

Lafferty Sues To Annul Option

County-Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr., filed a complaint in circuit court Tuesday afternoon asking the court to declare that the proper territory for a local option election is countywide, not a magisterial district, and that County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson be directed to void the petition filed Feb. 8, requesting a local option election in Magisterial District No. 3.

If Circuit Judge Hollie Conley acts, as requested, the effect would be an annulment of the order entered by Judge Lafferty setting a date of the election after Wet forces had filed the petition with the county clerk.

The complaint named County Clerk Robinson as defendant solely because of his official capacity, County Attorney Arnold Turner said. It was described as "a friendly suit" designed for the eventual voiding of the scheduled election on April 20.

The complaint filed by County Attorney Turner and Phil Damron, private counsel for the county judge-executive, pointed out that the territory (District 3) that was represented in the petition lodged with the county clerk, seeking an election date, is not a territory within the meaning of KRS 242.020, since a countywide election was held in 1969, the county voted Dry at that time and, according to existing Kentucky law, such an election may be held, countywide, but not in a single magisterial district.

A local option election was recently approved for a Pike county magisterial district by County Judge-Executive Paul Patton, who later rescinded his order on the basis of a 1951 Appellate Court decision. His right to rescind the order, since he acts in an executive rather than a judicial capacity, has been questioned locally, and this, it was said, resulted in Judge Lafferty calling on the circuit court to rescind his order.

Arson Cited in Fire at Tipple

A tippie recently leased by Ray-Mac Mining Co. at Simpson's Branch, near McDowell, burned to the ground around 10:45, Saturday night. Investigation of the incident, which KSP Arson Investigator Barry McKenzie termed "definitely an arson case," is continuing.

Meanwhile, Edgar Jones, a Prestonsburg coal operator who was named recently as defendant in a suit brought by owners of Ray-Mac, filed a counter-suit in Circuit Court here Tuesday, claiming that Ray-Mac had defamed him.

In his suit, Jones argues that James McGhee, Frank Justice and Raymond "Pete" Barker, plaintiffs in the original action, conspired to make false allegations against him "in order to curb efforts to unionize their non-union stripmining operation" on the John Hall Branch of Mud Creek, between Grethel and McDowell.

The mine was the site of gunfire exchanges between pickets and company guards two weeks ago. Mine owners accused Jones of instigating the disturbance in order to disrupt the mine (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

Dry Forces Plan For Vote Drive

Butts speaking at meeting

Dry forces of the county rallied last Thursday as a local option election in Magisterial District 3 was threatened, and in a meeting at the Martin Elementary School prepared to resist Wet efforts, whether they are on a district or countywide basis.

Delbert Butts, executive director of the Kentucky Temperance League, addressed the gathering of more than 100—a demonstration of such interest, the speaker said, "that it should cause our opposition to think twice."

"Don't swallow this stuff," he added, "about legal control. You've got legal control. It may not be enforced, but you've got it. When an area goes wet, then it's the ABC that decides. The strongest control is to vote against alcoholic beverages."

Mr. Butts also alluded to reports of a financial windfall accruing to the City of Ashland through the taxing of sales of alcoholic beverages. This results, he said, from special legislation voted for Ashland, and the law does not provide for such taxes elsewhere.

Huey Darby, Allen insurance man, who was named chairman, presided at the meeting. Ernest Sword was named secretary and George Barnette, treasurer. Members of the steering committee are:

Lorie Vannucci, Ernest Sword, Roy Tincher, Roger Madden, Wayne Gullion, Paul Granger, and Dan Heintzleman, all of whom are ministers, and Huey Darby, George Barnette, Mrs. Eleanor Robinson, Mrs. Phyllis Ranier, Paul Hagan and Mrs. Ocie May.

Branham's Plea Of Guilt Heard In Circuit Court

Elisha Branham, Jr., 23, of Prater Creek, pleaded guilty in circuit court here Monday morning to charges of murder, kidnapping, and armed robbery in the abduction-slitting last year of 18-year-old Michael Dwayne Cline, of Emma, and soon thereafter was sentenced to two life prison terms and a third term of 20 years, the sentences to run consecutively.

After Gary Johnson, Branham's legal counsel, had waived time for presentencing report, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley immediately passed sentence. Branham was directed to be taken immediately to LaGrange state reformatory.

The sudden end to the case came three days after the defendant's return to jail here from a psychiatric center where he had been under observation since last September. The report resulting from this evaluation was to the effect that he was mentally competent to undergo trial.

Attorneys for both the commonwealth and the defense expressed satisfaction with the outcome of the case. Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen, who said he had conferred with the slain youth's family before accepting Branham's plea, said it was his feeling that with no previous felony record, "it would have been very difficult to get the death penalty." The defendant's attorney said his client and Branham's family were "relieved" to get the court verdict behind them. He expressed the feeling that Branham could not have done better than life at the hands of a jury and that the death penalty was a possibility.

Police Here Arrest Trio After Robbery

Prestonsburg police arrested two Pike county men and a juvenile here early last Wednesday, shortly after they allegedly had robbed a Pikeville service station of $350.

The fugitives, Dean Edward Rucci, 21, Willard Alvis Ramey, 25, and the juvenile, were intercepted here by city officers who had been notified that the three had left the robbery scene, driving north on US 23. All are residents of Raccoon, Pike county.

Returned to Pikeville by State Police, they were charged with first-degree robbery.

Judge Decides HRMC Need Not Rehire Workers

Eight months after the conclusion of a violence-plagued strike against Highlands Regional Medical Center, a labor arbitrator has ruled that the hospital will not have to rehire two of the striking workers.

Gwen Calhoun and Geneva Skeens, both former nurse's aides, were fired on May 7, 1981 after their alleged involvement in the May 1 beating of Helen Smith, HRMC personnel assistant, and acts of violence on the picket line. The sisters were later indicted by a Floyd county grand jury on charges of assault.

At the arbitration hearing, videotapes, photographs and other evidence were presented which showed the two women participating in various strike-related activities. The arbitrator held that the evidence substantiated the charges that led to their dismissal.

Commenting on the findings of the arbitrator, HRMC Administrator Clarence Traum acknowledged the union's right to strike when negotiating (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Wells Starts Probe Of Black Lung Fees

Kentucky's black lung compensation program is being investigated, according to state Labor Commissioner John C. Wells, with special attention being given to the millions of dollars paid to doctors and lawyers under the program.

Long-standing questions about the amount paid in professional fees in black lung cases were sharpened last week, following a Lexington-Herald report that Dr. Ballard D. Wright, 44, director of the University of Kentucky black lung clinic, has kept substantial black lung fees rather than depositing them with the Kentucky Medical Services Foundation.

An attorney for the physician, who formerly practiced medicine in Prestonsburg, said it is an "open question" whether Wright violated his UK contract by keeping some of the fees rather than depositing them in the fund, which was created to collect and disperse fees earned by physicians at the UK Medical College.

Although the fees in question were reported to have come from individual miners who had hired Wright to examine them for medical evidence of black lung, large sums are routinely paid to physicians and attorneys out of the Labor Department's "special fund," which is financed primarily by coal companies.

In the fiscal year ending last June 30, the state Workers' Compensation Board awarded disability payments in 640 black lung cases, with the attorney handling each case generally receiving a $6,500 fee.

According to the Labor Department, one Harlan attorney, Eugene Goss, received $358,000 in black lung fees last year. Other attorneys among the top fee recipients in 1981 include Floyd County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr., who received $190,000; state Rep. Herbie Deskins, of Pikeville, $322,750; (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Martin Meeting Called As Projects at Stake

Congressman Carl D. Perkins said Monday that on the outcome of decisions made at a meeting scheduled at Martin Elementary School tomorrow (Thursday) evening may rest the future of the water system in the town of Martin and also that of a 100-unit housing complex there.

The 7 p.m. meeting will bring together representatives of four government agencies, city and water system officials and interested citizens for the public airing of views of all concerned, Perkins said.

Disturbed by the possibility of the water system project being lost and by the fact that completion of that project is mandatory if the 100 units of public housing approved for Martin are to be built, Perkins last week began urging the various agencies to join in decision-making action.

Scheduled to appear at the Martin meeting are representatives of FmHA, HUD and the state Office of Community Development.

Perkins himself will not be present because the House will be in session

Thursday, but he pointed out that his presence is not necessary to a decision that could save both water and housing projects. "Above all," he said, "let us make certain that these agencies do not have an excuse to withdraw these funds."

The meeting comes at a time when federal budget-cutting is under way and many "approved" projects are being cancelled. Samuel R. Pierce, Jr., secretary of HUD, recently began action to withdraw 5500 housing units in 156 projects, and this, said Congressman Perkins' office, poses a threat to new Martin housing.

Thursday night's meeting will be, primarily, an effort to decide on the direction water improvement at Martin will take. Among those expected to be heard are engineers with conflicting views—Haworth, Meyer and Boleyn, which is in favor of Martin's renovating and operating its own plant, as opposed to Kennoy Engineers, representing the Beaver-Elkhorn Water District, which Kennoy favors as a source of water for the community.

Beaver-Elkhorn has offered to connect the town with its main for $20,000, but an additional $350,000 would be asked for expansion of its plant to meet the increased demand for water if it is to serve Martin.

Inspector Sees Rockfall Kill Topmost Miner

A 36-year-old Topmost man was killed by a rockfall near the entrance to a Toler Creek mine, at Amba, shortly after noon Monday while a state safety analyst and the nephew-partner of the victim stood only 10 feet away.

Commodore Lewis Truman, a resident of the same Knott county community where eight miners were killed Dec. 7 in a mine explosion, was killed instantly. Deputy Coroner Glenn Frazier said Truman was crushed by a slab of rock estimated to weigh five tons.

Looking on as he died were Dewey "Buck" Martin, Mines and Minerals analyst, and Truman's nephew-partner, Bobby Carter, 30, of McDowell. Azzie Hall, a state mine inspector, stood about 100 feet from the scene.

Truman was the 13th mine-related death since Jan. 1.

The tragedy occurred at the C & T Coal Company's new mine being operated by Truman and Carter on Toler Creek. It was said that Truman was working with a piece of roof-bolting steel at the drift-mouth when the rock fell without warning.

The accident was attributed to thawing weather and pure chance.

The state inspectors, Hall and Martin, had been at the mine about two hours when the fall came. Truman and Carter had requested the state to send mine inspectors to the site. Carter himself had also inspected the working area at the mouth of the mine and said he hadn't been from beneath the rock a minute when it fell.

The victim is survived by his wife, Sherry Ann, and a 10-year-old daughter, Stephanie.

Unmined Mineral Tax Gets Mixed Reaction

While local officials have been reluctant to commit themselves, ordinary people like the idea of a tax on unmined coal, said an organizer of efforts here to secure passage of House Bill 549, which is now before the state legislature.

Members of a group called the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition (KFTC) have been active here in recent weeks, addressing any group willing to listen to their argument that minerals still in the ground should be taxed at the same rate as surface property.

The Floyd Board of Education gave a sympathetic ear to the argument last month but recorded no formal support for the bill. Prestonsburg city council listened warily to a KFTC representative and offered to study the proposal but took no action on it. But members of parent-teacher groups and other civic organizations have been impressed by the proposal, organizers claim, sometimes giving it formal endorsement.

"The problem of absentee ownership of minerals has been recognized for a long time," said Joe Szakos, a KFTC organizer, this week. "The land study (a widely-publicized report on mineral ownership issued in 1980 by the Appalachian Alliance) just showed the extent of the problem."

The land study, financed by an Appalachian Regional Commission grant, cited the "minuscule" taxes paid by (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

The auto in foreground was occupied by Mrs. Kim Howard and her one-year-old daughter, Susan, of Salyersville. Pamela Hall and Vicki Hall, of Mousie, were in the other wrecked vehicle.

(Bosco) Kentucky, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 2.0 acres, located east of Bosco in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately .5 miles east of State Route 80's junction with Ky. 7, and located east of Right Fork of Beaver Creek, latitude 37° 30' 09", longitude 82° 33' 00". The surface area to be mined is owned by: Orville Adkins, James Duff and Hollie Conley. A brief description of mining activity proposed is: coal removal incidental to construction. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Area Office, 431 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objection and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping, must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing will reference application number 036-0112. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2), and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

2. Notice is hereby given provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d) (10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does constitute a change from the pre-mining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above.

Seedlings Available From DEP Nurseries

Kentucky landowners have the opportunity to do their part in averting a possible wood shortage in the future, according to division of forestry Director Donald A. Hamm.

"More trees are now being cut each year than ever before," Hamm said. "However the increased demand for timber which our larger population has generated could surpass the amount of wood available if steps aren't taken now to bolster future wood supplies."

Hamm said American Forestry Association officials estimate that at least 40 million acres in the United States should be planted in trees during the coming decade if future demands for wood and wood products are to be met.

"Our latest inventory figures indicate that nearly one million acres of idle and eroding land in Kentucky alone should be planted in trees," he said.

To help Kentucky's landowners reforest their idle acres, the division of forestry of the Department for Environmental Protection operates three tree nurseries. These nurseries produced approximately 10 million seedlings for sale this year.

All seedlings are available for sale to all Kentuckians on a first-come, first-serve basis, Hamm said.

Forestry officials said the first "lifting" or uprooting of seedlings to fill orders began Feb. 15 and will continue until the first of April.

Among the species of trees in large supply this year are black locust, loblolly pine, white pine, Scotch pine, Virginia pine, shortleaf pine and yellow poplar. Forestry officials said that the nurseries' supply of white ash, sycamore, white oak and black walnut is very limited this year as a result of a limited seed supply in 1981.

The cost of seedlings will vary with species and the size of order, Hamm explained. The seedlings are packed in bundles of 100, 500 or 1,000. Price lists and order forms can be obtained from any division of forestry, soil conservation, cooperative extension service or agricultural stabilization and conservation office.

A special wildlife packet containing a mixture of 100 seedlings suitable for creating a wildlife habitat is available for $15.

Landowners seeking assistance in determining the best species for their planting site can obtain information and advice from the service forester in their area or from the Division of Forestry, Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, Teton Trail, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Five Mines Get Grant Funds

Four Floyd county coal companies and one in Knott were recently awarded grants from the Small Operators Assistance Program.

