet 16 Tournament at Rupp Arena in Lexington on March 15.

"I would like to thank the Kentucky Department of Agriculture and Commissioner James Comer for this award," Mr. Caudill said. "We believe Kentucky Proud is an investment in Kentucky's land, people and its future. We urge all Kentuckians to buy Kentucky Proud products at every opportunity."

Louisville-based Caudill Seed is celebrating its 65th year in business. Founded in 1947 by Forrest Caudill, it has operations in Allen, Louisville and Morehead, and in Granite, Oklahoma. As a leading seed and supply distributor in the region, Caudill Seed primarily serves the agricultural, turf seed, contractor supply, and reclamation industries.

"How high?" was the cry, and $3.70 per thousand was the response at Thursday's Wheelwright City Commission meeting, when commissioners voted to increase water and sewer rates. The increase was necessary in order for the city to receive a Community Development Block Grant to upgrade its water and sewer system. The system's water production capacity would be increased by 50,000 gallons per day. Trash, liquor and golf were the prevailing issues at Friday's Floyd County Fiscal Court meeting. Members of Floyd County's Litter Task Force approached the court, asking what more could be done to combat the county's trash problem. Kathy Tackett wanted to know how to get more people involved in cleaning up the county, and the court about county workers littering the highways themselves.

A two-year rift between Prestonsburg's police and fire departments was bridged, Monday, by city council, which adopted a new employee pay scale in an effort to bring a measure of equality to department salaries. The new salary schedule will cost the city approximately $44,000 per year.

Two juveniles escaped from the Big Sandy Area Detention Center, Sunday afternoon, and were recaptured by Prestonsburg Police that evening. Prestonsburg detective sergeant Jeff Stumbo said, Tuesday, that the two escaped around 4 p.m. when one of the turnkeys opened the door to let visitors out. Wendell Ray Newman, 39, of Jacks Creek, was sentenced to 25 years in prison, Monday, by a federal judge. In the file, Federal Judge Joseph Hood pronounced the 25-year sentence without parole on Newman, and added a sentence of five years supervised release.

The first signs of spring are bringing the first sign of jobs related to the new track racing facility in Floyd County. The Department of Employment Services announced, Monday, that applications are being accepted for pari-mutuel ticket sellers/cashiers for Kentucky Downs. Applicants should be ready to start work on April 4.

A Paintsville councilman called it a "dog and pony show." An attorney for a pilot's group labeled it "an inquisition." The most accurate description, though, of a non-meeting, Tuesday evening, of Prestonsburg and Paintsville city councils came from Paintsville councilman and Prestonsburg attorney Mitch Kinner, who called the two-hour session on issues concerning the Paintsville-Prestonsburg Airport "a waste of time."

Official charges were served against Floyd County School Superintendent Ron Hager at the eleventh-hour, Thursday, when Hager made a rare appearance at the central office. Floyd County Sheriff's deputies have made repeated attempts to locate Hager at work and at home since the March 12 state school board meeting when Education Commissioner Thomas Boyesen charged Hager with willful neglect of duty and misconduct in office.

A shoplifting spree by a bride-to-be, through Prestonsburg, has attracted the attention of national media, including the Phil Donahue Show, the FOX Network, and The Globe. The Floyd County Times, the Prestonsburg Police Department and the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce have been besieged with calls from writers and newspapers, since the story came across the wires of the Associated Press. The article made its debut in the Floyd County Times on March 18. The Associated Press ran its version of the story which was picked up by the New York Times and the Chicago Tribune.

Beaver Elkhorn-Water District has recently completed its community meetings that were held at the local schools serving the Left and Right Beaver areas of Floyd County. As explained to all persons in attendance at these meetings, Beaver-Elkhorn-Water District has developed a major project to expand its water treatment plant from the present 1.0 MGD to 1.5-MGD, and extend its water distribution system approximately 76 miles to some 1,500 additional households.

Garner commits to Emory and Henry

STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

PRESTONSBURG - Prestonsburg High School senior defensive lineman Alex Garner, a Kentucky All-Star who represented his state against the Tennessee All-Stars in the 2012 National Guard Bowl earlier in the year, made his college choice official on Tuesday morning. Garner is headed to Emory & Henry College.

Garner chose Emory & Henry over Hanover and Pikeville.

