Health Agency In Official Shakeup

As if the razing of its Mud Creek clinic and eviction from its Salyersville premises were not enough, Big Sandy Health Care, Inc. was shaken last week by the forced resignation of its executive director and the voluntary resignations of three other top staff members.

At a time when the Mud Creek clinic, which burned to the ground last month, is seeking funds to rebuild and the Salyersville clinic, which faces a 60-day eviction notice, is looking for new premises, board and staff members were generally reluctant to speak openly for fear of sapping public confidence in the Prestonsburg-based agency which operates the two clinics.

But the decision by its board of directors to ask for the resignation of Roger Marshall, executive-director of the federally-funded agency for the past seven years, has clearly added to tensions between the board and the agency's central office staff and has fueled allegations of political interference in the management of the agency.

Floyd Brothers Drown in Lake

An outing at Carr Fork Lake ended in tragedy last Tuesday afternoon when a boat capsized and two Melvin brothers were drowned.

The victims were Isaac Richmond Thompson, 14, and his brother, Ellis, 13. Seven other occupants of the boat reached shore safely. Among the survivors was a nine-months-old infant, who was buoyed by a lifejacket.

The tragedy occurred at 3:15 p.m., near the upper boat dock on the lake, in the Littcarr vicinity. The boat was rented by Frazier's Boat Dock to Freddie Hunter. The brothers' bodies were recovered by the Kott and Perry county rescue squads shortly after 7 p.m.

A dock spokesman said the mishap was not necessarily caused by overloading the boat. If an official determination of the cause has been made, it has not been learned here.

Tax Windfall Doubtful But Law To Get Test

The tax windfall expected from alcoholic beverage sales in Floyd county may fail to materialize.

County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. admitted this week that he has found no direct law for such a levy on sales by retailers outside a third or fourth class city, and legal counsel for the Alcoholic Beverage Commission (ABC) has made the same finding.

And, wherever the tax is levied, according to the only law that has been found (House Bill 483, enacted at the 1982 General Assembly session), the tax is to raise only sufficient funds to offset the extra cost of police protection and policing liquor and beer establishments.

Although he is beset by doubt, Turner said he will submit an ordinance for adoption by the fiscal court, setting such a tax on all gross sales under broad powers given local government by the Home Rule law. County Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr. earlier suggested a 6% tax on all retail beer and whiskey outlets in the county.

If the law precludes the levy of such a tax except in cities of the third and fourth class, only the city of Prestonsburg may collect it.

But County Attorney Turner argues that if only Prestonsburg has this right of taxation and the remainder of the county does not, an inequity between retailers in Prestonsburg and those outside the city would exist.

Magoffin county has levied, and is collecting, a 3½% tax on alcoholic beverage sales, whatever the law may authorize, but this situation is said to exist through a "gentlemen's agreement" in which retailers of spirits "agreed to go along with a tax."

This Town...That World

It's Dog Days, and the water's pizen, children, so don't go swimming; the snakes are blind and will strike at any noise, so don't venture out, and...but all that is Old Wives' Tales, and this isn't but I wish it were: We're broke down and dependent on an ailing computer.

POSTMORTEM

Lenna Moore is back from Evansville, Ind., and he ascribes the Wet victory in this county to the fact that he wasn't here to damage his own cause. At the same time, he named some Drys who, he said, could have helped their side by going with him. All that may or may not be true, but the post-election statement that more firmly may stand to reason is the one which declared that the only way the county could have voted Dry would have been to let Dick Wagner, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, manage the Wet campaign.

Delay Expected On Cliff Road, Council Learns

The city should either figure out how it is going to pay its share of the costs or admit that the long-awaited Cliff road will not be built, Councilman Estill Lee Carter told his colleagues on the Prestonsburg city council Monday.

While federal and state monies totalling $1.2 million have been committed for construction of the road, the city is responsible for engineering costs and for acquiring right-of-way.

One property has yet to be bought—the price will apparently be decided by a circuit court jury—and a cemetery must be removed before construction of the road can begin. The city may yet have to come up with $100,000 or more for the project, it is estimated.

The city is already too late to have the project included in the 1983 state construction program and may well miss the 1984 program unless action is taken soon to complete—and pay for—the preliminary work, Carter said. Tentative plans were made to call a meeting of interested parties to discuss the problem.

Marshals Move U.S. Prisoners; Inquiry Planned

U.S. marshals moved quickly Monday afternoon to remove to another prison two federal prisoners from the Floyd county jail after county officials had learned of what may have been a wholesale jail delivery plot.

Officials were told that the two—John McCoy and Samuel Copley—held on a federal mail fraud charge and described as "extremely dangerous men," had planned the jail break to take place late Monday night by over-coming the turnkey when he locked cells to end the day and taking the jail keys.

The tip was confirmed when Sheriff Henry C. Hale and Deputy Jailer Charles Clark in a search of the jail found that two window bars had been sawn apart and one of three hacksaw blades reported inside the jail was found. The saw-cuts in the green bars had been concealed by filling them with green toothpaste.

Immediately after the plot report was received, District Judge Harold J. Stumbo notified U.S. officials. Stumbo said that if state law permits him to do so, he will hold a court of inquiry in an effort to determine if others had a part in the planned escape. Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen said he will ask the September grand jury to make "a thorough investigation."

Officials were visibly disturbed by the situation. They had been told that one of the federal prisoners had said all he wanted to do was get out of jail and that he would "kill anybody who got in his way." Deputy Jailer Clark said Copley had threatened, soon after he and McCoy were first brought here June 17, to take from him the jail keys. Pointedly asked by Clark about the report later, Copley insisted he was "just joking."

The report received by officials indicated the plot was well-financed, that

Church Reported Purchaser Of Waste Area Near Martin

A 6.3 acre tract fronting new KY 80 on the southern perimeter of Martin will apparently be sold to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (also known as the Mormon Church) for $170,000, it was learned here this week.

Conjecture about the fate of the property, which was acquired by the state Department of Transportation from the E. L. Dingus heirs preparatory to construction of the new highway, grew rife following the abrupt cancellation of a public auction at which the land was to be put up for sale in May.

Officials denied at the time that the Transportation Department was considering a private sale of the property which was again briefly scheduled for public auction on July 23, only to be withdrawn from a second advertising.

In response to a reporter's inquiry this week, a Transportation Department spokesman said he had been instructed by Finance Department officials not to proceed with the sale.

Ralph Ed Graves, of the Finance and Administration Cabinet, later confirmed that E.P. Grigsby, Jr., representing the Mormon Church, had responded to an invitation to bid for the property and that his bid—for $170,000—would "probably be approved."

An identical bid had been received by a Prestonsburg developer, Graves said, but had since been withdrawn. The Times later learned that Ivel businessman Morris Hylton had submitted the other bid but was persuaded by a Mormon Church delegation to withdraw it.

Grigsby said he felt confident most Martin residents would welcome sale of the tract to the church, since it would bring "social, spiritual and civic benefits" to the area. Our Lady of the Way Hospital also stands to benefit by the transaction, he noted, since it will be given first option to buy the property opposite the hospital on which the existing Mormon church stands.

Faces Life's Pain Without Surrender

The ground was frozen hard that day and a bulldozer can be difficult to control under such conditions. James (Jim) Cline was operating the dozer, a D-6, on a slope in the hilly country around Lebanon, Va. when the big machine started to slide. Cline tried to jump clear but the careening dozer overturned, and in only a second his life was drastically changed.

Cline, who was 31 years old at the time of the accident on February 22, 1958, was not expected by doctors at the Bristol, Va. hospital to live. According to his wife, Edith, doctors told her "an hour and a half would be a long time."

Both legs were crushed and the right one had to be removed all the way to his hip. From February to May, Cline lay in his hospital bed as doctors fought to save his left leg and administered massive doses of drugs to combat the gangrene which threatened his life. And there was plenty of time, indeed too much time, to think of the future.

When he finally returned to his home near Emma, his left leg was in a cast, apparently saved by the doctors. Still, he recalled last week, "My future didn't look very good. I had no idea of going back to a bulldozer." It was a hard time for the Clines. In addition to Mr. Cline's accident, his wife had lost a sister in the disastrous school bus tragedy near Knotley Hollow, which occurred only four days after her husband's mishap.

For two years, Cline's leg remained in a cast, and he submitted to repeated operations to repair the extensive damage suffered in the accident.

During this time, however, Cline refused to become dejected and home-bound, although he admits "I'd get awful disgusted because of things I couldn't do." Not long after returning home from the hospital, Cline decided that maybe he could at least do a little fishing so, he recalls, "they'd haul me over the river bank at the mouth of Cow Creek and I'd fish." Fishing wasn't very good, but "it was something to do," Cline said.

He also rigged a car to drive so he could come and go as he wished. But then another blow fell. The long fight to save his other leg was lost, and, after nearly three years and 20-30 operations, his leg was amputated, just below the knee.

But again he rebounded. With a boat, outboard motor and trailer, Cline embarked on an almost daily routine of fishing, mostly at Dewey Lake, that would last nearly 15 years. Unbelievably, he would go about the difficult task (for the most physically competent man) of launching his boat and taking it out each day, by himself! Noticing Cline's obvious handicap, others would ask to help, but Cline needed none.

About nine years ago, Cline decided he could manage a little farming and took another giant step when he started plowing and clearing ground for river bottom farmers, using a 350 International farm tractor. It wasn't a bulldozer, to be sure, but it was good to be back on a machine for Cline, who had learned to operate heavy equip-

Schools Hoping For Their Share In Rum Taxation

If the fiscal court sets a tax on alcoholic beverages here, the school board will be looking for a share of the revenue.

