

3-Time Offender Draws Pen Term

Martin's Term Thought First Of Kind Here

Clarence Martin, of Drift, may be the first Floyd county resident ever to serve a pen term for possession of intoxicants for the purpose of sale.

He was convicted last Thursday in circuit court of a third-offense charge which carries with it a two-year pen term. An appeal from the verdict is expected, however.

Others have been indicted on third-offense liquor charges but the record fails to show that any have been convicted and penned.

The charge of accomplice after the fact in the slaying of Crit Butler which was lodged against Diana Rector was dismissed on the Commonwealth's motion last Wednesday. Trial of Gene Salisbury, who is charged with the Butler slaying, is slated to begin today (Wednesday).

On Salisbury's motion for disclosure of Commonwealth evidence, Circuit Judge Conley denied some requests but held that he is entitled to (1) the autopsy report made by Dr. Haley; (2) all reports made by the State Police laboratory and the results of the Breathalyzer test of the defendant and any blood tests made of the victim; (3) results of any lie detector tests which may have been performed on Ed Wright or any other witness.

Primary Candidates Report on Expenses

The 11 Floyd county candidates who are seeking county or district office had as of April 30 spent a total of $18,403.37, according to the 32-day pre-primary report of expenditures required by law and filed with the county clerk.

The reported expenditures:
For State Senator — Jim Hammond, $11,510.38; Clifford B. Latta, $2,132.93.
For Representative — James "Jitter" Allen, $432.86; Julius Martin, $179; Danny Stephens, $44.80.

For Commonwealth's Attorney — James R. Allen, $2,463.33; Burnis Martin, $673.70.

For Circuit Clerk — Frank DeRossett, $533.70; Mary Zemo, $99.75.

For Railroad Commissioner — Robert (Bob) Damron, $246.72; Jimmy "Gabe" Turner, $86.20.

This Town . . . That World

Looking over last week's paper, — something I seldom do —, I gather that more than one person around the place doesn't know how to spell the "habeas" portion of a certain writ.

It's in the 80's outside, and the trees are busily fanning themselves.

Don't ask me where this ditty originated.

Remember when hippie meant big in the hips,

And a trip involved cars and planes and ships,

When pot was a vessel for cooking things in,

And eating hash was a stranger to sin?

OBVIOUSLY

We don't dare mention any particular college as the butt of this joke, but if you're feeling like you would look better with a black eye you might try it out on an old grad who is right proud — yip, yip! — of the old school. It runs to this effect:

Health Program Without Doctor As Young Quits

The Prestonsburg-based Big Sandy Comprehensive Health Care Program, apparently was without a doctor this week for either of the two clinics which it has established.

Dr. Robert Young, who has been in charge of the Salyersville clinic, resigned last week, and the board reportedly accepted the resignation. No official statement as to the reason for his action was forthcoming.

Earlier, Dr. Singh, who had been employed at the Salyersville clinic, was dismissed.

The Wheelwright clinic has never had a complete medical staff. Dr. Charles Stringham began work there last week, reportedly at Dr. Young's direction, but his services were terminated when the board discovered that his employment was not properly authorized.

The two-county program presently is operating without a fulltime executive director.

Driver's Flight Ends in Death

Flight from state police pursuit ended early Sunday evening in the death near Harold of Ronald Gene Reynolds, 24, of Harold, and the injury of two occupants of the car with which he collided.

The crash occurred on KY 979, south of Harold, at 7:30 p.m. Reynolds died almost instantly of internal injuries. Condition of James Harvey, of Teaberry, driver of the second car, was described Monday as "fair." He suffered severe head lacerations and is in the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville. His wife, Linda, was also hospitalized at Pikeville, suffering a head injury. Their 2½-month-old daughter, Shelley Lynn, escaped injury.

One Taken Here On Liquor Count

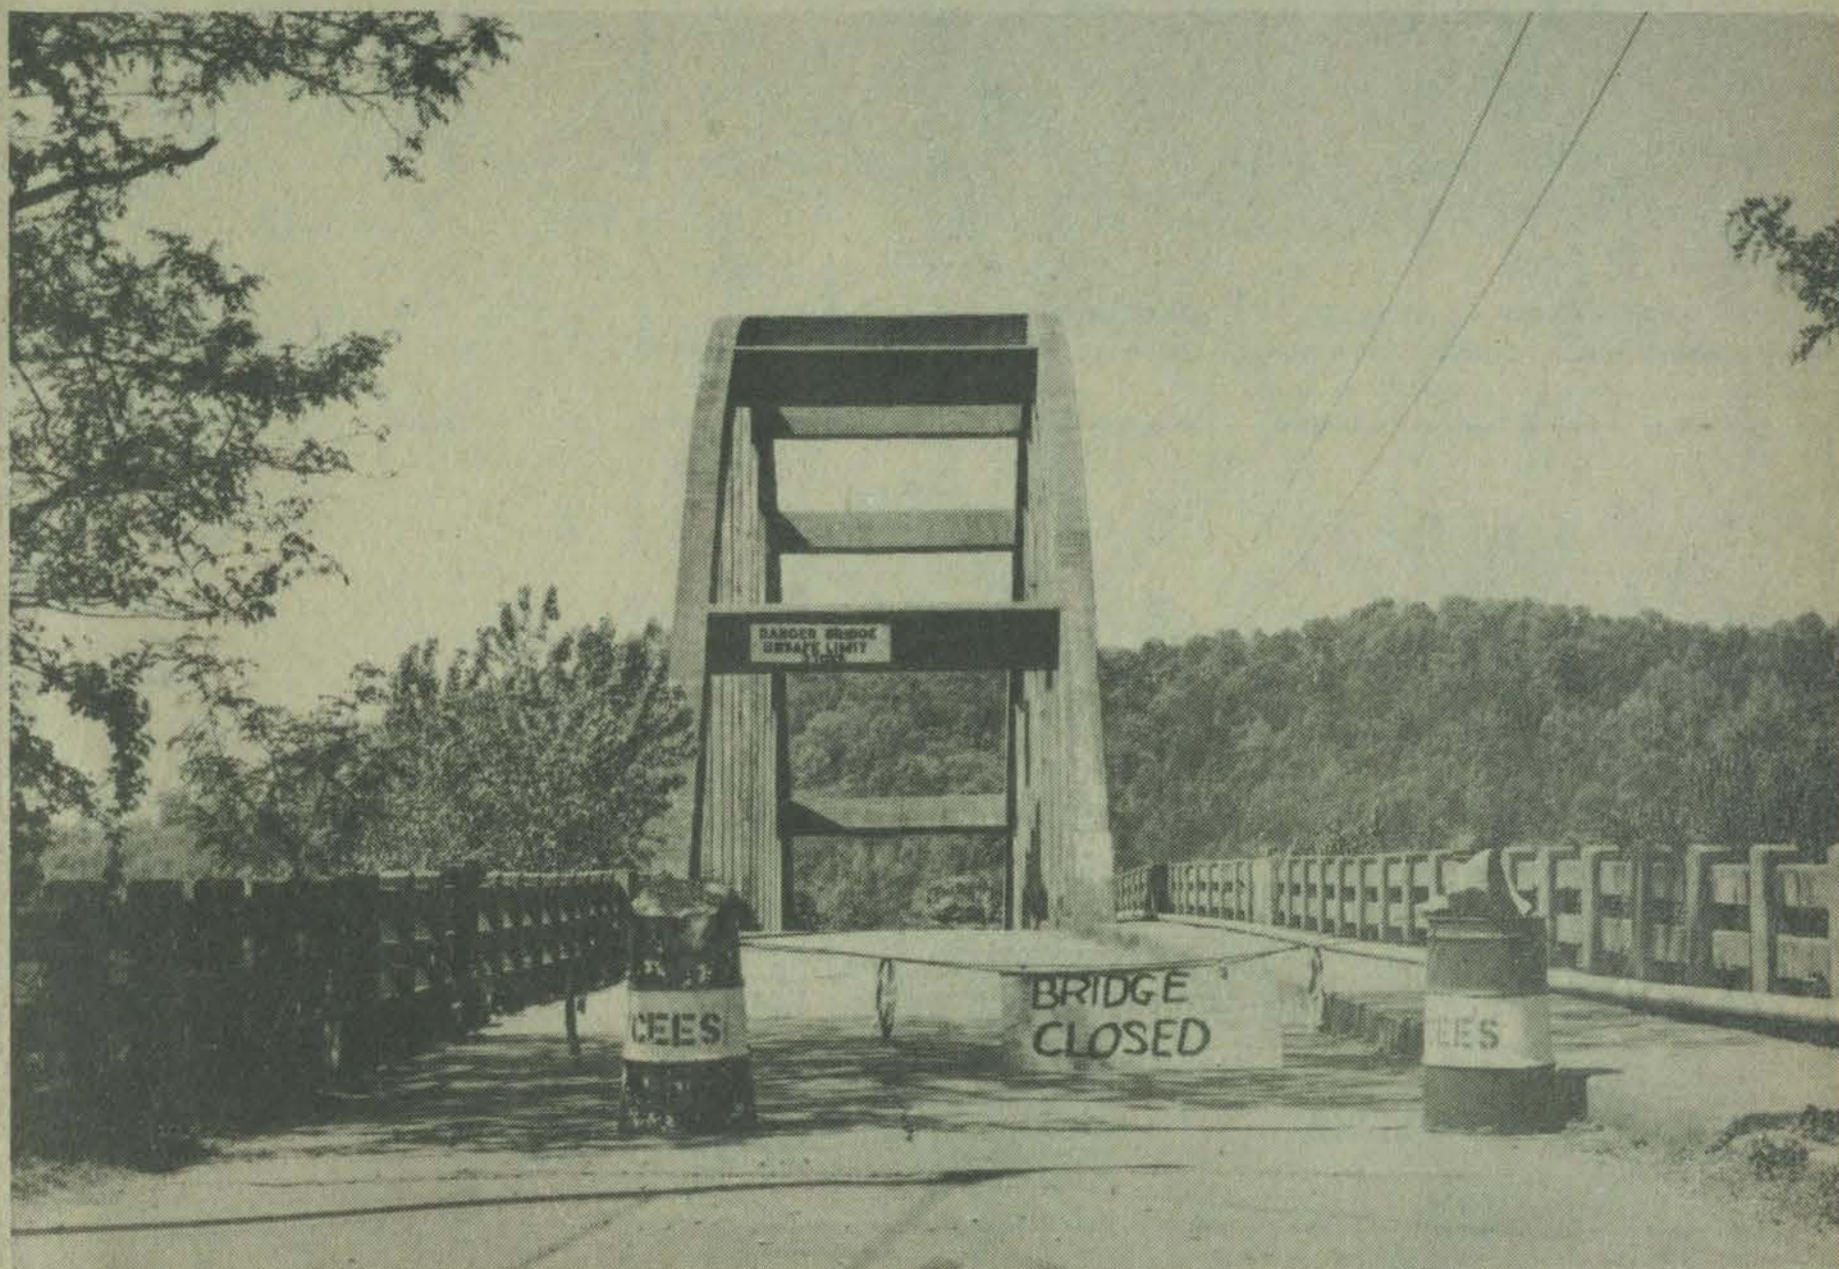

An investigation by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and Deputy Sheriff Craig E. Kilgore Sunday night resulted in the confiscation of an automobile and the week's lone liquor arrest.

Damon Newsome, of Prestonsburg, was charged with possession of alcoholic beverages after a search of the car he was driving near West Prestonsburg netted the officers a small quantity of liquor. The car, according to Sheriff Lewis, was registered in the name of Paul Joseph. Newsome pleaded guilty, and was fined $67. by Prestonsburg Police Judge Tom Lafferty.

Tanzil Martin, of Drift, one of three men wanted in the alleged rape of two Ohio girls two weeks ago, was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Green Slone and Craig Kilgore at Drift. The other two men named in connection with the incident, were arrested shortly after the charges were made. Martin was charged with rape in the first degree and terroristic threatening.

Others booked at the county jail over the past week, charges against each, and arresting officers follow:

Maxine Newsom, terroristic threatening, by Deputy Sheriffs Slone and Kilgore; Sandra Bradley, wanton endangerment in the first degree, by State Trooper Stepp; Don Patton, drunk driving, by Allen Policemen Virgil Conn and Ed Rickman; Earl D. DeRossett, drunk driving, by State Trooper Tucker; Grank Gillespie, drunk driving, no operator's license, by State Trooper Bevins and Deputy Sheriff Kidd; David Goble, drunk driving, no operator's license, and failure to yield to a blue light, by Deputy Sheriffs Linzie Hunt, Craig Kilgore and D. Bradley; Frank D. Reffitt, of Middle Creek, drunk driving, by City Policemen Lawson and Lafferty; John Robinson, drunk driving, reckless driving and improper start, by City Policeman Darrel Conley.

Closed to all but pedestrian travel is this bridge spanning the Big Sandy between Prestonsburg and West Prestonsburg. Its reopening will depend upon an engineer's report.

School Board Hires Wallen As Net Coach

The Floyd County Board of Education last week chose from a widely known basketball family a new coach for Allen Central High School.

It named Howard Wendell Wallen, Jr., 23-year-old son of Coach Wendell Wallen, of Johnson Central High School, to succeed Gene Frasure as net coach at the county's newest high school.

