This Town— That World

The guy who said, "You write so easy," should have been here to watch the fingernails fly while this column was a-borning—or, would you say, "aborting?"

I do not write "easy." That's just mental exhaustion showing up in type.

THE SEARCHER

I, who can get lost with the best of them and get on more roads going north when I want to go south than anybody since Wrong-Way Corrigan, got a laugh out of the experience of some of the boys who found the hills and the fog around Dewey Lake a mite confusing, the other night, while they were searching for a lost hunter.

When the man was found along about 3 a.m., the searcher greeted him in words almost as historic as those of Stanley when he sang out, "Mr. Livingston, I presume."

Said the searcher (so we are told):

What's your name?"

And told the name he remarked,

"The very man I'm looking for—how do you get out of here?"

GOOD WORK

That incident may be on the funny side. But it is only a sidelight on the fine work done by the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad. How many others of us, for instance, would climb snake-infested hills in darkness and fog all night long? But a boy had asked for help; his Dad was missing. And this group went.

OF THEORIES

A poor scientist with apparently little to do except to propound a theory that will get him newspaper space comes up with the idea that life began three billion years ago in the mud and silt. . . . Wonder if that's why we still sling mud and why some wives have been known to refer to friend husband as "the scum of the earth"? . . . This theory sounds as reasonable to me as the other.

MINE ARSON TRY FOILED

$1,000 Reward Offered After Mine Machinery Damaged Monday Night

A reward of $1,000 will be paid for the arrest and conviction, or for information leading to the arrest and conviction, of the persons who caused damage to equipment at the Lick Fork Coal Company mine on Middle Creek. Bill Jack Stephens, co-owner of the firm, announced Wednesday.

The reward offer was made after a drill was damaged and after an attempt had apparently been made to burn three shuttle-buggies.

The blaze was discovered Monday night by an employee. Help from Princess Elkhorn Coal Company employees at David and from state mine officials at Pikeville brought the blaze under control.

It was said that a substance having the effect of acid had been poured on the mine drill and that empty dynamite boxes had been piled onto the shuttle-buggies and then set afire.

Three persons were reported seen leaving the mine on the night of the fire, it was said.

Mr. Stephens is co-owner of the mine with Mrs. Lillian Rimmer, widow of W. C. Rimmer.

Flood Control Suffers Severe Blow

DINNER HERE, AUCTION SALE ARE PLANNED

As Events in Campaign To Aid Retarded Tots; Drive Begins, Sept. 14

The fund-raising drive to continue with the training or education of Floyd county's retarded children will be launched Monday evening, Sept. 14, with a kick-off dinner at the Prestonsburg high school cafeteria, it was announced this week by the Floyd County Council for Retarded Children.

The dinner will be held at 6 p.m., and in itself will be a benefit affair for the handicapped tots. The meal will be $5 a plate, and all food served will be donated, it was said.

One of the speakers at the dinner will be Bert T. Combs, of Prestonsburg, former president of the Floyd County Council. Others invited include: LeRoy Stephens, Louisville, past president of the Kentucky Association for Retarded Children; J. W. Beard, Lexington, Association vice-president and president of the Blue Grass Council for Retarded Children.

LEADERS SET SCOUT MEET

Williams, Others Plan To Attend Conferences On National Training

More than 3,000 of the nation's Boy Scout professional leaders will hear Associate Justice Tom C. Clark of the United States Supreme Court, and leading business, religious and civic leaders at their eleventh national training conference at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, September 1-8.

Every four years the Scout executives meet for an intensive period of training under the leadership of their national officials.

Walter P. Walters, of Pikeville, president of Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America, said that Scout-Executive Byron F. Pennebaker, of Pikeville, will head the council's delegation.

Also attending will be: Clifford Judd, Wise, Va.; Edwin Holliday, Hazard; C. O. Williams, Prestonsburg; Woodrow Deaton, recently employed, will be in National Training School, Mendham, New Jersey.

The training conference will investigate ways and means of improving the organization's ability to reach and serve boys of the various Scout age levels.

Probation Cancelled After New Offenses

Three juveniles were committed Tuesday to the Department of Welfare by County Judge Henry Stumbo after they had been involved in new law violations. They had previously been granted probation on old offenses.

The three were accused of grand larceny. They are: Bobby Workman and Clyde Robinson, both of Dwaile, and Jackie Wallen, of Martin.

NEW ARRESTS MADE HERE

Father, Son Released Under Bond To Answer To Grand Jury Action

Marion Hatfield, who was jailed here last Wednesday on a charge of setting off an explosive under a house, gained freedom from the Floyd county jail Tuesday when he executed $10,000 bond to answer to possible action of the grand jury next week. He also filed $2,500 peace bond.

His father, Frank Hatfield, of Ohio, formerly of the Left Beaver Creek section of the county, was arrested here last Thursday on a warrant charging conspiracy. The elder Hatfield was released the same day under $8,000 appearance bond and $2,500 peace bond.

The arrests were made in connection with the June 13 dynamiting of the home on Bull Creek of Mr. and Mrs. Frank DeRossett.

Both men maintained their innocence. Former Commonwealth's Attorney Burnis Martin, legal counsel for the father and son, was highly critical of the $8,000 bond asked for the release of Frank Hatfield. He pointed out that, under Kentucky law, conspiracy is a misdemeanor, adding that $8,000 is exorbitant bail for a misdemeanor case and the highest on record.

A few years ago, the Kentucky Legislature changed the penalty for conspiracy to a jail term or fine, or both. The change in the law was made at the request of organized labor which claimed that the conspiracy law as a felony was used unjustly against workmen involved in labor disputes.

An affidavit signed by Jackie Hall, of Banner, formed the basis for the warrant issued by Magistrate Fred Conn for the arrest of Marion Hatfield. The warrant accusing Frank Hatfield was issued by the County Judge's office after Guy Bates had signed an affidavit claiming Hatfield had attempted to hire him to destroy the house.

BANK PLANS ALLEN BRANCH

Permission Requested Of State, Federal Groups By The Bank Josephine

The Bank Josephine has applied to federal and state banking authorities for permission to operate a drive-in branch bank at Allen, it was announced this week by Mrs. Iley B. Browning, chairman of the board of directors.

Options on real estate in Allen have been procured and construction of the branch building will begin as soon as clearance on the application has been received from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the Kentucky Department of Banking.

H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., vice-president of the bank, said: "The branch is being established after a careful survey was made of the total commercial banking operation in Floyd county. The installation at the drive-in will feature the most modern banking facilities.

"The drive-in facilities are being established as one of the many steps being taken by The Bank Josephine to provide Floyd county and Eastern Kentucky with a retail bank operation," Fitzpatrick added.

The branch bank, which will have both drive-in and walk-in facilities, is the first of its kind in this county.

"A formal announcement will be made when approval has been received from the supervising authorities," Fitzpatrick said.

COURT GIVES BUDGET O.K.

Budget of $1,984,797.90 For Schools Submitted By Board of Education

The Floyd fiscal court at a recent meeting approved a budget of $1,984,797.90 for the Floyd County Board of Education during the fiscal year which began July 1. The budget was submitted to the court by the Board itself.

Anticipated expenditures follow: Administration, including clerical help, legal services, office supplies, etc., $28,250; Instruction, including textbooks, $1,320; attendance and health services, $18,500; pupil transportation, $134,000; operation of school plant, $127,000; maintenance of school plant, $86,000; fixed charges, including rentals, insurance premiums, social security, etc., $62,000; community services (school athletics, playground, school lunches, bookmobile), $9,000; capital outlay (See Story No. 7, Page 2)

PLANNING GROUP GIVES TRAFFIC FLOW FIGURES

Average daily motor traffic entering or leaving Prestonsburg on the south end of town is 4,800, according to a recent compilation of figures. This is considerably less than the daily traffic of 6,260 vehicles for a short distance south of Pikeville.

Pikeville has the heaviest traffic in the Big Sandy valley. North of town the flow reaches 5,655. The heaviest ADT is between Louisville and Elizabethtown on U.S. 60 where it is 21,860 vehicles but it drops to 12,000 a short distance from the Kentucky metropolis.

The figures on the traffic flow are from a publication, Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission.

"A study of the traffic flow. . . reveals the absence of through traffic in the area," the Atlas says. "Along the northern edge Highway 60 from Louisville and Lexington to Ashland does provide one through road. On the western edge Highway 25 connects Cincinnati with Knoxville."

Traffic across the Ashland-Coal-grove bridge is 11,420 daily, the highest in East Kentucky. At Catlettsburg it is 6,725 and in Ashland it is 9,565. Highway use in Southeastern Kentucky is highest in the Corbin-London area where the maximum flow is 8,500. It is 8,060 at Harlan and 5,500 at Morehead. It drops to 1,980 between Hazard and Hyden. The flow at Hazard is 6,100 vehicles.

Use of Highway 23 between Shelby and Jenkins is the same, according to the EKRPC figures, as that of the same road at South Prestonsburg where 4,800 cars, trucks and other vehicles pass every 24 hours. North of Allen the flow is 3,500 but builds up to 4,150 at Lancer.

The Prestonsburg to West Prestonsburg ADT is 1,600 and on Ky. 114 it quickly drops to 1,320 and within a few miles is down to 995. Plummets still further to 475 but, nearing Salyersville it rises to 900. The flow of traffic on Highway 400 between Paintsville and Salyersville is 1,400 maximum, considerably above the flow of the Prestonsburg-Salyersville highway.

The Paintsville-Inez flow is 1,650 maximum and the Paintsville-Louisia traffic is much higher, 2,300 vehicles. Near Russell in the Boyd county industrial area the traffic is 7,190 and at South Portsmouth it is 5,000 maximum.

