

2 Major Roads In Six-Year Plan

Link in US 23, Martin Co. Road Listed by State

A six-year roadbuilding plan announced last week by state Transportation Secretary Floyd Poore suggests that two major Floyd highways may be a step nearer to realization. But the replacement of the Cliff bridge, a project included on last year's plan, appears to be in question.

Construction of a four-lane highway between Auxier and Inez and design for the rebuilding of U.S. 23 as a four-lane artery between Prestonsburg and Paintsville are included in the plan, which was mandated by a 1982 state law and must be approved by the current legislature.

Some 900 projects listed in the plan are expected to cost $2.5 billion in state and federal highway money. Part of the road work will be funded by a $300 million bond issue that was authorized but never issued under the administration of Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. The bulk of the proposed bond issue—some $215 million—will finance construction of part of the (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

Defense Assails Key Witnesses Against Jones

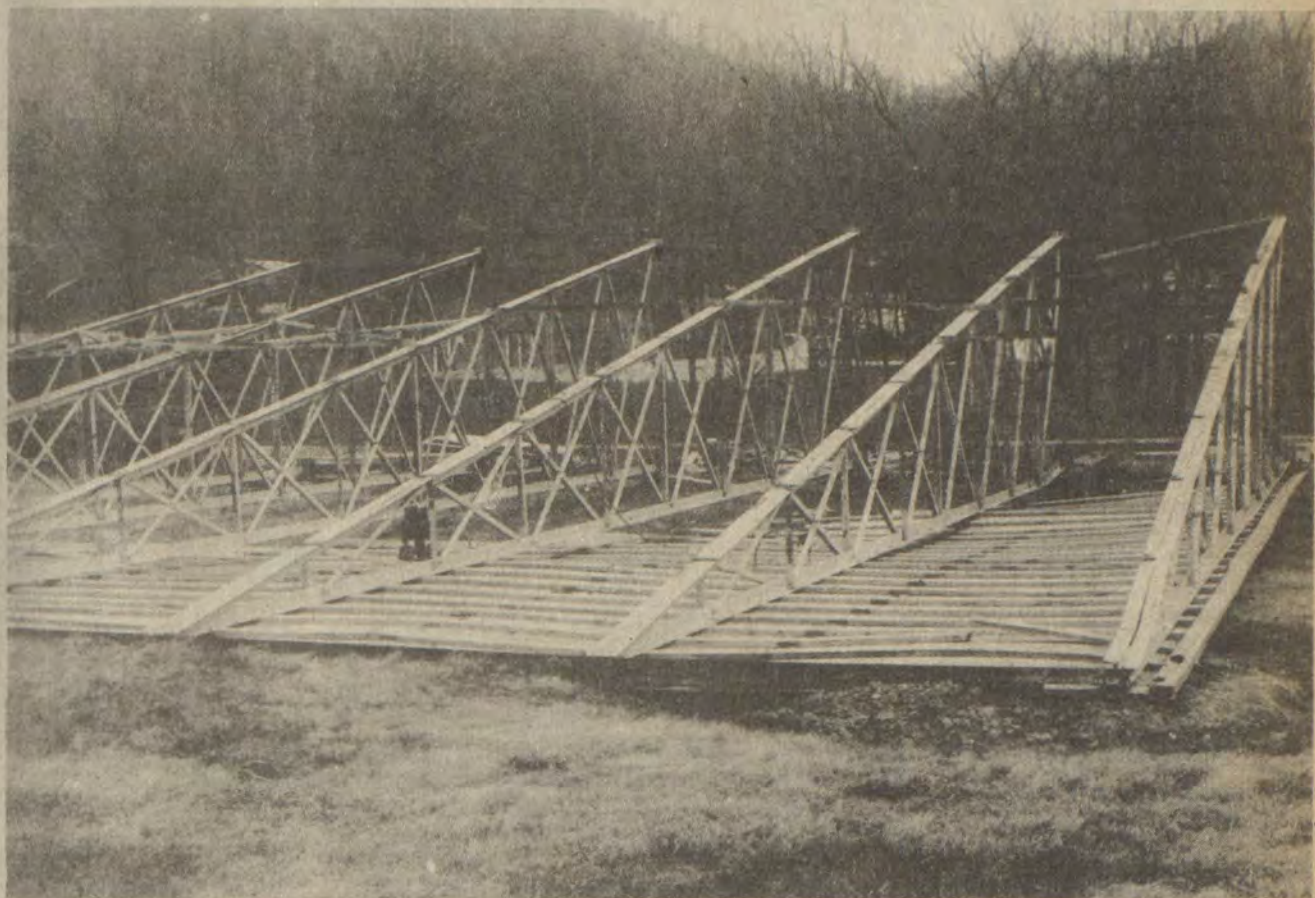

On the thirty-first day of the trial in Pikeville of 18 Floyd countians on federal conspiracy charges, a counsel for defendant Edgar Jones chipped away at the credibility of a key prosecution witness; the judge and attorneys on both sides appeared increasingly testy; and 16 jurors received an increase in their daily allowance.

Nashville attorney Aubrey Howell called one of his law clerks to the witness stand Monday to detail alleged discrepancies between a conversation the clerk had last October with Phillip Booth and Booth's later testimony in court.

Harwell represents Jones, president of the JRM Coal Co., who is accused of plotting two years ago to drive a competitor, Ray-Mac Coal Co., out of the East McDowell area where both firms operated.

Carson Stone, a law clerk with Harwell's firm, said he interviewed Booth last October in the Prestonsburg law office of Jerry Patton. Booth, who was originally accused of being part of the plot to cripple Ray-Mac, had all but one charge against him dropped in return for his agreement to testify for the prosecution.

But several answers Booth gave during cross-examination earlier this month contradicted statements he had made during the interview last October—statements which bolstered defense claims that violence directed at Ray-Mac was the goal. (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

THE PASSING OF A LANDMARK, the Almar Drive-In Theatre, was greeted with dismay by many who hold in fond memory long ago summer nights when the prospect of a couple of John Wayne movies or Elvis extravaganzas, coupled with a main course of hot dogs and fries followed by all-night snacks of popcorn and candy bars amounted to just about as good a time as one could hope for. But the screen (pictured above resting face down) was toppled, and the concession stand was burned over the weekend, drawing to a close more than 25 years of operation. Paintsville's Sky Vue Drive-In earlier met a similar fate, leaving only the Prestonsburg Drive-In to provide the special setting which characterizes this uniquely American institution.

Juvenile Center Expense Halved, Says Co. Judge

By making economies, he has been able to halve the cost of maintaining the juvenile detention center operated by the county on behalf of the state Human Resources Cabinet, Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said this week.

Stumbo said the cost of keeping juvenile detainees, which ran at nearly $91 per child per day before he took office, has been reduced this year to an average of $45.

Savings were made by trimming staff, dropping outside attorneys and accountants from the payroll, shopping more judiciously for food, and taking advantage of surplus food provided by the U.S. Department of Labor, he said.

The staff was reduced from eight to six full-time workers by not replacing a husband-and-wife team hired by the previous administration as superintendent and assistant superintendent, each (See Story No. 7, Page 4)

Pyramid Man Injured by Train

A Pyramid man was injured when the pickup he was driving slammed into the side of a coal train at David, last Thursday night.

Jackie Allen, foreman for a Magoffin county coal firm, was driving to work when he struck the train on KY 404 about 10:20 p.m. The train was straddling the highway at the Middle States Coal Co. tippie, near the mouth of Rough and Tough. A sheriff's deputy said the train displayed no warning flares.

Deputy Sheriff John Blackburn, the first law officer on the scene, said it took rescuers an hour to free Allen, who was pinned inside his wrecked truck. He was taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center and later transferred to Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington, reportedly with a broken leg.

Hospice Threat Seen As Funds Are Lacking

More than 150 Floyd countians will die of cancer this year. They and their families will need all the help they can get. But an organization formed here recently to provide that help is itself wrestling with the prospect of a premature death.

Part of a growing movement in this country to provide support for terminally ill patients and their families, Hospice of Big Sandy was organized here two years ago. It has yet to help a single patient, however, and state licensing officials could soon withdraw the group's credentials unless they start to see results.

If that happens, says Clara Garrett, a prime mover in getting the group started, Floyd county will have missed an opportunity to provide services—medical, psychological and social—to many families sorely in need of them.

While a hospital or nursing home is an appropriate place for some to die, many terminally ill patients—especially in an area like east Kentucky, where family ties are strong—would rather spend their last days at home, noted Mrs. Garrett, who is director of Prestonsburg Community College's nurse training program.

But caring for a dying family member is too big a burden for many families to bear without help, she added. Hospice, which pulls together teams of professionals and volunteers, is designed to provide that help.

The trouble is, Hospice itself needs help to get started.

Its first two years have by no means been wasted, organizers say. A year ago, the group received a state "certificate of need," which allows it to operate in Floyd and Johnson counties. Thirty-six volunteers have been recruited and a training program was (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

Sophisticated Equipment Added

"As modern as anything in Kentucky," said Paul R. Gearheart, president of the Harold Telephone Co., as sophisticated equipment for the company's new central office at Grethel was being unloaded Monday. (Pictured positioning one panel of the solid state, micro-circuitry are technicians Gerald Robinette, in foreground, and Charles Ray Adkins.)

The new office and equipment will cost $375,000 and will mean improved telephone service for the Mud Creek section of the county, he said. New features included in the computerized facility are touch-tone dialing, call forwarding, conference calling and call waiting, among others. Completion of the work will require about two months, it was said.

Mud Creek, Gearheart said, is the fastest-growing section of Floyd county.

This Town...That World

I wouldn't say the Presidential primaries have recalled this one, but I remember something of the fellow who ran for office (not in Floyd county) and received only two votes, presumably his own and his wife's. More than somewhat disappointed, he remarked, "They stole that election off me, they did, and for two cents I'd contest 'em till Judgment Day."

WEATHER COMPLAINT

This is what one oldtimer called "the hurtin' season."

A-body expects the winter months to be cold and bleak, and you brace yourself for the worst, he explained, but when spring days come and are still gray and dead-cold, it hurts.

We agree.

Who feels the pain? We might suggest these, for starters:

—The one who wants to get on with his planting; those who find a deep pleasure in working the soil, feeling the sun and wind on his or her back, seeing lifeless seeds spring to life.

—The outdoors type who would walk (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

Council Quits Move For Annexation Here

A plan that would have increased by half the area of Prestonsburg and reaped another $200,000 or more in annual tax revenues was shelved by the city council Monday in the face of public opposition to the project.

The annexation of a five-mile stretch of the Auxier road, first scheduled for a vote by residents there last November, was put off until the May primary. Members of the city council voted this week to ask the Board of Election Commissioners to take the question off the ballot.