Following recent indications that Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr. might seek a six percent tax on liquor sales outside incorporated towns, school board members resolved last Wednesday to ask the court to earmark part of the tax for the county's schools.

Superintendent E. P. Grigsby, Jr. said he proposed to make a request to that effect at the regular fiscal court meeting scheduled for Friday this week, in the courthouse annex, at 10 a.m.

The board was also asked to endorse a proposal to tax unmined minerals at the same rate as surface property. (Unmined coal is currently taxed at a rate so low as to make the tax not worth collecting.) Joe Szakos, of David, representing the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition, said that a bill authorizing such a tax would be introduced in $25,000 Bond Asked After Five Wounded Sunday on Toler Cr.

Charles R. Salisbury, 37, was released from jail here Tuesday after executing $25,000 bond to answer to possible grand jury action in the shooting and wounding of five persons, one of whom was his son, on Toler Creek Sunday night.

He had been held in jail since Monday, when he surrendered, under five assault counts. None of the five struck by pellets from a 12-gauge shotgun allegedly fired by Salisbury was seriously hurt and all were released after having been treated at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville.

The wounded included Debbie, Billy and Randy Bentley, whose ages were listed as 24, Joyce Bentley, 21, and Salisbury's son, Roger, 13.

State police said the shooting occurred during an argument with family members and neighbors.

What Documents Will My Family Need At The Time Of My Death?

One of the most frustrating responsibilities of a spouse or family, at time of death, can be that of locating important papers and documents. A current and updated listing of these papers can, indeed, be a benefit to survivors.

This is a difficult activity for anyone to do because no one really wants to anticipate death or even prepare for it. On the other hand, you would be doing a real service to your family if you follow through on this. Make a list of your documents, indicating where each is.

The type of such papers and documents, along with location, might include: 1) your will, 2) Social Security papers, Veteran's records, 3) cemetery deed, 4) insurance policies, 5) such certificates as birth, marriage, organization and/or union membership, educational, military, 6) bank accounts and safety deposit boxes, 7) financial papers such as mortgages, contracts, promissory notes, negotiable papers, stocks, bonds, trust funds, 8) all recent tax returns or W2 forms.

Sometimes this information turns up information about assets either forgotten about or not known of by the survivors.

Brown Says Grant Aimed At Infant Traffic Deaths

Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. has announced the awarding of a $15,000 federal grant which will be used by the Kentucky State Police to make people aware of a new law aimed at lowering the number of babies and toddlers killed or hurt in traffic accidents.

The new state law passed earlier this year requires parents or guardians to place a child who is 40 inches tall or less in a crash-tested auto safety seat or other child restraint device when traveling in a motor vehicle. The law goes into effect July 15.

KSP Commissioner Marion D. Campbell said the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration grant will be used by the Kentucky State Police public affairs section to conduct a public awareness campaign.

Both this grant and a $14,780 grant for a "before" study by the University of Kentucky are being administered by the state police's highway safety standards section.

The UK study will determine child restraint usage before the state law is in effect. Statistics collected in 1980 show only 9 percent of children under 4 are restrained while traveling in a car or truck.

According to state police records, 26 children under 4 years old were killed in Kentucky in traffic wrecks during 1981. So far this year eight children under 4 have been killed.

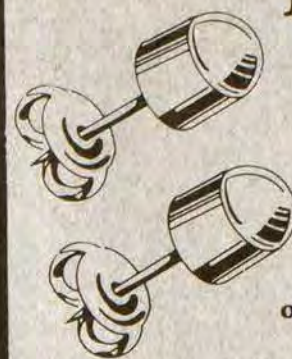

Traffic experts feel most children killed in car wrecks would have survived if they had been properly buckled in a crash-tested child restraint device.

The VA operates 172 medical centers and 226 outpatient clinics. There is at least one medical center in each (except Hawaii and Alaska, where VA provides hospital beds on a contract basis), and one each in Washington, D.C., and Puerto Rico.

This Is Our Protest

If plans announced last week in an advertisement in this newspaper meet with no opposition, chances are that Dewey dam will become a hydro-electric facility and the lake formed by the dam will be subject to heavy drawdown.

The lake, already threatened by silt from heavy mining operations near its upper reaches, will, if it is used to generate electricity, be under stress at its lower end. In between, as water is spilled in greater volume to turn turbines, will be visible the results of persistent drawdown—bare shores and a dreary expanse of mud flats.

Recall the appearance of the impoundment in winter after the seasonal drawdown is made, and you will have a pretty accurate picture of what will result if the proposed adaptation of the dam to include electric power production is approved.

Dewey Lake admittedly is not great fishing waters. But it has an esthetic and recreational value that should not be ruined.

The state of Kentucky, with its multi-million-dollar park and other facilities at Dewey Lake, has something at stake that should cause it to join others in protesting the hydro-electric proposal.

If a power shortage existed, or if power created cheaply by use of the dam would lower consumer bills, such protest would be unjustified. But there is no shortage and there is no likelihood of lower rates.

Prestonsburg will get its money after all, the contractors will be paid, and racketball enthusiasts will be able to use the new courts at Archer Park, following a recent decision by officials of the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Officials at the USDI's national park service acknowledged to state officials that a government-funded construction project at Archer Park some nine years ago was apparently "fully documented." Because of questions about the eligibility of the old project, state officials have been holding back $126,478 from the present racketball court project. The money will now be released, it was explained.

A representative of the Alcohol Beverage Control Board will be asked to brief city officials on their rights and duties in view of the county's recent decision to go wet, it was said. Among the issues on which the city seeks guidance are the appointment of an alcoholic beverage administrator and the levy of a tax on liquor sales here.

The 1984 session of the state legislature. An identical bill was bottled up by the House Rules Committee earlier this year before it could be put to a vote in the General Assembly.

Szakos said the proposed bill—which exempts small landowners and authorizes distribution of mineral tax revenues among the fiscal court, school board and state—has already been endorsed by the Kentucky School Boards Association and by the Letcher and Hazard school boards. The board here said it would study the proposal.

A formal hearing will be held at the board's August meeting to determine whether the selection of cheerleaders at Allen Central High School in May was in accordance with established guidelines. Parents of two girls who were dropped from the squad disputed the selection process, pressing their case in Floyd Circuit Court. However, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley referred them back to the school board for a ruling as to whether the selection process was in conformity with board policy and school rules.

While it is not the issue raised by plaintiffs in the case, some board members noted that practice, at Allen Central and other schools, of assigning the top cheerleaders to the boys' teams and the remainder to the girls' teams may be vulnerable to legal challenge under the federal law prohibiting discrimination on the basis of sex.

In other business, the board voted to seek approval from state education authorities to make final payment to contractors for the new Betsy Layne High School building; authorized purchase of a $43,000 sewage plant for McDowell High School; let contracts for food, classroom, transportation and custodial supplies for the coming school year; and approved negotiations with two church groups for the sale of surplus school property at West Prestonsburg. No bids were received on a tract offered for sale at Bosco.

Hired were Brenda F. Cain, as special education teacher at Betsy Layne High School; Rebecca Wells, math teacher at the same school; Eula Sizemore, cook at Martin grade school; Clara Harris and Rosemary Mitchell, summer cooks.

Our Yesterdays

(Items taken from The Floyd County Times, 10, 20, 30, 40 and 50 years ago.)

Ten Years Ago

(July 12, 1972)

State and county officials continued this week the investigation into the slaying of James Clayton Conley on Steele's Creek near Wayland, June 7, and the murder of Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Conley at Garrett, a few weeks earlier. Arson is suspected in the destruction on successive nights of two residences in the county last week. Foul play, with robbery as a motive, is suspected in the death of Chester Tackett, 44, Floyd county native whose body was found July 4 in the Gunpowder River near Fullerton, Md., after he had been missing four days. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Arnold R. Johnson, of Bevinville, a son, June 30; to Mr. and Mrs. Chester Little, of Weeksbury, a son, June 30; to Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Robinson, of Martin, a daughter, June 30; to Mr. and Mrs. Evan Akers, of Grethel, a son, July 2. There died: Harry B. Ranier, 56, of Prestonsburg, well-known Eastern Kentucky mine operator, Monday at the Paintsville hospital; Rosemary Rowe, 39, Saturday at her home at Risner; Mrs. Lora Lee Boyd, 54, of Banner, Monday at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville; Mrs. Mary Bailey Turner, 63, formerly of this county, July 4 at Willard, O.; Mrs. Ethel Mae Clark Hyden Turner, 70, formerly of Prestonsburg, Saturday at Columbus, O.; Frank Sparkman, 69, formerly of Hueysville, Sunday at Cardington, Ohio.