The grants are from a federally-funded program, administered by the state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Department, designed to help small coal operations gather data required for permit application.

The Floyd companies receiving grants are:

—Mat Cour, Inc., Prestonsburg, $4,974. Work on the Mat Cour site near Beaver Creek will be done by Commonwealth Technology of Lexington.

—Four Rivers Mining, Inc., Prestonsburg, $4,974. Work on the Four Rivers site near Middle Creek will be done by Commonwealth Technology.

—Hop Hollow Mining Co., Prestonsburg, $4,980 for work on the Top Hollow site near Levisa Fork, also to be done by Commonwealth Technology.

—C&N Coal Co., of Harold, $3,848 for work on a site near Indian Creek, Pike county, to be done by Tee Engineering, of Lexington.

—C&J Coal Company, of Dema, $4,654, for work on a Motts Creek site in Knott county by Prasad Engineering, of Lexington.

The grants are from a federally-funded program, administered by the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, designed to help the small coal operators gather data required for permit application.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family of Minnie Prater, wish to thank everyone who helped in any way. We especially thank Zeb and Lola Ousley for being so kind as to let us bring my mother to their house for her funeral. We thank everyone for the beautiful flowers the food that was brought, the ministers for their comforting words, the Hall Funeral Home and the J.B. Wright Funeral Home for their kind and efficient services. We will forever be thankful.

MAGDALENE ALLEN AND FAMILY
ZEB AND LOLA OUSLEY

Grant funds provide for the gathering of background data on ground and surface waters, stream life and geological strata in the areas to be mined. Grant payments are made directly to the engineering firms selected to do the data gathering, program manager Bob Trimble said.

Kentucky coal operators mining 100,000 tons or less of coal a year are eligible for assistance under the program. Operators can apply for permits under the permanent program for surface mining, Trimble explained.

The program has provided more than $3 million in services to Kentucky coal operators since its beginning in October, 1979.

Boiler Safety Program Called Nation's Best

Kentucky has the best program in the nation to assist the public in the safe operation of boilers, according to Tracy Farmer, secretary of the Public Protection and Regulation Cabinet.

The "bottom line" of the program, said Farmer, "is the protection of people. Our staff conducts inspections on private residences if they (the residents) ask for it."

Approximately 26,000 inspections were conducted in Kentucky last year by the state's eight inspectors from the fire marshal's office, as well as qualified inspectors from insurance companies. Kentucky's boiler inspectors are located in eight communities, including Owensboro, Hopkinsville, Louisville, Monticello, Harlan, Olive Hill, Frankfort and Berea.

The state program deals with three basic areas: construction, installation and operation and maintenance. The first two fall under inspection function of the program while operation and maintenance fall under education.

"With a limited number of people, our boiler bureau has been able to protect people's homes and businesses, plus receive national recognition for their efforts," Farmer said. "They are one of the most valued agencies in the Public Protection Cabinet."

"The National Board of Boiler and Pressure Vessel Inspectors has recognized Kentucky's program as the most outstanding in the country in reduction of boiler accidents. Because of that praise, other states have expressed interest in our program and some are adopting plans patterned after our commonwealth boiler projects," added Farmer.

Oklahoma is one of those states. Shortly after a boiler exploded in January killing seven Oklahoma schoolchildren, officials from the Sooner State asked the national board for help. They wanted to know what they could do to avoid a similar catastrophe in the future.

Charles A. Brown, Kentucky's chief boiler inspector, recently spent three days in Oklahoma City explaining Kentucky's plan to members of the legislature. The legislators liked what they heard and adopted an education and inspection program similar to their one used in the commonwealth.

According to Brown, Oklahoma is one of several states to consider modeling its boiler program after Kentucky's plan. Michigan, New York, Virginia and Wisconsin are following suit.

"In 1980 the national board took our (program) book to sell to Georgia," Brown said. Georgia eventually adopted a program similar to the one used in Kentucky.

The boiler inspection bureau is in the office of the state fire marshal in the cabinet's Department of Housing, Buildings and Construction. People interested in having a boiler inspected can call the main office in Frankfort at (502) 564-3826.

Polar Bears, Penguins Focus Of KET Program

National Geographic Society focuses its cameras on the small arctic Canadian town of Churchill which is in the path of migratory polar bears on "Polar Bear Alert," airing Wednesday, March 10 at 9 p.m. on KET.

Every winter the 1,200-pound carnivores ride the huge ice floes north through the Hudson Bay, waiting patiently for dinner near air holes cut in the ice by submerged seals. When an 800-pound seal comes up for air, the polar bear crushes its skull with one swipe of its massive paw.

With the advent of spring, the river currents reverse and carry the ice floes south. In the warmer water the ice melts, leaving the bears without transportation as they wander ashore in search of food. Compelled by hunger, the polar bears congregate at the town dump of Churchill.

The National Geographic Society has deposited its cameras here to capture feeding habits and social interactions of the meandering bears.

Immediately following this program is the "Survival Special" entitled "Penguin Summer" at 10 p.m. The penguin is the subject of this special which focuses on the breeding habits of this seabird as it breaches the waters of the South Atlantic and nests in the cliffs of a seabird sanctuary off the coast of South America.

SEEK OUT A PROFESSIONAL!

"It is a truism in the legal profession that the vast majority of widows lose a substantial part of an uncontrolled bequest within seven years." So states Theresa Morse in her book, "Life is for the Living."

She points out that a team of experts (a lawyer, accountant, and investment counselor) can provide the professional advice that well-meaning friends and relatives simply cannot. All of us may need some or all of that "team." Ms. Morse counsels a widow, especially, to seek out a lawyer with whom she can communicate frankly and comfortably. He must be "right" for her, and he and the other counselors must earn her confidence and trust. Only through this trust can they help chart her short and long-range courses of action.

So, too, must we earn your trust. You should be comfortable discussing your funeral wishes with us. As with your lawyer, we conduct our affairs on a professional level. We want you to consider us as members of your "team," ready to help make pre-planned arrangements or provide information in advance of need.

To Protect the Innocent

Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. has given the General Assembly free rein during the current session, but now he promises a bill of his own, and we are glad he has done so.

This is the legislation announced Monday to hit drunken drivers. It's tough—some "good, old boys" will get hit—but it's needed.

Mandatory jail terms is one feature of the proposed bill. Stiffer fines, progressively stronger penalties as infractions are repeated are others. And when a case is dismissed the prosecuting attorney or the judge, or both, will be required to state in writing why such clemency was granted.

The dark trail of tragedy that crisscrosses Kentucky, motor vehicle wrecks claiming the lives of the innocent because a driver behind the wheel was drunk, blindly or recklessly so—these demand legal restraints such as Governor Brown would impose.

As the governor is being credited with this move toward stiffer and more certain penalties for drunk drivers, a group of Kentucky mothers (MADD) who have suffered at the hands of such drivers and have battled for new and more stringent laws should also be remembered, with thanks.

operation and to acquire Ray-Mac's lease on the coal there.

Jones denies the allegations, claims that they have damaged his reputation, and seeks a million dollars in compensatory and punitive damages.

Also filed in court Tuesday was an affidavit signed by 11 of the 13 other defendants named in the Ray-Mac suit and another man who, while not included in the suit, acknowledges that he was involved in picketing at the mine. In their affidavit, the signers deny that the picketing was "instigated, authorized or supported" by Jones. In picketing Ray-Mac, they sought only to persuade the miners there of the benefits of union organization, they said.

Attorneys for both Jones and the other defendants have also filed motions to have dissolved the temporary injunction issued against them by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley last week.

Jones claims he was never notified of Ray-Mac's request for an injunction, that the court heard no evidence to justify granting one, and that he was not bound by an agreement between Ray-Mac and the other defendants named in the company's suit.

The other defendants argue that, since they have discontinued their picketing, the injunction is no longer needed.

A January 20 report by Workers' Compensation Director Jerry Roberts said Dr. Wright receives from $320 to $550 for examining a black lung claimant. If a deposition is required in a case, the physician charges $200. During the months ending last Dec. 31, Labor Department officials said, the department paid Wright $75,000 for depositions and $371,170 to the UK black lung clinic he heads.

According to a Courier-Journal report Saturday, Labor Commissioner Wells said his investigation of the black lung program is designed to assure that "black lung claimants get fair and equitable treatment from the system."

"I have always had personal problems with the amount of money that physicians and attorneys receive from the black lung program," said Wells, the son of a Floyd county miner. "I believe the program was designed for coal miners, and not for the personal enrichment of attorneys and physicians."

tions failed. He also said, however, that working employees had rights, too, and that the acts committed by Skeens and Calhoun violated those rights and were not condoned by anyone, including most union members.

According to earlier press statements, the hospital's refusal to rehire the two former employees was a major reason for the rejection of the proposed contract on July 2. The 105-day strike was resolved a week later.

Commonwealth's Attorney James Allen said Tuesday that Skeens and Calhoun will be prosecuted in the case involving Mrs. Smith, although a trial date has not yet been set.

However, "justice might be better served" if the charges of picket-line violence were dismissed, Allen said, as were similar charges against other defendants accused in strike-related incidents.

The whereabouts of young Cline was sought for weeks after his disappearance on the night of July 9, last, from the Allen service station where he was night attendant. During a part of the search, which did not end until August 15 with the discovery of young Cline's body near a Perry county roadside, Branham himself was sought, believed to have been a victim, also.

Ten days after the finding of his victim's body, however, Branham was arrested in Texas City, Texas, and before leaving there in custody of officers to return here he signed a confession, admitting the robbery of the service station, the abduction of the attendant and, finally, the shooting of young Cline.

Branham will be eligible for parole on the life terms in about eight years and on the 20-year sentence in four years.

grams, Headstart, "winterizing" and repairing homes, and a garden program.

Budget manipulations in the Community Services Administration have resulted in a recent funding cut for the CAP here and, more recently, in a partial restoration of funds. A number of positions terminated as a result of the cuts—including that of Floyd county coordinator Blaine Hopkins—will be again filled as a result of the restoration of funds, according to Grover Salyer, the agency's assistant director.

The CAP has two weeks to seek within its own ranks applicants for the vacant positions. After that, the positions may be advertised outside the agency. The two-week period is already past in the case of the Floyd coordinator's position and a number of applicants from within the agency are being screened for it, Salyer said.

For the next two weeks, agency employees may also apply for Eastburn's job. Whoever takes over will be doing so in a markedly different political climate from that prevailing when Eastburn took on the job in 1965, when some hoped the CAPs might enable people "at the grassroots" to challenge traditional political machines and "The Hawkeye," a newspaper put out by Mud Creek's Highway 979 Association, regularly blasted Eastburn for "betraying the cause."

It is just one sign of the change in climate that, while few would claim that winterizing homes and distributing vegetable seeds to the poor is the stuff of social reform, even fewer seem inclined today to press for anything more radical.

For A Wet District 3

I support a wet vote for legal sale of alcoholic beverages in District 3 of Floyd County.

For over 30 years Floyd County has been dry with no legal sale of alcoholic beverages. Most of us know that this dry law is a farce! Most everyone knows exactly where to find the friendly neighborhood "bootlegger." We see the signs of our dry county along the roadsides in the form of empty beer cans, wine and liquor bottles.

I'm at odds—I can't figure out how the dry law is supposed to better the lives of the people who live in this county. Is it to keep the drunks off the street? That's a law whether the county is wet or dry! Or, maybe, the law is meant to keep everyone sober?

And who profits from a county being dry? Surely not the people who pay the high prices to a "bootlegger" and run the risk of arrest. Definitely not the law-abiding citizen who has to buy a tankful of gas and drive into a wet county to buy legal drinks and then run the risk of being arrested when they return to our dry county.

Floyd County does not profit—no liquor taxes are collected to be returned to the communities from the sale of illegal alcoholic beverages.

Seems as though it costs Floyd County more in law enforcement to stage liquor raids on the "bootlegger" and then transport their confiscated alcohol to Prestonsburg and use valuable storage space in the Sheriff's office.

We should re-think the attitude that "anyone that drinks is a vagrant or a drunk"—This is simply not true!

While there are people that abuse the fruit of the vine, they are definitely the minority. Most individuals drink in moderation or not at all.

Floyd County has changed a lot in the past 30 years.

Thank All Who Helped

We would like to thank everyone in Floyd and surrounding counties, who responded to the Barry and Keith Wireman Fund. The response was wonderful. We thank you for the money, prayers and concern that you people have shown. It came at a time when we really needed it. It is good to know people still care. We have been gone from Floyd county for 20 years now, but we still have family and friends who live there.

Keith is doing better now since the transplant and the two surgeries he had after the transplant.

Barry is still going for chemotherapy. He is a real trooper. We are really proud of him. He is keeping up with his schoolwork, even though he has missed about 40 days of school already.

We would like to thank Fred Wells, Danny and Lora Hamilton for the letters they put in the paper. Thanks to my Mom and Dad, Bill and Pauline Foley, for their help.

We would like to thank my husband's family for their support, also. We would also thank the community of Auxier which responded tremendously.

Critical of Magistrate

Re: Magistrate Kenneth Roberts (Floyd County Times, February 24, 1982) and his stinging attack on obvious objections of somebody who disagrees with his proclaimed right to overspend tax money.

Even God has never claimed that much authority over a people and their money...It seems like Mr. Roberts is saying, "Today we rule Floyd county. Tomorrow there's no limit." And I am saying to Mr. Roberts, today it looks to me like the people of District 2 made a serious mistake at the polls. And I think it's time they started proceedings to correct that mistake. No man shall stand higher than God. And no elected official is beyond answering to the people. It's clear, Mr. Roberts doesn't know this.

It is the inalienable or undeniable right of every American to protest, criticize and praise those they elect to public office. How else can their value be determined for future elections? The official who cannot take this criticism has no business in any public office.

He said, "Go get you a suit like Boss Hogg and Roscoe and keep your nose out of our affairs." His affairs are the responsibility of the people of Magistrate District 2 and should be the concern of the entire county.

Calls On Veterans

As chairman of the Joint Executive Council of Veterans Organizations, I have called for a Veterans' Rally in Frankfort on Friday, March 5, to commence at 9 a.m.