City Manager David Evans told council members it would cost the city $550,000 initially to furnish city services to the newly-incorporated section and about $250,000 annually to maintain them. Estimates of the tax revenue the added section would yield ranged from $200,000 to $300,000 annually.

"I'm not sure we can afford it," said Councilman Paul H. Thompson. "I realize we're not supposed to be running the city for profit. But there's a word called impeachment if we run it at a loss."

Apart from the economics involved, council members were obviously sensitive also to the likely political costs of annexation. While state law gives a distinct advantage to cities desiring to enlarge their borders—it takes 75 percent of the affected voters to block such a move—several council members said they would not attempt to annex an area unless a majority of the residents were in favor of it. Since the last city council voted to incorporate that section a year ago, many Auxier road residents have expressed opposition to the plan.

Dallas Sammons blasted the annexation proposal as an example of excessive government. A former Prestonsburg resident, he moved out of the city "to get a little more freedom, a little more elbow room, a little less governing," Sammons told the council.

"There's too much governing in this country," said the Prestonsburg postal worker, "—too much telling you what you can do and what you can't do."

Only Councilman George C. Brown and Bill Ray Collins spoke in favor of leaving the question on the May ballot and even Collins said he felt a simple majority of voters should be able to veto the plan. Five council members supported a motion by Eunice Shepherd to withdraw the annexation proposal; Brown voted against the motion and Collins abstained.

Bids will be advertised for a ladder truck for the fire department, despite a warning by Mayor Harold Cooley that the city may not be able to afford it. East Kentucky Mack is interested in selling the city a $215,000 truck but Councilman Collins said a better-equipped White truck could be bought for $30,000 less.

A proposal by Councilman Robert Ranier to furnish every city policeman with a cruiser failed to win his colleagues' support. By buying six used cars to add to the police department's five-car fleet, each officer could have a cruiser, for which he or she would likely feel more responsible, said Ranier, a former police officer here. But other council members said the added cars would be unnecessary and costly to maintain.

In response to a request by John Earl Hunt, president of Prestonsburg Little League, the council voted to give $500 to buy insurance for the young ballplayers.

Three Democrats Vie For Party Leadership

Even as Democratic party regulars prepare for county and district caucuses—the early steps in the process by which delegates to the party's national convention are picked—their real interest is in the selection next month of the county executive committee chairman.

One early contender for the post acknowledged last week that he is no longer a candidate. Asked for a reason for his withdrawal, Sheriff Henry Hale said simply, "Just say I'm no longer running."

In his place—and representing those who have not forgiven current county chairman Morris Isaac for picking John M. Stumbo over Barkley Sturgill as judge-executive last year—has emerged Prestonsburg physician Larry Leslie.

Isaac and Leslie were both in contention for the chairman's post four years ago, when a compromise was worked out by which Leslie served the first two years of the term and Isaac the latter two.

Both candidates vow there will be no compromise this year. "It will be winner take all. The man who has 25 precincts will be chairman," said Leslie, who claimed he was "led down the primrose path" when he was persuaded to share power with Isaac in 1980.

Democrats will gather in the county's 48 precincts April 21 to choose a man, a woman, and someone under 30 to represent each precinct at the county convention two weeks later. The county convention will elect the Democratic executive committee, which will then elect its chairman.

Besides Isaac and Leslie, the only other known candidate for the job is Allen carpet dealer Paul J. Branham.

He is the only candidate who could unite Floyd Democrats, says Branham, citing chronic animosity between supporters of his two opponents. Moreover, as dispenser of patronage jobs here for Gov. Martha Layne Collins, he is in a position to reward key supporters and is not bashful about saying so.

Branham's link with Frankfort—he and his pilot brother, Lowell, ferried the governor around during her eastern Kentucky campaign—ranks Leslie, who this week accused Branham of us- (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Murder Indictments Name Man, Woman

Two named for murder and a man charged with raping three of his daughters are among those indicted this week by a Floyd Circuit Court grand jury.

Harlos "Baldy" Hall, 41, of Drift, was indicted in the shooting death of 17-year-old Robert Shepherd, March 10, reportedly following a quarrel with the youth's uncle over an unpaid grocery bill.

Geraldine Jarrell, 43, of Dana, is accused of killing her husband, Jackie Lee Jarrell, on March 17, the grand jury alleging she "wantonly" shot him four times.

A 33-year-old West Prestonsburg man faces three charges each of rape and incest, the grand jury alleging he had sexual intercourse with three daughters, aged 13, 11, and nine.

An unemployed coalminer, the accused man was being held in the county jail this week pending a bond hearing in circuit court. At a hearing last Thursday in district court, he startled court officials by spontaneously confessing to a sexual involvement with his eldest daughter, who reportedly gave birth recently to a seriously-ill infant. The hearing was designed not to elicit a plea from the defendant but only to determine if he needed a court-appointed attorney.

Others indicted include four accused of burglarizing A & N Cranes, a heavy equipment firm at Betsy Layne. Brenda Bowens, Glen Bishop, Jr., Dana Bridgeman and Tracy Yates allegedly stole blank checks, a check writer, a typewriter, a pocket calculator and cash from the company.

Lawrence B. Hicks was indicted for first degree assault, the grand jury alleging he pulled Winchester Francis from the cab of his pickup, threw him to the ground, and beat him about the head and body with a "slapjack." Francis suffered serious injuries, including a broken bone in his hand, according to the indictment.

Jr. Miss Shamrock

Kristy Lynn Bishop, 12-year-old daughter of Richard Bishop and Thelma Wallen Bishop, of Auxier, was crowned Jr. Miss Shamrock, Sunday, March 4, at Allen Central high school. She also won the title of most photogenic, the title of Jr. Miss Shamrock Churchwear and the title of Jr. Miss Shamrock Sportswear. March 17, Kristy won third place in the talent competition, 6th place in beauty and a special award in sportswear at the National Dream Girl Pageant held at the Ramada Inn in Duffield, Va.

GFWC/KFWC Annual District Meeting

The annual GFWC/KFWC Seventh District meeting was held in the United Methodist Church, Pikeville, March 24. Mrs. Guilene Smith, Governor, presided and announced that the GFWC is the largest civic organization in The World. In 1983, the clubs in the seventh district contributed $37,616.69 and 11,738 men and women volunteer hours to community projects health international aid to legislation education and crime reduction.

The Drift Woman's Club sponsored Paul Combs, first place art winner, who received an award and blue ribbon in the pastel category. He will compete in the state contest to be held at the State Convention, April 16, in Lexington. Combs is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adren Combs, of Garrett.

The Drift Woman's Club also sponsored Darren Wiley who won third place in pencil drawing. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Wiley, of Estill. Their art instructor is Carolita O'Quinn, Allen Central High School.

Miss Ruby Akers and Anna Sue Stumbo, Drift Woman's Club members, and Mrs. Marie Mullins, Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club, attended the meeting.

Info For Tax Payers Who Wait Till Last Day

Prestonsburg Postmaster Don Osborne advises against delay, but if you wait until April 16 deadline to mail your income tax returns, you have until 8 p.m. to deposit them at the main Post Office if it is to bear the "Tax Monday" postmark.

The mailing deadline for returns falls on April 16 this year because the usual cutoff date, April 15, is on Sunday.

Postmaster Osborne said that returns also may be placed in collection boxes in front of the main Post Office up to 8 p.m. to be picked up for the April 16 postmark.

If you mail earlier in the day at a street collection box, Postmaster Osborne advised checking the collection schedule to be sure the next pickup will meet the deadline.

Knott Man Held In Store Holdup

A Knott county man who allegedly robbed a Hindman supermarket and attempted to rob Commonwealth Attorney Afton Smith last Friday was arrested a few hours later on Ball Branch, Knott county, by State Trooper Arnold Lee Weddington, of this county.

A bond hearing for the accused man, 40-year-old Ronnie Edward King, of Mousie, was scheduled yesterday (Tuesday). He was booked on charges of robbery, attempted robbery, wanton endangerment, third-degree assault and drunk driving.

Police said the alleged robbery attempt was made at 1:50 p.m. The attempt to rob Commonwealth Attorney Smith opened the series of events that created pandemonium in the store. King allegedly pointed a shotgun barrel beneath Smith's chin and ordered him to give him his money. Smith told him he had no money, then added, "You wouldn't shoot a man in the back, would you?" and calmly turned and walked away.

When a store employee was next ordered to open the cash register, she apparently convinced King that she could not, so he picked up the register and left with it. An unidentified woman's purse also was taken, but contents of both purse and cash register are believed to have been recovered when King was arrested.

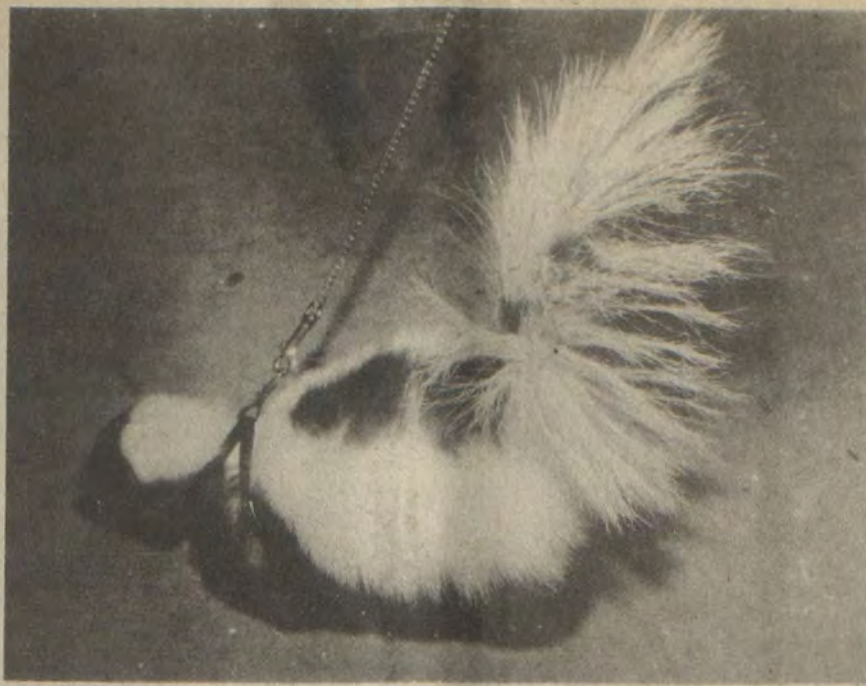

State troopers from Knott, Floyd and Letcher counties were called for the search for the gunman.