Twenty Years Ago
(July 12, 1962)

The Floyd County Board of Education moved Saturday to step up its building program by directing that contractors' bids be sought early next month on the Middle Creek elementary school and the Hite vocational school structures. A limited supply of Sabin oral polio vaccine is available to all county health departments through the Division of Local Health Services of the Kentucky Health Department. The Cumberland Plateau, of which Floyd county is a part, is losing population faster than any other section of Kentucky. The enormous loss adds up to 40.8 percent of its 1950 population, despite the highest rate of increase in the state. The home at Risner of Clyde Hale, assistant here to his brother, Jailer Lawrence Hale, was destroyed by fire last Thursday night, with practically all its contents being lost. The Willow Inn, near Grethel, has been closed by order of Trial Commissioner Harold J. Stumbo following a hearing held here. Drift scored four runs in the bottom of the ninth after two outs to send the game into extra innings and go on to edge Richmond, 7-6, last Sunday in the Kentucky Semi-pro State Tournament held at Paintsville. There died: J. M. Jones, 68, of Grethel, last Thursday at home; Mrs. Elsie Poe Gibson, 52, formerly of West Prestonsburg, last Wednesday at Warsaw, Indiana; Joe Akers, 80, of Galveston, Friday at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville.

Thirty Years Ago
(July 10, 1952)

The miners' vacation is over, and now hundreds of them are wondering if there's work ahead as the coal market sags. John Lee Darby, 24, native of Cow Creek and a resident of Cedarville, O., was fatally injured Sunday in a motorcycle wreck at Xenia, Ohio. Alex Little, 32, Melvin veteran of World War II, was killed June 29 in an auto wreck at Chillicothe, O., and Mrs. Little was injured. Clara, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Naulty Gearheart, of East McDowell, suffered a skull fracture when hit by a rock thrown by a playmate. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Billy F. Hill, of Lexington, formerly of Prestonsburg, a son, John Howard, July 8. There died: Tom Blackburn, 59, Johns Creek native, July 6, of mine injuries suffered at Oceana, W. Va.; Oscar William Lunsford, 64, of Garrett, July 2; Mrs. Eva Hayes Duke, 79, wife of Dr. J. W. Duke, of Hindman, at a Lexington hospital, July 1; Ollie Lafferty, 42, of Sloan, at Drift, Wednesday; Will Harvel, 79, July 2 at Betsy Layne.

Forty Years Ago
(July 9, 1942)

The Beaver Creeks were hard hit Wednesday morning by what is believed to have been the most destructive flooding ever to affect those sections of the county. The City Council here Monday night restored the traffic light at the Dingus street-Broadway intersection after a "black-out" of a few weeks. Constable Willie Johnson and his truckdriver, Woodrow Nickles, were wounded by rifle fire from ambush at Wheelwright Junction, Saturday night. Both are recovering. The three children of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hamilton—Curtis, Jr., Bub Ray and Norman Banner—were injured Monday when a pint of blasting powder exploded. War victims reported within the week: Sgt. Dan Terry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Terry, of Garrett, in England; W. H. Davis, New Boston, O., husband of the former Georgia Salisbury, of Hunter, June 30 in the crash of a bomber. Mrs. Thomas Patrick is alive this week, thanks to her daughter, 14-year-old Elizabeth Boughton, who found Mrs. Patrick pinned beneath her auto in Turkey Creek, almost totally submerged and breathing with extreme difficulty. The home of Ike Hall on Prater Creek was destroyed by fire Sunday. Ernest R. Brooks, son of Robert C. Brooks, of Weeksbury, was wounded in the battle of the Coral Sea. There died: Sam Dillon, 92, Sunday at Ivel on the site of the Civil War battle which he witnessed as a youth; Riley (Dock) Reynolds, at his home at Harold Sunday on his 75th birthday; Perry Lucas, 70, Carter county native, Monday at Ligon; James Edward Tackett, 16, Wheelwright high school student, Sunday at a Martin hospital; Beatrice Osborne, 17, at Bevinville, Saturday.

Fifty Years Ago
(July 8, 1932)

Lum Bentley, 38, and Glenn Bentley, 21, were killed in a fight at Dwale last Saturday. Seven men were brought here this week from Johnson county for safekeeping after two had escaped from the Johnson county jail. The five defendants in the Sam Adams murder mystery were freed, July 4, the case in circuit court marked, "evidence insufficient to convict." Former U. S. Senator George M. Martin, of Catlettsburg, plans to open his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Senator in his home town, Prestonsburg, on July 9, it was announced this week. Deputy Sheriff James Hughes, of Hueysville, was severely injured Friday by a slatefall in the Wells-Elkhorn Coal Company No. 6 mine. There died: Bubbles, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Crit Gearheart, of Northern, Sunday of polio.

Crowds Flock to Archer Fest

Ray (left) and Melvin, the Goins Brothers, held their annual Archer Park Bluegrass Festival to one of the best weekend crowds in the festival's history, Friday and Saturday. The weather cooperated nicely and law enforcement problems were reported rare as several thousand fans of old-time music from a number of states gathered to hear the lineup of talent.

A CIVIL RIGHT

That annual letter addressed to N.K. (Ink) Allen arrived this week, and without taking a second look I knew it was from Bob Harolowe who deserted us some years ago for Missouri.

He sends a newspaper clipping which contains a quote that we'll pass on to you later. It pertains to the gunning down in Skidmore, Mo., two years ago, of the town bully, one Ken Rex McElroy, whose untimely demise was described by some as "necessary." No fewer than 60 persons witnessed the slaying, in broad daylight and in the best vigilanti style, but two county grand juries and one federal grand jury have come and sat and gone, and nobody has been indicted.

Now, it appears murder will not always out and that the law will not prevail in the face of a pretty general feeling that the deceased "needed killing." Only an FBI agent, one Manuel Marquez, holds out any hope. He says federal officials are looking into a possible civil rights violation, because—and here's the promised quote—"this man had a right to live."

THE OTHER VIEW POINT

It's a pretty sure bet that no adage can for accuracy upstage this one: "Circumstances alter cases."

The examples by way of proof are both rustic and urban.

There was a time, and may still be, when ground squirrels (chipmunks) were a scourge to farmers, digging up and devouring corn as fast as it was planted. They were killed by the hundreds, both shot and poisoned.

Now, we who are to some extent hemmed in by paved streets and hurrying traffic, with no crops to lose, cherish the sight of the little varmints. Rabbits that raid gardens and gnaw the bark from young fruit trees, there where there are gardens and fruit trees, are to us a godsend to tired eyes.

So it is that every cat that shows a yen for the two chipmunks and rabbit or so which feed with our birds is the enemy. We still hope we can protect our little menagerie.

Fellow townsman Tom Hereford has two chipmunks, or had two, and he shares our concern. But his trouble is different from ours—a big black snake has already caught one of his chipmunks and has made threatening gestures at the other.

His problem is less than ours, however. Nobody will mourn the snake if he can catch up with it and kill it, but a cat is usually somebody's pet, and so belongs to a protected species.

Yet—getting back to the adage—there are barnlofts where black snakes clear out the rats—and woe to the scallawag who kills that farmer's snake! Verily, one man's drink may be another man's poison.

The brothers were sons of Bennie and Cordelia Hall Thompson. Surviving, besides their parents, are four brothers and seven sisters, Gene and Bennie Thompson, Jr., of Melvin, Donald and Clifford Thompson, both of Milwaukee, Wis., Mrs. Betty Moore, Misses Fanny, Cara Ann and Jill Thompson, all of Melvin, Mrs. Rita Little, of Wheelwright, Mrs. Jenny Hunter and Mrs. Lucy Hunter, both of Pikeville.

Funeral rites were conducted at 10 a.m. Saturday from Joppa Regular Baptist Church, Melvin, with ministers of that church officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery there under direction of the Merion Funeral Chapel.

Martin City Council And Mayor at Odds Over Appointment

When the Martin City Council was called into special session last week the appointment of an alcoholic beverage administrator quickly became a point of contention.

Mayor Larry B. Hall submitted to the council the appointment of himself to the post resulting from the recent Wet victory in this county. Instead of accepting the appointment, the council gave first reading to three ordinances, the first creating the office, another delegating the duties to Johnnie B. Stephens, city clerk, and the third providing that any retail alcoholic beverage dealer seeking a license to operate must first procure a city license.

It was pointed out that an attorney general's opinion has held that the mayor of a city may not hold two administrative offices, and the council regards the mayor's office, as well as the alcoholic drinks post, administrative.

50th Anniversary

Their granddaughter, Jessica Ann, is the daughter of Judy and Carroll Moore, of Stanton, formerly of this county. She is also the granddaughter of Melvin Moore, of Martin.

Guests who enjoyed cake and ice cream with them were Daniel Ray Carroll, Nathan Shane and Rosemary Reed, Colletta and Roy Pack, Vesta Meade, and Verna Brown. The birthday-anniversary cake was baked by Mrs. Eugene Crisp, of Martin.

Weeksbury, Auxier Winners Of Year's Development Honors

Weeksbury, a perennial winner, was joined by the community of Auxier in winning top honors at the awards banquet held Saturday evening by the Northeast Kentucky Rural Community Development to recognize communities in the 12-county association which during the year have conducted development programs of distinction.

Weeksbury won its award in the rural non-farm group (areas in which income sources are primarily non-agricultural). Auxier was the winner in the village category (a community with a population of less than 2500).

Pleasant Hill-Rattlesnake Ridge won first place among farm towns in which at least 25 percent of the residents are engaged in full or part-time farming).

The Weeksbury Community Redevelopment Corp. during the past year established a Pee Wee Baseball League for 5-, 6-, 7- and 8-year-olds, hosted a health fair, initiated community church services at the community center and met and exchanged ideas with 20 visitors from foreign countries.

The Weeksbury group also raised a $1,262 for a St. Jude's Hospital Bike-a-thon which it co-sponsored with the community's fire department. Additionally, the club formed a road committee which prepared and distributed a petition concerning poor road conditions caused by coal truck traffic in Weeksbury.