The 23-year-old Wallen received his A. B. degree from Morehead State University and in August will complete work there for his Master's. While doing graduate work he has been graduate assistant to Coach Schalou, of the MSU Eagles. In the 1973-'74 season he was captain of the MSU basketball team, and last spring was named to play in the Kentucky-Tennessee college all-star net series.

At Allen Central he will teach physical education as well as coach basketball.

A total of 31, including two college assistant coaches, applied for the Allen Central post.

Damage to classrooms over the county as a result of roof leaks caused the board of education, on recommendations of Supt. Charles Clark, to employ Walter Price, of the Tri-State Roofing Co., Huntington, W. Va., to make a survey of all the schools and determine the work needed on roofs. Mr. Price began work this week, and if the damage is extensive a contract for repair may be awarded.

In other action the board:
1. Accepted the resignation of Suetta Patterson, Commerce teacher at Wheelwright High School, and employed Carol Ann Branham in her stead.

2. Employed Roland Jones as bus driver at McDowell, effective April 23.

Action Follows Unsafe Warning To City Council

The old bridge directly connecting Prestonsburg and West Prestonsburg was closed to all but pedestrian traffic Monday by order of the City Council.

Closing of the bridge, which was built in the early 1930's, was voted last Thursday night by the Council after members had been advised by City Attorney Joe Hobson that they might be held personally accountable if they permit its use in its known weakened condition and if somebody should be injured or killed by its collapse.

All members of the Council except Paul Joseph voted for the closing.

City Manager Curtis Clark said city officials are aware that the action may draw criticism but that it was unavoidable. He said the Council has been unable to get an engineer to inspect the span and that the state highway commissioner has been asked for help.

"If any qualified engineer will tell us the bridge is safe for traffic, we'll reopen it, of course," he added.

Sunday Afternoon To Mark PCC's 10 Commencement

Prestonsburg Community College will hold its 10th annual commencement next Sunday afternoon at the Amphitheatre, Jenny Wiley State Park, although inclement weather could cause a shift in location to the Prestonsburg High School fieldhouse.

A class of 83 will receive associate degrees.

Dr. Ellis F. Hartford, retired vice-president of the University of Kentucky's Community College System, will be the commencement speaker. Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of the college, will present the diplomas.

The program, which will begin at 2 p.m., will include recognition of outstanding students. Among those to be honored is Prof. John D. Sammons, Prestonsburg native, who for the third consecutive year will receive the Great Teacher Award. Mr. Sammons is mathematics instructor at the college and is chairman of its Physical Science-Mathematics Department.

Twenty-one seniors named for "Who's Who in Junior American Colleges" and six Phi Beta Kappa students will be recognized, and scholarships for the 1974-'75 term will be announced.

A parade featuring bands of the county's high schools, school queens and their attendants, will kick-off the 1975 Floyd County Music Festival here Saturday morning, and the crowning of the festival queen will conclude the activities.

The parade will begin at 10 a.m. at the Prestonsburg grade school, proceed down Court Street, turn on Arnold Avenue and end at Prestonsburg High School. At the PHS football field, the assembled bands will perform a mass band number, after which the new Music Festival Queen will be named and crowned. A panel of judges will select this year's queen from the five candidates representing the county's high schools.

Representing Wheelwright high school in the queen competition is Miss Beverly Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Wilson, of Bypro. A senior at Wheelwright high, she has been a member of the band for four years, and majorette for three years. She is a member of the Beta Club and was voted Basketball Homecoming Queen for 1974-'75.

Allen Central's representative is Miss Donna Lee Frasure, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Frasure, of Maytown. A senior, she has been a band member and drum majorette for three years, is a member of the Pep Club and (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

Two Candidates Swap Views on Floyd Case

Attorney General Ed W. Hancock and State Senator William J. Sullivan crossed verbal swords last week in their races for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant-governor when Hancock alleged that Sullivan was politically motivated in reducing the pen term of a Floyd county man, and Sullivan in turn charged that the attorney general's accusation was for political purposes.

Hancock released to the press a letter to Sullivan in which Hancock made an issue of the reduction of the sentence of Billy Keith Martin. He charged that Sullivan, as acting governor last February, commuted the Floyd man's term from 18 to 15 years.

(Martin was convicted in circuit court here of the fatal shooting of his wife at Betsy Layne.)

Hancock claimed that the reduction of the term to 15 years will, in effect, cut "his actual confinement from four years to one year," because the state Parole Board will "in all probability" grant him parole in June.

"To me," wrote Hancock, "this seems to be placing very little value on a woman's life, and as an attorney you should be aware of the effect of the commutation. This kind of thinking will certainly not discourage homicides but it does undermine jury decisions and makes people not want to serve on juries."

Said Sullivan, in response:

"This is a greatly transparent and politically motivated letter."

He announced the commutation at a (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

Entered as second class matter June 18, 1927, at the postoffice at Prestonsburg, Kentucky, under the act of March 3, 1879.

Sure, the Situation Is Grim—
But What's Being Done About It?

It is little comfort to anybody to be told to beware of cancer-causing ingredients in certain sprays or even in beef that is fed a quick-fattening feed. More disconcerting, perhaps, is the recent news that much of the water in the United States contains, after treatment, a cancer-inducing chemical.

What makes the news so disturbing is the fact that the people were not told of the danger till they had used the sprays and had eaten and drunk of the cancer-laden food and water for years.

More disturbing is the fact that, although sprays and the introduction of chemical additives to animal feed may be eliminated, the use of water cannot; nor can the chemical treatment of water be ended because its consumption in raw form would return to the world a varied and ghastly array of deadly plagues.

It should be said here that no Eastern Kentucky water supply is known to contain this cancer-inducing agent, but for some municipal water systems the danger is very real—and there's more bad news ahead unless the promised nationwide cleanup becomes a reality.

We refer to the prediction that if the neglect of the nation's water supply continues its pollution will become a deadly menace within this generation.

The dismaying thing about this doomsday type of prophecy is that nothing, or next to nothing, is being done to stay the final blow.

The water supply of every community, hamlet or metropolitan center already is little more than treated sewage. Chlorine and filtering are, generally speaking, purifying it. But as the increment of filth, acids, plastics and other chemicals increases these will fail, it is predicted.

How little is being done? Here's an example:

Kentucky recently received from the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency $130,000 for water pollution control. Only $130,000 at a time when this one state needs $4.2 billion in construction funds alone to meet the requirements of the federal Water Pollution Act.

This is nothing short of the ridiculous. This year 1975 there perhaps is not a rivulet in the state of Kentucky that is clear of contamination of some sort. Wherever there is human habitation the degree of pollution grows worse, and with every water line laid and indoor plumbing installed the pollution is compounded. It is a situation which does not call for cleanup at one spot; it is a work that demands action the length of every valley and stream.

To exist, this country will have to devote its energies and a great portion of its resources to the construction of sewers, sewage treatment facilities, enforcement of anti-pollution measures and a lot of other things which until this late date have been mere conversation pieces.

No community or county can finance this work. State and federal governments, particularly the latter, may as well decide now that they will have to plan the job, execute the plan and pay the cost if it is to be done.

Letters to the Editor

A Song To Sing Together

As I arise each morning, getting ready for my day's work, I always stop and listen to the music God gives us. It's music to my ears—the sweet sounds of the little birds singing so gaily, not a worry or problem.

Wouldn't it be so nice if we could all live in this manner? We all need to come down to earth, whether we have a high degree from college or whether we've ever entered a school house door. We're all people, both rich and poor. If we're going to survive, we're going to have to wake up real early and like the little birds, sing together.

In my work I am constantly in touch with the public and I love people, love to meet old friends as well as make new ones. Since I work with my idea, Red, White and Blue Day, we discuss our country's condition, etc. Several people tell me that politics has become so corrupt, they just refuse to vote any more. I tell 'em they surely should exercise their only God-given right—that is to vote for their choice. How would you feel if you lived in a country where they say you can't vote? No voice in your government. This could happen right here in our own beautiful country called "America."

Folks, stop and look up and count your blessings and thank God we live in a free country and enjoy so many wonderful freedoms that we still live in a country where we can rise early and step outside, unlock our own door and listen to the birds singing, then try to join 'em and let's all sing together, God, Bless America, "again." We need our government and they need your vote—so please get out and vote and enjoy life's sweet, music while we can.

Also let me add this little bit, if I may: Saturday, Oct. 25, Red, White and Blue Day, isn't far away, so fellow-Americans, you're all invited to take part in this great event. I hope every little child will have a chance to walk in this parade and I surely hope the teachers will stop and think and make a special effort to work with the kids and get 'em in this colorful patriotic parade. This will make it easier on you, the teachers, in the classroom, it will also help teach the children the love of flag and country.

So let's be like the little birds—all join in and sing together and help keep America free.

These two men wound up on a plane, seated alongside each other, and one turned to the other, remarking that his seatmate obviously was a Harvard man. "Correct," replied the other. "But how did you know?" "Oh, your faultless diction, your impeccable dress, your splendid bearing." The Ivy Leaguer thanked him, then remarked. "And you, I perceive, are a graduate of ——" (and here's where you take your chances by filling in the blank). "Sure," said the other. "Tell me, how did you know?" Said the Harvard man: "You're wearing a class ring, and I read the name of your college while you were picking your nose."

The bridge, he said, has noticeably weakened at points where the arch passes through the bed. This is on both sides of the bridge, it was said. If Council finds that repairs can be made at a reasonable cost, such work will be done, Clark said.

This bridge and the span connecting Prestonsburg and Town Branch are of unusual design, with distinctive, high arches.

The Council voted last Thursday the purchase of a whirlwind vacuum street-sweeper at a cost of $39,270. Cost of the equipment will be paid out of Revenue Sharing funds.

The new sweeper will eliminate the dust problem created by the old sweeper, since it operates by suction, it was explained. It also will serve to clean catch basins. Delivery was promised for tomorrow (Thursday).

When the new sweeper is put into operation residents of streets where it will be working will be notified and asked not to park motor vehicles until it has left.

GARDEN SPOT

If anybody offers the excuse that he or she hasn't a garden plot for the sowing of some lettuce and other vegetables, I unhesitatingly recommend any part of Dewey Lake. The good earth is there from miles and miles up the valley.

FISHING REPORT

Which gets me around to fishing, a sport at which I seldom if ever excel but one which brings out the iron in me. I am determined, although my first two ventures onto the water were enough to discourage the stoutest-hearted.

First, I headed out onto Cave Run, a couple of weeks back, and half an hour later a four-hour deluge began, three hours of which Neil Allen and I defied with rather disastrous results. No hits, one run for shelter and a day full of errors.

Next, my grandson and I, for want of something better to do, such as charging a harmless windmill, staked our fishing fortunes on good, ol' Dewey, the golden lake. We hunted the heads of coves for a trickle of water that might pass for haitch-two-o but it wasn't there. We tried every spot crappie had been caught in other seasons. And no dice, unless you count two objects which attached themselves to my hook and might have been water-soaked potato chips.

Still, there is something good I might say about the trip. We weren't bothered by water-skiers. They're all afraid of getting sand under their toenails.

PATIENCE, PLEASE

Because of circumstances beyond my control — including cries of foul, ballot tampering and the like — I delay announcement of the election results till next week. I've got myself painted into a corner with this thing, and it may require some thought to get me out.

It's Redbud, Dogwood Time

By HELEN PRICE STACY
Spring in Kentucky is a beautiful season—all the way from the western tip, through the Bluegrass region, the northern sector and the southern area. But spring in Eastern Kentucky is extraordinary!
For the next two or three weeks, roadsides will be tinged with the fushia and dusty rose of redbud trees and woodlands starred with creamy dogwood bloom.
Start with a hillside and color it green, not quite emerald but more lime or chartreuse, for in the Commonwealth the palette is mixed with a bit of spring gold. Sculpture the hill with dark stems of trees and shrubs, brush the tips of limbs and twigs with leaflets and buds of still more green. Add patches of white dogwood bloom here and there among dark pines and patchwork it all with the color of redbud.

In the Eastern Highlands, spring is a bonus blessing, bringing warmth and color to a land that had been chilled in deep valleys and on the mountainsides. Dewey Lake State Forest and Jefferson National Forest offer vistas of considerable magnitude during spring when there is a need to get outside, sift a bit of loam through one's fingers and nudge a clump of soft, springy moss.
In the Kentucky Highlands, the landmarks are hills and mountains that have fostered history and here are spectacular features created by nature. Nowhere can be found more beauty, especially in spring when the Moon of Buds is here, when the sky is that shade of blue to match work denims, when redbud and dogwood almost shout to be seen and when even the forest floor is starred with a multitude of wildflowers.
There are some thorns and scars along the way, but even these have a way of emphasizing the old saying, "But aren't the roses sweet?"
For travel information or schedules of particular events in the Highlands, stop at the Tourist Information Center in Prestonsburg, write to chambers of commerce in Highlands cities, contact any Kentucky state park in the area or write or phone the Kentucky Department of Parks, Frankfort, Ky.
Start now to enjoy the splendor of the Redbud-Dogwood Trail through the Kentucky Highlands.

Kentucky's onto something!

