

Stumbo, Hale Returned, Two Magistrates Ousted

With unofficial machine vote totals from all 48 Floyd precincts—but not absentee ballots—counted late Tuesday night, incumbent John M. Stumbo emerged as victor over Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen in the hotly-contested race for judge-executive, 9052 votes to 8292.

David A. Barber, 7691 votes, defeated Danny P. Caudill, 5595, and Cassie J. Allen, 2224, to succeed Arnold Turner, Jr. as county attorney.

Carla R. Boyd, 8302, easily outran Hershell Hamilton, 4008, in the race for county clerk. In the same race Sally Ann Osborne polled 2691, Ray Turner 2042. Incumbent Sheriff Henry C. Hale was returned with 6566 votes, over Paul Hunt Thompson, 5869, Roger Webb, 4198, Harold Joseph, Jr., 617, and Linzie Hale, 491.

Jailer Lawrence Hale was also returned, with 7502 votes, over Ernest G. Burchett, 4578, Avery "Jackie" Hamilton, 1946, and Sid Triplett, 1575.

Coroner Roger Nelson easily outpolled Jimmy Layne, 11,904 votes to 2319. For county surveyor, James Lafferty polled 5961, Damon Newsome 3527 and Paul D. Greene 2173.

In magistrate races, incumbents Gerald DeRossett (District 1) and Ed Caudill (District 3) were returned to office, while Kenneth Roberts (District 2) and Lowell Samons (District 4) were unseated. The tally:

District 1: Gerald DeRossett, 1426; E. "Shag" Branham, 1122; Bill Ray Collins, 851; Arvel "Mush" Nelson, 677; Bill Woods, Jr., 395; Irvin Shepherd, 278; Robert D. McAninch, 220; Roger Rowe, 181; Paul Slone, 160; Jerry A.

Marshall Arrested On Weapon Charge

Clyde Douglas Marshall, the former Minnie man who was last year acquitted by a Fayette Circuit Court jury of a charge that he had plotted the death of his wife, Glenda Sharon Pack Marshall, pleaded not guilty in U.S. District Court in Pikeville yesterday (Tuesday) to a charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon although a convicted felon.

Marshall, 33, was reportedly arrested by FBI agents in Lexington last week. He was convicted of armed robbery some years ago.

DeRossett, 153; Burlin Jay Bradford, 20. District 2: Jackie Edford Owens, 835; R. D. "Doc" Marshall, 771; Bob Hackworth, 515; Kenneth Roberts, 489; Bruce "Scrap" Scott, 298; James E. Slone, 185; Harry Gordon Allen, 144; Rondell Lawson, 132; Gorman "Kook" Shepherd, 56; Carl E. Duff, 45; Jerome Kinzer, 23.

District 3: Edward Caudill, 1770; Grover Samons, 1274; Charles Jeff Hall, 653; Owen Short, 471; Cecil Shelton, 185; Kenneth Johnson, 89; Wallace E. Tackett, 83; Bob Burnard Conley and Roger Henderson, each 31. On the Republican ticket, Curtis Hall polled 57, Nick Fairchild 24.

District 4: Ermal Tackett, 1732; Lowell Samons, 1291; Darvene Hamilton, 1030; Robert L. Tackett, 253.

In constables' races, the tally was: District 1: Morgan Joseph, 2060; Harry H. Shortridge, 1374; William Robinson, 1103. District 2: Roger Dale Conley, 721; Danny J. THE LINE of campaign workers and "leaflet distribution specialists" was almost as long as the column of frustrated voters who stood sweltering inside the Prestonburg Fire Department building at the Porter Precinct here, Tuesday. Some voters waited in line as long as two hours and others, less enthusiastic about the whole affair, simply left the polls without casting their vote. Separate city and county races and too few machines were blamed on the situation.

State Agencies Head Robinson Creditors

When creditors lined up last week to assert their claims against the estate of the late County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson, it soon became clear that only those near the head of the line stood a chance of seeing some of their bills paid. Among them are two state agencies and an insurance company, which together list claims totalling $462,000.

An attorney for one of the state agencies, moreover, appeared to raise anew questions about how Robinson came to leave the clerk's office in such financial disarray.

At a hearing for creditors conducted Thursday by Master Commissioner Marshall Davidson, those vying for a place at the head of the list were the state Transportation Cabinet, the Revenue Cabinet, and the Aetna Insurance Company. Behind them are a dozen other claimants, some of whom have already formally given up any hope of collecting.

Robinson's estate lists assets of uncertain value that include a building and property at Maytown, lots at Lancer and in Lawrence county and Florida, $68,000 in the bank, a disabled car, some jewelry and coins.

Aetna's interest is in recovering $75,000 the insurance firm paid the state as surety for the late clerk's performance in office. The state agencies' claims—$319,000 on the part of the Transportation Cabinet, $68,000 on the part of Revenue—are for motor vehicle registration fees and taxes not remitted to Frankfort between January, 1978 and Robinson's death in April, 1983.

It has not been alleged in the past that the clerk ever collected the monies he failed to remit to the state. In fact, it has generally been assumed that Robinson failed to collect certain fees in an effort to be "accommodating" to people.

But Charles D. Moore, deputy general counsel for the Transportation Cabinet, asserted last week that Robinson's debt resulted from his "failure to remit taxes collected." Pressed later as to whether the state had evidence that Robinson had actually collected some or all of the monies claimed by the state, Moore declined comment.

Davidson instructed the three principal claimants to submit memoranda outlining their arguments as to why they should be considered first. He also ruled that creditors not represented at the hearing be given 10 days to show why they should not be struck from the list of claimants. Floyd fiscal court, which claims $62,455 in fees it says Robinson never turned in to the county, was not represented at Thursday's hearing.

Others filing claims against the late clerk's estate include: the First Commonwealth Bank (for $41,000, of which $26,700 has been realized through sale of a house); Bank Josephine, $15,057; Dependable Data, $8336; Hill Engineering, $4728; Ray Howard Furniture, $4050; Burchett and Bottoms, accountants, $2647; MasterCard, $525; and A.B. Dick, $298.

Forum at McDowell Stresses Self-Help

The talk was both of new hopes and current deadlines when 77 persons turned out on a rainy night last week to ponder again the fate of the county schools. The occasion was a panel discussion sponsored Thursday by the Floyd County Education Forum in which a PTO president and two high school principals were joined by an official of the state Department of Education.

McDowell Principal Gary Frazier, whose school hosted the meeting, set its tone early. Even in ancient buildings and with inadequate funding, local initiative and community involvement can create a good school, he argued, citing McDowell as an example.

Wheelwright Principal Wilbur Jamerson and Maytown PTO President Forrest Hughes added their own accounts of teachers and parents working together to better the schools.

Robert Spillman, an associate superintendent for local services in the state Department of Education, called the local efforts "fantastic" but said a similar initiative needs to be in evidence at the level of the whole school district.

Spillman, who has been one of the Floyd school district's sharpest critics in Frankfort, referred to recent investigations here only in response to a question and, even then, without resorting to the "turning over rocks" imagery he has used in the past.

Nevertheless, he reminded the audience—which included Floyd Schools Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr.—that Floyd has only until June 30 to put its house in order or risk having the state take over the schools here as it did the county government in 1983.

Most of those who spoke Thursday seemed readier to use a carrot than a stick to goad Floyd school administrators into action: some spoke glowingly of the support they had received from the Board of Education; and, in any event, the emphasis was on self-help rather than handouts as the way to better schools.

McDowell Consolidated School, as the principal describes it, is one in which even the janitors take pride. Cleanliness, physical improvements and motivated students come, the principal said, from setting high standards and "not expecting the state or the school board to do everything for us."

As an illustration of community support, the money needed to pave the school grounds was raised in three hours, he said.

And parent involvement is equally important. Asked about an attendance record which, while still below state norms, is the best in the county, Frazier said, "There is no substitute for a parent who gets a kid out of bed and says, 'Go to school.'"

There was talk, too, of Governor Martha Layne Collins' plan to increase state

Lawson in Fall Down Precipice Drowns in Lake

The body of 29-year-old Mickey Lawson who fell into Dewey Lake Sunday morning was recovered about six hours later by a search party of the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad.

Lawson, a resident of Cliff, fell over a 35-foot declivity into the lake after he apparently stumbled in the 3 a.m. darkness. The tragedy occurred between Arrowhead Point and the riding stables on the west (highway) side of the lake.

State police said Lawson and two others had been at a houseboat on the opposite side of the impoundment and had returned to the highway side where their vehicle was parked when he fell. One of his companions, Randy Ousley, dove into the water in a rescue effort which was nullified by the darkness.

Jury Disagrees On Fate of Two Held in Robbery

After deliberating nearly six hours, a Floyd Circuit Court jury announced Thursday night that it could not agree on convicting two men in connection with the armed robbery last year of a Mountain Parkway grocery.

Jay Toddie Gibson, 18, of Salyersville, was charged with robbing Jenny's Place of about $500 last August 17 while wearing a "werewolf" mask. Also standing trial was Bobby Gene Cole, 23, of Prestonsburg, who was accused of driving the getaway car.

In the course of the two-day trial, however, defense attorneys made much of the fact that Ann Rowland—the clerk on duty when Gibson allegedly walked in, grabbed her by the arm and asked for the store's cash box—described the intruder as being about her own height of five feet, four inches. Gibson is about five feet, nine inches.

The defense also sought to discount evidence that, several days after the robbery, the clerk recognized Gibson's voice as that of the robber, saying that identification by voice is "too subjective" to be reliable, and charged that state police were careless in investigating the crime.

The person who should have been on trial for the robbery, argued C.K. Belhasen, Cole's attorney, is Robert Perkins, an alleged confederate who gave police information leading to Gibson's and Cole's arrest. Perkins is "a con man," Belhasen told the jury. "He is the

New Mortgage Money For Homes Available

In 25 central and eastern Kentucky counties—Floyd included—mortgage money will become available next Monday on terms designed to make home ownership possible even for families of modest means.

Thirty-nine lenders—the First Commonwealth Bank and the Bank Josephine are participating in this county—will make available a total of $16.5 million for 30-year, single-family mortgage loans at a fixed interest rate of 10 percent.

Families with an adjusted gross income of $40,000 or less will qualify for a loan under the program—called the Combined Counties of Kentucky—which is being financed by tax-exempt mortgage revenue bonds and coordinated by the Berea-based Mountain Association for Community Economic Development (MACED). A down-payment of only five percent will be required and a MACED subsidy will keep closing fees to a maximum of 2.75 percent.

Half the mortgage money will be set aside until August 1 for borrowers with incomes below 80 percent of the median family income in the county. In Floyd, 80 percent of the 1984 median family income is $15,680. The program will enable a family with an income as low as $12,200 to afford a $30,000 home, promoters say.

Mortgages can be made for new homes costing up to $87,840 or existing homes up to $68,280, with applications taken on a first come, first served basis. The loans can be used to finance only owner-occupied homes, and the borrower must move in within 60 days of purchase. It may be a conventional single-family home, a condominium, or a manufactured home.

A $40,000 house, for example, for which $2000 (5 percent) was put down and the remaining $38,000 financed, would be paid off over 30 years in monthly installments of $333.48. The closing

Blacks Invisible To Scholars And Overlooked By Reformers

By RON MARSTIN

Blacks in Appalachia, by William H. Turner and Edward J. Cabbell (eds.). University Press of Kentucky, 1985. $30 cloth; $13 paper.

The loss of Bill Worthington, the black-lung activist from Harlan county who died last month, was a reminder of how few blacks play public roles in eastern Kentucky. True, blacks make up a relatively small proportion of the population in these parts. Inherited patterns of discrimination, moreover, and the fact that blacks are frequently concentrated in particular towns or hollows—as in the Floyd communities of Wheelwright and Tram—tend to make them even less visible and audible than their numbers warrant.

But blacks were among Appalachia's earliest non-native settlers and this collection of essays—including 17 of an historical or sociological nature, three anecdotal pieces, and a demographic essay, billed as "the first comprehensive presentation of the black experience in Appalachia"—is a welcome step toward focussing attention on their role and significance.

Edited by William H. Turner, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Kentucky State University, and Edward J. Cabbell, director of the John Henry Memorial Foundation in West Virginia, Blacks in Appalachia is organized by topics, including the early history of blacks in the region, black communities, black-white relations, blacks in coalmining, and blacks and local politics.

Essays range in time from "Boyhood Days," a chapter from Booker T. Washington's 1901 autobiography, and "The Black Worker," which first appeared in Black Reconstruction in America, 1860-1880, by W.E.B. DuBois (1935), to several essays written for the present volume, with most dating from the 1970s.

What general theme unifies this volume, and it does so only in a fairly loose sense, is sketched by the editors in two opening essays. While Appalachian blacks number 1.3 million—one in 14 of the general population—and "many have played important roles in working with whites for improved conditions...for everyone," they have been largely overlooked by researchers and the media, by activists of all political stripes, and by federal programs, including those originating in the War on Poverty and in the Appalachian Regional Commission.