As a senior, Garner overcame a season-threatening injury to register 49 tackles in nine games. Garner entered his senior season ranked as one of the top players in Class 2A. ACMS wins Saint Catharine Showdown

Times Staff Report

SPRINGFIELD - The Allen Central Middle School A-Team won the Saint Catharine Middle School Volleyball Showdown on Saturday. ACMS finished 3-1 in Pool Play to earn the Pool A No. 1 seed en route to the championship victory.

The Rebels traveled for 3 1/2 hours and immediately faced Saint Joseph. Although road weary, ACMS pulled off a 2-0 win, prevailing 21-10 and 21-17. Allen Central faced Saint Dominic immediately following its first match and once again rolled 2-0 (21-5, 21-10).

ACMS faced Washington County Middle School on Saturday morning and rolled to a 2-0 win, 21-5, 21-4. It looked as if Allen Central would be unstoppable and then the Rebels tangled with a Nelson County feeder school, Bloomfield. The Rebels struggled defensively, committing 27 reception errors and a host of serving errors. They could not get their offense rolling because of the lack of defense. As a result, Bloomfield defeated Allen Central soundly, 2-0 (21-11, 21-11). Allen Central, however, still won Pool A and locked up the number one seed in the pool.

After a short break, Allen Central took on the winner of the Boyle County-Washington County match. Feeling rejuvenated, Allen Central seemed to put a little more heart into the match. It showed defensively as the Rebels got back on track, defeating Washington

Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Commission proposes changes to fishing and bear hunting seasons

Times Staff Report

FRANKFORT - The Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Commission proposed several modifications to hunting and fishing regulations at its March quarterly meeting.

The commission recommends all hunting, fishing and boating regulations for approval by the General Assembly and approves all expenditures by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. All recommendations must be approved by legislators before they become law.

In wildlife-related business, the commission proposed to the General Assembly to extend black bear gun and archery/crossbow season from two days to three days. The proposed 2012 bear season would run from Dec. 8 through Dec. 10. In addition, Bell County would be added to the Bear Zone for the 2012 season. The harvest quota of 10 bears would remain unchanged.

Commissioners also voted to establish three separate seasons to allow hunters to chase bears with dogs. One of the seasons would allow hunters to take bears using dogs.

Commission members proposed the establishment of three zones in eastern Kentucky totaling nearly 109,000 acres for chasing bears. The East Bear Chase/Lake Zone would encompass 19,584 acres in Letcher County while the Central Bear Chase/Lake Zone would consist of 45,263 acres in Harlan County. The West Bear Chase/Lake Zone would include 43,660 acres of public land within Bell County.

Groups could not exceed five hunters and eight dogs. Chase hours would be from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset.

The first season proposed by commission members is an early chase-only season for black bears from Aug. 1-31.

This season would only be open to residents who purchase an on-line $30 bear chase permit (youth bear permits are $10).

The commission also recommended a dog season for bear harvest that will only occur if the existing quota of 10 bears per season is not met. If the quota of 10 bears is met, this middle season would be a chase-only season.

This proposed chase/take season would be open only to Kentucky residents who purchase an online bear chase permit for that year. The season would open the Monday after gun and archery season for bears concludes and continue for five days. The 2012 season would open Dec. 17 and close Dec. 21.

The commission also proposed a 5-day late chase-only season for bears. In 2012, this season would open Dec. 24 and continue through Dec. 28.

In other wildlife-related business, the commission proposed allowing more flexibility to train bird dogs outside the current Dog Training Area Permit System.

Pen-reared bobwhite quail could be harvested for the purpose of dog training on private lands from August 15 through May 15. Individuals must be licensed and fill out an application to participate. They must possess proof of the sale/ownership of the birds or a captive wildlife permit for pen-reared bobwhite quail and make sure that the training area is free of wild quail. The pen-reared bobwhite quail must be banded.

"We want to promote quail hunting and dog training and at the same time protect the wild resource," said Karen Waldrop, director of wildlife for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife.

The commission also recommended increasing the number of pen-reared birds an individual may possess for personal use without having a non-commercial captive wildlife permit.

In the final wildlife-related business, the commission proposed to hold a pheasant quota hunt on 6,775-acre Yellowbank WMA in Breckinridge County. This hunt is in addition to the quota pheasant hunts on Green River Lake WMA and Clay WMA.

In fisheries-related business, the commission recommended lowering the minimum size limit for striped bass on Lake Cumberland from 24 inches to 22 inches. This regulation could take effect in early summer if approved by legislators.