Energy! All we need with plenty left over for the rest of the country. And raw carbon, that big basic used in everything from rubber to surgical steel.
Kentucky's onto coal. Just because coal's been around for several million years doesn't mean there's nothing new. We're learning how to dig it and not leave tracks . . . how to burn it so nobody knows. We can convert it into gas, dissolve it into oil, even make fertilizer on the side. And we can do it all right here in Kentucky!
Coal is energy, and energetic. Kentucky supplies more than one-fifth of all the nation's coal. In the future, Kentucky coal could be providing forms of natural gas and oil as well.
Science is clearing the way for a new age of coal, and Kentucky has plenty of it. Kentucky has an Ace in the Hole!

An Open Letter To The People of Floyd County:

Although I have never before desired or sought political office, I am now seeking the Democratic nomination for State Representative of Floyd County, for never in my life have I seen so much to be done for our county through the legislature, with no one willing to do it.

Do you realize that although millions of dollars were taken from this county by the coal severance tax last year, only a pauper's share was returned?

Do you also realize that of the pauper's share returned, we are not allowed by law to spend any of this to build roads and bridges, educate our children, or even supply minimum fire and police protection for our homes?

To me, the greatest shame that has ever befallen the people of Eastern Kentucky is the allowance of the exploitation of the God-given wealth of our region without Floyd County sharing in enough of this wealth to even supply the most fundamental government services.

If you see fit to send me to the legislature, I will fight for all Floyd Counties welfare by seeking A RETURN OF 50 PCT. OF ALL THE SEVERANCE TAX collected from our county, free to be used:

1. For construction and maintenance of our county roads and bridges.
2. For construction, remodeling and maintenance of our children's schools.
3. To supplement our teachers salaries which are now totally inadequate.
4. To supply adequate police and fire protection to our citizens and their homes.

The foregoing are only a few of the things that may be accomplished by hardworking, earnest representation of Floyd County's interest, and this realization is what forces me to seek this office. I honestly feel that whom you decide to support in this race could prove to affect what type of county we have for years to come.

Please consider what I say, and give me your support and vote. I will take that support and vote with me to Frankfort and repay it daily with hard work and dedication to your best interest and welfare.

Club Hears Discussion Of Breast Cancer Danger

Wayland.—The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club held its April 21 meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles F. Hughes, Prestonsburg, with Donna Griffith, Floyd County Health Department health educator, as guest speaker.

Mrs. Griffith showed a film, titled, "Breast Cancer—Where Are We?" These alarming statistics were given: During the year 70,000 women will develop breast cancer, and of this number 30,000 will die. One in every 15 new-born girls will get cancer in her lifetime. However, there were heartening statistics also: Of the breast cancers detected early enough, 85 per cent can be successfully removed, and the great majority of the lumps that are removed upon discovery are not malignant.

Prior to the program, Mrs. Stanley Bamer led the Pledge of the Flag. The Club Collect was read by Mrs. Otto Martin. Mrs. J. T. Spillman gave the devotional, pointing out that we should "seek God in the morning if we want Him through the day."

During the business session, Mrs. Eugene DeCoursey was approved for membership. A contribution was voted for the National Cancer Society. Mrs. James A. Duff, first vice-president, presided at the meeting in the absence of the club president, Mrs. J. C. Wells.

IN MEMORY

of Ceverest (C. V.) Reynolds who passed away May 5, 1973:

In spring we wait for roses red,
When faded the lilacs blue
In early fall when brown leaves fall,
We catch a glimpse of you.
We hear your voice, we see your smile,
Tho blindly we may grope.
The memory of your helping hand,
Will buoy us on with hope.
So wait for us in heaven fair,
For we pray that we may join you there.

Jenny Wiley State Park Has 80 Per Cent Booking Already

With its lodge rooms and cottages already 80 per cent booked, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park is bracing for another year of heavy visitation and almost capacity occupancy.

With 96 per cent occupancy last season (the highest in the park system) and some reservations made two years in advance, Jenny Wiley may rate as the favorite Eastern Kentucky resort, and this year several new attractions and park improvements will offer an even greater variety of recreational opportunities to the park visitor.

In addition to 1,100-acre Dewey Lake, May Lodge, Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theater, an Olympic-size pool, a sky-lift, night-and-day golf course, horseback riding, play areas, picnicking and hiking facilities, Park Superintendent George Barker lists a 128-unit campground, a miniature golf course, paddleboats and a campers' grocery as new assets for this season.

The campground, which operated less than a month last season, is in full operation this year. Mr. Barker said recently, that "Our playground is 90 per cent set there, and we have grills and picnic tables in, with bathhouses open."

The miniature golf course, according to Barker, will be lighted and concreted with special hazards. "The work will be let for about $17,000 and should be built by mid-May," Barker said.

At Stratton Branch, a new dock with 10 paddleboats and two kayaks will be available this season. "We're going to rope off the bay near the swimming pool to keep power boats out of the cove," the park superintendent said.

The camping area grocery store, which is already stocked, will offer campers ice, wood, lantern fuel, and general groceries.

Work totalling $750,000 is proposed for the Jenny Wiley boat dock, including repair and rebuilding of covered slips as well as renovation and redesigning of the general dock structure. "The work includes dredging," Barker said, "but we can't dredge until after Labor Day because of the Corps of Engineers rules. When we do this work, our boat docking will be completely different, with no dockage in the middle of the cove, all of it on the banks. The reason is there just isn't enough room for the big houseboats the way it is now. We'll have electricity and water run to all houseboat slips and we'll have caissons which allow us to remain level even though we raise or lower the lake 35 feet."

An additional project is roof work on May Lodge which will cost approximately $100,000.

He's a "Businessman's Guru"

By BUD PERRY
(In The Paintsville Herald)

Don Meade is young, intelligent, serious. An honors graduate from Paintsville High and Eastern Kentucky University, he spent nearly two years here, after graduation, working on a tough project of alcohol and drug education.

Now he is engrossed in something that he admits will be even more difficult.

Don just completed a six-month teacher training course in Europe, studying "TM", short for Transcendental Meditation.

Mr. Meade will lecture at the Floyd County Library here, Thursday and Friday, this week, at 7:30 p.m. The lectures will be an introduction to Transcendental Meditation.

Even though it sounds mystic, TM is far from it. The concept is part of the curriculum in a number of universities, and programs are offered at West Point, Annapolis and the Air Force Academy . . . not likely locations for any mystical methodology.

"TM is not a religion or a philosophy, but a simple mental technique easily learned by anyone," Don says. "The practice brings a deep state of rest to the mind and body, which allows negative influences of anxiety, fatigue, frustration and tiredness to be thrown off. It results in an increase in energy, clarity, flexibility and stability."

Don was first exposed to TM at Eastern, where he received his degree in psychology.

"I found it useful as a mental health counselor," he says, "and the more I learned about TM, the more I became interested."

So he resigned his job with Mountain Comprehensive Care, and enrolled, at his own expense, in the TM course in Europe. He spent three months in Italy, and three months in Germany, coming home a month ago. Since then he has been talking to people locally about the concept.

Meade says that there are 360 centers for TM instruction in the United States, and that 125,000 people took the basic course in TM last year. Centers are established in Louisville and Lexington, and courses have been held regularly in Bowling Green, Ashland, Pikeville and Huntington.

The founder of the Science of Creative Intelligence (SCI) and Transcendental Meditation (TM) is Maharishi Mahesh Yogi. TM is practiced for 15 or 20 minutes twice a day by sitting in a comfortable chair and closing the eyes. There are no exercises, no special diets no beliefs or talents to practice. And it involves no trance, self-hypnosis, sleep, or daydream state.

Interestingly enough, TM has been the subject of considerable scientific research. A team of Harvard researchers have found it combats drug use, drinking and smoking. It also is credited by researchers with aiding insomniacs, reducing hypertension, increasing student learning ability and improving the reaction of athletes.

It has been the subject of articles in Today's Health, published by the American Medical Association, in Psychology Today, in the Saturday Evening Post, in the Minnesota Daily, in the Boston Evening Globe, in the London Daily Mail, the San Francisco Examiner and other well-known publications.

And all of them have been favorable.

It even was the subject for a resolution from the House of Representatives of the Illinois General Assembly, encouraging the offering of courses in Illinois educational institutions.

Practitioners include doctors, ministers, athletes, businessmen, housewives. Most of them, according to published material, were skeptical when they enrolled in TM courses. The name, transcendental meditation, the founder, Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, immediately brought visions to me of rituals, long hair, beads and robes . . . a normal reaction, according to Don Meade.

"None of those impressions are accurate," he says. Meade himself is a contrast to most young people in his age group. His hair is short. His clothing is a suit or jacket, complete with tie and shirt.

He points out that TM is not a fad. It is under study in medical circles as a possible treatment for nervous disorders. It is the subject of an assortment of research projects. According to published articles, it has produced everything from reduced tension to lower golf scores.

Whether or not it will be accepted here remains to be seen. Don Meade, however, is calmly convinced that it will, over a period of time.

"There is no conflict with religion, no conflict with medicine," he stresses. "There is nothing but a natural mental technique to learn, and it obviously provides benefits. Too many people have experienced the benefits to argue about it."

PSC Authorizes Telephone Loan

The Kentucky Public Service Commission has authorized the Harold Telephone Company to borrow $1,335,600 from the Rural Telephone Bank to finance system and service improvements. The commission also granted the company a "certificate of convenience and necessity," authorizing the actual construction of the improvements and approved an increase in rates to go into effect when improved service begins.

The improvements will entail addition of mobile telephones and automatic dial paging to available services, construction of improvements to facilities, substitution of one-party exchange service for two- and four-party service and an "optional calling plan" between all exchanges in Floyd county.

At a Jan. 27 public hearing the commission found that the proposed changes in the telephone system were "necessary, appropriate and consistent with the proper performance by the utility of its service to the public."

A special juvenile delinquency task force began an 18-month study this week which members hope will lead to recommendations for improvements in Kentucky's juvenile justice system.

Kentucky Afield

By JOHN WILSON

Although fishing is the current topic among Kentucky's outdoorsmen, now is also the time to think about wildlife and next fall and winter. This is particularly true for landowners who want to enhance wildlife habitat on their property.

Some wildlife management practices carried out now can both increase the number of game species such as quail and rabbits for fall hunting and also provide habitat for songbirds and other desirable wildlife, according to Joe Bruna, game management director for the Department of Fish and Wildlife.

There are some things landowners should not do, Bruna says. Don't clean up fence rows or other brushy areas which can provide cover and nesting sites for wildlife, and don't remove dead trees, which furnish dens for squirrels and some species of birds, particularly woodpeckers. Remember, a completely "clean" farm may look nice, but it offers very little habitat for any kind of wildlife except harmful insects and mice.

During May and June hay cutting, leave an uncut portion around woods, brushy areas or fence rows. These unmowed areas provide good nesting sites for quail and rabbits. And later on, at harvest time, leave a row or two of corn around the edges of fields to provide winter food for wildlife.

Early wildlife foods, such as Korean lespedeza, should already be in the ground, but they can be planted in April on a well prepared seed bed. Now is the right time to put in bicolor or japonica lespedeza. Later wildlife foods, which can be planted in May or June, include millet, corn, sorghum, buckwheat or cowpeas. Soybeans are also good, since they both provide rabbit browse and also improve the soil.

Now would also be a good time for landowners to look for seed-producing trees such as white ash, oaks, pines, sassafras, black locust and beech. The mast from these trees provides excellent winter quail food, as do the fruits from hackberry, wild cherry, blackhaw, dogwood, huckleberry, sumac or sawbrier.

If any of these mast-producing trees or shrubs are present, they should be encouraged by clearing away competing trees and bushes. The landowner may also want to plant other mast-producing trees, such as pine, walnut, black locust, Chinese chestnut, autumn olive or white ash. Each year, the Division of Forestry offers a packet of seedlings containing most of these species and although it's a little too late to acquire a packet this year, interested landowners should watch for announcements of next year's seedling program, which usually gets underway in February.

Landowners wishing some professional advice on wildlife habitat improvement should get in touch with their local conservation officer, who can request that a wildlife biologist visit the property and make specific recommendations to the owner. With some pre-planning and just a little work, almost any land can produce good wildlife habitat.

Carroll Urges All-Out Effort To Prevent Crime in Kentucky

In a speech last week in Louisville Gov. Julian Carroll urged Kentucky law enforcement officials and citizens to mobilize behind a new all-out effort at preventing crime which he said has reached "epidemic proportions."

Carroll told a crowd of some 500 gathered for a statewide planning conference on crime prevention that the answer to Kentucky's rising crime rate is not simply more police and bigger prisons.

"The last thing you and I want is a Commonwealth that looks like a fortress," Carroll said. "Rather we need to unite in a common sense approach to prevent crimes from being committed in the first place."

Carroll noted that serious crimes in Kentucky rose by almost 22 per cent during the past year alone. Larceny-theft and burglaries accounted for better than 80 per cent of that increase.

Although the crime statistics indicated "that there is absolutely no safe place in Kentucky to live and work," Carroll said, "let's not point a finger at the police, courts and correctional authorities and accuse them of not doing their job."

What is needed is a total crime prevention effort, involving everyone in Kentucky, which focuses on the kind of action that can be taken before a crime occurs, Carroll said.