One response to the failure of the ARC to address the problems of black Appalachians, Cabbell notes, was the establishment of the Black Appalachian Commission in 1969 under the auspices of the Council of the Southern Mountains. It folded after six years, however, a victim of "external and internal problems and pressures."

Turner traces to the failure of an experiment in biracial education at Berea College in 1904 and of an attempt at biracial unionism by the UMWA in Alabama four years later the origins of black deprivation relative even to the chronic oppression of the white Appalachian population.

In an historical overview, two early essays—a 1916 piece by Carter G. Woodson and Booker T. Washington's celebration of individual self-help—are sandwiched between a 1979 essay by Theda Purdue, who documents the colonists' strategy of pitting Indians against black slaves, and a 1980 essay by James C. Klotter, who records the deflection of liberal reformist concerns away from black freedmen toward poor whites.

Although it did so at the cost of ruthlessly dissolving the traditional cultures of both black and white miners, the "rigid capitalist structure" of the company town made its own contribution to racial harmony, and laid the groundwork for the UMWA's egalitarian union policies, by dividing workers along class rather than racial lines. That is the thesis of a 1981 essay by David A. Corbin entitled, "Class over Caste: Interracial Solidarity in the Company Town."

"A Judicious Mixture"—the title of a 1973 essay by Kenneth R. Bailey, vice-president for administration at West Virginia Institute of Technology—refers to the coal companies' strategy of recruiting a mix of native white, black and immigrant miners and playing one group off against another in order to thwart attempts at unionization. For that reason the UMWA took pains to recruit black and white miners as members—though blacks were not necessarily acceptable as officers—and to insist on one wage scale.

Although it introduces a section on "black coal miners," the 1935 essay by W.E.B. DuBois included here—a Marxist analysis of the exploitation of black labor—is not focused particularly on the mining industry, but a 1944 essay by Herbert R. Northrup and Richard A. Straw's 1975 analysis of the Alabama coal strike of 1908 provide fascinating evidence of how racial divisions can be transcended in the interests of labor solidarity—and of how costly such solidarity can be when the union pushes too far ahead of the prejudices of the larger community.

Forestry Camp Aims To Enlighten Teens

More than half of Kentucky is forest, and the Kentucky timber industry generates millions of dollars in revenue annually. Many Kentuckians have no idea of the value of the industry or even of the timber on their own land.

The Kentucky Forestry Council, a group of people and agencies interested in forestry, annually sponsors week-long forestry camps for teen-agers entering their sophomore, junior or senior years in high school. Two camps are conducted—one for the western part of the state at the Youth Station at Land-Between-the-Lakes, and one for the eastern part of the state at the Feltner 4-H Camp near London. Two students per county are eligible to attend, and are usually funded by local Conservation Districts.

Youth who attend the camps are instructed in the basics of tree identification, forest management, forest measurements, fire management and wood utilization. There are special evening programs on forest ecology, aquaculture, wildlife management and forest recreation, as well as free time during each day for sports and recreation.

At the end of the week, students compete for prizes individually and as teams in academic and physical events. Camp instructors include professionals from the Kentucky Divisions of Conservation and Forestry, the private forest industry, the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Kentucky, the Kentucky Department of Education, and the U.S. Forest Service.

The 1985 camp fee is $55.00 and in many cases local Soil Conservation Districts help underwrite the cost. For information about how to apply to represent your county at the camp, contact Dr. Deborah B. Hill, Department of Forestry, U.K. College of Agriculture, Lexington, Ky. 40546-0073.

Election Day Thoughts

What the voters did for, or to, themselves at Tuesday's primary election was a step toward setting the tone of government not only for the counties of the state but also for the state as a whole.

This effect on state government stems from the fact that state officials, particularly those in the executive and legislative branches, look to the courthouses of the 120 counties for organizational support now and in the future and may listen more closely when the occupants of those courthouses speak.

Whatever the voting results, we can hope that the primary and the general election will provide officials who will fully realize that these offices which they so assiduously sought are no sinecures. It is no child's play, this task of theirs, to enact ordinances and vote expenditures on behalf of almost 50,000 people; to enforce the laws of county and state impartially; to study and meet special needs for roads, utilities and industries; to protect the environment and at the same time encourage job-producing industries to come and stay in this place that we voters call home.

Some of those chosen for office will, of course, have more to do of serious import to the common run of citizens than others. And there may be less money at hand for the job—a grim possibility which points to the urgent need for officials to put the brakes on escalating salaries, even to making cuts in pay to those who are called on to do less than in other years. Election campaigns are tough. For the winners the days that lie ahead could be tougher.

fee, which may be paid by the buyer or seller, would come to $1045, with perhaps $300 more to be paid for related services, including an appraisal, a credit check and title insurance. In addition, there is a monthly mortgage insurance premium of $30.08 in the first year, tapering off over the life of the loan.

Among neighboring counties, Johnson (Citizens National, First National), Pike (First National, Citizens), and Martin (Inez Deposit) are participating in the program, which is an expansion of the 1983-'84 Combined Counties of Kentucky Mortgage Revenue Bond Program. Thirty lenders in 15 counties participated in that first program, which made $30 million in loans to finance 760 homes.

Funds for the mortgage program come from sale of tax-exempt bonds. Because of the tax-exemption and certain other government protections, the bonds are attractive to investors even at a relatively low rate of interest. That makes possible a similarly low rate on the mortgages.

A couple of things prospective borrowers should note, the first in case they want to sell the house later on. If the homeowner wants to sell, the mortgage loan may be assumed by the buyer; but the buyer and the house must meet mortgage revenue bond qualifications applicable at that time. The house must be sold for a price within the house price limits, and the borrower's income must be within the income limits.

Buyers should be aware that a house may have qualified for mortgage revenue bond financing under the higher limit set for new construction but, if it is resold, it must qualify under the lower limit set for existing houses.

Another thing: with homeowner's insurance increasingly difficult to purchase in this area, especially in sections not served by fire departments, prospective loan applicants might wish to check with an insurance agent beforehand to ascertain that the house can be insured and determine what the annual premium will be.

guy who robbed Jenny's Place and I believe if I was the prosecutor I could convict him."

Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Albert A. Burchett assured the jury that Perkins would be prosecuted for his alleged role in the holdup. (Charged with criminal facilitation in the robbery, Perkins was picked up in Jackson, Michigan, and returned Thursday to the Floyd county jail).

Burchett drew laughs from the jury when—in an effort to demonstrate that Ann Rowland could identify Gibson, whom she had seen earlier, even when he returned to the store in disguise—he slipped a cardboard box over his head. But not all the jurors were convinced.

After retiring to deliberate around 4 p.m. Thursday, and taking time off later for dinner, the jurors told Circuit Judge Hollie Conley around 10 p.m. that they could not agree on a decision. The jurors were reportedly split, 7-5, in favor of convictions.

Correction

In a May 15 story on the dismissal of some district court cases, a transcribing error suggested that Prestonsburg Police Officer Mike Meade settled a case involving Carl Trent Hicks in the district judge's chambers. It was the defendant and his father, not Officer Meade, who had the charge reduced. The Times regrets the error.

Vocational Ed Cost Increases

Tuition and registration fees will go up on Aug. 1 for postsecondary students attending state-operated vocational schools, the Kentucky Department of Education announced.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald said the cost for full-time Kentucky students over 16 who are no longer attending high school would go from $10 a month to $16. The one-time-only registration fee will go from $10 to $20.

The vocational programs offered throughout the state by the department's Office of Vocational Education remain "one of the biggest educational bargains anywhere," McDonald said.

The increase represents the second step of a phased adjustment in tuition and fees for postsecondary vocational education programs that was adopted by the State Board of Education a year ago.

Wilburn Pratt, associate superintendent for vocational education, said the rate revision was "justified and badly needed." The increase barely keeps pace with inflation, he said.

For out-of-state students, full-time tuition will go from $50 a month to $60. The registration fee will go from $20 to $40.

Half-time Kentucky students will pay a tuition fee of $8 a month, an increase of $3. For half-time out-of-state students, tuition will be $30 a month, an increase of $5. Registration fees are the same as those for full-time students.

Short-term courses of 11 hours or less will cost 25 cents an hour for both Kentucky and out-of-state students. No charges are made for training in correctional facilities and for training of volunteers for unpaid occupations, such as volunteer firefighters.

Allen Central Students Attain High Rankings

In view of all the adverse publicity our Allen Central High School has endured in recent weeks, I think it is only fair to have the following newsworthy items about students from Allen Central reprinted in the TIMES.

This list was clipped from the Lexington-Herald in an article containing news of statewide competition among high schools. From the almost half-page article only Lexington schools outranked Allen Central in the number of accomplishments and the Lexington students were from a composite of different high schools, not just one school, which I believe says something more about the accomplishments of students at Allen Central as to their talent as well as their academic achievement.

The Lexington Herald clipping follows:

Drawing wins student top honors: Paul Rice, a junior from Allen Central High School in Floyd County, won first place in the pen-and-ink category of the Kentucky Art Education Association's Regional Art Exhibit at Morehead State University. Paul Combs, a senior, received honorable mention in the acrylic category.

Allen Central students receive merit awards: Students at Allen Central High School who received the National English Merit Award earlier this year were: Jeanie Hale, Ellen Crum, Sherry Dingus, Renee Rowe, Tony Griffith, Vickie Gibson, Wendy Wiley, Kim Allen, Steve Layne, Sherry Ward, Rhonda Mullins, Gwenetta Hoover, Rondell Martin, Lois Patrick, Tina Thomas, Rachel Conn, Brian Conn, Stacy Bentley, Lisa Watkins, Michelle Stevens, Chris Moore, Dan Moore, Robin Roope, Chuck Centers and Sean Terry.

Receiving the National Merit Award in business and accounting were Sandy Ferrell and Gwen Hoover.

Nominated for the National Merit Award in German II were: Peggy Sheperd, Amy Mayo, Vanessa Burke and Renee Rowe. For German I the National Merit Award nominees were: Stacy Bentley, Christy Clark, Carmel Davis and Mike McKinney.

Newspaper rated among nation's five best: The Allen Central High school newspaper, The Rolling Dixie Express, was rated in the top five school publications in the nation by the National Beta Club Journal.

Student serves as Miss Kentucky Coed: Jeanie Hale, an Allen Central senior is the current Miss Kentucky Coed. During competition, she received the Academic Achievement Award.

I for one am proud of these students and I feel that not only they but their teachers should have our appreciation and applause.

U.S. Court Affirms Doctor's Conviction

Last year's conviction of a Paintsville doctor on charges of Medicare and Medicaid fraud was upheld last week by a federal appeals court.

The U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals denied a request by Dr. Pankaj Anand Agrawal, known here as Dr. Anand, for a new trial.

Anand was convicted June 28 of six counts of Medicare fraud, three counts of Medicaid fraud, and two counts of mail fraud involving the filing of claims with federal agencies for treatments he never performed.

He was sentenced to a year and a day for each of the 11 counts, to be served concurrently, and fined $47,000. He had been free on bond pending his appeal.

Anand charged in the appeal that the prosecutor in the U.S. District Court trial in Pikeville was guilty of misconduct. But the three-judge appeals court ruled that, "while certain alleged instances of misconduct by the prosecutor who tried the case plainly taxed the patience of the trial judge, the judge sufficiently held the prosecutor in check to prevent a miscarriage of justice."

The Benefits of Tourism

May 19 through the 25th has been established by Congress, President Ronald Reagan, Governor Martha Layne Collins and every county judge in the Commonwealth of Kentucky as National Tourism Week. This was done to recognize the economic importance of tourism on our national and state economies.

Tourism is the third largest industry in the Commonwealth, providing employment to more than 43,000 Kentuckians. In 1983 the statewide tourism payroll topped 350 million dollars and over 177 million dollars in taxes were generated for the state. Because of the vital importance of tourism to Kentucky, the Kentucky Tourism Federation was formed to present a unified voice to the State Legislature, Congress, The Miriad of Governmental Agencies and to the general public. According to Horace Schrader, president of the Kentucky Tourism Federation, "it is the aim of the Federation to make Kentuckians aware of the importance of travel and tourism to each and every person."

The Federation is meeting the demands placed upon the tourism industry for better business practices, marketing and use of the many natural resources present in our state by utilizing the many different skills possessed by the membership. A membership directory listing all of the member organizations of the Kentucky Tourism Federation has just been published and is available by writing Kentucky Tourism Federation, 8 Arrowhead Drive, Louisville Kentucky, 40207.

Lest We Forget

I lost both legs and an arm in Vietnam, but many sacrificed far more than I in America's wars and other armed conflicts. Since our country's founding, a million and a quarter servicemen and women gave up life itself.

Memorial Day is their day—a day on which we're asked to remember the immense sacrifices that paid the price for our way of life. Such memories come naturally to those of us who served in times of war and armed conflict. Most of us saw others die in combat. We can't forget them.

But many Americans do forget. To help them remember our country's war dead, the nonprofit Disabled American Veterans urges you to devote prominent news and editorial coverage to Memorial Day this year.

The federal observance of Memorial Day falls on May 27 this year. Many municipalities and veterans' organizations, however, prefer to observe Memorial Day on the traditional May 30 date.