Returning to the southern area of the Big Sandy valley it is noted that traffic at Coal Run is 3,495, and between Pikeville and Williamson it is 3,395 but it rises to 3,600 as it enters the West Virginia town. (See Story No. 9, Page 6)

Hunter And Rescuers Are Lost; One Copperhead Snake Is Killed During Search for Missing Man

A hunter lost in the hills surrounding Dewey Lake gave the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad a rough work-out Saturday night.

Twelve members of the squad searched through the night for Richard Short, of McDowell, after Short's son had made his way to the home of W. W. Burchett on Cow Creek to telephone the report that his father was missing. Members of the searching party became lost themselves in the fog-shrouded hills. One copperhead snake was killed, and what may have been others were heard—the searchers didn't wait to investigate, they said.

At 3 o'clock Sunday morning Short was found on Dick's Creek.

A second call was made on the Squad to help search Wednesday night for another lost hunter, Jerry Lee Richardson, of Daniels Creek, below Dewey Dam, but he made his appearance before the search actually began.

Combs, Robison Plan Luncheon Attendance At State Fair, Sept. 15

Candidates for Governor of Kentucky, Bert T. Combs and John M. Robison, will be featured at a luncheon on Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Day at the 1959 Kentucky State Fair.

The special day at the State Fair, set aside for chambers of commerce in Kentucky, is Tuesday, September 15.

The candidates will be presented during the businessmen's luncheon at 12:30 p.m. (CDDT) in Dining Room "B," Coliseum Building, on the Fairgrounds. . . . A candidate will be allotted two minutes to speak. Gatten added. In addition to the gubernatorial candidates, national celebrities who are on the State Fair program have been invited to attend the luncheon.

Louisa Newspaper Ad Lists Dewey Boat Dock Surplus Equipment Sale

The Big Sandy News, Louisa, in this week's edition advertises a surplus disposal sale of boats, motors, gas tanks, motor parts and life jackets at the Jenny Wiley State Park boat dock, Dewey Lake, at 1 p.m., September 14.

Ten of the 5½-horsepower motors are two and three years old; five Johnson 5½-horsepower motors are six years old. The boats are 14-foot aluminum Rich-o-Lines, Larsons and Lone Stars.

BIOLOGISTS CLAIM LAKE FISHING HELPED BY ROUGH FISH REMOVAL

Population studies made before and after work to remove shad and rough fish from Dewey Lake offer conclusive evidence that the program carried on by biologists of the Division of Fisheries should be continued this year, Bernard Carter, the director of the Division, and William A. Smith, Jr., senior fisheries biologist, said in recent statements released to officials of the Floyd County Fish & Game Club.

"We definitely recommend treatment for shad this fall, but we will be guided by the outcome of . . . publicity work," Mr. Carter wrote Dr. Claude L. Allen, of Langley and Martin, who is director from this district of the League of Kentucky Sportsmen. (He referred to opposition to the shad removal program that has developed locally and to the possibility of explanation of the Department's view.)

Wright Home Destroyed By Fire At Winchester; DeRossett Home Burns

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wright, of the Winchester section near Emma, burned down Friday evening at 9:30 while the family of eight was visiting in Prestonsburg. Nothing was saved from the home but an adjoining smokehouse and pumphouse with their contents did not burn.

The following night the residence of James DeRossett on Buck's Branch, near Martin, was razed.

Both residences were insured. The occupants were not at home at the time, and the cause of the fires is unknown, it was said.

Neighbors are sponsoring a household shower for the Wright family at West Prestonsburg where they moved after the fire. The shower, set at 7 p.m., Friday, is an attempt to aid the stricken family, it was said. The Wrights reside across from the West Prestonsburg depot, it was pointed out.

BOARD HIRES 37 TEACHERS

Maytown Water System Lessee Bidder Named; McGuire Awarded Job

The Floyd County Board of Education named Roland Burchett as the successful bidder on leasing the Maytown water system at its regular monthly meeting Tuesday. Burchett's lease is subject to a declaration of rights by the courts and Joe Hobson, board attorney, will seek such a declaration.

The water system, subject to much controversy in recent weeks between the two factions of the board because it is alleged several consumers have illegally taken water, will be leased to Burchett at $1 per year with the stipulation that the Maytown school will receive free water for ten years.

Ten additional certified teachers were employed by the board. They are, with the name of school assigned: Lola Crisp, Allen elementary; Pat Salisbury, Drift elementary; Paul D. Hager, Martin high school; Geneva P. Bailey, Martin grades; Erleen May, Maytown grades; David Leslie, Prestonsburg high school; Joan Hatfield, Prestonsburg grade; Elsie Dotson, Sam Hale school; Edsel Moore, Prestonsburg high school; and Tilden H. Jones, Wheelwright consolidated school.

In addition 27 emergency teachers were employed. They are Lillian Conley, Conley school No. 7; Polly Harmon, Alum Lick; Cloyd Johnson, Rough and Tough; Hazel Johnston, Myrtle school; Donna Jean DeRossett, Upper Little Paint; Ella Faye Hayes, Banner; Darrell Hall, Prater; Marileth Furman, Spruce Pine; Jeanette Bryant, Arkansas; Vivian Tackett, Spurlock; Mary Belle Caudill, Clear Creek; Patty Jean Tackett, Ligon; Tandy Moore, Shepherd; Sidney Ratliff, Betsy Layne; Cloyd Thornsberry and Joan Faulkner, Martin consolidated; Donna McCoy and Ralph Little, Melvin; Clara Hicks, Thomas Hardwick; Lila Jean Williams, Verna Mae Chaffins and Lawton Allen, all at McDowell; Douglas Smith, Prestonsburg. HOUSE FAILS TO OVERRIDE VETO BY IKE

Capital Development Calls Halt to Pound, Other River Projects

Big Sandy residents who have pinned their hopes on flood control reservoirs in the headwaters of the river were deep in gloom this week after President Eisenhower last Friday vetoed the $1,206,748,549 water projects bill and after the House failed Wednesday by a single vote to pass the legislation over the Presidential veto.

It was the first time in the 21 years since the flood control program was begun that a President had vetoed an appropriations bill. The vote to override the veto was 274 to 138—one short of the required two-thirds.

The vetoed bill called for an expenditure this biennium of a sum acceptable to the President, but he objected to new projects included in the legislation.

Lost—at least temporarily, and probably for at least two years—is the appropriation of $2,500,000 the House and Senate had included in the bill for beginning of construction of the Pound reservoir. Next to California, Kentucky was the biggest loser as a result of the veto.

Chairman Cannon, of the House Appropriations committee, immediately moved to get together a bill that will be acceptable to Eisenhower. He is willing to force through a bill stripped of new projects such as Pound, but Senator Ellender (D-La.), chairman of the Senate Appropriations committee, proposed tacking the public works bill onto the foreign appropriations bill, a move in which the President is deeply interested.

COAL WASTES BRING FINES

Two Coal Companies Fined $1,000 Total For River Pollution

Last week saw action in the Johnson circuit court that may effectively curb pollution of the Big Sandy River by coal wastes.

A jury there imposed fines totaling $1,000 on two of three coal companies that had been named in indictments charging them with river pollution through coal washing operations.

The Blue Diamond Coal Company and the Russell Fork Coal Co., both of Pike county, were fined $500 each, or $100 on five counts each.

Thirteen indictments against the Republic Steel Company, Pike county, on a similar charge were dismissed when it was stated no substantial violation had been committed. Eight other counts against Blue Diamond and eight against Russell Fork were dismissed.

Much of the coal-dust contamination of the river is coming from Virginia mines, conservation officials (See Story No. 11, Page 2)

Three of the four duplex vacation cottages built this year, near the Jenny Wiley State Park boat dock, are shown in photo. All four will be ready for occupancy within the next 10 days.

Sixth District D.A.R. In Meeting at Hazard

The Sixth district meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution was held August 27, at La Citadelle in Hazard with The Breathitt County Chapter, Pikeville Chapter and Jane Owen West Chapter as hostesses.

The general chairman, Mrs. Robert C. Hume, the Sixth District chairman, Mrs. George Cushing, and the district publicity chairman, Mrs. Everett H. Sowards, presided at the meeting.

Mrs. Arthur Fields, regent of Pikeville Chapter, gave the address of welcome with the Breathitt County regent, Mrs. Elisha Smith, and Mrs. Clyde Runyon, regent of the Jane Owen West Chapter, adding to her welcoming remarks. Mrs. Collis P. Hudson, honorary state regent, gave the response.

The presentation of distinguished members was made by Mrs. Robert C. Hume. Presented were Mrs. H. Claggett Hoke, national historian general; Mrs. F. A. Wallis, past historian general; Dr. Winona S. Jones, past historian general and national vice-chairman of the D.A.R. museum in Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Collis P. Hudson, chairman of Resolutions of the National Society, N.I.D.A.R.

The assembly was entertained with mountain ballads sung by Mrs. Galye Kincaid, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Osborne at the organ. Five minute reports were made by the state officers—state chaplain, Mrs. T. Ewing Roberts; recording secretary, Mrs. Wilson Evans; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. E. Bowfield; treasurer, Mrs. C. W. Rhodes; consulting registrar, Mrs. J. Vernon Hardcastle; historian, Mrs. E. L. Porter; librarian, Mrs. J. Everett Bach; district work, Mrs. Robert C. Hume.

Mrs. Fred Osborne, state regent, gave an informative talk in the work of the national and state D.A.R. projects, and also spoke on the topic, "If," which applied to her work as regent and her state chairman. Mrs. George Cushing, Sixth district chairman, introduced the district regents from Pikeville, John Graham, Harmon Station, Indian Mound, Pogue, Hazard, Louisa, Jane Owen West, Breathitt County and Morgan County Chapters. The total attendance for the meeting was 122. All state chairmen gave three-minute reports. A prayer for world peace was given by Mrs. T. Ewing Roberts.