State Park Improvements Meet Needs of Handicapped

The Kentucky Department of Parks is wrapping up a program to make state resort parks generally accessible to handicapped persons, Commissioner Fran Curci announced last week.

In the past six months, the Parks Department has spent $264,000 to improve facilities by installing automatic door openers, building ramps, renovating restrooms and the like, Curci said.

The improvements were financed by a legislative allocation to bring state facilities in line with a federal act that forbids discrimination against handicapped persons.

Before the changes, lodge accessibility was restricted; many park lodges were built during times when building codes didn't always take into account the needs of handicapped persons, Curci said.

"Through this program, we're demonstrating that state resort parks are for everyone," Curci said. "I'm pleased we've been able to accomplish so much in a brief amount of time."

Curci said he hopes the program will receive another appropriation, so the Parks Department can make more improvements.

Here is a brief look at improvements made at each park:

—Jenny Wiley, amphitheatre area made accessible, four lodge rooms modified, automatic door installed for lobby entrance.

—Kenlake, automatic door opener installed at entrance.

—Kentucky Dam Village, gift shop and game room made accessible, four rooms modified, automatic door openers installed at entrance.

—Lake Barkley, automatic door opener installed at registration area.

—Lake Cumberland, multi-purpose building made accessible, four rooms modified.

—Barren River, five lodge rooms modified, automatic door openers installed at entrance, one cottage modified.

—Buckhorn Lake, two lodge rooms modified, pool made accessible from rear of lodge, automatic door openers installed at entrance.

—Carter Caves, three lodge rooms modified.

—Cumberland Falls, two lodge rooms modified, automatic door opener installed at entrance, five cottages made fully or semi-accessible.

—General Butler, automatic door openers installed at entrance and dining room.

—Greenbo Lake, two lodge rooms modified, one campground shower building made accessible.

—Natural Bridge, automatic door opener installed at entrance.

so-called AA highway between Ashland and Alexandria (near Covington).

Reconstruction of 16 miles of KY 3 between Auxier and Inez is scheduled for the 1985-1987 fiscal years. Design but not construction of the Prestonsburg- Paintsville highway is scheduled for 1986.

Other Floyd projects included in the new plan are replacement of the Allen bridge—a project which has appeared in two previous plans—and construction of a road between McDowell and Garrett, linking Left and Right Beaver Creeks, a new project scheduled for completion in 1987.

A $2.8 million replacement of the Cliff bridge, which appeared on last year's plan with a 1985 construction date, does not appear in a preliminary news report on this year's plan. District Engineer Kirby Ison, of the Transportation Department's Pikeville office, said that, until he receives a copy of the new plan, he is unable to confirm whether or not the Cliff project is included in it.

Surfacing of 1.4 miles of U.S. 23 will complete the Pikeville "cut-through" project and the intersection of U.S. 23 and U.S. 460 in Johnson county will be rebuilt. Both projects are financed by federal road funds and scheduled for the 1984-'85 fiscal year.

A preliminary comparison shows that the new plan includes 16 projects in Boone county, Poore's home county, that were not listed in the plan released last July by the Brown administration.

ing his patronage position to coerce support from those who have or wish they had state jobs here. Nor does it go down well with Isaac who, as county chairman, should have patronage pull in Frankfort but who backed third-place-getter Grady Stumbo in last year's governor's race.

Rewarding supporters is what politics is all about, says Branham, who claimed this week to have made enough friends over the years to guarantee support from 22 precincts—especially on Left Beaver and Mud Creek—at the county convention.

Among his friends Branham counts Pete Grigsby, Jr. who, as the county's biggest employer, ought to be able to turn some people out for the precinct elections. But some observers insist that—even with Grigsby's support, which the superintendent has not formally pledged—Branham is hardly a serious candidate. "It's a two-way race," said one flatly.

Leslie, who has no illusions about winning Grigsby over, threatened instead to sue the school chief "if he uses his office to coerce employees" into supporting one of Leslie's opponents.

One factor in the alignment of supporters in the county chairman's race is the May primary contest between former Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. and U.S. Senator Walter "Dee" Huddleston for Huddleston's senate seat.

Branham is for Huddleston. "John Y. Brown didn't do anything for eastern Kentucky," he explained, and added—recalling a loose remark Brown once made while governor—"He doesn't even know where U.S. 23 is at." Leslie has made no public commitments but acknowledges that many of his supporters are for Huddleston, too.

For Isaac, the choice is trickier. The support of state senator Benny Ray Bailey has been valuable to him in the past, and Bailey is reportedly supporting Brown. But by coming out for Brown, Isaac would risk alienating Hubert Halbert—who supported Isaac four years ago and is Huddleston's field representative here—and Commonwealth's Attorney James Allen, a Huddleston ally and a link to the county courthouse.

"I've got friends on both sides," said Isaac, explaining his reluctance to come out publicly for either senate candidate.

This Saturday, Floyd Democrats will meet at 2 p.m. at the Martin grade school gym and on April 14 delegates from all counties in the Seventh Congressional District will meet at Prestonsburg High School to help select delegates to the party's national convention in San Francisco in July.

But the wheeling and dealing going on currently among party activists is focussed not on the national but on the local arena. Whether because it promises more tangible benefits for Floyd citizens or more immediate spoils for the victor, the race for county chairman is reportedly the one to watch.

Mac in 1982 was a union organizing effort, not an extortion plot—Stone said. According to Stone, Booth said to him last October 27, "Edgar never done nothing to hurt me or told me to do anything out of the way to hurt nobody... including Ray-Mac." On the witness stand, Booth repudiated the statement.

Although he later denied it under oath, Booth said in October that his ex-wife Pearl, who has also testified as a major witness for the government, had reason to be "mad" at Jones, Stone said.

Booth said in October that the coal firm he and his wife operated under contract with Jones "started running dirty coal," for which Jones refused to pay them. His wife was greedy, was angry with Jones for putting her out of business, and would tell lies "to get even with Edgar," Booth said, according to Stone.

Cross-examined by Assistant U.S. Attorney Thomas L. Self, Stone said he was not aware that, shortly before the October interview in Patton's office, Patton paid Booth $5000 for some mining equipment. Patton, a Prestonsburg attorney, is assisting in Jones' defense.

When prosecution and defense attorneys began arguing at one point about the use that could properly be made of Stone's testimony, U.S. District Judge G. Wix Unthank admonished them, charging that they were "splitting hairs."

"This is childish," Unthank said angrily. "You're playing games with the court." The judge ordered a recess and instructed the lawyers to use the time to settle their differences.

The nine women and seven men serving on the jury—four of them as alternates—were told Monday that their $30-a-day allowance would be raised by $5 a day on account of the trial's length.

In testimony last week, Lexington psychiatrist Dr. Robert Granacher, Jr. said that, because of a "brain dysfunction," defendant Eugene Tackett was mentally incapable of entering into a conspiracy. Tackett testified earlier that, when he joined a group shooting on the Ray-Mac operation from the surrounding hills, he thought he was protecting a union picket line.

Linville Mosley denied he took any part in the violence of February, 1982, and said prosecution witness Sam Bentley lied in placing him on the hill behind Ray-Mac when shots were fired at the non-union stripline.

Drexil Hall, who was vice-president of UMWA Local 5967 in 1982, said the activity at Ray-Mac followed a vote by the union local to organize workers there. Hermit Newsome, a foreman at the Booths' Calamity Coal Co., said that those firing on Ray-Mac agreed not to shoot any of the workers but only to frighten them into stopping work and joining the union.

—The fellow who has no greater ambition than to catch a fish or so, or just to have the privilege, once again, of losing himself far up a distant lake cove.

—The one who wants to do nothing in particular and asks no more than a time when he can sit in comfort and look and marvel; or, for a more active pasttime, do a bit of whittlin' and jawin' with a few old cronies who have made it as far as the nearest park bench.

As you go on down the list you might say the situation affects us all. And, you might add, it all amounts to plain complaining about the weather—an ancient pasttime that will continue to claim its devotees, come rain or shine, whatever the season.

It might make more sense for us all to consider the crocuses and the Easter lilies which burst into flower at the first opportunity, come what may, and leave the grousing to us.

Fish, Wildlife Camps a Bargain

If your fifth or sixth grader comes home with an application for summer camp, take a close look—it could be one of the best bargains around.

A week (Monday through Friday) at one of the camps operated by the conservation education division of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources costs just $33, plus transportation to and from camp, which generally costs an additional $6 to $10.

Students who have participated in the conservation education program in schools throughout Kentucky are eligible to attend camp. Since this school program reaches over 90 percent of all fifth and sixth graders in Kentucky, chances are your child is among the 100,000 who will be getting information about, and applications to, the camping program this month.

Although the deadline for returning the completed applications is May 1, you shouldn't wait until the last minute, says Kelley Hubbard, assistant director of the conservation education division. Applications are processed on a first-come, first-served basis and there isn't always room to accommodate everyone who wants to attend.

The fish and wildlife department has had a summer camping program since 1946, so it's entirely possible that the youngsters going to camp now have both parents and grandparents who have participated in similar camping programs.

The department operates three camps, one at Kentucky Lake, one at Lake Cumberland and one at Grayson Lake. The week-long program is primarily educational, with trained instructors giving lessons in boating, swimming, water safety, fishing, archery, first aid, nature study and hunter safety.

Students who successfully complete the program are certified as safe hunters. Hunter safety certificates are required by many states and for hunting on some federal areas in Kentucky.

"Our primary goal in both our school and our camping program," Hubbard says, "is to pass along the traditions of good sportsmanship and conservation and to encourage the safe and ethical enjoyment of our fish and wildlife resources."

And if the kids have fun at camp (which they certainly do), then that's an added benefit.

RETURNS HOME

Mrs. Sally Goebel has returned to her home here following a three-week visit with a long-time friend, Mrs. Ruth Allen, formerly of this county, in San Jose, California. While there, she and Mrs. Allen spent one weekend at Lake Tahoe and another at Catalina Island.

No Chance To Bury Us

Do these words, bad roads, garbage and litter, also strayed or abandoned dogs and cats, sound familiar?

Does all of Kentucky have these deplorable situations? If not, why? Do they pay more taxes than we? Or is their tax money used for these situations more than in this area? If so, are they any different than we are?

Are their waterways littered with disposable diapers, plastic containers, other litter too numerous to mention, roadways overrun by 'run over' animals, highway Dept. doesn't pick them up as they used to. Find out why.

Seems none of us willingly wish to sit back and let ourselves be overcome by these things. Maybe a bit of 'Spring cleaning' in our own back yards, can help alleviate many of these conditions.