Commission members also proposed several additional changes to fisheries regulations. If approved by legislators, the changes would take effect on March 1, 2013. These include:

A protective slot limit for smallmouth and largemouth bass in Meade County's Otter Creek. Anglers would have to immediately release all smallmouth and largemouth bass measuring between 12 to 16 inches. Anglers could keep six smallmouth or largemouth bass daily, but only one could be longer than 16 inches.

A 12-inch minimum size limit on channel catfish caught from Reformatory Lake in Oldham County. McNeely Lake in Jefferson County and Lake Reba in Madison County. A 5-year research project will commence on these lakes to determine if the minimum size limit on these lakes results in more and bigger channel catfish.

Allowing boaters to use gasoline boat motors at idle speed only on Goose Island and South Lakes on the Peabody Wildlife Management Area (WMA). Boaters currently may only use electric trolling motors.

The next regular Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Commission meeting will be held at 8 a.m. (Eastern time), Friday, June 1, at #1 Sportsman's Lane off U.S. 60 in Frankfort. Persons interested in addressing the commission must notify the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife commissioners office in writing at least 30 days in advance to be considered for placement on the meeting agenda. People who are hearing impaired and plan to attend the meeting should contact Kentucky Fish and Wildlife at least 10 days in advance and the agency will provide a translator. To request to address the commission, write to Kentucky Fish and Wildlife, Commissioner Dr. Jon Gassett, No. 1 Sportsman's Lane, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

Berea doubles up Bears

Times Staff Report

The Mountaineers scored once in the top of the first and then took a 4-0 lead in the top of the third. Pikeville got those three back in the bottom of the frame but a two-run fifth and three more in the sixth all but put the game away.

The Bears equaled Berea with 11 hits despite the loss. Brad Andrews, Nate Goodwin, Chris Noble and Joe Morris had two hits apiece for Chad Gassman's squad. Andrews and Noble doubled while Noble drove one in. Goodwin had a run scored and an RBI while Morris scored one.

Luke Wright and Chris Morford had a hit and RBI each, while Andrew Hitchcock singled.

Jake Sokull led four Bears to the hill, throwing four innings while allowing three earned runs and striking out five.

Seventh inning pushes St. Catharine past Pikeville

Times Staff Report

PIKEVILLE — An eight-run top of the seventh inning was too much for the University of Pikeville baseball team to overcome in a 12-6 loss to St. Catharine College on Friday.

The game, which allowed the Patriots to complete the series sweep of the Bears, was played early with a 10:30 a.m. start to elude the pending rain.

St. Catharine posted a pair of runs in the third and one in the fourth to build a 3-0 lead, but the Bears rallied to take the lead in the bottom of the fifth.

The Bears loaded the bases with one out and got two in with a single to left by Brad Andrews to plate Joe Morris, who had singled, and Jason Rosen who was hit by a pitch. Pat O'Brien singled to right to deliver Adam Overbay with the tying run.

One out later, Luke Wright singled in Andrews to give the Bears the 4-3 lead.

But in the top of the sixth, the Patriots used six hits and three walks to send eight across the plate to lead 11-4. The Bears scored once in the bottom of the frame and each team posted one in the ninth.

Right fielder Nate Goodwin had three of UPIKE's 13 hits in the loss. O'Brien doubled and singled and drove in two, while Overbay and Wright had a pair of singles. Andrews singled, scored twice and drove in a pair, while Morris, Chris Morford and Andrew Hitchcock all singled.

Wise sweeps Pikeville in softball doubleheader

Times Staff Report

PIKEVILLE — The U.Va.-Wise pushed across a run in the top of the eighth to win the opener and went on to sweep the University of Pikeville on Sunday at Paul Butcher Field. Wise took the first game 2-1 and won the nightcap 8-1.

The losses sent Pikeville to 7-15 on the season, while Wise evened its record at 14-14.

The Bears will travel to Bluefield for a doubleheader on Tuesday and will be home on Friday to entertain Georgetown College at 2 p.m.

Wise 2, Pikeville 1: A pair of doubles in the eighth gave the guests the win in the opener.

Pikeville took a lead in the second when Hannah Vinson walked and scored when Caitlin Collins grounded out. But the Cavs evened the count in the sixth with a run.

Kayla Morgan was 2-of-4 at the plate with a double. She went the distance in the circle for the Bears, allowing eight hits and striking out two.