At that date over half the current session will have been completed and the state legislators have so very much yet to do. Not the least of their unfinished business are several matters that are of particular interest to veterans, including but not limited to the Vietnam Veterans Bonus, adequate funding for the Kentucky Center for Veterans Affairs, and a fresh start in recognizing the 414,000 plus veterans in the Commonwealth plus their 1,035,000 survivors and dependents.

All veterans without regard to affiliation with a formal organization are urged to visit the Capital and the Capital Annex in Frankfort on March 5 and to seek out their Senators and Representatives and make known to them their interests on not only veterans matters but other matters of import to them as citizens.

Federal dollars coming into Kentucky for veterans totaled $486,922,160 in FY 1980. Yet for the past two years the state has provided only about $63,000 annually for the administration of veterans affairs. The 1980 legislature did not appropriate any funds for the past biennium but the governor found enough money for a token effort. Over $600,000 per year had been appropriated prior to the so-called "administrative oversight." We feel we could live with the figure of $450,000 to $500,000.

County Won't Pay Health Insurance

The Floyd fiscal court will no longer pay health insurance premiums for employees in the county clerk's office, according to a decision made at a special meeting of the court, February 18.

According to minutes of the meeting, the court thought it "only fair to drop all unauthorized persons" from the county health insurance program, "since some of the road employees had to be laid off for money purposes."

Though public notice is required of special meetings and the purpose for which they are called, the court's move clearly took County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson by surprise. Robinson, who will apparently have to pay the insurance premiums from his own fees, initially called the court's move "illegal," said he had persuaded the county judge-executive to rescind the decision, and struck from the minutes all reference to it.

While not conceding it was illegal, Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr. initially confirmed that the action had been voided. The decision was included in minutes approved at the court's subsequent meeting, however.

HOLD DOWN HEALTH COSTS

Like all family expenses, the cost of health care continues to increase every year. There are ways to cut health costs, but don't make the mistake of choosing the unhealthy ones.

As many as one-half of American families are trying to hold down the cost of health care in questionable ways. These include not having annual checkups, skipping dental care, and postponing such things as allergy shots, prescription refills and new eyeglasses.

Such methods are questionable because in the long run, these families may end up paying more for health care than the preventive health care measures they are eliminating.

Among the better ways for cutting the cost of medical care include not going to the doctor's office unless it's necessary. Telephone the doctor if you are worried. After describing your symptoms, ask if you need to come in rather than automatically making an appointment.

If you do have an office appointment, come prepared. Be as specific as you can about your symptoms. Write down what it is you want to discuss with the doctor.

Take any prescriptions according to directions. Health care professionals estimate that as many as 50 percent of patients do not take the prescription as it was intended. They stop taking it too soon, do don't take it according to directions, or never have the prescription filled.

Always know what you are taking. Ask questions so you will know how long to take a prescription, what side effects to expect, and exactly how the medication is to be taken.

Use the hospital emergency room only for emergencies. Just because your insurance covers emergency room care and not doctor visits is not a good reason to use the emergency room. Ultimately you, and all other consumers, pay the cost in increasing health care insurance premiums.

You can cut hospital costs by getting a second opinion before having surgery. There is no reason to have tests repeated. So, if you do get a second opinion, remember the tests your first doctor did.

Cooking in the Cumberlands

By IRENE HAYES

Although January 1st is the beginning of a calendar year, to me spring is the beginning of a new year. Trees begin to bud out and tender green shoots begin to emerge from the earth. It is a beautiful sight to watch the dormant earth come to life. Soon everything will be green again. Traditionally, March "comes in like a lion" but it is most welcome. This is my time of the year. I have always felt sorry for children who live in large cities and see little if any of the wonders of nature.

Very soon a malady known as housecleaning fever will begin to manifest itself. I must confess that I am not as eager as I once was to begin cleaning, although I still get the same pleasure from seeing a room sparkling clean.

Housecleaning time was a busy time at our house when I was growing up. Mother usually planned to have a big kettle of homemade soup or a one-dish meal prepared ahead of time. It was a family affair. We all worked hard to get a room cleaned and put back together the same day. We didn't always accomplish this, however.

To start the housecleaning, every single thing was removed from a room. The upholstered furniture was put outside in the sun. If it was a bedroom the pillows and mattress were put outside in the sun as early as possible and turned several times during the day. The carpet was draped across two clothes lines. The younger children fought to be the first to use the carpet beaters. Their zeal didn't last long as they always tired of the job long before the carpet was cleaned.

Most of us do not have clothes lines, as we depend on dryers either at home or in laundromats, but if you want to sleep in a bed that really smells wonderfully clean and you find the time and energy, sun your pillows and boxsprings and mattress all day. Wash your bedclothes in a clean-smelling soap and dry them in the sun. The fresh, clean odor cannot be duplicated any other way.

My father picked wild greens in the spring and Mother cooked them. I didn't learn to like wild greens until after I married. Now I like them better than any other kind. My special choice is tender green plantain and narrow leaf dock cooked together with bacon drippings. Wild greens are so very good for our health. Only in the spring are wild greens tender enough to eat. I can remember hearing older women wishing for spring so they could get out and pick a "mess of greens." I can see why now but I couldn't then.

If you want to have a pork chop recipe that you can use for your family and company too, add this one to your collection. It was given to me by my daughter, Sharon.

SUPERB PORK CHOPS

SAUTE in 3 tbsps. butter or margarine until golden brown:

- 1 medium-sized onion, chopped
- 1 clove garlic, minced.

Remove from skillet, leaving margarine behind.

Trim excess fat from 6 pork chops, 1/2 to 3/4 inch thick. Salt and pepper each chop.

Brown on both sides in remaining margarine in skillet. Pour off fat. Lower heat. Return onions and garlic to skillet.

ADD: 1 c. chicken bouillon or chicken broth 1 bay leaf

Simmer, covered, over low heat for about one hour. Transfer chops to hot serving plate. Reduce pan juices to half by cooking over high heat.

Reduce heat.

ADD: 1 cup dairy sour cream 2 tps. paprika

Heat thoroughly but do not boil. Pour some of the sauce over chops. Extra sauce is delicious over rice.

One of the easiest dishes to make is Cauli-Broc. It was given to me by Sandy Kerlin of Covington, Kentucky. Don't let the fact that it is so easy keep you from trying it.

CAULI-BROC

Separate equal amounts of fresh cauliflower and fresh broccoli into florets.

Cook covered in lightly salted water 10 to 15 minutes. Drain.

TOSS WITH: 1/2 to 1 cup Italian salad dressing.

The amount of dressing depends upon the amount of vegetables.

Serve warm.

I want to include a bread recipe in this column. I chose this Angel Flake Biscuit recipe because it can be stored in the refrigerator until needed. It was given to me by Ruby Yates, of Payneville, Kentucky. It is her mother's recipe.

ANGEL FLAKE BISCUITS

SIFT TOGETHER into mixing bowl: 5 cups all-purpose flour 3 tps. baking powder 3 tps. sugar 1 tsp. soda 1 tsp. salt

CUT IN: 3/4 cup vegetable shortening DISSOLVE in 1/2 cup lukewarm water:

1 cake yeast

ADD TO flour mixture

THEN ADD: 2 cups buttermilk

Work together with large spoon until all flour is moistened. Cover bowl. Store in refrigerator. When ready to use, take out amount desired. Roll out on floured board to 1/2-inch thickness. Cut with biscuit cutter. Place on greased cookie sheet.

Bake 12 minutes in 400° oven.

This recipe makes 6 dozen light, flaky biscuits. The dough will keep for several weeks in the refrigerator.

The following recipe for Sour Cream Pound Cake is famous from Maine to California. I recently received a letter from Florida telling me that the writer had bought one of my cookbooks for a friend and that this recipe was her favorite. I have revised my cookbook twice and it is in all three books. It was given to me by Mrs. Jack Stumbo, of Printer, Kentucky.

SOUR CREAM POUND CAKE

COMBINE and sift together twice: 3 cups sifted flour 1/4 tsp. soda 1/2 tsp. salt

CREAM: 2 sticks soft butter or margarine.

Slowly ADD: 3 cups sugar Cream well.

ADD: 6 egg yolks, one at a time Beat well after each addition.

STIR IN: 1 cup sour cream (8-oz. carton)

ADD dry ingredients, 1/2 cup at a time, beating constantly.

STIR IN:

- 1 tsp. vanilla, (or 1 tsp. lemon extract or 1/2 tsp. almond flavoring)

BEAT until stiff but not dry: 6 egg whites

Fold into above mixture.

Pour into well-greased, floured 10-inch tube pan. (Use salt-free shortening or fat for greasing pan.)

Bake 1-1/2 hours in 325° oven or until done when tested.

Place pan on rack to cool for 5 minutes. Loosen cake around edge of tube with dull side of knife. To protect crust, press toward pan rather than toward cake. Turn cake onto rack to cool completely.

Serve plain.

When freezing either whole or half, wrap in several thicknesses of clear plastic or foil.

I always want to say an encouraging word to young mothers. To avoid unnecessary hassle try to build up a collection of recipes that are easy and that your family likes. Put the easy-to-make recipes in one group and company recipes in another. Sometimes trying to decide what to prepare is as hard as preparing it. In any case don't give up cooking from scratch in favor of convenience food. Your family's health depends on it. Best of luck.

Whitaker's Paintings Exhibited At PCC

Sandra Robertson, librarian, is shown preparing for an exhibit of paintings by Tom Whitaker which will be on display at Prestonsburg Community College, March 4-11. Whitaker, a well-known Magoffin county artist, is on the faculty at P.C.C. All paintings in the exhibit are from the collections of P.C.C. faculty members. A reception will be held in the library, March 4, from 6 to 8 p.m. The public is invited.

Child Care Credit For Divorced Parent

A divorced or separated parent who pays someone to care for their child may be eligible for a federal income tax credit, the Internal Revenue Service said. The Child and Disabled Dependent Care Credit provides a tax break for persons who pay someone to look after their child while they work.

These parents can claim 20 percent of the expense of child care for dependents under 15 years old. The credit is worth up to $400 for one child and up to $800 for two or more children on this year's tax return. Changes in the tax law may mean an even bigger credit on the returns that will be filed next year.

It makes no difference to the IRS if the child is being cared for inside or outside the home as long as the child care permits the parent to work or look for work.

Because divorced and separated parents have special circumstances, the IRS has guidelines to help them determine who should claim the credit. Generally, the parent who had custody for a longer time during the calendar year should claim the credit. But, the IRS also requires that the child must have:

- been under 15, or not able to care for himself or herself
- been in the custody of one or both parents for more than half of the year, and
- received more than half of his or her support from one or both parents.

Generally, a person who is married at the end of the tax year must file a joint return to claim the child care credit. A person who is legally separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance is considered unmarried and may claim the credit on a separate return, the IRS says. However, individuals living apart from their spouse but not legally separated may claim the credit on a separate return only if their child lived with them for more than half the year and they paid more than half the cost of keeping up their home. The spouse must have lived outside that home for the last six months of the year, the IRS said.

Persons wanting to know more about child care credit can send away for free IRS Publication 503, "Child and Disabled Parent Care." The IRS says the easiest way to get the booklet is by using the handy order blank in your tax package.

Volunteer Fire Dept. Slates Benefit Show

Proceeds from the show, which will begin at 7 p.m., will go to aid the fire department, and everyone is urged to attend.

PUBLIC NOTICE TO OWNERS OF RENTAL HOUSING

The Floyd County Housing Authority is administering a Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation Program in Floyd County using funds provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Under this program, owners will rehabilitate rental units which are now substandard or have major building systems or components requiring repair or replacement. The cost of this work, which must total at least $1000 per unit, may be financed by a local lending institution, by the owner, or by any other source available to the owner. The agency does not make rehabilitation loans or grants, but will assist owners to obtain financing.

After required rehabilitation work has been completed, the agency and the owner will execute a contract which establishes a rent for the unit(s) that will cover rehabilitation costs, meet monthly operating expenses, and allow a reasonable profit on the owner's investment. For a fifteen year period, the owner will rent the rehabilitated unit(s) to eligible lower income tenants, who will pay approximately 25 percent of their income toward the rent. The agency will pay the remainder of the rent directly to the owner. The initial occupant of a rehabilitated unit may be the owner's present eligible tenant. After rehabilitation the rent (including utilities) cannot exceed the following Maximum Rents:

BEDROOM SIZE
206	244	282	319

The agency's current funds will allow rehabilitation of 35 units of rental housing as follows:

1 BR	2 BR	3 BR	4 BR
8	18	7	2

No unit will be assisted which results in the permanent displacement of a current tenant.

Proposals from owners will be received by the Housing Authority until further notice.

Owners who wish to submit a proposal must obtain an application form from:

Floyd County Housing Authority
Housing Office
Green Acres
Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653

Mine Study Group Reports

The Review Commission on Deep Mine Safety named by Governor Brown after the recent Mink Branch mine disaster in this county recommended last week extensive controls on shooting methods and also asked the formation of a "SWAT" team to police illegal mines.

It did not, however, recommend any change in existing penalties for violations of safety regulations.

At issue during committee and subcommittee deliberations was the blasting technique known as "shooting from the solid," a process which involves drilling holes into the face of coal, filling them with explosives and detonating them.

Recommendations of the subcommittee to study this method of blasting were unanimously adopted by the full commission. They include:

—Requiring operators to submit detailed plans to the state before being allowed to shoot from the solid. Plans would include information on the brand and type of explosive to be used, size and location of detonators and other blasting equipment.

—Requiring inspections of the mine before blasting plans are approved and providing that the mine can be closed for two days if serious violations are found. If further violations are found on follow-up inspections, the mine could be closed for five days. Permits could be canceled for repeated violations.

Other proposals call for certification of drill operators, training of state inspectors in storage and handling of explosives and detailed technical standards for blasting procedures.

J.S. Malesky, an explosives instructor at Pikeville College who chaired the subcommittee on shooting from the solid, said problems can be corrected with adequate training of miners as a first step.

"Stringent inspections and analyses is the second step to see that regulations and recommendations are followed," he said. "For those who fail to comply, the permits of shooting coal from the solid shall be revoked."

"The recent disasters from blasting did not just happen," Malesky said.

"By their very nature, explosives are dangerous if not handled and used properly. They are made to explode and do work if used correctly. They can be destructive if abused."