These deplorable situations can deapreciate your property:

Think about it, a foreign adversary won't get a chance to 'bury' us, if we allow ourselves to be buried in our own garbage!

held for them last year. And, of some $7000 raised to date in contributions, $4000 is being used to send a nurse to Atlanta this month for special training in taking care of ostomates—patients, usually cancer victims, with surgical openings—in this area.

Moreover, recent changes in the law make it easier for organizations like Hospice to become financially stable once they get going. Since November 1, qualified hospice programs have been eligible for Medicare reimbursement, and several major insurance companies are adding hospice care to health policies.

"I'm confident we will keep going once we get started," said Dr. Gan Madidiar, a surgeon at Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin who, together with Prestonsburg surgeon Dr. William B. Cook, has been a director of Hospice of Big Sandy since its inception. "The need is there. The patients are there. They're waiting.

But before the organization can start taking patient referrals—and, hopefully, start supporting itself—it will need to hire a small paid staff. And that will take money.

At a meeting last Thursday, members of the board of directors voted to launch a fundraising drive to get the $70,000 needed to finance the operation for a year. The bulk of the budget—some $48,000—would go to pay the salaries of an executive director, a patient care coordinator, and a secretary.

Officials of the state Certificate of Need and Licensure Board are scheduled to review the project on May 16. Unless they can show some progress by then, their certificate of need may not be renewed, directors fear.

Clara Garrett is counting on eastern Kentuckians' traditional sense of family to give the organization the boost it needs. "People here have always been family-oriented. When someone is admitted to hospital, the whole family is involved."

People should have the right to die in an environment of their own choosing—for many, that will be in the bosom of their own families—but they are often denied that choice for want of the financial, spiritual and social resources it takes, Mrs. Garrett said. "Death with dignity" has become a bit over-worked," she said. "But that's what the hospice program is about."

on a $1600-a-month salary, the judge-executive said. Administration of the facility is now handled directly from his office, which is in the same building as the detention center.

The savings realized by the county have been passed on to other counties which share the cost of maintaining the center, said Stumbo. Magoffin, Martin and Lawrence counties, which have been paying around $10,500 a year to use the facility will now be billed $7400 to $7700, depending on county population.

Stumbo said he intends to reduce the detention center's $159,000 budget by nearly $26,000 in the new fiscal year and still have money to add a social worker to the center staff.

The judge-executive himself serves as chairman of the detention center board, of which the other officers are county finance officer Delores Dingus and secretary Janet Tackett.

Laud Parent-Volunteers

In the past few months, there has been an abundance of publicity about education in our area—student performance on test scores, educational practices, tax issues, administrators and teachers, and resounding comments from concerned parents. Impartial readers could readily form the impression that battle lines have been drawn with students and parents on one side, and teachers and administrators on the other. As teachers who are actively involved in promoting the educational process in the Martin area of this county, we feel that the publicity does not paint a true picture of the parent-teacher relationship and tangible interaction that are existent in the Floyd county schools.

We have found that, in general, most parents are willing to help and eager to cooperate. Martin Elementary has quite a number of parents who are interested in and involved with all areas of the school's program. They provide valuable assistance in such functions as supporters of home instructional practice, teacher/aides (some serving on a daily basis), resource personnel, helpers with primary activities, and promoters of the athletic department. Occasionally, there are special projects that require the efforts of both teachers and parents in order to be successful, and by putting our shoulders together we do the job.

The education of children is not a small task. We commend those who recognize this and are willing to help—at home and in the school.

Do We Really Care?

There is a problem in our area which has reached epidemic proportions: Alcohol and Drug Abuse! Especially among our school age children.

What really bothers me is the lack of interest among parents—or something called apathy.

Are parents going to continue to play the "game of denial" while their children go on destroying themselves?

There is a Task Force that has been meeting for several months at the Floyd County Regional Library. The next meeting will be Monday, April 2, at 7:30 p.m.

May I add that there has never been a representative from the Board of Education office in attendance. City Council has had a representative at one of these meetings. One clergymen and his assistant are always in attendance. A representative from the courthouse attended a meeting before Christmas.

How much do we really care about our children?

Penhook (or Pinhook) Information Sought

I wonder if anyone can tell me about Penhook Branch of Levisa which heads ¼ mile into Pike Co. and extends roughly sw and south for 1½ miles to the river at Boldman on our side of the Floyd Co. line.

I'd like to know why it was given this name and how long it has borne it, and if it has ever been called anything else.

Would appreciated any help you or your readers can give me on this name and the feature it identifies.

You may be interested to know that my book on the Place Names of Kentucky (including a number from Floyd Co.) will be published this fall by the University Press of Kentucky.

Enforce Support Laws

If the judges would enforce the laws on child support, there would not be a court overload. (One night in jail to figure out how to support those children would do wonders).

The women who are working to see that child support laws are enforced, after they get off work, could spend that time and energy with their children. These women want their money—not excuses! Excuses won't feed the children! The courts are supposed to be fair and just.

Seek Relative

Some 40 years ago, a young man from Salyersville, Ky. enlisted in the Marine Corps, so that he could defend and preserve our American way of life.

We are now putting together a one and only 40-year reunion and we are in search of James B. Conley, Jr. Maybe a sister, relative or friend in the Prestonsburg area would know of his whereabouts. Would you be kind enough to place notice in your paper, so that James would have the opportunity to attend this reunion and once again see his friends of 40 years ago.

Have placed scores of phone calls to Conleys in the Prestonsburg area without a clue. Search through the VA indicates that he is still living.

Your effort will be appreciated.

U.S.A.A. Winner

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Paul Combs is a 1984 award winner in journalism and art. He was nominated by his teachers, Mrs. Osborne and Mrs. O'Quinn.

A junior at Allen Central High School, he is the son of Adron and Dorothy Combs, of Garrett and the grandson of the late Rev. and Mrs. Everett Daniels, of Garrett, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Arvel Combs, of Hueysville.

ALLEN

MRS. IMES HONORED

W.M.U. Focus Week was observed at the First Baptist Church of Allen, Feb. 19. During the morning service the girls and women of the church provided the special music, sang in the choir, served as ushers, gave personal testimonies and received the offering.

During the evening worship hour special recognition was made to Mrs. Ruby Imes. The pastor, Earl Waugh, presented Mrs. Imes a certificate of service for 35 years of work in W.M.U. at the First Baptist Church. She is the only present member who has worked in all age groups—Mission Friends, Girls in Action, Acteens and Baptist women. She was presented W.M.U. pen, a corsage from her first W.M.U. directors, now living in Cincinnati, words of love from fellow church members and letters of love and appreciation from girls she had worked with in the past and who are now married and have families of their own.

One young woman, Patty Crisp Hammonds, came from Indiana to tell how much Mrs. Imes had meant to her. Then Mrs. Glenda Hunt Penix spoke of the love Mrs. Imes had shown not only to her but to every girl she worked with. Then Mrs. Penix's daughter, Christi, presented Mrs. Imes with roses.

In closing Becky Watts remarked that "we study in W.M.U. about our missionaries and their work, while Ruby has done what we talk about."

Precinct Lists Need Updating

If you live in one of the recently-split precincts and think you may be on the wrong voter roll, you could help by letting her know, County Clerk Carla R. Boyd said last week.

Alternatively, she may have to send workers on a door-to-door canvass to find out just where voters live, in order to get the electoral rolls straightened out in time for the May primaries, the clerk said.

Confusion arose with the splitting of the Cliff, Porter, Cow Creek and McDowell precincts last fall—a division that raised to 48 the number of voting precincts in the county.

Sheriff Henry Hale said that long lines at polling booths in those precincts made the division necessary. And, while voter lists in the new McDowell and Frasure's Creek precincts still need to be updated, the November elections ran smoothly at the other divided precincts, he said.

But Mrs. Boyd cited complaints that people on the same Abbott Creek hollow and even in the same household are registered to vote in different precincts. In one Cliff family, one member votes in Cliff No. 1, another in Cliff No. 2, and a third in Abbott, she said. Unless people let her know of the inconsistencies, it will take a house-by-house survey to straighten out the voter rolls, the clerk added.

The new precincts will eventually have their own polling places, elections officials said. However, until voters in split precincts become familiar with the new boundaries, two ballot boxes will be set up in different sections of the customary polling places.

This questions and answer column is provided as a public service by the McDowell Cancer Network. Questions are answered by appropriate specialists associated with the Network and represent some of the inquiries made by callers who use our Hopeline.

The Cancer Hopeline is a toll free consultative telephone service available to any Kentuckian who has a cancer-related problem. Qualified counselors take calls Monday-Friday from 9-5 and return recorded messages the next working day. They do not diagnose cancer, recommend treatment for individual cases, nor dispense money. Q. My granddaughter has leukemia and is receiving chemotherapy treatment. She is coming for a weekend visit, and her physician does not anticipate any problems. But just in case, are there symptoms I should be aware of that may indicate a problem?

A. It is important to determine when your granddaughter had her last treatment, and be informed of any problems she may be experiencing as a result of the treatment.

While your granddaughter is visiting, you should arrange to contact her parents easily if any problems arise. Should they not be available, you should be able to contact the individuals handling her medical care. The following symptoms may indicate a complication:

Stumbo Reviews Educational Issue

By GREG STUMBO
Representative, 95th District

It became obvious in the final days of the 1984 General Assembly that there was not sufficient support in the House of Representatives to pass Gov. Martha Layne Collins' tax and education package.

Ultimately, that lack of support led the governor to withdraw the proposal.

Most members of the House took a wait-and-see attitude toward the plan because we all wanted to consult with constituents back home before making commitments that have ramifications as serious as these.

Uncertainty about the legislative proposals had prompted the governor to take her plan to the people of Kentucky via a media blitz. But it was not enough to win her the needed support from House members.

Most of the governor's proposals were anticipated through the many caucus meetings in which she participated throughout the session. And I think several parts of her package of proposals will more than likely see some sort of action from the Legislature eventually. Our biggest concern with any consideration is the revenue impact this will have on the citizens of Kentucky.

Under the governor's recommendations, a Commission on Education Excellence would report to the Legislative Research Commission no later than Jan. 1, 1985, and would require the approval of the General Assembly before its program is implemented.

If the legislation is approved, the next step would be a special session, perhaps during the January 1985 Organizational Session of the General Assembly, to enact the career-ladder plan.

During a news conference last week the governor told the public that she hoped the General Assembly would consider funding at least this one proposal. But I, as one legislator, do not support this concept.

However, I joined several other legislators in the House in introducing our own education package. The most notable advantage is that it would require much less in the way of additional revenue.

House Bill 913 of the package would delay the career-ladder pay concept until 1986, giving legislators an opportunity to study the plan during the interim. The concept is yet so new in the nation it is difficult to even find another state with a successful plan in place. Our proposal would save the state around $40 million that would otherwise be needed to launch the merit-pay program.