Auxier Development Club sponsored CPR and first-aid classes, hosted 22 foreign diplomats from other community clubs, continued to work on drainage problems in the community, conducted a kitchen shower to obtain necessary items for the Auxier school cafeteria and raised $914 to defray the medical expenses of two boys of the community.

A leadership award, presented by the Chamber of Commerce of Boyd and Greenup counties, was given to Peggy Bradford, of Weeksbury.

In a tie for the award for the outstanding county community development committee were Floyd and Carter counties.

Judges for this year's event were Paul Teague, community development specialist at U.K.; Dr. Thomas Boyd, professor at Berea College; Dr. W. Robert Loran, program leader, community organization and leadership development, U.S. Department of Agriculture Extension Service; Dr. Craig Infanger, associate professor at U.K.; Margaret Jeffers, family development and management coordinator at Kentucky State University; and Deborah Murray, Laurel County extension agent for home economics at London.

Banquet sponsors were Ashland Coal Inc., Kentucky Power Co. and First Bank & Trust Co. Awards were compliments of Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative Corp. and the First Commonwealth Bank of Prestonsburg.

Officers for 1982-'83 also were approved Saturday. They are:

President, Jack Dinkens, of Norton Branch; first vice-president, Prichard King, of Sitka, Johnson county; second vice-president, John Howard, of Abbott Creek in Floyd county; secretary R. William Schweitzer of Kentucky Power; the treasurer, Phillip D. Morris, of the First Bank & Trust Co., Ashland.

NEKRCDA, a rural development incentive program, is in its 20th year. Its activities are coordinated by the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service.

Each year, the 12 counties in the association—Boyd, Carter, Elliott, Floyd, Greenup, Johnson, Lawrence, Magoffin, Martin, Morgan, Pike and Rowan—are allowed to submit one community each in rural non-farm, farm and village categories to participate in the area judging program.

"You're all winners because you work in community development," NEKRCDA President Jack Dinkens told the competing development clubs prior to the awards presentation.

Coal Market Will Stabilize, Barker Claims

By Jim Jordan

(In The Lexington Herald)

"We're only experiencing a lull, a breather," Stonie Barker was saying.

"The general economic conditions in this country and worldwide are pretty damn bad... but once the economy turns around, this coal business is ready to take off."

The new chairman of the National Coal Association, which represents about 100 coal companies, thought for a moment and then gave his "guess" about the timing of the recovery.

"I think you'll see a firming up of the coal market later this year and a further firming up in 1983," said Barker, the 56-year-old president and chief executive of Lexington's Island Creek Coal Co.

"I'm not talking about any boom. It's going to be slow, but you'll see it firm up and stabilize" in 1983.

Barker said coal mining, which provided jobs for more than 53,000 Kentuckians last year, is in a better position than the nation's other troubled industries—especially auto, construction and steel—to rebound when good times return.

U.S. coal companies produced a near-record 807.7 million tons in 1981—including about one ton out of five in Kentucky—"but the American coal industry will produce and ship more tons of coal in 1982 than in 1981," he said. "None of those other industries are producing at anything like that rate."

The recovery will be spearheaded by rising sales of coal to the industry's biggest customer, the nation's electric utilities, and to foreign countries, Barker said.

According to coal association figures, purchases by utilities are expected to increase from 710 million tons in 1980 to 877 million tons in 1985. Exports also are expected to rise from 90 million tons in 1980 to 110 million in 1985.

"Nuclear power is dead for the time being," Barker said.

"Allk of this makes for a long-term good situation for coal."

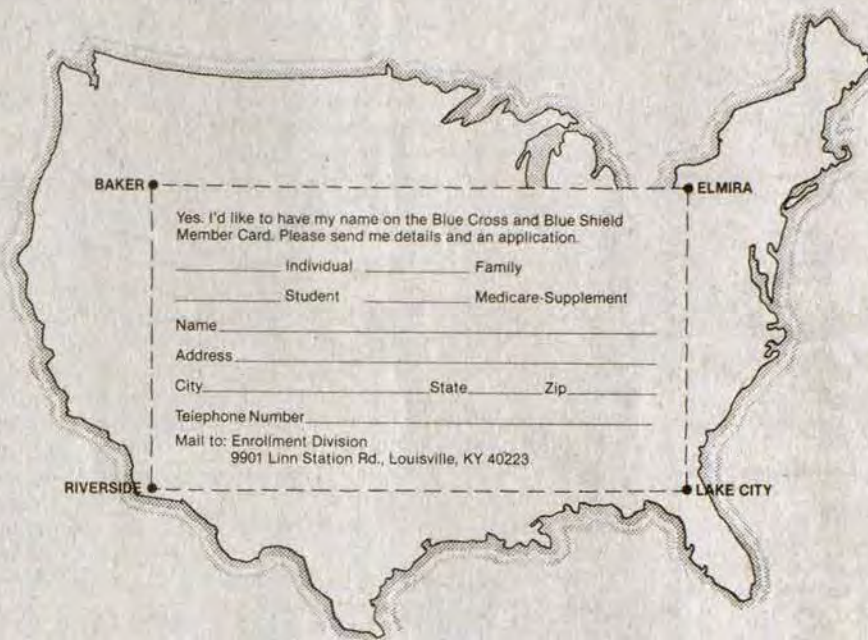

"Once the general economic conditions of this country turn around, coal will rebound, too. All we need is a little more market to take up the excess (production) capacity."

But Barker, a 31-year veteran of the coal industry's boom-and-bust cycles, said he doesn't see a return to the coal-is-gold market of the mid-1970s, when Eastern Kentucky sprouted a crop of millionaires.

Child Abuse Hotline Announced By DHR

Department for Human Resources Secretary Grady Stumbo has announced that the department will begin operating a 24-hour a day toll-free Child Abuse/Neglect Hotline.

"People have always been concerned about abused or neglected children but they sometimes were reluctant to become involved," said Stumbo. However, with increased awareness of the tragedies which can happen, more and more people are not willing to stand by and allow children to be hurt.

Through the hotline, anyone suspecting or knowing that a child is being abused or neglected can report the incident immediately by calling 1-800-752-6200. Reports will be kept confidential. Department staff answering hotline will ask the child's name and address, the name and address of the person responsible for the child, and the extent of the abuse or neglect.

"Abuse or neglect can happen anywhere," Stumbo said. "If this hotline saves the life of one child, it will be worth the small cost involved."

Floyd Girl, New Miss Big Sandy RECC

The annual meeting of the Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative was held last Tuesday at Johnson Central High School, Paintsville.

Cooperative Manager Bill Wells, estimated that more than 500 members and guests were on hand for the program, which included music as well as business. The cooperative's annual business session included the election of three members to the board of directors. Elected for three-year terms were Bradis Goble, Hawley Scott and John E. Shepherd, representing districts 5, 6 and 7, all in Floyd county.

In other action during the business session Robert L. May, president of the Cooperative, John E. Shepherd, co-op treasurer, and Wells reviewed the previous year's activities and discussed plans for the coming year.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins and other guests spoke briefly to round out the business portion of the annual meeting.

Turning to more glamorous business, Sheila Duff was crowned Miss Big Sandy Rural Electric for 1982. The 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Birchell Duff, of Hueysville, was chosen from a field of nine young women competing for the crown. As Miss Big Sandy RECC, Miss Duff will compete in the Miss Kentucky Rural Electric Pageant, August 23, in Louisville.

Honor Student

Velvet Lois Shelton an 18-year-old graduate of McDowell High School, was an honor student for 12 years. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Shelton, of McDowell, and the granddaughter of Eddie Shelton, of Drift.

New Home Pest May Be Foreign Grain Beetle

Foreign grain beetles are an enigma to many owners of new homes and to some pest control operators as well. The insects may be found by the hundreds in houses that are less than two years old, according to Dr. Chris Christensen, Extension entomologist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. They appear to be coming from the walls, but because the beetles do not feed on wood but on mold, treatment to floorboards and shelves is ineffective.

Because the beetle bears a close resemblance to flour beetles, pest control operators often are misled. "A check of stored flour usually leads to a dead end, because the beetles don't eat stored products, and usually are not found in the kitchen at all," Christensen said. "They are usually noticed in bathrooms, and are found in such large numbers that it seems that they are coming from the wood. In reality, they are eating the mold that grows in the wood."

These beetles belong to a group of beetles called "fungus" beetles, which feed on molds and fungi growing on wood inside wall voids or on wood that has become moist from exposure to wet plumbing pipes.

New homes may have lumber that has been exposed to rain before it is used in the house. "It is not uncommon to see wall studs black with mold in houses under construction," Christensen said. "This food source attracts the beetles."

The best way to control the foreign grain beetle is to understand its life cycle, said Christensen. The beetle will not harm the home, and it emerges only for short periods of time, usually a couple of weeks. Aerosol sprays of pyrethrins are effective against the adults, but must be applied frequently. Finely-ground dust formulations of bendiocarb or diazinon applied into wall voids also will provide some control, but are not usually practical.

Short residual aerosol sprays also are effective in controlling the beetles as they appear, Christensen said. "Homeowners can use this type of product themselves. Most homes, however, 'dry out' naturally, and fungi and molds will disappear by themselves. The beetles, then, will disappear as well."

Nelson-Marsillett

The marriage of Miss Karen Marsillett to Michael Nelson was solemnized July 2 by the Rev. Clifford Austin. Miss Marsillett is the daughter of Mrs. Doug Hackworth, of the Abbott road, and the late Jot Marsillett. Nelson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Nelson, Jr., of the Mountain Parkway.