The "SWAT" team, an idea that Mines and Minerals Commission Willard Stanley has supported in the past, would be composed of mine inspectors and state troopers and aimed at detecting and closing illegal coal mines. Under the proposal forwarded by the review commission, state laws also would be revised to provide for confiscation of all equipment found in unlicensed mines. The confiscated equipment then would be sold by sealed bid and the proceeds added to the Department of Mines and Minerals budget.

The review commission, however, shied away from a proposal by one of its subcommittees for a point system for miners similar to the one now in effect for Kentucky drivers.

A miner found violating safety regulations would receive a certain number of points. After accumulating a certain number of points the miner would have to either take a state safety course or be decertified.

The point proposal eventually was voted down, although several commission members contended that some way must be found to make miners, as well as mine operators, equally responsible for safety.

Other safety proposals adopted by the commission include:

—Tighter standards for certifying miners, mine foremen and mine inspectors.

—More rigid enforcement of existing safety laws and rules.

—Adopting part of a West Virginia law that protects the right of a miner to refuse to operate unsafe equipment.

MINE CLASS ANNOUNCED

An eight-hour belt examiner class will be held March 12 at 8 a.m. at the Coal Building, Martin. Members must have three years' practical experience in underground mining.

CHILDREN AND CONTRACTS

Has your child ever received a notice from a collection agency, stating that unless an outstanding debt was paid immediately, a lawsuit would be filed to collect the money? This usually comes as a big surprise to most parents because they did not know that the child had bought anything. Often, parents in this situation call the consumer protection division of the Attorney General Office to find out if the contract and debt are valid.

According to Attorney General Steven L. Beshear, "Kentucky law provides that a contract is not enforceable against a person under the age of eighteen. Frequently, however, minors (persons under the age of eighteen) send in applications to record, tape and book clubs seeking memberships. This leads to trouble when the young person fails to meet the obligations of the contract, and the company discovers that it is dealing with a minor."

If only the minor's name appears on or is involved in the contract, it generally cannot be enforced against the child. If an adult's name does not appear on the contract with the child's name, generally the contract cannot be enforced against the minor or the adult.

Minors get into these situations in various ways, but record, tape, and book club memberships are the most common. Such memberships can be obtained merely by sending in an application blank found in most popular magazines. Unfortunately, many of these applications fail to inquire about the age of the applicant.

"When the company gets an application, it usually mails whatever was ordered and sends an invoice or billing," said Beshear. Many of these transactions undoubtedly proceed without any problems ever arising. However, companies sometimes make mistakes such as sending items other than those ordered. Often, minors do not realize that they can be billed for the items sent under negative option plans which require that a card sent by the company be returned each month if a particular selection is not wanted. For these and other reasons, business arrangements break down and result in claims that the minor owes money to the company. Questions then arise about the minor's responsibility to pay the bill."

When the company begins demanding its money, it generally does not know that it has been dealing with a minor. When this is determined, the company will often ask, or even demand, that the parent or responsible adult pay the bill. If the parents have not co-signed with the minor, they generally have no legal responsibilities for the debt. Many parents will want to be fair and pay the bill if there is an honest legal obligation for them to do so. In such cases, the minor and parents can simply demand that the contract and debt be cancelled and that the company assume the loss as part of the risk involved in not making sure of the age of the people with whom it does business.

If you have any questions about minors who are involved in contracts, contact the Office of Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, Frankfort, Ky., 40601 or call the toll-free consumer hotline at 1-800-432-9257. These contacts will also provide consumer literature and will help you file consumer complaints.

$500,000 Bond Set For Rape Defendant

What may have been a record bond set for a prisoner in this county is the $500,000 asked last week by District Judge Harold Stumbo for the release from jail here of a 25-year-old Melvin man accused of raping a 10-year-old girl.

Ray Newsome was brought to jail here last Wednesday night by State Detective Danny Stumbo and State Trooper Terry Hall. Investigators said Newsome and the girl's mother apparently were sharing the same house at Melvin and that the rape offense was committed there. The claim that the child had been raped was confirmed after examination at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital, where she was treated.

A court attache described the rape as a particularly revolting case.

An attorney from the Public Defender's office has been named to represent the accused man. Preliminary hearing may be held today (Wednesday).

The amount of bail may be satisfied by $50,000 cash, in lieu of the full $500,000 property bond.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND Health Educator

Cervical cancer causes 11,000 deaths in the United States each year, yet cervical cancer can be one of the most curable of all cancers if it is detected and treated early. There is a simple way a woman can protect herself from this type of cancer. That is by having regular pap tests for cervical cancer. This test is painless and takes only a few moments of a woman's time, and it could save her life.

The Floyd County Health Department is having Pap clinics at both the office in Prestonsburg and the branch office at Wheelwright. The clinic at Prestonsburg will be on Friday March 12 from 8:30 until 11:30 and from 1 until 2. The clinic at the Wheelwright office will be on Monday, March 8, from 8:30 until 11:30 and from 1 until 2. These clinics are free services of the health department and any woman who has not had a Pap test in the past year is urged to take advantage of this service.

A nurse from the health department will be in Wayland at the Methodist Church on Monday, March 8, from 10 until 2. She will offer T.B. skin tests, urinalyses, immunizations, blood pressures, and anemia screenings. This clinic is a free service of the health department and the public is welcome.

Local KET Friends Kick Off Campaign

Volunteer callers will be asking Floyd countians to join them by becoming a Friend of KET. Those who become friends will receive a subscription to the monthly KET Guide and discounts of KET merchandise. Each year, members also have the chance to vote for programs and series they would like to see purchased for the next year.

If you would like to become a member of Friends of KET during the Floyd KET TeleFund, call Barbara Burke, Floyd county coordinator at 886-2796.

EVANGELIST: HARDY BRUNDAGE & MARIANNE

The Reverend Hardy Brundage, veteran Christian broadcaster, and his wife Marianne have launched a full-time evangelistic ministry. Hardy Brundage Outreach Ministries is based in Houston, Texas.

After 13 years in the field of Christian radio, Brundage resigned his position as vice-president and general manager of the Swaggart Broadcasting Company, home based in Baton Rouge, La., last summer.

Brundage, an ordained minister for many years, stated, "My decision was made after much prayer and careful consideration. I have always combined my ministry of Christian radio and evangelism over the years. However, the Lord has been dealing with my wife and me extensively for quite some time, to go into the ministry of evangelism on a full-time basis."

Judge Reviews Role of County In Condemnation

The county may again join a suit designed to secure right-of-way for the proposed Cliff road, depending on a review of the case this week by Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr.

The fiscal court last Thursday heard a plea by Prestonsburg Mayor Harold Cooley, who asked the court to reconsider its earlier decision to withdraw from the condemnation suit. The mayor gave a written assurance that Prestonsburg would indemnify the county for the cost of condemning the Sam George property and promised a formal resolution by the city council to that effect.

Despite an opinion by County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr., who said the mayor's assurance resolved the county's dilemma, Lafferty said he wanted time to inspect the George property and scheduled a meeting of the fiscal court at 11 a.m. Friday, this week, to decide the issue of the county's participation in the suit.

The court voted February 18 to withdraw as plaintiff in the case, saying the county lacked funds to pay for the George property. About a quarter of an acre, including the section on which the George family residence is built, is to be condemned for construction of the road.

During the administration of former Judge-Executive Yvonne S. Jones, the county obligated itself to acquire the necessary right of way in order to provide access to a 93-unit public housing project there and to a planned industrial park.

Discussion of the matter at last Thursday's meeting drew a modest crowd, including representatives of the Big Sandy ADD, the Prestonsburg Industrial Council and Cliff residents, most of whom appeared to favor construction of the road.

The court authorized issuance of $400,000 in industrial revenue bonds for construction of an office building, opposite the Municipal Building on North Lake Drive, for Combs and Combs, Prestonsburg attorneys. Paul Combs said he hoped the project would encourage other local businesses to make use of the state-backed revenue bonds.

The resignations of John Allen and Robert McAninch from the board of Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc., were accepted. Named to replace them were Yvonne Jones and Earl D. Ousley. Earlier votes to accept the resignation of Hershell Hamilton and place Ned Bush on the board in his place were rescinded, after it was learned that Hamilton did not submit his resignation.

Firm May Join In Area Mining

Inspiration Coal, Inc., the Knoxville-based firm which earlier this month purchased Island Creek coal holdings in the Wheelwright section of the county, last week announced that it had signed a letter of intent with a U.S. subsidiary of Compagnie Francaise des Petroles (CFP), contemplating a 50-50 joint venture of the two firms in the operation of coal properties now owned by Inspiration.

Consummation of the proposed transaction is conditioned on the negotiation of definitive agreements and corporate and governmental approvals, including the approval of the French government.

Fifty percent of Compagnie Francaise des Petroles is owned by the government of France. It is a major international oil and gas producing firm.

Inspiration Coal, which has extensive coal-producing properties in Virginia as well as in Kentucky, is jointly owned by Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Co., Ltd., Toronto, Canada, and Minerals and Resources Corp., Ltd., of Hamilton, Bermuda.

Hudson Bay has diversified interests in Canadian and U.S. metals, coal, petroleum, fertilizers and chemicals. Minerals and Resources has interests in natural resources and related industries on six continents.

New Rule To Help Poor Family Pay Gas, Power Bills

Governor John Y. Brown recently signed into law an order from the Public Service Commission (PSC) prohibiting winter disconnections due to nonpayment of bills under certain conditions. The regulation provides that customers demonstrating "genuine financial need" cannot be cut-off by electric or gas companies for bills reflecting charges from December 1, 1981 to March 1, 1982.

Some low income customers may be threatened with disconnection because of inability to pay their full utility bill when due. When such customers receive a written notice to disconnect from the utility company, they should immediately demonstrate their "genuine financial need" to the utility.

This may be done in one of two ways. One way is for the Bureau for Social Insurance (Department for Human Resources) to certify in writing that the utility customer is in "genuine financial need." The other way to qualify is by documenting (verifying) financial need through current receipt of Aid for Dependent Children (AFDC) or Medicaid or Food Stamps or by being at or below 130 percent of the official poverty income guideline.

For a family of four, for example, 130 percent of the official poverty income guideline is $10,985.

If a customer is needy that person must apply for a partial payment plan directly with their utility company upon receiving a disconnect notice. This partial payment offer must ensure that the customer will have paid the full utility bill by October 15, 1982 or sooner. The customer's honest offer of installment payments for their bill must be submitted to the company within thirty days of the date set for disconnection in the utility's termination notice. The utility must accept good faith offers by eligible customers. Utility companies are strictly prohibited from disconnecting anyone who satisfies the above conditions. By its terms, the regulation applies to all gas or electric charges incurred between December 1, 1981, and March 1, 1982, even if the customer is billed for these services after March 1st. Thus, disconnect notices issued after March 1 but referring back to charges incurred during this winter time period fall within the protections afforded by this PSC regulation. This new law requires utility companies to advise their customers of these rights in the written disconnection notices.

The ban on utility terminations applies only to gas and electric utilities under PSC jurisdiction, such as Kentucky Power Company, Big Sandy RECC, Columbia Gas, Kentucky-West Virginia Gas, Johnson County Gas, and B & H Gas Companies to name some. Municipal or city-owned gas or electric utilities are not subject to the regulation.

This enactment, therefore, grants eligible households additional time to work out an installment repayment arrangement with their utility company. And, they avoid the harsh effects of being disconnected for nonpayment of bills.

In addition, the company plans to install outside plant facilities to serve approximately 1,000 new customers within the next five years.

Miss Rowe, Mr. White Exchange Vows

Wedding vows of Miss Teresa Lynn Rowe and Mr. Mitchell Gene White were solemnized in the presence of family members and friends at the Auxier Free Will Baptist Church at Auxier, Ky. at 2 p.m., February 6, by the Rev. Woodrow Crum, cousin of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Victorian styled traditional wedding dress of white silk and lace organza. A veil of silk organza and sweetheart lace fell from a lace caplet to the floor-length flowing train. She carried a royal bouquet of red roses interspersed with white baby's breath and greenery.

Maid of honor was Angela Rowe, sister of the bride, and Michelle Castle and Veronica Dawn McKinney, cousins of the bride, were flower girls. They all wore red dresses with elbow-length puffed sleeves, edged with white lace. In their hair, they wore a halo of white baby's breath and tiny red rosebuds, carrying out the Valentine motif of the wedding. Dresses and headpieces were designed and made by the bride's mother.

Greg Rowe, brother of the bride, was ring bearer. Rex Music served as best man, and ushers were Michael Kent McKinney, Jr., the bride's cousin, and Jeffery Samons.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the reception room of the church. Red and white roses carried out the Valentine motif and the three-tiered cake was also decorated with red and white roses and enhanced by a waterfall.

The newlyweds are now residing in Martin.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Rowe, of Auxier, and is a graduate of Allen Central High School. She is now employed at Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin as a laboratory assistant. Mr. White is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman White, of Elliott county, and is a graduate of Elliott County High School and Morehead State University with a degree in radiologic technology. He is an X-ray technician at Our Lady of the Way Hospital.

ALC Wins N.L.C.A.A. Eastern District Crown

Alice Lloyd College, National Little College Athletic Association Eastern District Champions, shown with their championship trophy following their recent 50-47 victory over Lees Jr. College. ALC earlier defeated Bluefield College 63-61 in the semi-finals. The Eagles now advance to the NLCAA National Tournament, March 8-12, at Oakland City, Ind. where they will meet the Southeastern District winner in first round play. In photo, from left, Assistant Coach Elmer Slone, Byron Johnson, Jimmy Collins, Johnathan Hall, Billy Thompson, Loren Perry, Don Smith, Kenny Baxter, Dr. Donald Staffo, ALC Athletic Director, Jeff Burchett, Jeff Humphrey, Tony Blair, and Coach Lonnie Morris.

Jeff Burchett played high school ball at Prestonsburg.

Alice Lloyd (4-28) Wins District; Coach Morris Lauds Burchett

During the regular season the Alice Lloyd College Eagles had a 4-28 won-lost record, which, at best, was nothing to get excited about, but some of those losses were "barn-burners," and Coach Lonnie Morris insisted as the NLCAA tournament was ready to begin last Wednesday night at ALC that "we have the capability to play with any team on our level."