"I am calling for positive steps to be taken to meet the problem (rising crime rates)," he said.

The first step is the formation of a 74-member Crime Prevention Task Force, which is working now to design an effective statewide crime prevention program that will involve all citizens and groups in Kentucky, Carroll said.

After pledging total support to a statewide crime prevention program, Carroll announced the formation of an office of crime prevention in the DOJ to coordinate activities of state and local police, and local groups.

Heading the new office will be State Police Capt. William O. Newman, who served five years as the commissioner of the old Department of Public Safety.

The governor also announced that the Department of Justice's Bureau of Training will increase its basic crime prevention training for every new police officer.

Seventy-seven state and local officers have completed basic crime prevention training at the National Crime Prevention Institute at Louisville, which, Carroll said, expects to expand its training roster by an additional 70 officers.

Name Council Scout To Statewide Office

Clyde DeRossett, Jr., of Prestonsburg, was elected vice-chief of Section 2-B of the Order of the Arrow at the sectional conclave which was held April 18-20, at Boy Scout Camp Shawnee.

Section 2-B of the Order of the Arrow includes the entire state of Kentucky, plus small portions of the states of Virginia, Indiana, Illinois and Tennessee, which are administered by councils located within Kentucky. As vice-chief, DeRossett will assist with the administration of Order of the Arrow matters within the entire area.

He is a member of Scout Troop 27, sponsored by the Community Methodist Church of Prestonsburg. He is an Eagle Scout and represented the Lonesome Pine Council at Report-to-the-Governor ceremonies in Frankfort in February. He is a senior student at Prestonsburg High School and plans to continue his education at Prestonsburg Community College next year.

Among other measures the governor said will be taken is a recommendation to the Legislative Research Commission that it draft a model burglary security code for consideration by the 1976 General Assembly.

Gov. Carroll also asked the task force to consider eight basic crime prevention measures to safeguard commercial, residential and personal security. One of these—Operation Identification—calls for Kentuckians to etch serial numbers on their personal property and register them with police. Operation Crime Report, a second recommendation, would set up a toll free telephone number citizens can use to report crime.

Only State in Region To Meet AFDC Rules

By JAN MANNS
FRANKFORT, Ky.,—Gov. Julian M. Carroll has been notified by the regional director of the Southeast Region for the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), that Kentucky is the only southeastern state to meet quality control standards for the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program.

“We are making every effort to attain the best use of our public assistance dollars and will continue to do everything possible to see to it that this valuable form of meeting human needs is put to best use,” said Governor Carroll.

The present quality control efforts began in 1973. Statistics supplied by the Department for Human Resources' (DHR) Bureau for Social Insurance show that between April and September, 1973, payments to ineligible persons and overpayments cost about $931,000 a month.

Before corrective action, of the total caseload, 10.1 per cent of the recipients were ineligible, 29.4 per cent overpaid and 7.7 per cent underpaid.

By corrective action between July and December, 1974, quality control had reduced these figures to 5.1 per cent ineligible, 18.7 per cent overpaid and 5.9 per cent underpaid, a savings of about $300,000 a month.

In 1974, the AFDC program paid $76.4 million to recipients. About 70 per cent of these funds are federal with 30 per cent in matching funds supplied by Kentucky.

“Even though many ineligible cases are being eliminated from the AFDC program as a result of quality control, the number of legitimate cases has increased, due in part to the present economic situation,” said Commissioner Gail S. Huecker of DHR's Bureau for Social Insurance, which administers AFDC.

In March, 1975, over 51,000 families were receiving AFDC. This compares to the March 1974 figure of 44,000.

Commissioner Huecker noted that other states have come to Kentucky to review the quality control program to see why it has been successful. She attributes the success of quality control efforts to: Sending in staff teams to work temporarily in metropolitan areas in an effort to recertify and interview all AFDC clients in a six-month period. More adequate staffing and a reduction in the size of the caseload for eligibility workers. The beginning of a standard, flat grant system that simplifies the determination of money payments to recipients. A reworked policy manual that is easier for the worker to use.

Neeley Gas Rate Wins PSC Okeh

The Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) has approved a rate adjustment requested by the Neeley Gas Company due to an increase in the wholesale cost of gas from its supplier, Columbia Gas of Kentucky.

PSC Secretary Richard D. Heman said the Commission had previously provided for such rate adjustments through a “purchased gas adjustment clause,” which outlines conditions for rate adjustments due to an increase or decrease in the wholesale cost of gas.

The commission's order specifies that the rate adjustment will be effective for gas supplies on or after April 1, this year and will provide an annual $1,327 to offset the increased cost of gas from the supplier. Heman said that wholesale prices set by interstate suppliers are federally regulated and not subject to the commission's control.

Quality control efforts have been a contributing factor in allowing DHR to meet 100 per cent of need as established by the state Department for Human Resources, said Commissioner Huecker.

When AFDC payments, in combination with food stamps income are compared to the federal poverty level, about 85 per cent of need is currently met. This does not include benefits of the medical assistance program for which all AFDC recipients are eligible.

Concerted efforts will be made by bureau staff to maintain the low error rate in the future, said Mrs. Huecker.

In Jefferson County, which contains 30 per cent of the state's AFDC cases, staff has identified high error-prone cases that will be reviewed every three months rather than the usual six months for apparently stable cases.

Factors that may cause errors are income fluctuation, parental support payments or desertion cases.

Nature Trails

By Rufus M. Reed

HICCOUGH.—An old remedy for hiccoughs was a tea made from the roots of wild carrot, called "Queen Anne's lace," the ancestor of our garden carrots, and with the identical carrotlike odor. Queen Anne's lace bears large umbels of white flowers, which glorify old fields and waysides in summer. The leaves are finely cut and dissected, and each large umbel of white flowers has a single small red flower in the center, which is said to represent a drop of blood from Queen Anne's finger, when she stuck a needle in it while crocheting the pattern of the flower. The tea is also used to make a stimulant, also as a diuretic. When the large flower heads dry up in the fall, they form a bird's nest, so the plant is also known as "the bird's nest flower."

YARROW, THE "NOSEBLEED PLANT," known to botanists as Achillea millefolium, named after Achilles the Greek hero, who treated the wounds of his soldiers during the siege of Troy with poultices made of yarrow. The name, millefolium, means a plant with a thousand leaves. The leaves are numerous and finely cut into minute segments. The plant is pleasantly aromatic and its ancient name was milfoil. Yarrow grows in old pastures and along waysides and bears white rosy flowers in flat-topped clusters.

Yarrow was highly favored by the Indians, who used it to stop blood from cuts or wounds. They also brewed a tea from yarrow as a remedy for chills, colic or a torpid liver. The Indians of New Mexico still chew yarrow leaves with a little salt as a stomach medicine. The stems and leaves were boiled to make a tea for diarrhea. The root was also chewed for colds, and the boiled roots were used as a kidney medicine. The entire plant was ground up and mixed with water as a remedy for burns.

COLIC.—An old remedy for colic was to boil two or three roots of wild ginseng and drink the tea. It was also regarded as a good tonic for the stomach.

OLD REMEDY FOR HEADACHE.—Gather beet leaves, let them wilt, then bind them on the head. Also camphor and whiskey to bathe the head was said to give quick relief from headache.

FOR MOSQUITO AND CHIGGER BITES.—When you go outdoors this summer, keep a box of snuff handy. To relieve the pain and itching of these insect bites, moisten some snuff and rub it on the bites. This gives quick relief and will kill the chigger.

An old remedy for winter-chafed hands was to rub mutton tallow on them. In the days when people raised lots of sheep, mutton tallow played a prominent role in folk remedies.

An old reliable remedy for a rusty nail stuck in the foot was to soak a rag in kerosene and bind it on the wound. A puncture by a rusty nail was considered dangerous, as it can cause lockjaw, a fatal disease. Known to doctors as tetanus, nowadays they give a quick antitetanus shot. In the days of our forefathers, there were few doctors to give such shots. Kerosene is a strong antiseptic and proved effective in preventing tetanus from a rusty nail. Another oldtime remedy for a nail puncture was to take soot from the chimney, mix it with lard and turpentine. This was formed into a poultice and bound on the wound. Turpentine was relied upon heavily in olden times for use as a germicide; it was often used in treating wounds in livestock. Soot, which is composed mainly of carbon, was much used in olden times to bind on wounds or to stop the flow of blood.

Authorizes Loan For Columbia Gas

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The Kentucky Public Service Commission has issued an order authorizing Columbia Gas of Kentucky, Inc., to borrow up to $7,100,000 from its parent corporation, Columbia Gas System, Inc., during 1975.

Public Service Commission Secretary Richard D. Heman said the commission is empowered to regulate borrowing by utilities to insure that their actions are lawful and within the corporate purpose of the utility. "When the commission issues such an order," Heman said, "it takes into account whether the loan is necessary and consistent with the utilities performance of service for the public."

The commission authorized Columbia Gas of Kentucky to borrow up to $1,300,000 for its 1975 construction program and up to $5,800,000 for prepayment on gas from its suppliers during the summer months under the provisions of presently effective winter rate schedules.

Knott Star Stamper Among M.S.U. Signees

Herbie Stamper, who led Knott County Central to the quarter-finals of this year's State Tournament, signed the national basketball letter yesterday to attend Morehead University.

A 6-foot-3 guard, Stamper was one of the top scorers in Kentucky. The first team All-State selection averaged 27.3 points as a senior.

Paul LeMaster of Johnson Central and 6-9 Steve Sahle of Springfield, Ohio, also signed with the Ohio Valley Conference school. LeMaster, also a first team All-Stater, averaged 17 points. The 6-2 guard was coached by Wendell Wallen, father of former Morehead standout Howard Wallen. Sahle averaged 20 points, 16 rebounds and blocked 101 shots as a senior.

Officials also announced that 6-3 guard Craig Morris, a transfer from Indiana University, will be eligible in January.

A. degrees, she has teaching experience at the primary, intermediate and junior high levels, has been principal and has served as administrator of headstart and Neighborhood Youth Corps in the Floyd school system. Hunting Census By Phone Set Frankfort, Ky., May 2—The telephone will ring at least once in 3,000 Kentucky households, sometime between May 12 and 23.

If yours is one of those 3,000 phones, don't hang up when the caller, a woman, asks: "Is there a hunter in your household?"

It won't be a prank and there won't be an idiot on the other end of your receiver, either.

The call will simply be a part of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' annual telephone survey, one phase of an effort to determine how much game was harvested by Kentucky hunters during last year's hunting season.

If there isn't a "hunter in your household" the caller will thank you and hang up.

Should you answer yes, however, she'll ask you to cooperate with the Department by filling out a brief questionnaire about the number of hunting trips, kinds and numbers of game killed.

The questionnaires will be mailed from the Game Management Division and, the information gleaned from them will help biologists in recommending lengths of future seasons and bag and possession limits.

All calls will be made between 5 and 9 p.m.

Environmentalist Sees Famine, If World Population Doubles

With its population expected to double, from 4 billion to 8 billion, in the next 35 years, the world is headed for a food-and-population crisis in which millions of people will die of starvation.

That is the grim prediction of a veteran foreign correspondent and environmental writer in the current (May-June) issue of INTERNATIONAL WILDLIFE magazine, published by the nation's largest conservation organization, the National Wildlife Federation.

In "the toughest story I've ever had to write," John Strohm, who has written on food and agriculture from 85 countries, reports that, "despite exciting new agricultural breakthroughs, the feeders are falling behind the breeders. Man has not yet learned to produce as fast as he can reproduce. Yet reluctant government leaders continue to drag their feet on birth control."

Because the earth's population jumped from 2 to 4 billion in the past 45 years, a "doubling" that once took thousands of years, the food situation is already far more desperate than most people realize, says Strohm in his article on "the No. 1 Question facing mankind today."

"Millions of children go to bed hungry each night, and many of them, even if they live, will have their brains permanently stunted because of lack of protein," Strohm says after describing a "routine morning of corpse collection" in famine-ravaged Bengal.

While this is happening, "the poor are getting poorer. The people of Africa, Asia, and Latin America, least able to cope with widespread malnutrition, are having the most babies, and the unchecked birthrate is accelerating." And, Strohm reports, "to make matters worse, a worldwide shortage of chemical fertilizers is depressing food production."

Looking ahead to the "nightmare of supplying 8 billion people" by the year 2010, Strohm sees tensions between the "have" and "have-not" nations becoming increasingly dangerous, with the possibility of a starving underdeveloped country using "the threat of atomic warfare to blackmail nations for food."

As evidence that the "world" priorities are sadly out of whack," Strohm, the editor of INTERNATIONAL WILDLIFE, cites India, which spent $2 billion to develop an atomic bomb, "100 times more than its spends a year on family planning; 200 times more than its spends annually on agricultural research."

Strohm concludes that there are "only two answers to the alarming food-population problem." His first answer is a "worldwide crash program to increase food production in all countries," a multi-nation effort about five times greater than the $20 billion it cost the U. S. to put a man on the moon.

His second answer is "an unparalleled family planning program" in every nation. The U. S., he says, should help developing nations "with every bit of medical knowledge and education aid that we possess to bring population in line with resources," but it should also "demand effective action, or withhold aid."