Emily Castle also had a pair of hits, including a double. Mallory George and Ashleigh Stanley added hits.

Wise 8, Pikeville 1: Wise scored in all but the fifth to sweep the Bears. Pikeville managed only four hits, getting singles from Vinson, Kayla Cantrell, Kayla Brown and Brandi Jo Howard, whose second-inning single drove in Castle for the only Bear run.

Emily Poynter struck out five but allowed 13 hits in the game.

March Fishing Madness: Survey finds FINs program popular

Art Lander Jr.
Kentucky Affair

FRANKFORT — A recent survey conducted at eight Fishing in Neighborhoods (FINs) lakes across Kentucky found the program both popular and helpful in recruiting new anglers.

"Feedback has been positive," said Fisheries Biologist Dane Balsman, who manages the program for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "About 85 percent of the anglers surveyed rated their overall fishing trip satisfaction as good or excellent. The FINs program, which started in 2006 with five pilot lakes, now includes 35 lakes in 22 counties, with the addition of Madisonville City Park Lake this spring. The 14-acre impoundment in Hopkins County brings the total acreage enrolled in the program to 194.5.

Other encouraging findings from the survey were that 10 percent of anglers had never previously bought a fishing license and 25 percent had not bought a fishing license the previous year. "Through the program, we are retaining previous license buyers and recruiting new ones," said Balsman. "That's one of our goals." Fishing license sales, excise taxes on fishing equipment and a 25 percent in-kind match from local governments fund the FINs program and annual stockings of fish.

Creating good fishing opportunities close to cities is a main goal of the program, Balsman said about 2.2 million people, or about half of Kentucky's population, live in the 22 counties where the FINs lakes are located.

This year the plan is to stock more than 230,000 fish — 132,500 nine- to 12-inch rainbow trout and 98,650 12- to 16-inch catfish. These fish are large enough to be harvested at the time they are stocked.

The special creek and size limits in effect on the FINs lakes spread out fish harvest, providing fishing opportunities for the maximum number of anglers.

The standardized regulations of all 35 FINs lakes include a daily limit of five rainbow trout with no minimum size limit and a daily limit of four channel and blue catfish with no minimum size limit. There is a one-fish daily limit on largemouth bass with a 15-inch minimum size limit and a 15-fish daily limit on bluegill and other sunfish with no minimum size limit.

Next spring, anglers will have a new fish to add to their stringers. "From our survey we found that a lot of anglers like to catch sunfish, so we're adding hybrid bluegill to the stocking plan," said Balsman. "It's a sterile, fast-growing cross between a bluegill and a green sunfish. Production has already started at the Pfeiffer Hatchery."

The hybrid bluegills will be stocked beginning next spring on a lake-by-lake basis with some fish held in reserve for special events.

Despite all the successes, the future poses some challenges for the FINs program. "We're close to the saturation point on the number of lakes we can have in the program," said Balsman. "This is because we're near capacity for the number of fish we can produce at our hatcheries."

For more detailed information on Kentucky's FINs program, including lake maps and directions, fish stocking schedules and fishing regulations, visit the department's website at fw.ky.gov and click onto the "Fishing in Neighborhoods" logo.

County 2-0, 21-16, 21-10 to advance to the semifinals. Saint Joseph came out of a battle against Pool B No. 2 seed OKH (Old Kentucky Homeplace) to face the Rebels. In a tough first set, Allen Central seemed to slip again defensively and became a bit passive, losing to Saint Joseph, 14-21. Managing to regroup, Allen Central became very determined, and played much more aggressively in the second set, winning 21-16. Saint Joseph jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the third set but the Allen Central squad tightened up its defense, covered the floor, went on a 7-0 tear and never looked back or lost the lead. The Rebels pulled away, winning the third set 15-12 to claim the match. With the win, Allen Central advanced to face

Bloomfield in the championship match.

The Rebels enacted some revenge in the championship match, defeating Bloomfield 20-21, 14-21, 3-0 to capture the Saint Catharine Middle School Volleyball Showdown championship.