Mother of 2 Loses Low-Rent Housing

The mother of two small children will have to vacate her $36-a-month apartment at the Highland Heights housing project following a district court jury's finding that she has disturbed other tenants.

Officials of the Church Housing Association, which runs the housing complex in the Goble-Roberts Addition, contended that Teresa Daniels Smith was sometimes rowdy late into the night, had unauthorized persons stay in her apartment, and had unlawfully hooked on to a commercial television cable, cutting a neighbor off in the process.

A legal services attorney representing the defendant sought to show that housing authorities had provoked her into behavior which could be grounds for eviction. The infractions with which she was charged did not warrant evicting her, he said, noting that one of those whom she had allowed to stay in her apartment is her husband.

Before finding that Mrs. Smith had violated the terms of her lease and so was subject to eviction, the jury asked District Judge Harold Stumbo whether the defendant could simply be moved to another apartment in the same housing project. The judge said that was not an option.

Buchanan Ousted As Health Agency Chief

The board of directors of Big Sandy Health Care, Inc., the federally-subsidized agency that operates the Mud Creek Clinic at Grethel and another clinic in Salyersville, last week asked for the resignation of the agency's executive-director and fired a long-time comptroller.

The board voted Thursday to ask Ellis Buchanan, 46, to resign from the position he has held since November, 1982, when he was tapped to head an operation that was strained by internal tensions and budget restraints. He will reportedly leave the agency on June 15.

Fired outright was Lois Trusty, who has managed the agency's financial affairs for about 12 years.

Chairman of the board is Walt Turner, of Magoffin county. He could not be reached Tuesday for comment on the reasons for the agency shakeup.

Walking, Boon To Elderly

Walking is one of the best physical and mental activities for the elderly according to the Kentucky Podiatric Medical Association.

In addition to aiding circulation and stimulating the cardio-vascular system, walking enhances appetite, maintains muscle tone and reduces stress. A positive mental outlook can come from the exposure to the world that walking provides.

The Kentucky Podiatric Medical Association suggests that older people combine their daily walking with other activities, and choose different routes on different days to add variety and new attractions to the daily walking routine.

Participants should develop their individual walking program slowly. The body should tell a person when it's time to stop. If there is no pain or shortness or breath, the walker probably is not overdoing it. This, of course, presumes that there is no cardio-vascular insufficiency.

Proper walking shoes are important. Absorbent socks, made with acrylic fibers, and well-fitting shoes will provide walking comfort. Any existing foot problems should be treated before a serious walking program is started.

Appellate Court 'Forgives' Former Drift Man's Term

A former Drift man who received an 11-year sentence for robbery here seven years ago but never went to jail will not now have to serve his sentence, according to a recent ruling of the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

The strange case of Gary Lee Castle, 38, began with his conviction in 1978 on charges of robbing and shooting a gas station attendant. An appeals court overturned the assault but upheld the robbery conviction.

Castle, who was free on bond pending his appeal, was never ordered to begin serving his sentence, however, and he dropped quietly out of sight, making his home in Elliott county.

When the anomaly came to light four years later, Burnside attorney Lester H. Burns, Jr. asked that the robbery conviction be set aside on grounds that Castle was not competently represented during his trial and appeal and that he was now being subjected to cruel and unusual punishment. Floyd Circuit Judge Hollie Conley denied the request.

In a May 17 decision, the appeals court agreed that the conviction should stand but also held that the long delay in executing his sentence deprived Castle of due process. Since it has been so long since he was sentenced, he should not now be sent to jail, the court held.

According to evidence submitted in the latest appeal, court officials initially agreed to delay sending Castle to jail in order to allow him to continue psychiatric treatment he was receiving at a VA hospital. Conflicting evidence was given as to whether Castle agreed to turn himself in after he finished the treatment. In any event, he never did and court officials never went after him.

The case surfaced only when the Martin county coal firm for which Castle once worked reportedly began to wonder whether it should be paying workers' compensation to a man who was supposed to be in jail.

In ruling that he should not now have to serve his sentence, the appeals court noted that Castle appears to be fully rehabilitated, is a law-abiding citizen and a Scout leader. Moreover, although he "has not formally been punished for his crime, he has spent the past four years faced with an uncertainty as to when and if he would be called upon to begin serving his sentence," the court opinion said.

"Our decision... should not be interpreted as depreciating the seriousness of the offense for which (Castle) was convicted... (but) requiring him to serve his sentence at this time would not be in the public's interest," the court held.

State Farmers Help Nationwide Survey

Farmers across Kentucky will be asked to participate in a nationwide survey during late May and early June to help develop estimates of the 1985 crop acreages and mid-year livestock numbers for the Commonwealth.

Staff members from the Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service will interview a cross section of the Commonwealth's farmers. Other farmers will receive a questionnaire through the mail.

"The information this survey seeks will be very useful to farmers across the Commonwealth," said state Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell. "Our farmers need accurate, current information on livestock and acreage in order to make plans for their own operations. This survey can be very valuable in developing accurate estimates for all producers to use if those farmers participating will make every effort to respond."

The Kentucky crop and livestock survey results will be incorporated in reports of national and some state estimates published by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Crop Reporting Board. A report on 1985 crop acreages will be available on July 10. Estimates of hog and pig numbers will be released on June 21 and cattle numbers on July 22.

All individual information obtained in the survey is confidential and will be used only in developing national and state estimates.

More information on the survey can be obtained by contacting the Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, P.O. Box 1120, Louisville Kentucky 40201. The telephone number is (502) 582-5293.

Good Bugs For Bad Bugs

When insects invade a garden, many gardeners arm themselves rapidly for "battle with the bugs." On go the masks and gloves; out come the swatters, dusters and spray-guns. The summer-long war is on.

Yet such tactics usually produce what might be called pyrrhic victories: the pests are destroyed all right; but, in the process, "good" insects die with them—at the same time the insecticides drench the whole garden with poisons.

Left alone, nature can often handle the "bad bugs" pretty well, needing help only when a pest onslaught is severe.

Many predatory insects ("good bugs") and other small garden creatures, make up nature's "hit" squads against insect pests. Dozens of helpful insects eat other insects, day in and day out. You can, with care, aid nature by enlisting the help of these "good bugs" in your own yard. What are some of them and how do you get them on your side of the fence?

Mantids: Relatives of crickets and grasshoppers, mantids are not the pests their cousins are. They're often called "praying mantises" and their appetites for insects are voracious. To recruit them for a garden, you can buy mantid eggs. Or you can get them (in the winter) for free by collecting the eggs from a field. Look along the stems of shrubs and wildflowers for elongated or globular egg masses, the color of dirty styrofoam. Simply place the eggs in your back yard (never in your house) to hatch in the spring.

Ladybird beetles: These little yellow, orange or red, black and white beetles are familiar sights throughout most of North America. Both adults and larvae eat pests such as aphids and related soft-bodied insects. Wherever their favorite food is, "ladybugs" are apt to show up on their own. But beetles can also be bought and brought home to dine. Mail order seed catalogs often list these beetles along with their other offerings.

Wasps: Many people can't abide wasps (large or small or any color), but to any wasp-respecting gardeners not allergic to stings, wasps are valuable garden allies. Large common paper wasps—they go by the scientific name of Polistes—go for caterpillars in a big way and are actually one of the gentlest of large wasps. (Hornets, yellow jackets and other paper wasps are much fiercer, and most homeowners can't tolerate them at all.) Tiny, parasitic wasps (which can be purchased) lay their eggs on insect pests. Some wasps—like many bees, flies and butterflies—pollinate fruit and vegetable plants, assuring good crops.

Spiders: Although not insects (but arachnids), spiders too help control insect pests. When you see large, beautiful, well-constructed webs, don't destroy them. The spiders that spin these webs prey on moths, crickets and grasshoppers—feeding mostly (except for the Argiope group) at night. Spinners of tangled, poorly-constructed webs, on the other hand, are apt to be biters—which you can easily do without. Very small spiders are not necessarily good pest-fighters. Predatory insects are territorial. That is, like foxes and bobcats, they stake out their own spaces to rule. So don't overload your garden with one kind of insect-ally. Many will simply starve, leave the garden or eat each other up. Just-enough predators keep pests away—without spraying.

McCutcheon In Concert At the Appalshop

The many and varied sounds of old time mountain music: fiddles, banjos, hammer dulcimers and the like will be heard in Whitesburg, June 8, as John McCutcheon, one of America's foremost folk musicians presents a concert of Appalachian music. The man Johnny Cash called "the most impressive instrumentalist I've ever heard" and Bluegrass Unlimited christened "a young legend in the old time music cult" will be appearing at Appalshop at 8 p.m.

The young Wisconsin native has enjoyed an increasing reputation throughout the country as one of the leading interpreters of the music of the rural southeast, his home for the past decade. Many of the greats of old time mountain music have taken him under their wing and made him the repository of some of the finest music made in this country. Whether on fiddle, banjo, autoharp, guitar or Jew's harp, McCutcheon's energetic virtuosity is, as the Scottish press claimed, "...breathtaking!" And the witty, personal anecdotes with which he prefaces each selection paint a picture that gives sensitive and illuminating insight into the music and lives he presents.

But amid his veritable truckload of instruments, McCutcheon is probably best known for his role in popularizing the once nearly-extinct hammer dulcimer. Having collected music for this beautiful and captivating instrument throughout the United States and Britain, McCutcheon is widely recognized as one of the leading exponents of hammer dulcimer music, the French press calling his dulcimer album, "The Wind That Shakes the Barley," "...a quantum leap in dulcimer range and technique!"

Besides being an internationally acclaimed concert performer, John McCutcheon is a collector and annotator of folk music as well. He has produced and recorded over a dozen albums of traditional mountain musicians and exposed scores more through festival and concert appearances.

Whether on record or in concert, John McCutcheon communicates with a rare blend of wit, charm, and unusually high caliber musicianship. Be sure to be a part of a most enjoyable evening.

Also appearing with John McCutcheon will be Longbranch, Inc., a brother team from Letcher county, who plays a variety of music including folk, country, rock and blues. Charles and Robert Engle have been performing together for six years and play original as well as popular songs.

John McCutcheon will be performing at Appalshop in Whitesburg, June 8, at 8 p.m. For tickets or for reservations, call Jerri at (606) 633-0108.

Brandenburg Concertos On 'Great Performances'

Nikolaus Harnoncourt, one of the world's leading authorities on early music, leads the Concentus musicus of Vienna in Bach's Brandenburg Concertos II, IV, and V, Monday, June 10, at 8:00 p.m. (ET), 7:00 p.m. (CT), on "Great Performances" over KET.

The program completes "Great Performances' " tricentennial celebration of the birth of J.S. Bach begun last December with the two-part presentation of the Bach Christmas Oratorio, and continued in May with Brandenburg Concertos I, VI, and III.

Filmed in the lavish Baroque cloister library of Wiblingen bei Ulm in Germany, this telecast again demonstrates Harnoncourt's—and the Concentus musicus'—affinity for authentic musical instruments of the Baroque period. In 1962, Harnoncourt and the Concentus musicus gave the first performance of Bach's Brandenburg Concertos on original instruments in current times, creating a unique sound experience.

Gathered into a collection in 1721 for Christian Ludwig, Margrave of Brandenburg, from whom they derive their title, the Brandenburg Concertos are the most famous orchestral compositions of the Baroque period.

"Great Performances" is presented by the Great Performances Alliance.

MSU Slates Summer Writers Workshop

Morehead State University's 1985 Summer Writers Workshop will offer participants credit in either creative or technical writing, according to Dr. Eugene O. Young, associate professor of English.

The workshop, scheduled for MSU's first summer session, June 5-July 3, will feature South Carolina poet, Bennie Lee Sinclair, Texas scholar, Clinton Machann and his wife, editor Ginny Machann, as guest lecturers. Also on the guest faculty will be Danny Wright of IBM's technical writing division, and John Hickman, author of "For God, Country and the Hell of It."

The Machanns will provide information on writing, preparing and presenting articles for publication. Sinclair will discuss the creative process and Hickman will offer insights into publisher-writer relationships. Dr. Rose Orlich, MSU professor of English, will be in charge of the creative writing sessions. Young will head the technical writing section.

Another workshop highlight will be instruction in word processing with hands-on experience on Apple computers.

The workshop, which offers three hours of undergraduate or graduate credit, will meet from 1 to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Teachers and anyone interested in writing are encouraged to enroll in the workshop, Young said. It is also possible to enroll for only one week of the program and earn one hour of credit.

Registration for the first Summer Session will be conducted from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., June 5.

Additional information may be obtained from the Department of English, Foreign Languages and Philosophy, (606) 783-2185.

Travelers Find Rise In Gasoline Prices

Motorists making trips over the Memorial Day holiday have found that the price of gasoline has climbed more than five cents a gallon since Easter, to an average of $1.252, the Blue Grass Auto Club reported recently.

Despite the increase, fuel prices are about the same as Memorial Day a year ago.

Nationally, full-service prices average $1.294 for regular grade and $1.356 for unleaded gasoline, increases of 4.4 cents and 4.1 cents, respectively, since April 2, date of AAA's last survey.