Our bill would establish a 50-member panel to be appointed by the governor to develop the ladder for teacher pay. The committee would identify each step, plus the training and competency requirements for participants. The panel would also develop plans for implementing the career-ladder and an evaluation system.

And while all of this study is going on our budget continues to call for adequate raises for our teachers until the new concept can be referred to fit a Kentucky program.

Also different from the governor's education proposals is the House plan that recommends a statewide disciplinary code. The legislation directs that the code include suggestions for reducing the number of school dropouts. The guidelines would be used by local school districts to develop their own disciplinary code. This measure has already passed the House and is now being considered by the Senate.

Other programs in the governor's package that are similar to the House's alternative package include grants to classroom teachers for innovative teaching activities, a scholarship program for prospective teachers, summer math and science institutes for teachers, and an "academic receivership" plan for school districts whose students continue to be deficient in academic attainment.

Of our recommendation, House Bill 908 requires the superintendent of public instruction to enforce maximum class sizes.

The bill also allocates kindergarten units based on 22 full-time pupils in average daily attendance. And the proposal mandates, beginning July 1, 1987, all first-grade students must have successfully completed kindergarten. This measure has successfully passed the Senate and is scheduled to soon be considered in the House.

A Senate Bill calls for testing and remedial work—which was a major component of the governor's plan for education reform. And although the legislation is costly, education budgets prepared this week by the House and Senate Appropriations and Revenue committees include funding for the program. A budget plan we will soon consider has an appropriation of $16.2 million to pay for it.

Another of the House education measures requires local boards of education members to have a high school diploma. House Bill 911 would also require all board members elected after July 15, 1984, to be eligible to serve only three consecutive terms—and attend in-service training provided by the state Department of Education. This bill, too, has been passed by House members.

The alternative plan also offers a proposal to establish a committee on student competency to identify the skills and subject matter needed for pupils to proceed through the public school system. The measure directs that the level of these skills be identified by grade level and subject.

Members of the Legislature are not unconcerned about educational improvements in the state but we feel we must take a slower route to obtain the end result. We can and will provide an educational climate for our children in Kentucky to achieve their highest potential in life.

1982 Farm Census Shows Changes in Kentucky Farms

Recently released agricultural census information for Kentucky contains some disturbing facts, says Kentucky Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell.

According to the U.S. Commerce Department's report, Kentucky farms are decreasing both in size and number, Boswell said. The census figures show 101,700 farms in the Commonwealth averaging 140 acres. This compares with 102,263 farms averaging 143 acres in 1978, the date of the last agricultural census.

The Census Bureau's report covers 1982 and defines a farm as any place from which $1,000 or more of agricultural products were, or normally would have been, sold in the census year.

"Kentucky is by no means faltering as an agricultural state, but this report does indicate that we must continue our efforts to support the state's number one industry," Boswell said.

At the same time that farm size and numbers are decreasing, the number of acres producing crops has increased. This figure may also be a cause for concern if it means that marginal farm lands are being put into production, Boswell said.

Because of the current economic conditions, many farmers are being forced to grow crops on lands which would be better suited for pasture or soil conservation. The census figures show that 7 percent more land is now being used for crop production than in years past.

The current economic situation may also be responsible for the fact that almost half of the Kentucky's farmers worked 100 days or more off the farm, Boswell said.

The Bureau's figures also detail the high production costs which farmers bear. In 1982, Kentucky farmers spent $184 million for livestock and poultry feed, $165 million for farm energy, $136 million for fertilizer and $167 million for hired labor.

"These figures indicate the amount of money which agriculture produces for the economy of the state," Boswell said.

The Commissioner said the figures do show one very positive factor about Kentucky's agricultural situation—the family farm seems to be in good shape. In 1982, 84 percent of the state's farm were operated by an individual or a family. Partnerships operated approximately 15,000 farms and corporations operated 762. However, of the corporations, 88 percent were families.

Women operated 7 percent of the state's farms.

Boswell said the figures showing profits for the state's farmers indicate how difficult it is to make a living at farming. Out of the 101,700 farms in the state, approximately 4,000 had gross sales of $100,000 or more. But more than half of Kentucky's farms had gross sales of less than $10,000.

The sale of crops in Kentucky amounted to $1.4 billion. The leading crop in terms of harvested acreage was soybeans, followed by corn, wheat, tobacco, corn for silage or greenchop, and sorghum.

The sales of livestock, poultry and their product totaled $1 billion. Dairy products amounted to $270 million.

Both dairy and beef cattle numbers were down from previous years. Dairy cattle number 254,000 and beef cattle number 2.5 million head.

The state's hog and pig inventory numbers 867,000, and sheep and lambs number 31,000.

Sales of poultry and their products were $25 million.

"The census provides the Department of Agriculture with some very important information," Boswell added. "It provides us with what we need to know to direct our efforts in assisting farmers. It also lets us know about areas with which we need to be concerned."

Most of all, it tells us how important agriculture is to all. It embodies my theme, 'Kentucky Soil Touches All of Us,' " the Commissioner said.

Nine Years Old

Shawn Nathan Allen celebrated his ninth birthday, March 13, with a Smurf-day party at Archer Park skating rink. A number of friends and relatives enjoyed skating and refreshments during the evening.

Shawn's parents are Jim Ed and Erelene Allen, of David, and his grandparents are Roberta Frasure and Millard Setser, of Prestonsburg, and Mary Allen, of Ashland.

WHEELWRIGHT HOMEMAKERS

The Wheelwright Homemakers met March 15 in the Senior Citizens Center. After devotionals and a short business meeting, Frances Pitts conducted the lesson for the evening, entitled "Mixing Food and Drugs" which explored the use and misuse of drugs, both prescription and over-the-counter. Pamphlets detailing drugs and their actions on the body were available.

Hostesses for the evening were Dolly Hall and Alma Soulyrette. Plans for a dinner in May were discussed. The club will also hold an auction to replenish the treasury.

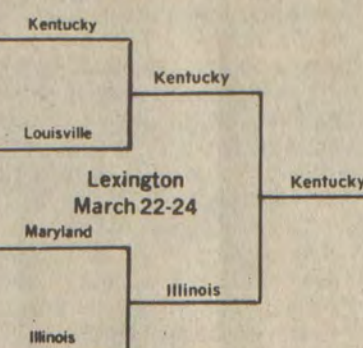

Members present were Alma Soulyrette, Dolly Hall, Mary Hall, Parilee Hall, Barbara Johnson, Sue Johnson, Margaret Jones, Frances Pitts, and Doris Osborne.

The next meeting will be April 19.

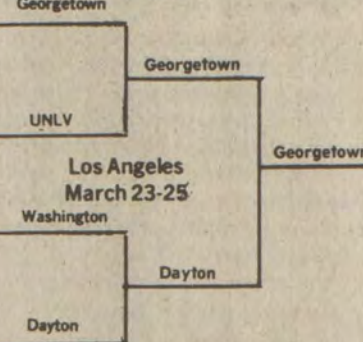

Two hundred years ago, on Nov. 21, 1783, two daring Frenchmen rose above a crowd gathered in Paris in a brilliant blue, 70-foot-tall, hot-air balloon. The event marked the first time human beings took to the air.

★ CANCER HOPELINE ★

This questions and answer column is provided as a public service by the McDowell Cancer Network. Questions are answered by appropriate specialists associated with the Network and represent some of the inquiries made by callers who use our Hopeline.

The Cancer Hopeline is a toll free consultative telephone service available to any Kentuckian who has a cancer-related problem. Qualified counselors take calls Monday-Friday from 9-5 and return recorded messages the next working day. They do not diagnose cancer, recommend treatment for individual cases, nor dispense money. Counselors do provide consultations with specialists as well as support and understanding. Because of its designation by the National Cancer Institute as Kentucky's Cancer Information Service, the Hopeline has rapid access to the latest cancer information. All matters are treated confidentially. Call the Cancer Hopeline toll free at 1-800-4-CANCER, or write us at McDowell Cancer Network, 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536-0084.

Q. I am always reading about certain foods causing or curing cancer. Do you have any suggestions for a good diet?

A. Although no direct cause-effect relationship has been observed for nutrition and cancer in humans, many studies suggest that diet affects the risk for this disease. Cancer takes a long time to develop and often has more than one cause. Therefore, the exact role of diet in the development of cancer is hard to determine.

The National Cancer Institute has established a Diet, Nutrition and Cancer Program to explore the role of diet and nutrition in the development and prevention of cancer. Much of this research is in early stages of investigation. Until these studies are complete, the National Cancer Institute has suggested guidelines for good nutritional practice. These include:

- * Excessive body weight should be avoided by maintaining a balance between caloric intake and proper exercise.
- * Avoid high fat intake.
- * Use alcoholic beverages in moderation.
- * Include fresh fruits, vegetables and whole grain products in the diet to provide fiber, minerals, vitamins and other nutrients.

Q. I am fifty years old. I have been doing breast self-examination for many years and I see my doctor regularly.

Have you ever heard of the Jefferson's Manual? It was a compilation of rules of parliamentary procedure by Thomas Jefferson for his own use while presiding over the Senate as Vice President 1801-1809. These rules were later adopted as basic rules by both houses of Congress. The Daughters of the American Revolution encourage you to study the U.S. Constitution, the rules under which our Nation is run.

Have you been to our Nation's capital and looked at the great figure on top of the Capitol dome? It is the Statue of Freedom. This famous statue is sculptured in the form of a woman dressed in a flowing robe. The man who sculptured and designed her was an American, named Thomas Crawford. The Daughters of the American Revolution, in sponsoring February as American History Month stress the motto from the Great Seal of the United States and at the base of this freedom statue, "E Pluribus Unum" which means "Out of Many, One." We are all Americans—born or naturalized.

Francis Hopkinson, (1737-1791) one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, proclaimed himself to be America's first native composer. The manuscript of his song, "My Days Have Been So Wonderful Free" dated 1759, establishes his right to the title. Until manuscripts of other composers dated prior to that time are uncovered, he will probably retain the honor. Citizens interested in music are urged by the Daughters of the American Revolution to research this famous signer's life.

General Rochambeau, of France, contributed much to America's winning independence from England. In 1900 Americans realized not a single statue had been created in his honor. Under President Theodore Roosevelt, a statue of Rochambeau was dedicated in Lafayette Park, Washington, D.C. It is a companion statue to the one of Lafayette already there. The Daughters of the American Revolution encourage you to visit these two statues in Washington, District of Columbia.

It takes about 120 gallons of water to produce an egg, says National Wildlife magazine.