The invitation for the district meeting in 1960 was extended by the Harmon Station chapter, Paintsville, and John Graham Chapter, Prestonsburg. The meeting will be at The Paintsville Country Club.

Mrs. Maude Fitzpatrick has returned home after spending two weeks in Tennessee where she was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Luther Britton, and other relatives.

WEDDING PLANS COMPLETED

Miss Mary Ann Daniels, daughter of Mrs. Winifred Daniels, has completed plans for her marriage to John Walter Picklesimer, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Picklesimer, of Pikeville, Ky.

The custom of open church will be observed. The ceremony will take place Saturday, September 5, at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist church. The hour of the wedding is 6 p.m. The reception will be held in the church Annex immediately following the ceremony.

ENJOY PICNIC

Mrs. Annie Bevins Hays, of Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cook and Bill Bevins, of Georgetown, Ky., visited Mrs. Martha Bevins, of Mare Creek Sunday. Engagement Announced

The Rev. and Mrs. Angelo J. Mongiore, Troy, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Marilyn, to Mr. Lon Clay Hill, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lon C. Hill, of Prestonsburg.

Both Miss Mongiore and Mr. Hill are beginning their junior year's work at Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio, this fall. The wedding is planned for next June. Miss Mongiore's father is pastor of Grace Methodist Church, Troy, New York.

HERE OVER WEEK-END

Mayor William H. Layne and Mrs. Layne, of Morehead, and his mother, Mrs. May W. Layne, Los Angeles, Calif., visited Mrs. Joe M. Davidson here, Saturday overnight, and Virgil Wheatley in Paintsville on Sunday. Mrs. May Layne will spend the week in Paintsville.

SLONE ASSIGNED

Following the kick-off dinner, Radio Station WPRT will begin its third annual radio auction to raise funds. The auction of articles contributed by Floyd county businesses and individuals will continue throughout the week of Sept. 14. All proceeds of the auction will be used for the unfortunate children of Floyd county, since the Floyd County Council for Retarded Children operates wholly within the county.

This year, funds are needed more than ever, it was emphasized, with expansion needed and the number to be served increasing. Without the help afforded in the past—and it is hoped, again this year—by the WHAS Crusade for Children, the Floyd Council would not be able to carry on its work. Every local effort must be made to finance the work, and such effort is required before a grant from the WHAS Crusade fund will be made.

Minor Pace, of Wheelwright, is president of the Floyd Council for Retarded Children which was formed in 1954. Two classes, one for the trainable and one for the educable, opened at Martin, Monday, and one trainable class is taught in Prestonsburg.

The drive for funds will end Sunday, Sept. 13, with seniors of the various high schools over the county setting up "roadblocks" to solicit contributions.

for new buildings, grounds and equipment, $8,967.50; debt service, $192,880.

Main items listed as anticipated revenue for the year are:

Foundation Program fund, $1,423,779.82; property tax, $273,236.35; franchise tax, $291,450.
Included in revenues was an unexpected cash balance from the preceding year of $17,442.84.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our most sincere thanks and appreciation to all our many friends who helped in any way during the loss of our dear husband and father, Irvin Mullins.

Especially do we wish to thank the ministers, donors of food, doctors and nurses of the Miners' Hospital and Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

VISIT IN COUNTY

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Montgomery and children, Molly Sue and Jerry Lee, have returned to their home in Albion, Michigan, after vacationing in the Smokies. En route, they visited Mr. Montgomery's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Montgomery, Henryville, Indiana, and Mrs. Montgomery's mother, Mrs. Molly Ousley, of Risner, this county. Mrs. Montgomery is the former Amanda Ousley.

Miss Hunter, Mr. Johnson Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hunter, of Cliff, Ky., announce the marriage of their daughter, Maudie Hunter, to Mr. Cloyd Johnson, of Prestonsburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Johnson, on Sunday, August 16, at 2 p.m., at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist church here.

The Rev. Ira McMillen, pastor of the church, officiated. The altar was banked with palms. Other altar decorations included a green arch and white gladioli in baskets with candelabra.

Mrs. Ira McMillen rendered the pre-nuptial music during which the tapers were lighted by Larry Johnson, brother of the groom, and Glenn Anderson, Jr.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina-length dress of nylon-chantilly lace with full skirt, long, tapering sleeves with tiny pearl buttons on bodice and high neckline. Her veil of illusion was fastened to a tiny hat. Her only jewelry was pearl earrings. She carried a white Bible with an orchid topped by satin streamers.

Miss Brenda Hunter, sister of the bride, was the only attendant. She wore a pink ballerina-length satin dress and wore a pink carnation corsage.

SPORTS CHATTER
By GORDON MOORE

OPEN FRIDAY
Floyd county's two high school football teams—the Prestonsburg Blackcats and the Wheelwright Maroons—open their 1959 seasons on the local athletic field at 8 p.m., Friday.
New Prestonsburg Coach John Gordon Goble will be facing a team that he tutored last season and another ironical twist will be provided in halfback Bob Smith facing last year's teammates. Smith, a transfer to Prestonsburg high this year, was Wheelwright's leading scorer and ground gainer last season.
The Blackcats will open with a veteran team that won six and dropped four under John Griggs last season, and Ray Brackett has several holdovers from last season's inexperienced eleven that won none, lost seven and tied two.

CHILD DIES
Martin Edward Hall, two-year-old son of Martin and Katherine Osborne Hall, of Hite, died at midnight, Tuesday, at the Paintsville hospital. Besides the parents, he is survived by five brothers and sisters. Funeral rites will be conducted at 2 p.m., Friday from the home, the Rev. Dan Heintzelmann officiating. Burial will be made in the family cemetery at Garth under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Clarence Rice, veteran senior tackle, broke his leg during pre-season practice and is lost for the season.

The Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce for the third successive year will be on hand to present all fans attending Friday's game a free 40-page program that is complete in every aspect.

While it is doubtful that the El-lender maneuver will draw strong support, the possibility does exist that the President's opposition to new river improvements and flood control projects may endanger his foreign aid legislation. Many members of Congress who hitherto have been strong supporters of foreign aid are now complaining that their own areas should receive economic aid before nations overseas do.
Representative Cannon (D-Mo.) himself was responsible for the House vote failing to override the veto. Apparently thinking votes were at hand, with some to spare, for the required two-thirds, he cast his vote against overriding, in order to appear on the economy side.

area have been: Ketrone, Tenn., 21, Jenkins 0; Whitesburg 27, Fleming 6; Hazard 37, Elkhorn City 0; M. C. Napier 7, Fleming 6.
Other games this week-end are Fleming at Cumberland, Friday; Pikeville at Elkhorn City, Friday; Leslie County at M. C. Napier, Friday; Whitesburg at Paintsville, Friday; Hazard at Jenkins, Saturday night.

John E. Buckingham, Pioneer Industrialist, Succumbs At Frankfort

John E. Buckingham, 84, pioneer Eastern Kentucky industrialist and former state treasurer, died Sunday morning at King's Daughters hospital, Frankfort. He had suffered a stroke the preceding day at his home at Frankfort.
He was a native of Paintsville and during his career headed the Bank of Wayland and the Wheelwright agency of the Wayland financial institution in this county. The town of Buckingham on Left Beaver was named for him.
Buckingham was elected State treasurer in 1935, and served during the first Administration of Governor Chandler from 1938 to 1940. During his tenure, the state debt was reduced from $25,000,000 to $5,000,000.
In 1936 he also formulated a plan to reduce interest on the state debt. His plan, in brief, called for using incoming cash to retire the then existing 5 per cent state warrants and issuing 3 per cent warrants in replacement as needed.
An oil portrait of him has hung in the treasurer's office since 1953. He is the only former treasurer so honored.

Two years ago Chandler awarded Buckingham the Governor's Medalion for distinguished public and private service to the Commonwealth.

When Buckingham's portrait was unveiled in the treasurer's office, Governor Lawrence W. Wetherby said:

"I know of no person who has rendered greater service to Kentucky than Mr. Buckingham. The example he set as a public servant could be used by all of us and all of those who follow in public office."
In private life Buckingham's business interests spanned the areas of banking, law, coal mines in East Kentucky, oil fields in West Kentucky, gas, education and newspapers.
He helped organize Tennessee Gas Transmission Company after his term as state treasurer ended.
In addition to the Wayland and Wheelwright banks, Buckingham helped organize a chain of banks in Eastern Kentucky, including Paintsville National Bank, Paintsville Bank & Trust Company, and Ashland National Bank, of which he became president.
He also headed banks at Jenkins and Fleming. He was elected president of the Kentucky Bankers Association in 1940.
Buckingham was born November 9, 1874, at Paintsville. He attended public schools there, but quit at age 13 to become a printer's devil on The Paintsville Paragraph.
In four years he was editor of the paper; in six years, the owner. He sold the paper, then entered Louisville Law School. He was not graduated, but was admitted to the bar in 1895.
Buckingham returned to Paintsville, opened a law office, and studied 18 hours a day for a certificate to teach school. He taught two years at Paintsville, and later was appointed postmaster there.
Buckingham was a Methodist, a Shriner, a Mason, and a member of the Rotary Club and the Kentucky State Bar Association. He was a former president of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce.
He married the former Miss Nolia Tate. She died in 1938. Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Venus B. Browning, Frankfort; Mrs. John Burns, and Miss Martha Alice Buckingham, both of Catlettsburg; a half brother, Hubert Wells, Paintsville, and two half sisters, Mrs. Volney S. Taylor, Portsmouth, Ohio, and Mrs. V. D. Splane, Paintsville; a grandson, Assistant Attorney General John B. Browning, Frankfort, and a great-grandson.
The funeral was conducted Tuesday at Rogers Chapel at Frankfort. Burial was in the Ashland cemetery.