Pacing the Allen Central offense for the tournament was Katie Kendrick, who pounded in 54 kills on .659 hitting. Sarah Grindrod slammed in 21 kills on .467 hitting and Chelsea Austin smacked in 20. Hayley Pinson added 10 kills, Jannah Halbert dumped in three, and Kelsie Jackson, Kierstin Carroll and Emily Johnson added one apiece. Halbert ran the Allen Central offense 106 times, fishing up 53 kills. Kelsie Jackson set up 27 kills for the Rebels. Chelsea Austin served an amazing 96 percent and led the Rebs with 14 service aces. Katie Kendrick slapped in 13 service aces while Pinson and Jackson earned seven each. Halbert added five aces. Grindrod and Johnson skidded in three each and Laryn Stumbo and Breanna Thompson contributed one apiece.

Defensively, Allen Central returned 86 percent of everything hit its way while earning 39 digs. Kendrick led the AC back row with 11 digs. Austin and Halbert had seven digs each. Haley Smith six, Grindrod four, Thompson three and Emily Johnson one. Again, Kendrick led the Rebels at the net, registering 11 solo blocks and six partial blocks. Austin had two partial blocks and Grindrod one for the Rebels.

Thompson crowned Miss East Kentucky

Mullins, Crase and Hamilton win other crowns

Ralph B. Davis
Managing Editor

PRESTONSBURG — There are four new crowns donned above smiling faces as a series of pageants was held in Prestonsburg this month.

The Miss East Kentucky and Miss East Kentucky Outstanding Teen pageants were held March 3 at the Wilkinson Stumbo Convention Center at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, while the Little Miss East Kentucky and Pre-Teen East Kentucky pageants were held a week later at the Heritage House Hotel. Wayland resident Holly Thompson was crowned Miss East Kentucky 2012. Thompson, a student at Knott County Central High School, is involved in the arts and is a member of the Knott Central dance team. Her platform centered around supporting local animal shelters, where she has volunteered many hours.

Whitley Mullins, of Viper, was crowned Miss East Kentucky Outstanding Teen. Mullins, a student at Perry Central High School, competed under a platform in support of organ and tissue donation.

The Miss East Kentucky and Miss East Kentucky Outstanding Teen pageants, which were emceed by Miss Kentucky, are preliminary events for the statewide Miss Kentucky and Miss Kentucky Outstanding Teen pageants. Thompson will now go on to compete in the Miss Kentucky pageant, to be held in July at the Singletary Center for the Arts on the University of Kentucky campus in Lexington. Mullins will compete for the title of Miss Kentucky Outstanding Teen.

Michelle Sode and Mandy Stumbo, co-directors of the pageants, said they are excited about "the dynamic ladies" who will be representing Eastern Kentucky in this year's statewide pageants.

Besides both receiving crowns, Thompson and Mullins have something else in common — both are also finalists in the Country Music Highway Road to Fame competition.

On March 10, Thompson carried out one of her first official duties by presiding over the Little Miss East Kentucky and Pre-Teen Miss East Kentucky pageants. Those events, like the previous ones, were also preliminary competitions for larger statewide pageants, this time the Little Miss Kentucky and Pre-Teen Miss Kentucky pageants.

In the latter pageants, two Floyd County girls took home top prize.

Kaitlyn Crase, a May Valley student from Wayland, won

Miss East Kentucky Holly Thompson and Miss East Kentucky Outstanding Teen Whitley Mullins.

Pre-Teen Miss East Kentucky Hailey Hamilton and Little Miss East Kentucky Kaitlyn Crase.

Or with the girl who sells sea shells down by the sea shore?

If you're of a "certain age," you probably remember how funny it was to trip each other up with those silly rhymes. (For some reason, I have a sudden urge to sing, "Mairzy doats and dozy doats and liddle lamzy divedy.")

Today's youngsters would be astonished—and probably appalled—at how easily we were amused just a few decades ago. I remember that one of my favorite homemade toys involved taking a wooden thread spool (probably extinct now) and rubbing dry soap on either end of the spool. Then I'd run a rubber band through the hole down the center, secure one end of the rubber band with a thumb tack (not a modern push pin, an old-fashioned flat-top thumb tack), and wind up a long wooden matchstick in the other end of the rubber band. Voila! You've got yourself an "automated" toy!

I always loved, "Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers" and "She sells sea shells down by the sea shore."

So when I read recently about an innovative way to use wood chips to clean up farm field runoff, I immediately thought, "How much wood would a woodchuck chuck if a woodchuck could chuck wood?"