Loans For Aspiring Math, Science Teachers

During the past 10 years, Kentucky colleges have not graduated enough science and math majors in teacher education. The state is down from 312 graduates in 1971 to 116 graduates in 1981. This is not enough to staff Kentucky's science and math classrooms in grades 7-12.

The Kentucky General Assembly is providing $610,000 for the 1982 and 1983 school years, $200,000 for the first year and $410,000 the second year, for loans to students who want teaching certificates and a major in science or math. Pikeville was awarded one of the 75 loans allocated in Kentucky.

Kathy Warvariv, director of financial aid at Pikeville College, attended a meeting July 2 in Frankfort, at which representatives from student financial aid offices discussed application processes and forms, the administration guidelines and the allocation of loans to each institution. Education Department officials compiled data to support the proposed allocation of $610,000 to make available loans for students interested in majoring in math or science.

Interested persons are eligible for one or two year loans beginning their sophomore year and must be admitted to a teacher education program. Certified teachers in other fields who attend summer school to become certified to teach science or math qualify for up to one-third of the loan amount. Priorities for loans will be given to graduates of Kentucky high schools and Kentucky residents. The first year, high priority will be given to applicants with the highest ACT scores and grade point average. Afterward, high priority will be given to previous loan recipients with the highest grade-point average and ACT score combination. Universities and colleges with teacher training programs will rate applicants. A statewide committee appointed by the Superintendent of Public Instruction will make the final selection on which students will receive loans.

Applications may be obtained by calling Dr. Lois Esham, associate professor of science at Pikeville College, at 432-9392 or stopping by the Financial Aid office at the college. They must be submitted to Dr. Esham by August 1, 1982. For additional information call 432-9317.

'Right of Recision' Gives Borrower Time To Reconsider Terms

Summer is the primary season for home improvements and repairs. If you are planning to borrow money and use your home as collateral. Attorney General Steven L. Beshear wants you to be aware of the "right of recision" provision of the Truth in Lending Act.

"The right of recision gives you three business days to consider whether you really want to use your home as a guarantee for repayment of the loan; the loan can be canceled for any reason," said Beshear.

The three business days begin after the last of these three events has occurred: (1) A credit contract has been signed; (2) two copies of a notice explaining your right to rescind have been received; (3) material disclosures have been received which include annual percentage rate, finance charges, amount financed, total number of payments, and payment schedule.

After these events have taken place, you must notify the creditor in writing that you are canceling the contract and the letter must be postmarked within the three business days.

Once the creditor has received your notice of recision, they must within 20 days return all money or property you gave to them and they must take steps to release your home as collateral.

Any money or property you have received from the creditor should be kept until you are notified that your home is no longer being held as collateral and any money you paid is returned.

Transactions for which the right of recision does not apply are when you: (1) Apply for a mortgage to purchase a home; (2) refinance or consolidate a loan already secured by your home. (3) apply for a loan where a state agency is the creditor.

If you do not want to slow the process for three business days, you can waive the right to rescind. To waive your recision right, you must: (1) Tell the creditor you have a "bona fide personal financial emergency"; (2) give the creditor your own written statement describing the emergency and stating you are waiving your right to rescind; (3) sign and date the statement.

The Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection mediates consumer complaints and provides a variety of consumer information. Contact them at 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, or call the toll-free number: 1-800-432-9257.

What Is Head Start?

Project Head Start is a Federally funded child development program serving 3 to 6 year old children from low-income families. Ten percent of the children may be from families whose income exceeds Federal Poverty guidelines. Another ten percent of the children, those with handicapping conditions, are provided with experiences to play and learn with non-handicapped children.

Head Start programs operate under annual grants from the Department for Health and Human Services/Administration for Children, Youth and Families. Program staff plan Head Start activities and services with the assistance of parents and area residents. They also work with other community agencies to insure that children and families receive needed services.

If you are interested in enrolling your child in the Rural Child Care Program Head Start Program, please contact: Rural Child Care Office, 886-3548-2nd Floor Floyd Co. Rescue Squad Bldg. Prestonsburg, Ky, Dwale Center-874-9439, Drift Center-377-2427.

Headaches May Signal Other Ills

By Christa U. Muckenhausen, M.D.
Adult and Child Neurologist

Headaches, one of the most common medical complaints in our society, may be a sign of minor or serious illness. Essentially, a headache is pain in the sensitive parts of the head, both outside and inside the skull, including the skin, muscles, blood vessels, and several nerves at the base of the brain. Headaches are of several types:

1. TENSION (OR MUSCLE CONTRACTION) HEADACHES

These are described as "a tightness around the head" often involving the temples and back of the head; a "vice-like" feeling. This type of headache is brought on by emotional stress. Its victims may be quite unaware of the cause—though they may feel vaguely that they are not "on top of things"—because tension and anxiety often lie buried in the subconscious mind.

Tension headaches often throb, may be linked to migraine, occur in patients suffering depression and anxiety, and cause them to be overly irritable, restless and lacking in appetite. The headache will often come on after one's daily work is done and there is more time for reflection, worry and depression. Drinking too much coffee, tea or cola can cause tension headaches, too.

The recommended treatment: mild analgesics for the pain and counseling for the anxiety.

2. MIGRAINE HEADACHES

The name is derived from "hemigranum"—Latin for "half a head." This type of headache occurs mostly over one part of the head and comes in several varieties, including the classical and common types.

a) Classical migraine headaches are preceded by an "aura"—warning symptoms, such as bright light spots, zigzag lines, blurred vision on one side and numbness on the opposite side, or dizziness—that lasts from 15 to 20 minutes. As the aura subsides, a severe throbbing headache starts on the side opposite the blurred vision.

These headaches may last anywhere from two to several hours. It may then travel to the other side of the head and become generalized. Frequently, nausea, sensitivity to light and noise, irritability, and a loss of concentration and memory accompany it.

Migraine headaches may occur as often as three times a week or as infrequently as once every two or three years. Pregnancy, use of birth control pills, and menstruation can bring them on more frequently. Caffeine intake can increase or decrease them.

b) COMMON MIGRAINE (OR VASCULAR) HEADACHES

Patients with common migraine do not experience the preceding aura of warning symptoms as in the classical type. The common migraine is associated with painful swelling of the blood vessels, mainly on the sides of the head, and with nausea and vomiting.

It occurs more frequently than the classical type, is experienced equally by men and women, and usually lasts from six to eight hours up to a day. Unlike other migraines, common migraines do not subside with increasing age.

3. CLUSTER (OR HORTON'S) HEADACHES

As the name implies, these occur in clusters, sometimes several occurring in a single day. They come on suddenly as a sharp pain, usually around the eye, and can last for minutes or hours.

4. SINUS HEADACHES

These cause a feeling of pressure around the nose and jaw. The pain associated with sinus headache increases with coughing and straining.

5. EYE-STRAIN HEADACHES

Headaches can be caused by eye strain brought on by intensive reading, driving or close work.

6. OCCIPITAL NEURALGIA

This is pain, sometimes throbbing, that originates in the back of the head, sometimes going to the top of the head. Bending the head backwards can increase the pain.

7. TEMPOROMANDIBULAR JOINT PAIN

The temporomandibular joint hinges the upper and lower jaws. Pain can occur there as a result of a faulty bite or teeth grinding, especially during sleep, and often radiates to the temple and behind the ear.

8. POST-CONCUSSION SYNDROME

A group of symptoms, including headaches, dizziness, nausea, memory problems, irritability, difficulty in concentrating and insomnia, that may get worse with physical and mental strain. After a concussion, headaches can be caused by blood collecting underneath the skull.

This is only a brief introduction to the major types of headache. People with a persistent headache problem should see a neurologist for evaluation and treatment. Among the tools available to the neurologist for diagnosing the cause of headaches are skull x-rays, electroencephalograms, brain scans, lab tests of the blood and spinal fluids, and cerebral arteriograms.

Vacationing Family of Four Will Spend About $150 a Day

A family of four, vacationing by car this summer, should plan on spending about $150 per day for meals, lodging and driving costs, the Blue Grass Automobile Club, AAA said last week.

AAA's suggested vacation budget, which is nine percent higher than one year ago, breaks down as follows: $68 for meals, not including tips and cocktails; $58 for lodging and $24 for gas, oil, etc., for 300 miles of daily driving, with the car averaging 20 miles per gallon.

Costs for meals and lodging vary considerably, depending on the areas traveled. In small towns and rural locations, they may run 25 percent less, while in large metropolitan areas and resorts, expenses could be 75 percent higher, according to AAA.

The $58 for lodging for a family of four is based on an average rate charged by approved accommodations listed in AAA tour books. In many instances, the cost may be less if children are young enough to be permitted to stay at no extra charge.

In addition to food, lodging and driving costs, families should allow for amusements, admission to places of interest, recreation and shopping. Road and bridge tolls, depending on the route, also are an expense. A reserve fund for emergencies should be included in the travel budget.

AAA has these suggestions for reducing family vacation costs:

"The car should be in top condition to prevent costly breakdowns and delays during the trip.

Western Ky. Counties Lead Forest Activities

Calloway county has been named the state's 1982 Outstanding Conservation District in forestry activities, officials of the state Bureau of Natural Resources announce.

Calloway was selected, after a close race with Pulaski County, for its 1981 accomplishments in forest management, said Natural Resources Commissioner Kenneth Innes.