DINNER RALLY SUCCESS, SAID
Democratic Unity Noted At Louisville Meeting; Affair Raises $130,000

Kentucky Democratic leaders demonstrated their support of the state ticket Saturday evening when more than 1,100 attended the $100-a-plate dinner at the Sheraton hotel, Louisville. The dinner was the kick-off to finance the fall campaign of Bert T. Combs and his running mates.
Eighteen Floyd countians attended the dinner and similar large groups from nearby counties of the Seventh Congressional district were present. Thirteen hundred tickets were sold, according to W. H. Baker, secretary of the Democratic state finance committee, bringing $130,000 to the party coffers.
The affair was the largest fund-raising dinner in the state's history, it was said. Solidarity was the theme expressed by the top speakers.
Democratic nominee Bert Combs said:

"We have built no fences. We plan no reprisals. We seek no revenge. The issue and the conflicts which seem to divide us are puny in comparison to the great programs and the great issues which unite us."
Although Combs' primary opponent, Harry Lee Waterfield, bought a ticket he and Governor Chandler did not attend. There was, however, a large delegation from the First Congressional district, many of them former Waterfield supporters. Typical of comment from the First District was that of Leonard Jones, a native of Floyd county, and former county judge of Marshall county, who told a member of the Floyd group that Western Kentucky Democrats were united behind the ticket.

Attending the dinner from this county were Paul Combs, Barkley Sturgill, Troy Sturgill, A. B. Meade, Mosey Johnson, Hollie Conley, Ray Allen, W. W. Burchett, DuRan Moore, Clive Akers, Oliver Hall, Henry Stephens, John Allen, Fred Dickerson, Winston Ford, Donald L. Meade, Mrs. Mary Irene McIntosh and Fairce Johnson.
Wilson Wyatt, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, said that "the Gibraltar of Democracy is holding firm." He said that he had traveled thousands of miles since the primary and found that every section of Kentucky was closing ranks for a winning campaign.
Six of Kentucky's Congressional delegation were present, including Carl D. Perkins, Hindman. Former Governors Earle Clements and Lawrence Weatherby spoke briefly. Former Governor Keen Johnson was not present due to illness.

Oneida, Sure Winner As Combs and Mobley On Opposing Tickets
It will be impossible for Oneida Institute, Oneida, Ky., to lose in the forthcoming gubernatorial elections, Bert Combs, Democratic candidate for the highest position, was a student there in the early 1920's. Pleaz Mobley, running on the opposite ticket for Lieutenant Governor, is a graduate of the Institute.
Both men will take time out from their campaigning to attend the annual homecoming festivities at the school, September 5, and will be the main speakers at the banquet and business meeting of the alumni. This year the alumni is expected to develop a plan to aid in the furnishing of the new dormitory. In the past they have aided students with scholarships.
Barkley Moore, public relations director of the alumni group, urges every graduate, former student, teacher and interested friend of Oneida to be present for the occasion. Registration will begin at 8 a.m., with activities lasting through the day. Featured for the afternoon will be the annual battle between the present Oneida baseball team and the "old-timers" nine. Sometime during the day a wreath will be placed on the grave of James Anderson Burns, founder of the unique school. Burns believed that the mountain children should be taught that in education and not in fighting could they find the answer to many of their problems.

Castle Participates
FORT CAMPBELL, KY.—Army Sgt. James W. Castle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Castle, of Wheelwright, Ky., recently participated with the 101st Airborne Division's 327th Infantry in "Exercise Eagle Buildup" at Cumberland Lake in Kentucky.
The exercise featured such ranger and commando type training as descending cliffs, water crossing and operations, and scouting and patrolling missions.
Sergeant Castle, a fire team leader in the infantry's Company C at Fort Campbell, entered the Army in October, 1950.
He is a 1950 graduate of Mann (W. Va.) high school.

States can be predicted with reasonable accuracy. Investigative work by various state fish and wildlife agencies as well as the Tennessee Valley Authority and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service have shown the following pattern, with some variation, is almost a certainty in these reservoirs:
"Game species thrive at first because of a superabundance of food and spawning space. Competition and predation by other species is at a minimum, therefore, survival and growth of game species is very good. As a result there is phenomenal fishing for a time. Within two to five years this wave of rather good fishing has usually passed and mediocre fishing sets in. Species such as buffalo, carp, and gizzard had become increasingly abundant and sport fishing tends to decline. At this point a majority of fishermen leave and seek newer reservoirs, or stop fishing altogether. That is, unless remedial measures are taken to restore the fishing, or at least prevent a further deterioration. In a general sense fishery administrators must make a simple choice between two courses of action: (1) Keep hands off and let nature take her course' (nature's course rarely leads to an improvement and often the situation grows worse.) (2) Attempt to recoup the fishing through management. Although the choice is a simple one, the second course, if elected, is not. So little is known concerning fish population dynamics (the relationship of various species and groups of fishes to their environment and to each other) that management in its present stages is largely experimental and intuitive. Thus the Fishery Biologist must 'feel' his way in many cases as he probes beyond previous knowledge in the never ending quest to improve fishing. The success of his work is best determined by random samplings of the fish population and the catch of a large number of fishermen over a long period of time.
"Let us now focus on the results of the management done in Dewey Lake, especially the selective poisoning of gizzard shad and rough fish. Has this work helped fishing or has it not?
"The catch of a representative number of fishermen creel censused in 1955, at the beginning of the shad and rough fish control program, will be compared with the catch of fishermen three years later, 1958. In 1955 fishermen were catching fish at the rate of one fish every two hours at an average cost of $2.26 per fisherman per trip. The average size of bass taken was 9.5 inches. The 1958 census revealed that the catch had doubled and the fishermen were taking at the rate of one fish per hour. Although the average cost per fisherman per trip had increased to $2.51, the cost per fish had decreased because of the improved fishing success. In addition the average bass taken in 1958 was a whopping 15.6 inches in length. The average crappie was a satisfying 8.3 inches in length.
"What is behind this change in the fish catch? Studies of the populations in various coves tell the story. In 1954, prior to the selective killing of shad and rough fish, there were 102 pounds of shad per acre, 27 pounds of rough fish, and 17 pounds of game fish. In 1958 there were only 36 pounds of shad per acre and 5 pounds of rough fish, but game fish had climbed to 25 pounds per acre. Thus the immediate benefits to the fisherman are apparent. It is also apparent that benefits of this work will continue to accrue.
"Now for a look at the future. Prospects for the establishment of a walleye fishery appear good. Walleye fry stocked during April, 1958, had reached a length of 7 to 10 inches by October (good growth by any comparison) and appear to have survived in good numbers. Stocking of walleye will be continued in 1959. Also, white bass will be stocked in Dewey in large numbers. Establishment of a white bass fishery should provide additional sport fishing without detracting from the good black bass fishing. The white bass has some definite advantage in an impoundment containing gizzard shad. The young-of-the-year shad rapidly grow to a size too large for the young-of-the-year black bass to eat, consequently growth is slow for the black bass during the first two years of its life. Not so with the white bass, which spawns early and grows so rapidly that it is seldom outdistanced by shad of the same age.
"To say that future fishing in Dewey Lake will be excellent is wishful thinking without evidence; however, there is a wealth of evidence to substantiate the statement that fishing will be good in Dewey Lake in 1959 and beyond, provided the present management is continued."

William Sidney Trivette, Age 68, Pikeville, Dies; Was Republican Leader

William Sidney Trivette, 68, self-educated attorney and former United States commissioner for Eastern Kentucky, died Wednesday, August 26.

He was Pikeville police judge at the time of his death. He also had served as chief of police, city attorney, Pike county commissioner, assistant county judge, and master commissioner of the Pike Circuit Court.

Trivette was a member of one of the area's prominent families. He was a Republican party leader, and had served several times as county G.O.P. chairman. For 27 years he was chairman of the county 4-H Club Council.

He is survived by his wife; a son, John Bill Trivette, Pikeville high school basketball coach, and three daughters.

The funeral was conducted Friday.

Sheep Growers Mailed Referendum Ballots; Proposals Are Noted

Ballots for voting in the September referendum on the lamb and wool marketing development program are now being mailed to producers in Floyd county, Chairman Daniel Akers of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee announces.

The referendum will determine whether or not deductions will continue to be made from producer payments earned under the wool incentive program. Funds collected are used by the American Sheep Producers Council to carry out a program of advertising, promotion, and related activities under an agreement with the Secretary of Agriculture.

The agreement, which has been in effect since the 1955 marketing year, will be extended for three years if approved in the September Referendum. Producers having two-thirds of the volume of production represented in the referendum must approve if the agreement is to be extended.

Deductions from wool and lamb payments under the new agreement would not exceed 1 cent per pound for shorn wool and 5 cents per hundredweight for unshorn lambs. Deductions at these rates have been made from payments for each marketing year since 1955.

Producers may vote throughout September. The entire month has been designated as the voting period to encourage as large a turnout as possible. Any producer who believes he is eligible to vote and does not receive a ballot within the next few days should get in touch with the county ASC office. To be counted, ballots must be received by the county ASC office not later than September 30. Chairman Akers urged producers to mark and return their ballots as soon as they are received.

Flying Service Operator Decides To Sell Plane; Gasoline Theft, Reason

Carl Wise, of Prestonsburg, who has been operating an air service from the David landing field, said this week that continued depredations by thieves have caused him to decide to sell his plane and go out of the flying business.