Incidentally, thanks to the Internet, you can look up the answer, according to one wildlife expert, a woodchuck chucks 35 cubic feet of dirt in the process of digging his burrow. So if a woodchuck could chuck wood, he'd chuck an equivalent weight in wood—700 pounds. Glad we got that settled!

Now let's get back to those field-cleaning wood chips. First, a little history: When the early settlers arrived in the Midwest, they constructed an underground network of tile drains to channel water away from the soggy prairies. The result was some of today's most fertile farm fields.

But on the downside, when nitrate from soils and fertilizers leaches out of those fields, that subsurface engineering also facilitates the flow of the nitrates into nearby streams and rivers. From there, the runoff can make its way to the Gulf of Mexico, where the nitrates feed the development of oxygen-deficient "dead zones."

There's another reason why we care about those runaway nitrates—it's called your morning coffee (or tea, if you're me). The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has mandated that nitrate concentrations in drinking water, obtained from either surface water or groundwater, can't exceed 10 parts per million. Also, minimizing that nitrate runoff helps our farmers get the biggest bang for their fertilizer-application "bucks." So everyone wins when we stop the nitrates in their tracks.

The scientists of the Agricultural Research Service (ARS) have spent the past decade studying whether underground trenches filled with wood chips could help stem this nitrate flow. They say microorganisms that live in the wood use a process called "denitrification" to convert the nitrates in the field runoff—the fancy word is "leachate"—into nitrogen gas or nitrous oxide, which then diffuse into the atmosphere.

Soils can do the same thing to a certain extent, but that ability generally decreases the deeper you go. So the ARS scientists gave the wood chips a try.

They set up experimental sites in a field north of Ames, Iowa, where they installed perforated plastic drainage pipes 4 feet below the soil surface. They dug trenches on either side of the pipes and filled the trenches with wood chips. Next, they buried the pipes and the wood-filled trenches, and proceeded to grow a rotation of corn and soybean crops on the fields for the next nine years.

They also buried mesh bags filled with wood chips at depths of 2 feet and 5 feet, to give themselves a way to check how fast the chips decomposed without having to dig up their experimental trenches.

The results? Over the nine-year study period, the wood-chip-filled trenches consistently removed nitrates from the field runoff. From 2001 to 2008, annual nitrate loss in the plots with conventional drainage averaged 48.6 pounds per year—but only 21.8 pounds per year in plots with the wood-chip trenches.

I'd say that's a neater trick than that woodchuck chucking wood!

The Agricultural Research Service is the chief in-house scientific research agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. You can read more about ARS discoveries at <http://www.ars.usda.gov/news/>.

HEART AND VASCULAR CENTER

Cardiac Caths: A new approach

Cardiologists at King's Daughters are pioneering a new approach to cardiac catheterization.

Called transradial catheterization because doctors access the heart through the wrist, the new procedure is more comfortable, convenient and has lower risk of complications. Several King's Daughters cardiologists are offering the new technique to their patients, including Edward Ha, M.D., Richard Paulus, M.D., and Sriharsha Velury, M.D., said Stacy Patrick, Vice President of Patient Services and Chief Nursing Officer.

The radial technique was first developed in the 1980s, but recent advances in miniaturizing instruments and devices have made the technique more accessible for everyone.

Traditionally, cardiac catheterization has been performed through the femoral artery, which is the very large artery in the leg near the groin.

"This is a technique that has served us well for more than 20 years," Dr. Velury said. However, it has one major drawback. "Patients have to lie on their backs for four-to-five hours after the procedure waiting for the artery to seal."

"With radial access, this problem is solved," he said. "The radial artery seals more quickly, we can see easily if there is any bleeding, and patients can sit up in bed, eat, and visit with their families soon after the procedure is done."

While the radial approach offers significant benefits, it's not for everyone, Dr. Velury said.

"Some patients have a unique anatomy in their hands and wrists," he said, "which won't permit radial access. Others may have vascular disease or other conditions that would prevent us from using this particular approach."

However, for the majority of patients, radial access is not only possible, it is preferred because it reduces the risk of bleeding complications, speeds recovery and dramatically improves the patient's experience," Dr. Velury said.

For more information about radial access cardiac catheterization, please call the Kentucky Heart Institute at (606) 324-4745.

Benefits of the radial approach include:

- The radial artery is closer to the skin surface allowing access for very large obese patients.
- Any bleeding that may occur can be seen easily and treated immediately.
- The radial artery is not close to any major nerves, so the likelihood of nerve damage is very low.