Self-service prices rose 6.2 cents for regular, to an average of $1.142, and 6.6 cents for unleaded, to $1.218 a gallon.

The cost difference between full-service and self-service gasoline has been reduced to 14.5 cents, compared with the all-time high of 16.7 cents a gallon difference in April, an indicator that the fuel supply may be coming into balance with demand, AAA said.

Premium unleaded rose to $1.451 for full-service, up 4.0 cents, and to $1.320 for self-service, up 4.8 cents a gallon. The price of this grade of fuel is not included in the national average because of its relatively small share of the market.

Diesel fuel, at $1.268 a gallon, was up 1.9 cents, about one-third the rate of increase for regular and unleaded gasoline. However, diesel costs 3.4 cents a gallon more than it did a year ago.

AAA's Fuel Gauge survey, based on 6,000 service stations along major travel routes throughout the continental United States, showed that 30 percent of stations offer discounts averaging four cents a gallon for cash purchases of gasoline.

In its survey of 27 service stations throughout Central and Eastern Kentucky, the Blue Grass Auto Club found that motorists traveling this part of the state will also face increased fuel prices since the Easter holiday.

In this part of the state full service prices average $1.262 for regular and $1.323 for unleaded, increases of 5.7 and 14.0 cents respectively. Premium unleaded averages a 5.7 cent increase to 1.402 a gallon.

Self service prices rose 14.6 cents for regular to an average of 1.131, and 7.9 cents for unleaded to 1.2104. Premium unleaded rose 6.2 cents to an average of 1.305 a gallon.

Diesel fuel at local stations is up only 1.5 cents a gallon to an average of 1.306.

Only 11.1 percent of full and self-service stations will offer discounts for cash purchases. The average per gallon discount for cash purchases is 4 cents.

Also, the Blue Grass Auto Club says that only about 11 percent of the stations in this area will be open 24 hours a day, but about 96 percent will be open during the holiday weekend.

State Tax Refunds Expected by June 15

Over ninety percent of 1984 individual income tax refunds have been authorized, the Revenue Cabinet announced today. Refund processing has authorized 728,289 refunds totalling over $119 million compared to 720,169 last year totalling over $106 million. The average 1984 refund is now $164.

Under Kentucky statute, the Revenue Cabinet must meet a July 15 deadline to avoid paying interest to taxpayers expecting refunds. Last year all refunds were processed by July 1. "At this point, we are running two weeks ahead of schedule. So anyone who filed a timely return and who expects a refund should receive their check by June 15," said Secretary Gary Gillis.

An increase in 1984 individual returns with payments attached shows approximately $59 million paid (304,200) returns compared with some $53 million (289,700) at this time last year. The Revenue Cabinet expects to receive a total estimate of 1.3 million returns.

RELIEVING TMJ SYMPTOMS

TMJ syndrome is nothing new. It's just that a good deal more attention has been paid to this affliction in recent years, than in the past.

TMJ Syndrome symptoms include headaches, pain behind the eyes, dizziness, ear aches, chronic cramps and discomfort in neck and shoulders, and sinus-type pain.

Depending on which type of discomfort you need to treat, your dentist will recommend applications of moist heat or ice packs, electrical stimulation, exercise, or injection of local anesthetics into the joint. Also, biofeedback can help reduce the effects of TMJ-induced stress.

In addition, it would be wise to stick to a soft-food diet and limit your chewing until symptoms are relieved. Avoid yawning or opening the mouth wide, and don't yell or otherwise strain jaw muscles.

State Unemployed Lowest Since '81

Kentucky's preliminary unemployment rate dropped eight-tenths of a percent in April to 7.6 percent, the lowest rate since October 1981, when it was 7.0 percent, according to figures released today by the Cabinet for Human Resources. The revised March rate was 8.4 percent.

Nationally, the unemployment rate declined from 7.5 percent in March to 7.1 percent in April. The rates are not seasonally adjusted.

State labor market analyst Ed Blackwell said 11,400 more people were working in April than in March. "But 800 people dropped out of the labor force, presumably because they couldn't find jobs and became discouraged," he said. "This is only the third time since we started keeping employment records that the size of the labor force has declined between March and April."

An estimated 1,555,100 Kentuckians were working in April, compared to 1,543,700 in March and 1,542,000 in April 1984. Blackwell said the current employment figure is the highest since December 1984's 1,575,900.

"Most of the increase was in services, where 4,100 more people were working," he said. "And most of these were in hotels and in amusement services." There were 3,100 more people working in construction jobs and 1,000 in trade, Blackwell said. Manufacturing jobs declined by 300.

The number of jobless Kentuckians was estimated to be 128,500 in April, down 12,200 from March and 35,400 fewer than in April 1984, when the unemployment rate was 9.6 percent.

The civilian labor force estimate for April was 1,683,600, compared to 1,684,400 in March, and down 22,300 from the April 1984 report of 1,705,900. The civilian labor force includes non-military persons who are employed and unemployed people who are looking for work. It does not include people who are unemployed and not looking for a job.

Pork, Produce Push Food Prices Down

Lower prices for pork and seasonal declines in produce costs offset higher beef prices during May, as Kentucky Farm Bureau's marketbasket index fell by .9 of 1 percent.

The 40-item food grouping cost Kentucky shoppers an average $59.55, according to the May survey, down from the $60.08 level of a month ago.

Fruits and vegetables, one of six food groupings in the survey, showed the largest percentage change, falling by 8 percent. Fresh tomatoes accounted for much of that drop, coming off a record high $1.27 a pound in April down steeply to 70 cents in May. Peppers and cucumbers dropped by much smaller margins.

Pork cuts registered a 4.6 percent price decline, led by pork chops, ham and spare ribs.

Beef cost more on average for shoppers during May, even though two popular cuts, rib eye steaks and pot roast, posted declines. T-bone steaks jumped 56 cents to $4.05 a pound, and sirloin tip roast vaulted 22 cents to $2.81. Overall the beef component climbed 2.9 percent.

Grain-based foods were 1 percent higher, reflecting small increases in the price of flour and meal. Poultry and dairy products, the remaining two food groupings, were unchanged.

The May list of bargains included such diverse items as eggs, milk and American cheese, in addition to the cheaper beef and pork cuts.

Farm prices in recent weeks have been moving in patterns similar to the retail market, according to the Department of Agriculture. Cattle prices were higher on Kentucky sales floors, but most other farm products posted declines.

Falling commodity prices were recorded for hogs, wheat, soybeans and eggs. Corn was unchanged for the month, but 85 cents a bushel below its year-ago price. The overall U.S. farm price index dropped by 1.5 percent, to a level 9.6 percent below the same period in 1984.

Morehead had the lowest price average among the local marketbasket survey reports and Louisville checked in at the high spot. Overall volunteers working through Kentucky Farm Bureau Women canvassed retail food prices in 24 Kentucky communities.

Those local averages are Morehead, 53.13; Lexington, 54.40; London, 54.71; Scottsville, 56.10; Tompkinsville, 56.34; Glasgow, 56.63; Campbellsville, 56.68; Somerset, 56.89; Hopkinsville, 57.05; Greensburg, 57.71; Shelbyville, 57.84; Jackson, 58.01.

Richmond, 58.13; Salyersville, 58.48; Greenup, 59.14; Georgetown, 59.39; Dry Ridge, 59.46; Owensboro, 59.54; Elizabethtown, 59.96; Henderson, 60.36; Brandenburg, 60.53; Grayson, 60.56; Falmouth, 62.50; and Louisville, 63.43.

String Trimmers or Weed Eaters—Use and Misuse

How nice it would be if once you finished maneuvering your lawn mower your cutting chores were done. But there always seem to be ragged edges along fences and walks and around trees and mailposts that need some type of trimming.

Trimming tools have changed dramatically in recent years, progressing from hand shears to electric shears to today's popular line trimmers. More commonly called "weed eaters" (which is actually the registered trademark of Beard-Poulan), they evolved from a popcorn can and fishing line.

More than 10 years ago as George Ballas of Houston watched the revolving action of the cleaning brushes at an automatic car wash, the forerunner of the string trimmer was born. Ballas attached pieces of heavy-duty fishing line to an empty metal popcorn can which he bolted to a lawn edger. From there this convenient tool has undergone many revisions and models are now available for home and commercial use.

Powered either by electricity or by a gasoline engine, home-use models generally weigh from 9.5 to 12 pounds with a 41 to 48-inch shaft between the engine and the cutter head. Cutting is accomplished via rotating monofilament plastic line that whips off the top of grass and small weeds.

String trimmers will mow if the cutting head is kept parallel to the ground, trim walks and driveways if tilted approximately 30 degrees to the left (working from left to right keeps clippings away from the operator), or give sharp edges if held perpendicular (at a 90 degree angle) to the object to be trimmed.

Small, home-use models are designed to cut grass and small weeds, but not large weeds or brush. Large material can be cut with heavy-duty models with longer shafts and larger line size or metal or plastic blades. Some plastic blades will bend if they hit permanent obstacles yet will be firm enough to cut weeds.

Many trimming heads are built so that a tap on the ground will automatically extend an inch or less of line. Line must be kept at the recommended length. Only the tip of the line does the cutting, and if it's too long the line will wrap around weeds and grass, causing the engine to stall.

When using string trimmers, be sure that the cutting area is free of debris. Hold the trimmer firmly with both hands (shop for a model that feels comfortable) and cut so that trimmings are discharged away from you. Avoid awkward positions and raising the trimmer above knee level. On slopes stand above the cutting head.

When trimming in close areas, wear safety glasses or goggles. Always wear long pants, socks and shoes, and if the engine is loud, consider ear plugs.

If using a gasoline-powered trimmer, allow the engine to cool before refueling and avoid spilling fuel. Stop the engine before examining or advancing the line, and never start the engine if the cutting head is touching an object that might start turning.

Perhaps the biggest problem with string trimmers is the damage done to landscape plants. If you get too close to shrubs you can prune parts off, and if you get too close to young or thin barked trees, you can cut into the cambium layer (the layer of green tissue beneath the bark where the actively growing cells are located that make new wood and bark tissues) and severely damage or kill the trees. Put mulch around susceptible trees or your trimmer may shorten your tree's life.

String trimmers are very convenient to have, but proper use and safety precautions should be exercised. Be sure to buy and use a model large enough for the type of trimming you want to do.

Timely Tip: A recent study conducted at the University of Illinois comparing mowing bluegrass lawns with a conventional rotary mower vs. a mulching mower found no advantage to using the mulching mower.

Electricity Can Be Deadly Necessity

A frayed lamp cord. A hair dryer plugged into an electrical outlet near a bathtub. A CB antenna positioned near an electric power line. What do all of these have in common? All have been responsible for the electrocution deaths of Kentuckians in the past few years.

"Electricity is something we take for granted, because we're very dependent on it and use it every day," said Edsel Moore, manager of the Radiation and Product Safety Branch in the Department for Health Services. "It's a precious commodity, but if it's abused or violated, serious repercussions can result."

Kentucky has averaged more than 26 electrocution deaths per year over the last 10 years, Moore said, and that number could be reduced if people were more aware of the dangers of electricity. In an effort to make the public more aware of the importance of electrical safety, May has been declared Electric Safety Awareness Month by Gov. Martha Layne Collins.

Moore said his office is mainly concerned with promoting electric safety awareness in a non-work environment, where the majority of electrical shocks occur.

"One of the major problems we've had is electrocutions involving overhead transmission lines," he said. "When CB base stations first became popular, we had 21 deaths in one year directly related to CB antennas."

Another major problem is broken or frayed wires on lamps, heaters, radios and other appliances. By inspecting the cords for breaks or frayed ends, severe electrical shock or death could be prevented, Moore added.

In selected cases, Moore's office will investigate the circumstances surrounding the death and determine if there is a way to prevent the accident from happening again.

"People can't be experts in everything, so we investigate the incident to see if there is a practical way to regulate the instrument involved to prevent it from happening again," said Moore.

Since a high of 38 deaths in 1977, the number of deaths has decreased to a 10-year low of 21 for the past two years. Moore indicated several reasons for the decline in deaths, including a decline in the popularity of CB radios, more public awareness of the danger of electrical shock, better safety standards for electrical appliances and the installation of ground fault circuit interrupters (GFCI) which are being required by new state building codes. The GFCI are extremely sensitive to any change in the ground of an electrical circuit and automatically break the circuit if such a change is sensed.

According to Moore, the new building codes require GFCI be placed in bathroom circuits and all outside circuits. He suggested installing one in the kitchen for added safety. For people living in dwellings that don't have GFCI, Moore explained there are three options for people wishing to install one. The first is to have one placed in the master circuit breaker box. GFCI also can be placed in individual wall circuits complete with reset buttons. Plug-in GFCI also can be purchased for less than $50. These can be used on any circuit inside or outside the house.

Moore said that although the number of deaths from electrical shock doesn't compare with the number of deaths from auto accidents or heart disease, the bottom line is many of these deaths could have been prevented by being aware of the dangers of electricity.