DAR Encourages Citizens To Know American's Creed

The Daughters of the American Revolution encourage citizens of the United States of America to know and believe the American's Creed by William Tyler Page. "I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people, whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic, a sovereign Nation of many sovereign States; a perfect Union one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to support its Constitution, to obey its laws, to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies."

IN LEXINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Herald went to Lexington Thursday where Mr. Herald was to have a medical checkup, having undergone surgery several weeks ago. He has been quite ill.

The Daughters of the American Revolution, in sponsoring February as American History Month, are proud and grateful for the men who wintered at Valley Forge. Pennsylvania with George Washington. Although there were no battles at Valley Forge, these Continental soldiers fought to survive through the winter and spring months from December 19, 1777 to June 19, 1778 when they marched out of Pennsylvania to Monmouth, New Jersey to fight the Battle of Monmouth.

The Prestonsburg Kiwanianes held their regular luncheon-meeting at May Lodge last Thursday, with the president, Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, presiding. The tables were decorated with small baskets of jonquils and greenery. The devotionals were given by Mrs. Lucy Regan, who stressed the meaning and importance of Easter. In keeping with the observance of Founders' Day, the President, Mrs. Fairchild, gave a brief history of this organization. She said that the Prestonsburg Kiwanianes, an auxiliary of the Kiwanis club here, was organized at the Brown Hotel, March 23, 1950 and that charter members were Ola Anderson, Narcie Burchett, Marie Burns, Nancy Camicia, Judy Clark, Vertner Clark, Mildred (Turp) Combs, Maisie Crace, Margaret Crawford, Jean Francis, Betty Fieler, Marjorie Francis, Kathryn Frazier, Sarah Goble, Sally Goebel, Edna Carol Greenwade, Geneva Harmon, Gladys Hughes, Alta Leslie, Jessie Lee Mahan, Ruth Moore, Florence Music, Lucy Regan, Frances Rose, Una Smith, Flora Spotte, Stella Spurlock, Carman Strahan, and Gladys White, and that an honorary charter member was Mrs. Virginia D. Arnold.
Mrs. Carolyn Ford, program chairman, presented Miss Elizabeth Frazier, who, with a group of her 5th and 6th grade music pupils, here, rendered several songs, including, "Fifty-Nifty U.S.A.," "Mr. Meter Man," and "Just for Grins." Refreshments were served to Miss Frazier and these pupils.
It was announced that the heart clinic, which the Kiwanianes help sponsor, will be held at the Floyd County Health Department, April 24. Volunteering to work in this program were Mesdames Orpha Meece, Myrtle Allen, Dorothy Osborne and Lucy Regan.

Care in Home Could Prevent Gunshot Wounds in Children

Physicians who take care of children should routinely ask parents whether there are any guns in the home and should teach parents to "child-proof" the home against guns just as they do against poisons.
That is one conclusion of a recent study of emergency room files at Kosair-Children's Hospital in Louisville, in which Dr. Kenneth Shickler and Mary P. Jones, a social worker, reviewed the records of 22 children and adolescents brought in over a 2½-year period with gunshot injuries.
Even more important than teaching them to handle guns safely, parents should remove firearms from where children and adolescents can gain access to them, the researchers recommend.
Because the number of guns in U.S. homes has increased dramatically in recent years, accidental shooting of children is a serious problem, Shickler and Jones report, with children aged 11-16 the most likely victims.
There may be as many as 220 million firearms in American homes, according to a 1979 estimate, and firearms are now the fifth-ranking cause of accidental death in children.
In the Kosair-Children's Hospital study, 17 of the 22 shootings were reported to be accidents, of which 10 occurred in the home, two while hunting, one in a car, one at a friend's home and one in the street.
The accidents were caused by a family member in five cases, the child in five cases, two by non-family members and four by friends. Handguns were involved in 16 of the cases, long guns in six. Death resulted in two cases, involving children aged one and three.

The report was published in the Feb., 1984 issue of the Journal of the Kentucky Medical Association.

Clarification

A reference in a story last week to "Prestonsburg auto parts dealer C.J. McNally" should not be taken to imply any connection between McNally and Prestonsburg Auto Parts, Inc., a spokesman for that firm wants The Times to make clear. McNally is manager of East Kentucky Auto Parts.

Completing Program at Emory University

Seven weeks from now, Dena Patton, a critical nurse at Highlands Regional Medical Center will come home as an Enterostomal Therapist.

Through the efforts of several community and church organizations, Mrs. Patton is attending a program at Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia on Enterostomal Therapy. This is a new area in the nursing field, specializing in the care of patients with all types of openings into the skin termed "ostomies" such as a colostomy. This intensive program prepares graduate nurses with the knowledge and skills to assist in the rehabilitation of patients with ostomies.

After graduation and completion of an exam, Mrs. Patton will be a board certified enterostomal therapist. At Highlands Regional, she will help patients come to terms with their ostomies and promote a positive attitude toward this condition. She will show patients what appliances are available and how to use them. Mrs. Patton will also further educate other nurses and health care members on ostomy care. Outpatient followup care is very important, according to Mrs. Patton, so she will endeavor to start an ostomy support group chapter in the Big Sandy.

Mrs. Patton has the motivation and empathy to work with ostomy patients. She underwent an ileostomy ten years ago which removed her colon. "I feel that helping patients as an enterostomal therapist is the only way to make my ileostomy something positive for others and satisfying for me," she said.

Plans to fund Mrs. Patton's training got underway a year ago. The American Cancer Society donated $1,000 toward the tuition expenses. The Ephraim McDowell Cancer Society, Highlands Regional Medical Center Board of Trustees, the P.E.O. organization, and many area churches have contributed to make this schooling a reality.

Mrs. Patton is a Prestonsburg native who is married to Randy Patton. She is a graduate of the Prestonsburg Community College Registered Nursing Program.

Drop in Deaths In '83 Said Due To Crackdown

Kentucky State Police attribute the dramatic reduction in the number of traffic fatalities in this area last year from the 1982 death toll to stricter enforcement of the drunk driving law.

The number killed dropped last year to 46 in the four-county area (Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin and Pike counties). The death toll the preceding year was 70.

"Pikeville Post No. 9 had the largest reduction of fatal accidents of any Post in the state," Phillip A. Tucker, public information officer for the Post, reported. This, he added, was a direct result of more strict enforcement of the law against drunk driving.

Troopers of Post 9 last year issued more citations, more courtesy notices, opened more criminal cases, investigated more traffic accidents and arrested more drunk drivers than any other Post in Kentucky, he said.

But the first two months of 1984 have produced a fatality record that is not so encouraging. Eight persons lost their lives in traffic accidents in the four-county area during January and February, as compared with six in 1983.

Four of this year's fatalities were recorded last month when 96 others were injured. Statewide, highway fatalities at the end of the first two months of the current year stood at 85, one more than in the same period a year earlier.

During February, the State Police report said, Post 9 troopers issued 1825 traffic citations, arrested 156 DUI's, made 157 criminal arrests and conducted 251 criminal investigations.

SPLASH. (PG-Touchstone Films.) Starring Daryl Hannah, Tom Hanks, John Candy, Eugene Levy. ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

"Splash" should be a smash, not because it is a great movie, but because it is the type of movie that used to be so popular: a love story. In fact, it's a love story with a happy ending, and without a lot of the usual on-screen heavy breathing.

"Splash" is also a fantasy, and one that will appeal to people of all ages. It's a fairy tale with a real tale (and a tail). A likeable guy (Tom Hanks) is in love with a beautiful girl (Daryl Hannah) who appears to have a few quirks — such as walking naked at the Statue of Liberty and eating a lobster complete with shell. The "catch" here is that the girl is a mermaid and the guy is a chicken of the sea.

"Splash" appears to be aimed primarily at adults, yet with a "PG" rating you can take the kids along and not have to struggle to stay awake. For the men in the audience, Daryl Hannah will make that task very easy. Mermaids have the head and body of a woman fully without clothes. So is Daryl Hannah throughout most of the movie.

In "Reckless," Miss Hannah gave us an indication of her talents, but in "Splash" she is a charmer who could soften the heart of Captain Bligh. As she roams about her new world (Manhattan), she gets into some comic gems of stumbling and embarrassment, much like an uninitiated Mork from Ork or — you'll pardon the expression — a fish out of water.

"SCTV" veterans John Candy and Eugene Levy are along for the ride, providing great comic vignettes of their own, especially Candy's unique method of playing racquetball. Director Ron Howard has been hanging around television and films for most of his life. Through osmosis alone he has gathered plenty of knowledge on film directing, and he adds some fine visual comedy to this enchanting, irresistible bit of fun.

After nine years, Roy Clark's Celebrity Golf Classic is becoming the Roy Clark Seniors PGA Tour Challenge. The week-long tourney will begin June 11 in Tulsa, marking that city's first-ever seniors tour event. Fifty-two of the nation's top seniors will compete for a $200,000 purse. The Star Night Concert, long associated with Clark's classic, is scheduled for June 14. All proceeds from the week will benefit the Children's Medical Center of Tulsa.

Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers Band joined Wayne Newton in concert at the Los Angeles Coliseum following the debut game of the USFL's L.A. Express. One dollar from each game ticket was donated to the U.S. Olympic team. The Gatlin Brothers also performed a benefit concert in Ft. Worth to aid the Edna Gladney Home for young women.

The Oak Ridge Boys' fifth video clip is "I Guess It Never Hurts to Hurt Sometimes."

The group teamed with noted rock-video producer Dominic Orlando, of the Hollywood-based Pendulum Productions, to oversee the project, which filmed on location at the Hermitage Hotel, the WSMV-TV studios, Love Circle and the Shelby Street Bridge in Nashville.

Orlando wrote, produced and directed the video, which features cameo appearances by Charlie Chase and Jimmy Carter of WSMV-TV.

The new video marks Orlando's debut in the country-music field. In the past, he has produced and directed clips for a variety of musical performers, including Kansas.

A letter from a Shelbyville, N.C., sailor, stationed off the coast of Lebanon, prompted a surprise delivery from state-side: mementos from Opryland and the Grand Ole Opry, photos of Dolly Parton and some samples of Goo Goo clusters, Nashville's favorite candy.

Shelbyville native Boyd Keele, who was stationed on board the USS Barnstable County, wrote to Opryland requesting videotapes of Opryland's musical shows. As a result of his inquiry, three packages were mailed to the crew. The gifts included Opryland bandanas; several Grand Ole Opry posters; a "Grand Ole Opry Picture-History Book" that was autographed by numerous Opry members; Opryland show tapes from TNN Duplicating Services and a case of Goo Goo candy clusters.

PHS Is Winner In Weight Meet

The host Prestonsburg Blackcats were winners last Wednesday in a weightlifting meet that also included athletes from Pikeville and Breathitt County high schools.