"In 1981, 38 Calloway county landowners worked with Division of Forestry personnel in producing forest management plans which covered approximately 1,815 acres of forest land," Innes said. "There were also 128 acres which underwent timber stand improvement, and 84,200 tree seedlings were planted in the county last year."

Pulaski county was named a "strong" runner-up by state officials. Sixteen forest management plans were prepared for that county, covering 1,202 acres of forest land.

IN APPRECIATION

Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 thanks all who participated or made donations for the chicken-and-dumplin' dinner sponsored by the lodge July 2. The lodge appreciates the use of the school cafeteria and its facilities, as well as the cooperation of Mr. May and Mr. Roberts.

Art on Display at Hospital

Tom Whitaker hung a number of his paintings at Highlands Regional Medical Center as part of a new program featuring artwork by local artists.

The talents of local artist are making the walls at Highlands Regional Medical Center more interesting to look at as a new program to feature area artwork begins there.

The first artist to participate in the HRMC program is Magoffin county native Tom J. Whitaker. His paintings and prints depict eastern Kentucky scenes and people. Whitaker is the director of the Prestonsburg Community College Art Department and operates his own gallery. "I'm real pleased to have this opportunity to have my paintings seen by so many people and hope they enjoy them," said Whitaker.

Oil paintings, watercolors and sketches hang in various locations and can be purchased through the hospital gift shop. A generous portion of the selling price will be retained by the gift shop, operated by the HRMC Women's Auxiliary. The Auxiliary uses the money it earns to donate equipment to the hospital.

All local artists are welcome to inquire about displaying their art at HRMC. For further details, call the Public Information Office at 886-8511, ext. 159.

Pharmacy Footnotes

BY HAROLD COOLEY

The long list of aspirin's abilities should be enough to convince you that it is serious medicine. The following rules apply when taking aspirin. Never take aspirin with vitamin C or with alcohol as it will only increase its irritating effects. If taking vitamin C, allow the aspirin 3 hours to exit the stomach. Take aspirin with a full glass of water to reduce gastric irritation and never take more than the prescribed dosage. As few as 12 aspirin can produce a toxic condition. Those with gout, ulcers, bleeding disorders or kidney problems should consult a physician before taking aspirin.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY INC. we want to remind you that when you take any medication, even a simple one like aspirin, to always follow directions and use your common sense. And don't forget that a Pharmacist is always on duty to act as your physician's consultant and source of information about new medications. You can find us at #2 Town Center Bldg. Open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30 and Sat. 9-4. 886-8106.

HANDY HINT:

Children are especially susceptible to aspirin's overdoses and side effects.

In Memory of Joey Crum

No length of time will heal our grief. Our love for you lies much too deep.

No one knows the heartache
We try so hard to hide.

No one knows how many times
We have broken down and cried.

To each of us there comes a time
When loved ones have to part.

To us the parting came too soon
And left two broken hearts.

Still loved, still missed, still very dear.

Beware of Ticks Summertime Pest

Summer is here and it is time to be on the lookout for ticks. These insects carry diseases which can be transmitted to man. The most common of these diseases is Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. The symptoms of this disease include headaches, muscle pain, and a rash usually on the palms of the hands and the soles of the feet.

Ticks are especially prevalent in rural forested areas with large wildlife populations. Children and young adults, especially males, are generally at greatest risk of tick exposure.

The best way to prevent getting Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever is to avoid tick infested areas whenever possible; search total body area every 3 to 4 hours if working or playing in an infested area; remove ticks from the person promptly and carefully without crushing to avoid leaving mouth parts in the skin; protect hands when removing ticks from man or animals. Every dog owner should check his dog daily for ticks also.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration's Salt Lake City Analytical Laboratory made 109,000 individual analyses of 49,500 worksite samples during the 1981 fiscal year.

Prestonsburg Donor Station Growing

By Pat Phillips

The Prestonsburg Donor Station received 1,181 pints of donated blood in its second year of operation compared to 992 pints the first year for a growth of 19%. Mobiles in the county for the same period accounted for 149 units. As a result, Floyd county gets credit for a total of 1,330 pints of blood in the donor station's second year. The county's goal is 1560 units a year and the Central Kentucky Blood Center feels that goal will be met by July 1, 1983.

When the goal is met, all residents will be guaranteed all blood needs, whether or not some individuals are able to donate. Individuals who donate one pint of blood a year protect their immediate family for all blood needs for a year. Much of our donations come from donor groups which means people who are members of the same community, church, business, industry, school, etc. who donate to help meet the blood needs of the community.

The Highlands Regional Medical Center is sponsoring a blood drive Tuesday, July 13, in the in-service classroom, from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Highlands has been a major donor group for 10 years with CKBC and conduct blood drives usually during times of critically low blood supplies. The supply at this time is running very low as a result of summer vacation time because fewer people are donating, not because the need is any higher.

The following people donated in June: Kenneth Crisp, Elsie Rahrig, Steve Berger, William Reynolds, Jr., Harvey Watson, Alma Tackett, Arthur Nelson, Betty Mignerae, Ralph Thornsbury, Paul Hunt, Joyce Grizzle, Cheri Dingus, Patti Carpenter, Norma Blair, William Davis, Jean Rosenburg, Frank McGuire, Rick Branham, Jill Sanders, William Creech, Ricky Sorrels, John Wright, Celia Ward, Marlene VanHoose, Jerry Music, Shagg Branham, Becky DeRossett, Bill Campbell, Otis Page, Margaret DeLong, Ramon DeLong, James Spears, Jelena Vance, Veronica Moore, Edward L. Carter, David Hengstebeck, Atitis Page, Margaret Davis, Lee Carter, Marilyn Tackett, Rebecca Sublett, Fred Johnson, Carol Johnson, Linda Watkins, Wayne May Eliza Taylor, Donna Johnson, Kathy Campbell, Rolands Akers, Zyneball Adams, Denver Mullins, Dow Phillips, III, Dow Phillips, II, Pat Phillips, Gary Burchett, Ernest Wireman, James Watkins, Karen Witten, Alice Stambaugh, Kathleen Shepherd, Lonnie Marsillette, Steve Slone, Sharon Thomas, Richard Thomas, Clyde Stephens, Robert Carpenter, Frank Vaughn and Leva Vaughn.

Students donating from the Job Corps were as follows: Gary Harrod, Timothy Smith, Bruce Goodwill, Fred Young, Daryl Senger, Elmer Flannery, Howard Vanover, Larry Johnson, Douglas Collins, Johnny Phillips, Bill Potter, Frank Sparks, Jeffery Thomas, Charles Stovall, Jeffrey Arnette and Darrell Parker.

If you would like to donate to protect your family and to help your community, the donor station is open on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. The number is: 886-1557.

THANKS!

Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 takes this opportunity to thank all who participated in or donated to the chicken and dumplin' dinner, sponsored by the lodge, Friday, July 2. They are pleased with the results and hope that everyone enjoyed the dinner. They appreciate the use of the school cafeteria and its facilities, as well as the cooperation of Mr. May and Mr. Roberts.

Procter & Gamble Sues To Stop Satan Rumor

The Procter & Gamble Company announced last week that it is taking legal action to stop the spread of rumors associating the company with satanism or devil worship. The company today filed suits in Atlanta, Georgia and Pensacola, Florida against a corporation and several individuals who are charged with "libeling the character" of Procter & Gamble by circulating "false and malicious" statements about the company and by calling for a boycott of its products.

Suits were filed against Mike Campbell in Atlanta, and against Mr. and Mrs. William J. Moore, Jr. in Pensacola. In the suits, P&G charges that each individual made statements or distributed literature which stated that P&G supported satan and that its trademark was a satanic symbol. They also encouraged others to stop buying P&G products, the company claimed. P&G is asking the courts to stop the individuals from further activity and for compensatory and punitive damages.

Basket Making in Eastern Kentucky

Basketry, which is almost a universal craft, is probably the oldest of the handicrafts outside of pottery making. Basketry in some of its crudest forms undoubtedly came as soon as man laced together a few twigs or limbs for a carrier, or fashioned a framework of branches or saplings for a shelter. Basket making represents an ideal home craft which can be carried on with the simple implements found in the average household. Baskets are used for gathering, measuring, storing, and carrying as well as for other various functional and decorative purposes.

Among the materials from which baskets are made are broom sedge, corn husks, corn stalks, wheat and rye straw, willow branches and twigs, cane, honeysuckle vine, pine, hickory, willow bark and splints of oak, hickory and ash.

The egg basket is one of the oldest designs in Kentucky and one of the most attractive as well as useful. It was devised to carry eggs and other articles on horseback, or more often on muleback, the long flat side fitting snugly against the animal's body. The shape, larger at the bottom and sloping toward the top, was designed to hold the eggs in place, and there is a legend that in the early days this basket was made in standard sizes to hold even dozens of eggs, making counting unnecessary, as filling the basket performed this service. The best type of Kentucky egg basket is made of hickory ribs and handle with split oak cross-pieces.

Baskets, especially those made from white oak splints and willow branches, are still woven by several craftspeople in Eastern Kentucky. At the Crafts Center in David several different shapes and sizes of white split oak baskets can be seen. The Center is open Monday through Friday from 9 to 4.

Because basketry is one of the crafts in which handwork can hold its own with machine production, and because it has been so well and widely developed in the mountains with materials and skills still available, it is hoped that ways will be found to expand the markets so that the best of the old mountain patterns and traditions can be continued.