Coach Morris' confidence in his team was justified, tournament results show. Those same Eagles defeated Lees College, 50 to 47, last Thursday night for the district championship. It was the second year in a row for the team to win the title.

To Jeff Burchett, former Prestonsburg High School standout, Morris gives credit for "our not falling apart" in the face of seasonal adversities.

"Jeff's hustle and rebounding were inspirational to the team," Morris said. "he maintained a positive attitude on and off the court...He really became a leader when the team needed one." Morris added.

Burchett led his team with 119 rebounds and finished second in field goal percentages (48%).

"Things looked pretty shaky during the first semester when I lost my starting point guard and two forwards," Morris said. Then I lost my other guard, Byron Johnson, when he injured his knee. However, addition of Ken Baxter and B.B. King was a big boost. David Adams matured as a team player toward the end of the year. Jimmy Collins showed steady improvement during his first year. But I think the credit to our not falling apart must be given to Jeff Burchett."

Sees Better Days for Her Team

Trena Hensley, '5'6-1/2" freshman guard-forward for the Pikeville College Lady Bears, averaged 20 points and four rebounds a game during her senior year at Allen Central High School. She was named All-District, All-Conference, All-Regional, and second and third All-State.

Miss Hensley contends that college basketball is a great deal more aggressive than high school ball. "We practice more, the rules are different, and there is a faster pace, more action. Practically every player on the team graduated from a different high school. It was a tremendous adjustment learning to play with each other. We were all used to a different style of basketball."

Even though the Lady Bears ended the 1981-82 season with a 7-14 overall record, Hensley says, "We still tried our best. It took a lot out of us playing on the road so much at the first of the season. The competition was tough. Most of the teams we played had a lot more experience than we did. We were a young team with a great height disadvantage. We also had a couple of key players out at the first of the season and that hurt us."

But she already is looking to next season. "Yes, we could very well be the team to beat, next year," she says.

Blood, it doesn't grow on trees.

3 TIMES
A WINNER!

MISSY REYNOLDS, FIELD COMMANDER

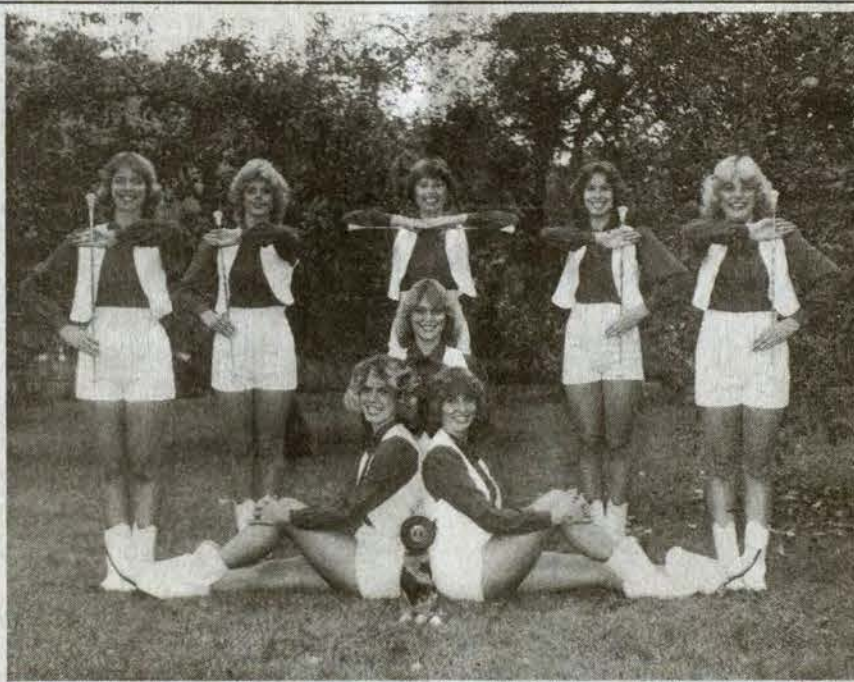

THE BAND

THE BETSY LAYNE BAND

FLAGS

RIFLES

The Betsy Layne Band Parents support Music In Our School Week by saying congratulations to the Betsy Layne Band for becoming a "Three Times Winner" in New Orleans at the Mardi-Gras, on February 21, 1982. Many folks said it couldn't be done, but the band members said it was a job that had to be done, so they did it!

Approximately 125 band members, teachers and parents boarded Greyhound buses, campers, and cars and journeyed to New Orleans on Thursday, February 18, to take part in parades on Saturday and Sunday.

On Saturday, the band marched 9 miles in the Parade of Selena. This organization raises money for crippled children, and millions of dollars are raised during Mardi-Gras. On Sunday, they marched 6 miles in the "Parade of Thoth." This parade route goes past rest homes and is for shut-ins. Several blocks were lined with wheelchairs carrying old-folks to see the parade. The band members were touched by kisses thrown to them and applause from these people.

The band returned home on Monday evening with sun-burned faces and blistered feet, but the greatest of all was the first place trophy presented to them on Sunday at the end of the parade. The shouts and cries could be heard for several blocks coming from the Betsy Layne Band and fans there in New Orleans. When Mrs. Osborne was asked how she accounted for the band being able to do this three years in a row, her reply was, "To God be the glory for the things He has done."

Billie Jean and Kay Holbert would like to thank everyone that supports music in all schools. Let's all continue to work together to see that children have the opportunity to say Music is "Sound Learning."

All parents, teachers, and friends are invited to a tea in the Band Room on Thursday, March 4, from 10:30 A.M. to 2:00 P.M.

Pikeville College Sponsors Visits By Jean Ritchie, Cratis Williams

The Appalachian Studies Society at Pikeville College is sponsoring visits by Jean Ritchie, a traditional folk singer, and Cratis Williams, a nationally known authority on the cultural heritage of the southern mountaineers. Ritchie will perform Wednesday, March 17, in Faith Chapel at 10 a.m. and in Chrisman Auditorium at 7 p.m. Williams will speak on Thursday, March 18, in Faith Chapel at 10 a.m. and in Chrisman Auditorium at 2 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Ritchie was born and raised in Viper (Perry county), Kentucky, and was the youngest of fourteen children born to Balis and Abigail Ritchie.

When Ritchie was growing up, it wasn't the new hillbilly music or the catchy tin-pan alley songs that were the favorites. It was, "Barbara Allen," "Over the River Charlie," "Sourwood Mountain," or "Lord Randal." People made up songs, too, news accounts of local events — hangings, elections, ground-hog hunts, elopements, feuds — all meaningful, each a living part of the growth of a region.

Ritchie was graduated from Viper High School, from Cumberland Junior College, and from the University of Kentucky with highest honors and a Phi Beta Kappa Key, taking her bachelor's degree in social work. Her first job in this field was with the Henry Street Settlement in New York City, where, with her mountain dulcimer which she had learned to play from her father, she taught her family songs and

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Big "D" Excavating, Inc., P.O. Box 34, Betsy Layne, Ky., 41605, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 6.16 acres, located northwest of Collierville in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 2.1 miles southwest of State Route 80's junction with US 23 and located north of Ed's Branch, latitude 37° 36' 01", longitude 82° 44' 31". The surface area to be mined is owned by: Robert Ousley heirs. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: contour and auger mining. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Regional Office, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping, must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request must be reference No. 036-0114. Such objection or request must be forwarded to the Director of the Division of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

2. Notice is hereby given provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d) (10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the pre-mining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above.

games to the children. Friends and Settlement visitors soon began inviting her to sing at parties and schools, then Alan Lomax recorded her songs for the Library of Congress Folksong Archives, and introduced her at Oxford Press. Her first book, Singing Family Of The Cumberlands, published in 1955, was widely reviewed as an American classic, and is still in print today. Many books have followed, and concerts, festival appearances, television, recording contracts and radio broadcasts have been natural outgrowths of her family music, and have taken her to many countries around the world.

Cratis Williams, special assistant to the Chancellor, Professor Emeritus of English, and for sixteen years Dean of the Graduate School at Appalachian State University, Boone, North Carolina, is a nationally known authority on the cultural heritage of the southern mountaineers.

A mountaineer himself, Dr. Williams grew up near Blaine in Lawrence county in the Big Sandy Valley.

As he was growing up on an isolated creek relatively untouched by influences from the outside, he learned the traditions of his people, whose songs, hymns, religious attitudes, manners, customs, and speech were essentially those of the borders of the 18th century.

Dr. Williams was the first from Caines Creek, the little valley in which he grew up, to be sent away to high school. At first somewhat "ashamed" of the quaint background he brought directly into the glitter of the Jazz Age, with its flappers and candy-ankles, he became interested in the traditional ballads when he learned that the texts included in his high school literature book differed from those still being sung by his kin and their neighbors back in the hills twenty-five miles from Louisa, the county-seat town. He began as a high school youngster to collect and learn the traditional and native ballads, songs, and hymns exactly as they were sung by his people and to study the speech and oral rhetoric of mountain folk.

His master's thesis, written on the ballads and songs of Eastern Kentucky, has been published on micro-card for the use of scholars in folk-lore. His thesis was used extensively by Malcolm Laws in his revised edition of Native American Balladry. As Dr. Williams grew older, his interest turned to the total tradition of what he thought was the dying culture of the mountaineers. His dissertation, called by a writer for the Journal of American Folklore, "the most comprehensive and valuable current work on Southern Highland literature," was written on the Southern Mountaineer in fact and fiction. The product of eight years of research and writing, the 1600-page document, which examines the social and cultural history of the mountaineers and evaluates the vast body of fiction written about them, earned a citation for distinguished scholarship from the Board of Regents of New York University. A revised edition of the dissertation appeared serially in the Appalachian Journal and was republished as a book by the Appalachian Consortium Press.

Dr. Williams' articles on mountain speech and idiom appeared over a ten year period in Mountain Life and Work, published by the Council of the Southern Mountains with headquarters at the time on the campus of Berea College.

Although he is untrained in music, Dr. Williams has received wide acclaim for the faithfulness of his presentation of the singing tradition of mountaineers. Popular as an entertainer and commentator on the mountaineers, he has appeared on programs for clubs, societies, colleges, universities, conventions, workshops, church groups, and cultural associations from New York to Florida.

Dr. Williams attended Cumberland College at Williamsburg, Ky., and holds the B.A. and the M.A. degrees from the University of Kentucky and the Ph.D. degree from New York University. At the age of eighteen he began teaching in one-room schools in the mountains of Kentucky. After he graduated from college, he worked for eight years as a high school English teacher and principal in Lawrence county, Kentucky. He joined the faculty of Appalachian State University in 1942, and was dean of the graduate school there from 1958 to 1975.

It's never too soon to plan
for retirement

Will your Social Security benefits provide an adequate retirement income?

One way to plan now for a financially secure retirement is through an Individual Retirement Account (IRA). The new Economic Recovery Tax Act provides you with the unique opportunity of making tax-sheltered contributions toward retirement through an IRA . . . even if you are covered by a company pension plan.

At Commonwealth, we can show you how to start a regular IRA and save up to $2,000 a year.

For further information, give me a call today.

And ask how it can be self-completing in the event you should become disabled.

Corps Initiates Get Job Evaluation

Shown here with Gary Blanton, vocational evaluator, is Corpsmember Tim Speed, who is participating in the vocational evaluation program at Prestonsburg Job Corps Center.

The Vocational Evaluation Department at the Prestonsburg Job Corps Center is the first phase of training for new corpsmembers.

Vocational evaluation consists of a simulated work situation for each trade offered in the Center. Corpsmembers perform "hands on" tasks in each situation free from pass/fail pressure. Interest, completed work, and current level of functioning are then evaluated and, after vocational counseling, the corpsmember moves into his selected area of training.

Vocational evaluation and placement duties are the responsibility of Gary Blanton. An employee of the corporation since the opening of Prestonsburg Job Corps in February of 1981, he is a graduate of Berea College and lives with his family at Hager Hill. He is vice-president of the Rainbow Ramblers, a prominent square dancing club in this area. He also is enrolled in an EMT Class at Mayo State Vocational School.

Survey Shows Travel, Tourism Growing In Ky.

A new state survey shows that travel and tourism in Kentucky is a growing, $1.7 billion industry that provides jobs for 87,000 workers.

The study, conducted in 1981 by the Department of Economic Development, is the first comprehensive look at the industry and its economic impact, said Commissioner Dale Smith.

While results are still preliminary, the survey confirms that travel is one of Kentucky's biggest industries, Smith said. In 1981, the industry generated $87 million in state tax revenues. Local governments received another $19 million.

The survey suggests travel and tourism is not only a big industry, but stable, too, he said. Despite poor economic conditions, statewide travel revenues increased by 2.8 percent in 1981, adjusted for inflation. That rate is believed to exceed the national rate, he added.

In addition to economic figures, the survey has yielded a comprehensive list of all motels, campgrounds, hotels and local attractions like museums and marinas, Smith said. The survey was conducted over four months in the summer and fall by department employees. The workers interviewed tourists and industry business people throughout the state.

The data is still being analyzed, said Mark Holthaus, executive director of the department's office of tourism development. Within the next few months, the department will begin publishing a series of five reports on the survey's findings, arranged by type of business, such as campgrounds and motels. The reports will include travel information analyzed by county, region and statewide. They also will contain data on travelers—destinations, hometowns, interests and so on—that private businesses can use to focus their advertising efforts, Holthaus said.

The tourism development office also will find the tourist data valuable in conducting the "Oh! Kentucky" advertising campaign, he said.

The five reports will be released as they are prepared, he said. The final report is expected to be published before year's end.

Farm Study Available

A copy of the final report of the Agricultural Land Study and Policy Committee is open for public inspection at each of Kentucky's 121 conservation district headquarters.

The report, which includes committee recommendations aimed at slowing farm land conversion to nonagricultural use, was presented recently to Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. The governor created the committee in February 1981.

Tax Chief Mans Switchboard

Revenue Commissioner Ron Geary recently got a taste of what it's like to handle 500 telephone calls a day regarding the more than 40 taxes administered by the Department of Revenue.

Geary took a turn at the department's main switchboard, greeting taxpayers and pushing the buttons to transfer their calls to the department's tax specialists.

"He got a little excited when three lines lit up at once," observed Vicki Abrams of Harrodsburg, one of the department's regular switchboard receptionists.