The competition featured eight different weight divisions in the bench press and dead lift exercises and each team provided about two lifters in each class. Three points were awarded for first place, two points for second, and one point for third.

Prestonsburg came out on top with six firsts, eight seconds and six thirds with a total of 40 points. Breathitt County was second with 32 points, and Pikeville High collected third place with 26 points.

Individual honors for the Blackcats were as follows: bench press (130-145-lbs.)—Todd Miller, third; 146-155-lbs., Jim Murphy, second; 156-165-lbs., James Little, first; 166-175-lbs., Chris Hooker, first, and Irvin Spears, second; 176-185-lbs., Keith Slone, third; 186-195-lbs., Sean Dotson, second; 196-205-lbs., Donnie Ray, second, Derrick Calhoun, third; 205-lbs.-up, Bill Moore, third.

Dead lift (130-145-lbs.)—Mark Bays, second place; 156-165-lbs., James Little, first, Chris Snodgrass, second; 166-175-lbs., Pete Greene, second; 176-185-lbs., Keith Slone, second; 186-195-lbs., Sean Dotson, second, Derek Calhoun, third; 196-205-lbs., Donnie Ray, first; 205-lbs., Mike Veger, first, A. O. Onkst, third.

April Fishing Tourney Set

More than $500 in cash and other prizes will be awarded to winning fishermen in the first annual Jenny Village fishing tournament at Dewey Lake, April 28 and 29, it was announced this week.

The two-day event will be for both crappie and bass fishermen. Both live and artificial bait may be used. In the bass division $225 will be awarded for the largest stringer of fish, $100 for second place and a Coleman stove for third place. For the largest single bass the prize will be $50.

Crappie prizes will be $75, first place; $40, second, and a $10 gasoline certificate, third.

Entry fee is $7 per entrant, and registration for the tourney will be at Jenny Village only. Each participant must check in at the same place by 7 a.m. Saturday, April 28. Weigh-in time will be from 5 to 6 p.m. on Saturday and from 4 to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Tournament officials are Paul Hunt Thompson, Donald Collins, Wayne May and Jeff Buchanan.

Ranier Team Third at Atlanta

Cale Yarborough makes a 15-second pit stop for tires and gas in the 25th annual Coca-Cola 500 Race held March 18 at Atlanta, Ga. The orange and white Chevrolet is owned by former Floyd county resident Harry H. Ranier and is sponsored by Hardees, Inc.

Yarborough started third but quickly moved into first, ahead of last year's N.A.S.C.A.R. points champ Buddy Baker (No. 22). The Ranier No. 28 Chevy looked like a sure winner until a minor mishap in the pits changed the outcome.

On entering pit row, Yarborough was struck by another car leaving the pit area, and the collision changed the delicate chassis and suspension set-up causing problems with holding the vehicle low on the high, banked walls of the 1.5 mile track.

After 500 miles the checkered flag went to Benny Parsons' Chevrolet, with Dale Earnhardt's Chevy second, and Yarborough third.

The Ranier-Yarborough-Hardee's combo, with Waddell Wilson as engine builder and crew chief, has proven the most successful team of 1984 on the NASCAR circuit with total earnings of more than $170,000 in three of four NASCAR races to date. Second top money winner after four races is Owensboro native Darrell Waltrip, with $115,000.

(On the local scene, most dirt tracks plan an April opening although no exact dates have yet been announced. Area shops and garages, however, are busy at work on cars, adding final touches, and much talk of what so-and-so will be "runnin'" up the road around.)

W'wright High School Wins in Chess Meet

In a chess tournament played at Pulaski, Va., on the weekend of March 17-18, a team of players from Wheelwright High School won these three trophies:

Senior High Section, top unrated player, Bill Slone; Junior High Section, top unrated player, Brent Slone; Senior High Section, fifth place team—Bill Slone, James Price, Charles Price, Stanley Tackett, and Shayne Mullins.

A tournament director stated that the tournament directors as a whole were "shocked" that a team of unrated players won a team trophy at this tournament, since the competition included "some of the top high school teams in the country."

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Lulu Hackworth wishes to thank all those who were so kind and considerate during the loss of our loved one. We want to thank Highlands Regional Hospital 4th floor nurses, Mountain Manor Nursing Home staff and nurses for their care and kindness and Dr. Adams. We also wish to thank all our friends and neighbors who sent food and helped prepare the grave and for all the beautiful flowers that were sent. We especially would like to thank the United Baptist Church ministers for their comforting words, and Carter Funeral Home for their kind and efficient services.

THE HACKWORTH FAMILY

Observe 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Boyd, of Banner, observed their 50th wedding anniversary, Saturday, March 17, when they were surprised by their three children and their families, who treated them to dinner at Jerry's. Enjoying the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Boyd, French and Elizabeth Boyd, Fred and Lori Grobble, all of Centerline, Mich.; Arbie, Al, and Rick Faber, of Warren, Mich.; Carol Shovan and son, Jamie, of East Detroit, Mich.; S/Sgt. Dave Faber, Faith, Amanda, and Christopher Faber, of Peru, Indiana.

Later, they enjoyed cake and other refreshments at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd where they were joined by Mrs. Gracie Payne, Edith Akers, Ruby Garrett, Gene and Avila Mullins, Hazel Hamilton, and Dessie Hall.

Study Report Says 58% of Coal Produced by 2% of Companies

A study released by the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition shows that the actual production of coal is much more concentrated in the control of large companies than previous statistics have indicated.

Only 30, or 2%, of the more than 1,400 companies which produced coal in 1982 accounted for 58 percent of the production, or 87,626,876 tons, according to the KFTC study.

This contrasts with the 69,669,282 tons produced by the top 30 companies according to figures from the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals.

The figures differ because the KFTC study lists production according to parent companies, many of which own several mining companies. State figures generally list production for each individual company, not reflecting the ownership of that company.

For example, the KFTC listing of the top 50 coal producers does not individually list Falcon Coal Company (5,038,799 tons), Brown Badgett, Inc. (1,540,614 tons), Sugar Creek Mining (853,587 tons) or Hawkeye Services (500,804 tons). These companies are all subsidiaries of Diamond Shamrock, a Dallas, Texas corporation. Diamond Shamrock's total production of 7,973,804 tons puts them second on KFTC's list, behind Peabody Coal Company which easily outpaced all others with 14,833,049 tons in 1982.

Another corporation which did not appear on the Mines and Minerals list is the Fluor Corporation, based in Irvine, California. Through their 15 subsidiary companies, Fluor mined 6,180,850 tons of Kentucky coal in 1982, with Martin County Coal and Wolf Creek Collieries being their top producing subsidiaries.

In addition to Peabody Coal (first), Diamond Shamrock (second), and Fluor (fifth), other companies in the KFTC list of the top 10 producers include MAPCO, Standard Oil of Indiana, Sun Company, Kaneb Services, Occidental Petroleum, Pyro Energy, and Bow Valley Industries. These top ten producers, none of which are based in Kentucky, accounted

HRMC Receives March of Dimes Grant

Debra Massengale, Executive Director, Goldenrod Chapter of the March of Dimes, presents a grant check to Barbara Clark, Highlands Regional Medical Center Obstetrics Supervisor. Local March of Dimes supporters, Mary Fraim and Margaret Hazelette, were on hand for the presentation.

The Highlands Regional Medical Center Obstetrics Department has been awarded a $1500 grant from the March of Dimes. This grant money will be matched by the Highlands Regional Auxiliary for the purchase of a radiant warmer, a unit which fits over the top of a hospital bed to provide warmth for the new mother and baby soon after birth.

Debra Massengale, Executive Director of the Goldenrod (Northeastern Kentucky) Chapter of the March of Dimes, who presented the check commented that she was glad people in Eastern Kentucky would benefit from the grant to Highlands Regional. "This is the first time an award has been made in this area, and we hope to do more," said Mrs. Massengale.

Two March of Dimes volunteers, Mary Fraim and Margaret Hazelette, both of Paintsville, informed the Highlands Regional Public Information Office about the grant opportunities. Mrs. Fraim, has been a March of Dimes volunteer for 30 years. As a surgical nurse she has cared for many children with handicaps and has seen valuable contributions of this organization. Mrs. Hazelette began volunteer work after her family benefitted from the March of Dimes. When her son was born prematurely, he was placed on a monitor for seven months that would alert them to signs of sudden infant death syndrome. The monitor was provided by the March of Dimes. Recently, Mrs. Hazelette was active in the reading champions fund drive in the Johnson County school system which raised over $3600 for the organization. March of Dimes grant money is made available due to the fund raising efforts of its chapter volunteers.

The March of Dimes was founded by President Roosevelt in 1938 to conquer polio. It is the only volunteer health organization to date that accomplished its initial goals. In 1960, the research emphasis shifted to the pressing problems of maternal-infant health care and the prevention of birth defects. The March of Dimes currently provides a wide range of information and programs on these subjects, most of which are free of charge. To take advantage of these services or for further information, call collect at 606-329-0703.

Pageant Winner

Kelly Lee Bates, seven-year-old daughter of Bud and Dora Bates, of Bevinville, was crowned Tiny Miss Spring Blossom, March 12, at the Betsy Layne Grade School. She also won the titles of Tiny Miss Sportswear, Miss Photogenic and Spring Blossom Hi Point. This honor goes to the girl scoring the highest points in the pageant.

In the first grade at W.D. Osborne grade school, she is the granddaughter of Dixie Bates, of Bevinville.

Membership Qualifications

The National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution cites these qualifications for membership:

Any man shall be eligible to membership in this Society who, being of the age of 18 years or over and a citizen of good repute in the community, is the lineal descendant of an ancestor who was at all times unflinching in loyalty to, and rendered active service in, the cause of American independence, either as an officer, soldier, seaman, marine, militiaman or minute man, in the armed forces of the Continental Congress, or of any one of the several Colonies or States; or as a recognized patriot who performed actual service by overt acts of resistance to the authority of Great Britain.

If you believe that you may be eligible for S.A.R. membership, write or call James B. Goble, Star Route 1, Box 20, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653, or phone 874-2325 or Henry Clay Russell, 118 Clinton Drive, Ashland, Ky. 41101.

An amendment to the Fair Labor Standards Act in 1949 directly prohibited child labor for the first time, according to "Important Events in American Labor History," a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

John C. Hall Founder Hall Funeral Home

IS THERE REALLY A PURPOSE FOR A FUNERAL?

Many social and personal customs undergo changes and are criticized as obsolete and void of purpose. Funeral customs and directors have not escaped these critics. However, these very criticisms have given strength to the tradition of funeral service, because it has caused the public to think seriously about the purpose of the funeral.