"I had a pretty good, little flying business started, but when people want to go by plane they're usually in a rush and don't want to have to wait till you fuel up," he said. Because of theft of gasoline from his plane on several occasions waiting is just what his customers have had to do when he goes to the field and finds the gas tank empty.

Russell May and C. J. McNally, both of Prestonsburg, joint-owners of a new plane, have moved their plane to Huntington, W. Va., after suffering loss of gasoline. On one occasion a door of the plane was damaged as thieves sought to get at a can of gasoline locked inside the craft.

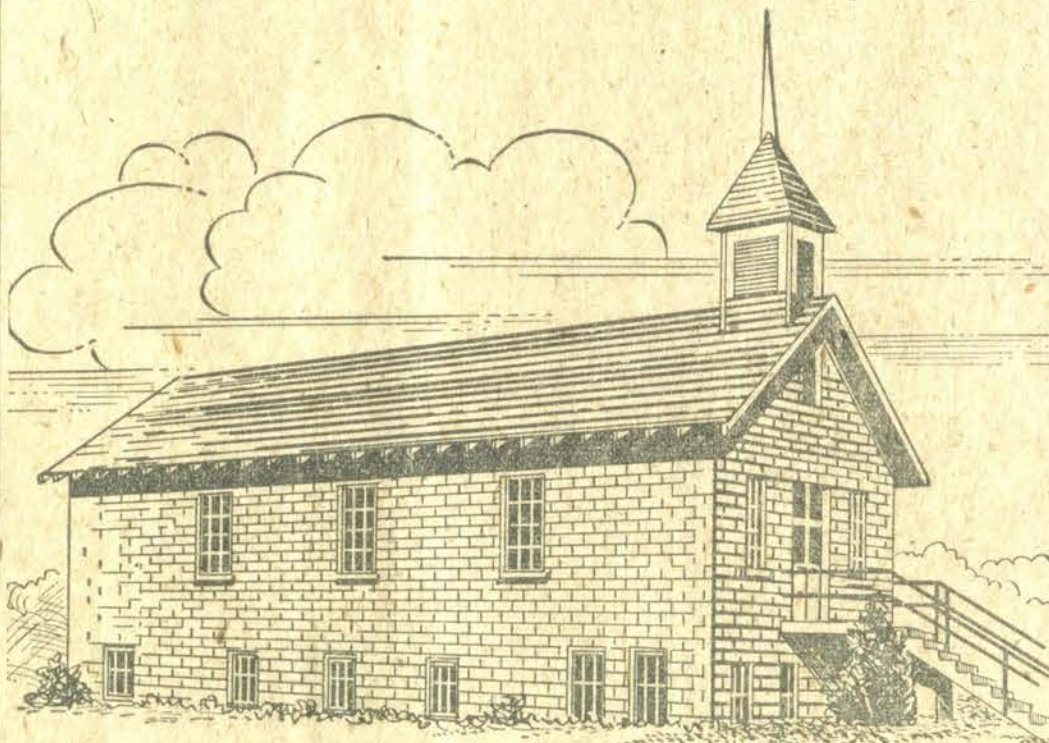

Wise said he had watched his plane all one night and that a vigil has otherwise been kept but that the thieves have avoided being detected.

HOMECOMING PLANNED BY VOGEL-DAY CHURCH

The Vogel-Day Methodist church at Harold will have a homecoming, Sept. 5-6. The building was erected in 1949 under the supervision of the Rev. Robert Anderson, pastor.

The congregation of the Vogel-Day Chapel will observe the tenth anniversary of moving into the present building at Harold this week-end with a homecoming.

Saturday evening at 7:30 a special program of fellowship has been planned at the church with special music and quartet numbers by the Sandy Valley quartet. Films taken of the church activities over the years will be shown. Sunday, Sept. 6, the Rev. Harry T. Barnett, Jr., pastor, will deliver the morning message, followed by a covered dish dinner and at 2:30 p.m., there will be an address by the Rev. Everett Brown.

The church which today is known by the name of Vogel-Day Chapel was originally known as Austin Chapel. The church first took its name from Rev. Austin. In later years it was commonly known as the Laynesville Methodist Church and charge. The deed was witnessed on October 25, 1897.

The congregation continued to worship through the years under the leadership of various appointments of the Methodist Conference. In 1945-1946, the church was served as an afternoon appointment by Dr. C. E. Vogel, pastor of the Methodist church in Pikeville. He also conducted a prayer service each week on Tuesday evenings. At the close of the conference year, the church wanted to give him something for his services. He returned the $150 which was given to him back to the church and suggested that they start a building fund with the money. This inspired the small congregation of some 15-20 members to think about having a new church.

In 1946, at the Kentucky Annual Conference, the Big Sandy Valley Larger Parish was established and Rev. Robert L. Anderson was appointed to direct the project. Because of their closeness to Pikeville, where the Parish pastor was to reside, both Laynesville and the Betsy Layne Methodist churches were included in the Larger Parish.

The project to build a new church building on land donated by E. F. Hagan actually got under way around the first of June, 1949. On June 14th, the concrete foundation was poured with the help of about 18 men and boys who had volunteered their labor.

The first service in the new church was a prayer meeting on Thursday evening, September 1, 1949. The church had been completed in three months. The following Sunday morning, September 4, the first preaching service was held and seven new members were received into the church. On Sept. 12, the first revival meeting was begun under the leadership of Evangelist E. R. Overly. Six members were added to the church from this meeting.

Book Of Job Schedules Re-Run in 1960

"The Book of Job," a religious drama, will be presented again next summer at Pine Mountain State Park, near Pineville.

The play's publicity chairman, South Bevin, said the outdoor presentation had a financially successful season before closing this summer. (Bevin was formerly connected with radio station WPRT here and is now manager of the Pineville station. His publicity work contributed to the success of the drama.)

Pineville citizens and businessmen underwrote its 1959 budget of $12,500. Next year's budget will be about $4,000 higher, Bevin said. The play, an adaptation of the King James version of the Biblical Book of Job, was presented by the Maskrafters of Georgetown College. The same group also put it on at the Brussels World Fair. It was presented in Laurel Cove, a natural amphitheater in the park.

Lexington was the birthplace of the first newspaper in Kentucky, John Bradford, without any previous experience as a printer or editor, published the first edition on August 11, 1787.

We Want to Change!

For Joe I. May to Represent the Children and Teachers in Educational Dist. No. 5

THE ONE AND ONLY

Once in a great while I chance upon a discussion of words, writing style and the like. It's a fascinating subject but there's always the danger that the purist will wind up behind an "at." So, for this session, let us consider only one much-abused word.

It's "unique." May Noah Webster, Sam'l Johnson and those others who delved and dove into the morass of words that is our language forgive us! "It was an unique party," "Isn't that unique?" and so on—you've heard them all.

Well, it isn't unique unless it is the only one of its kind, nothing ever like it, period. This is a word so commonly used incorrectly that its true meaning may, indeed, be changed "by popular demand." That's why, when I saw it used so correctly in a recent article that it brought me up short. The sentence, or part of it, said, "It is an unique." So there! Unique, isn't it?

NEEDED FOR FURTHER REFERENCE

I think I have dwelt at some length in columns past on modern contraptions which I consider infernal machines as they apply to me, personally. I refer to the camera and the tape-recorder. Ah, my friends, I have had some sad experiences with those gadgets.

One "candid shot" which I considered a rank injustice might have brought on a damage suit, had the photographer not been in the family, and that tape recorder that was hauled from behind a chair in which I had slumped while making certain desultory remarks was lucky not to have been reduced to rubble, verily.

Yet I wished for both, the other afternoon, when a certain youngster caught his first fish. The movie camera would have recorded his wild, excited dash up the bank, the startled fish bouncing along behind him. I wished for a tape recorder, so that I might play it for him a few years hence. We tossed a fish back into the lake, and the recorder would have preserved for posterity his anguished wail, "Bah! I wanted to hold it by the TAIL!"

The old and the new join hands in the Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service's exhibits in the Exhibition building.

OLD SURVEYOR'S LEDGER REVEALS VIGNETTES OF BIG SANDY LIFE

By HENRY P. SCALF

Moses Stanford Layne, landowner and surveyor of Ivel, died 31 years ago. Much of the story of his life is indicated from Floyd county court records but it is from his old ledger that we find evidence of his day-to-day activities.

The Layne ledger, now the property of his daughter, Mrs. Ora Baisden, Oak Hill, O., has inscribed in it more than mere accounts. Here are land and road survey notes, wages of farm hands and what they did, comments on the death of his first wife and copies of legal instruments.

The book is a bit of the history of the time, for patiently he wrote details of transactions that depict the economic conditions of the region. He lived to see much of history and change.

Born in 1838, one of the nine sons of Lindsay and Adeline Meade Layne, and a grandson of the pioneer settler, James Shannon Layne, he lived through the Mexican War and remembered settling volunteers across the river when he was a mere boy. These men, who flipped him a coin for his services at the mouth of Big Mud Creek were going away to join Scott and Taylor. He married in 1859 and soon afterward men marched to fight under the Stars and Stripes or the Stars and Bars. Men later went to Cuba and died in the steaming jungles. Bravely, 20 years later, other young men shipped overseas to fight the Kaiser.

When he was a young man, large acres of vacant land lay awaiting the surveyor's chain to measure it out for some enterprising claimant. "Sant" Layne surveyed tracts of good but unclaimed land almost within a stone's throw of where he lived on the historic Harry Stratton farm. He lived to see the rising pressure of population and the division of land around him into town lots. Born when the westward march was getting in full swing, he died years after the frontier was gone.