Otherwise, the commissioner handled the job with aplomb, even answering a few questions about taxes himself, something the receptionists rarely do.

Geary's switch from executive boardroom to switchboard was part of his Commissioner's Work Program, during which he has spent four days' work at the jobs of a score of the department's 1,500 employees.

Geary, a CPA and attorney, was named commissioner in November. He is no stranger to taxes, but he knew little of the inner workings of the department.

"I want to learn the total operations of the department," Geary said. "I want to meet the people who really run the department—the people who do the necessary and difficult jobs—and to get to know them personally."

Geary began his work program in the department's mail room, where 18,770 tax returns arrived that day, and he has followed the course tax returns take through the department, working with rank and file employees along the way.

The commissioner has opened mail, sorted returns, operated data processing devices, worked on answers to taxpayer letters and audited tax returns.

The program has been an unqualified success in Geary's view. He called it "enlightening, enjoyable, educational and rewarding."

"I'm finding our first hand the day-to-day problems and concerns of the employees. I'm also getting some good management ideas. And I'm very impressed with the hard-working dedicated employees of the department."

That admiration has been mutual. Employees who have worked with Geary have found him sincere, personable and easy to talk to.

Geary has also listened; he has asked department managers to check into some employees concerns and has changed work procedures for efficiency as a result of some of his visits.

The commissioner's work days will continue through all departmental operations squeezed into a busy schedule of legislative hearings, cabinet meetings, University of Kentucky trustee meetings and active church and civic involvement in Louisville where he lives.

Such activity and achievement are nothing new to the 34-year-old Geary. He graduated magna cum laude in 1969 from the University of Kentucky where he played baseball on scholarship and won numerous accounting, athletic, leadership and academic awards.

He earned his CPA certificate in 1971 and started his own firm in 1973. Amid all this, he was attending the University of Louisville School of Law. He graduated and was admitted to the bar in 1974.

Prior to being named revenue commissioner by Gov. John Y. Brown Jr., Geary was managing partner of Geary, Balbach & Hardt, CPAs, one of Louisville's largest local accounting firms. Earlier, Brown had appointed him to UK's board of trustees, making Geary the youngest person ever appointed to the board.

Geary has been active in various Louisville civic activities, including serving as chairman of the Old Louisville Merchants Association in 1981. He is a deacon at the Southeastern Christian Church in Louisville. He now lives in Prospect with his wife, the former Linda Carpenter, and their two children.

Geary's primary goal as commissioner is to achieve "fair and equitable, firm and efficient" tax administration.

He also wants to bring creative and innovative approaches to taxation. Already, along with longtime friend Commerce Secretary Bruce Lunsford, he has suggested one major innovation in Kentucky's tax structure.

The Geary-Lunsford proposal would replace Kentucky's individual income, corporation and inheritance taxes with a business activities tax. That proposal is currently being prepared in detail and will be ready for the 1982 General Assembly's consideration.

Abbott Creek

By J. P. HILL
and
DELMAS SAUNDERS

Abbott Creek is a beautiful valley; its hollows bear quaint names, their origins sometimes lost in antiquity. Examples are Sheepfield Hollow, Duckhole, Copperas Lick and Deephole Branch.

This creek is thought to have been settled shortly after the Revolutionary War. Early family names include Conley, May, Meade, Merritt, Miller, Hackworth, Hill, Howell, Hopkins, Hereford, Hatcher, Harmon, Baldrige, Woods, Brown, Burke, Music, Caudill, Dotson, Neeley, Osborne, Frasure, Elliott, Robinson, Webb and Snipes.

A postoffice was established, and named Bonanza, Jan. 31, 1881. Around the turn of the century, Bonanza began to grow, and soon became a thriving village, the home of four general stores (some two stories high), a hotel, two blacksmith shops, and two grist mills. It became a village with board sidewalks, two churches, a school, and three fraternal orders (Masons, Odd Fellows and Red Men). A narrow gauge railroad was later built and extended some 3-1/2 miles up Abbott Creek, to what is still known as "Mining Branch."

The big factor in Bonanza's growth was that it lay along the path of the best route for the hauling of timber and freight from the Upper Licking River Valley, to the railroad at Richardson, and later at Whitehouse, and the steamboat landing at the mouth of Abbott Creek. All essentials not available from the land came up the river by steamboat, and with the advent of the railroad from Whitehouse, by wagon as well.

A short time later, with the help of Caney Creek Community Center, in Knott county, a high school was established at Bonanza.

Still later, the railroad was extended the length of the Big Sandy valley. Highways were built, and Bonanza as a "boom town" began to fade. School buses came, and the high school was consolidated with the Prestonsburg system. Improved transportation reduced the number of stores and the need for the hotel. The going of the timber also contributed to the general decline of activity. The fraternal orders became inactive, and were consolidated with chapters and lodges in the county seat. The postoffice was discontinued, July 18, 1969.

Over the years, the people of Bonanza and the Abbott Creek section have come up from the soil — God-fearing people, who tilled the hillsides and bottoms, worked in the coal mines and logging woods, and wanted, most of all, a better life for their children.

This section has given to the world sons and daughters of genius and sterling character. Bonanza and Abbott Creek have produced and given to society:

Three medical doctors, two dentists, four lawyers, one Secretary of State for the Commonwealth of Kentucky, one state representative, two judges (one, the Chief Justice of Kentucky's highest court), two registered nurses, one college professor (Ph.D.), and three civil engineers. And, in all probability, this is only a partial list.

Many have gone into the teaching profession. Some went into other counties and states, where they have become business and professional leaders, holding offices of public trust, and distinguishing themselves as men and women of substance, ability and integrity.

Yes, Bonanza and Abbott Creek have a rich heritage, and it is the aim of its people to assure that this heritage is enhanced.

Polar Bears, Penguins Focus Of KET Program

National Geographic Society focuses its cameras on the small arctic Canadian town of Churchill which is in the path of migratory polar bears on "Polar Bear Alert," airing Wednesday, March 10 at 9 p.m. on KET.

Every winter the 1,200-pound carnivores ride the huge ice floes north through the Hudson Bay, waiting patiently for dinner near air holes cut in the ice by submerged seals. When an 800-pound seal comes up for air, the polar bear crushes its skull with one swipe of its massive paw.

With the advent of spring, the river currents reverse and carry the ice floes south. In the warmer water the ice melts, leaving the bears without transportation as they wander ashore in search of food. Compelled by hunger, the polar bears congregate at the town dump of Churchill.

The National Geographic Society has deposited its cameras there to capture feeding habits and social interactions of the meandering bears.

Immediately following this program is the "Survival Special" entitled "Penguin Summer" at 10 p.m. The penguin is the subject of this special which focuses on the breeding habits of this seabird as it breaches the waters of the South Atlantic and nests in the cliffs of a seabird sanctuary off the coast of South America.

The "National Geographic Special: Polar Bear Alert" is produced by WQED/Pittsburgh; the "Survival Special: Penguin Summer" is produced by Survival Anglia, LTD., and both represented on KET as part of TeleFund '82.

FEBRUARY FISHING

Most fishermen are glad that February is the shortest month of the year, since it means that spring, and spring fishing are just that much closer.

However, once an angler discovers that February fishing can be productive in Kentucky, he just might wish the month was a few days longer. If you feel a bad case of cabin fever coming on, why not put on several layers of warm clothes and give winter fishing a try.

One key to February fishing is knowing which species you should devote your attention to. While you might be a dedicated largemouth bass angler most of the year, you should realize that your chances of seeing some action—and some fish on your stringer—are much better if you direct your angling efforts toward a fish that is more active in cold water than is the largemouth.

Ol' bucketmouth's little cousin, the smallmouth, is a likely candidate for the bass angler's attention, since the fisherman will probably already have an assortment of small jigs (mostly in basic black) and the tackle to work them with. Devote your attention to steep, rocky walls and fish slow and along the bottom.

If you live near a dam on one of our major rivers, you've probably got a sauger hot spot right in your backyard. Sauger spawn very early in the spring and have probably already made their way upstream to the base of these dams, where they mill around, just waiting for a jig tipped with a minnow to swim by. Again, fish as close to the bottom as you can get and if you catch one sauger, work the area thoroughly, since there will probably be more of these schooling fish in the same vicinity.

Although less widely distributed in Kentucky than the sauger, the walleye is another prime candidate for the winter fisherman's live well. Check out the headwater areas of Cumberland, Nolin and Rough River lakes, particularly after the first relatively warm rain raises water temperatures in feeder streams.

And don't forget riprap areas in these lakes—walleyes don't necessarily have to run upstream to spawn. In fact, the walleye in the lower sections of our larger lakes probably don't even know that there is a river 20 or 30 miles upstream, so they go ahead and spawn on gravel bars or on the rocky face of dams and bridge fills.

If you live near, or want to travel to, Laurel or Cumberland lakes, you can give trout fishing a try. This time of year, trout are near the surface and can be taken by casting or trolling shallow to medium runners. One advantage to trolling, the winter fisherman soon discovers, is that he can put his rod in rod holder and his hands in a warm pocket.

The hotspot for trout fishing right now is below the dam at Cumberland, where four- to five-pound trout aren't uncommon and where a limit of eight fish is fairly easy to come by. You should be extra careful there, however, since generators in the dam can turn on without warning and create strong currents and rapidly rising water levels.

As soon as the ice gets off Cave Run Lake, the musky fisherman can start stalking this toothy trophy. Muskies remain fairly active in cold water and on warm days can sometimes be spotted basking in the sun near the surface.

Although crappie are technically warm-water fish, experienced winter anglers who know where to find schools of these fish come back to the dock with some fine catches. During the winter, crappie school in deep water and once the fish are located, catching a mess usually isn't a problem.

Even bluegill can be induced to bite in the winter, as Kentucky's few ice fishermen can show. Fish in the deepest part of the pond or lake, use very light tackle and fish slowly near the bottom.

One last word about winter fishing—be careful. Cold water is extremely dangerous and survival time is measured in minutes. Wear a life jacket and don't take unnecessary chances. Also remember that our lakes are essentially deserted this time of year, so be sure to tell someone where you're going and leave instructions to send out search parties if you aren't back by a certain time.

Win Award for Floyd Road Job

NAPA Chairman Barton S. Mitchell (left) presents the runnerup 1981 Sheldon G. Hayes Award for Highest Quality in Asphalt Paving to (from left) Darriell Stamper, general superintendent, East Kentucky Paving Corp.; William L. Echstenkamper, president, Plantmix Asphalt Industry of Kentucky, who accepted a plaque on behalf of the Kentucky Department of Transportation; and Philip C. Annis vice-president, East Kentucky Paving Corp., who holds the plaque presented to the company and who also received the Sheldon G. Hayes Supervisory Award. The plaques were presented at the 27th annual convention of the National Asphalt Pavement Association (NAPA) held in San Francisco, Calif. The awards received by the Kentuckians were for a 2.3-mile sector of KY 80 in Floyd county. A total of 13 inches of full-depth hot-mix asphalt (10 inches base, two inches binder and one inch surface) was placed on the roadway. Approximately 60,000 tons of hot-mix were used on the project.

State To Seek Bids On Health Insurance

George Fischer, Finance and Administration Department secretary, announced today that state government will solicit bids for the state health insurance contract. This contract will provide health insurance coverage for approximately 33,000 state employees, 53,000 employees of local school boards, and 3,000 members to the Kentucky Retirement System.

In the past, the health insurance contract was negotiated on an annual basis with Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky. Last October state officials were startled by a 38 percent increase in premium rates.

A task force was appointed to make a series of recommendations to minimize the amount of future increases while providing employees with good coverage. The first recommendation called for competitive bidding on the next health insurance contract.

The task force also recommended that cost containment and employee education programs be initiated. Fischer explained that negotiations are now under way with a professional review organization which would review the records of employees who are hospitalized to determine if they are getting proper care.

The bid specifications ask for three slightly different health insurance plans. The first plan is the present level of health insurance benefits with increased attention to cost-saving features.

The second plan provides essentially the same service as the current level of benefits except for a front-end deductible and co-payment plan. Under this plan, the employee pays 20 percent of all claims up to $5,000 and the health insurance company pays the remaining 80 percent. The employees maximum liability would be $1,350.

The third plan allows the employee to make the decision between plan 1 and plan 2. The commonwealth would provide single coverage for its employees under the lowest priced plan. If an employee desired the more expensive option, it would be up to him to pay the difference. When quotes are received, a final decision as to the plan to be offered will be made.

In addition, the bid specifications call for two types of dependent coverage. Those employees who have only one dependent will have a lower premium rate than those employees who have more than one dependent. Quotes for additional benefits such as dental coverage and psychological services are also being solicited.

The health insurance contract being bid is for two years.

Hospice Group Meet Scheduled March 12

The next scheduled meeting of the Hospice Organizational Committee is planned for Friday, March 12, at 7 p.m. at the Floyd County Library. All interested persons are invited.

Those interested in more information on Hospice or who would like to participate in developing a Hospice in this area can contact Clara Garrett, R.N., assistant professor, Associate Degree Nursing Program, Prestonsburg Community College. The program is explained:

A Hospice helps to meet the physical, psychological, social and spiritual needs of the terminally ill during the final phase of their illness. The program always includes families and continues support through bereavement. By utilizing the services of trained volunteers which includes nurses, non-medical people, social workers and others, the terminally ill person often can stay at home with his or her family if they choose to do so. Hospice services are provided on a seven-days-a-week, 24-hours-a-day on-call basis. The Hospice team, in cooperation with the person's attending physician, works to meet the individual needs of each family. The person's attending physician remains responsible for the direct medical care of the patient's illness. Hospice neither hastens nor postpones death. It believes that people should live their remaining days with dignity and as fully, alertly and comfortably as possible. To become established in this area, Hospice needs the support of individuals and groups in the community.

There's a better way to predict your next electric bill.

You don't need a crystal ball. You need the Equal Payment Plan. A Plan that smooths out the ups and downs of your monthly electric bills. Your bills fluctuate with the seasons. Up in winter. Up in summer. Down in spring and fall. With the Plan, you'll pay a fixed amount each month, based on your average annual electric usage. It means you can defer part of each winter's heating and summer's cooling electric bills to spring and fall. The Plan gives you a better, easier way to put together a household budget. Without surprises. Your account will be reviewed every six months to see that your budget payment is still as close as possible to your average use. And, at the end of the twelfth month, you'll receive a settle-up bill or a credit.