Census Bureau To Take Employment Survey Here

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in this area during the work week of July 19-24, 1982. Joseph S. Harris, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Charlotte, announced today.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 71,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation.

For example, in May the survey indicated that of the 110.7 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 100.1 million were employed. The nation's unemployment rate was 9.5 percent, about the same as the 9.4 percent in April.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

"Wildcatters" Indicted

Attorney General Steven L. Beshear has announced that the Franklin County Grand jury has returned separate indictments against three individuals alleging illegal mining (wildcatting) in Pike and Letcher Counties, in addition to failure to register for a severance tax certification, and failure to file severance tax returns.

These indictments are a result of an investigation conducted by the Federal Department of the Interior, Office of Surface Mining, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Office of the United States Attorney, Eastern District of Kentucky, and the Attorney General's Special Prosecutions Division.

According to Beshear, "These cases represent approximately 4,400 tons of coal which was illegally mined, (mined without first obtaining a mining permit from the Department of Natural Resources). The coal was sold for the approximate price of $30 per ton for a total of approximately $132,000. Severance tax was not paid on the aforementioned coal and resulted in the defendants also being indicted for violating various Department of Revenue tax laws, specifically failure to apply for a coal severance certificate prior to mining. The severance tax on the illegally mined coal would have been approximately $5,900."

These are the first indictments returned since the formation of a state-federal mining safety task force to combat illegal mining in Kentucky's coal fields.

NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE PROGRAM

Proposed Flood Elevation Determinations

AGENCY: Federal Emergency Management Agency.

ACTION: Proposed Rule.

SUMMARY:

Technical information or comments are solicited on the proposed base (100-year) flood elevations listed below and proposed changes to base flood elevations for selected locations in the nation. These base (100-year) flood elevations are the basis for the flood plain management measures that the community is required to either adopt or show evidence of being already in effect order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP).

DATES:

The period for comment will be ninety (90) days following the second publication of this proposed rule in a newspaper of local circulation in each community.

ADDRESSES:

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

Mr. Robert G. Chappell, P.E.

National Flood Insurance Program

(202) 287-0230

Federal Emergency Management Agency

Washington, D.C. 20472

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

The Federal Emergency Management Agency gives notice of the proposed determinations of base (100-year) flood elevations for selected locations in the nation, in accordance with Section 110 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (Pub. L. 93-234), 87 Stat. 980, which added Section 1363 to the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 (Pub. L. 90-448), 42 U.S.C. 4001-4128, and 44 CFR 67.4 (a).

These elevations, together with the flood plain management measures required by Section 60.3 of the program regulations, are the minimum that are required. They should not be construed to mean the community must change any existing ordinances that are more stringent in their flood plain management requirements. The community may at any time enact stricter requirements on its own, or pursuant to policies established by other Federal, State, or Regional entities. These proposed elevations will also be used to calculate the appropriate flood insurance premium rates for new buildings and their contents and for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and their contents.

Pursuant to the provisions of 5 USC 605 (b), the Associate Director, to whom authority has been delegated by the Director, Federal Emergency Management Agency, hereby certifies that the proposed flood elevation determinations, if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. A flood elevation determination under Section 1363 forms the basis for new local ordinances, which, if adopted by a local community, will govern future construction within the floodplain area. The elevation determinations, however, impose no restriction unless and until the local community voluntarily adopts floodplain ordinances in accord with these elevations. Even if ordinances are adopted in compliance with Federal standards, the elevations prescribe how high to build in the floodplain and do not proscribe development. Thus, this action only forms the basis for future local actions. It imposes no new requirement of itself it has no economic impact.

Father and Son Magoffin Victims

The slayings Saturday night of Ben Patrick, 70, retired pipefitter, and his 26-year-old son, Crit, has so disturbed Magoffin counties that some have armed themselves and are searching for the killer or killers on their own.

The two were shot around 10 p.m. in the yard of the home of Ben Patrick's sister, Maggie Isaac, of Elsie, where the two men were visiting. The two were shot, shortly after a man had stopped at the Isaac home, asking for gasoline.

No motive has been established, although robbery has been considered.

"People are upset," Magoffin Sheriff Pat Montgomery said. "It's spooked them. A lot of people—relatives and a lot of friends—are searching, carrying guns, although they don't know who they're looking for."

State Police Detective Keith Scott, one of the officers investigating the slayings, released an artist's sketch of one of three suspects. The suspect is described as a white male, about 27, about 5-10 or 5-11, weighing 190-200 pounds, with curly, sandy-color hair and a beard.

Sheriff Montgomery said investigators are not connecting the shootings with the 1971 shooting death of the elder Patrick's wife, Ann.

One Last Voyage

When Carnis Bates, of Lexington, formerly of Wheelwright, enlisted in the Navy during World War II, he was only 17. Bates served 3½ years steering a destroyer and fought at Okinawa and other major battles of the Pacific Theater.

That was 40 years ago. Bates, now 57, recently had a rare chance to relive those days of war. The only remaining ship from his destroyer squadron, the USS Kidd, has been towed from Philadelphia to a point south of Baton Rouge, La., where the ship will become a permanent war memorial.

(Last month), Bates and some other Destroyer Squadron 48 vets went aboard the USS Kidd and took her into final port at Baton Rouge—complete with mock Japanese aircraft "attacking" the ship and the ship responding with mock gunfire.

'Mr. Rogers' On Divorce
In Week-Long KET Series

Separation and divorce touch the lives of almost every child in today's world. Fred Rogers, creator and host of the long-running "Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood," grapples with the concerns and issues affecting children faced with divorce in a week-long series of programs airing on KET. Beginning Sunday, July 25 at 2 p.m., "Mr. Rogers' regular time of 5 p.m., the programs feature Rogers responding to questions from parents and children about what happens in the wake of divorce.

"Even though a child's own family may be together, he or she is bound to know relatives, friends or classmates whose families are separated," says Rogers. "That can lead to a lot of wondering. We believe that these programs can help parents and children talk about separation and divorce in a way that could make wondering less frightening."

During the week Rogers introduces several messages, for example—people who live together are not happy all of the time; when parents quarrel it does not necessarily mean they are going to get a divorce and if a husband and wife get a divorce, they are still a child's parents.

"Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood" is a production of Family Communications, Inc.

Plant Through Season Is Expert's Advice

Most people finish planting their gardens in June, but the enterprising gardener continues to sow seeds in July, August and on into the fall.

Dr. Jean English, Extension horticulturist at the University of Kentucky's Robinson Substation at Quicksand, offers advice for these late gardeners. She also has tips on growing a good melon, cross pollination among sweet corn varieties and potato problems and care of asparagus after harvest.

The latest average planting date for sweet corn in Kentucky is July 15-20. Such a late planting requires an early-maturing variety, such as Sundance, a 67-day corn with yellow kernels that does well in Kentucky.

Parsnips can be planted for the last time this year between July 15-20. When the roots are subjected to frosts in the fall, they will acquire a sweeter flavor than those harvested earlier. Rutabaga is another root crop that should be planted by July 20.

Beans, beets and carrots can be sown repeatedly until early to mid-August. All of the cole crops (broccoli, cauliflower, cabbage, brussels sprouts, kohlrabi, collards and kale) can be seeded in a small space in the garden in early to mid-July. After 4-6 weeks, these can be moved to their permanent places in the garden, such as an area from which potatoes were just harvested. Growing the seedlings in a seedbed gives the gardener a chance to control weeds in the area to which the plants will be moved.

Chinese cabbage grows well as a fall crop; the weather is favorable for growth, and flea beetles are not so active as they were in the spring. Plant seeds of Chinese cabbage in late July or early August.

When double-cropping an area, the gardener may not need to fertilize the second crop if the first crop was heavily fertilized or if the first crop was a legume that fixed enough nitrogen for a subsequent crop. If the first crop was not heavily fertilized or grew poorly because of nutrient deficiencies, add 1-2 pounds per 100 square feet of 10-10-10 fertilizer or an organic fertilizer to provide equivalent fertility.

Fall gardens can be difficult to establish if the soil is dry during the late summer. Try to provide the crops with one inch of water per week. If a good rainstorm soaks the soil at some point, mulch plants to provide a uniform moisture regime and to conserve water and nutrients.

Growing A Good Melon
One of the greatest pleasures to come from a garden is a sweet, juicy muskmelon. However, good melons can be difficult to grow, since insects, diseases and weather often work against you. Sidedressing watering and spacing are cultural factors which you can control, though.

Sidedressing with about 50 pounds of nitrogen per acre during the growing season will help produce good melons. This should be done when the vines are about a foot long and again when late-maturing varieties start to set fruit.

Be sure that each vine has enough room to grow. If the plants are too close together, leaves will hide the flowers from bees so that pollination will be poor. Plants should be spaced at least one foot apart within rows, and rows should be five feet apart. If the vines are too close, train them on trellises or remove some of them.

Supply water to muskmelon plants if rainfall is below one inch per week. Too little or too much water will impart a bitter flavor to melons, as will cloudy weather and very high temperatures during ripening. However, do not provide excessive water when fruits are ripening, since they may split.

Muskmelons are very susceptible to damage by cucumber beetles and diseases. Watch for and control these problems as soon as they appear.

Plant Through Season

Harvest miskmelons when they are yellow or tan, not green. Ripe melons will slip off of their stems when lifted. Do not harvest melons when the foliage is wet; this practice will spread diseases.