The funeral provides, of course, for the proper disposition of the body. It also provides a service of love and caring for the living, those who place value in life and pay respect to the dignity of man.

The funeral is generally a basic religious rite just as the baptism and the marriage ceremony. It provides a time for friends, neighbors and associates to express group support and compassion for the bereaved.

The funeral director is professionally trained to provide a compassionate and understanding service during the difficult emotional experience of death.

We are at your service, whenever needed.

February Idle Rate Drops

Kentucky's preliminary unemployment rate for February shows a drop of nine-tenths of one percent from January, when the largest monthly increase in 20 years was reported, according to figures released by the Cabinet for Human Resources.

The February rate was 10.6 percent, down from January's revised rate of 11.5 percent. Nationally, the rate dropped from 8.8 percent in January to 8.4 percent in February.

"Part of Kentucky's unemployment rate decrease can be attributed to employment gains," said state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell. "But there was a significant drop in unemployment and in the size of the state's labor force, which combined to have the greatest effect on the decline."

There were 181,000 Kentuckians unemployed in February, compared to 198,400 in January and 244,000 in February 1983, when the unemployment rate was 14.5 percent, Blackwell said. Meanwhile, total employment grew from 1,525,000 in January to 1,527,300 in February and was 85,300 higher than the 1,442,000 who were working in February 1983. The state's civilian labor force estimate decreased 15,000, from 1,723,400 in January to 1,708,400 in February, but included 22,400 more people than last February's 1,686,000.

"We showed employment gains in agriculture; manufacturing; state and local education; transportation, communications and public utilities; and the broad category of 'all other non-agricultural employment,' which includes people who are self-employed, unpaid family workers, and domestic workers in private households," Blackwell said.

He attributed the shrinking labor force to the number of people who have exhausted their unemployment insurance benefits and other workers who have become discouraged in their job-seeking efforts and given up looking for work. "The February estimate is the same as last October's. It dropped for two months, then shot up dramatically in January, largely because of seasonal factors," he said. The civilian labor force includes all non-military persons who are employed and unemployed people who are actively looking for work.

Wanted: A Good Education

By Alice McDonald
Supt. of Public Instruction

What do we want for our children? We want first of all for them to be healthy. We want them to be housed, clothed, and fed, if not well, at least well enough.

Then we want them to be educated. In this, I believe most Americans feel that "well enough" is not good enough. They feel that the high school diploma of the 1980's is not worth as much, and does not represent as much learning, as the diploma of the 1950's or of the 1930's. They fear that their children will not be equipped and trained to earn a living and to maintain themselves in a decent quality of life. They fear that their sons and daughters will lack the resources they need to compete in a highly technical American society of tomorrow.

This represents a fundamental change in public attitudes and it is a change born in brutal personal experience. Since people from the eastern seaboard poured through the Cumberland Gap and down the Ohio River into the land called Kentucky, they have felt that self-reliance, hard work and an independent spirit were enough to provide a living and even a fortune for a growing family. Until fairly recently, that was true. A family could get along in the family business or on the family farm. Those who sought industrial work could expect to stay with their company and they could expect the company to generate steady and generous wage growth.

This is no longer true. In the past few years, technology has invaded every aspect of business, industry, agriculture and service. Technology means change and the undereducated could not adapt to that change.

The financial superstructure of the nation changed, too. Labor costs went up and businesses shifted factory jobs overseas. Interest rates and taxes went up and businesses cut back on management and administration. The cost of government went up more than revenues and federal responsibilities were shifted to the states.

Steady hard-working people who never expected to be laid off felt the bite of unemployment. They sought replacement jobs but the traditional kinds of jobs were no longer available and they did not have the skills to qualify for the technical jobs that were.

The nation, and Kentucky, learned the hard way that a little readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic were no longer enough for their children. They needed a good education.

It is no surprise that A Nation at Risk struck a responsive chord. The public's fears of inadequacy in the quality of their public schools found force and focus in the deeper fear of inadequate preparation for the future. In the past, thoughtful observers have lamented a lack of faith in Kentucky in the value of academic education. I sense that quietly and without any fanfare education has become the insurance that every parent can purchase for his children. Academic training has become the children's defense against unemployment.

Kentucky's educators and political leaders are in unusual agreement on the corrective measures that must be taken to improve our schools. They include more accountability at all levels, more emphasis on essential skills and less on "frills", a proper emphasis on academic achievement and excellence in scholastics. These measures would uplift the quality of the educational system in general and of the individual in particular.

The history of education in Kentucky is a history of missed opportunities. We cannot afford to let 1984 be the year we missed the chance to guarantee our children's future.

The Employment Act of 1946 committed the government to take all practicable measures to promote maximum employment, production and purchasing power, according to "Important Events in American Labor History," a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Electric Thermal Storage, ETS, is a unique whole-house heating system built around bricks.

Heating coils inside an ETS furnace heat the special bricks hot enough to heat your home all night. And all the next day.

Because ETS uses electricity at night, when the cost of electricity is less, ETS customers qualify for special rates. So you'll get lower electric rates for heating. And for all other electricity you use at night. What's more, the same lower rates apply all weekend.

ETS heats your water, too. And individual room heaters are available, which let you comfort control any room.

By HAROLD COOLEY

If afflicted with rheumatoid arthritis, one can become severely ill with fever, swelling of the joints and intense pain. It is no wonder, then, that many patients seek relief in regular cortisone therapy. Once embarked on this therapy, however, it may have to be continued for life. It is for this reason that the initial dose is kept very small. The dose needed for partial relief will increase with time. That is, as tolerance develops. In arthritis conditions, cortisone acts directly to suppress the inflammatory process in the joints. It reduces the swelling and stops the deposits of materials that surround an inflamed area. It also reduces the increased blood flow and stops the migration of white blood cells to the area.

Whether your physician prescribes an antacid or any other type of medication for you or a member of your family have him call it into COOLEY APOTHECARY. We meet the highest level of professionalism in our business and would be honored to become your pharmacy. We are located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Master Charge and Visa. Open: Mon.-Fri., 9-5:30, Sat., 9-4.

HANDY HINT: When taking cortisone, the body is less able to protect itself against other infection.

PUBLIC NOTICE

On January 30, 1984, B & H Gas Company notified the commission that it will not have sufficient gas to supply its customers during January, February and March 1984, and requested approval to make emergency purchases from Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company ("Kentucky West") for a period of 91 days, and to recover the additional cost of the emergency purchases by applying a surcharge to customers' bills on a usage basis.

Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky 40602, within 30 days after notice of the proposed surcharge is given and shall set forth the grounds for the request and the interest of the party.

New Lake Closes Old Road

(From The Licking Valley Courier, West Liberty, Ky.)

During the past few weeks, water from the slowly-rising Paint Creek Lake has begun to creep over the Mine Fork Road in Northeastern Morgan County.

Though the Army Corps of Engineers has posted no barriers, the culverts near the mouth of Lost Creek have been removed and the road is effectively closed.

When the lake reaches summer pool stage of 700 feet above sea level, a 3-mile sector of the road will be under about 30 feet of water.

The road, which connects north-eastern Morgan County with north-western Magoffin County is the only route that existed for travel between the two counties in that area.

Persons who normally traveled the road back and forth between the two counties must now travel an additional 40 to 80 miles to do so.

Morgan County Judge Executive

Gene Allen contends that closure of the road adversely affects several families living in the immediate area who now have to travel many miles around to get to Salyersville or West Liberty.

In addition, the road had been much traveled by truckers from throughout the area as a shorter route to and from their jobs.

Efforts by Judge Allen and others to relocate the road have thus far fallen on deaf ears.

According to Conrad Ripley, a spokesman for the Corps' Huntington District, studies conducted in 1981 to determine the feasibility of relocating the road revealed that relocation would cost around $800,000. And no funds have been requested by the Corps for the purpose and none have been included by Congress in the Paint Creek lake budget for such a road.

Congressional action would be required to get the road relocated, Ripley said.

Judge Allen says the road is "too valuable a link to be closed," and is continuing efforts to get it relocated. Allen said he has consulted with Congressman Carl Perkins about the problem and feels that funds will eventually be made available for the relocation.

Allen has challenged a contract between the Corps and the County, signed in the mid-1970's which gave the Corps the right to close a number of roads to be affected by the lake.

Allen said it was understood by county officials at that time that the Mine Fork Road would be closed only two or three times a year during flood season when water would back up temporarily over the road in two or three places. It was believed that the road would be open to traffic throughout the most of the year, Allen said.

Ripley said he could understand how that might, indeed, have happened if the minimum pool stage was misinterpreted to mean the summer pool stage. The minimum pool stage is 650 feet above sea level, while the summer pool stage, or permanent water quality control stage, is 709 feet above sea level.

It is possible that the County may have to bring suit against the Corps, Allen said. But he said he believes that an alternate route exists for relocating the road that would cost considerably less than the Corps' first estimate, and he said he believes the funds for the project can be obtained by Congressman Perkins.

Conservation News

Mr. and Mrs. H.E. Hale have a farm on Middle Creek that has a problem with stream bank erosion. Valuable top soil has been lost and a bridge foundation has been threatened. To help stop this erosion, they decided to seek assistance through the Floyd County Conservation District. The district furnished them with plans for structural measures and arranged for them to receive "Streamco" willow cuttings from the plant materials center in Quicksand. Both structural measures and plantings should stabilize the stream bank and return considerable money by saving the bridge.

The Hales will also have conservation plan with aerial photo of their farm and a soil map. The plan will set a timetable for conservation work that includes everything from kudzu control to pasture management. This plan will serve as a valuable management tool and help them meet their goals. Others who have soil and water problems are invited to call the local conservation district at 886-3128 for free assistance.

Wins Top Honors

Salysville photographer Douglas Lacy Mortimer walked away with top honors at the recent Artist and Photographers Winter Weekend, an annual event at Jenny Wiley State Park which draws artists and photographers from Kentucky, West Virginia, Ohio and Tennessee.

Each participant was allowed four prints and three of Mortimer's prints took top awards. He captured both first and second place in the portrait category and first place in the wedding category.

At the end of the show, judges vote for "Best of Show" and visitors to the exhibit are also allowed to vote their choice. Mortimer's first place portrait of his wife (pictured above) and first place wedding print of Lynn Howard Moyer (formerly of Prestonsburg) tied for Best of Show and the judges discovered that the public had also made the same choices. Since both prints were by the same photographer, the judges made the decision to award the Best of Show certificate to both prints. According to Robert Powell, of the Kentucky Heritage Society, sponsor of the event, "This was a first in the history of the society."

Mortimer and his wife, the former Sue Blanton, own "Mortimer's," a photographic studio in Salysville. Currently his work is on display at The Top of the Holiday Inn, Pikeville.