Layne wrote little of a biographical nature but he could have inscribed in the old volume how he and his father, Lindsay Layne, voted at Lanesville in 1860 for Abraham Lincoln. His father, staunch Unionist, was told if he came to the polls that he might be killed for rabid Southern sympathizers were vowing to bring guns to bar any votes for the rail-splitter of Illinois. Moses heard his father relate the threats of his neighbors. Father and son decided to vote.

Silence reigned around the polls at Lanesville when the two Laynes appeared. Men sat or stood with guns to hear the voices of the voters as they cried out their preference. Until Moses and Lindsay arrived no one had dared to vote for Mr. Lincoln.

The clerk asked Lindsay, afterward quartermaster in the 39th Ky. Mt. Inf., U. S. A., for whom he wanted to vote.

"Put me down for Honest Abe," he said, and Moses, standing near, cried, "Put down another one."

These were the only votes Abraham received in Lanesville precinct.

He married Surrana Clark and they settled to housekeep in the old two-story log house built by Col. Harry Stratton in 1796 south of the mouth of Tom's Creek. It was in this home that the first Methodist class in the Big Sandy valley was conducted by Rev. Cornelius McGuire. James Shannon Layne and his wife, granddaughters of Moses, were present, and he related hundreds of times the story of the founding of Methodism in the old home.

Moses Layne wrote poignantly in the old ledger of the death of his wife, Surrana. A page is headed, "December 19th, 1893," the day she died.

"Moses S. Layne and Surrana Clark were married December 22nd, 1859," he wrote, "and she deceased December 19th, 1893, and beared (buried) December 22nd, 1893. Lived together 34 years to a day from the marriage until beared."

"Surrana Layne deceased. . . about ten o'clock or a little later," her husband set out in the record. "Dr. S. M. Ferguson said a little after ten."

"My wife, Surrana Layne, said all the time of her sickness that she intended to do all in her power to go to a better place and had set out for that purpose and a few weeks before her death she said to me and the boys and A. J. Stratton that she had never wronged or harmed anyone and had a good heart and intended to meet (her?) old father and my child, Melinda."

He continues with details on his wife's death and her last conversation with him. She talked to Adam Stratton of her approaching death and conversed with her husband and his brother, Broadus Layne. She expressed her wish as to the disposition of a mare and colt. Her doctor, S. M. Ferguson, advised against too much conversation but she ignored him and discussed the many things she wished arranged before she died.

Moses made an entry on the page preceding the story of his wife's last days and wrote of his second marriage.

"Moses S. Layne and Tella Dotson were married August 29th, 1894, at A. J. Stratton's between 5 & 6 o'clock in the evening on Wednesday and the infare was at Jackson Dotson's Friday, the 7th day of September 1894. . . Moses S. Layne lived single 7 months & 29 days until married the second time."

Layne's agricultural activities must have been usually large for the mountain area for he had accounts with scores of persons who worked for him and took their wages in corn or other produce as well as money. People, all now deceased, head pages in the old ledger and a study of these accounts is revealing of the economic conditions that existed in the valley before the coming of the railway.

There is the account with Wilson Crum of April, 1893, "Wilson Crum cr. team hauling walnut logs and oak 10 1/2 days with three yokes of cattle and 2 days with 2 yokes, in all 12 1/2 days."

Frank May, George Holloway, George May, Benjamin Burchett, Hatcher Lewis, Dan Salmons, Jeff Lewis, Frank Burchett, David Tackett and Alexander Goble and many others all either worked for him or had charge accounts for corn.

The Hatcher Lewis account is typical of the meticulous detail with which Layne kept his book.

Lewis and Benjamin Burchett, both indebted for corn, worked it out by making rails. "Cr. 387 rails (rails) made by Hatcher Lewis and Benjamin Burchett. Cr. by 233 rails at the same time and put them on the upper field, in all 620. These rails was made April, 1895, and in March and April 1896. In all made was 620." He hired Dan Salmons to haul rails and there is due credit to him in corn.

Frank Burchett worked a day at the cane mill and was "Paid in corn." John Burchett hoed cane and corn and was paid in corn. Many farm laborers were paid in wheat. Scores received their wages in money for cutting corn, shucking corn, working "in the logs" or cutting briars. Rail making was usually paid for at the rate of 50c per hundred.

Layne bought general merchandise at the store of J. P. Layne, a cousin, at the mouth of Mare Creek. He kept exact account of orders sent to his kinsman, J. P. (Pam) Layne's clerk was Edmund Clark.

"Bought of J. P. Layne, July 11th, 1893, fifty cents worth of coffee by L. D. Layne for which I gave an order and signed by name, M. S. Layne," is one entry. Another entry shows he was taking no chances on an error in the books. "May 5, 1893, got J. P. Layne fifty cents of coffee and paid cash to Edmund Clark by L. D. Layne when J. P. Layne was down river with timber." Again: "April 30th, 1893, got from J. P. Layne store 5c in soda & fifty cents in coffee. Got by Tom Lewis the night before you (J. P. Layne?) run your timber & I wanted some bacon and couldn't get any." Again he notes that he bought 50 cents worth of coffee "when Lyn and Broad Layne was here."

A final entry is quoted of Moses' business association with his storekeeper and the clerk: "April 24th, 1893, I gave an order to J. P. Layne store for 1 No. 2 Plow Land side & sent Frank May boys and they. . . came back & left the order with Edmund Clark who was Pam Laynes clerk & the Clerk kept the order & on 25th day of April I sent Frank May & demanded the order & Clark said he had torn up the order. I gave the order & signed by name to it. Moses S. Layne." A very refreshing entry if there was dispute over the account.

Layne made surveys of vacant land for others, many being duly noted in the ledger. Alvin Webb entered 80 acres on Beaver Creek, J. W. Mayo enter 25 acres "on the back of the land owned by them," and Alexander Goble has a survey made of 100 acres on "the waters of Sowers Creek and on Brandy Keg." D. F. Sellards enters 80 acres "on the waters of Johns Creek, August 8th, 1890. . . There are many other notes on these land entries for Floyd countians.

Road surveying for the county occupied a considerable amount of his time. He had an account with states "For surveying a road from the mouth of Johns Branch to the Pike county line and under court order bearing date Sept. 5, 1892. Spencer Boyd and Lafayette Spears, chairman. M. S. Layne, 2 days, $5.00. Filing report, $1.00. Total $7.00." Boyd and Spears received $2.00 per day, according to the notes. The Johns Branch to Pike county line road entry is typical of the detail with which Moses Layne described his work.

Moses S. Layne and his second wife Tella Dotson, who was a teacher, reared children at the old Stratton house at Ivel. Tragedy struck in 1904 but there is no reference to it in his ledger. We are indebted to the reminiscences of their daughter, Mrs. Baisden, for the story of the Small Pox Year, as written by Mrs. Inez Livingston, daughter of Mrs. Baisden who is an instructor at Eastern State College.

"In the year 1904 there was an epidemic of small pox and even the best doctors were unable to do much. As a boy, grandfather (Moses) had been vaccinated as had grandmother and Aunt Cinda Layne. The fact that these three persons had been vaccinated probably saved the lives of many members of the family. They were less affected by the disease and were able to help care for the others."

"Grandmother (Tella) Layne relates that grandfather became sick and had gone to bed. A Dr. Walters came to the house to buy some hay. He came in the room where grandfather was and asked him how he felt. Because of the small pox scare, grandfather pulled up his sleeve and said, 'I've got the small pox.' Dr. Walters answered, as he ran out of the room, 'You sure have.' The doctor was right. Next morning grandfather was worse and Aunt Cinda was feeling ill. Just before dinner three neighbor girls came for a visit and while they were there some men came and put up a sign, a yellow quarantine flag. Men were posted as guards some distance from the house on either side to stop people from coming by the road in front of the house. People coming up or down by the house would leave the road and go around through the orchard along the river and come back on the road farther away from the house."

This was in the early part of February, 1904, and the Layne family saw no living person other than the guards at a distance until the following April. The quarantined persons were my grandparents; their two children, Ora and Elbert; Cinda and Lee Layne and their baby; Morgan Layne, James S. Layne, Virgie Damron and the three neighbors whose names I do not recall. Mother was nine years old and Virgie Damron, whom grandmother raised from a baby, was the same age. Elbert, an uncle of mine, was 14 months old.

"Every member of the group had the small pox. Not even a doctor would come near them. Sometimes, however, grandmother would leave a note in a big sycamore tree below the house and the guards would deliver it and return an answer. They had to leave one note to find out something to do for Elbert because he couldn't see for six weeks. The doctor sent word to make an onion poultice for his eyes. Grandmother says, 'The doctor was afraid to come near. We never had a dose of medicine but he sent us a little (See Story No. 20, Page 4)

NOTICE OF SALE

Woodrow Hall and Okie Hall, Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered and entered at the August term, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction on the 8th day of September, 1959, at 10 o'clock, a.m., same being the first day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, upon a credit of 6 months, the following described property, to-wit:

A certain tract or parcel of land lying in Floyd County, Kentucky, on Left Beaver Creek, and bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a culvert near the mouth of Rileys Branch; thence running down the state Highway No. 122 100 feet more or less to lower corner of stone building thence a straight line to a large stone near an apple tree on creek bank; thence up with left Beaver Creek to mouth of Rileys branch near a mulberry tree; thence up with Rileys branch to the beginning, so as to include all land in said boundary.

A ten foot roadway over said land bordering on Left Beaver Creek is reserved.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 19 day of August, 1959.

MARTIN

By BETTY PREFLATISH

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Elswick, formerly of Martin, now of Near Shelby, Ky., were visiting relatives here Sunday. While here they visited Mrs. Florence Crisp, who continues to be ill at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Lovejoy, of Columbus, Ohio, were visiting her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Skeans, here Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Skeans have as their houseguest this week her father Willie Johnson, of Halo.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Martin Free Will Baptist church held an ice cream social Friday at the home of Mrs. Ollie May, of Manton. Several members attended. John Homer Goodin, of Church Falls, Va., Oscar Herbert Goodin, and Harry (Babe) Goodin, of Detroit, Mich., were all called home by the death of their mother, Mrs. Oscar Goodin. Mrs. Goodin's many friends in this vicinity extend their sympathy to the bereaved family.