By LARRY BURKE

There was once a young man who worked as an apprentice under a famous stained glass artist.

The famous artist designed and made the most beautiful windows in the country.

The young apprentice gathered up and saved every tiny piece of glass the artist let fall on the floor. Then one day the young man took the tiny bits and pieces he had saved and began making a window of his own creation. After months of labor—his window was completed.

To make a long story short—the window made from bits and pieces was acclaimed as the most beautiful ever made. The young man became famous in his own right as a great artist.

There are many fragments of time and life that can be turned into great accomplishments. The bits and pieces are important, and the wise use them effectively.

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: Use every moment to its fullest—salvage the fragments of life.

Rather than replace old shoes, the thrift-minded Mrs. Ford has them re-soled and healed. She even makes it her practice to purchase shoes that are of a white fabric so that they can be dyed and re-dyed. Recently she reported, "I have one pair I have re-dyed five times."

Think about waste

It doesn't make sense to waste electric energy. Wire costs more. Poles cost more. All prices are rising.

Sit and stew about it if you want, but facts are facts. Our electric energy is generated by burning coal. And coal costs have soared out of sight. Pollution fighting equipment costs a fortune. And you know who finally has to pay the bill. Think about it. Then contact your electric cooperative for help in saving electric energy.

Attorney General's Opinions

James Melton, of the Bureau of Administration and Finance in the Department of Education, asked if school funds could be used to transport pupils from a private school to a vocational school. When the destination is a parochial school or private school, it is the opinion of the office of the Attorney General that only the county's general funds can be used for transporting the students. However, when pupils are being taken from a private school to a public vocational school, money for such transportation may come from the state's common school funds.

Frank McCartney, of Flemingsburg, asked if it were legal for a county hospital to require admission fees for persons not covered by hospitalization insurance. The Attorney General's office held that a county hospital may validly adopt a rule requiring such an admission fee. They also may refuse to admit anyone having an outstanding debt owed to the hospital. Of course, this opinion does not support in any way the exclusion of emergency patients.

Mrs. Leroy McMullan, president of the Simpsonville PTA, requested an opinion concerning whether or not teachers in the same school district should be required to work the same number of hours. McMullan noted a difference of 55 minutes in the length between days taught by rural and city teachers. The Attorney General's office ruled that each school district may adopt its own schedule of classes and teaching services, providing the schedules stay within the statutory limits of six to nine hours per day. All teachers within a school district are not required to work the same number of hours, nor are those teachers who do work for a longer time entitled to extra compensation, since they work on a contract rather than an hourly wage.

James A. Knight, Johnson county attorney, explained that a certain individual has filed his notification and declaration papers for the office of county road engineer in the Democratic primary. Knight asked if the position in question were an elective office. The opinion of the office of the Attorney General is that county road engineers are appointed by each county judge with the consent of fiscal court. Since the position is appointive, it cannot appear on either the primary or November ballot.

Academic Merit Recognized

Wheelwright High School held its annual Honor Banquet Saturday evening, April 26 at the school cafeteria with 98 students eligible for attendance. Students invited their parents to attend the dinner in their honor.

The program, which included a skit, "See Mother," was conducted by members of the senior class. Traditionally, the Honor Banquet specifically recognizes outstanding members of the junior class and awards an academic letter to several. To be eligible for such an award, a junior must maintain a 3.0 average for four of five semesters, beginning in their freshman year. Those receiving awards are pictured in photo:

Students eligible for academic letters, but unable to attend were Kathy Little and Sheldon Berger.

Flood Insurance Deadline Delay of Six Months Sought

WASHINGTON—Senator Walter Dee Huddleston has urged a review of the federal flood insurance program to accommodate the special situation existing in Appalachia.

Huddleston's statement came during consideration of an emergency housing bill, which included an amendment to postpone for six months the deadline for local communities to meet requirements for participation in the program.

The delay was agreed to in the Senate after it was pointed out that more than 7,000 communities in flood plains throughout the country have not yet qualified for the insurance program.

"Much of the Appalachian region, including Eastern Kentucky, is 'flood prone' within the definition of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973," Huddleston said in a Senate speech. "The alternative to building on the flood plain, in most areas of this region, is building on slopes of 14 degrees or more. To choose the alternative location to the flood plain would increase construction costs and expose the structure to the dangers of mudslides.

"If Appalachian communities participate in the flood insurance program, new construction on the flood plain would have to be flood-proofed. This, too, would add to construction costs. However, no one has been able to provide even a good guess as to how much constructions costs would be increased."

Food Service Training Set at Seven Schools

The Department for Human Resources, Division of Environmental Services, Sanitation Program, Frankfort, and the Floyd County Health Department will jointly sponsor a series of food service training schools May 12, 13, 14 and 15.

The class schedule follows:
Prestonsburg Elementary School, Monday, May 12, 2:30-4:30 p.m.; W. D. Osborne School, Tuesday, May 13, 1-4:30 p.m.; McDowell High School, Tuesday, May 13, 3-4:30 p.m.; Harold Elementary School, Wednesday, May 14, 1-2:30 p.m.; Martin Elementary School, Wednesday, May 14, 3-4:30 p.m.; Allen Elementary School, Thursday, May 15, 1-2:30 p.m.; Allen Central High School, Thursday, May 15, 3-4:30 p.m.

James B. Goble, administrator of the health department, asks that all food service establishment owners, operators employees and food handlers attend at least one of these schools and become familiar with the items being checked by food inspectors on the inspection form during an official inspection of your food service establishment.

Farley Urges Expanding Public Defender Program

By HERB BROCK

Frankfort, Ky.—Kentucky's new chief public defender says the state's public defender program, begun in 1972, already has raised legal services for needy persons from "the dark ages to the 20th century in one (giant) leap."

"But the defender program still is only in the blueprint stage of development," adds Jack Emory Farley, 36-year-old Pikeville attorney who was recently named by Gov. Julian Carroll to head the state Justice Department's Office of Public Defender.

In a recent interview, Farley said the program framework—originally engineered by his predecessor, Anthony Wilhoit—is sound but should be expanded to include more local public defenders and reach more indigent defendants.

"The program has progressed well in only three years," Farley said. "But, our goal of insuring prompt delivery of competent legal services to every defendant who is a needy person, as stated in the statute (KRS 31), is still a long way off."

Farley, a short plump man whose well-articulated remarks often are punctuated by a puff of cigar smoke, said that expanding Kentucky's program, which is one of only 17 state-sponsored public defender services in the nation, cannot be achieved until "the message is spread."

And that means mounting an all-out campaign to increase public awareness and local attorneys' interest in the program, he said.

As part of that approach, Farley plans to have central office staff members, including himself at times, and local defenders visit local civic clubs, church groups and schools to make citizens more aware of public defender services.

While visiting schools, defenders also can perform an educational service by helping teach students about their constitutional rights. "Education must be an integral part of our program," Farley said. "It's important that citizens know not only which laws they may have broken but also which ones can protect them."

Another part of the communications campaign will involve staff visits to open meetings of the statewide associations of circuit court clerks, court reporters, jailers, county judges and other such groups to get feedback and suggestions about the program from these criminal justice professionals.

In getting acquainted with his new job, Farley has discovered that many local defenders are attorneys who have agreed to represent indigents on an assigned-case basis only. Their identity as public defenders usually goes unadvertised and that low-profile poses a problem for central office staffers in trying to compile rosters.

The other two forms of local public defender services include non-profit associations and full-time defenders serving nine judicial districts.

Of the nine full-time defenders, those at Louisville, Ashland and Bowling Green and in Johnson, Floyd and Harlan counties are appointed locally and supported by state and local funds. The other three are appointed by Farley and funded with state money.

By law, Farley has the power to approve or disapprove local defender programs if plans for those programs, as submitted by local fiscal courts, don't meet proper standards. He also can appoint local defenders if the local fiscal courts fail to do so.

At central office, there are 12 defenders (including Farley), 14 investigators and five secretaries. Along with the number of local defenders, this is not enough to meet growing case demands, particularly in the area of appeals, he said.

"Appeals are our (central office's) single, most time-consuming work," he said, noting the office handles about 200 appeals a year.

"Ideally, as recommended by the National Legal Aid and Defender Association Standards, all public

ORDINANCE 75-01

WHEREAS, the Town of Wayland, being a town of the 6th class, has incurred many problems with the garbage situation, has experienced the littering of yards from those not keeping garbage in proper receptacles and having same picked up, has closed their city garbage dump as of January 22, 1975.

THEREFORE, the Board of Trustees does ordain the following:

That, since the Fiscal Court of Floyd County has granted the franchise for hauling garbage in this district to the Floyd County Sanitation Dept. who dispose of this refuse at the County landfill on Turkey Creek, and since it is unlawful for any other contractor to pick up garbage in this district, be it ordained that each residence within the corporate limits shall have their garbage picked up by the contracted hauler; and that this ordinance will take effect and be in force from and after its posting in the time and manner as required by law.

This ordinance passed in regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees April 7, 1975.

defenders should be full-time. Realistically, though, we have to depend on part-time defenders in most cases," said Farley, himself formerly a part-time public defender.

Farley went on to recommend that the 1976 General Assembly consider funding full-time defenders in the same nine districts which were given money by the 1974 legislature for full-time prosecutors "so the scales will be more evenly balanced in the interest of fairness."

"The system is better served if both sides—prosecution and defense—are equally represented," he contended.

Asked about the traditional—or at least well-publicized—feud between defenders and law enforcement officers, Farley denied that one exists.

But, he said police, prison and probation and parole officers and public defenders all need better training and education in order to prevent violations of due process. He cited the recent third annual public defender training seminar as an example of "what we're trying to do," adding that the state Justice Department's Bureau of Training is providing basic and continuing education for police.

Farley, who graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1962, earned a law degree from American University in Washington, D. C. in 1967. He stayed there after graduation to serve as a trial lawyer for the U. S. Departments of Justice and Defense. He also served as executive director of the Pike County Chamber of Commerce.

Tough Policy Set by UMWA On Delinquents

WASHINGTON—The general counsel's office of the United Mine Workers of America (UMWA) Health and Retirement Funds is stepping up its effort to collect monies owed to the Funds by coal industry employers signatory to the various 1974 and 1975 wage agreements which are delinquent in their payments of contributions to the Funds.

Coal industry firms which signed the National Bituminous Coal Wage Agreement of 1974 are required to make contributions into the Funds based on the coal produced in their mines and the hours worked by their employees. Contributions collected by the Funds are used to provide health, death and pension benefits to more than 200,000 working and retired coal industry employees and their dependents.

"Although the large majority of the signatory employers make their payments on time and cooperate fully with the Funds, there is a small number which does not," Funds General Counsel Ian Lanoff said. "It is these firms which are causing the Funds to lose important investment income."

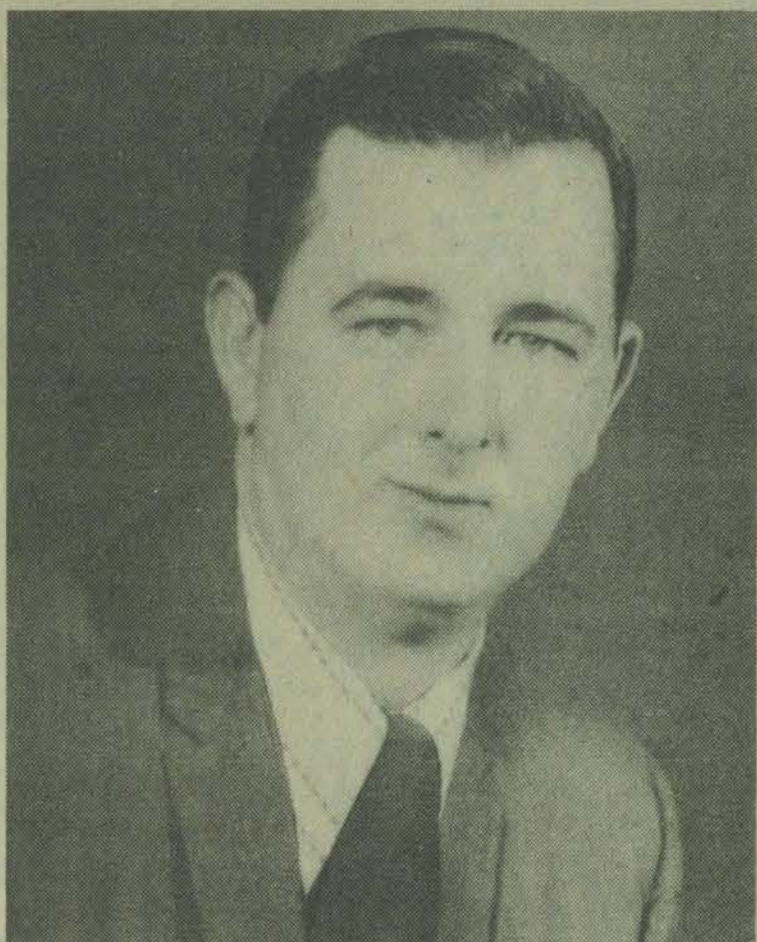

"We've always been involved in collecting from delinquent contributors either through legal action or settling on a payment schedule out of court," Mr. Lanoff continued. "Now, however, with the recent ratification of a new coal industry wage agreement, instead of having to collect from less than 400 contributors, we have to collect from as many as 2,000 contributors. Consequently, we have updated our methods to help us monitor the payments made—or not made—by these contributors."