"By being more observant around electricity and using a GFCI around the house, the danger can be greatly decreased," he said. "That's not much of a cost to save someone's life."

People wishing to make their home safer from the dangers of electrical shock may conduct a self-audit by using a form designed for that purpose. For more information on the self-audit, contact the Radiation and Product Safety Branch, Department for Health Services, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, Ky. 40621, call (502) 564-4537 or contact the local electric company.

IN LEXINGTON LAST WEEK

Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Collins, Sr. spent some time last week in Lexington. While there they also visited their daughter, Miss Pam Collins, in Versailles.

Happy Birthday, Amy And Becky

I said a prayer for your birthdays, and know God must have heard. I felt the answer in my heart, although He spoke no word! I didn't ask for worldly pleasures, I knew you girls wouldn't mind, I asked Him to send you treasures of a far more lasting kind, I asked that He'd be near you, at the start of each new day, to grant you health and happiness, and friends to share your way. I asked blessings for you, girls, in all things great and small, but it was for His loving care I prayed for most of all.

Your Granny,

WHY THE TREND TOWARD ARRANGING YOUR FUNERAL IN ADVANCE?

Nationally, and right here in our own area, people are making their funeral plans known. Our funeral home has a very large file of records prepared by families around here and the file grows larger every week.

We believe people are planning in advance for their funerals for these three reasons:

Peace of mind.

Knowing that the task is done is a blessing to many. Your family won't have to do it for you. You will be secure in the knowledge that all is under control.

Economy.

No extra, unwanted frills, if you so designate. Or, if you prefer, an elaborate, full-service funeral, with all the special touches you would like—at today's agreed-in-advance price.

Grief-relief.

Making funeral arrangements under the stress of bereavement, in the midst of emotional chaos, can be devastating to a widow. By pre-arranging a funeral, you relieve her of some of the grief.

For full details stop by or call us anytime. No obligation, of course.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

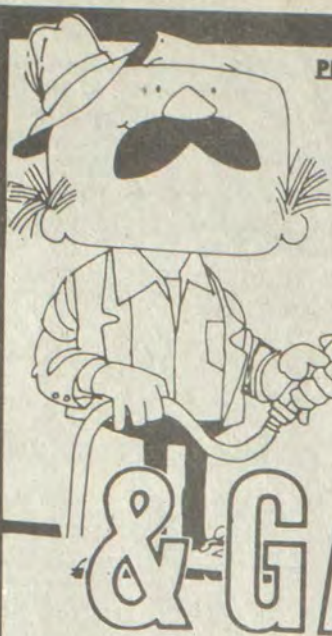

HIDDEN DANGER

Patients who take large doses of aspirin for their arthritis risk an overdose if they also take other non-prescription drugs that contain aspirin. Aspirin, a member of the salicylate drug family, is often prescribed in high doses to control the pain and inflammation of arthritis. The amount of these doses must be carefully monitored by a physician to avoid the toxicity which can occur if too much aspirin is taken. If you now take large amounts of aspirin, you probably already know the dangers of exceeding the prescribed dosage. However, you may not be aware that you should also be cautious when taking certain other non-prescription drugs, such as cold remedies, at the same time. Many contain aspirin or other salicylates.

Pharmacists must keep a record of all prescriptions filled and many keep a patient record system which often-times is helpful to the physician, pharmacist or patient when there is a need to check the records before ordering or filling new prescriptions. For complete patient profiles as well as everyday low prices on over the counter remedies and prescription medications rely on COOLEY APOTHECARY. We are located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg., 886-8106. Master Charge and Visa honored plus we welcome third party payments. Open: Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30, Sat. 9-4.

HANDY HINT:

The FDA's recent approval of ibuprofen made several prescription arthritis medications now available OTC.

Pillows Are Personal—
Choose And Clean Carefully

By FRANCES H. PITTS

A comfortable pillow is a treasured and very personal possession. But as they age, they lose their resiliency and become matted.

According to Frances H. Pitts, County Extension Agent for Home Economics, you can make them last as long as possible with proper care that includes occasional washing.

Pillows may be filled with foam rubber, polyester fiberfill, down or feathers, Pitts said. For regular care, re-fluff fiberfill, down and feather pillows every morning. The air trapped in the fill adds to sleeping comfort the next morning.

Generally, all pillows can be washed whether they are filled with foam, fiberfill, down or feathers, Pitts said. However, manufacturer's care instructions should be followed exactly. If machine washing is recommended, use the following procedure: Check pillow covers, making sure they are securely stitched. Sew any ripped seams or holes before washing. Partially fill the washer with warm water. Add detergent and agitate to dissolve the detergent.

Place two pillows opposite each other in the washer to balance the load. Then let the washer completely fill with water and push the pillows under the water to wet them thoroughly. Wash with gently agitation for four to eight minutes, but stop the washer several times to press air from the pillows. Do not wash down or feather pillows unless they can be dryer-dried.

All pillows can be dried in the dryer, but foam must be dried without heat. Dry foam pillows on the air dry cycle only. For others, use highest temperature setting and dry until pillows are fluffy and free of lumps.

Pitts said that down and feather pillows dry very slowly and must be thoroughly dried to prevent mildew. They may take up to two hours to dry completely.

Despite good care, pillows eventually will become matted. Selecting new pillows is probably one of the most personal purchases a person can make. Preferences vary—some people like a soft pillow while others prefer support. They come in three densities: soft, medium and firm. Some manufacturers offer guidelines to indicate that soft density pillows support people who like to sleep on their stomachs; the medium density, is for people who sleep on their backs; and the firm variety is best for people sleeping on their sides.

Before such certification is granted, both federal and state regulations require that qualified individuals desiring to instruct miners regarding health and safety aspects of their jobs will complete a course of study in Teaching Techniques. The course is specifically designed for prospective, qualified applicants for Mine Safety Instructor Certification. The organizational meeting will take place in room 146 of the Johnson Administration Building at Prestonsburg Community College at 6:30 p.m., Tuesday, June 11. The class is tentatively scheduled to meet two evenings per week for a total of 32 hours. Specific time and days of the week will be determined at the organizational meeting. There will be limited enrollment.

Instructor for the course is Jarrett Wood who holds MSHA certification as Instructor of Instructors. Mr. Wood has master degrees in both Adult Education and Mine Safety. In addition to his 20 years of practical mining experience, he is licensed as a Surface and Deep Mine Foreman.

Rural, Minority Prep Program Set at UL

Minority undergraduate students and those from rural areas of Kentucky will receive training at U of L this summer to prepare for medical or dental school admission tests.

The 25 students will attend math, chemistry, biology and physics classes on Belknap Campus from June 2 to July 3. They also will learn test-taking strategies. A practice test will give them an idea of what to expect in the admission exams.

The program is aimed at increasing the number of minority and rural students who apply to medical and dental schools, said program director Michael Byrne.

The Professional Education Preparation Program of the Council on Higher Education is funding the training for college juniors and seniors from rural areas. For the first time this year, special state funding earmarked for desegregation efforts will finance minority undergraduate training, Byrne said.

Coupled with the state's desegregation efforts in higher education is U of L's urban mission directive, said Byrne, adding that most of the minority participants attend U of L.

The training program began three years ago to encourage rural students to attend professional schools in hopes that they would return to rural areas where physicians and dentists are needed.

For more information, call Byrne at (502) 588-7159.

The term "honeymoon", it is said, originated with the ancient Germans who, after the wedding ceremony, drank a honey substance until the moon waned.

When Can We Get Outta Here?

The dogs and cats at the Eastern Kentucky Animal Shelter, like these two littermates, have been wormed, had their shots and a complete veterinary examination, and now, after going through all that, they want out! A kind owner or some children to romp with would be just perfect and at the shelter it's easy and relatively inexpensive to take home a healthy pet. The shelter, located on the Old Middle Creek Road, near here, is open from 1-9 p.m., weekdays, or for information on the pet adoption program you can call 886-3189.

Soil Erosion, A Serious Problem Now and Later

"In the next 35 years if the world population doubles as expected, we will have to produce as much food in the next three decades as has ever been produced," says Dr. Lloyd Murdock of the UK Extension Service. This means that there will be even more pressure on our land resources.

In Floyd county, topsoil has the most effect on productivity of the land and we are rapidly using it up. Out of a land base of 255,360 acres, Floyd county has only an estimated 2% of this total suited for sustained cropland use. Other land is either too steep or has already been filled in, paved over or converted to house sites. The scarce cropland that remains should be taken care of because future generations will need and appreciate it.

One of the things we can do as land users is to plan our use of the land carefully with an attitude of good stewardship. This would include everything from deciding the best possible use of the land to deciding what tillage practices to use. The guiding rule that the local conservation district uses is "Use the land according to its capabilities, and treat it according to its needs." This attitude would go a long way in protecting our soil for the future.

Some interesting research done by the extension service shows that yields on eroded soils were 12% lower overall than soils without excessive erosion. Comparison of these soils showed that eroded soils had 31% clay as oppose to 24% clay makeup in less eroded soils. Higher clay content caused water availability to plants to be lower. As a result crop yields were lower because of the lack of moisture. It was found that adding fertilizer would not close the gap between eroded and less eroded soils if both soils were treated the same. Even more sobering was research that found that once soil has a higher clay content it cannot be easily reversed. The use of manure and green manure crops did not appreciably close the yield gap once the erosion damage had been done. The lesson learned was that farmers need to protect the soil they have and not let excessive erosion damage happen even for one season. Good topsoil is a product of many years formation under close to ideal conditions. Even a lifetime is not sufficient time to form an inch of topsoil. We as land users need to protect what topsoil we have because some day our nation will need it.

If you would like more information about soil erosion and its control, please contact the local conservation district at 886-3128 Monday through Friday.

IN APPRECIATION

The family of Hie Conn wishes to express their appreciation, to everyone who offered a helping hand, during their time of grief. A special thanks to all those who brought the food, it was most helpful. Thanks to those for all the beautiful flowers, your thoughtfulness was most appreciated. A special thanks to the ministers of the Regular Baptist Church, for their comforting words. Thanks to friends for your comforting words and for your respect, as friends are most important. Sometimes it takes grief or trouble to make us realize just how much friends and loved ones are needed. Thanks to Hall Funeral Home for their efficient service.

Road Kills...

Carnage On Our Highways

Driving Kentucky's secondary roads and interstate highways, motorists can't help but notice the yellow signs with the silhouette of a bounding buck that read "DEER X-ING."

Even though there are thousands of these signs along roadways throughout Kentucky's 120 counties, the carnage on our highways continues. Each year thousands of deer, small mammals, upland game birds, furbearers and other wildlife are killed by motor vehicles.

Biologists aren't really certain what impact road kills have as a mortality factor on many of the species that fall prey to speeding automobiles. There just haven't been enough studies done. But the road kill numbers on some animals, white-tail deer for example, are important to biologists because they often reflect population trends.

For example, Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources Deer Specialist John Phillips, explained that "you can't compare road kill data between counties because of obvious differences in road networks, mileages and adjacent habitat, but a drastic rise in the number of road kills in one county signal an expanding deer herd." Road kill data is one of several indices such as legal harvest and results from spotlight surveys that help Phillips make recommendations on season lengths and bag limits (bucks only or either sex hunting) in individual counties.

But the main reason why deer and other wildlife are killed by vehicles is that they are nocturnal, and during their nighttime wanderings, their eyes become adjusted to the dark. That's why they seem "paralyzed" by the bright headlight beams. They often stand rigid, as if hypnotized, or become frightened as the vehicle approaches, and dart into its path from roadside woodlands or tall grass.

The unsuspecting motorist rarely has time to avoid hitting the animal by swerving or braking, much less by honking the horn or flashing the headlight dimmer switch, two techniques that will often "wake up" animals and get them off the road. Road kills are sometimes linked to packs of free roaming wild or feral dogs who have been known to run deer into traffic.

Road kill statistics are staggering. In Kentucky alone, 1,700 deer were killed by motor vehicles in 1984. But by comparison consider that in the state of Pennsylvania during that same time period, over 29,000 white-tails died on their roads. That total exceeds Kentucky's animal deer harvest!

But why do so many animals wander onto our highways? Biologists speculate that food availability and the urge to roam during mating seasons, are two main reasons why certain animals are killed on our highways in greater numbers during different seasons of the year. The highways seem to be littered with the carcasses of skunks and opossums in March and April. In late

Danger of Abandoned Mine Property Stressed

WASHINGTON—Abandoned mines and quarries have claimed the lives of many adults and children in recent years. Besides suffocations and drownings at these sites, fatalities have also resulted from head, neck and back injuries, the U.S. Department of Labor's Mine Safety and Health Administration's (MSHA) records indicate.

To help prevent such accidents, MSHA and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Labor and Industries started a new program, Trespass Accident Program Safety, "TAPS", in 1984. Elementary and high school students attended abandoned properties training sessions at their schools and parents received news releases warning of the health and safety dangers existing at idle or abandoned mine sites. Mine inspectors also alerted mine operators of the problems occurring at these sites especially during spring and summer.

"We are hoping to continue this program nationwide," said David A. Zegeer, Assistant Secretary, MSHA. "We want to spread the word about the potentially hazardous conditions at these inactive properties through public service announcements, newspapers and training sessions for children and teenagers."