Now your electric bills can be very predictable. With the Equal Payment Plan. Just send in this coupon for more information.

★ EXTENSION SERVICE NOTES ★

By JACK M. FRIAR

Early spring is the best time to begin a fly control program for your cattle herd. During the spring fly populations are small. Beginning a fly control program then will prevent a build-up during the mid-summer months.

Controlling flies in your cattle herd will increase production by decreasing the number of irritants around the cattle. Studies have shown that large numbers of flies around cattle will decrease the weight gain and potential milk production. Face flies have also been linked with pink eye in cattle.

Horn flies and face flies are two major pests of Kentucky cattle. Horn flies are blood-feeding pests that stay on the cattle at all times. They are ¼ inch long and dark gray to black in color. They are usually easier to control than face flies with methods that apply insecticide directly to the animal's body.

Face flies look similar to house flies but are slightly larger. Face flies feed on the secretions from the eyes and nostrils of cattle. They are more difficult to control because they spend more time off of the animal.

The most practical method of controlling flies is the use of ear tags. Used according to label directions, ear tags with the insecticide fenvalerate are most effective. These tags can also be used for identification purposes and will provide season-long fly control. Use two tags per animal, including calves, for best results.

Forced-use dustbags are the second best method of controlling cattle flies. The dustbag should be placed where the animal will be forced to walk through it to drink or eat each day. Dustbags provide excellent horn fly control and 50 to 75 percent face fly control.

Dustbags also provide reasonable fly control when they are hung on mineral feeders or in loafing areas.

Oil solutions of insecticides can be applied to cattle with backrubbers and backrollers. These forms of fly control are most effective when used in the forced-used situations and they provide excellent control of horn flies. They are less effective against face flies than ear tags or dustbags are, but adding strips of cloth to backrubbers will help improve their use against face flies.

The two other methods of controlling flies in cattle are sprays and feed-throughs. Feed-throughs can control only the larvae of cattle flies although feed-throughs can be effective when used along with other control methods.

Sprays are the most effective control of cattle flies, but are generally uneconomical and time-consuming. Applying short residual insecticides on a daily basis is the best method of controlling flies in cattle herds, but is impractical and expensive, and therefore unsatisfactory to most cattle producers. The use of long residual sprays for control should be applied every two weeks throughout the spring and summer months.

Cattlemen should continue any type of fly control program through the summer months to prevent a build-up of flies in the early fall.

Screen Scene

Quite possibly, you may think that you have seen enough movies of the good old days to make you ever so glad that you live in the good new ones.

But see at least one more, for old times sake. See "Little Miss Marker." You can take the kids, the dog and whatever else. It won't leave you with any great emotional impact but it just may leave you laughing.

"Little Miss Marker" is a remake of the 1934 movie that had Shirley Temple in the title role. It is the story of a race horse bookie named Sorrowful Jones (Walter Matthau) who accepts a six-year-old girl (Sara Stimson) as a marker for a bet. When no one returns for the girl, Sorrowful is anything but delighted. After all, it is bad for business to get stuck with a marker.

The interplay of the crusty bookmaker and the sweet little girl is, in essence, the movie. Little Miss Marker (never did give her name), with some help from Amanda (Julie Andrews), an heiress who owns a most pitiful race horse, somehow gets beneath Sorrowful's thick crust to prove once again that yes, Virginia, everyone does have a heart.

"Little Miss Marker" also stars Tony Curtis and Bob Newhart, with Lee Grant in a rather insignificant role. Walter Bernstein (who doubles as screenwriter and director) and Walter Matthau make great humor together.

Poor Children Losers If Title I Funds Cut

Twenty-two thousand underprivileged children in the state will not receive the remedial reading and math help that they need if the proposed federal budget cuts become a reality, according to Superintendent of Public Instruction Raymond Barber.

Barber testified before a U.S. House of Representatives Subcommittee on Elementary, Secondary and Vocational Education in Lexington Saturday, Feb. 20. The meeting was held in the Patterson Office Tower at the University of Kentucky. U.S. Rep. Carl Perkins (D-Hindman) was the subcommittee chairman.

Superintendent Barber said the 22,000 figure would result during the first year and that figure would climb to more than 40,000 for fiscal year 1984.

"Educationally deprived children will be damaged severely by a rescission of these funds when what they need most is an increase," he said.

According to the superintendent, approximately 800 Title I staff members, including some teachers, might need to be terminated the first year of the cuts, and some 1,450 could lose their jobs the next year if the local districts are unable to make up the funds.

President Reagan has proposed a $1 billion cut from Title I, the $2.9 billion program nationwide which provides remedial help for 4.8 million disadvantaged school children across the country.

"Prior to Title I only the wealthier districts could provide help to these youngsters," Barber explained. "As a result of Title I there is not a district in Kentucky that does not have a good remedial math and reading program. Title I has served not only Kentucky but the nation well."

Barber also leveled criticism at the president's proposal to make cuts in the school breakfast program, child care food program, special milk program and summer food service program for children.

The projected loss to Kentucky for these programs is $5.2 million in 1983.

"Any classroom teacher will tell you that you can't teach a child who hasn't had a good meal. It's important to a child's ability to learn," he said. "I'm really concerned about eliminating the summer program. What's going to happen to those children who many times eat their only well-balanced meal at school?"

Superintendent Barber also commented on the president's plan to consolidate the federal vocational education and adult basic education programs into a block grant and reducing the funding for the combined programs by 32 percent. The president wants to turn vocational education programs over to the states entirely by fiscal year 1984.

"Only the most basic program could be expected to survive, and, if the intended total phase-out of federal funds occurs, even some basic programs will die," Barber said. "In particular jeopardy would be those programs funded for adult and post-secondary students."

Lexington was only one stop in a series of meetings being held across the country by the subcommittee to hear public testimony on the proposed education cuts.

Ends Basic Training

Pfc. Sammie W. Wells, son of Sammie E. and Alma J. Wells, of Prestonsburg, has completed one station unit training (OSUT) at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training.

He is a 1978 graduate of Prestonsburg High School.

★ Consumer Alert

"HOLDER-IN-DUE-COURSE"

A Kentucky consumer bought a new refrigerator and signed a time-payment contract arranged by the seller. After a few months, the refrigerator broke down, and the dealer refused to repair or replace it. When the consumer tried to stop payment on the contract, he discovered that the contract had been sold to a financial institution. The financial institution claimed that it had purchased a valid contract and had no responsibility to fix the refrigerator. It did, however, claim the right to collect payment on the contract.

According to Attorney General Steven L. Beshear, "When a business sells an installment contract to a financial institution, that institution becomes the holder-in-due-course or assignee. Under Kentucky's Consumer Credit Law, the assignee is subject to all the remedies which the consumer could assert against the original business. This assures the consumer of not having to pay for defective products or poorly performed services."

A reputable business will not sell time-payment contracts to financial institutions in an attempt to escape responsibilities for repairs or replacement. With Kentucky's Consumer Credit Law in effect, financial institutions are likely to think twice before doing business with people or companies that indulge in questionable practices. Consumers should do likewise.

If you have a consumer complaint, write to the Attorney General's Office, Division of Consumer Protection, 209 St. Clair, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601, or call the toll-free consumer hotline. The number is 1(800)432-9257.

Leads Team to State Title

Maribeth Anderson in state gymnastics event.

She's only a sophomore, but 15-year-old Maribeth Anderson led her Lafayette High School team to its first state championship in gymnastics Feb. 20 at Richmond. Her fourth-place finish led the Lexington school in edging Louisville's Presentation Academy by five-tenths of a point for the title. The youngster, who had come in first in every earlier event of the season, was second in the floor exercise, only .05 behind the state winner, and was fourth all-around on bars and beam. She is the second daughter of Richard and Sandy Tingue Anderson, of Lexington, to represent Lafayette in the state gymnastics meet (her sister, Suelyn, competed six years ago when Lafayette lost to Louisville Moore by a mere .5 point). She is a granddaughter of the late Charles and Olive Webb Tingue, formerly of this county, and the late Melvin and Mary Jane Anderson who resided at McDowell.

Governor's Bill Would Mandate Jail Terms for Drunken Drivers

Surrounded Monday by representatives of a group calling itself Mothers Against Drunk Driving, or MADD, Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. announced details of a bill that gave them what they had lobbied for.

The bill would make it easier for police to make drunken-driving arrests and would require prosecutors and judges to give explanations whenever they dismiss or reduce such charges.

"I look on drunk driving as a premeditated offense," Brown said. "Anyone that's caught is going to be put in the clinker."

Under what Brown called his "slammer bill," a first-time drunken driver, even if given probation, would go to jail for 24 hours, be fined $250 and pay the costs of 90 days of treatment.

Present law, according to state Justice Department officials, allows fines and jail sentences against first and repeat offenders to be probated.

The bill's other penalties include: —First offense, without probation, five to 10 days in jail, $350 to $500 fine, loss of license for up to 60 days.

—Second offense within five years, if probated, eight days in jail, $400 fine, loss of license for six months; if not probated, 30 to 90 days in jail, $500 to $750 fine, loss of license for up to six months.

Third and further offenses within five years, with probation, 30 days in jail, $750 fine and loss of license for one year; without probation, $750 to $1,000 fine, 60 days to six months in jail, loss of license for one year.

In other provisions, the bill: —Allows drunken-driving convictions in other states to count as prior convictions in Kentucky.

—Requires that prosecutors state on the record and that judges state in writing their reasons for dismissing a drunken-driving charge or reducing it to a lesser offense.

—In cases where a drunken-driving charge is reduced to reckless driving, increases penalties for reckless driving and allows a reckless-driving conviction to be counted as a prior drunken-driving conviction.

—Permits officers to make drunken-driving arrests at the scene of an accident if they have probable cause to suspect the offense. For drunken driving and other misdemeanors, officers must either witness the incident or have an arrest warrant.

—Permits new electronic machines to be used to test for alcohol and sets aside $10 from each fine to pay for them.

—Earmarks $10 from each fine to finance education and treatment programs and improved record-keeping.

—Allows imprisonment on days when the convicted person is off work.

A TRAGIC FAILURE

We submit this "log" of the Dole prize flight: Several weeks ago a millionaire, not content to rest with his millions in comparative obscurity, struck upon a plan to catch the public's eye. This plan was to offer a prize of $25,000 to the winner of a race through the air across the Pacific ocean and to Honolulu.

Many airmen planned to compete . . . to chase the fleeting bubble, Fame, and that Jack-o'-Lantern, Fortune, which leads its pursuer into many the snare.

Three men lost their lives in preparatory flights. Yet a millionaire must have his sport. And, he being willing to pay the price therefor, other fliers took their places as the pawns of fate.

Four airplanes headed into the sunset, Honolulu bound. Two reached port. Two others and their human cargoes—four men and a woman—have, it is almost certain, met death in the smilingly treacherous Pacific. Two other fliers, would-be-rescuers, have, in all probability, met similar fates.

Seven valuable lives are lost. And therein America and the world loses, with nothing gained.

The millionaire donor of the prize is bent with grief. He is reported as breaking under the strain. Human vanity has taken its toll, and he is paying.

Goebel, winner of the first prize, is richer by $25,000. The flight means no more to him. He may return as one from the dead, but not as a conquering hero comes.

For America's heart is with those hapless victims of this rash venture, and her homage is due only them.

HILL AND HALL FILE CONTEST

Without this padding, Mr. Crowe's majority in the county would have been 300 less and Senator Stephenson would have been defeated for the Democratic nomination for Senator. Senator Stephenson won over Alex Hill, Prestonsburg, by forty votes.

NONE DENIES FRAUD

No one, not even the election commissioners or Senator Stephenson, deny that the reports from the precinct are fraudulent. Indeed, the fraud is evident on the face of the election book.

Senator Stephenson insists that what appears to be irregularities in Leckieville precinct only gives me back a part of what was stolen from me in Floyd county." Crowe supporters, and Senator Stephenson's supporters, generally, say what happened did not alter the result in the Beckham-Crowe race, and second, "they were stealing from Senator Stephenson in Floyd county."

Writing in the Courier-Journal, August 19, from Pikeville, J. Howard Henderson, staff correspondent for that paper, says of alleged election "irregularities" in that county:

Leckieville's 105 to none vote was a bit more open, but somewhat in line with what happened in several other precincts in the county. Mr. Sanders is authority for one story hat he heard, after the polls closed, of another precinct where the election officers had certified far more votes for Crowe than there were Democrats living in the precinct, and he rushed out, he said, stopped the officers, and had them change the returns to a more moderate sum.

In Belfry precinct the election officers were changed just before the election, and just after the election the precinct reported 185 for Crowe and three for Beckham. Anyhow, Saturday night, Crowe's total in the county had been run up to 3,232 against 954 for Beckham. In the face of that there are reputable citizens in the county, conversant with conditions, who declare that if the ballot books were opened up and counted today Mr. Crowe's majority over Beckham would not be 500 votes.

Senator Stephenson is quoted by his friends as having said Saturday night or Sunday afternoon that the returns indicated he had been defeated by Mr. Hill.

Monday was the day to make the official count. Sheriff John M. Moore, Democrat, and Alex Ratliff, Democrat, election commissioners, were late starting the count in Pike county. Mr. Ratliff said it was because Mr. Moore spent Monday morning entering the names of the candidates in the election book.

FLOYD, KNOTT COUNTED FIRST

About 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, the count started. Supper time came and the commissioners recessed. Floyd county's count was completed. Knott county was counted. On the face of the official count in Floyd and Knott, and the unofficial count in Pike, Mr. Hill was leading Senator Stephenson by 260 votes.

After supper Mr. Ratliff and Sheriff Moore resumed the Pike county count. "I came to Leckieville precinct, and said, 'Boys, there's something funny here—Crowe has 405 votes and Beckham none,'" Mr. Ratliff told the Courier-Journal.

"We looked at the book and sure enough it was just that way, and Stephenson was given 404 and the men running against him got none," he said.

Someone, by the stroke of a pen, had made a four out of a one after Mr. Crowe's name, and had changed a one to a four in the figures 104 after Mr. Stephenson's name.