Working under the old wage agreement, the Funds' attorneys last year collected more than $2 million in late payments. In the first three months of 1975, the Funds have recovered close to $200,000 from delinquent contributors.

"Under the terms of the new contract, contributions must be made by the 10th day of each month for the coal produced and the hours worked in the previous month," Mr. Lanoff explained. "This office intends to vigorously pursue all delinquent employers. Lawsuits will be filed seeking delinquent amounts, interest from the due date, attorney's fees, court costs and any other remedies deemed appropriate by the courts."

Officials of the coal industry firms which haven't kept up their payments into the Funds will be contacted in person via telephone, Mr. Lanoff said, instead of through the mails.

"We are going to get on the phone and let these people know that we intend to recover the payments they are legally obligated to make to the Funds," he said.

For Responsible and Responsive Leadership In A Representative—

Vote For James "Jitter" Allen For Representative, 95th Legislative District of Floyd County

Leadership in representation and responsiveness to the needs of people comes only from aggressive and independent-minded men who are not hand-picked for office by selfish individuals and machines. I pledge that YOU will be represented at Frankfort, that your needs will ever be paramount, not the needs of selfish men and political machines.

Let me submit to you voters certain planks in my platform, planks that I will diligently seek to have implemented by legislation.

1. The coal severance tax that is returned to the coal producing counties should be used for rural roads and other public needs, not for the restrictive uses set out by the recent dictum out of Frankfort. Many needs of our county should have priority. I think I know what the priorities should be.

2. I believe the Vietnam veterans are entitled to a bonus and that the financial needs of veterans widows and their children should be compassionately considered by legislators.

3. There are certain local highway conditions in this county that should be corrected by the Highway Department. Two specific conditions come to mind. High water often cuts traffic off at McDowell and on Abbott Creek. There are others, I'm sure. The roads should be elevated to keep traffic flowing at all times.

4. Teachers' salaries should be increased. Our teachers are as fine and well-qualified as any teachers anywhere in the United States and should be as adequately compensated. Emphasis on vocational education should be deepened and strengthened. Professional negotiation should become recognized as the inherent right of teachers.

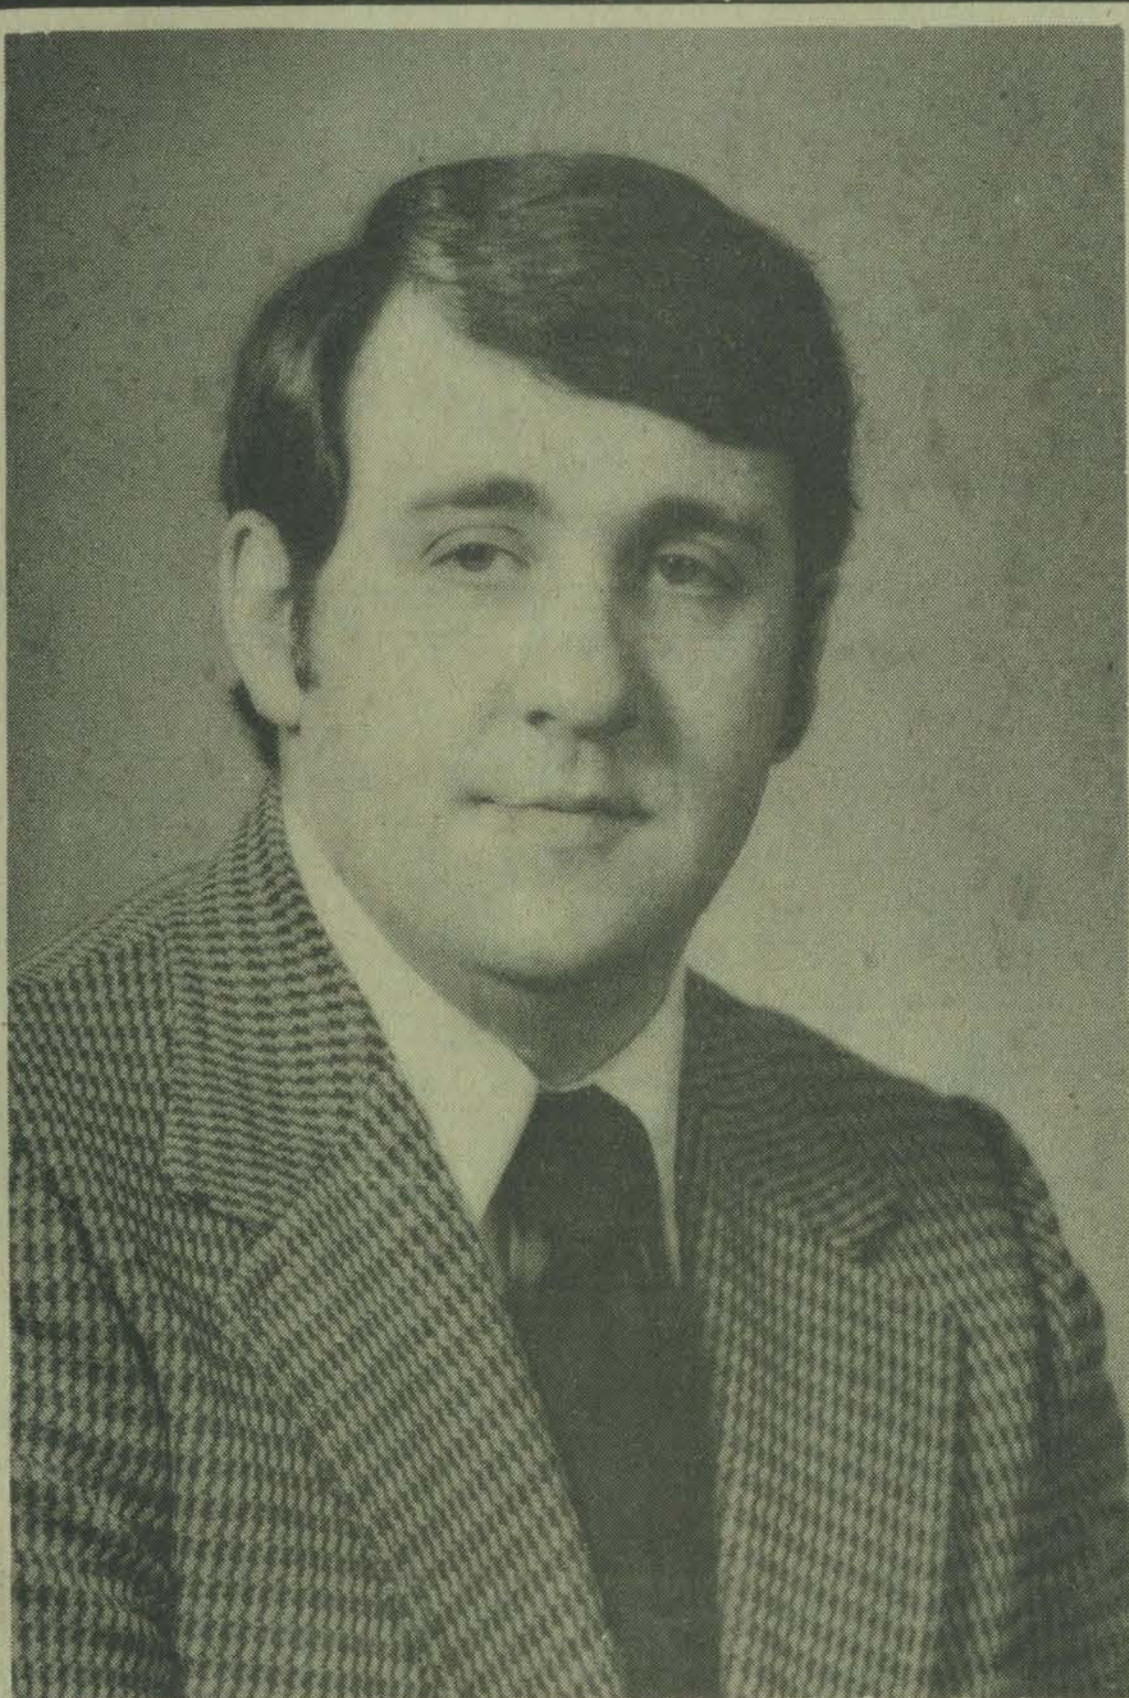

5. The Public Service Commission and the laws under which it operates should be liberalized and reconstituted so as to make it more responsive to the peoples' needs. The high energy costs we all are bearing are end results of the PSC overlooking the burden of these high energy costs and granting rate increases and rate differentials adverse to the pocket books of the average man. I want to change all of that.

6. Housing for the elderly should be made a priority of the social system of this state. Too long have our financially-pinched elderly people been brushed aside. Let's reward them for lifetimes of good citizenship by secure and adequate housing.

Upon these planks I submit my candidacy. Elect me your representative and I will respond to your needs at Frankfort.

James "Jitter" Allen

(Allen Campaign Committee; Richard (Dick) Allen, chm.)

JAMES R. ALLEN

Democratic candidate for

Commonwealth's Attorney

May primary election

Your support will be appreciated.

(Pol. adv.)

EXPERIENCE COUNTS

For four years, from 1968 to 1972, I was State Senator for the 29th District. That experience to me was invaluable as I came to know so many people throughout the area, the needs of our Eastern Kentucky region, how the state (and national) governments work, the people in Frankfort (and Washington) that can help us, and how that help can best be gotten.

Now, I am seeking this office again. I believe the experience I gained in those four years qualifies me to ask for your vote and support for the following reasons.

SEVERANCE TAX

How much money, IF ANY, will be returned to coal-producing counties from the severance tax in the next four years? This is a question vital to Eastern Kentucky and will be a major issue in the next legislature. The only three Eastern Kentuckians to hold leadership posts in the last Legislature—Rep. W. J. "Bill" Reynolds, Floyd County; Rep. Terry McBrayer, Greenup County; and Sen. Joe Stacy, Morgan County—are not seeking re-election. The incumbent Senator from this district is not seeking re-election. If we are to get the money we need from our coal, to use where we need to use it, I believe we also need a Senator with experience, who knows and has worked with Gov. Julian Carroll as I have in the past, and who knows and has worked with many of the other Senators and Representatives who will be voting on this issue.

FEDERAL PROGRAMS

In the Senate, I was privileged to work for four years with then-Senators Walter "Dee" Huddleston, now U.S. Senator; Romano "Ron" Mazzoli, now third District Congressman; and Carroll Hubbard, now first District Congressman. Our other U.S. Senator, Wendell Ford was then Lt. Governor and President of the Senate. Because of this relationship, I know these men, both personally and politically, as well as I do our own Seventh District Congressman Carl Perkins. I can and will work with these officials in Washington to help this district.

ROADS

I am aware that it sometimes takes years to get approval to build a road. As a Senator (and since that time) I made countless trips to Frankfort with delegations from this district to get approval on streets, roads, highways and bridges for this district. I was working for Ky. 80 in both the 1968 and 1970 legislatures, as were others in both the House and Senate. Now that engineering contracts have been awarded and work begun on this road, I believe your next Senator should be working for approval of the roads we will need for our future growth. This I will do.

EDUCATION

In my last term, I was a member of the Senate Standing Committee on Education, and named Chairman of the Special Committee on Education. I am fully aware of the problems faced by our school systems, teachers and administrators. I also know that one Senator, working alone, cannot pass any bills or raise any salaries. It requires a majority of 35 senators and 100 representatives plus the cooperation of the Governor. I believe my past experience qualifies me to obtain the support needed to help bring our educational programs, budgets and salaries in line with the rest of the nation and I will work honestly toward that goal.

$103,000 Work Planned at PCC

Those multi-colored plastic walls of the Johnson Administration Building at Prestonsburg Community College are due to come down soon, to be replaced by pre-stressed concrete.

Robert R. Allen, assistant director at the college, last week said plans for the improvement have been made but that neither he nor Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director, had at that time seen any written approval of the project. He added that the first news of approval of the work by the Council on Higher Education came via The Courier-Journal.

The work, as planned, will cost $103,000 and may begin in May. Besides pre-stressed concrete walls to replace the plastic which becomes super-heated on warm days, the work will include a new roof for the building and elimination of approximately half of the 50 skylights, many of which let in the rain.

The now-windowless building will have windows when the work is completed. "And they will open," Mr. Allen said, referring to the nearby Pike Building which has windows that will not open.

The present plastic walls are thin and without insulation. Classrooms with outside walls become extremely uncomfortable, it was said.

Elizabethtown Community College already has replaced its plastic walls. It and Prestonsburg's were the first two in the community chain, and both were similar in design and in materials used.

Health Notes

By DONNA J. GRIFFITH

Each year Kentucky physicians may report as many as 1,000 new cases of cervical cancer. A pap smear can foretell the development of this kind of cancer even before obvious symptoms are noted by the woman or her doctor.

The Floyd County Health Department will conduct a pap smear clinic, Thursday, May 8, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The health department urges all women to have at least one pap smear every year, because when this kind of cancer is discovered early enough, treatment can be started and lives can be saved.

The clinic is free and open to all women.