The "TAPS" program has already shown promise in Massachusetts. Compared with five abandoned mines/quarry deaths that occurred during 1984, there have been no deaths in Massachusetts as of this date.

In Maine, New Jersey and New Hampshire, "TAPS" is currently being introduced to students and MSHA is encouraging other states to become more involved with the program.

Earlier this month, a 16-year-old St. Louis, Mo., boy was buried in a sand pile near Mississippi River. He died in an attempt to rescue a 12-year-old boy who had also fallen through the unstable 65-foot-high pile of sand.

"We are deeply concerned about the safety of youngsters who trespass on properties that are unfenced and unguarded," said Zegeer, "or those who ignore the 'no trespassing signs.' Even though some of these locations are sometimes outside the jurisdiction of MSHA, the agency wants to make the public aware of how deadly all the hazards can be."

Serious injuries and deaths have also resulted from the misuse of abandoned strip mines as swimming holes. They have also been used for hiking, climbing and racing vehicles. Falling rock, loose and shifting dirt and near-freezing water temperatures, especially during the warm weather months have accounted for numerous accidents.

MSHA accident reports indicate that the ages of victims at abandoned mining properties have ranged from five to approximately 66 years old. In some cases, victims were inexperienced explorers, teenagers or children who ignored trespass warning signs and climbed over fences to enter the properties. Some victims entered idle or intermittently operated underground mines that had a combination of oxygen-deficient air, an explosive atmosphere or poor roof conditions.

Mine operators are being alerted by MSHA through the "TAPS" program of the dangerous consequences which threaten trespassers on their mining properties. Hazardous sites not under MSHA's jurisdiction are receiving special attention by city officials, police, school systems, Boy Scouts, fire departments and rescue squads.

"MSHA is urging the public to spread the word about the safety hazards of abandoned properties," said Zegeer. "If the mining community and state and local governments can all devote their efforts towards getting the word out to people about the hazards at these sites, we can all be assured a safer spring and summer."

IN APPRECIATION

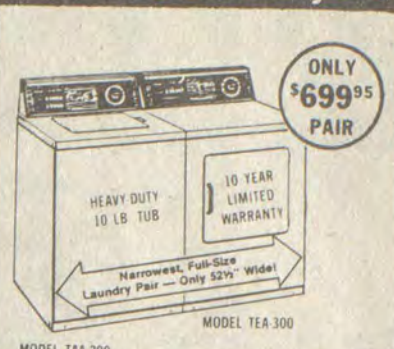

The residents and staff of Mountain Manor Nursing Home wish to express their appreciation to all those who helped to make National Nursing Home Week 1985 such a big success. We hope that you all will continue to come visit with us.

Fishing

By JOHN BRYAN

Rookie Wins The Big One

Greg South spent both practice days catching only one keeper bass. My fellow Richmonder was going to participate in the most prestigious fishing tournament of all—the BASS Masters Classic—and be an embarrassment to the Commonwealth. Among the 40 all-expenses-paid entrants Greg was the lone Virginian, and my hopes for him faded when I was his press-angler partner for his final fishless practice day.

How would this Classic rookie be able to compete with legends like Roland Martin and Jimmy Houston, Orlando Wilson and Hank Parker, Rick Clunn and Ricky Green? He wouldn't. He'd probably wind up fortieth.

97 miles of the Arkansas River were available to the fishers from the Pine Bluff launch site. Greg covered most of it in practice. But of course anything could happen once the tournament began. Miracles do happen.

As it turned out Greg didn't win the contest. Rick Clunn did. He found a little fifty-yard ledge that was so full of big fish that as the third and final day of competition began the only suspense left was who was going to finish in second place. Clunn's 3-day limit of 21 bass weighed a Classic record-shattering 75 pounds.

Second place was determined on Saturday afternoon at 4:10 p.m. That's when Greg South's boat was hauled in to the jammed-pack-full Pine Bluff Convention Center. The lights lowered and the spotlight focused on Greg rearing the plastic bag over the live well in the stern of the boat. The 7,500 spectators buzzed.

Greg South had surprised everyone on the first competition day by bringing in the day's second heaviest string. On the second day of the tournament he brought in just enough fish to maintain his second place standing. Second place in the BASS Masters Classic! A rookie!

But former Classic champ Hank Parker had closed fast, and at the final weigh-in the smart money was on him. Greg needed 11 pounds to pass Parker. Only 5 of the 40 anglers had brought in 7-fish limits on that final day.

Greg reached into the live well and pulled out a 2-pounder. The crowd cheered. Another good fish and the crowd cheered more. Then he pulled out a 3-pounder and the crowd stood. But then he stood up and closed the lid of the live well.

He looked up at the multitude, winked and smiled, and proceeded to open the lid of the live well at the other end of the boat. He pulled out three more fish.

Arkansas Governor Bill Clinton and U.S. Vice President George Bush greeted him at the platform and witnessed the scales that read 17½ pounds. He'd taken second place by a whopping 7 pounds.

Later at the press conference, after the hundreds of reports had finally been convinced that Greg South really is a physician just as the press guide said, he answered the prime question: "Yes, if I could make it work financially I'd switch from doctoring to fishing." He'd won only $12,000 in prize money—but endorsements could be worth ten times that. "And if I do it'll be unusual that I'll probably get on Johnny Carson and people will say, 'I knew him when he was just a doctor.'"

CLERKS WORK ON TAX LISTS WITHOUT PAY

Services Unrewarded as Result of Recent Ruling

PROTEST OPINION

County clerks from all parts of the state are in a turmoil as the result of a ruling made by Attorney General Frank E. Daugherty upon a bill fixing payment for clerks on tax books, an Associated Press dispatch states.

The bill, approved March 27, 1926, and known as chapter 173 in the acts of 1926, says that:

"After the county clerks of the state shall have completed the services now required of them, upon delivery of the tax books and schedules to them by the county tax commissioners, they shall, in addition thereto, calculate the taxes due the state, county, school, county polls and school polls for each individual taxpayer, opposite their name in said tax book, upon the form that may hereafter be prescribed by the State Tax Commission. Said books and forms to hereafter be permanent record of the county clerk's office.

"For performing said services, the county clerk shall be paid the sum of twelve cents per line across the page of the tax book, one-half of said sum to be paid by the state of Kentucky, the other half to be paid by the county."

The county clerks have done the work as prescribed in the first section of the law, and have presented their claims as prescribed in the second section.

Upon the presentation of these claims, Daugherty ruled that the clerks were not entitled to the increase in compensation, as the Constitution of the state forbids the pay of any elective or appointive officer cannot be increased during his term of office.

Daugherty in his ruling cites that the clerks now holding office were elected in 1924, and that the bill was passed in 1926, and would be effective with the next county clerks. In writing the several county clerks, Daugherty said:

"We have heretofore held that this act causes an increase in the compensation of clerks now in office, and therefore under the Constitution of the state they are not entitled to the twelve cents per line mentioned in the act. This opinion is based upon the case of Neutzel vs. Fiscal Court, Jefferson County, 183, Ky. 1."

County clerks have been registering their disapproval with both Daugherty and the State Tax Commission, and have appointed a committee to bring suit to test the validity of the law.

MALT DEALERS' ARREST ORDERED

All merchants or wholesale agents or persons handling in any way or form any of the malt extracts now on the market are subject to arrest, as the result of an order made by United States District Attorney Sawyer A. Smith, of Covington, instructing Clark S. Day, federal prohibition agent, to take this action against those dealing in such extracts.

Mr. Day has passed out warning that he will begin making arrests immediately of all persons selling malt extracts, he said recently.

Hundreds Attend Barbecue, Rally

Though handicapped by inclement weather, hundreds of persons attended the Democratic rally and barbecue here Wednesday and heard Ex-Senator A. O. Stanley speak upon the issues of the present gubernatorial campaign in Kentucky.

Mr. Stanley was introduced by O. C. Hall, who was preceded by Doug Hays, Democratic campaign chairman for Floyd county. A campaign orator of marked ability, Mr. Stanley made a scathing attack upon the racing interests in Kentucky, and struck out at Judge Sampson the Republican gubernatorial candidate, and prominent Republicans who are supporting him.

The day passed without disorder, and the crowd was creditably quiet.

Caney Creek Net Team Bests Maytown 46-21

In a game with the Caney Creek Community Center basketball team at Maytown Saturday morning, the Maytown Consolidated School quintette lost by the lopsided score of 46 to 21.

Maytown suffered from the loss of two of the most reliable members of its team when Wayne Allen and Taylor Ratcliff were absent from the lineup. Claude "Speed" May, former Maytown student, starred on the visiting five.

Players were: For Maytown—Ray Stephens, Ray Allen, Homer Carroll, Oliver Reynolds, Venice Bentley and one substitute; for Caney Creek—Claude May, Den Martin, Homer Jones, Corbett Franklin, and Everett Hall.

Both teams were handicapped by the wet earth court. Maytown is represented by a strong team, and one which is expected to grow stronger as the season progresses. A rather lengthy schedule has been arranged for the team, and a game with the Prestonsburg High School quintette may be staged later in the season.

October 28, Temperance Day In County Schools

Friday, October 28, has been designated by McHenry Rhodes, state superintendent of public instruction, as Temperance Day in schools throughout the state. Programs for the day are being mailed from the county superintendent's office here to teachers throughout Floyd county, and it is being urged that the day be observed, that the teachings of a great moral issue be impressed upon school children of this county.

Miss Josephine Davidson returned Friday after a visit of several weeks in Lexington with her brother, W. B. Davidson, and in Hazard with Mrs. Anna Laura Garnett.

CITIZENS PLAN TO FINISH ROAD

To Hold Good Roads Meeting at Weeksbury, Sunday

Citizens of the Left Beaver Creek section of this county and the Indian Creek community of Pike will gather Sunday in a Good-Roads meeting at Weeksbury to discuss means of completing a graded road between the Abner Fork of Left Beaver and Indian Creek, Pike county, across the hill from Weeksbury.

Some time ago the Floyd fiscal court made an appropriation of $8,000 for the grade and drain of this road, but the amount was insufficient, it is said, to complete the route. At Sunday's meeting efforts will be made to raise by subscription funds necessary to complete the work, and plans will be laid for resumption of construction.

This route will give Weeksbury and vicinity quick access to Pikeville, and, though this line of travel will take into Pike county much of the trade which otherwise would go to Floyd, it will be of great convenience to that section of the county.

SCHOOL HEATING SYSTEM BOUGHT

Plant For School Here One of The Most Modern Available

One of the most modern heating and ventilating plants available has been purchased by the city and county boards of education for the new high school building here from the Columbus Heating & Ventilating Company, it was announced this week.

Purchase was made last week after a thorough test of the worth of the system. This system provides not only heat but also ventilating facilities which changes the air in each room every ten minutes, assuring warmth and fresh air during the winter and a comfortable temperature during hot weather. It is in use by schools in all of the larger cities.

The heating and ventilating plant will be installed at once, it is said. The building is expected to be ready at some date in November.

ROAD WORK IN THIS SECTION IS REVIEWED

Road construction progress in this section is outlined in the October number of Kentucky Highways, the official state road publication, which is at hand. Road work is reviewed in the magazine as follows:

"The surface from Mud Lick to Turner's Branch was open to traffic on the 15th of September. This gives people of Magoffin county an outlet, as the Mayo Trail intersects with the Garrett Highway at Turner's Branch. The surface from Turner's Branch to Paintsville will be opened October 6.

"Hart and Blair, contractors on State Project No. 39-A, Lawrence county, Louisa-Inez, have completed this section of road which is 5.7 miles of grade and drain work.

"Albert Bros., contractors on the Louisa-Sandy Hook road, Lawrence county, State Project 49-B, are making fine progress on this project and will complete same this fall.

William McNabb Dies Sunday After 20-Foot Drop

William McNabb, of Red Bush, Johnson county, was fatally injured when he fell from a tree Sunday morning in the woods near his home, dying a few hours later without regaining consciousness.

Mr. McNabb fell a distance of 20 feet from the branches of a chestnut tree which he had climbed to shake while his wife and children looked on. His body struck a fence at the end of the fall.

The victim was a native of Powell county, where it was planned to take his body for burial.

J. C. Hopkins will go to Pikeville next week to act as special judge in the famous insurance plot case, one phase of which will be called for trial in the Pike circuit court October 18.

In the coming trial Joe Jacks, Jr., who is being held in the Pike county jail without bail, is the plaintiff against the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and the proceedings may be in the nature of a habeas corpus.

Mr. Hopkins returned a few days ago from Salyersville, where he was special judge in the following cases in circuit court there:

Commonwealth vs. Lee Patton, murder, acquitted; Harris Howard vs. Liza Jordan, preliminary motion made; Byrd Howard vs. Nick Fletcher, et al., equity judgment for plaintiff.

Letcher County Girl Held in Detroit, Mich.