The election commissioners knew it was incorrect, and Mr. Ratliff admits that he knew from his general knowledge of the precinct that there were

But the election commissioners consulted the statutes, and lawyers, and reached a decision that there was

"nothing for us to do but certify the vote as it appeared on the election books." And it was certified, Crowe 405, Beckham none, and Hill none. And thus Mr. Stephenson won the nomination over Mr. Hill by forty votes.

INK SHOWS CHANGES

The ink with which the figures "1" were changed to a "4" was blue, while the ink with which the original entries were made was black, or considerably darker.

The man who tampered with the ballot book overlooked, right at the top of the certificate, a line which read:

"Number of votes cast, 106."

The election commissioners overlooked it, too, and certified to the state board that 405 votes were cast for Crowe and 404 cast for Stephenson.

The next line in the election book read:

"Number of ballots remaining (in the book), 364."

The bungler forgot to change that line. There were 470 ballots in the book in the beginning. One hundred and five were voted for Crowe, and one was spoiled, making 106 ballots cast, or used. That left 364 unused ballots in the book, which was certified to by the precinct election officers. But the county election commissioners, Mr. Ratliff and Mr. Moore, ignored the certificate of the precinct officers that 364 unused ballots were left in the book, and certified to the state board that 406 ballots were used, which left only 64 ballots in the book.

The precinct officers certified that only seventy-four votes were cast in the Lieutenant Governor's race, which, set against the entry of 405 for Crowe in the Governor's race, did not stop the county election commissioners from certifying to the false returns.

The precinct officers certified that seventy-two votes were cast in the race for secretary of state; seventy-five in the contest for attorney general; sixty-three for auditor; eighty for treasurer; sixty-nine for commissioner of agriculture, and seventy-one for clerk of the court of appeals.

The election commissioners accepted as correct these totals, always less than 100 in those races, and certified to the state board, without expression of doubt or wonder, that Crowe polled 405 and Stephenson 404 votes in the same precinct.

In a hotly contested race for circuit clerk the precinct polled, according to the certificate of the precinct officers, 102 votes. The county election commissioners recorded that vote, but expressed no doubt that nearly four times as many persons, 404, to be exact, voted for Stephenson for Senator.

RIPPED OUT UNUSED BALLOTS

Whoever tampered with the election book tore out the unused ballots from number 107 to number 406, inclusive, in handfuls. It is evident even on the most casual observation. Numbers 27 to 167 were torn out one at a time, and the tear, which did not follow the perforated line, is exactly alike on these ballots, while the next batch, torn out, up to No. 183, left the telltale uneven line.

There was another fact that went without comment on the part of the election commissioners. The stubs remaining in the book are supposed to be filled in with the names of the voters. Only ninety-four stubs are filled in. All of the stubs after No. 96 are without names.

Mr. Ratliff does not deny that the returns were forged. He interprets the law, however, as requiring the election commissioners to certify the returns as they appear on the books, without regard to obvious inconsistencies.

"When I first noticed the return from Leckieville," he said, "I thought it was funny, and held it up to get a better light on it."

After he saw that it read 405 for Crowe and 404 for Stephenson, he did not examine it further, he said.

"Our duties are ministerial and clerical, good lawyers informed us, and we had no other option but to count the vote as it appeared on the book and send it to Frankfort."

Mr. Ratliff was hazy about the parts of the precinct officers' certificate except as it applied to the votes for Crowe and Stephenson.

He did not remember whether he and the sheriff, Mr. Moore, noticed that the certificate showed that only 106 ballots were cast, or that the same certificate showed that 364 unused ballots were left in the book.

He doubted, anyway, he said, if they could have paid any attention to that, as he interpreted it to be his duty, to report the vote cast for each man, and nothing more.

He did not notice, he said, that the ink with which a figure "one" was changed to a "four" was of a different color, and that the ballots after No. 106 were torn out in handfuls, and that the stubs after No. 961 were without names of voters.

He saw nothing and looked for nothing after the first shock of his surprise that the precinct gave Crowe 405 and Beckham none, and Stephenson 404 to none for Hill and none for Hatcher, he said. But he doesn't doubt, he said, that "it was a little bit irregular."

'IRREGULARITY' TO STEPHENSON

No one here denies that the ballot book was changed. Some call it a "steal," and Mr. Stephenson and his friends call it "an irregularity."

Mr. Stephenson has never looked at the ballot book. He says he does not want a stolen election. He desires nothing but an honest count, he says. He declares he would not accept the nomination if he was not entitled to it.

The ballot book is in the circuit clerk's office, not more than 200 feet from Senator Stephenson's law office. The Senator spent part of Monday in the hall running through the center of the Pike county courthouse, not twenty feet from the ballot book, but did not go in to see how it had been changed to give him 300 more votes than he actually got, and elect him by forty votes.

PROFESSOR BOUGHTON RETURNS

Professor N. C. Boughton returned last Friday from his visit of home folks in Georgia. Upon his arrival he announced that dedication of the new building would be well worth attending, as he was trying to get several noted speakers to come on that day. Some of the citizens were talking of a barbecue but that has passed over as the cost would be so much.

This place is planning on the best high school in the county this year. Surely such a building and faculty deserve as much.

A Woman's Place

By VICKI DENNIS,
Kentucky Commission On Women

WOMEN'S HISTORY WEEK
Women have always been makers of history. Unfortunately, history, more often than not, has chosen to ignore the great stories of women's accomplishments, adventures, heroism and exploits. In 1978, in Sonoma County, California, a group of women decided they had enough of history's lack of respect and they set out to celebrate their very own Women's History Week. The idea caught on. Now cities across the country are gearing up to celebrate National Women's History Week, March 17-13, as an annual reminder of just how important women really have been to American history.

In Kentucky, the names of famous women who helped shape this state will be lauded in activities in Lexington and Louisville. Women like Jenny Wiley and Rebecca Boone will be cheered for their efforts in settling the "dark and bloody land." You might hear shouts of "Delia Webster," who was principal of the Lexington Female Academy during the Civil War and who was arrested repeatedly for her work as an underground railroad agent, determined to help fugitive slaves get to freedom.

During Women's History Week, thoughts will turn to Laura Clay, the fiery daughter of Cassius Clay and an early Kentucky feminist. She was elected the first president of the Equal Rights Association, organized at the Lexington Public Library in 1888. She also organized the Fayette County Democratic Women's Club and was one of eight delegates to the 1920 national convention in San Francisco where she heard her name placed in nomination for the president of the United States—a first for a woman by any major political party.

You might hear of Madeline McDowell Breckinridge, a turn-of-the-century social activist and reformer from Lexington who fought for voting rights for women. And Carrie Taylor, owner, manager and proprietor of the Mrs. A. H. Taylor Company in Bowling Green, a highly successful business, that designed and made clothing for women all over the world at the end of the 19th century. Mrs. Taylor employed over 500 people, earned more than $50,000 a year in profits and catered to a fashion clientele in excess of 24,000 customers, all who thrilled at the possibility of wearing a "Taylor-made" gown.

The list goes on: Lucy Harth Smith who fought for education and legislation to aid the black community; Mary Breckinridge who rode thousands of miles in the mountains to bring health care to the people of Eastern Kentucky and who founded the Frontier Nursing Service; Jane Todd Crawford who rode 60 miles by horseback to have an ovarian tumor removed surgically, the first time that such a surgery had been performed in the United States without the help of anesthesia.

And there will be even more names cheered, discussed, touted and praised for the roles they played in Kentucky's history during celebrations found in cities during the week. Lexington has perhaps the largest schedule planned with a full week of activities involving the University of Kentucky and individuals and groups from the community. Films, lectures, slide presentations, photographic displays and information booths are all part of the festivities. Department stores throughout Lexington have donated their show windows to women's history displays.

The highlight of the week will be a speech by Rep. Pat Schroeder, a Democrat from Colorado who is well-known as an advocate for women's equality. The speech is slated for March 8 at 8 p.m. at the Agriculture Building on UK's campus.

More information about Women's History Week activities in Lexington can be obtained by writing Dawn Ramsey or Pat Todd, University of Kentucky Community Education, 103 Frazier Hall, Lexington, KY 40506 or calling (606) 257-3294.

In Louisville, the climax of Women's History Week activities will take place March 10 at 8 p.m. when the play, "An Independent Woman," will be presented at the Belknap Theatre.

A one-woman show, "An Independent Woman" stars Peggy Cowles who has performed to rave reviews across the country. Ms. Cowles recreates the life of Anna Dickinson, an American feminist, orator and actress during the Civil War. Sponsored by the Kentucky Humanities Council and the Kentucky Arts Council, tickets for the play are $2. For more information, contact Dr. Lucy Friebert, Department of English, University of Louisville, (502) 588-5920.

Memorial Gifts For Cancer Victims

When cancer takes the life of a family member, a friend, a fellow worker, the loss is both painful and frustrating. How does one cope with this loss? One way is through a Memorial Gift to the American Cancer Society. Such a gift honors and perpetuates the memory of the person who has been lost. It gives comfort to the family, as well as to the donor who knows that the contribution helps support the society—in its many-faceted programs of education, research and service. You can strike a blow against cancer with a memorial gift to the local unit of the American Cancer Society. Gifts may be made by contacting Peachie Collins, Memorial Gift Chairman, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653, phone 886-2687, 886-2981 or 886-6361.

Respite Care Meet Here Rescheduled

The organizational meeting to discuss respite care services for the region has been rescheduled for Monday, March 8, at 7 p.m. at the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center here.

The Mental Retardation-Developmental Disabilities Services of Mountain Comprehensive Care Center is working to organize this program, which would provide a type of service similar to that of babysitting for any age level mentally retarded or developmentally disabled person. This type of care is offered by some state institutions and is referred to as "respite care," meaning temporary relief. MCCC is working to organize the respite care program because they are aware there are times when parents or guardians would like to have an evening or weekend to spend away from the responsibility of caring for a handicapped person. MCCC is also aware that because a person is handicapped it is often very difficult to find someone to provide this service.

The respite care program would consist of persons who would be willing to take a mentally retarded or developmentally disabled person into their homes for an evening or some designated time and provide care and supervision for this handicapped person.

Any individual who is interested in any part of the respite care program should contact the MR/DD Unit of MCC at 886-8572. The March 8 meeting is open to the public.

FISCAL COURT MEET SET

A special meeting of the Floyd Fiscal Court will be held in the Conference Room of the Courthouse Annex at 11 a.m. Friday, March 5. The public is invited.

The Kentucky Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults has pioneered in providing services for children and adults crippled by many causes.

Runner Organizes Trial Track Team For Job Corpsmen

Cross-country runner Dick Roberts, now Internal Affairs Officer at the Prestonsburg Job Corps Center, has lost none of his interest in running. In his spare time, he has organized a track team at the Center with the support of Tom Hummer, director there. Although the program is in a trial basis status at this time, Roberts says, "It's looking very promising with the team's strongest distance runner, Darrel Senger, of Erlanger, running 10 miles or more each day with me."

Roberts, who recently competed in the Great Smoky Mountain Marathon in Oak Ridge, Tennessee, placing sixth, also ran in the Louisville Metro Marathon last November with a goal of qualifying for the prestigious Boston Marathon, the nation's oldest race. Roberts' best time was two hours, 55 minutes, just five minutes over the cut-off time of two hours, 50 minutes.

"I didn't make it, but I'll be around for the next attempt," he said.

Roberts, a former cross-country runner for Eastern Kentucky University, last August ran a 30-mile marathon from Paintsville to Prestonsburg and back to help a child suffering from cancer. Later this month, the Houston, Texas native will run in the Cincinnati Heart Mini-Marathon, a 9.4 mile race. Any marathon race is at least 26.2 miles, and Roberts and Prestonsburg native, Gary Dotson, are said to be the only runners from here who have finished a marathon run.

KIWANIANNES MEET

The Prestonsburg Kiwanians held their monthly luncheon-meeting Feb. 25, at May Lodge, with the president, Mrs. Thelma Wallen, presiding. Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, the club's vice president, introduced Mrs. Clara Garrett, a teacher at Prestonsburg Community College, who spoke on the Hospice program. Prof. Garrett explained that this program is directed toward persons who are terminally ill, and that it is made up of community volunteers. She explained how much the program means to patients and members of their families, and expressed the hope that a Hospice organization would soon be in progress here. She reminded members that there will be a meeting of persons interested in this endeavor, Friday, March 12, at 7 p.m., at the Floyd County Library. Mrs. Garrett explained that more than 20 persons are needed in order to organize a Hospice unit. The Kiwanians voted to contribute $25 toward this cause. The president asked that five members be elected to serve on the By-Laws committee. Elected to serve for terms of one year were Mrs. Myrtle Davis and Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, and to serve for two-year terms were Mrs. Stella Spurlock and Mrs. Janet Cottrell. The fifth member will be Mrs. Carolyn Ford, who will serve by virtue of her office as past president. It was decided that Founders' Day would be observed with a covered-dish luncheon at the home of Mrs. Carolyn Ford, at noon Thursday, March 25. Present for the meeting were a guest, Mrs. Clara Garrett, and members, Mesdames Thelma Wallen, Garnett Fairchild, Vera Ford, Carolyn Ford, Lucy Regan, Janet Cottrell, Dorothy Osborne, Myrtle Allen, Stella Spurlock, Ortha Meece, Myrtle Davis, Mary Lou Layne and Docia Woods.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

It is estimated that more than half of all Americans are toothless beyond the age of 65. However, the loss of teeth need not go hand in hand with the loss of youth. You are responsible for good oral hygiene, not your dentist. Proper and regular brushing and flossing are essential. When a soft-bristled tooth brush is used once-a-day for two to four minutes using proper brushing technique, it will usually wear out after six weeks. It should be obvious then that a replacement is necessary. Good oral hygiene habits are necessary for good teeth. Replace your brush as needed. It is less costly than a filling.

COOLEY APOTHECARY, INC. wants to remind you how important good oral hygiene is if you expect to keep your teeth in a healthy condition. We want you to know that we have everything here for your health needs from walkers and canes to a full service pharmacy. And you'll get the personal attention and service you deserve. You'll find us at No. 2 Town Center Bldg. Open Mon.-Fri. from 9-5:30 and Sat. 9-5. 886-8106