A nurse from the Floyd County Health Department will conduct an outpost clinic Monday, May 12 in the basement of the Methodist church at Wayland. Clinic hours will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., the following free services being available: TB skin tests, immunizations, diabetes screening, blood pressures and hemoglobins.

All persons in the Wayland area are welcome to attend this clinic.

The health department would like to urge all parents to check their children's immunization records to see if they have had all their required immunizations. Every youngster should have had all his shots by the time he is two years old, in which case only booster doses will be required before he enters school.

ATTEND PICNIC

A picnic was held recently on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Grover M. Collins, of Louisville. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Grover M. Collins and children, Kathy Lee and Greg, Mrs. Anne Stephens, of Hite, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Davis, Louisville, Linda Allen and daughter, Donna Lee, of Louisville, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Stephens and children, Marla and Stevie, of Hite, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Klosterman, Larry Klosterman, Shelly Brunner, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Klosterman, all of Louisville, Shelia Artrip, of Hite, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Pohlman and son, of Indiana, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Flynn and daughter, Alton, Ky.

PEARL STRONG

Pearl Strong for State Senator

An ex-coal miner, professional baseball player, Miner's Memorial Hospital employee, Magistrate and State Senator.

As an ex-magistrate he knows the problems that the county judges and magistrates have with the county roads, especially in Eastern Kentucky. As State Senator and ex-coal miner he knows the problems of the coal miner. He was one of the four legislators that the 1970 "Ky. Black Lung Bill" was named for. As an ex-professional baseball player he knows the needs for athletic programs for young people. He worked for and got an increase in teachers' and school administration salaries and got more money put in elementary and secondary school programs.

As you probably read in the paper in 1970, he proposed a severance tax in a special committee and asked the Governor to consider it in a special session of the General Assembly that was called. His proposal was 15 cents per ton, with the coal producing counties getting 60 per cent of the coal tax money back. He was also on a special hearing committee and he asked the question of how much coal had been mined out of Eastern Kentucky. The coal representative stated that 5 per cent had been mined according to the Bureau of Mines in Washington, D. C. That means there's at least 4 or 5 hundred years of coal mining left in Eastern Kentucky, so it looks good for future generations. Don't get discouraged, fellow Eastern Kentuckians, the future looks good for years to come, and Pearl Strong would like to help as your State Senator to keep Eastern Kentucky one of the most prosperous places in the U.S. to live in.

Elect Pearl Strong for a sober and fulltime Senator on May 27, 1975. The Democrat.

UNION ENDORSES STRONG

(Letter to Pearl Strong, dated April 15, 1975)

It gives us great pleasure to inform you that the Kentucky Legislative board of the United Transportation Union extends to you their endorsement in the May 27, 1975 Primary Election for the State Senate from the Twenty-Ninth District.

Red Clark "The Cracker Man" Supports Burnis Martin For Commonwealth's Attorney

On Jan. 8th. issue of the Floyd Co. Times I hand-picked Burnis Martin to run for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney and at the time I hand-picked him I felt that Burnis Martin could do a great service for Floyd County.

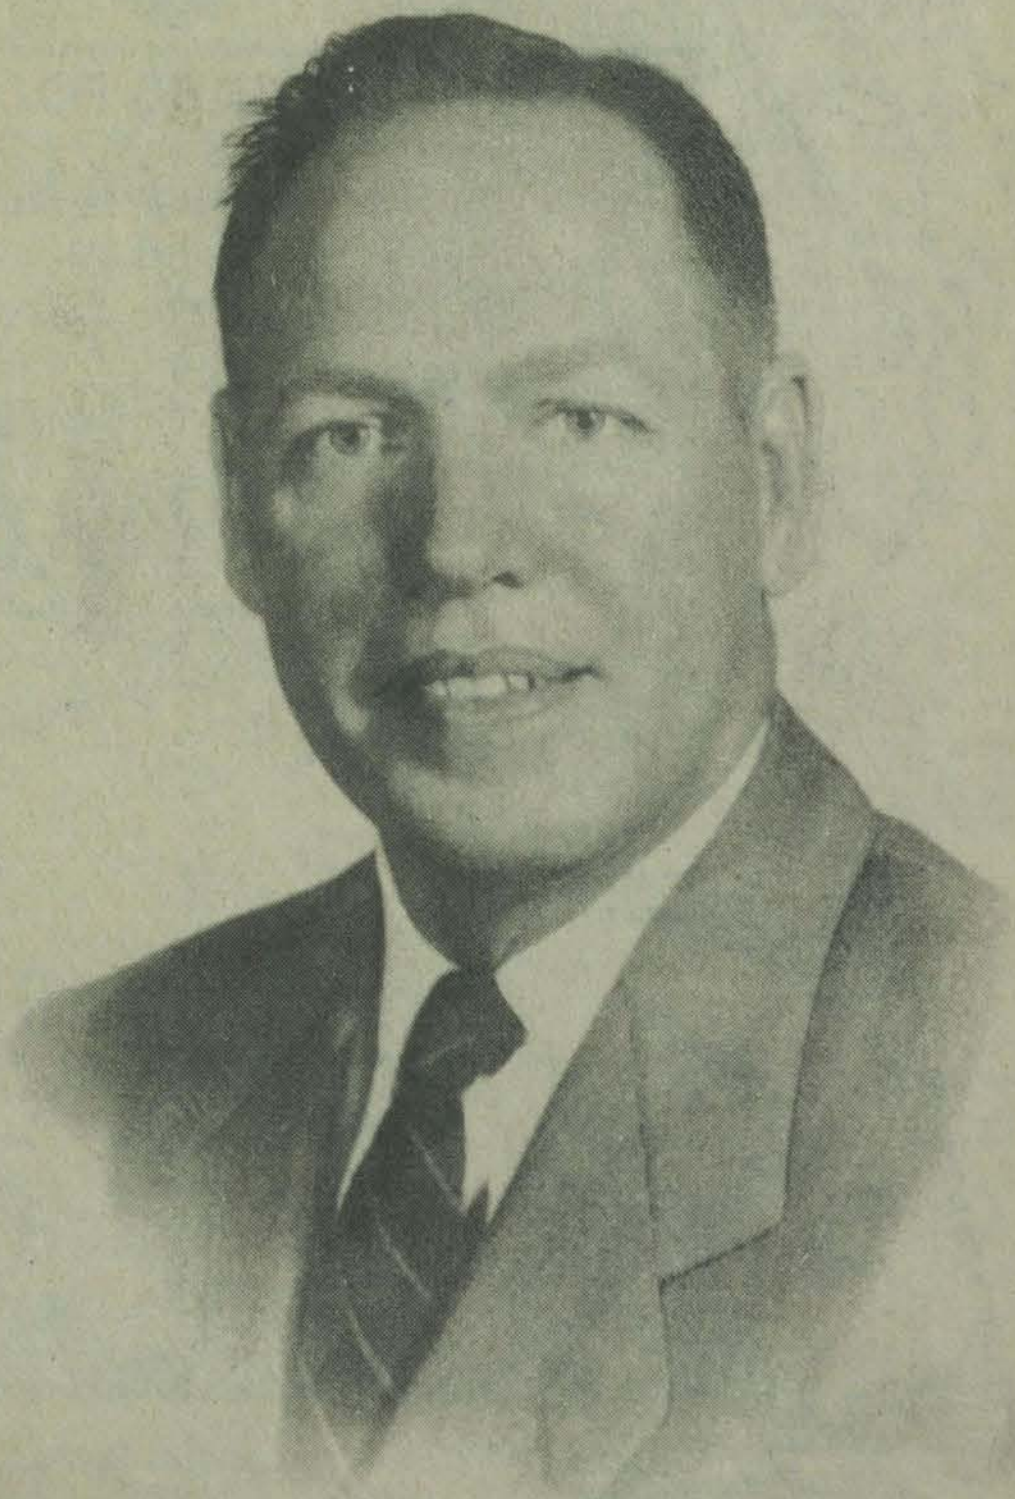

Afterward I called up everybody in the county I could think of and after electioneering with several of the stores on my "cracker" route, I became convinced that I hand-picked the right man whom I'm supporting with all my effort and ask my friends to join with me in securing his election.

In order to have good government and public officials who will "not rock the boat" we must elect Burnis Martin because:

1. He made us a good Commonwealth's Attorney before.
2. He's 100 pct. for Labor ... Official Record.
3. I'm a Veteran and he's a Veteran.
4. He's my brother-in-law.

For the visitor who takes time to look and listen, the Red River Gorge and surrounding area offers unmatched natural and human history. Erosion and weathering, which began more than 70 million years ago and continues today, left a special geological manuscript with its story etched in stone.

Visitors often experience the wonderment that made the Red River Gorge special to the Indians for 8,000 years. The plunging cliffs, natural arches and spectacular overlooks yearly bring an increasing number of visitors.

It is an area where backpackers and hikers can travel through seemingly untouched hollows or along ridges that fall several hundred feet on both sides. Caught by night or a summer storm, they can take shelter in rock houses used by Indian cultures since 6,000 B.C.

The Red River Gorge geological area, with more than 25,000 acres, offers much more than recreation for just hikers and backpackers. It is near the Mountain Parkway, east of Stanton.

The Forest Service manages this country of more than 80 natural bridges and arches for sightseeing and outdoor recreation with protection of the area's beauty in mind. Beginning in the summer of 1975, a visitor information station will open near the Gorge to provide information about trails and scenic drives in the land formed by time and weather.

The Gorge's most popular attractions are near the station at Highway 715 and Forest Service Road 24.

From Chimney Top Rock, visitors view the Gorge from an observation point set a stark 600 feet above the river. Sky Bridge is part of the Loop Drive, which will take the motorist through the Gorge. At the bridge visitors can walk across and then under the natural arch to study close up the effects of weathering on exposed formations. Both Sky Bridge and nearby Rock Bridge offer picnicking. Swift Camp Creek Trail, which begins at Rock Bridge, is a favorite of treasure seekers looking for John Swift's legendary lost silver mine. Hikers pass through several geological features and flora areas in the four-hour walk to Sky Bridge. The entire Gorge has trails from a half to eight miles long. Visitors can motor past Sky Bridge on Highway 715 to Hen's Nest Rock, Tower Rock and Chimney Top Rock on the way to Nada Tunnel. This hand-cut, one-lane tunnel was part of a logging railroad which for many years was the only way of entering the upper part of the Gorge.

Camping is available at Koomer Ridge, east of the Loop Drive on Highway 15. This fee area as 54 sites, with 14 for tent camping only. All camping and picnicking sites in the Forest are on a first-come, first-served basis. Koomer Ridge has several hiking trails to explore its natural rock bridges and other unusual geological formations.

Backpackers may camp free within the Gorge, but must select a site at least 300 feet from the road. They are expected to carry out all of their refuse, rather than burying it. Animals such as raccoons and possums often dig up buried camp garbage.

The Stanton ranger district has more to offer the visitor. The curious and historically minded can take a small side trip south of Stanton to nearby Cottage and Fitchburg Iron Furnaces. The Forest Service is working on the grounds and making improvements to the Fitchburg Furnace, which is listed in the National Register of Historic Places. Picnic tables are available near both old iron furnaces where craftsmen smelted pig iron from the native ore more than 150 years ago.

The Red River Gorge and nearby attractions are available all year to the public. The district ranger in Stanton or the forest supervisor's office in Winchester has additional information to help the public enjoy its natural heritage.

Opinions by the Attorney General

Carroll M. Redford, Jr., Barren county attorney, asked whether the theft of services statute makes it a crime to issue a worthless check for the payment of rent. Since the rental was not induced by immediate payment, but by a promise to pay, it is the opinion of the office of the Attorney General that the service was not obtained by means of deception. Unless the renter—at the time of the rental—gave evidence that he would not pay the money when due, the subsequent issuance of a worthless check is not an offense.

Gerald Henson, of the Interdenominational Evangelistic Center, Inc., requested an opinion concerning whether or not school census records are required by law to be open to the public. Henson noted that he would like access to records to obtain a mailing list. The Attorney General's office held that under state law the school census is only to serve the interest of the state in enforcing the compulsory attendance law. This does not warrant the use of such records for compiling a mailing list.

William H. Long, sheriff of Trimble county, asked if a motor vehicle, purchased in another state, must be licensed in that state before it is brought into Kentucky or whether it may be operated here before it is licensed. The Attorney General's office held that such a vehicle may be driven in Kentucky for a five-day period without being registered in either state, providing the bill of sale is in the vehicle at all times.

Dulcie H. Martin, director of business affairs for McCracken county public schools, wished to know if a school district employee, who is off duty due to an injury covered by workmen's compensation, is entitled to have the time he is off work count toward his years of experience. The office of the Attorney General gave the opinion that the absence would be counted in favor of a teacher in fixing his salary rating, and the same thing should apply to all other school employees. The leave of absence should not disrupt tenure rights and benefits.

Litrell Hampton, of Jeremiah, Ky., complained that county officials have failed to maintain the county road serving several homes in this area. Although the county has the duty to keep all its roads in passable condition, it cannot be forced into doing so. However, the Attorney General's office held that all citizens, especially in this mechanized and highly developed time, are entitled to have their roads kept in good condition.