Miss Ada Marksbury, 21 years old, Seco, Ky., was placed under arrest in Detroit, Mich., Monday charged with the theft of jewelry and clothing worth $1,000 from Mrs. George O'Keefe, Detroit, whom she is alleged to have persuaded to go to Columbus, Ohio, as her guest at a football game after she had posed as an Ohio State co-ed, a newspaper dispatch says.

Detroit police say Miss Marksbury forced David Klein, Ohio State dentistry student, to return with her to Detroit after she had taken Mrs. O'Keefe's property.

The property was recovered, police said, with Miss Marksbury's arrest in a Detroit hotel. William J. Murphy, Columbus detective sergeant, came to Detroit Monday for Miss Marksbury. He said that Klein told him he was forced at the point of a gun to accompany the young woman to Detroit.

Klein has returned to Columbus, the detective said, adding that he did not believe Klein was associated with the alleged theft.

Ashland Film Star In Marriage Game

Ada Mae Vaughan, featured motion picture actress, and sister of Alberta Vaughan, both former Ashland residents, has been married, divorced, and will be married again within a few weeks, all to the same man.

Filing a final decree of divorce, yesterday disclosed for the first time to members of the movie colony in Los Angeles Miss Vaughan's entrance into the field of matrimony.

Albert R. Hindman, Los Angeles contractor, is the discovered husband and future bridegroom. The first marriage occurred in May, 1926, and ended a few months later because of what Miss Vaughan termed "foolish and silly" reasons.

"We intend to be married again as soon as we can," the film actress said, "We are sure this marriage will be successful and happy."

MANY ATTEND BURIAL FRIDAY

Adah Chapter in Service at Funeral of Mrs. Hatcher

The funeral of Mrs. Nannie Hatcher, which was conducted Friday afternoon at one o'clock at Harold, was attended by a large crowd formed by her neighbors and friends and relatives from Prestonsburg, Ashland, Pikeville and other Big Sandy towns.

Rev. M. C. Reynolds, a lifelong friend of the deceased, conducted the funeral, delivering an impressive sermon from the text in Proverbs 31:29, "Many daughters have done virtuously, but thou excellest them all." Assisting in the funeral was the Rev. F. E. Jenkins, pastor of the Pikeville M. E. Church, South.

After the funeral service at the home, the body was conveyed to the family cemetery, where members of Adah Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, from this place conducted a beautiful service. Floral offerings were many and beautifully expressed the high esteem in which Mrs. Hatcher was held by hundreds of persons throughout this section. Funeral and burial were under the direction of E. P. Arnold and Company.

Among those attending the funeral from Prestonsburg were Mr. and Mrs. Jo M. Davidson, Mrs. A. J. May, S. C. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Harkins, T. J. May, Miss Ella Noel White, Mrs. Alice Hopkins, Mrs. Maggie Hatcher, Mrs. S. P. Davidson, Mrs. E. P. Arnold, Miss Ruth Burchett, Mrs. Henry Stephens, Miss Inez Cottrell, Mrs. Mary D. Allen, Mrs. Lon S. Moles, Mrs. Norce Blackburn, Mrs. W. S. Wells, Mrs. O. W. Van Petten, H. D. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Sallie Fitzpatrick, Mrs. C. Y. Ligon, Miss Josephine Davidson, Mrs. S. L. Spradlin, Mrs. O. H. Stumbo and son, Oliver Hanson.

Mrs. Winnie F. Johns, Mrs. M. J. Leete, Mrs. Dick Roberts, Mrs. Anna May and children, Mrs. S. C. Ferguson and Roscoe Howard.

H. H. Stumbo, of Minnie, and Grover Stumbo, of McDowell, were Prestonsburg visitors Wednesday.

Ishmael Triplett, of the Lackey schools, was a visitor here Sunday.

FOUR FALL TO GUN IN SINGLE DAY IN FLOYD

Three Die in Martin Battle Sunday; Mullins Killed

ANOTHER MAY DIE

Three men are dead and two others were believed dying Tuesday as the result of shooting affrays in this county Sunday afternoon and night.

W. L. (Billy Lou) Osborn, chief of police at Martin, and his 17-year-old son, Joe Ed Osborn, fell Sunday afternoon at Martin before the gun of Felix Flanery—the officer dead and his son mortally wounded, to die 40 minutes later in the Beaver Valley hospital there—and when the fusillade of shots was over Flanery himself lay, probably fatally wounded, on the ground with his victims.

Flanery is now in the hospital at Martin, paralyzed, it is said, from the neck down and with the barest chance of recovery.

Killed by Brother-in-Law

At Johnsonia, on Left Beaver Creek, Sunday night, Jim Reo Mullins, 35 years old, was shot through the heart and killed by his brother-in-law Wes Hall as the result of a dispute arising between the two men as to the bravery of Harry Hall, the slayer's brother. Wes Hall lies near the point of death from injuries sustained when Mullins struck him over the head with a shotgun a moment before Hall began firing. He is being guarded at the mouth of Clear Creek by Deputy Sheriff Andy Gearheart. Injuries to the brain are expected to prove fatal.

The Martin gun battle took place late Sunday afternoon, after Chief of Police Osborn had taken Flanery into custody, holding him on a capias for a fine of $50 imposed upon him in the Martin police court by Police Judge W. J. Conley several months ago.

Fine Cause of Tragedy

Stopping in front of the Day and Night Restaurant there, Judge Conley, Osborn and Flanery engaged in conversation. Judge Conley told Flanery that the fine had been due for months, and that he had done all he could, adding that however he and Osborn arranged the matter would be satisfactory with him. He then started off.

As Judge Conley reached the porch of the restaurant, he heard Mr. Osborn call his name, it is stated. Turning, he saw Flanery with his revolver leveled at him. Judge Conley jerked his own pistol, but when Osborn turned to call to him Flanery threw his gun on the officer, it is said.

"Put up your hands or I'll kill you," he is said to have told Osborn.

"You don't mean you'd shoot me, do you?" the officer replied, hesitatingly.

"Yes, I'll shoot you. I'll die before I'll be placed in jail, and if you don't put your hands up I'll blow your brains out," Flanery is quoted here as saying.

Osborn then began to raise his hands slowly, but when they were half-lifted somebody warned Flanery to watch out.

BRING IN 150 BARREL WELL

Reports received here Thursday state that George H. Dimick and Thomas E. Dimick, of Huntington, W. Va., who are well-known in Prestonsburg and throughout Floyd county, brought in a 150-barrel oil well in wildcat territory near Owensboro last Saturday.

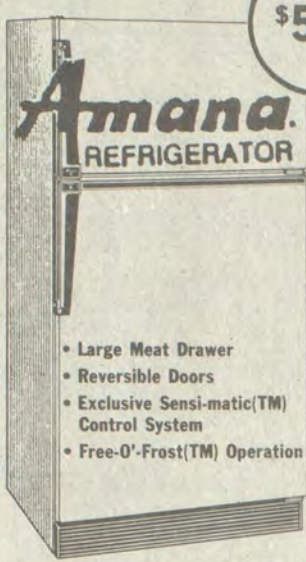

The Owensboro oil field is a rich one, recent drillings show. The Dimicks are said to have about 1,500 acres under lease in that field, and will, in all probability, rush its development.

Event To Benefit Leukemia Society

Jazzercise creator Judi Sheppard Missett is expected to lead 1,500 enthusiastic followers through workout from 1-3 p.m., Sat., June 1 in East Hall A & B of the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center. The event is being sponsored by WKJJ Majic 100 FM radio and the proceeds will benefit the Kentucky Chapter of the Leukemia Society.

This will be Missett's first visit to Louisville. The June 1 event will be the largest single Jazzercise event ever held in Kentucky. In addition to the workout, participants also will have the opportunity to win prizes, including a portable AM/FM stereo, and Jazzercise duffel bags, T-shirts, water bottles, headbands and shoe laces, by having area businesses and individuals sponsor their attendance.

Missett's total body conditioning program is based on basic jazz-dance movements and sound principles of exercise physiology, all choreographed to swinging music. The program is the foundation for Jazzercise, Inc., a multi-faceted international operation with body conditioning classes involving 300,000 students around the nation, and videotape, record and clothing divisions. Because of the popularity of Jazzercise, Missett has become something of a celebrity and has made frequent guest appearances on NBC's Today Show, ABC's Nightline, the Phil Donahue Show, Hour Magazine, PM Magazine and the John Davidson Show.

The admission price for spectators is $5.00. Those interested in more information should call the Leukemia Society at 584-8490.

IRS Asks Volunteers To Teach Taxpayers

Because of the popularity of IRS programs such as the Small Business Tax Workshops and Community Outreach Tax Assistance, and because of a limited number of IRS instructors, the IRS is seeking volunteers from the community to serve as instructors for those programs.

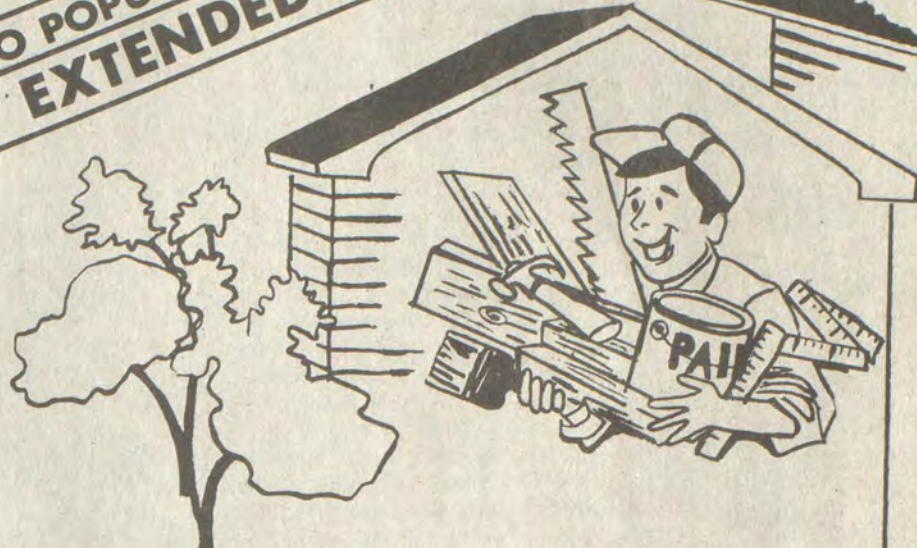

Any interested person such as a retired teacher, accountant or other individual who can speak to groups, would be invited to attend a volunteer instructor workshop given by the IRS to prepare the person for an instructor assignment. The volunteer instructor would be able to conduct a Small Business Tax Workshop, or make a presentation on tax topics as part of the Community Outreach Tax Assistance Program.

This is an opportunity for individuals to volunteer their talents to help others in the community learn about their tax obligations, and to assist the IRS in providing information to all those in the community who are seeking tax information.

We urge individuals who would be interested in working as volunteer instructors to call the IRS Taxpayer Education Specialist in Louisville at 582-6259, for from outside Louisville call toll free 1-800-424-1040. Those who wish to write may send a letter to IRS, P.O. Box 1216, Louisville, Kentucky 40201.

WIC Program Hearing Set In Frankfort

"WIC" is one of those governmental acronyms that has become better known than the long title for which it stands. WIC stands for the Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children, a federal nutrition program for low-income mothers and young children.

WIC officials of Kentucky's Cabinet for Human Resources have scheduled a public hearing to find out what citizens think about program operations and services in the state. The hearing will be June 4, 1-4 p.m., in the Department for Health Services auditorium, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort.

WIC provides nutrition education and specific foods high in protein, iron and vitamins A and C to low-income pregnant women, new mothers, infants and children up to five years of age. To be eligible for the program, women and children must have health problems that can be improved through better nutrition. The diagnosis must be made by a physician, nutritionist or nurse.

The hearing is open to all. Persons who plan to comment or ask questions about any part of the nutrition program should pre-register before June 3 by writing to Peggy S. Kidd, Department for Health Services, Division of Maternal and Child Health, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, Ky. 40621.

Those unable to attend may submit written comments to the same address or to local agencies that operate the program. Addresses are available from local health department offices.

Approximately 62,000 Kentuckians receive services each month through the supplemental foods program, which is funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Computer Camps Offered at MSU

Registration is under way for summer computer camps offered by Morehead State University's Mathematics Department.

Five one-week camps, including a special day camp program, are scheduled for beginning computer students and two for advanced students, according to Dr. Glenn E. Johnston, MSU Mathematics Department head.

Enrollment will be limited to 24 students in each session in order to provide individualized instruction.

MSU math instructor Ted Pack will conduct the camps which will feature hands-on experience with computer programming in Basic language.

Campers will be introduced to comments available in basic and will explore the logic and sequencing of programming, Johnston said. Also, they will have a chance to play some computer games and various special activities are scheduled for the evenings.

Any youth with little or no experience in programming may attend the beginner camps. Those enrolling in advanced sessions should have prior camp experience or programming knowledge, Johnston said. The final session for advanced campers will be on programming in Pascal language.