Dean Branham, of the Air Force, is spending a furlough home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Branham.

Mr. and Mrs. Urban Petero, of Washington, D. C., have spent several days at home with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Petero and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Branham.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hinkle, of Dayton, Ohio, have been the recent guests here of her mother, Mrs. Jack Blackburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Estill Newsome and children are visiting relatives in Charleston, W. Va., this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Francis and children, of Dayton, Ohio, have returned home after spending two weeks vacation here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Maggard, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Allen have been on their vacation. They have been touring California and other points of interest in the west.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Mullins and son Gary and daughter Karen, of Richmond, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hayes, of New Castle, Ind., spent Thursday afternoon and night with her aunt, Betty Preflatish. They were en route home from Cherry Point, N. C., and the Smokies where they had spent two weeks vacation as the guests of Marine S/Sgt. and Mrs. Harry Preflatish, of Cherry Point.

A new, attractive ceramic material is Pyroceram, which was originally developed for use in the nose cones of missiles. Utensils of this material can be used in the oven and broiler or on top of the range. Pyroceram is highly resistant to temperature changes and can go directly from the freezer to the stove without breakage danger. However, it is quite expensive.

In the 1920's he tore down the ancient Harry Stratton house but left the log smokehouse to stand and decay. It had been the quarters for Stratton's slave domestics. High on a point, overlooking the site, Layne erected a modern home. The age of these two houses span the entire period of Eastern Kentucky history.

Moses S. Layne died in 1928 in his ninetieth year in the house on the hill and lies buried in the family cemetery across a narrow valley on a sloping ridge covered with great cedars.

His wife, Arelia Dotson Layne, survived to the age of 83 and died in 1955 in Ohio. She left with her descendants a legacy of reminiscences of life in the ancient Harry Stratton house, for long decades the center of a barony of land over which she presided with Moses Sanford Layne.

Bourbon Stokkyard, Louisville, received its name because it is on the site of Bourbon House, a drover's tavern of the early days where, according to tradition, Louis Philippe later king of France, stayed for a time.

NOTICE—PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given that the City Planning Commission for the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, will hold a Public Hearing at the City Hall in Floyd County, Kentucky, at 7:30 o'clock p.m., on Friday, September 4.

The purpose of this meeting is to conduct a Public Hearing on the proposed Subdivision Regulations and Major Road Plan for the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky. These Subdivision Regulations and Major Road Plan would affect all land lying within the city of Prestonsburg and all land within five miles of the corporate limits of said city, or the Subdivision Regulation Area as defined on the Major Road Plan for the city of Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

This hearing is being conducted as provided in KRS 100.740. Copies of the proposed Subdivision Regulations and Major Road Plan may be examined at the office of the City Clerk of Prestonsburg, Kentucky at the City Building and attendance at the hearing by all interested parties is invited.

THE JENNY WILEY ROCKS ON LITTLE MUD LICK CREEK

On Kentucky Highway 172 on Little Mud Lick Creek seven miles from Paintsville are the Jenny Wiley Rocks, which includes the cavern in which she was imprisoned as a slave domestic by the Indians in late 1789 and early 1790. Mrs. Wiley, wife of Thomas Wiley of Ab's valley, Virginia, was captured by a mongrel band of Indians October 1, 1789, and her children and brother massacred.

It was from this cave on Little Mud Lick Creek that Mrs. Wiley escaped either in March or April of 1790 to Harman's Station near the mouth of Johns Creek. She afterward removed with her husband to the Big Sandy valley and died in 1831.

The Jenny Wiley Rocks, known by that name to the residents of the area for generations, present a rugged and picturesque view to tourists. A large part of the cave (shown as a dark shadow in the picture) was blasted away in the construction of the highway. It is a much photographed spot and is visited yearly by hundreds, mostly from the section in which the story of the Wiley captivity is known.

The First National Bank presents these pictures in recognition of a rich scenic and historic heritage.

Heart Disease Fatal To Ethel Fraley, 17, At P'burg Hospital

Miss Ethel Fraley, 17-year-old daughter of Wash and Eliza Spradlin Fraley, of Stratton Branch, died Sunday afternoon at the Prestonsburg General hospital of heart disease. Heart complications followed an attack of rheumatic fever 11 years ago.

Surviving, besides the parents, are eight brothers and sisters, Jim, John, Mary, Paul, Catherine, Benny, Ruby and Angeline Fraley, all at home. Funeral rites were conducted from the Fraley residence Wednesday afternoon by the Revs. Moses Kitchen and Robert Martin, and burial was made in the family cemetery on Stratton Branch under direction of the Moore Funeral Home.

Nikita Invited To Celebration With Aunt Josie

Russian Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev was invited today to be guest of honor at a countywide celebration honoring Aunt Josie Jackson Sizemore, of Manchester, Clay county, on her 113th birthday Sunday, September 13.

Sheriff T. C. Sizemore sent the invitation last week to Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, saying that "Kentucky's oldest living woman has requested that I contact you with an invitation to the Soviet leader to visit her party and make a speech."

The Clay county sheriff added that this would give the Russian leader an opportunity to see the coal mines in Eastern Kentucky and to observe "our true Democratic way of living."

Sizemore said that Bert T. Combs, Democratic gubernatorial nominee and Wilson W. Wyatt, candidate for lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket, have indicated that they plan to attend Aunt Josie's birthday celebration. Pleaz Mobley, GOP nominee for lieutenant governor, has accepted an invitation to appear on the program.

The Russian premier also has been invited to visit a Casey county family and taste Kentucky country ham on his visit to this country.

The invitation was sent airmail last week by L. J. (Josh) Wells, principal of Middlesburg high school and a Casey county farmer who deals in country hams.

Wells, who formerly served as principal of the Clay City elementary school in Clay county, said he suggested to the Soviet leader that he bring with him some of the equally famous Russian vodka.

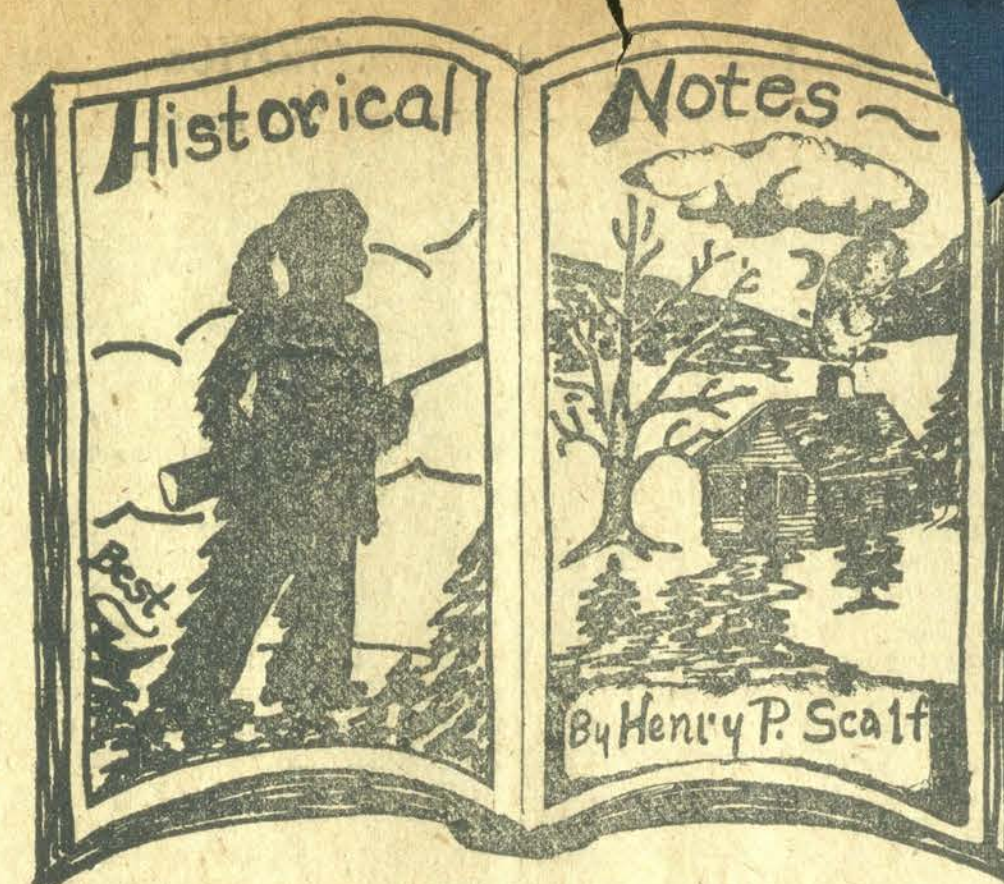

The Russian leader has already been invited to attend the Kentucky State Fair at Louisville while visiting this country.

ANCESTRY OF THE HIGHLANDER

While studying at the University of Paris, (France) Dr. Josiah H. Combs, now of Fort Worth, Texas, wrote a Ph.D. dissertation in 1925 on the Southern Highlander.

The three chapters of the thesis are Topography of the Southern Highlanders, Ancestry of the Highlanders, and Music of the Folk Song. "Note that I use the word, 'Southern,' almost everywhere," Combs writes, "but I had in mind largely the Kentucky Highlands."

Ancestry of the Highlanders is Chapter II and is of interest as scholars have debated for a century over the origin of the highlanders of the Appalachians and only in the last quarter of a century have they, under the guidance and writing of men like Combs, come to the conclusion that people of the region are predominantly English.