That Leaves $4.07 Billion Yet Needed

Frankfort, Ky.—Kentucky recently received $130,000 from the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency for water pollution control. But, that's just a drop in the bucket.

Kentucky needs $4.2 billion in construction funds alone to meet the requirements of the 1972 federal Water Pollution Act, according to officials of the division of water quality in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Congress appropriated about $65 million for construction of municipal waste treatment facilities in Kentucky during 1975. Between $90 and $131 million will be appropriated for 1976. With the huge amount of money already appropriated and the additional amount needed, state water officials are faced with the enormous and urgent task of funneling the federal money to the local governments that need it the most. The task is urgent because any of the money not obligated by the end of the 1976 fiscal year will be redistributed to other states.

For several months, the water quality division has been developing a water quality management system to insure effective distribution of the federal money. The plan will include using the recent $130,000 grant for a computerized system that will produce readily accessible information that will help determine where the federal funds should go.

For several months, consulting firms hired by the division of water quality have been studying each of the state's ten river basins to obtain information needed for the water quality management system.

Municipalities are being ranked regionally and then statewide according to their need for federal grants to construct waste water control facilities. Those with the greatest need will receive the federal grants first.

According to Walter Martin, who is coordinating the basin studies for the division of water quality, about 2,000 pages of information will be organized for computerization. Alternatives for controlling water pollution in each river basin will become more readily apparent when the information is organized and reduced.

Martin emphasizes that the division of water quality will not make the final decisions on where the federal funds will go or how they will be used. "The information will be presented to the public and to elected officials of various levels of government," Martin said. "We are concentrating our efforts on gathering information and on reducing that information to a size and format which the ultimate decision makers can use."

Information on the river basins and the ranking of the municipalities within them will be explained at a series of workshops scheduled for early June.

A public hearing on the management system, the information gathered and the priority ranking for the entire state will be held in late June.

Justice Task Force Meet in Frankfort

Frankfort, Ky.—Judges, state justice officials, attorneys, juvenile court administrators, private citizens and a state representative were among 25 persons meeting here this week to discuss upgrading Kentucky's trial system.

The meeting was the first in a series of gatherings to be held over the next 18 months, during which time recommendations for improving courts will be drawn up and submitted to the Kentucky Advisory Commission on Standards and Goals. The Kentucky group is a follow-up to a national commission, which outlined scores of recommendations for improving the states' criminal justice systems.

The courts task force will study such areas as pre-trial investigations, sentencing processes, plea bargaining, probation and possible legislation.

The courts group is one of five task forces formed by the Department of Justice to study and recommend improvements in all areas of criminal justice such as police, juvenile delinquency and corrections.

Ky. Hospital Ass'n Confers Its Highest Award on Frazier

Chalmer H. Frazier, of Prestonsburg, president of the Highlands Regional Medical Center, recently was accorded the Kentucky Hospital Association's Distinguished Service Award, highest honor to be conferred by the association.

The presentation was made at the annual state association banquet held the evening of April 23 at the Galt House, Louisville. The award, which came as a surprise to the Prestonsburg man, was made at the direction of the Kentucky Hospital Association board of trustees.

The Mothers' Trust

Beneath the blood stained Lintel, I with my children stand;
A messenger of evil is passing through the land.
There is no other refuge from the Destroyer's face;
Beneath the blood stained Lintel shall be our hiding place.

The lamb of God has suffered, our sins and griefs he bore;
By faith the blood is sprinkled above our dwelling's door.
The foe who seeks to enter doth fear that sacred sign;
Tonight the blood stained Lintel shall shelter me and mine.

My Saviour, for my dear one, I claim they promise true;
The lamb is "for the household"—the childrens saviour too.
On earth the little children once felt thy touch divine;
Beneath the blood stained Lintel they blessing give to mine.

O though who gave them, guard them—those wayward little feet;
The wilderness before them, the ills of life to meet.
My mother love is helpless, I trust them to thy care!
Beneath the blood stained Lintel, Oh keep me ever there!

The faith I rest upon thee, thou wilt not disappoint;
With wisdom, Lord, to train them, my shrinking heart anoint
Without my children, Father, I cannot see thy face;
I plead the blood stained Lintel, thy covenant of grace.

Oh, wonderful Redeemer, who suffered for our sake.
When o'er the guilty nations the judgement storm shall break,
With joy from that safe shelter, may we then meet thine eye,
Beneath the blood stained Lintel, my children, Lord, and I.

—Author Unknown
(Printed by American tract Society, Oradell, N. Jersey; submitted by Mary Jenkins)

"They shall take to them every man a lamb, according to the house of their fathers, a lamb for a house—the blood shall be to you for a token upon the house where ye are; and when I see the blood, I will pass over you." (Exodus 12:3, 13).

The next day John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world. (John 1:29).

The citation accompanying the award reads, in part:
"Chalmer H. Frazier, a native of Martin, Ky., attended Berea College and received his Master's from the University of Kentucky in 1939. He served in various positions in the educational field, including math teacher, principal and superintendent of Prestonsburg city schools. In 1956 he became administrator of Prestonsburg General Hospital. Through the efforts of Mr. Frazier, Congressman Carl D. Perkins and George P. Archer, M.D., the dream of Highlands Regional Medical Center became a reality. Mr. Frazier became president of Highlands Regional Medical Center in 1974.

"He has served the Kentucky Hospital Association in many capacities, including president of the Blue Grass Hospital District, chairman of the KHA Legislative Committee and president of the Association in 1970-1971. He is a member of the American College of Hospital Administrators; served on the board of trustees of Blue Cross, and is a member of the Big Sandy Comprehensive Health Planning Council. Mr. Frazier is a member of the Kiwanis Club and served as president of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club. He is a past president of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association and the Floyd County Historical Society, is treasurer of the Eastern Kentucky Concert Association and served on the board of directors of Prestonsburg Community College. He also serves as chairman of the administrative board of the First United Methodist Church in Prestonsburg."

Open House At Greenhouse

Mountain Comprehensive Care Center will hold open house at its Greenhouse Training Program facilities on US 23, across from the Highlands Regional Hospital, Thursday and Friday, May 8-9, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

The program is a combined therapy and work training program for the mentally, emotionally and physically handicapped population of the Big Sandy Area Development District which includes Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Magoffin and Martin counties.

Began as a pilot project in 1972, with one greenhouse located in Flat Gap in Johnson county, the Greenhouse Program is now recognized as one of the most outstanding endeavors in a combined therapy and work training program for the handicapped in the state. It was the first to use horticulture as the work training medium.

Present facilities consist of a complex of five greenhouses, two administrative and storage units, and outdoor gardens at the Auxier site. In addition, there are satellite greenhouses in Pikeville and Inez. Later this year, an integrated food processing center will be constructed in Magoffin county which will also be a part of the program.

David Gillespie, director of the Greenhouse Program, extends an open invitation to all the citizens of the Big Sandy for the open house.

Senator, Family In $773,000 Suit

State Senator Kelsey E. Friend, of Pike county, and two members of his family are among five plaintiffs in a damage suit filed here May 3 which seeks to recover a total of $773,000.

The action is the aftermath of an auto wreck on KY 1086 in which the senator's son, Kelsey E. Friend, Jr., and Earl Sullivan were injured. Named as defendants are Willard Osborne and his employer, Joe Junior Howell. Negligence of Osborne, driver of the Howell car which collided with Friend's, is alleged.

Senator Friend asks $8,000 for damages to his auto, which his son was driving, and $5,000 for loss of its use. His son sues for $600,000, claiming permanent injuries, and Sullivan asks $100,000. The younger Friend's wife, Barbara, asks $50,000 for loss of companionship of her husband and for his care and nursing. Sullivan's wife, Patsy Ruth, asked $10,000 on the same grounds.

70-Year-Old Woman Finds Wider Horizons Atop Fire Tower

FRANKFORT, Ky.—State employment has given 70-year-old Ethel Rousey a broader outlook on life. It has also literally widened the horizons of 24-year-old Joetta Russel.

The two women work in fire lookout towers in Casey county, one of 109 towers maintained by the division of forestry in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection. More than a third are staffed by women.

Being a watch tower observer is seasonal, part-time work since the towers are normally operated only during fire season—March 1 to May 15 and Oct. 1 to Dec. 15. From noon to 5 p.m., the observers scan the countryside for smoke. During fire season, state law prohibits setting fire to flammable material located in or within 150 feet of any woodland or brushland, except between 4:30 p.m. and midnight, when winds usually die down and the ground is cooler.

During fire season, every day just before noon, Rousey hurries up the hill from her home and climbs the wooden steps to a small enclosed perch 47 feet above the ground. That's the Sandy Tower, north of Liberty.

At about the same time, Russel drives east from her home in Liberty and climbs 60 feet to a similar enclosed box. Combined with the Button Tower, west of Liberty, most of Casey County is visible to the watch observers.

Rousey, who looks and acts much younger than 70, attracts visitors to her otherwise lonely outpost. Since she became a smoke watcher about eight years ago, scores of visitors have braved the perilous climb to her tower.

She's had Boy Scouts and university students, newspaper reporters and adventure seekers. She's had young visitors and old ones. Last year, her five-year-old grandson came by frequently. Her husband sometimes views the scenery through binoculars. And some of her nine brothers and sisters have come from Jefferson county to see their sister climb the tower.

The visitors are attracted by Rousey's ability to tell a hundred tales about what she sees around her. She was born just below the tower. She and her brothers and sisters grew up on the land where the outlook now sits. She remembers the two chestnut trees that once stood where the tower was erected in 1961.

She knows who owns the land and she knows its history. And, now, Rousey and her husband farm the land near the outlook.

According to forestry director Harry

Nadler, Rousey's knowledge of the area makes her an ideal watch observer. One of the biggest problems foresters have is find the exact location of a fire quickly. By scanning the hills, valleys and building for miles around her, Rousey can usually radio the exact location of a problem to the division of forestry office in Liberty.

In the middle of the observer's cubicle is the tool most used to pinpoint the location of smoke. It looks like a sundial and it's called an alidade.

While scanning the land for almost 15 miles around her, Russel explained how she uses the alidade and—more important—how she can tell if the smoke she observes is a forest fire. All new observers are trained in smoke detection, location estimation and radio procedures.

"After I spot some suspicious smoke," said Russel. "I look through the small hole on one end of the dial and line up the hole at the other end with the smoke. Then, I read the degrees of direction recorded in the dial under the hole. After that, I radio the findings to the forestry office."

Russel said a forest fire produces a whiter smoke than a brush fire or smoke from a chimney. It also moves more quickly than other fires. "If smoke keeps coming from the same spot and doesn't move, I probably won't report it," said Russel. "But, if it starts moving, I'll radio the office."

Russel became a smoke watcher two years ago, but dropped out of the program last season to take another job. She returned to her tower this season because she likes the work. She and Rousey agree the hours are good and the work is satisfying. "You feel like you're doing your part by working up here," she said.

When she isn't visiting with company in her tower, Rousey likes to crochet, read a little and write letters.

Forestry officials don't object to the observers' other projects as long as they scan the area for smoke about every 10 minutes. Some observers even have taken sewing machines up to their towers.

Though Rousey and Russel recommend the job, they do caution that anyone who wants to become a smoke observer should have good eyesight, climb well and be able to remain calm when talking on the radio.

And, Rousey added as a gust of wind shook the tower and an airplane seemed to head straight for her little spire, "Anyone who wants this job better not be afraid of heights or scare easily."

DOCTORS SAY QUINTUPLETS DOING WELL IN CINC

CINCINNATI, Ohio—The Levy quintuplets are doing so well that doctors at Cincinnati General Hospital yesterday indicated one or more of them might be going home to Fairfield, Ohio, in about two weeks.

Dr. John Linder, assistant director of the medical center, in a prepared statement, said four of the five babies remained in incubators yesterday. He said all the babies, three girls and two boys, are gaining weight.

The parents are Mark Levy, 27, and his wife, Pamela, 28. Mrs. Levy, a junior high school counselor, gave birth by caesarian section April 22.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family of Lee Justice, would like to express our thanks to all friends and neighbors who in any way helped in time of illness and death of our beloved husband and father; also all who sent flowers and food. We also want to thank the doctors and staff at the Highland Regional Medical Center, the Ministers for their kindness and sympathy, and the Floyd Funeral Home for its kind and efficient services.

GEORGE CLARKE for State Senator

Grandson of
Professor George Clarke
Nephew of Senator Saw-loggin Doug Hays

I BELIEVE . . .

1. That Eastern Kentucky should have at least half of the coal severance tax returned to the county where the coal is mined.
2. That Eastern Kentucky should have adequate highways to support heavy coal trucks, since coal is our major industry. Also new and better highways to help us take advantage of the tourist industry.

REBUILDING ROUTE 80 FROM HAZARD TO ALLEN IS A MUST!

3. That the Federal and State Governments should provide funds to research better methods of using coal. Construction should be started immediately on the Coal Conversion plants to help combat inflation and the energy crisis.

4. That Kentucky should spend more per child on education. We are now in last place and have enough natural resources to be first.

5. That Eastern Kentucky children should not have to leave home to find employment.

If you believe as I do, elect me to the State Senate for Perry, Knott, Floyd and Martin Counties, and I guarantee that you'll have a voice in Frankfort!