Computer Camps will be conducted June 9-14—Beginners Only Day Camp, Grades 6-9; June 16-21—Beginners Residential Camp, Grades 7-9; June 23-28—Beginners Residential Camp, Grades 10-12; July 7-12—Beginners Residential Camp, Grades 7-9; July 14-19—Advanced Residential Camp, Grades 7-12; July 21-26—Advanced Residential Camp, Grades 7-12; July 28-Aug. 2—Advanced Residential Camp in Pascal, Grades 7-12.

Additional information on the camps, registration procedures and fees may be obtained by calling MSU's Mathematics Department, (606) 783-2930.

Independence, Theme Older Americans Month

By JIM KELLY

Social Security District Director
For Big Sandy Area

President Reagan has proclaimed this May as Older Americans Month. In a Proclamation signed in April the President designated "Help Yourself to Independence" as this year's theme, Jim Kelly, District Director for the Big Sandy Area, said recently.

President Reagan noted that most of the nation's 39 million older Americans can work to enhance their own independence by planning carefully for their retirement years, pursuing lifestyles that protect their health and fitness, maintaining close ties with their families, friends, and neighbors, and availing themselves of the many services and technological advances that exist to meet their needs.

For those older people who need some help in maintaining their independence, the President said that the State and Area Agencies on Aging could provide older Americans with information and assistance. He also urged families, neighbors, friends, community groups and the private sector to become more fully involved with the elderly.

Social Security benefits play an important role in helping older Americans maintain their independence, Kelly said. Social Security is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year.

Kelly said, that this is the 20th anniversary of the signing of the Older Americans Act legislation which has established state and area agencies on aging in every state and territory.

These agencies plan and support a variety of services for older Americans including homemaker-home health aides, transportation to group meals, and home-delivered meals. Last year, some 9 million older people received services and meals supported under Older Americans Act programs.

Information about Social Security benefits can be obtained at the Social Security office located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

"If your gas or oil bills are high, add on a heat pump."

You can cut your heating bills by adding a heat pump to the gas or oil furnace you already have.

An add-on heat pump saves you money because it shares the job of heating your home. You just add it on to your existing furnace. It goes on only when electricity is the most efficient, economical source of heat.

And all summer long, you get the comfort of air conditioning. Because in the summer, the heat pump reverses itself and pumps the heat out of your house while keeping the cool air circulating.

Because an add-on heat pump uses your existing furnace, most installations don't involve any changes to your ductwork.

If you think about the savings, the air conditioning, and the low cost of installation, adding on a heat pump is a pretty smart move. Call us and find out more.

Local Unit, Nat'l Guard, in Training

During its monthly weekend training, the Prestonsburg unit of the Kentucky Army National Guard.

Weekend training at Barbourville, recently, saw Staff Sergeant Calvin Setser, far left, of Auxier, supervising squad members in maintenance of an armored personnel carrier. Thomas Keller, of West Prestonsburg, with back to camera in picture above, is a member of the squad.

Members of the local unit left May 10 for Barbourville where they joined with company headquarters from London to move into an assembly area and set up defensive positions that night. Saturday, the company began training in infantry skills, basic individual movement techniques, and defense against chemical warfare. That night training was conducted in patrolling.

Company members who not previously attended basic and advanced individual training worked on drill and ceremony and living under field conditions.

The Prestonsburg unit of the Kentucky Army National Guard represents Floyd, Johnson, Martin and Pike counties.

More information about the Guard may be obtained by calling the Prestonsburg National Guard Armory at 886-6167.

Appalachian Symposium To Feature Dr. Clark

Kentucky's best known historian will deliver the keynote address at "Appalachia: A Vision for Action."

Known for his work in Kentucky and Southern history, Dr. Thomas D. Clark will give those attending this symposium on Appalachia's future the ability to place the issues being discussed within an historical perspective.

Leaders in business, education, health care, government, religion, development, communications, social work, and other professions will gather on the campus of Berea College June 6-7 to address the future of Appalachia.

A native of Mississippi, Clark was chairman of the history departments at the University of Kentucky and Indiana University.

Although retired from teaching, he continues to write and be published. His most recent book is The Greening of the South, which tells about the importance and development of the timber industry in the Southern economy.

Clark also stays busy serving on boards and commissions such as the Kentucky Oral History Commission and the Kentucky Archives and Records Commission.

A banquet and Clark's keynote address, along with entertainment by Jean Ritchie, will begin the symposium on the 6th. The next day panelists from the fields of health, religion, government, industry, education, and communications will lead invited participants in a discussion of issues concerning economic and community development, religious and spiritual growth, education, communication, and health care.

"Our purpose is to define problems, discuss trends, and determine possible directions for bettering life in Appalachia," said Fr. Ralph Beiting, president of the Christian Appalachian Project, a non-profit, non-denominational Christian service organization which is sponsoring "Appalachia: A Vision for Action."

"We realize that no panacea exists which will resolve difficult, perplexing, and deeply rooted problems. But the very faith that sustains us, and the love that propels us, cries out not to lose heart, but to roll up our sleeves and go to work," Beiting said.

Through the sharing of ideas and visions on Appalachia, "we are hoping for two results," Beiting said. One, to provide a catalyst for another major survey of the region; two, to provide a clearer focus for work in Appalachia.

The symposium, which will take place in Berea College's Jelky Theatre, will focus on major issues in four sessions: "Development: Realizing Appalachia's Potential," "Knowledge: Equipping Appalachia's Fundamental Resource—Its People," "Health: Providing for the Commonweal," and "Spiritual Growth: Religion and the Creation of Community."

Each session will include remarks by the panelists, a general panel discussion, and audience participation.

Anyone interested in attending "Appalachia: A Vision for Action" can contact Glen Taul at the Christian Appalachian Project, 322 Crab Orchard Road, Lancaster, Ky. 40446, or at (606) 792-3051.

NUMB ARMS, LEGS Warning Signals

There may be misalignment of vertebrae in the spine causing pressure on nerves, yet the patient experiences no pain in the back. Instead, a variety of sensations may be felt in other parts of the body. These include tingling, tightness, hot spots, cold spots, crawling sensations, electric shock sensations, stinging, burning, and others.

The following nine symptoms involving back pain or strange sensations are often the forerunners of more serious conditions. Any one of these may spell back trouble.

- (1) Paresthesias (see above)
- (2) Headaches
- (3) Painful joints
- (4) Numbness in the arms or hands
- (5) Loss of sleep
- (6) Stiffness in the neck
- (7) Pain between the shoulders
- (8) Stiffness or pain in lower back
- (9) Numbness or pain in the legs.

These signals may indicate your body is being robbed of normal nerve function. Until this function is restored, you will, in some degree, be incapacitated. The longer you wait to seek help, the worse the condition will likely become. Don't wait! Should you experience any of these warning signals . . . call for in depth consultation in Layman's terms.

ALMOST YOU (R-20th Century-Fox) Starring Brooke Adams, Griffin Dunne. ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

Alex Boyer (Griffin Dunne) usually trods the path of least resistance.

In the opening scene of "Almost You," Alex's wife (Brooke Adams) calls from a travel agent's office. Apparently Alex has forgotten to send the check to pay for tickets for the couple's visit to California — and Alex's mother-in-law. Passive acts of rebellion are Alex's specialty.

Alex is a not-quite-grown-up yuppie. He's not sure of his career and not sure of his love life. He's good at his job, but it's in his family's business, and he's not exactly filled with ambition.

His wife calls the apartment he inherited from his parents "the nursery," and the adjective fits. Even when Alex has an affair, it's only after he passively allows himself to get picked up by a liberated lady in a planetarium. The love of his life, he might say to his wife, is "Almost You."

The dramatic core of the film comes during a delightful dinner party that can best be described as a yuppie version of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolf?" Husband and wife, lov-

'Churchill' and 'D-Day'

By Amanda Bruce

This is the week for history buffs on the Arts & Entertainment Network. "Churchill," an hour-long documentary on June 5 and 6, combines news footage, dramatic re-enactment and interviews in an attempt to unveil the private side of Britain's celebrated wartime leader. Douglas Fairbanks Jr. narrates and an interview with Winston Churchill's daughter, Sarah, gives the documentary a personal touch. The show covers Churchill's well-known public side and his lesser-known private side. Did you know, for example, that he raised horses?

Then, one hour later, the Arts & Entertainment Network presents "Destination D-Day," the story of the Allied invasion on the beaches of Normandy on June 6, 1944.

The invasion signaled a turning point in the war, which was to end less than a year later. Survivors of the invasion tell their tales, and Sir Huw Wheldon, a major during the invasion, narrates.

Lifetime channel viewers will have to pay close attention this week, or they may not be able to tell host from guest.

That's because virtually every Lifetime host will be popping up as a guest on another Lifetime host's program.

Winston Churchill

On "Regis Philbin's Lifestyles," host Philbin interviews "Good Sex!" host Dr. Ruth Westheimer on June 3, "It Figures" host Charlene Prickett on June 4 and "Mother's Day" host Joan Lunden on June 5. Over on "America Talks Back with Stanley Siegel," host Stanley Siegel will interview Lynn Redgrave of "Weight Watchers Magazine Show" on June 3, Dr. Westheimer on June 4 and Richard Belzer of "Hot Properties" on June 6. And on her own show, Dr. Westheimer will interview Siegel on June 3, Belzer on June 5 and Richard Simmons of "The Richard Simmons Show" on June 4.

Now everybody — get back where you belong!

Soil Survey Underway

Steve Ibershoff, at left, and Bruce Walters, soil scientists who are currently conducting a soil survey of Floyd and Johnson counties, are shown above with a probe truck which obtains soil samples by use of hydraulic power.

Announcement of the survey, a cooperative effort between the USDA-Soil Conservation Service, the Kentucky Department of Natural Resources, and the University of Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, was made by Lloyd Wells and George Branham, chairmen, respectively, of the Floyd and Johnson County Conservation Districts.

Bruce Walters, who lives in Paintsville, is the Soil Conservation Service soil scientist working as the party leader. Mr. Walters has a degree in agronomy from the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and has worked for the past nine years as a soil scientist for survey parties in Bullitt, Henry, Trimble, and Spencer counties.

Steve Ibershoff, who works as a soil scientist for the Ky. DNREP Division of Conservation, has a degree in Forestry from the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and has worked as a state reclamation inspector and 4-H Extension Agent before moving to Johnson county to work as a soil scientist. He lives at Flat Gap with his wife Rita, a phlebotomist and medical technician employed at the Paul B. Hall Medical Center, and their three sons, Patrick, Robert, and Timothy.

The soil survey is an inventory of the soil resources of Floyd and Johnson counties and contains much information useful in any landplanning program. It shows the soil types, steepness of slopes, degree of erosion that has occurred and drainage patterns.

Soil types are determined by borings made with soil probes to examine the physical characteristics of the soil. Basic characteristics examined include depth to bedrock, soil color, soil texture, soil structure, permeability, and drainage. Findings are recorded on aerial photographs used as base maps.

The information found in the published soil survey is organized so that it can be used by a wide variety of persons. Farmers, foresters, and agronomists can use it to determine the potential of the soil and the management practices required for food and fiber production. Planners, community officials, engineers, developers, builders and homebuyers will find it useful in selecting sites for buildings, dwellings and roads. The soil survey can also be used by teachers, students, and specialists in recreation, wildlife management, waste disposal and pollution control to understand, protect and improve the environment.

Field work on the survey is expected to be completed in about four years. The soils in all areas of both counties will be shown on detailed soils maps. When published, the soil survey will contain more information about the soils of Floyd and Johnson counties than any book published previously.

Sheriffs Ranch Plans To Add New Barracks

The Kentucky Sheriffs' Boys and Girls Ranch in Gilbertsville plans to begin construction next week on additional barracks to house 40 extra children, in order to meet the demands of at least 115 children who attend the summer camp sessions each week. At the present time, the Ranch is serving approximately 1,000 needy nine-through 13-year-olds each summer.

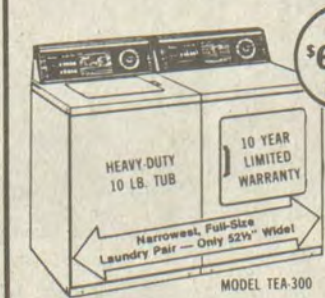

Ray Stoess, executive director of the Ranch, said the recent generous donation, contributed by the Honorable Order of Kentucky Colonels, will allow the Sheriffs' Ranch to build the barracks. Plans for the future construction of an office building are being made and will be completed as soon as funding becomes available.

This will be the fourth major project in five years that the Sheriffs' Ranch has undertaken, the first being a swimming pool and two years ago, the construction of an activities building which houses the "Sheriffs Wall of Fame" museum.

A ground breaking ceremony will be held the first week in June for the new barracks. The first summer camp session will begin June 2. Many people have contributed already to the summer camp program with donations of money and much needed recreation supplies. Cissna's, Allied, Jefferson County surplus, Louisville Red Birds, Steepleton's, and Hillerich and Bradshaw, all of Louisville have donated supplies for the summer camp. Frank Impelizzeri of Franko's Pizza in Louisville will also make his weekly trip to the Ranch to make pizzas for the children each week during the ten-week session. He does this at no charge to the Ranch. Anyone desiring more information about the Ranch should call (502) 362-8660 or your county sheriff's office.