Sweet Corn Cross-Pollination
Home gardeners have a wide selection of sweet corn varieties to grow, and gardeners often wonder if these varieties will adversely affect one another by cross-pollination.

Corn can be divided into three categories: sugary mutants (including standard sweet corn), other mutants (super sweet and extra sweet varieties) and starchy corn). Starchy corn usually is grown as field corn for animal consumption, but some home gardeners eat starchy corn when it is immature, and sugars have not been converted completely to starches.

Most growers know that field corn should be separated from sweet corn; otherwise sweet corn will become starchy if it is pollinated by the field corn.

In addition, the extra sweet and super sweet varieties must be separated from standard sweet corn, from field corn, and from one another. If this is not done, cross-pollination will occur and kernels will be starchy.

Standard sweet corn varieties, such as Silver Queen, Gold Cup and Golden Cross Bantam, can be grown together. Some cross-pollination may occur so that white varieties may contain some yellow kernels and vice-versa. However, starchy kernels will not result, and flavor and quality will be maintained.

Isolation of corn types can be done in time or space. If planting dates or maturity dates differ by at least 14 days, little or no cross-pollination will occur. To separate types in space, growers are advised to plant the new extra sweet mutants 50 feet upwind of normal sweet corn or field corn and to use four or more border rows of the extra sweet mutants. At a distance of 250 feet, some cross-pollination will occur, but quality will not be noticeably affected.

Plant breeders use a distance of 700 feet to completely prevent cross-pollination.

Potato Problems
Have you ever cut a potato and found it hollow in the center? Do your home-grown potatoes have knobs on them? Are your potatoes brown inside? These and other potato problems often result from environmental conditions that affect the rate of growth of this fleshy vegetable.

"Hollow heart" refers to a cavity in the center of a potato tuber. The tissue around the cavity may appear normal, or it may be brown or corky. Hollow heart is not a disease; rather, it results from rapid, uneven growth of potato tubers in the three directions of growth. This problem occurs when moisture, temperature and sunlight combine to produce rapid growth.

Control hollow heart by spacing plants closely to avoid rapid, uneven tuber growth. Do not apply too much fertilizer or water, and do not allow the tubers to grow too large. Varieties that are susceptible to hollow heart include Chippewa, Katahdin, Mohawk, Irish cobbler, Sequoia, Russet Rural and White Rose.

Another disorder of potatoes is intercal brown spot. As the name implies, irregular brown spots from throughout the flesh of potato tubers. This problem is common when hot, dry weather and a lack of water occur during the growing season. Proper irrigation will circumvent this problem, and covering the tubers with at least two inches of soil will also help. Susceptible varieties include: Katahdin, Green Mountain, Ontario, Pawnee, and Russet Rural.

Knobby tubers, also called second growth, are common when dry weather during the middle of the growing season is followed by wet weather later in the season. Apparently tuber growth stops during dry weather, then begins again near the eyes during wet weather. Potato varieties that produce long tubers, such as Green Mountain and Russet Burbank, are susceptible to this disorder. Planting round-tubed varieties and providing water during dry periods will alleviate this problem.

Control of these abiotic disorders is achieved through variety selection and proper moisture regimes. Commercial growers often irrigate their potato fields to induce uniform, moderate tuber growth. Home gardeners may wish to water during dry periods and should mulch to conserve moisture. Kentucky Kennebec, Superior, Nongold Russett, Pontiac and Norland are good varieties to grow.

If knobby, hollow, brown potatoes do appear in your kitchen, remember that the potatoes are not diseased by fungi or other pathogens; they simply had growth problems and still are edible.

★ Cancer Hopeline

Q. Is anyone trying to find out how different American lifestyles compare in terms of getting cancer and other diseases?

A. On September 1, 1982, the American Cancer Society (ACS) will begin just such a study of American lifestyles and environment. It will involve more than 1 million Americans and will continue for six years in an attempt to learn how ongoing changes may alter the incidence (occurrence) of disease, especially cancer.

A similar large-scale ACS project was conducted from 1959-1972. Data gathered then pointed to the health consequences of cigarette smoking, encouraged exercise in coping with cardiovascular disease, and associated sexual activity at an early age with increased risk of cervical cancer.

Much of the new study will be done by 85,000 trained volunteers, 1464 of them in Kentucky. Each volunteer will contact at least 10 families. Those who fill out questionnaires must be a minimum of 30 years old, belong to a household where at least one person is over 45, and be the sort of person whose whereabouts are likely to be known over a long period of time. As many different economic, occupational, ethnic, and educational backgrounds as possible will be included.

ACS volunteers will not see the answers, and any link between the responders and the information they supply will be avoided.

Volunteers will check back with the responders in 1984, 1986, 1988, and perhaps beyond that time. If a responder has died, workers will study the death records to locate any emerging patterns of morbidity (illness) or mortality (death).

It is hoped that this new study will produce evidence of trends that will aid physicians and scientists in determining more clearly how lifestyle and environment pertain to disease, particularly cancer.

(For answers to questions, call the Cancer Hopeline toll free 1-800-432-9321 from 9 to 5 weekdays. Callers at other times may leave a message which will be returned the next working day. You may also write 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, KY 40536.)

Martin Expands Police Force

Ron Owens (left) is seen here being given the traditional Kentucky oath of office by Raymond Griffith, Sr. The oath, criticised by some as being out of date is the same one taken by every public official, including Gov. Brown. One must vow to, among other things, never have taken part in, been a party to or carried word of a duel fought with weapons in Kentucky.

Owens will work the night shift as plans to expand into a four-man police force are completed. Unlike officers in the recent past who drew part of their pay from town merchants and part from the city, all of his salary will come from city funds. According to Police Chief Hershel Lester, a third officer will be hired soon along with the purchase of a third police car. No specific date was given when a fourth officer would be hired.

CARD OF THANKS

To all my wonderful friends in Kentucky and to Johnny Hall's Funeral Home, my undying gratitude for the comfort and love shown in the passing of my dear mother, Helen H. Allen.

Perhaps you sent a lovely card or sat quietly in a chair. Perhaps you sent a funeral spray, if so, we saw it there.

Perhaps you spoke the kindest words as any friend could say. Perhaps you were not there at all, just thought of us that day.

Whatever you did to console our hearts, we thank you so much, whatever the part.

Development Winners Named

The Floyd County Development Awards Banquet was hosted June 12 by the Abbott Creek Development and Home Makers Club. Eighty persons attended.

The guest speaker was Dr. Doris Tichenor, assistant director of Home Economics and Community Development from the University of Kentucky. Development Club presidents were recognized and presented a framed certificate.

The presentation of awards to the winning clubs, Cow Creek, Auxier and Weeksbury, was made by Burl Spurlock, president of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce.

The winning clubs will be competing for area awards at the area banquet at Ashland, July 10.

A special plaque of service was presented to the Abbott Creek Community Development Club and was accepted by John Sparr, club president.

Sponsors of this year's banquet was the First Commonwealth Bank and the Big Sandy R.E.C.C. Table decorations were from the Weeksbury Club.

Many Children Remain Missing

The figures are imprecise, but the few known facts are appalling: the number of missing children is rising, thousands are murdered each year and no one is keeping track.

According to the July Reader's Digest, "The best estimates are that about a million American youngsters leave home each year, with 90 percent returning in two weeks. Approximately 100,000 children are thus unaccounted for. Add another 25,000 to 100,000 stolen by divorced or separated parents, and the total becomes significant."

Because so many missing children do return home, police are usually unwilling to enter the case promptly. The FBI will not enter a case at all unless there is evidence of moving the child across state lines or a ransom note to indicate a kidnapping.

"When a stranger steals a child," the article continues, "anything can happen. The cruel truth is that a missing child stands a fair chance of being murdered. Each year an estimated 2500 children in the United States disappear and later are found murdered."

In addition, there is a thriving traffic in child prostitution and child pornography, and it is believed that some of the missing children have been siphoned off for this market.

Once local police have exhausted all leads, there are few ways for suffering parents to continue their search. Verbal descriptions are of little use; police give low priority to teleprinted missing-child reports from other communities. In desperation, parents themselves and relatives of missing children have organized their own clearing houses and hot lines. Child Find, Inc., Box 277, New Paltz, NY 12561, maintains a toll free number (800/431-5005) to be used by children looking for their parents or parents looking for their missing youngsters.

New State Income Tax Info Mailed Last Week

Revenue Secretary Ron Geary said last Wednesday that new Kentucky Income Tax Withholding booklets containing new withholding tables were mailed to Kentucky employers last week.

Some of the booklets may not be delivered by the US Postal Service, however, until the middle of this week, he said.

Because of the 10% federal tax cut that is effective July 1, Kentucky withholding amounts will change. The tables in the booklet will tell employers not using the Cabinet's computer formula how much to withhold from their employees' paychecks after July 1.

Geary apologized for the lateness of delivery but said that it was unavoidable due to lateness in receiving information from federal tax officials.

Employers who do not receive the new booklet with revised withholding tables should contact the Revenue Cabinet, Department of Professional and Support Services, Frankfort, KY 40620, the secretary said.

Employers who use the computer formula for computing withholding amounts will not be affected by the revised tables. Under that formula, the state withholding amount changes automatically with changes in the federal withholding amount.

Employers who must issue checks to their employees prior to receiving the new tables may use the old tables for calculating the amount of state tax to be withheld and paid to the Revenue Cabinet, Secretary Geary said.