Combs found that Edgar Allan Poe first mentions the Southern highlander while a student at the University of Virginia. Poe said they were savage and inhabited caves. Worse than that has been said afterward by scores of writers and to properly present the highlander as he actually was has been a long uphill fight by his friends.

Dr. Leonard W. Roberts, of Morehead State College, is highly critical of such things as the Al Capp comic strip that portrays the mountaineer as an illiterate buffoon. Those are the things that literate highlanders object to as derogatory to the area even though the strip is widely read and all of us laugh at the antics of Capp's characters.

Back to Combs' chapter on the ancestry of the highlanders.

"The highlander was first discovered during the Second War with England (1812-1815). Commodore Perry placed him in the rigging of his ships in the Battle of Lake Erie to pick off British officers of the opposing fleet; also, it is said, to prevent his running too far into the British lines, in the infantry, and disobeying orders! He won the Battle of New Orleans, where his aim was deadly. But he continued to lie dormant in a long Rip Van Winkle sleep—until the guns of later wars awakened him, as they have never failed to do. He almost won the Mexican War, alone, while the New Englander was trying his best to lose it, as he had done in the Second War with England."

Combs notes the contribution the highlander made to the Union armies and that 180,000 of them enlisted to save the union. He mentions that Marshall Foch decorated Alvin C. York, a Tennessee mountaineer, as the greatest individual hero of World War I.

"Much has been written of the three great 'reservoirs' from which they are often said to have migrated, central and western Pennsylvania, and the Piedmont section of North Carolina," Combs wrote. "The assumption that the early pioneers did come from these reservoirs throws no light on the ancestry of the highlanders since there is no evidence that the former, pushing their way southwestward from Pennsylvania, stopped to reside in the mountains; they sought the smiling, level country further west, in Kentucky and Tennessee. The further assumption that the early pioneers were of Scottish or of Scottish-Irish extraction, which is improbable, leaves the question still unsolved, since the highlands had no noticeable population before the year 1800."

Theories of ancestry are built upon conjecture and hear-say, Combs thinks. No accurate survey or accumulation of data has ever been made on the subject. He discounts the accuracy of the Scottish or Scottish-Irish theories and is critical of the term, Anglo-Saxon, as too vague.

Combs points out what has been much overlooked and that is the fact that while the Scotch-Irish were Presbyterians there were none or few of that faith in the highlands until the missionaries came and organized churches. The religious faith of the highlanders was that of the Primitive Baptists.

"No attempt is made here to ignore the Scottish and Irish elements in the United States," Combs said. "There is no reason to doubt that considerable numbers of both migrated from the British Isles, the Scottish before the Revolution, and the Irish during the nineteenth century. But the number of Scottish has always been overestimated and the importance of their exploits exaggerated. It is freely admitted that the majority of Scottish immigrants probably came from Ulster and that they settled largely in Pennsylvania, later crossing the mountains to the south, but not settling in the highlands, with the exception of parts of West Virginia, the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia, and a few counties of western Maryland. But the population of these same sections today is more English than Scottish."

"An examination of the telephone directories in the highland towns reveals a great preponderance of English names as elsewhere over the South. Among the highlanders one meets with such historic first names as Cicero, Vergil, Homer, Napoleon, etc. There is at least one highlander who manages to struggle along under the flamboyant premonition of 'Cecil Calvert Yord Baltimore,' and his cognomen is Noble. However, these historic first names for his children in 'history books,' which books are almost the only ones he reads, when he reads at all. Reading fiction is against his principles, because, says he, 'Hit (it) ain't (is not) so.'"

HERE'S HOW YOU BENEFIT BY DOING ALL YOUR SHOPPING LOCALLY

When you buy from your hometown merchants you get:

1. HONEST VALUES
2. AMPLE SELECTION
3. INSTANT DELIVERY, SERVICE AND ADJUSTMENT
4. MORE PERSONAL AND FRIENDLIER TREATMENT
5. SAVING OF TIME
6. RELIEF FROM COSTLY TRAVEL
7. FREEDOM FROM ROAD HAZARDS
8. ELIMINATION OF COSTLY PARKING PROBLEMS
9. AVOIDANCE OF JOSTLING CROWDS
10. THE CHANCE TO BUILD A BETTER COMMUNITY BY PUTTING YOUR DOLLARS TO WORK HERE

We don't believe you gain anything at all by driving long distances to shop at BIG CITY stores. Our local sources have merchandise that's just as good and costs no more.

But merely for the sake of argument, suppose you do save a few dollars on a time-consuming trip many miles from home. And suppose you don't even count the cost of gasoline and oil, car wear, parking fees, etc. Forget, too, if you like, the hazards of driving in today's heavy highway and city traffic.

But don't overlook these things: What you buy here can be in your home in a few minutes—no waiting several days for delivery. And if the merchandise doesn't give full satisfaction, any needed service or adjustment of the purchase can be made without shipping the items back to the BIG CITY or being forced to make a second trip yourself.

Why drive scores of miles looking for trouble? Shop right around the corner and be safe and satisfied.

TO ALL WHO MAY BE CONCERNED

Since it has come to my attention that certain people have spoken evil and falsely of my good reputation, and in view of the probability of my seeking public office, I am publishing the following letter, that the public may know the facts concerning my reputation. I, therefore, respectfully submit for your consideration the fact that I have never been convicted in any of the courts of our land for any criminal offenses, whatsoever, and the following letters attest to that fact.

ORDINANCE

An ordinance of the city council of the city of Prestonsburg, Kentucky:

BE IT ORDAINED by the city council of the city of Prestonsburg, Kentucky:

SECTION 1

That the territory hereinafter described lying on the southern limits of the city of Prestonsburg as it is now incorporated and inside the corporate limits of said city be stricken from the boundaries of the city, and that said boundaries of said city be reduced by taking out the following described property:

BEGINNING at a post on Big Sandy River at low water mark on the line of Mrs. G. W. Rorer; thence with her line to the U. S. Highway 23 and across said highway to the lower line of Goldie Layne 400 feet to the line of the city limits; thence up Big Sandy River with said line to the L. V. Goble line 30 feet above his residence; and with said line to low water mark at Big Sandy River; thence with the river to the beginning.

SECTION 2

That the City Attorney or any attorney designated by the Council be and he is hereby authorized and empowered to institute suit in the Floyd Circuit Court on behalf of the city of Prestonsburg for the entry of a judgment striking the above described territory as a part of the city of Prestonsburg, Kentucky. A petition is directed to be filed as aforesaid within thirty days after the passage of this ordinance. The said petition for reducing said boundaries of the city shall be filed not less than twenty days before the next succeeding term of court after said advertisement. Notice of the filing of said petition shall be given as required by statute.

SECTION 3

All ordinance and parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Passed and approved at a regular meeting of the city council of the city of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, on the 3rd day of August, 1959.

(Combs was writing of the highlander before the days of industrial intrusion and his statements would no longer apply except in very remote and isolated areas.)

"Undoubtedly the highlanders' surnames demonstrates his English ancestry; so do his traditions, his dialect, his folk lore, including folk songs, play and dance songs, children's games and songs. In the far reaches of this vast region one hears no tales of early romance transported from Scotland, of clansmen and chieftains battling for their family's honor; no recounting of the deeds of valor of their forebears along the English-Scottish border. One listens in vain for the wild, irregular pibroch of the bagpipe, for it is not here, nor does the highlander have any traditions of it."

Combs argues that the highlander's speech belonged to the Elizabethan Age, finds that many slang expressions belong to an English heritage. He examines songs to find that they had an English origin.

"The most logical conclusion, then, is that the Southern highlanders are of pure English extraction; that they are descendants, most of them, of the English Colonists which were recruited largely from the great English commons. From what Colonies or States did the highlanders' forebears come? Doubtless from Virginia, Maryland and the two Carolinas, slowly pushing into the upland wilderness, where game and water were plentiful, and where the highland fastnesses offered protection and defense against the elements of nature and the attacks of the redman."

"NOTICE

"On Tuesday, August 18, 1959, the Kentucky Power Company filed with the Public Service Commission of Kentucky a complete schedule of tariffs, terms and conditions of service, governing the sale by it of electricity. This schedule cancels and supersedes all previous schedules of tariffs, terms and conditions governing the sale by it of electricity for service rendered on and after October 1, 1959.

"The new schedule will increase the minimum charges from One ($1.00) Dollar to Two ($2.00) Dollars per month, but will allow the customer to use for the minimum monthly charge more than twice the amount of electricity allowed under the present minimum. The new tariffs include fuel clauses. The fuel clauses will operate to provide increases or decreases in customers' billing only when the cost of fuel increases by a full 1/2 cent or more above 18 1/2 cents per million BTU, or decreases a full 1/2 cent or more below 17 1/2 cents per million BTU.

"The complete new schedule of tariffs, terms and conditions of service are on file in the offices of the Public Service Commission of Kentucky at Frankfort, Kentucky, and in each of the offices of the Company.

Foreman's Club Meeting To Launch Fall Season; New Officers Named

The Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Company Foreman's Club began the fall season with a dinner meeting in the high school cafeteria at Maytown, August 28.

Calvin Herrick, vice-president, presided, since the president, Eddie Worland, is still recuperating from the heart trouble he developed recently. The business consisted of the election of officers for 1960. The following members will be installed at the December meeting: Calvin Herrick, president; Harry Sandige, vice-president; Bill Woods, secretary, and Russell Rice, treasurer.

Tom Lemaster presented a report on the loss of time, production and the inconvenience to the worker caused by so-called minor accidents. The dinner was prepared by the Maytown Woman's Club.
